UNIVERSITY TRAINS NAVAL OFFICERS

By Raymond F. Howes '24

Last week the Navy Department officially designated Cornell as an approved officer-training center under the new V-1 program; twenty-seven additional ensigns in the US Naval Reserve arrived at the College of Engineering for instruction in the theory and operation of Diesel engines; and President Edmund E. Day announced that after May 25 women would no longer live in Sage College but that building would be used to quarter the 200 or more ensigns who will be constantly in residence. These three events, coming in rapid succession, emphasized the fact that Cornell is now an important training school for the Navy and indicate that it will become increasingly important as the war goes on.

To Enroll Underclassmen

Establishment of the V-1 program, as announced by Dean Cornelius Betten, PhD '06, of the University Faculty, was made possible by adoption of certain academic readjustments in Freshman and Sophomore requirements by the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Agriculture, Architecture, and Engineering and the Department of Hotel Administration, and by the cooperation of the Departments of Military Science and Tactics and Physical Education and Athletics. Freshmen and Sophomores from seventeen to nineteen may now enlist in the US Naval Reserve, take accepted courses during their first two years, and at the end of that time qualify, through special examinations, for transfer to V-7 or one of the several V(s) programs which allow them to complete their work for a baccalaureate degree before being called into active service, or to Naval aviation training under the V-5 program. In the event that they do not meet the requirements for further officer training, they may be called to active duty as enlisted men.

This is the eighth in our series on Cornell and World War II. That the Navy enjoys a cordial welcome on the Campus is well shown in our cover picture. Later articles in this series will show how the several divisions of the University not yet touched upon are adjusting themselves to contribute to America's war effort.

Colleges Adjust Courses

The purpose of V-1 is to give similar basic training and qualifying tests to all students in approved colleges who desire to obtain commissions in the various branches of the Naval Reserve. Uniform curricula, with six hours each of English, chemistry, physics, and mathematics (including plane trigonometry), basic military training as now required for Cornell Freshmen and Sophomores, and four hours a week of physical education for one credit hour a term have been set up in Arts, Agriculture, Architecture, and Hotel. The present curricula in the College of Engineering have been approved without change except for the addition of the one credit-hour of physical training each term.

V-1 has now become a prerequisite for entrance to such Naval Reserve officer-training programs as V-7 and V(S). Previously, students might apply directly for V-7 (deck and engineer officer) and V(P) and V(S) (special technical officer in any one of a variety of branches) in the Junior or Senior year. Now all will enlist first under V-1, and in March of the Sophomore year will be given a comprehensive examination prepared by the Navy, will be examined again for physical fitness, and will be tested for officer-like qualities before the Navy accepts them for further officer training at the University or calls them immediately to active duty as V-5 candidates or as enlisted men.

Many Get Commissions

Cornell has been cooperating with the Navy for more than a year in training officers. Last June, thirty-nine Seniors in Engineering received commissions as ensigns and were called to active duty on graduation. Twelve members of the present Senior Class hold similar commissions under the V(S) program, and sixty-eight additional Juniors and Seniors in Engineering, Architecture, Physics, and Chemistry have fulfilled preliminary requirements and expect to receive commissions before the end of the term. Fourteen students in Hotel Administration and two in Arts and Sciences have similarly applied for commissions in the special V(S) program for the Naval Supply Corps, and forty-seven additional students from various Colleges of the University are enrolled for further training in V-7.

Former Navy Men Teach

During the current year, the University has been offering special courses in Mathematics and Astronomy for men enrolled as candidates for commissions in the Navy, and several present and former Naval officers on the Faculty have organized a non-credit preparatory course in Naval traditions, which has an enrollment of fifty of these prospective officers. Originated by Lieutenant Arthur S. Adams, USN, Assistant Dean of the College of Engineering, and Professor Alexander D. Seymour, Architecture, a former Naval Reserve officer, the course is taught by Professor Seymour; Professor Harry J. Loberg '29, Engineering, a former student at Annapolis; Lieutenant H. A. Marcoux, USN, on active duty at Cornell as an instructor in the Diesel engine course; and Professor P. Paul Kellogg '29, Ornithology, who is an experienced aerial navigator. They give instruction on Naval traditions, elementary gunnery, internal-combustion engines, seamanship, and navigation. This course is expected to continue, serving men chosen for further training at Cornell after their basic work in V-1.

How many students have left the University for the Navy cannot be accurately determined, but fifteen are known to have gone into Naval Aviation and six into other branches of the Navy after receiving basic instruction in the Civilian Pilot Training program here. The Marine Corps has enrolled as candidates for officer training after graduation eight Seniors, five Juniors, fifteen Sophomores, and twelve Freshmen. The Coast Guard, which takes Seniors under a similar plan, has had preliminary interviews with 122.

Prepare Engineer Officers

Cornell has been giving Diesel engine instruction to commissioned officers in the Naval Reserve for a year. The first group of forty-seven, recruited from colleges in all parts of the country, came to the Campus last spring under a special arrangement with the Navy and the US Office of Education. Since then, 137 ensigns have been graduated from the sixteen-week, full-time courses and are now in active service on patrol vessels with the fleet; and three groups totalling seventy-nine are now in residence. New details will be assigned here until the enlarged quota of 200 is reached early in the summer.

