Women Give Concert

Ambitious Program by Well-Trained Glee Club Given in Bailey Hall April 17

The Women's Glee Club gave its annual concert on Wednesday evening, April 17, to a large audience in Bailey Hall. The program was one of great merit and excellence. Assisting the Club was Miss Edna Thomas, a singer of Negro spirituals and southern folk songs who charmed the listeners in all her selections. The Club was trained under the direction of Mrs. Eric Dudley. The concert was noted by local critics as the most enjoyable of any the women's organization has given. Incidental dances were another assisting feature, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Bateman.

Fraternity to Build

Theta Delta Chi Acquires University Avenue Property Near the Chi Psi House

Theta Delta Chi will soon have a new home, to be located on University Avenue adjoining Chi Psi. The house will be nearer to the main University buildings than any other fraternity house. The contract has been awarded to J. Dall, Jr., Inc., of which Jes J. Dall, Jr., '16, is president. The house and grounds will be valued at $175,000-$200,000.

The building committee is composed of Tunis T. Hubbard '95, William H. Morrison '90, and Norman S. Lawrence '04. The architect is Leon Stern '89.

The lower stories will be built of native stone with plaster and old wood trimmings above. Except for the roof, the house will be of steel and concrete construction, the only wood below the roof being floors and paneling. The basement floor will be of tile and the two upper floors of cement with glued linoleum covering.

The slope of the ground is such that the floor level of the dining room and kitchen on the basement floor will be well out of the ground. The lounge on the main floor will be a huge room separated from the hall and stairway on the east end and from the amusement room on the west end by three open arches. An alumni room will be located on the same floor.

THE NEW THETA DELTA CHI HOUSE

This is how the house will appear from the University Dormitories.

On the second floor there will be eleven studies, each for two men, and an alumni room for visitors. There will be eight sleeping rooms on the top floor, large enough to accommodate twenty two men with the use of "double-decker" beds. The sleeping rooms will contain individual wardrobes and dressing tables of steel.

Two terraces on the south side will be an attractive feature of the house. One will open from the lounge on the main floor and the other from the dining room on the basement floor. Architecturally, the house will be in complete harmony with University buildings near by, and it is planned for compactness to make operation inexpensive. An oil heating system will be installed.

Work on the foundations is expected to be started within a week, and it is hoped to have the building ready by September. Theta Delta Chi was founded in 1847 at Union College. Cornell Beta was established in 1870 and is at present located at 5 South Avenue.

THE COLLEGE WORLD

REGISTRATION FIGURES as of Jan. 1 for twenty Canadian universities and colleges show the University of Toronto in the lead with 5,119 regular full-time students. The University of Montreal is in second place, Laval third, and McGill fourth. These figures are of interest to educators in the United States because some 1,000 U. S. students are enrolled in Canadian universities and colleges. On the other hand, there are about 1,200 Canadians in higher institutions of learning in the United States.

The total registration in fifteen of the twenty Canadian institutions shows an increase of 4.6 per cent over the previous year, which is twice the increase shown in U. S. colleges and universities for a similar period.

There are in all in Canada this year about 26,500 full-time college and university students.

THE UNIVERSITY of Pennsylvania has accepted from Henry N. Woolman the gift of Cressbrook Farm at Valley Forge and will establish there a School of American History and Government.

REPORTS RECEIVED by Dean Raymond Walters of Swarthmore College from 216 colleges and universities throughout the United States show an increase in enrollment of two per cent, the smallest gain since the War. Increases were reported in only about half the institutions. The 1928 full time enrollment of the 216 institutions totals 417,256.

PROFESSOR EMERITUS HERBERT C. ELMER '83, of the Department of Latin, was one of the principal speakers at the eleventh annual conference of the New Jersey State High Schools.

Court Rules Changed

Four changes in the rules of basketball were authorized on April 20 by the joint basketball rules committee. On a jump-ball, neither jumper may touch the ball after it has been tapped until it has touched another player or the floor. Second, various technical fouls connected with the jump-ball are changed to violations, the penalty being loss of the ball.

