SUMMER improvements on the Campus include the completion and opening of the new section of Tower Road, which now connects in a straight line from East Avenue, the street which runs east from the Library past Sage Chapel and Stimson Hall, with the road to the Animal Husbandry Buildings. The new road is at a higher level than the old one which ran close to the Veterinary College, makes a more direct route from the main Campus east, and has a considerably easier grade.

SWIMMING HOLES in popular use in the City have been equipped by the Police Department with life-saving outfits consisting of life buoys and ropes housed in shelters erected adjacent to the pools.

A CONFERENCE on rural education in this State was held in the Farm Management Building on July 7, under the chairmanship of Professor George A. Works, at which was discussed the amelioration of conditions of rural schools. Those attending the conference included the Legislative Committee on Education, of which Senator Seymour Lowman is chairman, and the Committee of Twenty-one on rural schools.

A SON, Leonard Church, was born on July 9, to Professor and Mrs. Leonard C. Urquhart.

PROFESSOR MARTHA VAN RENSSELAER '09 lectured at the summer school of the University of Kentucky on July 25 and 26 on the opportunities offered by the press for the extension of home economics. Professor Van Rensselaer is Home Economics Editor of The Delineator.

THE AMERICAN HOTEL ASSOCIATION, in their annual convention in Boston during the week of July 11, made public the details of a plan for raising a fund of half a million dollars for the establishment in various parts of the country of schools of training for hotel management. The plans include the institution at Cornell, in the College of Agriculture, of a course of four full years in hotel management, supplemented by three months' practical experience in leading hotels, the successful completion of which will be rewarded with the degree of bachelor of science.

DR. LIBERTY HYDE BAILEY addressed the students in the Summer School of the College of Agriculture in Roberts Assembly Hall on July 13 and 14, stating that the first criterion of political policy is what effect it will have on the supply, protection, and delivery of materials for food, clothing, and shelter.

PROFESSOR ABBOTT P. USHER, formerly of Cornell and more recently of Boston University, returns to Harvard, his alma mater, next year as assistant professor of economics and tutor in the Division of History, Economics, and Government.

PROFESSOR HENRY S. JACOBY delivered the commencement address at Clarkson College of Technology, at Potsdam, N. Y., on June 5. His subject was "Undergraduate Scholarship and Later Achievement."

PROFESSOR HENRY H. WHETZEL, '02-4 Grad., head of the Department of Plant Pathology in the College of Agriculture, has at his own earnest request been relieved of the duties of head of his department in order that he may devote his time exclusively to study and teaching.

REINALF WERRENATH gave the first of the Summer School concerts in Bailey Hall on July 21.

ALPHA CHI RHO had a slight fire scare on July 14, when the janitor, who was pressing clothes, left a hot iron on the board setting it on fire. The blaze was extinguished before the Fire Department could arrive.

THE LOEWY LIBRARY bequest, valued at $65,000, and left to the University by the late Benno Loewy, has been lost to the University according to a decision made by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, to which court the widow took her contest of the will.

CHARLES G. IRISH '23, of Auburn, New York, and Thursia Woodcock '24, of Spencer, Iowa, were married at the bride's home on July 12. They will reside at McCollom's, in the Adirondacks.

PROFESSOR OSCAR D. VON ENGELN, who has recently returned from a sabbatical year spent in the West Indies, addressed the Rotary Club of Ithaca on July 19 on the political state of Porto Rico, asserting that, in his opinion, the island is not yet ready for independence, although it is thriving and happy.

A RESEARCH LABORATORY for the study of problems in food and nutrition is being constructed in the Home Economics Building. At the beginning of the next University year, research work in these subjects will become an organized part of the School of Home Economics, under the direction of Dr. Adelaide Spøhe, Ph.D., of Columbia.

PROFESSOR OLNEY B. KENT, Ph.D. '14, will speak on poultry husbandry at the forty-seventh annual convention of the American Poultry Association in Knoxville, Tenn., August 8-12.

THE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE won second honors in a competitive exhibit of bulletins, news service, and other material which it has published, held by the Association of Agricultural College Editors in Blacksburg, Virginia, during the first week in July. Ohio State defeated Cornell by one point in the total score. Cornell scored third on general excellence of exhibit, third on syndicate service, second on extension news service, second on popular bulletins, first on scientific bulletins, first on photograph, and first on posters, giving the College of Agriculture a total of fourteen points this year as against eleven last year.

DEAN VERANUS A. MOORE '87 addressed the convention of the Vermont State Veterinary Medical Association held in Burlington on July 13 and 14.

LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTS representing colleges all over the country and the American Society of Landscape Architecture, held their third annual conference here on June 24-27. Professor E. Gorton Davis acted as chairman of the meetings.

PROFESSORS BENTON S. MONROE '96, Victor R. Gage '06, and George W. Cavanaugh '93, have been appointed civil service commissioners for Ithaca for terms respectively of five years, four years, and two years.

PROFESSOR HENRY S. JACOBY on June 29, addressed the Kansas City Engineers' Club on the progress made in bridge-building. Professor Jacoby was in Kansas City to attend the Convention of the International Council of Religious Education.

THE WILL of Albert Hallgarten of New York makes Cornell a contingent legatee of a sum approximating $60,000 as its share in a total estate left by the testator of about $750,000, according to a citation served upon the University by the attorneys for the estate. From correspondence with the attorneys, it appears that the entire estate is left in trust to the decedent's son, and in the event of his dying without heir, the trust fund will be divided equally among twelve institutions of which Cornell is one.

THE ADMINISTRATION OFFICES in Morrill Hall have been shifted about so that the Registrar's office is now at the north end of the first floor. Mr. Hoy's former offices have been divided to accommodate the offices of the Department of Buildings and Grounds, and for the Manager of Purchases. The Registrar's record files will remain in the old offices.

PROFESSOR JAMES B. SUMNER and his family have returned to Ithaca after a year spent in Belgium.

Trustee Westervelt Reports on Ten Years' Service

FOLLOWING is the report of John C. Westervelt '94, Alumni Trustee, who finished his second term of five years in June:

"It is difficult to concentrate in a short report a description of the activities of the five years of service as Trustee, since I rendered you an accounting at the end of my first term as your representative; especially so as it must necessarily refer to the work of the former term as well.

