Do you measure distance in miles? Well, you needn't any more . . . You merely measure it in hours when you go by Flying Clipper*!

13 hours to London from New York (even less from Boston) . . . Less than 3 hours to Bermuda from New York. Only 9 hours to Honolulu from the West Coast . . . less than 50 hours to "far-away" Australia . . . leave from San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland or Seattle.

This is the Air Age! It will pay you to get the facts before you make any decision about your 1949 summer vacation.

FORECAST: FAIR AND WARM;

TEMPERATURE IN

MIDDLE 70's

RIO DE JANEIRO lies just inside the tropics . . . which means a sun-drenched mean temperature of 74°. You'll want to ride by cable car to the top of Sugarloaf Mountain and look out over Rio de Janeiro's magnificent, world-famous harbor.

You can choose any kind of weather you want for your 1949 summer vacation!

FORECAST. WARM AND SUNNY.

LIGHT BREEZES, TEMPERATURE IN LOW 80's

MEXICO and Guatemala highlands are actually cooler in summer than many parts of the U. S. . . . and up there is where the capital cities lie! No hurry, no bustle. Sleepy burros, quaint shops and everybody takes a siesta after lunch.

BERMUDA'S summer temperatures almost never go higher than the 80's—and there's no hay fever! Good sailing, fishing . . . golf, tennis and, above all, swimming on coral beaches. 3 hours from New York by Clipper. $126. Round trip, plus tax.

HAWAII has a climate so perfect that the original Hawaiians had no word in their language for "weather." Only Pan American offers direct service from Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle. $288. Round trip, plus tax.

FORECAST: SUNNY, CLEAR,

WARM IN DAYTIME,

COOL AT NIGHT

ALASKA has more hours of summer sunshine than any of the 48 states... They play baseball at Juneau under the midnight sun! Daily service from Seattle.

CLEAR AND

COLDER

SANTIAGO—1700 feet above the Pacific in Chile—has a spring-like climate the year 'round... But within an hour's drive you'll find powder snow in June, July and August as fine as in the Alps. Are you a ski fan? No need to give it up when it's summer in the U. S. A.!

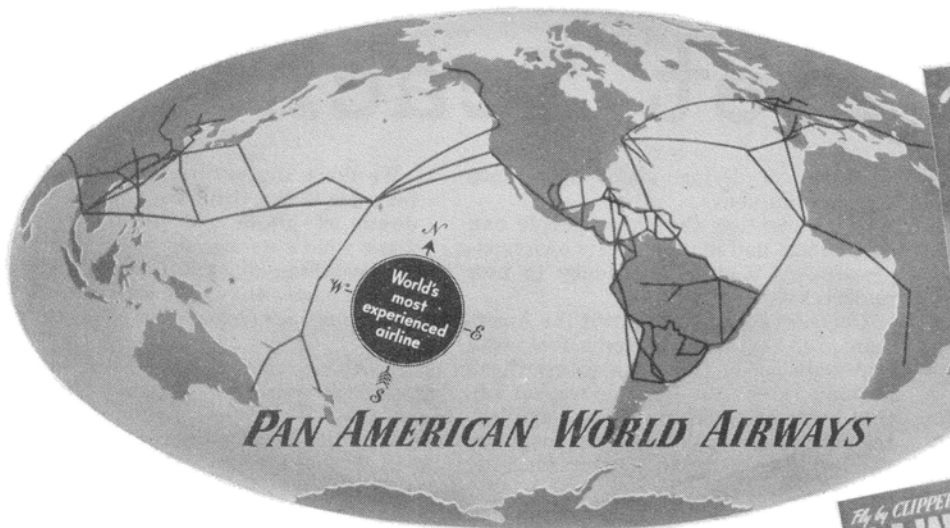

FORECAST: TEMPERATURE

IN LOW 60's...

BIG ONES STRIKING!

NEW ZEALAND is 45 hours from the United States. World's record catches of black and striped marlin, mako sharks... swordfish, broadbills! Deer and other game in season.

FORECAST: WARM AND

Dear Soviet Teachers:

We note that you have been discreetly silent on some aspects of the Communist system. And that you have been urged by Pravda to fill your students with "profound contempt" for the admiration given to ours.

May we respectfully suggest a few more things that you'd better keep quiet about if you want the young Russians to grow up convinced Communists.

Don't tell them that in America the opportunity for advancement is unlimited—that here a man can work where he pleases and change his job when he pleases, and that he has the right to organize and bargain collectively.

Don't say anything about the competitive system, with rewards for initiative and enterprise in free markets—the same system which has produced a standard of living about ten times higher than yours.

Don't mention that here people can own things and manage their own businesses . . . and invest money in new undertakings.

Don't breathe a word about the American urge to invent better machines—and more productive ways to use them.