The third change enables officials to rule with more uniformity on traveling with the ball. The fourth change affects players fouled in the act of shooting a goal. Henceforth, the ball will be tossed up at center after the second free throw if the player fouled made his field goal. The ball will be in play, however, after a miss on the second free throw, if the field goal was not made.

Abolition of the center toss to start the game and after each score, recommended by the National Association of College Basketball Coaches, was not adopted.

Lacrosse Team Loses

The lacrosse team lost its second game of the season at Cambridge on April 20 to Harvard, 3 to 2. The stellar defense work of Salmon, Crimson goal guard, was a big factor in the Harvard victory. The game was closely fought throughout, Captain Gowdy providing Cornell's main power on attack. He scored both Red and White goals.

The line-ups:

Freshmen "12" Loses

The freshman lacrosse team lost to Syracuse Central High School on Upper Alumni Field April 20, 10 to 0. Syracuse was superior in every department of the game and ran up a five-point lead in the first half. Rain and mud hampered the players.

Games Cancelled

Rain washed away two scheduled baseball games on April 20. The varsity was to meet Columbia on Hoy Field, and the freshmen were to play Cortland Normal School at Cortland.

To Start League in 1930

The inability of Yale and Dartmouth to schedule a return engagement and the postponement, because of rain, of several other games have forced officials of the newly-formed Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League to defer the official start until next season.

Organization of the new circuit was effected April 14.

Charles H. Blair '97 of New York has presented a cup for award annually to the team which produces the champion batsman. Five batting championships will bring permanent ownership of the trophy. Trophies will also be awarded the leading man and the leading base stealer.

Named College Head

Dr. George A. Works, Former Cornell Professor, Appointed Connecticut Agricultural President

George Alan Works, professor of rural education in the College of Agriculture from 1914 to 1927 and now dean of the Graduate Library School of the University of Chicago, has been named president of the Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs, Conn. He will take office July 1, succeeding Professor Charles B. Gentry, M.S. '19, who has been acting president since Dr. Charles L. Beach retired in July, 1928.

Dr. Works graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1904. Harvard conferred the degree of Doctor of Education on him in 1925. He is a member of the National Society for Vocational Education, the American Association of University Professors, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Delta Kappa, Delta Upsilon, and Alpha Zeta.

Dr. Works served as superintendent of schools in Wisconsin until 1911, when he became instructor in rural education in the University of Wisconsin. He was assistant professor of rural education there for one year before he joined our Faculty. During his last year at Cornell he was chairman of the division of education. In 1921-2, he was director of the rural school survey of New York, and the next year he directed an educational survey in Texas.

Professor Gentry, whom Dr. Works succeeds, was dean of the department of education at Connecticut when he was named acting president.

LEHIGH TRAIN DERAILED

Several Cornellians and Ithacans were among the passengers on the Lehigh Valley Star which was derailed at Newfield, nine miles from Ithaca, early in the morning of April 17. There were no serious injuries, although the engine and seven of the nine cars went off the rails when the train plunged into mud and clay covering the tracks as the result of a landslide. The slide occurred a few seconds before the engine reached the spot.

Among the passengers were Dean Albert R. Mann '04 of the College of Agriculture and Robert E. Treman '09, a member of the Cornellian Council executive board.

NAMED COUNSEL

Another Cornellian, Charles P. Butler '22 of Syracuse, has been added to the personnel of the State Government. Butler's appointment as counsel to the superintendent of insurance, Albert Conway, was announced recently. He attended the University of Vermont before he came to Cornell, where he took his LL.B. degree.

The resignation of Edward G. Griffin '10, personnel attorney to Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, has also been announced.

TWO GIFTS ARE MADE

Mr. and Mrs. Abraham S. Gilbert of New York have established a $5,000 fund for the assistance of students in the College of Engineering as a memorial to their son, Carl R. Gilbert '29, who died in November. Gilbert was a member of Zeta Beta Tau and came to Cornell from the Berkeley Irving Preparatory hSchool.

York, has given $1,000 for research in concrete. The work, which will be conducted by Professor Herbert H. Scofield '05, will involve among other factors a study of the effect of freezing upon concrete mixtures.