"First let me say that I heartily subscribe to the principle laid down by the Associate Alumni, that it is best for an alumni representative to terminate his Trusteeship after ten years of service. There are, of course, exceptions when the application of this rule may prove inadvisable, but as a general thing, a Trustee spends his first year in learning the character of the work before him; the following few years in applying his earlier observations and trying himself out, so to speak; and it has been my experience that the real work of his Trusteeship, in which he strives to render his best efforts falls within his second term. After this length of service I feel the enthusiasm for effective performance has largely spent itself, and my belief is that new blood should then be introduced into the Board.

"It was my privilege early to participate in the active management of the University by my election in 1913 to the Agricultural College Council, upon which I served until other demands compelled my resignation in 1921. This particular phase of the University's life has been of special interest, for during these years the Agricultural College passed through strenuous experiences under three Deans and one acting Dean. At times the situation seemed most discouraging and the Council met frequently in its endeavor to harmonize discordant elements, and I must confess without much success.

"Do you realize that during the last few years you have heard only of the splendid work and development of the College of Agriculture and that reports of trouble within the College have been entirely missing? The reason is obvious—a Dean is in control who is a master administrator. If I attempt to give you merely an outline of Dean Mann's achievements, not only within the College itself but also in its relations with the State and its officials, the agricultural associations throughout New York State, and in his representation of the one of the University's great departments throughout the nation, there would be no space left for describing other University activities.

"This I do wish to say to you:

"Dean Mann is a Cornellian, imbued with the Cornell spirit, and as long as he is leading the College of Agriculture you may dismiss all anxiety as to its career and as to its relations with the endowed colleges of the University.

"When the Trustees' management of the University was reorganized in 1914 by the establishment of three major committees, I suppose on account of my training I was elected to membership on the Committee of Buildings and Grounds, which is charged with the maintenance and development of the University's entire physical plant at Ithaca. During seven years of my service I was in close cooperation with chairman James H. Edwards, and for the past year as chairman of the committee, carrying on the work which Mr. Edwards so efficiently organized. You are familiar with much of the Committee's work in the buildings of the Residential Halls group, the great Drill Hall and numerous minor structures.

"During the war, of course operations were largely suspended, but the Committee found itself fully occupied in providing accommodations for the Government schools at Cornell.

"By his splendid gift of the Chemical Laboratory Trustee George F. Baker gave a new impetus to building at Cornell, and at the present time construction operations on the Campus exceed the sum of three million dollars. The Chemical Laboratory is the result of two years of concentrated study and we confidently believe it will be a model edifice for the instruction of chemistry not only in this country but in the world. This belief is confirmed by the widespread inquiries received from institutions contemplating similar improvements.

"Two years ago New York State appropriated five hundred thousand dollars, which at that time it was understood would be followed by additional amounts, probably aggregating over three million dollars, to complete the building program of the College of Agriculture.

"The State Architect, Mr. Lewis F. Pileher, who though a graduate of a great sister university, we insist through his loyal and efficient cooperation has proven himself a Cornellian in spirit, entered into the work with his customary enthusiasm and produced a thoughtful and comprehensive group design for the entire College, with which every Cornellian can well afford to become familiar. It changes the entire conception of this great department of the University.

"The four hundred thousand dollar Dairy Industry Building which will be finished this fall and several smaller structures for the College of Agriculture are covered by the appropriation. Unfortunately, owing to the policy adopted by the State Administration, further appropriations for buildings were not received this year, but the program has by no means been abandoned, and we confidently look forward to a succession of buildings until the College is completed—at least completed for this generation.

"The State has this year devoted the sum of one hundred thousand dollars to a large and very much needed addition to James Law Hall, of the College of Veterinary Science. The plans are now completed and work is expected to start this summer. To this program must be added numerous alterations and betterment in the old buildings, a new winter sports house on Beebe Lake, the completion of the baseball diamond, and another men's dormitory, which will appropriately be named after the Trustee whose devotion and energy initiated the building of the residential halls, Mr. George C. Boldt.

"Now with all of these extensions to the University establishments, a serious question of utility came prominently to the front: The buildings of the University are heated from three widely separated steam plants as well as from numerous local boilers. The original and largest plant was built thirty years ago, and although increased from time to time, is entirely inadequate and it was felt that the whole system was extravagant and cumbersome in its operation. A committee was therefore appointed in the fall of 1920 to study the heating problem, and in April of last year reported to the Board that with the cooperation of the State which seemed assured, the University could by erecting one modern heating plant, near the East Ithaca station, so that coal can be dumped from cars directly into the bins, save enough through economy of operation, even while serving all of the new buildings in addition to the present requirements, to pay from eight to nine percent on the money invested and in addition set aside a sufficient amount each year to amortize the capital investment. These calculations of course took into account the cost which would be involved in enlarging the old plants. The Trustees approved the report after careful deliberation and the outside sum of seven hundred thousand dollars was allotted for this purpose. The work of construction was started last fall and it is expected that the new plant will be placed in service next November.

"I have explained this operation rather in detail so that the alumni may understand that the building of the heating system, while using temporarily capital funds of the University, is in fact a real economy through which a saving will be effected representing a high rate of interest as well as finally returning the funds back into the endowment. Before I leave this subject I must advise you that through the efforts of one of your representatives, Trustee Sanderson, and assisted by Superintendent Curtis, gifts of materials and equipment have been secured from manufacturers, valued at nearly ten percent of the entire estimated cost of the plant.

"Extensive as the present structural improvements appear, so many suggested gifts are now in view that it is my belief the physical development of the University is only starting and an even higher degree of activity is the promise of the immediate future.

"As all Cornellians realize, the Campus has grown in a rather haphazard manner; the gift of a new building is received, some official or Trustee thinks it should occupy one particular site and unless another has an equally positive opposing idea, the first suggestion usually prevails. The result is the Cornell Campus—magnificent in its natural setting, but artificially unthoughtful and architecturally incongruous.

"During the Semi-Centennial Celebration of the College of Architecture in October 1921, the alumni of the College in convention requested that a study of development for the University be inaugurated and offered to cooperate in any manner in which advice might be found useful. Also the hope was expressed that the future might produce a competent jury to pass upon designs which would lead to architectural worth and harmony. In this suggestion was embraced architecture, landscape art, and engineering.

"It requires but a small imagination to appreciate the magnitude of this problem; involving as it does questions of growth, traffic, and engineering, as well as aesthetics.

