VOL. XXVIII, No. 9

ITHACA, N. Y., NOVEMBER 19, 1925

PRICE 12 CENTS

MILITARY music; the tramp-tramp-tramp of marching columns; a rattle of harness and click of horses' hoofs on the brick pavement as a battered French '75, drawn by a Cornell R. O. T. C. unit, passes along State Street; wounded soldiers bearing aloft the flag—these things, to one who sees them, bring back memories of turbulent days, of war, of bloodshed. There is no indifferent laughter and small talk among the uncovered crowds who line the side-walks, nothing but silence; and when the spectacle passes, the dream of military splendor, reflecting an echo of the past and, perhaps, a forecast or threat of the future, is broken by a surge of restless, swaying humanity. Students who were small children when the war ended joined with American Legion veterans in celebrating Ithaca's eighth Armistice Day.

THE BALDWIN MEMORIAL STAIRWAY on University Avenue, the gift of Arthur J. Baldwin '92 in memory of his son, Morgan Smiley Baldwin '15, who was killed in France, was dedicated with impressive ceremonies on November 11. The cornerstone was laid by Donald R. Baldwin '16, another son of Arthur J. Baldwin, and the gift was formally accepted for the City of Ithaca by Mayor Will M. Sawdon, M.M.E. '08. President Livingston Farrand, on behalf of the University, stressed the significance of the memorial in relation to the spirit of Armistice Day.

ITHACA POLICE have begun a campaign against violators of the ordinance prohibiting automobiles from being driven down the brick pavement side of the East State Street hill. A number of recent accidents, all traceable to the custom of drivers to take the smooth side of the street, led to the campaign.

THE THUMB TACK Club of the College of Architecture opened its annual exhibition to the public on November 9. The exhibition this year, which is hung in the display room in the north wing of White Hall, is the largest and most inclusive ever presented by the society. About one hundred and fifty pieces, by twenty-eight local artists, representing every well-known branch of decorative art, are included in the collection.

THREETHOUSAND Cornellians and townspeople "saw" the Big Red Team go down to defeat at the hands of Dartmouth in the Drill Hall on November 7. The grid-graph, previously used for the Columbia game, depicted each play with such swiftness that the cheers and moans at Hanover had scarcely died away when they were re-echoed in Ithaca. Professor Charles L. (Bull) Durham '99 announced the plays for the first quarter, when he was relieved by Harrison L. Goodman '25.

THE FACULTY TENNIS Tournament, long delayed by inclement weather, was finally won by Professor James K. Wilson Ph. D. '14, who has held the Faculty championship since 1914. Professor Charles V. P. Young '99 was runner-up. The varsity and freshman tournaments have reached the semi-final stages and will be decided within a few days.

THE STATE CONFERENCE of Wellesley Alumni Clubs, held in Prudence Risley Hall, October 9-10, brought together representatives of the eight Wellesley clubs in New York State. The principal speaker at the banquet on October 9 was Marie Warren Potter, president of the Wellesley Alumni Association. Among the interesting reports submitted to the business meeting next morning was that of Daphne Drake, of the delegation from New York, who outlined the plans for the new clubhouse to be erected in New York at a cost of over one million dollars.

ARMISTICE DAY was celebrated by an impressive memorial service in DeWitt Park, at which Mayor Will M. Sawdon, M.M.E. '08, Judge Willard M. Kent '98, and President Farrand delivered eulogies to America's soldier dead. In accordance with the prevailing national custom, all University business was suspended for two minutes at eleven o'clock, when Faculty and students alike stood uncovered in reverent tribute.

SHERWOOD ANDERSON, famous novelist and writer of short stories, lectured in Barnes Hall under the auspices of the Cornell Women's Club on November 10. In his address, "America as a Storehouse of Vitality," Mr. Anderson discussed modern tendencies in writing, America's contribution to literature, and the younger generation of American writers.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the Central New York Branch of the Society of American Bacteriologists was held in the College of Veterinary Medicine on November 7. Among the speakers was Dr. Otto Rahn of the Dairy Research Institute, Kiel, Germany, who outlined the program of the German state in regard to dairying and gave the latest approved German methods for making micro-photographs of bacteria and yeast. About fifty members attending the meeting.

THE CHIMES on November 7 rendered tribute to the memory of Andrew D. White, first president of the University, who was born November 7, 1832. The program, selected with reference to the personal tastes of the man whose name is linked with that of Ezra Cornell in the founding of the University, included Alma Mater, "Marche Romaine" by Gounod, "We Hail Thy Name, Cornell," and "The Chimes."

THE NEW Faculty Apartments on Thurston Avenue are so near completion that several families have already moved into the first section. All the available space in the first section and part of the second has been reserved by prospective tenants. The second section, the last of the two sections to be completed this fall, will not be ready for occupancy until the latter part of this month.

THE CHRISTIAN Association launched its annual financial drive at a student gathering in Barnes Hall on November 12. President Farrand was the principal speaker. Previously the Association had given out a statement setting the drive total at $5200, which sum is to be applied toward the support of various activities of the organization, including the Information and Employment Bureaus.

THE INTERCOLLEGE soccer championship was decided on November 9, when Agriculture triumphed over Law by a score of 1-0. Remaining intercollegiate contests on the fall calendar include the cross-country run to be held this month, and several swimming meets.