The course is directed by Lieutenant Adams, with instruction given by Lieutenant Marcoux, Professors Lawrence A. Burckmyer, Jr. '25, Walter W. Cotner '28, Howard N. Fairchild '28, Warren E. Hook '08, Joseph O. Jeffrey, Wilbur E. Meserve, PhD '33, and Miles G. Northrop '22; and Instructors Samuel K. Wolcott, Jr. '34, Louis L. Otto '33, R. J. King, E. B. Watson, L. B. Conta, F. F. Erdman, G. M. Robertson, B. J. Conta, J. C. Hutton, and Harte Cooke, noted Diesel engineer of American Locomotive Co. The ensigns spend one day a week in the Auburn shops of American Locomotive.

Since the first Navy contingent arrived, facilities for their instruction in the College of Engineering have been greatly improved. Four Diesel engines have been installed in the Mechanical Engineering Laboratory, which has been enlarged to accommodate them. A number of used automobile and marine engines have also been obtained for preliminary training. The officers learn the theory of internal combustion engines through lectures; practice tearing down, assembling, and repairing the small gasoline engines; and then work on a series of marine Diesels similar to those actually used by the Navy on patrol craft.

New classrooms have been provided on the second floor of the West Mechanical Laboratory and in the Engineering Laboratory Annex, a remodelled building behind Franklin Hall. Within a few weeks, additional classrooms will be used in Olin Hall.

To Occupy Sage College

The ensigns who have come to Ithaca thus far have been quartered in University-owned houses on University Avenue, Stewart Avenue, Reservoir Avenue, and The Circle. Moving them all to Sage Dormitory will make living arrangements much more convenient, with the dining room converted to a mess hall where all the officers will take their meals. The dormitory is also adjacent to the classrooms in Olin Hall, where as much as possible of the instruction will be concentrated. The new arrangements will give room for a total of 450 officers if the Navy continues to increase Cornell's quota, as it has in the past.

The women have voiced no protests at giving up Sage and being assigned rooms across Fall Creek. Increasingly popular at sorority parties and other Campus affairs, the ensigns have contributed to the social life of the University as well as to its educational program for wartime service.

STATE COLLEGE ELECTS

Cornell Club of State College, Pa., had fifty-one persons at its annual meeting April 18. They enjoyed motion pictures of the University. Professor Merwin W. Humphrey '25 of the forestry department, Pennsylvania State College, was elected president of the Club; Professor Braten R. Gardner '15 of the journalism department, vice-president; and Mrs. Vernon R. Haber (Julia Moesel) '16, secretary-treasurer.

NAME "FAIRCHILD CORNELL"

Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp., of which J. Carlton Ward, Jr. '14 is president, has named its newly designed primary trainer plane the "Fairchild Cornell." The company advertises that the name is "for Cornell of the Big Red Team. It joins the thin red line of heroes of whom Winston Churchill said, 'never did so many owe so much to so few'."

The Fairchild Cornell, low-wing monoplane powered with 200-horsepower, will be manufactured in Canada under license, for training pilots of the Royal Air Force and RCAF. It is said that "thousands of these planes, which are the PT-19 in the US Air Corps, will play their part in developing the largest air armada in the world."

About ATHLETICS

CREWS DO WELL

The Varsity crew missed victory by four-fifths of a second in the Rowe Cup regatta on the Charles River at Cambridge, Mass., last Saturday, as Harvard spurred for a deck-length advantage at the finish of the mile and five-sixteenths Henley course. Syracuse, MIT, and Boston University trailed. The victory enabled Harvard to retain the trophy, awarded on a point basis for varsity, junior varsity, and freshman races, for the sixth successive year. Harvard scored 21 points, Cornell 18, Syracuse 5, MIT 2, and Boston none.

Cornell won the junior varsity race over Harvard by three-quarters of a length, and Harvard defeated Cornell by a quarter-length in the freshman race. The order of finish and times:

Varsity: Harvard, 6:55; Cornell, 6:55.8; Syracuse, 7:09; MIT, 7:11.3; Boston, 7:28.

Junior Varsity: Cornell, 7:05.8; Harvard, 7:08.8; Syracuse, 7:23; and MIT, 7:25.

Freshman: Harvard, 6:56; Cornell, 6:57; MIT, 7:14; Boston (time not taken).

In the Varsity race, Cornell jumped into the lead at the start and, settling down to a 31 beat, was three-quarters of a length ahead at the mile. Harvard raised its stroke and gradually cut down the deficit, Cornell going up to 36. Harvard's final sprint was at 42 strokes per minute.

The boatings:

Varsity: Bow, Ormond M. Hessler '42; 2, Mario Cuniberti '42; 3, Allen Webster '44; 4, Henry A. Parker '44; 5, Robert O. Gundlach '42; 6, William W. Paty, Jr. '42; 7, Commodore John G. Aldworth '42; stroke, William W. Dickhart '44; coxswain, Fred H. Guterman '42.

Junior Varsity: Bow, Theodore J. Beyer '44; 2, Donald E. Kastner '43; 3, Carl D. Arnold '43; 4, Hope T. M. Ritter '43; 5, James A. Purdy '45; 6, DuBois L. Jenkins '43; 7, Jack C. Hobbes '44; stroke, Richard O. Jones '44; coxswain, Arthur R. Jones III '43.

Freshman: Bow, Ward C. Campbell; 2, Donald Worthington, Jr.; 3, William G. Doe; 4, John L. Phelps; 5, Wilbur O. Gundlach; 6, Curtis B. Morehouse; 7, Roy E. Hughes; stroke, Pedro C. Towers; coxswain, Stoddard H. Knowles, Jr.

Over a mile course on Cayuga Inlet Saturday, the Cornell 150-pound crew defeated Rutgers by three and one-half lengths, timed in 5:17 to 5:30 for the visitors.