"Obviously there is no University official or committee having the time or capacity to undertake this work alone; therefore, after months of consideration, a commission has been established by the Trustees, with Dean Bosworth of the College of Architecture as chairman, to undertake the direction of this work with the understanding that such expert assistance shall be retained as the commission may find desirable to the end that a comprehensive plan may be produced, and I bespeak the hearty and loyal support of all of the alumni in making the final result a lasting accomplishment for the University.

"I shall not attempt to outline the work of the numerous temporary committees upon which a Trustee serves during the period of a year and a half, holding meetings at short intervals, at times weekly. From seventy-five to eighty prospective candidates were carefully investigated. All of the most prominent men qualified for such an important position were interviewed personally, and the requirements of the office were earnestly and frankly discussed with them. Our labors ended rather abruptly when Dr. Livingston Farrand returned from his work for the American Red Cross in France; and the Committee spontaneously realized that the one man had been found. It is one of the bright spots of my trusteeship that I was able to participate in the election of President Farrand.

"In conclusion I wish to express my gratitude to you for the opportunity you have afforded me of service in a great cause. At times the work has been exacting but it has always been absorbing and the years of activity at Ithaca have been highly valued.

"In stepping aside to make room for new and untired energy, I say frankly to you that I shall miss the work and I shall miss the association with men whom I feel you have sometimes too hastily criticised, for they have given and are giving of their energies, abilities, and experience for the consummation of the Founder's great conception of what will be Cornell University."

JOHN CORLEY WESTERVELT.

CORNELL-DARTMOUTH PICNIC

Buffalo alumni of Cornell and Dartmouth held an outing together at the automobile club of Clarence on July 15. Supper was served outdoors and the party enjoyed swimming, boating and other sports.

CORNELL ADVERTISING CLUB

The first meeting of Cornell men in advertising was held on Friday, July 21 in New York City, and was attended by eighteen graduates of Cornell University who are interested professionally in the advertising business. The meeting selected the following committee on organization to insure the formation of a permanent body: Barrett Smith '04, Oscar S. Tyson '11, John C. Barker '12, James I. Clarke '12, Harold Flack '12, Ernest R. Stempel '12, and Franklin P. O'Brien '19.

The following advertising men were present at the meeting: Frederick S. Sly '07, William E. Kennedy '10, Oscar S. Tyson '11, Carl V. Burger '12, Harold Flack '12, Ernest R. Stempel '12, Arthur W. Wilson '14, George T. Wisner '15, Birge W. Kinne '16, Charles L. Funnell '16, Charles Ramsey '17, Frazer Sinclair '17, Anthony J. Brown '18, William C. White '18, Charles Baskerville, Jr. '19, Edwin W. Biederman '19, Professor Bristow Adams, F. H. Jones, Jr.

SPORT STUFF

Summer and Summer School! The Campus is given over to enthusiastic amateurs breathlessly seeking the truth about bugs, alternating currents, or the French Revolution; to tired school teachers wearily acquiring some certificate that will increase the size of the pay envelope; to still wearier regular students who desire either to catch up and stay in or get ahead of their course so they'll have more time for the important things of life next year.

They all seem to have a good time and to make friends informally and easily. For a person of fancied intellectual tastes, for a person with a hobby, for a person merely out for adventure, I can think of a lot more expensive and less amusing ways of spending July and August than going to Summer School.

The most spectacular activity of the regular students is acquiring defunct Fords and operating same with differing degrees of success. I saw one of these the other day being navigated through Slaterville by three huskies. Student A, in a manner of speaking, steered. Student B kept watch over and reported upon the left rear wheel which had a tendency to come off. As for Student C, he kept the ignition going by holding two wires together before his face in the manner of one threading a needle. This particular Ford cost $27.50 and has traversed five hundred miles since July 1. The operating syndicate hasn't been able to take in much of the scenery. They call their 'bus the "Love Nest."

Some of the Faculty have gone to Europe. Some are down the lake. Still others stick around and play golf. Don't let anybody tell you a savant can't talk just like a mate on a canal boat when he slices a brand-new fifty-cent ball out of bounds.

Pittsburgh Convention Next

Committee Announces October 13 and 14 as Dates—William Penn Hotel Headquarters

The Pittsburgh committee makes its first announcement of the third Cornell convention in this issue of the ALUMNI NEWS. The headquarters are to be the William Penn Hotel and the dates Friday and Saturday, October 13 and 14, 1922.

The Pittsburghers want a big convention and are preparing to step out to get the crowd. They expect every Cornellian within five hundred miles to attend, and guarantee a good time and an opportunity to help the University.

Some of the events and details have already been arranged. The banquet Saturday night will be in the ball room of the William Penn Hotel, operated by the Pittsburgh Hotel Company, of which Grant McCargo '87 is president. The committee is working on some sort of event for Friday night to replace the usual smoker and will try to add a few innovations.

Preparations are in charge of an executive committee of which A. Welling Wycokoff '94 is chairman. William Metcalf, Jr., '01 is chairman, with Edward E. Ludwig '16, treasurer, of the finance committee of thirty.

NEW ENGLAND WASH SATURDAY

The last Saturday in July is the date set for the annual Wash of the Cornell Club of New England. Jollifications started immediately after lunch at the Old Natick Inn at South Natick, and ended after dinner at the Inn. Odd and even classes met on the baseball diamond in their annual game, which was followed by a swimming party, and then dinner.

S. Wiley Wakeman '99, newly elected Trustee of the University, was scheduled to speak, and others provided music, both vocal and instrumental.

INTERCOLLEGIATE OUTING

Cornell was represented at the second annual "Days of Real Sport" celebration given for alumni of nine universities on June 24 on the campus of Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois. Frederick O. Ebeling '09 was the varsity representative on the committee and reports that everyone enjoyed the program of athletics and eats which lasted from three to nine. A similar celebration last year was participated in by only four of the nine represented this year: Cornell, Michigan, Boston Tech, Illinois, Purdue, Ohio, Wisconsin, Armour Tech, and Northwestern.