A REVISED MAP of the residential section and the Campus is being prepared by the Student Agencies and will be ready for distribution about November 25. The only map of a similar nature now available was prepared in 1915 and has lost much of its usefulness. The new map will show such recent additions as the Baker Laboratory of Chemistry, Willard Straight Hall, the Faculty Apartments, and the Memorial Stairway on University Avenue.

TRYOUTS for the Eastman Stage of Public Speaking, open to all special or regular students in the College of Agriculture who are in good standing, will take place in Roberts Hall on November 30. The stage was founded seventeen years ago by A. R. Eastman of Waterville, N. Y., by an annual gift of one hundred dollars. In 1918 Mr. Eastman made the contest a permanent one by a gift of three thousand dollars in Liberty bonds and two prizes of one hundred and twenty-five dollars respectively are now awarded. The object of the stage is to encourage leadership in rural affairs.

THE SAGE CHAPEL Preacher for November 22 will be the Rev. Dr. R. Bruce Taylor, principal of Queen's University, Kingston, Canada.

Many Foreign Students

Cornell Now Has 187, from Thirty-Seven Countries—China Leads With Fifty

An enterprising Sun competitor, with a flair for statistics, has thumbed over the Student Directory and dug up some interesting facts anent the personnel of the student body. According to this competitor a total of 3,603 of the 5,453 students reside in New York State, 1,663 in other States, and 187 in foreign countries, making a total of 1,850 students from outside the State of New York or thirty-three per cent of the student body. New Jersey stand second with 334, Pennsylvania third with 329, and Ohio fourth with 176. Each one of the forty-eight States has sent at least one representative, as have all United States dependencies with the exception of the Canal Zone and Samoa.

In 1924-5 the number of aliens and students from dependencies of the United States registered was 170, and this term there are 156, a decrease of fourteen. Nine new countries are represented, and thirteen countries that sent students last year have no representatives now, leaving the total of foreign countries at thirty-seven as compared with forty-one a year ago. China leads the representation with a total of fifty, an increase of two over last year. Canada is second with twenty-three, an increase of seven.

The registration of foreign students by schools and colleges is as follows: Graduate School 67, Agriculture 25, Mechanical Engineering 15, Civil Engineering 11, Electrical Engineering 10, Arts and Sciences 14, Home Economics 4, Medicine 2, Architecture 1, Veterinary 1. The trend seems to be toward agriculture and engineering, the School of Electrical Engineering alone having ten more foreign students than it had last year.

The following table gives the registration of alien students and those from United States dependencies by countries: Argentina 1, Armenia 3, Australia 2, Bermuda 1, Brazil 2, Alaska 1, Columbia 1, Canada 23, China 50, Costa Rica 2, Cuba 3, Esthonia 1, England 4, Germany 3, France 1, India 4, Italy 1, Hawaii 9, Japan 10, Iceland 1, Mexico 8, Nigeria 1, Norway 1, Poland 1, Panama 1, Peru 4, Philippine Islands 13, Porto Rico 15, Russia 5, Guatemala 1, Siam 1, Sierra Leone 1, South Africa 4, Spain 2, Sweden 3, Switzerland 1, Turkey 2.

Those countries which are not represented this year but had students at Cornell last year are Barbadoes, Belgium, Bolivia, Denmark, Dutch Borneo, Egypt, Holland, Santo Domingo, Syria, Jugoslavia, New Zealand, and Korea.

JAMES A. CAUSER, known to many Cornellians as the proprietor of the Ithaca Hotel, was one of the four new directors chosen at the annual meeting of the New York State Hotel Association in New York City on November 10.

SPORT STUFF

The youth of the period carefully restrains enthusiasm. Most criticism is cast in the form of an indictment. Silence is commendation. This attitude frequently irritates fat Pollyannas.

But tomorrow opens Willard Straight Hall, the long-hoped for Cornell Union. I mean to hide behind the arras and watch the students when they see it for the first time. Even the weariest of these adolescent stoics is bound, I think, to forget himself and show real emotion. The vastness, the completeness, the appropriateness, the sheer loveliness of the place must get under the hides of the undergraduates and for one fleeting moment make them as youthful as an ancient alumnus. R.B.

A PERMANENT CAMPUS PLAN

The report of the Plan Commission containing suggestions for the permanent building and landscape development of the Campus has been presented to the Board of Trustees and is being printed for distribution. Alumni and members of the Faculty who are interested can obtain copies by applying to the Secretary of the University.

PHI KAPPA PHI ELECTIONS

At the annual fall elections of Phi Kappa Phi, held on November 2, four professors, forty graduate students, and fifty-one seniors were elected to membership. Hitherto it has been customary for the society to elect graduate students in the spring. These elections will hereafter take place in the fall.

FACULTY NOTES

PROFESSOR HERBERT A. HOPPER '03 was the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Eastern New York Holstein-Friesian Breeders' Club, held at Poughkeepsie on November 5.

PRESIDENT FARRAND and Dr. Theobald Smith '81, president of the National Tuberculosis Association, are scheduled among the speakers at the State Tuberculosis and Health Conference in New York on the 19th and 20th.

PROFESSOR WALTER KIMBALL STONE has presented to the Memorial Art Gallery in Rochester his painting entitled "A Winter Road" in memory of his great grandfather, Captain Enos Stone, Jr., who removed to Rochester from Lenox, Mass., in 1810.

DEAN KIMBALL spoke in Rochester on October 19 at the Management Week dinner at the Chamber of Commerce on "Standardization and Waste in Industry."