The second Freshman crew defeated Lafayette High School of Buffalo by two and one-half lengths in 5:07. The school-boys were timed in 5:17. On Friday, in a challenge race, the school eight lost to the Freshman 150-pounders on the same course. Cornell was timed in 5:15, Lafayette 5:27.

CORNELL 6, PRINCETON 5

The baseball team did its part to make Spring Day a success when it beat Princeton, 6-5, on Hoy Field Saturday afternoon. With the score 5-5 and one out in the last half of the ninth inning, Louis C. Bufalino '42, left fielder, hit a double down the left field foul line to score Samuel W. Hunter '43 from first base. This was Cornell's first win of two League games played. A non-League game on Hoy Field April 22, Cornell lost to Colgate, 2-6. League standings at the week's end:

	W	L	PC
Dartmouth	2	1	.667
Princeton	2	1	.667
Columbia	3	3	.500
Harvard	2	2	.500
Cornell	1	1	.500
Pennsylvania	2	3	.400
Yale	1	2	.333

The Princeton game was close all the way. Cornell scored single runs in the second and third innings and was ahead, 4-1, when a three-run homer over the right field fence, hit by McCarthy, first baseman, tied the score for Princeton in the seventh inning.

Cornell returned to the lead with one run in the last of the seventh. Both teams were retired in order in the eighth, but Princeton tied the score again in its half of the ninth. Talcott, a pitcher, was sent in as a pinch hitter. He drove a grounder at Ronald E. Stillman '43, shortstop. Stillman threw the ball over first base for a two-base error. Talcott was sacrificed to third and scored on a double by Alex Williams, Princeton left fielder.

Talcott, one of the League's leading pitchers, replaced Eide for the visitors. Captain Robert C. Ochs '42, center fielder, first up, lifted an easy fly to Perina at shortstop. Hunter, however, worked Talcott for a base on balls. Then Bufalino cracked the game-winning hit, the ball landing just back of third base and close to the foul line. Bufalino pulled up at second as Hunter crossed the plate.

Talcott was charged with the loss, and Leo Hamalian '42, who pitched only to two batters in the ninth inning, was credited with the victory. Raymond Jenkins '42 pitched well the first 8½ innings, allowing eight scattered hits and giving only one base on balls, but he was taken out after Williams hit the double to score Talcott with the tying run in the ninth. The box score:

PENNSYLVANIA RELAYS

Third place of three teams in the 480-yard shuttle hurdles was the best showing for Cornell's track team at the Pennsylvania Relay games at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, last Friday and Saturday. The hurdlers had to run the final twice. Virginia won the first attempt, with Yale second and Cornell third. Yale's protest over a misplaced hurdle was granted, and Yale won the re-run in 1:01.5, with Virginia second and Cornell third. Lyman W. Warfield '43, James W. Hart '42, Charles F. TO BROADCAST PROGRAM For Reunion Meetings

Alumni Reunions this year may be enjoyed by many more Cornellians than ever before, although it is expected that the number of persons who come to Ithaca will be greatly reduced because of the war.

To take Cornell to alumni wherever they may be, a national broadcast has been arranged from Bailey Hall May 23 over the Blue Network of the National Broadcasting Co. This Bailey Hall meeting will have the theme, "An American University at War," with addresses by President Edmund E. Day and by Dr. Hu Shih '14, Chinese Ambassador to the United States. The Radio Guild will briefly dramatize some of the University's war activities, the Glee Club will sing, and part of the half-hour program will come from an alumni dinner at the Hotel Astor in New York City, where there will be talks by prominent Cornellians and songs by Arthur L. Kent '28 and Dorothy B. Sarnoff '35.

This plan of Reunions follows recommendations of the Association of Class Secretaries at its winter meeting, when it was recognized that because of the war the usual numbers could not be expected at Class Reunions in Ithaca this year. The University's accelerated program of instruction will keep many students here right through Commencement May 25, putting housing and eating accommodations at a premium. Furthermore, the war activities of alumni and restrictions on travel will prevent many of the regular Reunion Classes from attending.

The alternative of a modest celebration at Ithaca, with a Reunion broadcast and regional meetings of Classes and Cornell Clubs was therefore devised, with suggestion that alumni invest what they save in cost of travel to Ithaca in war stamps and bonds and give them to the University's Alumni Fund this year.

For those who do come to Ithaca, Reunion events will be mostly condensed to Saturday, May 23, and Sunday, with Commencement May 25. Saturday will bring meetings of the Alumni Fund executive committee, the Association of Class Secretaries, directors of the Alumni Association, and the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs. Buffet luncheon will be served for alumni in Willard Straight Memorial Room, and the five-year Classes who muster their members here will hold Class dinners that evening. Saturday night will be the annual meeting of the Alumni Association in Bailey Hall, with the broadcast to other Reunion gatherings.

Sunday morning, May 24, Mortar Board, Sphinx Head, and Quill and Dagger have scheduled their usual Reunion breakfasts, and an alumni memorial service is planned. The Rev. George A. Buttrick of Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York City, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon in Bailey Hall Sunday afternoon, with Class Day and Senior and alumni singing to follow on the Goldwin Smith portico. Commencement is in Barton Hall at eleven, May 25; the baseball team plays Dartmouth on Hoy Field that afternoon.

Largest of the Reunion parties away from Ithaca is the all-Cornell dinner at the Hotel Astor, New York City, May 23. Plans are being made to accommodate 1,500 alumni of the Metropolitan District, with Reunion Classes having their own gatherings before the dinner. General chairman of this event is Robert B. Brown, Class secretary of '27, and his committee includes representatives of all other Reunion Classes.