TWO CLUBS ELECT

The election of officers of two alumni clubs has resulted in the following new alignments:

Cornell Club of New York: President, Neal Dow Becker '05; vice presidents, Edwin N. Sanderson '87, J. DuPratt White '90, Roger H. Williams '95, Walter C. Teagle '99, and Jansen Noyes '10; secretary, Thomas N. Page '07; treasurer, A. C. Clogher '04. Board of Governors: To serve until May 1, 1923: W. H. Fries '10, John C. Smaltz '15. To serve until May 1, 1925: John T. McGovern '00. To serve until May 1, 1926: Maxwell M. Upson '99, Thomas N. Page '07, J. Dugald White '10, Willard I. Emerson '19.

Cornell University Association of Southern Ohio: President, Ralph F. Rogan '97; vice president, Leonard S. Smith, Jr. '19; treasurer, J. Brown McKee '16; secretary, W. T. Galbreath '12. Executive committee: Tell S. Berna '12, James Morrison '03, Clyde P. Johnson '93, and Julian A. Pollak '07.

SCHOHARIE COUNTY ORGANIZES

The Cornell Alumni Association of Schoharie county, New York was organized at a picnic of alumni and their families on the lawn of Homer B. Neville '18 at Hyndsville on June 28. Halsey B. Knapp '12 was elected president of the new organization; F. Walter Bliss '13 is vice-president; Sarah Van Wagenen '20, secretary; and Ralph W. Eldredge '06 is treasurer.

About thirty persons attended the picnic; the association extends an invitation to all of the fifty Cornellians in Schoharie county to join.

VOTES FOR TRUSTEES

TO THE EDITOR:

In the ALUMNI NEWS of April 27 I was pleased to read your interesting leader analyzing the nature of the vote for Trustees.

I was grieved to note how poor the voting from foreign students was. I am afraid with many the case is just the same as with me—the papers come, the last closing date is noted, the time is reckoned up, and invariably the mail would get there just too late for the vote to be counted. As a result it is never sent. I feel sure that could such papers be sent off earlier, more votes would be forthcoming. It might be difficult to do it—it would mean sending out the papers about three months before the date set. If the papers can be received here in time, I will guarantee you four Cornell alumni votes from this place, i.e. one hundred per cent.

THOMAS D. HALL, M.S. '15,
"Cornellia" Kock Street,

Potechefstroom, Union of South Africa.

MILWAUKEE HOLDS BROIL

The complete success of the second annual "broil" of the Milwaukee Cornell Club, held on July 15 at the summer camp of Alexander C. Eschweiler '90, established this party as a traditional institution of Wisconsin alumni. Sixty men were present, including a delegation from Chicago.

The class of '06, which had a record of ten men present, challenged any class for anything they wanted to start, from rough-house to parlor tricks. Under the leadership of "Curt" Welch, 1906 put a baseball team into the field that cleaned up an all-classes team captained by "Les" Slocum '13, in nine snappy innings of soft-ball baseball.

After more scrub baseball, the crowd adjourned to the Pine Lake camp of "Jimmie" Friend '16, for water sports, consisting of swimming and diving, sailing, canoe-tilting, canoe tug-of-war and aquaplaning. Unbelievable quantities of chicken hot off the grill, green corn and all trimmings, finally eliminated the last trace of pep of even the 1906 delegation, so that by the time twilight fell, everyone was content to lie on the ground for an hour of singing Cornell songs. Darkness ended the best party ever staged by the Milwaukee Club.

OBITUARY*Gilbert B. Pelton '87

Gilbert Brace Pelton died on June 1 at his home, 1014 North Normandie Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif. Death was due to a nervous collapse suffered some time ago.

He was born in Iliion, N. Y., on March 11, 1864, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Justin B. Pelton, and entered Cornell in 1883 in the course in science and letters. He was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon and the Glee Club.

After leaving college he went to Hornell, where he became editor of the daily paper, later becoming associated with his father in the management of his hardware business in Iliion. Then he entered the Iliion plant of the Remington Typewriter Company, later being sent to the Pacific Coast in an official capacity. Next he accepted a position in the New York office of the Corona Typewriter Company, and for the past few years he had been sales superintendent for that company in the territory west of Denver to the Pacific Coast, and as far as Honolulu, in which he had been most successful. About twelve years ago his parents and sisters moved to Los Angeles, where they have since made their home. His mother died about a month ago.

His sister writes: "We have lost not only a son and brother, but the broadest, cleanest, kindest spirit I have ever known. He has lived a wonderful life." One of his friends writes: "He helped others wisely, generously, courteously, and I know of no greater fulfilment of life's obligation."

Mr. Pelton is survived by his father, Justin B. Pelton, and two sisters, Miss Mae Pelton, and Mrs. William Boes, all of Los Angeles.

John C. Whitten '92-3 Grad

Dr. John Charles Whitten, professor of pomology in the University of California, died of influenza in Washington, D. C., on June 5.

Dr. Whitten was born in Augusta, Maine, on September 14, 1866. After graduating from the South Dakota Agricultural College in 1892, he did graduate work at Cornell for a year and then went to the Missouri Botanic Garden as assistant. He received the degree of Ph.D. from Halle in 1902. From 1894 to 1918 he was professor of horticulture at the University of Missouri, going from there to California.

He was a member of the St. Louis Academy of Science, the American Society for the Promotion of Agricultural Science, and the American Pomological Society.

On October 31, 1895, he was married to Miss Nora Todd, of Columbia, Mo. He is survived by his wife and three children, Robert T., of the Navy, and Sylvester and Martha Todd, of Berkeley.

William A. Caldwell '00

William Arthur Caldwell met death by drowning in Lake George, N. Y. on Saturday morning, July 22, when the canoe in which he was paddling overturned. Because he was a powerful swimmer, it was suggested by physicians at Ticonderoga that death was actually caused by heart trouble.

Caldwell was last seen alive at 10.45 a. m. on Saturday morning. Fifteen minutes later his overturned canoe was noticed not far from the spot where he was last observed. Search disclosed the body on the bottom of the lake, in about twelve feet of water. There was no sign of heart action when he was brought to the surface and efforts at resuscitation were unavailing.

William Arthur Caldwell was born on October 13, 1877, at Sugar Hill, N. Y. He came to Cornell in 1896 and commenced the study of civil engineering. He remained here only one year, however, and returned in 1898 and took up the study of law, which he pursued for two years. While at Cornell he was a member of three varsity football teams, having played tackle in 1896, 1898, and 1899.