Philadelphia Smoker

Annual Event Planned for Evening Before Thanksgiving Day Game

The Philadelphia Cornell Club is planning its usual football smoker, to be held at Kugler's Restaurant Wednesday evening, November 25, with dinner, smokes, and a few speeches. An invitation is extended to all alumni, Faculty, and undergraduates who "happen" to be in the city at that time.

"The price of the tickets will be nominal," writes C. Rodman Stull '07. "We are just letting the football team and coaches know that we are just as enthusiastic about the Thanksgiving game as we have been in the past."

"The Cornell Club of Philadelphia extends a hearty welcome to all Cornellians who are in the city at the time of the game or any other time. We hope particularly that those who come for the game will make the club their headquarters for lunches and dinners while here. There is a reading room and lounging room which they are welcome to use."

On November 5 C. H. Ripley of the Publicity Department of the General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y., gave an interesting illustrated talk on "Twenty-five Hundred Miles Over Europe in a Passenger Airplane" to the members of the club. About thirty-five men were present.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

Cleveland

Officers of the Cornell Club of Cleveland for 1925-26 are as follows: president, Conant Van Blarcom '08; vice-president, Chester A. Thompson '16; secretary, Charles C. Colman '12; treasurer, MacRea Parker '14. Committee chairmen are: banquet, Burke Patterson '22; information, Robert V. Clapp '22; athletic, Herbert N. Putnam '12; membership, Edmund T. Slinkard '16; Musical Clubs, Clarence R. Hayes '15; luncheon, Chester A. Thompson '16; scholarship, Joseph P. Harris '01. There is also a headless gate committee of nine men.

At the weekly luncheon on November 12, ninety Cornellians and guests were much bewildered, baffled, and befuddled by the accomplishments of "Nat" Halton, officially connected with the Benson Electric Company of Superior, Wisconsin, who mystified the audience with card tricks.

Club Luncheons Changed

Several alumni clubs have changed their places or dates of weekly luncheons from those announced in the ALUMNI NEWS on October 22.

The Cornell University Association of Michigan now holds its luncheons Thursdays at 12.15 in the Book-Cadillac Hotel in Detroit. The Cornell Alumni Association of Indiana meets Thursdays at the University Club in Indianapolis. The Cornell Club of Binghamton is holding luncheons Mondays at 12.15 at the Elks' Club.

Hear Dartmouth Returns

Cornellians in St. Louis, Omaha, New York City, Schenectady, Philadelphia, and other points, who could not be in Hanover on November 7 were enabled to hear the returns of the Cornell-Dartmouth game through the courtesy of the Cornell clubs in their respective cities. Special arrangements were made for the clubs to receive the returns by wire. Dartmouth men in many places joined the Cornell alumni and seemed to take a certain satisfaction in the bulletins ticked off the wire.

Southern California

At the last meeting of the Cornell Club of Southern California Kenyon L. Reynolds '14 and Charles F. Blakslee '14 were elected president and secretary respectively. Both officers live in Los Angeles. Blakslee's address is 442 South Virgil Avenue.

These new officers succeed to the places formerly held by Dr. George L. Hoxie '92 and H. Roy Kelley '15.

Toledo

At a meeting of the Cornell Alumni of Toledo held at the University Club October 21 the following officers were elected: president, Archibald B. Morrison '01; vice-president, William Schroeder '94; secretary, Charles S. Beck '17; treasurer, George Stahl Sp.

Chicago

Eddie Cantor was the guest of honor at the luncheon November 5 in the University Club. Seventy-five turned out to welcome him. He was introduced by Louis Wolheim '06 and gave a serious talk on the real work of his profession.

Chicago Women

The Cornell Women's Club of Chicago meets the first Saturday of the month at the Woman's City Club, 360 North Michigan Avenue. Officers for 1925-26 are: president, Gertrude Huth '17; secretary-treasurer, Ethel L. Jarrett '08.

Buffalo Women

At a meeting of the Buffalo Club of Cornell Women the following officers were elected for the coming year: president, Hilda L. Goltz '21; first vice-president, Theresa A. Fox '21; second vice-president, Mrs. W. Morgan Kendall (Harriot Parsons) '19; secretary, Gertrude Hartzell '23; treasurer, Esther Airey '20.

Niagara Falls

The Cornell Club of Niagara Falls held a joint luncheon at the Niagara Hotel with the Dartmouth alumni of that vicinity on November 7 after which returns from the Cornell-Dartmouth football game at Hanover were received by special wire. Fifty-five men were in attendance, including a number from Lockport, Tonawanda, Lewiston, and Youngstown.

The club holds its weekly luncheon every Wednesday noon in the Coffee Room of the Niagara Hotel, and all visiting alumni are cordially invited to attend. There is usually no special program provided, but lively discussion of Cornell affairs is always in order.

Recently a committee, with Charles S. Thayer '13 as chairman, was appointed to consider the question of the establishment of a scholarship for the Niagara Falls district.

Preliminary plans are now being laid by the committee of which Arthur D. Camp '05 is chairman for holding the third annual Cornell track meet for the schools of Niagara County. Arrangements are progressing to combine this meet with the Western New York Interscholastic Championships, which would then be run under the auspices of the Cornell Club early in June at Niagara Falls.