HAVE GIRLS AT TEA

Eleven members of the Cornell Women's Club of Bergen County, N. J., entertained nine high school girls and their mothers at a tea April 18 at the home of Mrs. Raphael Rosenberg (Charlotte Levine) '36 in Teaneck. Motion pictures of the Campus were shown, a question and answer session was directed by Dorothea M. B. Vermorel '36, and recordings of the Chimes and Glee Club were played. Mrs. Reginald S. Paulson (Kathryn Davidson) '26 and Mrs. Francis P. McCormick (Mildred Aeschbach) '22 assisted Mrs. Rosenberg and Miss Vermorel with arrangements.

PRESS MAKES AWARD

Cornell University Press has announced that Professor Howard B. Adelman '20, Histology and Embryology, is the winner of the F. S. Crofts Award for the most distinguished work by a Cornell graduate or staff member accepted by the Press in the year ended last February 15. The Award was announced last year, the gift of Frederick S. Crofts '05, president of F. S. Crofts & Co., book publishers in New York City, and a director of the University Press. The jury had sixteen eligible manuscripts to consider.

Dr. Adelman received the AB in 1920, the AM two years later, and the PhD in 1924. He became instructor in Histology and Embryology in 1921, assistant professor in 1925, professor in 1937. His work is described as "a compendious edition of the embryological treatises of Hieronymus Fabricius, sixteenth-century Italian anatomist. It includes an English translation, the first in any modern language, of the Latin text, a life of the author, a short history of embryology, an analytical commentary, and a bibliography. The book, running to about 900 pages large octavo, will reproduce in facsimile 251 pages of the original folio edition—the Latin text and forty-one plates of anatomical drawings which were made and engraved so skillfully that their value for anatomists has never diminished." It will be published this summer.

SENIOR SOCIETIES ELECT Next Year's Chapters

Senior societies advanced their bidding this year from the traditional first Tuesday in May, to accord with the earlier date of Commencement. The Sun announced April 22 election of twenty-three members of the Junior Class by Sphinx Head and thirty-two by Quill and Dagger. Of this total of fifty-five who will comprise the two societies next fall, twenty-one are the sons of alumni. The new members are:

Sphinx Head

Fred J. Anderson, New Rochelle; Administrative Engineering; tennis manager, Varsity cheerleader; Phi Gamma Delta.

Jerome A. Batt, Buffalo; Hotel; hockey co-captain, baseball; Lambda Chi Alpha.

NOW, IN MY TIME!

By Romeyn Berry

Sage College will shortly be given over to the youthful Naval officers stationed at Cornell to learn the mysteries of the Diesel engine. The young women, who have occupied it since the early 1870's, will be moved en masse to Cornell Heights, that narrow strip of land bordering Fall Creek on the north which now contains Balch Hall, Prudence Risley, Comstock House, and most of the sorority houses.

This move is expected to be a permanent one. Sage College is tagged to be torn down to make room for new Engineering buildings. Lodgings for the evacuated young women will be found in houses of the Cornell Heights section now owned by the University and rented to professors. I don't know what is to become of the professors. Neither do the professors. But nobody seems to mind much, least of all the girls.

Nobody seems to mind anything much any more! In my time this thing would have stirred a tremendous emotional outpouring. A half dozen sentimental ballads would have been well along in construction by now at the hands of as many undergraduate bards with low boiling points. For most of them, "Evangeline" would have supplied the metrical guide, the enforced flitting of the Arcadians out of Nova Scotia, the motif. But students don't seem to go in for balladry any more. They'd be more apt, in the present crisis, to turn out an excellent term paper on the probable effect of this sudden shift in population on real estate values in the Cornell Heights section. College students seem to have changed fully that much in forty years!

Nor is the matter of real estate values to be ignored, least of all by your reporter who is now, and for twenty years has been, the owner of a dwelling house in the section affected. You can't crowd 200 more girls into an area already fully occupied without doing something to real estate values. But we can't figure out just what. It looks as if we'd have to hunt up one of these undergraduates who can't write ballads to tell us.

Our place is no more than a drive and a pitch to the Triphammer Bridge, a mashie shot to the home green at the Ithaca Country Club. Already it is surrounded like Switzerland by sorority houses, dormitories, and holdings of Cornell University. Off-hand, you might think that this new influx of women students, on top of all the rest, might create a demand for our place as a tea shop or a beauty parlor? But that's the sort of thing we were never any good at figuring out. We'd do much better, probably, turning out another "Old Ironsides" calculated to make even Kappa Alphas cry over the idea of yielding Sage College to the junk man, one brick at a time.

VITAMINS TO CHINA

Gift of crystalline vitamins, sent as a Christmas present in 1940 to Tung Shen, PhD '39, at Tsinghua University in Kunming, China, to assist in his research toward improving the nutrition of Chinese soldiers, travelled the Burma Road and has now reached its destination.

Dr. Tung acknowledged receipt of the gift March 3, 1942. In a letter to Professor Clive M. McCay, Animal Nutrition, he writes: "Through the kindness of Dr. Basil Wang of Chinese Red Cross, an England-trained surgeon whose friendship I acquired when I worked in the Red Cross, I got the package of vitamins in good condition. Dr. Wang had traced it along the Burma Road and brought it to Kunming. Yet I am sorry to learn that one truck in his convoy had an accident and wrecked on the road.