After leaving Cornell he coached the Marion-Sims College football team, and he later assisted coaches Glenn S. Warner '94 and Daniel A. Reed '98 with the Cornell football team. For a while he owned and managed a large stock farm at Watkins, N. Y., and later went into newspaper work in Philadelphia. He started his newspaper career with The Philadelphia Times, and was later employed on newspapers in St. Louis, Mo., and Butler and Meadville, Pa. For six years he was managing editor of the Titusville, Pa., Morning Herald. He later went with the Associated Press, and was cable editor in the New York office during the latter part of the war. Last November he was appointed early morning general editor, and he held this position at the time of his death.

Caldwell was married in June, 1904, to Miss Johanna De Leuw at Jacksonville, Ill. He is survived by his wife and five children. The funeral services were held on July 24 at Hasbrouck Heights, N. J.

Henry H. Dimon '14

Henry Hudson Dimon was instantly killed on July 12 when he fell from the window of the apartment of Walter S. Orr on the eight floor of the Woolsey Apartments, 141 East Forty-fourth Street, New York.

Dimon was born on May 8, 1893, the son of Henry G. Dimon '87 and Mrs. Dimon, and prepared at the Groton, N. Y., High School, entering Cornell in 1910, and receiving the degree of A.B. in 1914. He was a member of Gamma Eta Gamma, and sang in the advanced choir during his entire course. After leaving Cornell he attended the Columbia Law School, where he received the degree of LL.B.

He was with the law firm of Joline, Larkin and Rathbone of New York before the war, and attended the second Officers' Training Camp at Plattsburg in 1917, receiving a commission as first lieutenant of infantry. He was overseas for thirteen months as an intelligence officer with the general staff of General Pershing's command, and upon receiving his discharge on February 16, 1919, he became associated with the law firm of Larkin, Rathbone and Perry of New York.

Dimon was unmarried, and leaves his mother, Mrs. Lottie G. Dimon, of Groton. His father, who was an engineer with the American Bridge Company, was killed in the Park Avenue tunnel disaster of January 8, 1902.

Ellen Marx Stern '19

Mrs. Ellen Marx Stern died of scarlet fever on March 19 at the home of her parents in Newark, N. J. Mrs. Stern was formerly Miss Ellen Hedwig Marx. She was born in Jersey City on November 16, 1895, the eldest child of Dr. Max Marx and Mrs. Marx. After completing her studies in the Barringer High School, she went to Europe with her mother in 1914, intending to study at the University of Heidelberg, but owing to the outbreak of the war she returned in December of that year and entered Cornell the following fall; she took the arts course, specializing in chemistry, and received the degree of A.B. in February, 1920. She was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta.

She was married on September 7, 1920, to Arthur Leo Stern, B.Chem. '17, and on March 11, 1922, she gave birth to a daughter, Mildred Frederika; during the following week she contracted the disease which caused her death.

Surviving her are her parents, a brother, Walter Marx '20, a sister, Mrs. Otto Sichel, and her husband and little daughter. The latter are living with Mr. Stern's sister, Mrs. Walter Price (Jeanette Stern '10) in Glen Rock, N. J.

By her classmates Ellen Marx Stern will always be remembered for her gentleness, kindness, and loveliness.

THE POUGHKEEPSIE CREW

The Columbia Alumni News says under "That Game Cornell Varsity":

"In 1921 at Poughkeepsie, it was a Cornell crew that made the only serious bid to catch the Navy, when the Middies set sail for the Battery and led the field in the big race. This year it was again a Cornell crew, determined to upset the Sailors' plans for the race, that made the pace for two miles, challenged last year's winners every inch of the way, and by so doing deliberately threw to the winds practically certain chances of finishing no worse than second. It was 'win or bust' for Cornell. In our opinion the Navy's glory in winning is very little brighter than the exhibition of real sporting spirit that our traditional rivals from Cayuga Lake showed, and our collective hat is off to that game Cornell rowing outfit."

LITERARY REVIEW

A Writer's Story

Bennett Malin. By Elsie Singmaster '02. Boston, Houghton Mifflin Company. 1922. 8vo, pp. viii, 328. Price, $2.

Miss Singmaster has added another notable achievement to her list, this being her tenth volume. Bennett Malin is an interesting and powerful story. It is a study of the fascination wielded by the writer's art. The scene is laid in places with which the author's life has made her familiar: a little Pennsylvania town much like Gettysburg, with its fine old Lutheran college and theological seminary, of which her father has been for many years president, and Cambridge, where she lived for some years while completing her college course at Radcliffe. Bennett Malin is the great-grandson of a clergyman and writer and the grandson of a clergyman and poet. He himself has the intense ambition to be a writer of fiction, and it is only natural that he should choose the life of a minister as likely to give him the necessary leisure. At the outset of the story, accordingly, we find him at Tremain Theological Seminary. He begins his career by marrying a girl who is strongly religious after the so-called evangelical fashion. Naomi Blessing herself, her mother, who had been tricked into contracting a marriage with a bigamist, and the son Arthur all furnish variety of character and incident; and in his relations with these persons the essentially noble character of Bennett Malin is revealed. A good man, he goes wrong for a time, in consequence of the intense ambition which consumes him; but when the crisis comes he meets it with an atoning sacrifice which no one will deny is sufficient. The pathetic figure of Luke Bennett, with his baffled ambition and his lonely, miserable end, the charming Miss Gleason, who is not only a real artist but a real woman, and the lifelike Daron, whom Naomi reclaims from perdition, help to furnish a background which suggests not only the tragic depths underlying our life here upon the earth, but also the power of personality in helping the individual man in his upward struggle.

We have noted what is apparently a slip of the pen or an oversight of the proof-reader on page 181, where the man we had supposed to be Robert Daron appears as Herbert.

When Miss Singmaster spreads the feast, it is so good that we go away hungry for more. We hope that she is going to produce many more tales like those which have given her her already enviable reputation as a novelist.

Books and Magazine Articles

The Missouri Alumnus for June prints an obituary notice of the late Professor John C. Whitten, '92-3 Grad., of the University of California, with a portrait.

In The Christian Register for May 18 Professor Clark S. Northup '93 reviews Louis Hémon's novel "Marie Chapdelaine." In the same number Professor Preserved Smith's "Short History of Christian Theophagy" is also reviewed.

"The Reorganization of Mathematics in Secondary Education, a Summary of the Report by the National Committee on Mathematical Requirements" has been published as Bulletin 32 for 1921 of the U. S. Bureau of Education. This summary is the work of Professor John W. Young, A.M. '01, Ph.D. '04, of Dartmouth.