Don't refer to a dynamic way of life that keeps on turning out more and better goods—keeps on lowering costs and raising wages, with shorter working hours.

In other words, don't give them any of the facts about what happens when free people, governing themselves and spurred by ambition, go all-out to build a new kind of country—different from any the world has ever seen.

We don't say our way is perfect—far from it. We still have our ups and downs of prices and jobs. But we know what's wrong and we're free to do something about it. Change is our middle name. And in the long run, our system always changes for the better.

P.S. About that "priority of inventions," the point isn't whether the Russian scientist Lodygin invented electric light before Edison, but what happened after it was invented. Which system—yours or ours—has mass-produced for more people the daily benefits of such inventions as the automobile, telephone, radio, refrigeration, central heating, modern plumbing and better farm machinery? The world knows that it is our system!

Entered as second-class matter, Ithaca, N. Y. Issued twice a month while the University is in session; monthly in January, February, July, and September; not published in August. Subscription price $4 a year.

Greater Cornell Campaign Enlists Alumni Workers

SUBSCRIPTIONS to the Greater Cornell Fund were expected to reach or exceed $7,500,000 by the end of April, as general campaigns got underway to solicit all alumni in about 200 areas of the country. This phase of the effort to meet the most urgent needs of the University is enlisting local committees of Cornellians personally to explain the needs and give opportunity to contribute to about 60,000 alumni before the end of 1949.

Ithaca Sets Example

One of the first of these local campaigns was conducted in Ithaca during three weeks in April, when more than $260,000 was pledged by alumni, members of the Faculty, Ithaca business firms, and townspeople. This result was cited by Vice-president Asa S. Knowles, executive director of the Greater Cornell Committee, as a "beacon light for other campaigns to follow throughout the country." More than 400 volunteer solicitors worked under chairmanship of Claude L. Kulp, AM '30, with Trustees Harry G. Stutz '07 and Robert E. Treman '09 as vice-chairmen and E. Victor Underwood '13 as chairman for advance gifts. In the advance phase, it was announced, Treman alone had raised $70,000. Leaders of the six divisions for the general campaign were Harry N. Gordon '15, Mrs. Robert C. Osborn (Agda Swenson) '20, C. Wesley Thomas '25, Charles E. Treman '30, Edward A. Richardson '31, and Robert J. Kane '34. Treman's division topped the others with pledges totalling $10,693 and the high team was one captained by Louis S. Pickering of the Ithaca Journal of which not one member was a Cornellian.

This general-solicitation phase of the campaign to raise $12,500,000 for the University, Knowles explains, follows a "special gifts" effort to interest prospective donors of $1,000 or more which has been going on since last October, and which is also still continuing. Popular feature of the general campaigns is the "share" plan for a pledge of $150 or more to be paid within thirty months. Names of share givers will be inscribed on a bronze tablet at the University.

Besides Ithaca, general campaigns are underway or will shortly open in the following localities, under chairmanship of the alumni named: Metropolitan Area, New York City, Edward E. Anderson '17 and Henry L. O'Brien '21; Ontario County, Professor Percival J. Parrott, Grad '06, Entomology, Emeritus; Seneca County, Robert H. Glanville '35; Cayuga County, Albert R. Nolin '20; Bergen County, N. J., Edward M. Carman '14; Camden, N. J., James B. Burke '31; Philadelphia, Pa., Trustee Larry E. Gubb '16; Atlanta, Ga., Thomas J. Roberts '25; Birmingham, Ala., Ward B. White '08; Memphis, Tenn., Alexander W. Shelby '24 and William F. Slater '25; Chattanooga, Tenn., Alfred H. Thatcher '09; Springfield, Mass., Francis C. Heywood '11; New Haven, Conn., Alexander F. Stolz '18; Hartford, Conn., Robert H. Knowlton '06; Cleveland, Ohio, Charles B. Merrill '14; Chicago, Ill., Erskine Wilder '05; Milwaukee, Wis., Philip L. Ash '28; Minnesota, Austin S. Cargill '12; Seattle, Wash., Albert H. Hooker, Jr. '18; San Francisco, Cal., Harold W. Knowles '12; Los Angeles, Cal., Frederick E. Emmons '02.

Approach Objectives

Analysis of the gifts and pledges received to April 25 shows that approximately $1,800,000 has been given for unrestricted use. Toward the seven announced objectives of this $12,500,000 campaign, the following totals are announced:

For Faculty salaries: General, $1,030; Edwin H. Woodruff Professorship, $37,620; Kappa Alpha Professorship, $7,400; Todd Professorship $4,500; Class of 1916 Endowment $24,607.72.

For the Medical College $46,931.55.

For Engineering College: Development $47,776.46; Endowment $15,000; Diesel Laboratory $10,000.