"I hurry to write this brief note, wishing you to know that I am overwhelmed by the happiness of having the gift from Cornell finally come to me. I have been longing for the vitamins for many months already, and was somewhat disappointed last summer when I went to Kwei-yang, planning to fetch it and work on the nutritional 'dysentery' problem with soldiers about which I wrote Professor Maynard last summer. Now I get the vitamins finally, and am glad to find that there are many members of Vitamin B family and plenty of Vitamin C which will prove to be most useful in the work on Chinese soldiers. And the pamphlets on vitamins I received ahead of the crystals are so useful.

"To me comes not only the package of vitamins which will help me very much in my work you so encourage, but also the warmth of friendship and sympathy from U.S.A. for China, which the wicked Japanese militarists can not sever or seize."

The package, about the size of a two-pound candy box, contained enough vitamins for a year's experiments with sixteen men. Tung had been a student of McCay's, and knowing of his work for the Chinese National army, other students headed by Walter L. Nelson, Grad, of Norwich and Peng Cheng Hsu, MSA '32, of Foochow, China, collected funds and with Dr. McCay's help purchased the crystals and shipped them through a Chinese relief agency.

CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS

YOU MAY BE ASKED

About the time you get this issue, approximately one-third of our subscribers will also receive a brief printed blank asking for answers to questions about yourself, your family, your business and community activities. We are "sampling" our subscribers at random, so you may or may not get a census blank. If one does come to you, it is important to the continued improvement of your ALUMNI NEWS that you check it through promptly and mail it back to us in the postpaid envelope that accompanies it.

Your ALUMNI NEWS has joined with the alumni publications of Columbia, Dartmouth, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Princeton, and Yale in the Ivy League Alumni Magazines, for sale of preferred national advertising. A total of 67,000 subscribers are the most interested alumni of these seven colleges and universities. Advertisers are interested, but they have asked for statistics on your occupations, where you live, number and ages of your children, family recreation and hobbies, and what products you use. This information will be tabulated from your replies, to show reputable advertisers that it is worth while to use the magazine you read most eagerly.

Your name is not asked in our census; answers are entirely anonymous and will be used only statistically. But they are important, since increased revenue from our advertising will bring direct results in more pages in the NEWS, more pictures, better reporting, and more of Cornell to more Cornellians every week.

When the Cornell results are in, we'll report them. And any advertiser-reader who wants the statistics on Ivy League or Cornell subscribers will get them in detail for the asking.

Thanks for your interest and help.

teams, Cornell, Xavier of New Orleans, and Duke, had the same time: 1:28.4. In a draw for the places, Cornell lost.

The 440-yard relay team of Shaw, Warfield, Moore, and Charles W. Pressler '44 placed second in a heat but did not qualify for the final. The sprint medley relay team of Bowne (440 yards), Paul J. Robinson '43 and Rogers (220 yards each), and Granger (880 yards) finished seventh in the first section. The distance medley team of Smith (440 yards), Zeigler (880 yards), Beck (three-quarters of a mile), and Kelsey (mile) finished seventh and last.

In individual events, Shaw placed fourth in the final of the invitation 100-yard sprint after being timed in 0:09.9 in winning his heat. Dye placed fourth in the forty-meter hurdles, and Warfield fifth in the 120-yard high hurdles. Kandl placed ninth in the two-mile run.

LACROSSE TEAM LOSES

The lacrosse team lost to Hobart, 11-13, on Alumni Field Friday afternoon, bowing in the final period after having held a one-goal lead after a high-scoring first quarter.

Cornell took the lead, 6-5, in the opening period and each team scored twice in the second and once in the third periods. Then Hobart put on a rally for 5 goals in the closing quarter, with Yates, outside home, scoring the winning goal five minutes before the end. Seth J. Campbell '44, outside home, scored 3 goals, and Captain Gordon H. Hines '42, Robert A. Moore '43, and Robert B. Snyder '42, two each.

The Freshman team defeated Hobart, 11-5, on Alumni Field Saturday.

GOLF TEAM WINS

The golf team won two victories last week, defeating Syracuse, 7-2, April 22 and Colgate, 9-0, April 24. Both matches were played on the University golf course. It was Cornell's second victory this season over Colgate and its third in four matches. Singles victories in both matches were scored by Clarence H. Hutt '44 and John B. Hutchings '45. Irving R. Mitchell '43 and Paul R. Thomas '42 each turned in one victory and one tie.

The Freshman golf team lost to Colgate, 2-7, Friday over its home course.

TENNIS BREAKS EVEN

The tennis team broke even in two matches on the Cascadilla Courts, losing to the University of Miami, Fla., 1-8, Friday and defeating Penn State, 7-2, Saturday.

Only Cornell winners in the Miami match was the doubles team of James A. Stein '44 and Leon C. Sunstein, Jr. '43. They defeated Garber and Stoddard, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Stein and Sunstein also won in doubles against Penn State and each took a singles match. Other singles winners were John E. Slater, Jr. '43, William J. Shaughnessy '42, and John R. Dingle '42. The doubles team of Richard I. Fricke '43 and Gordon B. Blatz '43 also won.

RUGBY TEAM WINS

The Rugby team defeated Long Island University, 14-0, on Alumni Field Saturday. Herbert G. Lytle, Jr. '44 scored two tries, and Peter J. Sundheim, Jr. '43 and Henry A. Supplee '42 converted kicks.

ON THE CAMPUS AND DOWN THE HILL

FRESHMAN CAPS were not burned this spring, as has been the long-standing tradition. Instead, the governing board of the Class voted to ask all Freshmen to turn in their grey gaberdine "dinks" with the red buttons, and they will be given to the Red Cross to be reclaimed for quilts and clothing.