The "Farewell Address" given by President M. Carey Thomas '77 at the recent Bryn Mawr commencement on June 8 is printed in The Bryn Mawr Alumnae Bulletin for July. The toastmistress at the dinner in honor of Miss Thomas on the evening of the same day was Mrs. Louise Brownell Saunders, Bryn Mawr '93, formerly warden of Sage. A part of her remarks is quoted in the same number.

In The Stanford Illustrated Review for June Professor Harris J. Ryan '87, of Stanford, writes on "The University Day Hoax." On the evening of May 20, as the closing stunt of University Day, Herbert Hoover and Will Irwin talked to the Stanford gathering from Washington by radio and appeared in "spirit" form. Then the chairman disclosed the fact that the spirits were Herbert Hoover, Jr., and Will Irwin, Jr., both students at Stanford. But it was not until the following morning that careful readers of the San Francisco Chronicle learned that the young men had delivered their fathers' messages.

Robert S. Hale '93 (Harvard '91) writes in The Harvard Alumni Bulletin for June 15 on "Training in Cooperation." He believes that "the training in leadership, in team work, in cooperation, is really more important for a man who wants the best out of his college course than the training in pure scholarship."

The Cornell Law Quarterly for June includes the following articles: "Farmers' Cooperative Associations as Legal Combinations" by John D. Miller, of the Pennsylvania Bar; "Leading Developments in Procedural Reform" by Dean E. F. Albertsworth, of the University of Wyoming Law School; and "The X-Ray in Court" by Professor Lyman P. Wilson. Ellery C. Stowell's "Intervention in International Law" is reviewed by Professor Charles K. Burdick. "A History of the San Francisco Committee of Vigilance of 1850" by Mary Floyd Williams is reviewed by Nellis M. Crouse, Grad. Professor Edwin H. Woodruff '88 reviews the fifth volume of Samuel Williams' "The Law of Contracts." Dean George G. Bogert '06 reviews Anson Getman's "Principles and Sources of Title to Real Property." There are fifty-four pages of notes and comment on recent cases by members of the senior class of the College of Law.

NEXT THING'S THE CONVENTION

The announcement of the Third Cornell Convention, published in this issue, shows a forehandedness and an appreciation of the task by the Committee that looks well for the success of the convention.

The next few Cornell Conventions must necessarily be somewhat experimental. There is little to steer by. The Pittsburgh Convention was set for early fall by action of the Associate Alumni, who were not altogether satisfied with the spring date because of some probable interference with the convention from the nearness of the reunions.

The energetic Pittsburghers are ideal persons to conduct the experiment. They will not consider themselves hampered by tradition, and they will get every possibility out of it.

Realizing the difficulty of gathering momentum in alumni matters in a short time in the fall, they have started in the early summer, and can be expected to cover considerable distance before it is possible to shift into high for the last few weeks of concentrated effort.

If those who now expect to attend will start simultaneously local boosting, we shall find that the fall offers excellent possibilities for alumni conventions.

NEW YORK STARTS EARLY

The first announcement of Cornell alumni activity for next year comes from New York, where the Cornell Club announces the annual banquet for Friday, December 8, at the Waldorf-Astoria. The testimonial dinner for President Farrand held last December resulted in a record-breaking attendance, with seven hundred sixteen Cornell men present.

It is understood on good authority that the club has entered into some important negotiations concerning housing problems and that its officers expect to make a surprising announcement of prime importance within a few weeks.

A LEARNED DOCTOR OF PADUA

Professor Virgil Snyder, '90-92 Grad. represented the University at the 700th anniversary celebration of the University of Padua, and as chief of the Cornell delegation received the honorary degree of Doctor of the University of Padua. This degree was conferred upon one delegate from each group of representative institutions, and Professor Snyder expresses the modest belief that the selection of the person to be thus honored "was perhaps determined by chance." The diploma runs as follows:

Vniversitas Patavina
Victorii *Emmanvelis *III *Italiae *Regis
Avspicio *et *necine
Aloisius *Lucatellvs *nector *Magnificvs *Studii *Patavina *Principes *Legationvm *Qvas *Feriis *Saecvlaribus *Litterarivm *Sedis *et *Aeternae *Domvs *Vniversitates *Exterarvm *Gentivm *Gratvlatvm *Miservnt *de *Senatvs *Sententia *Honoris *Cavsa *Doctores *Renvntiavi *Qvorvm *Nomina *Svbscripta *svnt *A *D *XVII *KAL *IVNIAS *A *MDCXXXII *A *Vniversitate *Condita *DCCI.

VERGILIO SNYDER *Clarissimo *Professori *et *Principi *Legationis *Vniversitatis *ITHACENSIS.

Professor Snyder is a Ph.D. of the University of Gottingen, vintage of 1894.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

AT THE UNIVERSITY of Illinois there are three cooperative houses for woman students, each housing ten women. One of these spent last year $2,219.78, or an average of $221.98 for each girl; this would be $24.90 a month or $5.97 a week. The university owns all three houses. They are carefully and efficiently organized, with a detailed constitution.

PRINCETON up to May 15 had secured $9,187,604.21 of the fourteen millions of endowments which she seeks. Of this 69.5 per cent has been paid in. It is hoped to secure the entire amount by 1925, when the final payments become due.

ALUMNI NOTES

'89—Dean Warren G. Laird, of the School of Fine Arts of the University of Pennsylvania, has been selected as professional adviser to arrange the competition between architectural firms for preparing plans for Philadelphia's $5,000,000 War Memorial Hall.

'91-2 Grad—Dr. Vernon L. Kellogg received the honorary degree of D.Sc. from Oberlin College at its recent commencement.

'92 PhB—Professor Edwin D. Shurter, of the University of Texas, is teaching public speaking this summer in the Southern Branch of the University of California at Los Angeles.

'94 PhD—Professor Ulysses G. Weatherly, of Indiana University, is lecturing this summer in the department of sociology of the University of Colorado.