For World War II Memorial: Interfaith Center $1,505,000; Endowment $16,160; Organ $25,000; Menorah $1,000.

For Laboratory of Nuclear Studies $1,000,000.

For development of the humanities: General $6,005; Economics Inquiry Laboratory $40,000; Ruth Darville '15 Memorial $1,905; Graduate Fellowship in Humanities $450; Scholarship in Humanities $25.

For Athletic facilities: General $1,700;

Boathouse $9,200; Jack Moakley House $1,100.

Gifts by Classes

Anonymous gifts and others not yet classified or designated as to use total $2,925,500.23. These are included at the end of the following tabulation, by Classes, of subscriptions to the Greater Cornell Fund, including amounts credited to the Alumni Fund for this year, to April 25:

Offer Industry Research

PLAN to promote education and research in aviation with advice and assistance of the industry is the offer to accept ten additional firms as Research Associates of the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo. Companies engaged in aviation or allied business may become Research Associates with approval of the Laboratory board of directors and upon payment of $50,000 as a qualifying gift.

Fellowships named for the supporting Associates will be awarded to graduate students in science or engineering at the University, the Associate firm designating the general field of research to be followed. Such Fellowships will pay a stipend of $1200 a year plus tuition and fees, with the holder afforded research facilities of the Aeronautical Laboratory and employment there, with pay, in summer. If preferred, the Associate firm may choose to have the Laboratory conduct exploratory research at Buffalo in its name and in a general field agreed upon.

Theodore P. Wright, University Vice-president for Research and president of the Laboratory, says that the Aeronautical Laboratory will hold quarterly research conferences with its Associates to discuss methods, results, organization, and management. "The Laboratory will inform the Associates of technical progress of its research and will look to the Associates for suggestions on the program," he says.

Curtiss-Wright Corp., which gave the Aeronautical Laboratory to the University, and the six aviation firms which provided $675,000 for its working capital have been designated as permanent Research Associates and have each chosen its participation in the plan. Curtiss-Wright, Fairchild Engine & Airplane Corp., and Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp. will have named Fellowships for study of Aeronautical Engineering; Republic Aviation Corp. will have a Fellowship in Electrical Engineering; and research will be carried on at the Laboratory in the names of Bell Aircraft Corp., United Aircraft Corp., and Avco Manufacturing Corp.

Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory was incorporated in March, 1948, with all capital stock held by the University. Capitalized at about $4,500,000, it has more than 600 employees under the director, Dr. Clifford C. Furnas. Income from fees for government and commercial research in all phases of aviation and aeronautics is used for fundamental investigations and for support of education. Wright is chairman of the board of directors, which includes also Director Furnas, President Edmund E. Day, Trustees Arthur H. Dean '19 and Victor Emanuel '19, University Treasurer Lewis H. Durland '30 and Counsel Robert B. Meigs '26, Dean S. C. Hollister and Director of the Graduate School of Aeronautical Engineering William R. Sears, William Littlewood '20, Paul A. Schoellkopf, Jr. '41, and Lewis G. Harriman and Patrick H. Hodgson of Buffalo.

Lectures on Speech

SECOND series of Messenger Lectures for this year was given by Harvey Fletcher, director of physical research at Bell Telephone Laboratories. He discussed acoustics in six Olin Hall lectures between April 11 and 21.

Devoted to the topic "How We Speak," the first lecture demonstrated that all speech can be broken down into thirty-nine basic sounds. This fact makes it possible to study speech as a problem in physics. The principal tools used in speech research were described, including the recently-invented spectrograph which translates sound into electrical signals and records them on a graph. These graphs, Fletcher said, can be read almost as easily as a printed page by trained research men. Further to illustrate the mechanics of speech, he demonstrated an artificial larynx capable of producing understandable speech synthetically.

The second lecture on "How We Hear" used movies, recorded sounds, and photographic slides to explain the mechanism of the ear.

Succeeding lectures on the "Physical Characteristics of Speech," "Methods and Scales for Measuring the Perception of Speech Sounds," and two devoted to "The Perception of Speech and its Relation to Telephony," were much more technical. Small but interested audiences were shown the mathematical background of speech research and were given an outline of the Bell Laboratories pioneering work in the field for the last twenty years.

Hold Engineers' Day

NEARLY 3,000 sightseers swarmed through buildings of the College of Engineering, April 23, for Engineers' Day, arranged by the Student Engineering Council, whose president is Louis N. Fitzsimons '50 of Cornwall.

Exhibits all over the Campus and as far afield as the Microwave Astronomy Laboratory near the Ithaca Airport included many standard Engineering College projects as well as more spectacular demonstrations arranged specially for the occasion. Among the most popular were Nuclear Studies Laboratory demonstrations, the new radio telescope, and such wonder workings as speech transmission by light beam and high-frequency radiation demonstrations in Electrical Engineering. Mechanical Engineering demonstrated their testing machines, steam and gasoline engines, and showed a typical student pattern-making class in session.