STUDENT WAR COUNCIL, eager to assist in the shortage of farm labor, called a conference in Albany by telegraph inviting colleges in New York State to send representatives last Saturday to discuss the matter. But first the Student Council refused to appropriate money for expenses, and then the Faculty committee on student activities forbade the Cornell delegates to go because no permission had been asked. So there was no conference.

WOODFORD PRIZE in Oratory was won for its seventy-second year by Lawrence A. Konovitz '42 of New York City. Speaking with four other Senior contestants in Willard Straight Memorial Room April 22, the winner's subject was "The Hope for Future Peace."

FIRST CLASS of twenty-two Army ordnance inspectors trained at the College of Engineering finished their twelve-week course April 17. Fifty-five more, selected by the Rochester Ordnance District offices from Civil Service examinations, had arrived Monday. Their training is supervised by Professor Seymour S. Garrett '04.

SPRING DAY did not interfere with the third New York State Scientific Conference, for which twelve colleges sent student delegates to the University April 24 and 25. They reported on their research in the several sciences, with Professor Samuel L. Leonard, Zoology, as special lecturer. General chairman of the Conference was Robert C. Goldstein '42 of Kew Gardens.

RECONSTRUCTION BALL, the proceeds to be used for treatment of infantile paralysis victims, attracted some 600 couples to the Old Armory April 17. General chairman again, as for several years, was Amos A. Barns '11.

SCHOLARSHIP PLAQUE of Mortar Board was presented at a WSGA meeting in Bailey Hall April 21 to Jean F. Lewinson '43 of White Plains, whose average of 93 was the highest of any woman in the University. Beatrice G. Gottlieb '45 of New York City was runner-up, with 91.75. Corsages were given to the highest women in each College: Miss Lewinson in Arts; Beatrice D. Mead '42 of Amityville, Engineering, 77.41; Gertrude I. Huntington '44 of Ithaca, Agriculture,

"LUMBER-JACKS" and their "Lumber-Jeans" frolicked at a "Northwoods Carnival" in two tents behind the Crescent for Spring Day, Saturday afternoon. Fraternity houseparties brought almost the usual number of out-of-town guests; the spring concert of the men's and women's Glee Clubs in Bailey Hall Friday night was well attended, and 2,000 couples were reported at the Navy Ball in Barton Hall. The Dramatic Club outdid itself with two performances of its original musical comedy, "Headin' for Havana;" The Widow published a pink-covered "Pollute Gazette" for Spring Day; the sun shone warmly, and everybody had a good time!

90.05; Elizabeth A. Kandiko '44 of Ancram, Home Economics, 89.12; Ann H. Gott '45 of Pittsford, Veterinary, 80; Mary R. Wright '45 of Herkimer, Hotel Administration, 87.38; and Marissa Colombo '46 of New York City, Architecture, 85.75.

RELIC of an earlier day, the old covered bridge at Newfield, will be strengthened and partially rebuilt this summer. It was announced recently that the bridge would be torn down, but a petition signed by 240 persons has resulted in decision to preserve it.

CHINESE STUDENTS' CLUB invited twenty Chinese students from MIT and several from other nearby colleges to spend a week end at Cornell. They were lodged in Willard Straight Hall, were guests at an all-Chinese dance and a Sunday afternoon picnic. President of the Club here is Martin C. Yang, Grad, of Tsingtao.

AMERICAN SOCIETY of Chemical Engineers, Cornell chapter, has elected as its president Phillip H. Permar '42 of Pittsburgh, Pa. David L. Caldwell '42 of New York City is business manager, and John A. Newman '43 of Shaker Heights, Ohio, is treasurer.

ROMEYN BERRY '04 and Mrs. Berry (Hester Bancroft) '22 have announced the engagement of his daughter, Ruth S. Berry, to Ensign William N. McDonald III '35, USNR. Miss Berry, graduate of Wells College and the School of International Studies in Geneva, Switzerland, is editor of the Classics Club Library published by Walter J. Black, New York City. McDonald has been recently with the Puerto Rican News Bureau in San Juan.

SAGE CHAPEL PREACHER May 3 is the Rev. Charles W. Gilkey, Dean of the University Chapel, University of Chicago.

MIXED UP with last week's ballyhoo for Spring Day was a contest promoted by the Sun and Ithaca clothing merchants, cooperating with Esquire, to find the Best Dressed Man on the Hill (BDMOH). Presented with a $100 wardrobe and a gold watch at the Navy Ball, he turned out to be Jules ("Zoots") Gregory '42 of New York City. His friends in the College of Architecture staged two parades during the week, with a band and placards, gave away free tickets to the Navy Ball, and Gregory won the election by a large majority. He will be pictured in the "All-America Style Eleven" from as many colleges in the next issue of Esquire.

UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA was joined by the Sage Chapel Choir in Bailey Hall April 28 for the annual free concert made possible by a bequest from the late Gerald W. Hinkley '15.

HOUSEHOLD ART specialists of the College of Home Economics are teaching residents of the State how to black out their homes and setting up demonstration blackout rooms for normal family living. They report large attendance and eager interest.

WILLARD STRAIGHT HALL board of managers elected Barber B. Conable, Jr. '43 of Warsaw to be chairman of the board and president of the Hall for next year. New secretary of the board is John E. Chance '43 of Montclair, N. J.

CHARLES S. SATTERTHWAIT, JR. '43 of Reading, Pa., has left the University to drive an ambulance of the American Field Service with the British forces in Libya.