R. O. T. C. INSPECTED

Colonel J. J. Coffey, personal representative of Major General Hanson E. Ely, commandant of the United States Second Corps Area, visited the Cornell R. O. T. C. last week for the annual inspection. Last year General Ely personally inspected the unit.

BOOKS

Plum Bun

Plum Bun: a Novel Without a Moral. By Jessie Redmona Fauset '05. New York. 1929. 19.5 cm., pp. 379. Price, $2.50.

Miss Fauset, whose "There is Confusion," published in 1924, placed her well forward among the writers of her race, now gives us another story of the Northern negro.

"To market, to market, to buy a plum bun," to go out for the good things of life, and get them regardless of racial conditions and conventions; this was the philosophy of the heroine; how it worked in her case is the theme of the story.

A rather unusual family group furnishes the main characters of the story; Junius Murray, a negro, and his wife Mattie, also a negro but with a fair skin and chestnut hair; their two daughters, Angela, fair like the mother, and of unusual beauty, and Virginia, black like her father. This family, living in a negro quarter of Philadelphia a comfortable happy life, have seldom troubled themselves, when the story opens, over the race question. The young daughter Angela, however, though still a child, begins to dream of a life quite different from the simple hard-working existence of her parents. Very early, too, from her observations, she concludes that the broad bright ways filled with the niceties of living which she covets are enjoyed by white people and not by the folks of her own race.

"Colour or rather the lack of it seemed to the child the one absolute prerequisite to the life of which she was always dreaming."

Angela's mother had often amused herself by "passing." She and Angela would frequent fashionable shops and restaurants secretly enjoying the thought of the excitement that would arise if anyone should guess that they two, well dressed and attractive, were colored. However, as Angela grows older, she becomes bitter and unhappy, unable to endure the social stigma of her inheritance.

She finally breaks away, to seek happiness and live her own life free of these limitations. Confident and full of enthusiasm, she goes to New York and joins the art colony in Greenwich Village.

She finds life, indeed, and how she meets it makes a story that, while often shadowed by tragedy, yet is filled with courage and optimism.

In this book Jessie Fauset has made a notable contribution not only to the literature but also to the cause of her race

EZRA CORNELL HOTEL TO OPEN

Hoteldom's unique institution, The Ezra Cornell, student hotel-for-a-day, will hold its fourth annual opening this year Friday, May 3. Arthur C. Hunt '29 of Branchport is managing director.

The Ezra Cornell has the distinction of being the only hostelry which is operated for one day each year and the only one for which students make the plans, float the stock issue, and develop the clientele. The social center on the Campus, Willard Straight Hall, is transformed into a modern, complete hotel. The previous openings have won the commendation of many of the leaders of the hotel industry.

The program of the opening will offer all visitors an unequalled opportunity to gain definite information concerning the course in hotel administration. Charts showing the courses by subjects and exhibits of the texts, class-room reports, and laboratory work of those courses will be displayed in the library of The Ezra Cornell, and there will be guides throughout the day to take visitors to any of the many lectures and to the accounting, cooking, slaughtering, meat-cutting, and engineering laboratories.

A distinctive feature of the evening program will be the production of three original plays in the private theatre which is a part of the building of the Hotel Ezra Cornell. The theatre program will follow the formal banquet in the beautiful Gothic Memorial Hall and will precede a dance. Harold Van Orman, lieutenant governor of Indiana, will be the principal speaker at the dinner.

DR. WARREN '03 SPEAKER

Dr. George F. Warren '03, professor of agricultural economics in the College of Agriculture, was one of the speakers at the New York State-wide Economic Congress at New York April 15-17. His subject was "Probable Future Development of the Agricultural Industry and its Relation to Urban Industry." In part Dr. Warren said:

"New York agriculture is not decadent. The wise but all too slow abandonment of the inferior land gives the appearance of decadence. If all such land were planted to pine forests or other trees, the State would take at once on a wholly different appearance, even though no charge were made in the remaining farms.

"The legislation passed this winter will greatly stimulate the building of a lateral road system for the State. This is one of the most constructive measures that the State has made in many years for general State development. It will make markets available for many farmers who now find it too expensive to haul the necessary materials to and from the farm over mud roads.

OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

Members of the Syracuse chapter of Sigma Delta Chi were guests of the Cornell chapter at a dinner in Prudence Rislley Hall, at which the twentieth anniversary of the fraternity's founding was observed.

Speakers included Cameron M. Fisher '30 of New York, Professor Bristow Adams, R. Warren Sailor '07, Professor John O. Simmons of Syracuse, Lester Hardwick of Syracuse, and Don A. Johnson, director of the Empire State School of Printing at Ithaca. George S. Butts '25 gave a musical number.

The Cornell chapter was chartered in January, 1920.

PROFESSOR CLARIBEL NYE '14, of the Extension Department of the College of Home Economics, lectured at the Chamber of Commerce in Rochester on April 4. on various phases of modern family life.

PROFESSOR RALPH A. FELTON of the Department of Rural Sociology is speaking during the month of April in Broome and Chatauqua Counties in behalf of the county library project.

A SUGGESTION ON PROSELYTING

NO MORE serious situation has ever faced amateur athletics than the present one caused by proselyting. Forecasts of the report of a great educational foundation, long overdue, indicate that the report, if and when published, will show that the college world is undermined with paid athletes, particularly football players. The colleges are to be mentioned in secret code and not by name. The extent only, not the location, of the ailment is to be indicated.

If the material for athletic teams has become a purchasable commodity, it is obviously going to be difficult to prevent the practice. The student who is beyond temptation financially may easily give way by exchanging his athletic skill for his educational expenses. The negotiations are usually unofficial and confidential.

Apparently the present is not the time to embark on a program of procuring material in this manner. There seems to be nothing particularly unethical in the sending of an interesting boy to college if he is non-athletic, while custom has led us to believe that if he is an athlete the practice is outside the code. In this matter every college thinks itself above reproach but cheerfully admits that nearly every other college has soiled its hands. Both views are probably in part correct.

At Cornell it would be merely an interesting academic question if the longing for old-time clean sweeps were not in the back of many mature heads that wonder what has occurred. The wonderment has taken on complicated and delicate aspects, and the committee of alumni seem agreed that victory, if it is to return regularly, will not be purchased in this manner.

Yet the most devoted partisan of elsewhere would never regard Cornell with anxiety even if a thorough-going system of proselyting were instituted. There are two perfect safeguards. The insistence on the full entrance requirements of fifteen units with no substitutions is one, and the other is the necessity of sufficient academic success to keep away from busting and off probation.

These two fundamental requirements, from which an alert Faculty assures no deviation, insure against the purchase of the services of persons not fundamentally fitted for college education. There seems to be no rule against paying an athlete's expenses any more than the non-athlete's. This is no need of such a rule.

Probably the evil of the practice of sending young men to one's own college has not been carefully distinguished from the practice itself. The safeguard against playing mercenaries seems to lie so not much in the colleges prohibiting the athletic scholarship as in their insisting on scholarship as an integral part of the contract, at least on a parity with the athletic requirement.

The soiling of hands comes from debasing the educational standards oftener than from prostituting the athlete's abilities. We shall continue to hope that some of Cornell's scholarships will some day go to two-fisted brutes that weigh over two hundred pounds, and not always to women and weaklings.

MUSIC CHARMS A WRITER

How Cornellians of the combined Musical Clubs appear to a writer in a Harrisburg, Pa., newspaper is revealed in the following excerpt from his story on the arrival of the singers and musicians at Harrisburg on the Spring tour.

The story in part:

"I yell, I yell, Cornell'."

"Sixty members of the Cornell University Glee, Mandolin and Banjo clubs hopped off their two special Pullman cars at 9.15 o'clock this morning with bag and baggage and strange looking instrument cases in hand. Wide-eyed, this group of collegians trooped over to the Penn-Harris Hotel, where they are making their headquarters until tonight, when they are to appear in a concert at the William Penn High School, under the auspices of the Harrisburg Cornell Club.

"Yes, sir, the youngsters made the regulars at the Penn-Harris sit up and take notice when they rushed in with their derbies, spats, and natty, up-to-the-minute college suits, and more than one guest took more than one squint ere he realized what it was all about.

"The boys, besides two Pulmans, have one baggage car for their own use.