Total of exhibits and demonstrations open from one to nine p.m. was close to 100 and student demonstrators and guides seemed to enjoy giving the show as much as visitors enjoyed watching and asking questions.

A silver cup donated by the Cornell Club of Maryland was won by an Electrical Engineering softball team which was undefeated in an inter-engineering tournament held on upper Alumni Field during the afternoon.

Gannett '98 Resigns

RESIGNATION of Frank E. Gannett '98 as a Trustee of the University, for reasons of health, was accepted by the Board April

30, and he was elected Trustee-emeritus. He was first elected as an Alumni Trustee in 1926; was re-elected by the alumni in 1931; and in 1933 was elected by the Board, resigning then as Alumni

Trustee. He was re-elected by the Board for five-year terms in 1938, 1943, and 1948. He served on the committee on general administration and for five years on its successor, the executive committee of the Board, and was chairman from 1941-45. He was a member of the Board membership committee in 1945-46 and of the investment committee for two years, 1946-48; was a member of the committee on the inauguration of President Edmund E. Day and an early member of the committee on University development. In 1926, he was president of the Cornellian Council, served in 1936-37 on a committee on the financial needs of the endowed Colleges, and is a member of the Greater Cornell Committee.

Gannett received the AB in 1898; was on the Sun board and was business manager of the Cornell Magazine and Campus correspondent for the Ithaca Journal. He went to the Philippines in 1899 as secretary to President Jacob Gould Schurman who was chairman of the first U.S. Commission, then became editor of the Ithaca Daily News and in 1902-03 was editor and manager of the ALUMNI NEWS. In 1906 he purchased a half-interest in the Elmira Gazette and this was the first of the Gannett Newspapers, which he has operated with offices in Rochester.

Resigning from the Board of Trustees, Gannett said he wished to relinquish his place for "someone who can give more time and energy to the University." He has been in poor health since last fall.

Now, in My Time!

By Cornelius Perry

IN his latest book, I Wanted To Write, his literary autobiography to date, Kenneth Roberts '08 would seem to have revealed all. The Ithaca chapters, however, call for a few scholarly footnotes in amplification.

It should be made clear to future students of American prose and poesy that the lyrics of the football song, "Fight For Cornell," were written amid the noise and distractions of the classroom. Given a chance to compose a football song in the peace and quiet of Italy, Mr. Roberts, even in the years of his literary apprenticeship, would have seen at once, that "history" does not rhyme with "victory" and cannot be made to. Nevertheless, the Cornell cheering sections (no purists, they) have sung it that way through forty football seasons, and with increasing gusto. They seem likely to keep right on! Mr. Roberts heard them do it at the Columbia game of 1946. He records his shame and misery at page 10 in the book.

At the opening of the University in the fall of 1905, your historian was summoned into the presence of the late Dean Huffcut and told that now that he was a full-fledged member of the Law School, he should sever all his undergraduate connections. It didn't please the Faculty, Dean Huffcut said, to see our name still carried at the masthead of the Cornell Widow as editor of an undergraduate publication.

Followed then an embarrassing five minutes in which we had to confess that the appearance of our name in that particular place constituted a fraud and deception upon the reading public. Mr. Kenneth Roberts, we explained, had been chosen editor of the Widow in June, at the conclusion of his Freshman year, and was now functioning in that capacity. There had been no one else to select in the face of Mr. Roberts's superior capabilities. But the Board had felt that the traditions of the University would be regarded as violated by the election of a Freshman to that high office and had prevailed upon your historian to hold over, in name only, until the public mind had been prepared for the truth.

That was the only occasion we recall observing Dean Huffcut when he was at a loss for a word. The mot juste did not spring instantly to his lips that time!

It should also be noted that as early as his Senior year, Mr. Roberts found noise and confusion incompatible with literary productivity. Not being then in funds to go to Italy, he, together with his brothers in the bond, Clarence Greenwald Bamberger and Joseph Newton Pew, Jr., got out of the Chi Psi house and set up a separate, but affiliated establishment in the Cottage, a modest structure on the present site of the Theta Delta Chi house, which had been built originally as the gate lodge of the Jennie McGraw Fiske estate. Here Mr. Roberts could lie abed in peace and quiet for hours, once Brothers Pew and Bamberger had departed for their eight o'clocks, and do some effective wanting to write in the same silent surroundings that he subsequently found beside the Ligurian Sea.

This historian came back on one occasion to spend a week end as Mr. Roberts's house guest in the Chi Psi Cottage and then became deeply impressed with the future novelist's growing powers. On one cold morning, faced with the disagreeable prospect of getting out of bed and going abroad for breakfast, Mr. Roberts called the main house on the telephone and managed to persuade some Freshman to bring us down a hot meal featuring, as we now recall it, ham and eggs. In none of his published works has this great artist ever used the English language more effectively than he did in that telephone conversation!