THE COLLEGE WORLD

THE UNIVERSITY of Colorado has this year 2,619 students, an increase of 75 over last year. Of these 1,616 are in arts and sciences, 551 in engineering, 165 in medicine, 96 in the Graduate School, 94 in law, 47 in pharmacy, 36 in music, and 14 in the nursing course.

THE REGISTRATION at the University of Michigan this year is just twenty short of ten thousand, an increase of 563 over last year. There are 35 war specials, 4,062 in science, literature, and arts, 1,106 in engineering and architecture, 673 in agriculture, forestry, and home economics, 297 in law, 561 in medicine, 302 in nursing, 370 in dentistry, 30 in dental hygiene, 74 in mines, 159 in pharmacy, 186 in chemistry, 1,373 in education, 258 in business and 633 in the Graduate School.

THE UNIVERSITY of Oregon has this year 2,746 students, an increase of 238 over last year.

AT PURDUE there are this year 3,202 students, which is 143 larger than the registration of last year at the same time. Agriculture at Purdue has gone down from 505 in 1922 to 326.

DANIEL GUGGENHEIM has given New York University half a million dollars to endow a school of aeronautics.

WASHINGTON AND LEE has this year 878 students. Of these approximately three hundred are freshmen, five hundred are old students, and fifty are transfers. There are 502 in the Academic School, 218 in the School of Commerce, 91 in Law, and 67 in the School of Science. The States most largely represented, in order, are Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, and Florida.

MIAMI has this year 1632 students, of whom 796 are men and 836 are women.

Trustees Announce Gifts Approaching $800,000

Half Million put at Unrestricted Disposal of Board—$250,000
Given for Chemistry—Wordsworth Collection Secured

Gifts to the University aggregating nearly $800,000 were announced to the Board of Trustees at their meeting on Saturday, November 14.

An anonymous gift of $250,000 was received, the income of which is to be used for the "benefit and advancement of teaching and research in chemistry." The gift is made to enable the University to carry out a plan formulated by Professor Louis M. Dennis, head of the Department of Chemistry. Distinguished men of this and other countries in chemistry and allied fields of science are to be invited to spend one or two semesters at Cornell delivering lectures, conducting research, and generally collaborating with the Department while in residence here. The income of this gift will enable the University to make more regular and systematic its custom of adding occasional visiting professors to the resident Faculty. The new plan will be inaugurated not later than next fall and perhaps as early as the second semester of this year.

There was reported to the Board a gift of $500,000, made by an anonymous donor subject to a life interest. The income of the fund, when it becomes available, is to be at the unrestricted disposal of the Trustees for the benefit of the University, the donor expressing a wish that it be used to benefit the College of Engineering.

A gift of $25,000 from Victor Emanuel '19 of New York City was announced, with the donor's suggestion that a portion of the fund be used to purchase for Cornell a unique collection of manuscripts, editions, and letters of the poet Wordsworth, gathered by the late Mrs. Cynthia Morgan St. John of Ithaca. In accepting the gift the Trustees authorized the purchase, which has already been effected. This collection is said to be the most complete assemblage of Wordsworth treasures ever brought together.

Albert Jonas '78 of Washington, D. C., established the Albert and Olive Jonas Fund with a gift of $5,000, expressing his intention of adding to the fund in the future. Its purpose is to assist Cornell students, not only with pecuniary aid in completing their education, but also with organized help in finding the professions or pursuits to which they are best fitted for their life work.

The Trustees, having used a bequest of John McMullen of Norwalk, Conn., as directed in his will, for the establishment of three scholarships worth $500 each in the College of Engineering, approved the Faculty's recommendation that the scholarships be divided among the three schools of that college and awarded by the President to candidates selected by a committee of each school and approved by the college Faculty. Each committee will consist of the dean of the College, the director of the School, and one member of the Faculty.

A council was appointed to advise the Trustees in matters relating to the College of Engineering. It will consist of President Farrand, Dean Kimball, three alumni of the College to be appointed by the Board, and four members of the Board, Edwin N. Sanderson '87, president of the Federal Light & Traction Company, New York; S. Wiley Wakeman '99, general superintendent of the Fore River shipbuilding plant of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation; Maxwell M. Upson '99, general manager of the Raymond Concrete Pile Company, New York, and Ezra B. Whitman '01, a consulting engineer of Baltimore.

The name of the College of Law at Cornell was officially changed to the Cornell Law School, to signalize its character as a graduate school and to accord with general custom elsewhere. The tuition in the Law School was raised from $200 to $250 a year, beginning next year. The Trustees expressed the hope that there might be additional scholarships established, the Cornell Law Association having made a promising beginning by founding three.

New Rating System in Law

College Will Award Merit Points for Hours Passed With Good Marks

A system for measuring the work of students by merit points, applicable to those whose first registration took place in September, 1924, or thereafter, has been developed by the Faculty of the College of Law. In awarding merit points the Faculty will consider the number of hours in a given course and the term mark received by the student in that course; for each hour in which the student receives a mark of AA he will be awarded four points; A, three points; B, two points; and C, one point. No merit points will be awarded for a mark of D or F. If less than nine merit points are earned in any term of the academic year, or less than six in Summer School, the student will be placed on probation.