AUSTRALIAN RED CROSS benefitted by approximately $300 from an "Australian Night" in Willard Straight Hall last week. Professor R. C. Bald, English, a citizen of Australia, spoke, and Professor R. Lauriston Sharp, Anthropology, who has lived there, showed motion pictures of the country. Romeyn Berry '04 auctioned paintings given by the Australian artist, Lieutenant Colonel Allan Brooks. Approximately 100 persons attended.

OMICRON NU, Senior society in Home Economics, has elected to membership for next year Doris E. Fenton of Port Washington, Helen K. Jammer of Wellsville, Mary L. Klauder of Niagara Falls, and Bernardine Sutton of Yonkers. Three new members are in the Graduate School: Ruth H. Cook of Kingsville, Ontario, Marion Lew of Seattle, Wash., and Isabelle Patterson of Brookline, Mass.

TEACH CRITICAL THINKING

Results of two years of experiments by Professors Frederick G. Marcham, PhD '26, History, and Howard R. Anderson, Education, are expected to show how Americans can be taught to reach conclusions without bias, to separate facts from opinion, and to act freely in the light of their judgments.

In January, 1940, with a three-year grant from the Rockefeller Foundation, the two experimenters set out to study how critical thinking might be fostered. Their first investigations led them to define the necessary distinguishing skills as "ability to select and organize information, to determine whether evidence is reliable, and to distinguish fact from opinion." They decided to experiment with school children of the seventh grade, on the theory that this age was probably the lower limit at which skill in critical thinking might be developed, and that techniques found to be successful with this group would have greater chance for success at higher intellectual levels.

Accordingly, they worked out five exercises to be used in instructing classes in critical thinking, and with cooperation of the University of Iowa College of Education, arranged to have these exercises given this year to 600 seventh-grade students in that State. Another group of 500 students who have not had the exercises will be used for comparison. Smaller numbers in the Ithaca schools were also used.

Results will not be fully known until the end of the school year, but it is reported that students are enthusiastic about the exercises and that those taking them have already shown evidence of acquiring the requisite skills of a critical thinker more quickly than the others.

The 1942 Yearbook of the National Council of Social Studies is being devoted to training for critical thinking, with Professor Anderson as its editor and Professor Marcham writing its introduction. They have also prepared for the Cornell University Press a volume describing the objectives of the experiment and the techniques for carrying them out, including the exercises so far used.

JOHN T. UDALL '28, instructor in Architecture since October, 1939, has resigned to enter the office of Voorhees, Walker, Foley & Smith, architects, in New York City. He is the son of Professor Denny H. Udall '01, Veterinary Medicine.

MARIA MATYAS, mezzo-soprano of the Chicago Opera Company, recently returned to Ithaca from appearances in concert and opera in Chicago, Ill., and Kansas City, Mo. She is the wife of Professor Elkin C. Wilson, English.

Concerning THE FACULTY

APPOINTED to the new State War Board by Governor Lehman are Dean Carl E. Ladd '12, Agriculture and Home Economics, and Paul A. Schoellkopf '06, University Trustee and president of the Niagara-Hudson Co., Niagara Falls.

H. EDWARD BABCOCK, chairman of the Board of Trustees and president of the National Council of Farm Co-operatives, testified before the House judiciary committee April 17 in Washington, D. C., favoring legislation to subject labor unions to provisions of the 1934 "anti-racketeering" act and to permit their prosecution under anti-trust laws. He said that the Co-operative Council while not opposed to organized labor "has been forced to recognize that some of the practices of organized labor" are "inimical to the best interests" of labor and the public."

PROFESSOR ERNEST MERRITT '86, Physics, Emeritus, and Mrs. Merritt, Sp '02, have announced the engagement of their daughter Grace Merritt, Grad '34 to Jurg Waser of Pasadena, Cal. Miss Merritt received the BA at Leland Stanford University. She is an assistant in the library of the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

DEAN ROBERT M. OGDEN '01, Arts and Sciences, recently attended a meeting in New York City of the committee on training for Civil Service of the Association of Colleges and Universities of the State of New York, held with the Civil Service Commission of New York.

PROFESSOR CHARLES K. THOMAS '22, Public Speaking, will be a delegate to the Workshop on Teacher Education of the Association of Colleges and Universities of the State of New York to be held in Albany, June 3-29.

D. LEO HAYES, county agricultural agent in Madison County since 1926, comes to the College of Agriculture May 1 as assistant county agent leader in the Extension Service. He fills a vacancy caused by the death of Professor Leo A. Muckle '16, March 28.

THIRTY-SIX HEADS of University departments and other Faculty members have petitioned Congress not to continue the Dies committee which has been investigating subversive activities, Professor Walter F. Willcox, Economics, Emeritus, announced last week. Continuance of the committee was opposed on the grounds that its work "has been a hindrance to the effective conduct of the country's foreign policy and war effort" and that it "has signally failed to translate its work into genuinely helpful and constructive legislation."

PROFESSOR BRISTOW ADAMS, Agriculture Publications, will speak at the dinner of the silver anniversary convention of the American College Publicity Association in Columbus, Ohio, May 8. He was the second president of the Association, elected in 1920. The program of the three-day convention will be mainly devoted to the subject "Colleges in the War."

ANNOUNCEMENT was made at the annual honors day convocation at Oberlin College, April 14 that Ellen W. MacDaniels, daughter of Professor Laurence H. MacDaniels, PhD '17, Floriculture, had been elected to Phi Beta Kappa and was also on the senior honor list which contains the name of the top tenth of the class.

PROFESSOR W. ARTHUR RAWLINS '30, Entomology, and Mrs. Rawlins (Miriam Dolan), AM '31, have a son born April 8.