We leave it to other experts to evaluate the merits of I Wanted To Write. This reviewer must here limit himself to the Cornell aspects of the opus, which are pretty scant. But just as scores of obscure residents of London in the eighteenth century had their names immortalized by the merest mention of them by Boswell, so too not a few of our subscribers will now have a chance to be known to posterity through a fleeting reference to them in this monumental work. Alike on the books of the ALUMNI NEWS and in the Roberts pages, the earnest searcher will find the names of Andrus & Church, Maximilian Elser, Chilson Leonard, Sidney Kingsley, George Jean Nathan, André Smith, Joe Pew, Willard Straight, Hendrik Willem van Loon, T. R. Rollo, Adolf Coors, Norman Maron, and also—it warms our heart to record—that of this reviewer!

On the Sporting Side • By "Sideliner"

Lose Three, Win One

RAINED out of its first Eastern Intercollegiate League ball game, with the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., April 22, Cornell lost to Columbia the following day, in New York, 9-5. One big inning did the trick as seven Columbia runs crossed the plate in the bottom half of the third, and that was the game. Starter Kenneth P. Battles '49 and his relief, Paul J. Gerwin '51, were shelled off the mound in this frame. William J. Langan '49 had the Lions eating out of his hand during the last five innings, but his mates could not overcome the Columbia lead. Cornell outhit Columbia, 12 to 11, but were unable to bunch them effectively until the last three innings when they rallied to score five times. Captain George Tesnow '49 got two for two at the plate, while Robert X. Murphy '51 hit two singles out of three chances to lead in Cornell batting.

At Rochester, April 27, it was again in one big inning that Cornell lost to the University of Rochester, 3-1. The visitors outhit Rochester, but Langan was touched for four hits and three runs in the second. That was enough, as Cornell was able to garner only five hits, good for but one run, from the offerings of Rochester's veteran hurler, Carl Wren. Edward P. Winnick '51 held Rochester hitless in the last five innings. Robert B. Rider '50 got two hits for Cornell.

On the strength of his work against Rochester, Winnick was selected by Coach Royner Greene to start against Syracuse on Hoy Field, April 30. He justified the choice by letting the Orange down with six bingles as the Big Red walked off with an 8-2 win. Cornell was able to get but five hits, but combined two of them with three bases on balls and a Syracuse error, to score five times in the second inning.

Crews Start Season

CORNELL opened its rowing season April 23 against Syracuse on Onondaga Lake outlet and won the varsity, junior-varsity, and freshman races. High winds forced the crews off the Lake and made it necessary to row the races over a shortened course of three-quarters of a mile. In each of the first two races, Cornell won by three lengths, but the Varsity was forced to come from behind to edge out the Syracuse shell by two-thirds of a length.

The following Saturday, on the Severn at Annapolis, Md., a Naval Academy plebe boat was all that kept Yale from sweeping the river. Cornell trailed Yale and the Navy in the varsity race and was second in the other two. Coach Harrison Sanford is still trying to find a Varsity combination that can move the shell as it should be moved. Changes were being made in an effort to find the best boatings for the next race, the Eastern sprint championships at Syracuse, May 14.

Track Men Run

NEW record for the Pennsylvania Relay Games was set in Philadelphia, April 29-30, by Charles H. Moore, Jr. '51 of West Chester, Pa., when he won his heat of the 400-meter low hurdles in 52.1 seconds. This was one second faster than the mark set by Jeffrey Kirk of Pennsylvania in 1947.

In the trials, the mile relay team of J. Paul Seider '49, Martin K. Greenfield '49, Moore, and Robert C. Mealey '51 broke a Cornell record that has stood since 1939 when they stepped off the distance in 3 minutes 16.9 seconds. Mealey, the anchor man, edged out Fox of Seton Hall and Whitfield of Ohio State, but was nipped at the tape by Pearman of NYU. Cornell also finished second to NYU in the finals.

Captain John E. Servis '49 took fifth in the hammer-throw and sixth in the discus, and John W. Laibe '50 was sixth in the 120-yard high hurdles. Cornell was hampered in the sprints and hurdles by the absence of Robert J. Hunt '50, who was out of action with a pulled leg muscle.

Lacrosse Takes Two

ARM Y lacrosse team poured it on as it defeated Cornell, 21-3, on Alumni Field, April 23. Coach Ray Van Orman's men were never in the game and only Thomas O. Nuttle '51 and Guy T. Warfield '51 were able to score for the Varsity, Warfield getting 2 goals. Bradley of the Army netted 7 shots.