On the basis of the new system the Faculty has also adopted a new dismissal rule. To quote from the official announcement, "A regular student will be dropped (1) if at the close of his first two regular terms of law study he has not earned twelve merit points, or (2) if at the end of his first term and the Summer Session which immediately precedes or follows such regular term, he has not earned ten merit points, or (3) if after two terms of law study (a Summer Session being considered a term), he shall in any two successive regular terms earn less than twenty merit points, or (4) if after two terms of law study, as indicated, he shall in one regular term and one Summer Session running successively, earn less than seventeen merit points, or (5) if at the end of his fourth term (a Summer Session being considered a term), he has not earned merit points equal in number to three-fourths the number of credit hours earned by him; but provided that (6) any student who has earned eighty-two credit hours but who is deficient in not more than ten merit points, may be permitted to continue his work toward a degree upon such conditions as may be imposed by the Faculty."

While the system may have defects not ascertainable at this early date, the advantage of having all students definitely catalogued and rated is obvious. Candidates for honors, prizes, and scholarships in the future may be more satisfactorily chosen by a reference to their accumulated merit points.

Willard Straight Hall Opens to All Cornellians

Undergraduates Take Possession Without Formal Ceremony —Alumni May Share in Privileges of Membership

WILLARD Straight Hall, Cornell's newest building, which is an undergraduate center probably without equal in America, but which is also intended to serve as a headquarters for alumni returning to Ithaca, opened its doors on Wednesday, November 18. After holding its mounting curiosity in leash for months, practically all undergraduate Cornell swarmed in to inspect and enjoy the magnificent building.

At the wish of the donor, Mrs. Leonard K. Elmhirst, no ceremonial exercises marked the opening of Willard Straight Hall. The doors were simply thrown wide, and Cornellians came in. Mrs. Elmhirst will come to Ithaca two or three weeks later for the more formal dedication of the building, it was announced. On November 10 she visited the city for the first time since last May, inspecting the building with William A. Delano of Delano and Aldrich, of New York, the architects. To the gratification of the University authorities she was the first to dine in Willard Straight Hall and to make use of the suite of living rooms on the second floor.

Foster M. Coffin '12, Director of Willard Straight Hall, announced that the building would be open to all from Wednesday to Saturday. Non-members as well as members were welcomed to inspect the structure, and women and men alike were invited to visit the entire building, parts of which, beginning the following week, were to be reserved for the use of women or men alone.

That alumni as well as undergraduates are to share in the privileges of Willard Straight Hall was made known by the announcement that a class of non-resident alumni membership has been created, with dues of five dollars a year. Payments for dues should be made to the order of Willard Straight Hall, addressed to Foster M. Coffin, the director.

All undergraduate students in Ithaca are members of Willard Straight Hall by virtue of their payments each term. Membership will also be open, on payment of eight dollars for the academic year, to members of the Faculty and instructing staff, Trustees, graduate students, and resident alumni. Membership of persons in the Faculty and Trustees class will carry with it the extension of privileges of the Hall to their wives.

The Cornell Dramatic Club announced that it would open the University Theater in Willard Straight Hall by presenting, on the evenings of November 19, 20, and 21, "The Contrast", a five-act eighteenth-century comedy by Royall Tyler, which is notable as the earliest social comedy written by an American. This is the Club's first major production of the year.

OBITUARY

George B. Turner '73

Judge George B. Turner, a Trustee of the University from 1892 to 1907, died suddenly at his home in Auburn, N. Y., on November 12.

He was born at Fair Haven, N. Y., and after getting his early training there, entered Cornell in 1869 as a science student. In 1873 he graduated with the degree of B. S. He was a member of Chi Psi and the Adelphi Literary Society, and rowed No. 3 on his class crew. After leaving college, he retained an active interest in the affairs of the University and his fraternity and for many years was president of the Chi Psi Alumni Corporation.

Mr. Turner served as a member of the Board of Supervisors in Cayuga County, as surrogate of the same county and also as president of the Auburn Board of Education. He is survived by two sons, George Turner '03, and Avery Turner '12.

Frederick Spiegelberg, Jr., '16

Frederick Spiegelberg, Jr., died on November 7 as the result of injuries received that day in an automobile accident while en route with his wife and friends to the Harvard-Princeton football game.

He was born in New York on November 17, 1895, the son of Justice and Mrs. Frederick Spiegelberg. After attending Hamilton Institute, he came to Cornell in 1912 as a student of agriculture and graduated in 1916 with the degree of B. S. While in the University he made quite a record as an athlete. For three years he played on the varsity lacrosse team, for two years on the hockey team and one year on the soccer team, besides being a member of his class lacrosse team for two years. He was a member of the Junior Nights Committee and the Senior Pledge Committee.

During the War he saw considerable service. He went to the first Plattsburgh Training Camp in 1917 and was sent overseas with the first group of student aviators. In February, 1918, he was assigned to the French forces and twice won the Croix de Guerre for night bombing work. Later he was transferred to the Ninth Aero Squadron of the American forces and served directly under Colonel William H. Mitchell. He remained overseas with the Army of Occupation when hostilities ceased and returned to America in 1919.

WORDSWORTH COLLECTION SAVED

THE NAME of Victor Emanuel to-day takes on a new significance for Cornellians. The gift of a fund by Victor Emanuel '19 for the acquisition of the St. John collection of Wordsworth treasures saves to Cornell this invaluable library and the priceless relics of the poet that are part of it.

For many years the collection has been at the service of the University. Since the death of Mrs. St. John many other universities have looked upon it with covetous eyes. Eventually it would have gone elsewhere to enrich another college and would have left a sense of loss akin to that caused by the untimely taking-off of a great teacher.