"Morris D. Van Patten, the youthful manager of the trip, couldn't think of one prank the boys pulled on April Fool's Day.

"They don't cut up as much this year as those of last year did when they were out on the trip," Van Patten said this morning."

GIVEN FELLOWSHIP

Frank C. Monaghan, Jr., '27, has been awarded an American Field Service fellowship carrying a stipend of $1,400 for advanced study in France by the Institute of International Education. Monaghan, now assistant editor of the Dictionary of American Biography, will complete a study of American social history as recorded by French travelers.

DR. ARTHUR F. COCA, professor of immunology in the Medical College, spoke in St. Louis on April 5 on "Hay Fever and Asthma," as a health speaker for the Squibbs organization. His speech was broadcast to all the principal radio stations.

The Week on the Campus

THE annual mystery which baffles our villagers in mid-April has been sprung. A full page of last Tuesday's Sun was occupied by virgin white space, save for the three small words in the center: "Go to Hell." On the following evening the populace, emerging from theater and lecture hall, discovered that stickers bearing the same distressing imperative in red block letters had been affixed to windshield and window. Most of the car owners stood in the rain removing the offending slogan but repeating its message aloud with variations. A considerable number of wags, however, left the paster intact, to the alarm of casual visitors to our city.

THE OUTRAGE was followed by a report in the Sun of the organization of a Committee for the Preservation of Public Morals in Ithaca, determined to track down the libertine offenders and to bring them before the bar of justice. The news report exuded falsity in every line, it must be said. On the following day the Sun published two letters protesting against such public profanity with humorous or advertising purpose. One of the letters was certainly genuine, the other certainly ironic.

THIS NEWS ITEM seems to us of value in the social history of our time. The young men responsible are seeking to arouse benevolent interest in their project, whatever it is. They cannot afford to awaken ill will. It does not occur to them that humor on the theme of the soul's damnation may be offensive to any considerable number of people. Hell is a humorous subject, as a travesty on the realms of Pluto might be. In short, they do not believe in hell, and they do not believe that anyone else can believe in hell. Don't you think this is an interesting revelation of the undergraduate mind? Do you think that you could have had such a manifestation in your time?

BUT WE MUST ABANDON such tempting subjects of speculation in favor of the chronicle of fact.

THE DRIVE for contributions to the Endowment Fund from the senior class has been under way for the past week. The goal was set for a pledge of $100,000; at last reports $82,215 was recorded. Last year the goal was fixed at $150,000, and a trifle less than $100,000 was received. The contributions of seniors have been diminishing from year to year. The reason? No doubt that the great hue and cry about the distress of the university has died down; the Feed the Profs campaigns are discounted; the Faculty refuses to beg alms of its students. No doubt also the increase of tuition charges to $400 a year convinces the students that they are pretty nearly paying their way, and they are less susceptible to the appeal of charity. Well, here is no cause for grief, to beat the breast, and anger, and contempt.

THIS is the period of annual functions. Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, celebrated the twentieth anniversary of its founding and the ninth year of its existence in Cornell. The principal address of the evening was made by Don A. Johnson, director of the Empire State School of Printing, who forecast the revolution in newspaper printing to be brought about by the introduction of the teletypesetter.

THE R. O. T. C. submitted to its annual inspection at the hands of Colonel J. J. Coffey, U. S. Army officer of the Second Corps area.

THE BEAUX ARTS BALL, the annual function of the architects and their friends, was held in Willard Straight Hall Friday. The period was the Dutch Renaissance, the hall was appropriately adorned, dancers whose costumes were historically incorrect were rigorously excluded, or, at least, the purists of the committee insisted in advance that such action would be taken. As a result the function was not only brilliantly colorful, but, in the appropriate setting of Memorial Hall, gave a genuine illusion of its period.

THE THUMB TACK CLUB, composed of the artists of the community, is now holding its annual exhibition in the Morse Hall galleries. The show gives one a striking impression of the quantity and quality of artistic creative work being produced in our community. It will remain on display until May 8.

THE WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB gave its annual concert on Wednesday, and made an excellent showing. The soloists were Miss Edna Thomas, who was accompanied by Miss Gertrude Nye, warden of Prudence Risley Hall, and Misses Elizabeth M. Love '32 and Margaret Wilkinson '32.