Cornell won after two losses, April 30 in Schenectady, by defeating Union, 7-5. The Varsity held a 5-1 lead at half-time. Leading scorer for Cornell was James W. Epler '51 with 3 tallies.

Winning continued at Cortland, May 4, with a 17-6 victory over the State Teachers College. Coach VanOrman used twenty-eight players in this match and Warfield led the scoring with 5 goals. Cornell was ahead at the halfway mark, 9-3.

Tennis Goes Along

VARSITY tennis team opened defense of Cornell's Eastern Intercollegiate crown with a 9-0 victory over Columbia on the Cascadilla Courts, April 25. Cornell won all matches in straight sets. Richard Savitt '50 and Leonard L. Steiner '50, Cornell's number one and two players, won their matches by scores of 6-1, 6-3 and 6-4, 6-0, respectively.

April 30, Cornell defeated Harvard at Ithaca, in a League match, by the same score. Again, Coach Dick Lewis's men were victorious in straight sets.

The team travelled to Cortland on Wednesday, May 4, for a match with State Teachers College and another 9-0 victory. Coach Lewis kept his top six men on the bench in an effort to make the matches more even. Despite this, Cornell players dropped but one set of the nineteen played.

Golfers Do Well

GOLF team staged an upset on the University course, April 23, by defeating Canisius 5-2 and thus bringing an end to the visitors' winning streak that had reached twenty-two matches. Point winners for Cornell were Captain Frank J. Thomas '49, George P. Smith '50, James C. Jerome '51, Walter A. Peek '49, and Stanley F. Huber '51.

April 30, the golfers defeated Syracuse by another 5-2 margin, also on the University Course. Smith, Thomas, Huber, Victor D. Stibolt '49, and Carl W. Foss, Jr. '50 scored for Cornell, with Smith turning in a par-equalling 72 to defeat the Syracuse ace, Tony Langan, 2-1.

Mintz Succeeds Clarey

NEW Director of Publicity for the Department of Physical Education and Athletics is Benjamin E. Mintz '43. He succeeds Bernard M. Clarey '28, who has directed sports publicity part time since 1942 and who resigned May 1 to devote full time to his duties as a reporter for The Ithaca Journal.

Mintz has been assistant to Clarey since he came out of the Army as a captain in September, 1946. He received the AB in 1943, ran the 220-yard dash on the Varsity track team, was sports director of the Radio Guild, and was a cadet officer in the ROTC. He served for three years as a Field Artillery officer and was in the European Theatre for two years. He is the son of the late Lawrence M. Mintz '11 of Ithaca and brother of Mrs. Eileen Mintz Terres '43.

Intramurals Continue

INTRAMURAL wrestling tournament ended April 18 with an unofficial tie for first place between Alpha Gamma Rho and Sigma Nu. Third place went to Algonquin Lodge, with Beta Theta Pi fourth. Individual winners in the tournament, which had 144 participants, were Ronald E. Gephart '52 of Clinton, N. J., heavyweight; Edwin C. Hurd '51, son of the late Edwin C. Hurd '25 of Indianapolis, Ind., and grandson of Charles H. Hurd '00, who took the 180-pound title;

Horace W. Latimer, Jr. '51, Philadelphia, Pa., 170 pounds; Walter S. Bortko '51, Brooklyn, 160 pounds; Sidney N. Laibson '51 of Brooklyn, 150; Lloyd H. Hobson, Jr. '51, Livingston Manor, 140; Hugh S. Campbell '51, Great Neck, 130; and Glenn L. Fisher '51 of Ripley in the 120-pound class.

Winning team in the intramural volleyball tournament was Beta Theta Pi.

Sports Shorts

The Varsity polo team closed its home season with a 23-19 win over the Ramapo Club in the Riding Hall, April 30. Charles Gandal '51 was high man for Cornell with 7 goals. The season's record was thus brought to twenty-two wins against five defeats. The team has elected as captain for next year its No. 3 man, Willard I. Emerson, Jr. '51. He is the son of Willard I. Emerson '19 of Southport, Conn.

Cornell Corinthian Yacht Club sailors won a regatta with Syracuse and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute on Cayuga Lake, April 30.

Freshman baseball team opened its season with two victories, one over the Ithaca College frosh by a 9-5 count and the second, a 15-7 victory over Manlius. Redding K. Rufe was credited with both wins. In addition, he clouted a triple with the bases loaded to help his own cause in the game with Ithaca College first-year men. The Frosh suffered their first defeat at the hands of Sampson College, May 4, losing 9-4 on the victor's field. The yearlings rapped Sampson hurlers for a total of nine hits, but could not come through with runners on base, leaving twelve men stranded on the sacks.

The Freshman tennis team lost its first match of the season to the Syracuse yearlings in Syracuse, 5-4. The Cornellians broke even in the singles, but were able to win but one of the three doubles matches.