Money for intangible values such as this is unfortunately rarely available. The University must guard its funds for the pressing needs of the pay-roll and the coal-bin. It requires an unusual type of resolution to give for the future when the present is by no means comfortable.

Yet, after these new steam pipes have rusted out, and the youngest instructor is a venerable professor emeritus, the Wordsworth Collection will still be an active force in the work of the University, an inspiration alike to Cornellians and to Wordsworth scholars elsewhere who make pilgrimages.

No Easy Victory

The local football season closed Saturday afternoon when Cornell defeated Canisius College by a score of 33 to 0 on a muddy gridiron. The opposing team was anything but a "set-up"; it provided much more effective opposition than teams which have usually played this date. Canisius had a heavy rugged line and some fast backs. They played aggressively and for three periods stood up rather well. Their spread formation, from which the ball was passed hither and yon, puzzled Cornell for a time, but the visitors never got beyond the thirty-yard line by rushing, though once they compelled Fratt to kick out from behind his goal line, when a long punt rolled to the extreme southeast corner of the field.

Canisius was "set" for the off-tackle play, and for a time managed to prevent Cornell from making any consistent gains. In consequence the first two periods witnessed a good deal of punting.

In the early stages Cornell was unimpressive. True, the field was in miserable condition, and the offensive formations were consequently slower to get under way than usual. Nevertheless there seemed to be little pep and life in the Cornell attack. In the second half, however, Cornell came to life, uncovered a more deceptive attack which managed to shoot the backs ahead for steady gains, and by the last period had the visitors on the run.

Coach Dobie started Otto at right end, but he soon gave way to Courtwright. Affeld started at center; his passing at times was below par, but he played a fine defensive game, following the ball closely. Anderson played left guard, Carey having suffered a minor injury in practice. The backfield that started consisted of Carpenter, quarterback, Isaly, left halfback, Fratt, right halfback, and Butterfield, fullback. Wester went in at quarterback in the second period, and Rosenberg at fullback, and they finished the game. This was the first time this year that Isaly, a letter man in 1924, had been in the line-up. Wester, Rosenberg, and Fratt proved the most consistent ground gainers, though Isaly also made good headway. Fratt's all-around work stood out. Fennell showed to advantage at left end, and the tackle and guard play was satisfactory, if not very lively.

The first quarter was a stand-off, Canisius if anything having the advantage. In the second period the alert Fratt intercepted a forward pass on Canisius' forty-yard line and dashed to the two-yard line. Three rushes, all massed at the center of the line, gained less than two yards but on the fourth down Wester went over.

In the third quarter Cornell scored again after a march down from midfield. A poor pass to Rosenberg caused him to fumble as he crossed the line, but Affeld redeemed himself by falling on the ball for a touchdown. In the fourth period three more touchdowns were added. Wester made one after a fifty-yard run, following his interception of a pass. The next was the climax of the best march of the day, which started on Cornell's twenty-five-yard line. Canisius held on the five-yard line, but a pass, Rosenberg to Wester, scored. The final count followed a poor punt by Canisius from behind their goal line. The ball sailed skyward and, blown by the wind, came down in back of the line at about the same point from which it was kicked. A Canisius player touched it, probably hoping to run it out, but he fumbled it, and Wakeman fell on it for a touchdown. The line-up:

The football team is now preparing for the last game of the season, the time-honored contest with Pennsylvania on Thanksgiving Day. Pennsylvania started the season brilliantly, facing the most difficult schedule of any Eastern team. The Quakers defeated Brown, Yale, and Chicago on successive Saturdays, but fell victims to Red Grange and Illinois by a score of 24 to 2. They ran away with Haverford, but were beaten by Pittsburgh last Saturday, 14 to 0.

Dartmouth, which overwhelmed Cornell last week, vindicated the judgment of those who saw the Hanover game that the Green had one of the greatest football teams of recent years, by defeating Chicago by a score of 33 to 7. There is no doubt that Dartmouth has the best Eastern team, and one of the finest in the country. The Green plays Cornell in Ithaca next year, and the game ought to draw the largest crowd in the history of Cornell athletics.

Columbia, beaten by Cornell October 31 by a score of 17 to 14 played a disappointing tie game with New York University the next week, but came back last Saturday and scored a 21 to 7 triumph over the Army.

Third in Cross Country

The cross country team finished third in the annual quadrangular race with Columbia, Dartmouth, and Pennsylvania over the Intercollegiate course of six miles in Van Cortlandt Park, New York, Saturday.

Columbia won with 26 points; Dartmouth was second with 48; Cornell's score was 59; and Pennsylvania's 77. Schmidt, the Columbia captain, was the first runner to cross the line. His time was 31 minutes 49 seconds. Auer of Dartmouth was second, ten seconds behind the Columbia leader. The first Cornellian to finish was Houghton, in seventh place. Captain Craig finished eighth, Higley 12th, Bissell 15th and Bardell 17th.

LITERARY REVIEW

A Rural Life Novel

The Trouble Maker. By E. R. Eastman, Editor of The American Agriculturist and President of the State Agricultural Society. New York. Macmillan. 1925. 19.5 cm., pp. x, 315. Price, $2.

Mr. Eastman has produced an unexpectedly interesting story, well worth reading. It will of course find its largest body of readers in rural communities; but all who are concerned with the history of rural American culture and of our economic progress will find much that is worth while in the descriptions of conditions in a central New York rural community about ten years ago.