THE WOMEN STUDENTS held their annual junior christening in the University Theater Tuesday. Miss E. M. Eckert '32, president of the freshman class, was baptized by the juniors.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB put on three one-acters for the weekend: "The Monkey's Paw," "Station YYYY," and "The Albany Depot." The work of David Kaplan '31 and Jacob Blinkoff '31 especially pleased the critics.

FOR THE RECORD: Professor William F. Durand of Stanford spoke on April 15 on "Limitations in Performance of Airplanes as Regards Speed, Duration of Flight, Distance, and Altitude." Professor Samuel C. Prescott of M. I. T. lectured on April 17 on "The World's Food Supply." Professor Wilhelm Meyer-Luebke of the University of Bonn on April 17 dealt with "The History of Language and the History of Civilization." Frank B. Riley on April 21 treated "The Lure of the Great Northwest" at the Willard Straight Sunday Evening Hour.

JOSEPH LAUTNER of the Ithaca Conservatory of Music gave a recital of songs in Willard Straight Hall on Sunday afternoon.

A DREDGE is now rising on the waters of Beebe Lake, like Hadrian's galleys on Lake Nemi. Two large steel barges will carry a mud drill and pump, which will force the silt from the lower part of the lake through a pipe line floating on steel barrels. These effluxions will then flow over the dam when the volume of water is sufficient to carry them to their proper bourne in the valley. The rocks and gravel at the upper end of the lake will be scooped out and either deposited on shore or will be used to form an island in the center of the lake. It is hoped that part of the lake bottom will be graveled to form a swimming beach. Thus even Nature goes on getting better hereabouts.

THE FRESHMAN BANQUET passed off very quietly. Perhaps this shows that there is actually some growth of the brain between the freshman and sophomore years. At any rate, the sophomores treated the freshman gathering with oblivious scorn. Only a few trouble-makers appeared, and there was some desultory stripping. Foster M. Coffin '12, who in his official capacity sees all these battles, remarks that this new custom of stripping has reached a high pitch of efficiency. A stripping squad can seize a victim completely dressed and with over coat buttoned, and reduce his garments to zero in fourteen seconds flat.

'15 PLANS REUNION

Fifteen members of the Class of '15 met for dinner at the Cornell Club of New York April 15, to discuss plans for their Fifteenth reunion in Ithaca in 1930. The recurrence of the figure 15 which has been given added luster by the class, was considered by those present as a favorable omen.

The group was assembled on short notice to meet with Matthew Carey of Flint, Michigan, who has been appointed reunion chairman by Charles L. Speiden. Robert Mochrie of Philadelphia and George F. Healy of Flint, were the other out of town guests present.

The class will return to Ithaca in June of this year for a "trial heat" under the Dix Plan with the classes of '12, '13 and '14.

LEAVES GRANTED

Leaves of absence have been granted by the Trustees to Professor Paul R. Pope of the Department of German and Professor Thomas R. Briggs '09 of the Department of Chemistry. Extension of leave has also been granted to Dr. Alva Gwin, assistant medical adviser of women, to enable her to attend medical clinics in Vienna, Austria.

Miss Gussie Gaskill, '19-20 Grad., of the Library staff has been given leave for the academic year 1929-30 to purchase and assemble Chinese books and periodicals in the interest of the Wason Chinese Collection established by Charles W. Wason '76, who died in 1918.

Two Men—One Soul

Here is an indisputable Truth.

The man at sixty is entirely different from what he was himself at twenty-five—different in thoughts, habits, ambitions and responsibilities, to say nothing of physical equipment. The body may be the same but the MAN is DIFFERENT.

At sixty you, Mr. Young Man, will seek rest, the opportunity to indulge a hobby. And, unless you prepare for that eventuality, you will be an UNHAPPY OLD MAN.

Are Your Books Identified?

What Service Should We Render to the Alumni?

We are mailing many items now and these, in many cases, were suggested to us. The latest item is bookplates. Some time in the future our Board of Directors may develop a better plan of cooperation with the Alumni. What would you suggest?