Cornell chess team is in the midst of a winning streak, chalking up its fourth straight win at the expense of the University of Rochester, 5-1, in a match played Sunday, May 1.

Women's Athletic Association playday in Barton Hall, April 9, resulted in victories for Cornell fencing and rifle teams and a tie for first place in basketball. Ten colleges in central New York State sent teams.

Another Borden Award

THIRD Cornellian to win a Borden Award of $1000 and a gold medal during the 1948-49 academic year is Professor Harry J. Deuel, Jr. of the University of Southern California School of Medicine. He was a member of the Physiology Department at the Medical College in New York from 1923-28. The award was announced April 20 at a meeting of the American Institute of Nutrition in Detroit, Mich. Professor Deuel is an authority on the nutritive value of fats and the effect of Vitamin A in diets.

Professors Barbour L. Harrington, PhD '33, Dairy Industry, and George N. Papanicolaou, Clinical Anatomy at the Medical College, have also received Borden Awards this year.

Letters

Subject to the usual restrictions of space and good taste, we shall print letters from subscribers on any side of any subject of interest to Cornellians. The ALUMNI NEWS often may not agree with the sentiments expressed, and disclaims any responsibility beyond that of fostering interest in the University.

Protest

TO THE EDITOR:

As a regular reader of the NEWS and as one who normally enjoys the column, "Now in My Time!" I was distressed and disappointed by Mr. Berry's narrow and unreasoned attitude in his May 1 column. Mr. Berry would have us believe that the efforts at making fraternities "democratic and international" come from the "outside," whatever that is. Presumably, one is to draw from this that bigotry and narrowness are from the "inside," perhaps from the heart.

The unfairness of Mr. Berry's position is revealed by two of his own statements in that very column, for when he said:

"As for democracy and exclusion, even students, we think, are entitled to their moments of privacy. We suspect this agitation to let in the Mohammedans came from 'outside' and that the Campus Mohammedans aren't bothering about it."

he had already stated:

"Moreover, the only possible way of promoting democracy by bringing more Mohammedans, Buddhists, and pronounced brunettes into the bond would be to have the National Organization tell the active chapter it mustn't." (Emphasis added) revealing that the limits on students' choice of association come from the outside. And how very correct Mr. Berry is in this latter assertion. One needs only to recall the recent experience of some young men at Amherst who desired to pledge a colored boy. The "outside," not the "inside," to wit: the national chapter of the particular fraternity involved, told the local chapter not to pledge the colored boy on pain of expulsion. As is well known, the local chapter did pledge him and was expelled from the national. In other words, the "outside" attempted to restrict the students' freedom of choice of their associates.

I was happy to see in the ALUMNI NEWS, on the page opposite Mr. Berry's very column, a report of the fine work being done to eliminate the narrow attitudes of persons of Mr. Berry's sort.

Back When...

(From the ALUMNI NEWS of earlier days)

Fifty Years Ago

May 31, 1899.—A letter from Frank E. Gannett '98 dated April 24 and published in the Ithaca Journal contains the following:

"It may be of interest to readers of The Journal, especially Cornellians, to learn that our great University is well represented on our battlefields in the Orient. Edgar Johnson '98 has just been promoted to sergeant of the Engineering Corps; Burton J. Flory '95 and Farley G. Clark '94 are members of the same company. All three . . . were engaged in the capture of Malolos . . . George Dyer '95, the well known athlete and member of the Henley crew . . . joined our little band of Cornellians arriving on the gunboat, Princeton. Davis '98, well known for his work in field events, is also with us out here . . . a member of the 14th Infantry . . .

"Our work out here is progressing rapidly . . . we are learning to talk Spanish. In this matter we are all doing better than we expected, but President Schurman deserves special praise for having acquired a familiarity with the use of Spanish in less than a month's study . . ."

Forty Years Ago

May 19, 1909.—Central Avenue is to be taken out of the Campus. During the coming summer the appearance of the Quadrangle will be greatly changed. The course of Central Avenue is to be diverted so that that driveway will no longer traverse the Quadrangle. It is a curious fact that this alteration of the course of Central Avenue will put that thoroughfare . . . just where it was originally intended to be (west of Morrill, McGraw, and White Halls).

Thirty Years Ago

May 22, 1919.—President Schurman will give the command to the battery which will fire the salute of fifty guns at the Semi-Centennial Celebration.

Twenty Years Ago

May 30, 1929.—Jacob Gould Schurman, former President of Cornell and now Ambassador to Germany, celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday in Berlin, May 22 . . . President Von Hindenburg sent the Ambassador his autographed photograph, while Chancellor Mueller and Foreign Minister Stresemann sent congratulations.