The story has to do chiefly with the attempt to induce the farmers to combine for the purpose of resisting the tyranny of the milk middlemen, and with the conditions which brought about the organization of the Dairymen's League. The strong individualism which develops among men who work each by himself and who in the nature of things are free to commune much with their own thoughts is well brought out. There is a fine contrast drawn between the conservative old-fashioned farmer who believes in hard work and is inclined to accept conditions, whatever they may be, as inevitable, and the forward-looking, progressive element among the farming class, men who have developed something of a much needed class consciousness, which it is certain will never be overdone.

We are the least bit skeptical about the lawyer with the swallow-tail coat and the stovepipe hat. Can he be found anywhere in the Empire State in the twentieth century? Or does he not rather belong to the realm of romance? It is a trifle; but it serves with other things to remind us that there is romance among the rural communities and in our own day as well as in more remote times and places.

Barberry Gate

Barberry Gate. By Jane Abbott '03. Philadelphia. Lippincott. 1925. 19.8 cm., pp. ii, 300. With Four Illustrations by Franc Root McCreery. Price, $1.75.

This story seems to us to be one of the best Mrs. Abbott has done so far. There is the familiar style, a little too colloquial at times perhaps (e. g. she is too fond of different than); and the girl characters do not differ greatly one from another, but they are always wholesome and charming, and they never lose their appeal to the class of readers for whom these books are especially designed.

"Barberry Gate" is motivated by the Civil War and its aftermath. It is a beautiful story of a girl's devotion to an aged uncle and of the way in which he is at length healed of both bodily and spiritual ailments through the compelling appeal of the girl's personality and devotion to him.

The plot is more than usually exciting, and is well worked out. If anyone condemns the story for the rather high degree of improbability achieved by some of the events in it, we reply that that is quite an irrelevant matter. Otherwise, what is imagination for?

Books and Magazine Articles

In The New Republic for November 11, under the title "Yankee Doodle Economics," Alvin Johnson pokes fun at Professor Carver's volume which we recently reviewed, "The Present Economic Revolution in the United States." "Tolerance" by Hendrik W. van Loon '05 is reviewed by Robert Morss Lovett. Charles A. Beard, '99-'00 Grad., reviews the sixth volume of Edward Channing's "History of the United States," "The Political and Social History of the United States" by Homer C. Hockett and Arthur M. Schlesinger, "The Growth of the United States" by Ralph Volney Harlow, and Erasmus' "Praise of Folly" translated by Horace Bridges.

In The Forum for November Edward E. Free '06 prints "Science Notes" and also reviews "Chimpanzee Intelligence and Its Vocal Expression" by Robert M. Yerkes and Blanche W. Learned, "Population" by A. M. Carr-Saunders, and "Studies in Human Biology" by Raymond Pearl.

In Science for November 6 Dr. Vernon L. Kellogg, '91-2 Grad., has a note on "English Support of Science."

In The American Naturalist for November-December Professor Leon A. Hausman '14, of Rutgers, prints "A Comparative Racial Study of the Structural Elements of Human Head-Hair." Hausman also writes in The Scientific American for November on "Why Hair Turns Gray." This article is illustrated and includes a portrait of the writer in his laboratory.

In The Saturday Evening Post for October 24 Kenneth L. Roberts '08 writes on "The New Immigration." In the issue for October 31 he has an article on "My Unstable Home." In the issue for November 14, under the title "Disciples of Realism," he sharply attacks the present-day theatergoers in New York. In the same issue Morris Bishop '13 writes on "Saving the Chantey."

In The New York Times Book Review for November 15 there is a review of "The Religion of the Undergraduate" by the Rev. Cyril Harris, rector of the Episcopal Church at Tiverton, R. I., and formerly Episcopal Student minister at Cornell. The book is published by the Scribners.

The New York University Alumnus for November 11 includes a review of "The Barnburners" by Dr. Herbert D. A. Donovan '03.

The Vassar Quarterly for November includes a review of "Horace and His Art of Enjoyment" by Professor Elizabeth H. Haight, Ph. D. '09, of the Vassar faculty.

The review is the work of Pearl Cleveland Wilson.

Professor Eloise Ellery, Ph. D. '02, of Vassar regularly contributes notes on Italian current history to Current History.

In the November 12 issue of The Harvard Alumni Bulletin is printed an address by Professor Thomas N. Carver, Ph. D. '94, of Harvard, delivered at Phillips Brooks House on November 1, on "Religion: Its Basis in Economic Facts."

The new Review of German Economic Conditions, of which the first number has reached our table, is edited by William J. Norton '02. It will prove a highly useful publication. It is published by Stoehr & Sons, Inc., 200 Fifth Avenue, New York. Norton was scheduled to return to America on the 14th.

In Flour and Feed for September Professor Leland Spencer '18 presents "Facts and Figures Relating to Credit."

In Industrial and Engineering Chemistry for September Professor Fred H. Rhodes, Ph. D. '14, and J. T. Carty discuss "The Corrosion of Certain Metals by Carbon Tetrachloride."

George P. Dyer '95 writes in The Oakland Post-Enquirer for October 28 on "Willow Versus Oak." His argument is against the matching of undergraduate football players with athletic club professionals. The Post-Enquirer is published by Charles S. Young '95.