'95 BL—William F. Atkinson was recently elected president of the New York State Association of Life Underwriters, which is composed of the ten local associations of the State. His address is 44 Court Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

'97 ME; '05—Mrs. Ellen M. Martin Henrotin, widow of Charles Henrotin, Chicago banker, died on June 29 at the home of her son, Edward Henrotin, in Cherry Plain, N. Y., at the age of eighty years. She leaves two other sons, Charles M. Henrotin '97 and Norris B. Henrotin '05. Mrs. Henrotin was educated in Europe, and was president of the Federation of Women's Clubs from 1894 to 1898. In 1893 she was vice-president of the Congress Auxiliary of the World's Columbian Exposition, was decorated in that year by the Sultan of Turkey with the Order of Crefakat, and in 1899 was made an Officer of the Academy by the French Government. In 1904 she received the Order of Leopold from Leopold II of Belgium.

'98 ME—Wallace J. Childs has been elected president of the newly formed Foamite-Childs Corporation, the executive offices of which will be located in Utica, N. Y., as soon as possible after August 1. The new company is a consolidation of the O. J. Childs Corporation of Utica, manufacturers of chemical and motor fire apparatus, and the Foamite Firefoam Company of New York, whose fire protection engineers have developed the firefoam method of extinguishing fires. For several years the Childs Corporation has functioned as the manufacturing division of the Firefoam Company.

'01 AB, '02 AM—Dr. Sao-Ke Alfred Sze, Chinese Ambassador to the United States, received the degree of LL.D. from Columbia at its recent commencement.

'05 ME—Floyd C. Snyder is with the Reynolds Machine Company, Massillon, Ohio.

To the Alumni

THIS college education you are giving your boy is undoubtedly a means to an end.

You intend it as a preparation and training on which he, himself, according to the capabilities that are in him, will build his future success and happiness.

Have you considered Organic Chemistry as a field for his activities to which you should direct his attention; that new and unfolding vista of trained and applied knowledge which underlies nine-tenths of our industrial interests, and through which the commercial supremacy of this country must be created and maintained.

National Aniline and Chemical Company, Inc.

New York    Chicago    Charlotte    Toronto    Philadelphia
Boston    Hartford    Montreal    Providence    San Francisco

'07—Jay L. Hench resigned recently as Chicago district sales manager of the Lackawanna Steel Company, and has organized the firm of Jay L. Hench and Company, to engage in the purchase and sale of various iron and steel products, including steel sheet piling, light and heavy tee rails, sheets, plates, shapes, and bars, with an additional line of open-hearth and electric steel castings. The offices are located at 208 South LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill.

'09 AB—Vance L. Richmond received the degree of A.M. at the recent commencement of Harvard University.

'09 ME—A daughter, Jean Bessier, was born on July 3 to Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Clark of Cortland, N. Y.

'11 AB, '14 LLB—Heber E. Griffith is a member of the law firm of Wager, Griffith and Wager, 401-3 Arcade Building, Utica, N. Y.

'12—Donald G. Munroe has been transferred from the Syracuse plant to the Benwood, W. Va., plant of the Somet-Solvay Company.

'13 ME—A son was born on June 23 to Mr. and Mrs. Verne R. Read of Akron, Ohio. He is their second son and third child. Reid is secretary of the Read-Benzol Company of Akron.

'13 AB—The first Ph.D. degree ever conferred in the United Kingdom has been awarded to Miss Esther Cloudman Dunn '13, following two years of special study at the University of London. The degree was established by the Senate of the University of London in the fall of 1919, and Miss Dunn was the first to enroll for it. She remained in London a year, returning then to resume her duties as an instructor at Bryn Mawr. In 1921 she presented to the English Club at Bryn Mawr a résumé of her first year's work in London, and as a result of the literary merit of this offering, she received the foreign fellowship of Bryn Mawr, which carries with it the sum of $1500 annually for foreign study, and returned to London in the summer of that year. Her thesis, "Ben Jonson and His Circle," dealt with the period of English literature immediately preceding the Elizabethan period. Miss Dunn sailed for this country on July 15, and will sever her connection with Bryn Mawr to become assistant professor of English at Smith College.

'14 AB—Henry Vernon Davis is assistant principal of the Mayville High School, Mayville, N. Y., and is also a teacher in that institution.

'14—Major Ovid E. Roberts, Jr., is now chemical warfare officer for the Third Corps Area, with headquarters in the Standard Oil Building, Baltimore. He is living at Fort Howard, Md., for the summer.

'14 ME—A daughter, Maria Victoria, was born on March 6 to Mr. and Mrs. Juan L. E. Armas, Apartado 36, Trujillo, Peru.

'14 AB—Miss Helen Weidemann received the degree of Master of Arts at the recent commencement of the University of Pennsylvania for work in bacteriology.

'14 AB, '19 PhD—Dr. Leon Augustus Hausman is making a series of microscopic analyses of prehistoric Indian grave fabrics for Professor Eric Boman, director of the National Museum of Buenos Aires. The discovery of sheep wool in any of these fabrics will show that the tribes of Indians in whose graves these wool-bearing fabrics were found were in existence after the Spanish Conquest, since the first sheep were introduced by the Spanish conquistadors. Some important dates in the history of Argentine and Chile may be more definitely fixed in this way. Dr. Hausman has recently made hair analyses for two separate expeditions from the Smithsonian Expeditions into the West and South.

'15 ME—Christian F. deNeergaard has returned to China for the International Banking Corporation, and is located at Harbin, Manchuria.

'15 CE—Charles K. Kerby '15 and Miss Alice L. Franson (Vassar College '19) were married on May 19. William R. Hinchman '18 was best man, and Wilson B. Zimmer '05 and William P. Nugent '16 were among the ushers. Mr. and Mrs. Kerby are making their home at 559 East Twenty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Kerby is engaged in real estate and insurance business at 110 William Street, New York.

'15 LLB—Captain Beverly H. Coiner has returned from the Philippines and will be located at 718 North K Street, Tacoma, Wash., for a few months before going to a new station in the United States.

'15 AB—Captain Robert C. Candee has been transferred from Arcadia, Fla., to Brooks Field, San Antonio, Texas.

'16 AB—A daughter, Gwendolen Louise, was born on June 24 to the Rev. and Mrs. John K. Burleson (Gwendolen English '16) of Vermillion, S. D.

'16 AB—William H. Cullinan sailed on June 17 on board the Majestic for a six-months' trip which will include every country of Europe, with Frank J. Carpenter, traveler, geographer, and correspondent, the father of "Jack" Carpenter '07 of track fame. Cullinan spent two years at the Harvard Law School, attended the reserve class at Annapolis, being advanced to the rank of lieutenant (junior grade), United States Navy, and has been for two years editorial and special feature writer for The Boston Globe, writing frequently over the signature, "Uncle Dudley." He returned in February from a four-months study trip in Europe.