Call of 1917

"C. U. —in '42"

By Herbert H. Johnston, Class Secretary
81 Tacoma Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

Returns for our Reunion are coming in slowly but steadily, and several who have not been heard from in years have already signed on the dotted line. It's sad but true, however, that most of the success of our Twenty-Fifth depends upon the advance deposits of $5 which your committee receives. It is necessary to arrange most commitments at an early date, and we cannot plan some events without financial backing. Our Reunion will be what we make it, providing we do not hesitate until the eleventh hour.

The fellows are accepting the limited accommodations at Ithaca with good-natured tolerance. The University will furnish as many beds as possible, which means not too many due to exams lasting right up to the last minute May 23. Commencement May 25, and Army and Navy men assigned to Cornell for special work.

Our Ithaca committee, Professor "GIBBY" GIBSON, Professor "TIP" PORTER, and Dean "BILL" HAGAN, is working hard with WALT HEASLEY '30, acting Alumni Secretary, to give 1917 every "break" available. We know it will be a great Twenty-Fifth.

DAN (Kid) MCCOY was a visitor to Buffalo recently with brief calls on your secretary and BOB CARR. Dan attended a Friday luncheon of the Cornell Club of Buffalo. Other Classmates present were GEORGE NEWBURY, president of the Club, and DAVE COWNIE, an engineer with the International Railway Co. Dan is with General Motors, Frigidaire Division, Dayton, Ohio. DAN's home address is RD 7, Normandy Lane, Dayton. He reported that his daughter was married in February. We well remember her at recent Ithaca Reunions which Dan and his family frequently attended.

RUTH PETRY crashed the "On the Campus and Down the Hill" page by leading a squadron of Civilian Air Patrol planes, and we got excited and pleased and proud all over again. Ruth and LOUISE ODELL and any other plane pilots we may have in the Class can talk it over at Reunion May 23. And we'll keep on reading the News from cover to cover to ferret out all these things that are constantly advertising what an illustrious Class we are.

We can take AMELIA BAILEY out of the "Lost Souls" Department. She is now Mrs. Pitts and lives in East Bloomfield, N. Y.

Mrs. Irving J. Woerner (GERDE KEMPE) lives at 236 Hamilton Place, Hackensack, N. J. She gives her business address as Room 608, 26 Journal Square, Jersey City, N. J.

EL RAYNOR, our very busy Reunion chairman, takes time out to report that WINNIE HUNNIFORD married Calvin Lawrence, a graduate of the US Naval Academy, March 21, and that they will live in Orange.

Idle rumor hath it that JOHNNY BAUMAN and CARSON CORNBROOKS are in the Army somewhere in Virginia. They say "Cars" is a lieutenant, and Johnny is one of the boys. Perhaps they are at Camp Lee, but we certainly would like to have some definite word about them.

I saw STEVE DE BAUN in Norfolk recently. He tells me that GEORGE BRAINARD is an ensign in the Naval Reserve. How about some news, George?

I got a fine letter from BRUCE KESTER the other day. Bruce is assistant superintendent for the Austin Co., on the construction of a Naval Ordnance plant in Indianapolis. Bruce says this column is not long enough, and I agree with him. Let's have some news from some of you waywards. That plus subscribing to the ALUMNI NEWS is the best way to increase the size. Bruce is living at 966 Campbell Avenue in Indianapolis, Ind.

GUS DAUNER is one of these waywards. How about it, Gus? I hear you are in Cincinnati.

DICK GOODWIN is married and works in Newport, R. I. I understand he is so busy he is going sideways trying to get Naval bases built in time to do some good.

JOHN TIERNEY of Paterson, N. J., and PHILIP WALSH of Watkins Glen reported for Naval Aviation flight training at the base, Floyd Bennett Field in Brooklyn, on the same day, February 11. If they are successful in flight training, they will be given two months of preliminary training at this base, and then be sent south for seven months advance training.

Another interesting letter comes from Lieutenant BILL LENTZ who is in England. He tells of a meeting January 7 at which DONALD McMASTER '16, manager and director of Kodak, Ltd., showed pictures of Kodak's war work to Bill and Brigadier ARTHUR E. POTTS '14. Bill was addressed at that time as: Lieutenant WILLIAM P. LENTZ, Electronics Training Group, care The American Embassy, London, England.

In previous Class notes I mentioned that Ensign HARVEY MCCHESENEY was planning to be married February 1. He has since written me a long letter telling among other things that the event took place as scheduled and so Marie Walbridge of New York is now Mrs. McCheesney. JOHN EVANS was best man, and R. G. SMITH was down from Hartford for the wedding. In my next column, I'll take up the rest of the news which Harvey's letter contained.

Camp Otter for Boys

32ND SEASON

In these war times selection of a good summer camp for your boy is very important. CAMP OTTER on its own private lake in Northern Ontario realizes the need of youth and is placing greater emphasis on real rugged camping.

Physical fitness, first aid, life saving, horse back riding, farming, all land and water sports and real canoe and hiking trips into the Canadian Northwoods will give that boy of yours a training which has genuine carry over values.

Modern youth demands big sweeping adventuresome life. Camp Otter for 31 years has been satisfying parents and boys so well that each year the number of campers increases. Many of these are sons of former campers.

Something to Consider

The great value of education was described forcefully by Willmott, who wrote:

“Education is the apprenticeship of life.”

Fathers of younger boys and girls might ponder this thought and, if they agree with Willmott, they have an important question to ask themselves.

If they fail to survive will their children have the benefit of such training?

Ready money can be made available for that specific purpose, even if the breadwinner should die.