The Cornell Graphic for October 14 has portraits of Foster M. Coffin '12, the new director of Willard Straight Hall, George L. Burr '81, from the new painting by Professor Olaf M. Brauner, Frank Sullivan '14, of the New York World, Frank C. Edminster '02, of the Edminster Preparatory School, Ithaca, Professor Nathaniel Schmidt, "who is said to have written more articles for encyclopedias than any other living man," Professor Edward B. Titchener, from the painting by Professor Olaf M. Brauner, Professor George L. Hamilton, from a bust modeled by Professor Olympio Brindesi, Frank Sheehan, "prominent factor in Cornell's football victories," Walter P. Cooke '91, recently appointed president of the Arbitral Tribunal of Interpretation in connection with the operation of the Dawes Plan, and Nicholas Bawlf, coach of the soccer and other teams.

In The Saturday Evening Post for October 3 William H. Upson '14 has a story called "Souvenirs" and in the issue for October 17 another entitled "Dirty Work in the Argonne." In the latter issue Dana Burnet '11 also prints a story called "Wind-Blown." Kenneth L. Roberts '08 has an article on "My Stupid Dogs," and Morris Bishop '13 has a poem called "The Dog-Sled Mail."

ALUMNI NOTES

'86—Chester C. Platt has gone to St. Petersburg, Fla., to spend the winter and while there will engage in newspaper and magazine work. His address will be the Sholl Apartments. On September 28 he returned from a three months' trip abroad during which he visited England, France, Holland, Germany, and Switzerland. While away he wrote a number of articles for American publications, among them being Freedom, Unity, The Public Ownership Magazine, The Wisconsin State Journal, and the Batavia, N. Y., Times.

'91-2 Grad—Dr. Vernon L. Kellogg, permanent secretary of the National Research Council, is also secretary of the American Committee on International Intellectual Cooperation.

'92 BS—Louis M. Marble, who has for several years supported apple and potato storage investigations at the Marble Laboratory, Inc., at Canton, Pa., was recently appointed professor of storage research in the Department of Horticulture at Pennsylvania State College.

'96 PhD—Dr. David R. Major is acting professor of philosophy in Indiana University. He held a similar appointment in 1921-2. He taught philosophy in Ohio State University for many years, resigning to go into business.

'97 PhD—Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn is one of a group of educators who have accepted invitations to take part in the Inter-collegiate Parley on Education to be held at Wesleyan University on December 4-6. He will open the conference with a critical analysis of the present educational system.

'98 BS—Professor Susan P. Nichols, of Oberlin College, has returned to her chair after a year's leave of absence spent in study. She is living at 75 Elmwood Place, Oberlin, Ohio.

'99 ME—Emmett B. (Nick) Carter, stroke of the '99 crew, is now with the Tannin Corporation at 100 East Forty-second Street, New York. He is engaged in special consulting engineering work. Prior to going with the Tannin organization, he was chief engineer for the Barrett Company and also the Midvale Steel Company at Philadelphia.

'99 AB; '24 AB; '24 AB—The staff of the College Preparatory School for Girls at Cincinnati, Ohio, now has three Corneliens as members. Mary H. Doherty '99 is the principal of the school, Irwina Dorr '24 is starting her second year in the Latin Department, while Ida M. Breed '24 has recently joined the English Department.

'01—Alan E. Philbrick is instructing in the Art Institute of Chicago and living at 982 Elm Street, Winnetka, Ill.

'03 PhD; '17 AM, '18 PhD—A recent issue of The Minnesota Alumni Weekly included the following item: Dr. and Mrs.

Inspection - Inspection - Inspection!

-makes good soldiers and good telephones

At West Point and Western Electric, the order of the day is the same—inspection, inspection, inspection.

A vast army of small parts must pass muster before they can assemble in telephone formation. And any part found unfit for duty is rejected.

One part must measure up to standards within a thousandth of an inch. Another must be ready to obey the command of a tiny electrical current.

Constant watchfulness is kept over all the apparatus which Western Electric makes. It starts with the careful selection of raw material. It goes through every step of the manufacture. It gives you, finally, a telephone that, like a good soldier, can serve on any front.

Telephones lined up for inspection.

Roll Call. Checking up on tone quality.

Dingleville Deserved Better Things

"Fellow citizens," said the orator of the day, "above the corner-stone that is about to be laid will rise a temple of justice of which Dingleville may be justly proud."

But the Dingleville court house turned out to be a flimsy affair which cost the tax-payers three times the price it was worth.

Such outrages were common when men were careless about their looks, as well as about public works. With Colgate's Rapid-Shave Cream to make shaving easy, a wonderful improvement is noticeable upon the face of things.

COLGATE'S

softens the beard at the base, where the razor's work is done. It takes trouble and torture out of shaving, and leaves the face soothed and velvety.

Get a tube today, and notice the big difference it makes for the better. No rubbing in is needed; no mussy application with the fingers.

A clean shave daily has become a business as well as a social requirement.

What books do you need for Fall and Winter reading?

To aid you in your selection we issue each year two booklets listing worthwhile books. The Agricultural list has the larger circulation of several thousand. The Engineering list is very complete too. One of these is yours for the asking. We will get the information for you regarding other books not listed. Let us be of service to you.

Cornell Songbooks

A book needed by every Cornellian. The only songbook in print containing the songs with music. The price is $1.75 postage paid. Half the book contains other popular songs.

Cornell Rowing

This is written as a story which is largely a life of Courtney. The crew records and other information you need and want is there. Even if you were not an oarsman you want to know. $1.50 postage paid.