'16 ME—Felipe F. Vidal, who has been located at the factory of Sucesores de Abarca, administrators of the Sautatá Sugar Company, in Sautatá, Chocó, Colombia, South America, has now returned to the general offices of the company in San Juan, P. R. His mail address is Box 299, San Juan. Sucesores de Abarca is headed by Henry Abarca, M.E. '09.

'16 AB—Harry N. Glick, M.D., has been appointed assistant surgeon of St. Mary's Hospital, St. Louis, Mo.

'17, '21 AB—A daughter was born at the Ithaca City Hospital on June 24 to Mr. and Mrs. Archie D. Scheer of Seneca Falls, N. Y.

'17 CE—A son was born on June 26 to Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey M. Briggs of Chicago, Ill.

'18 AB—A son, Roger King, weighing ten pounds, was born on June 9 to Mr. and Mrs. J. Pierson Ackerman, of Lewisburg, Pa. Ackerman is attending the Columbia Summer Session.

Y., were married on June 22 in the Presbyterian Church of Worcester. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father. Mrs. Walter Van Price (Naomi C. Jones '20) attended her sister as matron of honor, and Walter Van Price '18 was one of the ushers. Larrabee is connected with the animal husbandry department of the College of Agriculture, and Mrs. Larrabee is dietitian for Sage College and the University Dining Halls.

'18—Francis C. Lathrop is in the nursery business, with office at Wynnewood, Pa. His home is in Wayne, Pa.

'18—Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Cornelia Clamptett, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Frederick W. Clamptett of San Francisco, to William D. M. Shuman '18, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. T. Shuman of Pittsburgh. Miss Clamptett is now making her home in Paris, where her father is chaplain of the American Church of the Students' Club; he was for many years rector of Trinity Church in San Francisco. Shuman is in the San Francisco office of the Bethlehem Steel Company.

'19 CE—Ross L. Milliman, special agent in the compensation and liability department of the Travelers Insurance Company, has been assigned to assist in opening a new branch office at Dallas, Texas, for the company. He will act as special agent with headquarters at 906-9 Great Southern Building, and will live at 3005 Swiss Avenue.

Which will next year's captain wear?

IT DOESN'T need much wisdom to predict that next year's nine will be captained by a '23 man or maybe a '24 man.

This is no affront to underclassmen. Years of steady plugging must go before you can handle the man-sized responsibility of running a team.

That this is just, seniors will be the first to assert. They have seen how well it works for team and college. Then let the seniors keep this point of view, for soon they will find how closely the principle applies to themselves in the business world.

Captains of industry are not made overnight. Don't expect to step into a managership right away. Before you can lead, you've got to serve in the ranks awhile.

This is best for your organization and best for you. The time and energy you put in working up from the bottom, taking the bitter with the sweet, getting the upperhand over your job, will stand you in good stead when you have won through to executive position.

When you have learned how to handle detail work, you can begin intelligently to direct other men to do it, and thus free yourself for creative planning.

You who intend to be captains, have patience. Your year will come and so will your chance.

By THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD COMPANY, at Elmira Shops, Elmira, N. Y., Boilermakers, Boilermaker Helpers, Machinists, Machinist Helpers, Car Inspectors, Car Repairmen and Helpers, Pipe Fitters, Air Brake Machinists, Autogenous Welders.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Shops are operated on open shop basis; employes have made working agreements with the Management which are now in effect. Under the present arrangement the rate of compensation is higher than that granted by the United States Labor Board. These rates are the result of mutual agreement between the management and employes. On July 1st at some of the shops on the Pennsylvania System, Elmira Shops inclusive, the men were called out by the American Federation of Labor in sympathy with other railroads. At the time there were no grievances pending between the P. R. R., and the employes.

A man now entering P. R. R., employ has an opportunity for unusually rapid promotion. He will secure the benefit of seniority, pension rights, relief department benefits and all other privileges which are accorded employes, together with permanent and steady work.

Considerate treatment of employes has always been the cardinal principle with the Pennsylvania Railroad. Apply to Mr. H. A. Jaggard, Superintendent, Pennsylvania Railroad, Elmira, N. Y.

BEARDED "BABES" OF BASEBALL

WHEN THE HOT CURVE SINGED THE
WHISKERS OF THE BATTER AT THE PLATE

There are plenty of people who can remember when professional baseball players, like college students, law clerks, chief justices, and piano tuners, shunned the razor, and permitted moss to dangle from their maxillary fixtures.

In those days corn husks were used for stuffing mattresses, and a glance at the picture above will enable you to understand why.

The baseball player portrayed here was a member of a leading professional team when "Babe" Ruth's father was a boy, and long before Judge Landis had ever thought of imposing a fine upon anybody.

When this "home-run king" was playing the game, long trousers, as well as whiskers, were worn. But Progress had his equipment marked for the discard.

The long trousers were first to go. There was a good reason for that. When they were found to be cumbersome, Colgate's Rapid-Shave Cream had not come into existence.

Any one who has ever used this wonderful shaving cream will realize how gladly the owner of the kapok that is pictured above would have given himself the benefit of a clean shave, if Colgate's had been at his disposal.

He would have found pleasure in lathering up with Colgate's Rapid-Shave Cream every morning, thus causing his bristles to soften, even as a stubborn juror wilts in the presence of a beautiful plaintiff.

Colgate's Rapid-Shave Cream makes shaving a pastime, not a task. It takes the smart out of shaving and puts it in your appearance.

On request we will gladly send a trial tube containing cream enough for more than a dozen delightful shaves.

You will say, after you have used it, that it is better than you thought a shaving cream could be.

We Believe You Will Want to Act Now

WELL'S "Outline of History" was an unusual seller especially when the price was considered. A new set of books similar in nature has been published. The sale is even greater. We are calling your attention to Thomson's "Outline of Science." This is a four volume set of which two volumes can be delivered today. It is not a textbook but in style is similar to the Outline of History.

We have received notice from the publisher that on August 15th the price will be raised to $18.00 for the set. If we receive your order before the 10th we can get it in and fill your order at $15.00 for the set. Let us be of service to you.