It has been interesting to follow the trail of free speech and academic freedom on Campus recently. Disturbing as it is to see "leftish" propaganda so consistently and persistently manifest in certain student circles, I think there has never been any real possibility that the University would clamp down on its propagators so long as they didn't advocate overthrow of the government by force and kept within reasonable bounds otherwise. I know of only two instances in which permission to schedule a meeting was refused a recognized student group. In both, the speakers were under indictment: once Earl Browder and more recently Eugene Dennis.

What is a university for if not to be a place in which to pursue the search for truth? What must we think of the quality of our undergraduates if we fear to expose them to possible doses of untruth? What better preparation for life than to learn to recognize devious or misguided organizations when you are young? As a speaker said in the University Faculty meeting which recently reaffirmed the policy of permitting open discussion of controversial issues, it is part of the educative process to let students hear fervid presentation by special pleaders from outside, as opposed to the objective treatment afforded by Faculty members. This spokesman for the Faculty committee on University policy was roundly applauded (something unusual in Faculty meetings), as was President Day when he said he was thoroughly in accord with the Faculty's stand.

The President went on to say that actions of professors are sometimes more embarrassing than those of students. He mentioned that on his recent trip to the Pacific Coast, reporters had asked his opinion of the dismissal of Communist professors at the University of Washington. His answer was that he would not consider a Communist as being a suitable member of the Cornell Faculty because he would not be free to seek the truth. He endorsed completely the principle of Faculty academic freedom, but pointed out that it also involves definite responsibilities to the students.

I don't know what the President may have had in mind. I can think of some possibilities. Perhaps some Faculty members miss opportunities to remind students, when occasion nicely offers, of the fundamental merits of the free American way of life as opposed to foreign "isms." Without curbing youthful idealism, it is possible to inject a cautioning note against unthinking haste, against change for change's sake. It needs to be made clear that a welfare state has serious disadvantages in sapping self-reliance; that liberty is a precious thing, hard to regain if surrendered or lost. When I was teaching Spanish, I think I made an impression when I occasionally expressed my own rule-of-thumb definition of a democratic-republican form of government as being the "ability to wait for the next election." That's my philosophy, after personal observation of Latin America, Spain, and some other parts of Europe. It pre-supposes, of course, a situation in which the people are confident that there will be a next election!

The current University lectures on America's Freedom and Responsibility have been one avenue of approach. I attended an interesting one of them on "The Background of the University Tradition," given by Professor Edgar N. Johnson of the University of Nebraska. In the resulting discussion, a student said that professors should assert themselves: say where they stand. Provost de Kiewiet expressed the opinion that neutrality in teaching is frequently an evasion, though he also warned of dangers in doing the opposite, of teaching a particular code of morals.

I can see unfortunate effects on the University, too, of members of the Faculty broadcasting their views, off the Campus, on matters which are outside their own special fields of competence. To the public, too often, they represent Cornell. Here at home they are more likely to be known as the eminent specialists they are, taking part in a free interchange of ideas.

They Remembered Cornell

REQUESTS have come to the University from four alumni. Woodford Patterson '95, former editor of the ALUMNI NEWS and for twenty-three years Secretary of the University until he retired in 1940 as Secretary-emeritus, left one-fourth of his residuary estate to Cornell with the provision that "The entire income therefrom be used for the purchase and care of books at the University Library." His bequest may approximate $2400. Patterson died at his home in Newark Valley, August 2, 1948.

Everest B. Kiersted '75, who died in East Orange, N. J., December 13, 1948, bequeathed two-thirds of his residuary estate to the Trustees of Cornell University, "to be used by said Trustees in their absolute judgment as they may deem for the best interests of said University." An early member of Psi Upsilon, Kiersted entered the Chemistry Course in 1871 from Cadosia Valley, and left in 1873.

A contingent bequest of Martin McVoy, Jr. '92, who died January 8, 1949, names the University and his fraternity, Alpha Delta Phi, to share equally in a possible residue of his estate, which is estimated at about $600,000. McVoy received the Bachelor of Letters in 1892 and stayed for a year in the Graduate School. As president of Locke Steel Belt Co. in Bridgeport, Conn., he was for a time associated with Sylvanus D. Locke '93 and Walter C. Teagle '99, then founded and became president of Industrial Underwriters, Inc. in New York City.

Maurice Hoopes '91, who died February 15, 1949, left $5,000 to the University, "to be added to its Endowment Fund." He entered Sibley College in 1887 from West Chester, Pa., and remained for two years; was for thirty-three years president of Finch, Pruyn & Co., paper manufacturers, then chairman of the board, and was president and chairman of the First National Bank of Glens Falls. He was a member of Alpha Delta Phi.

Boston Women Aid Fund

BENEFIT dessert-bridge party of the Cornell Women's Club of Boston, Mass., at the Pioneer Hotel in Boston, March 25, raised $100 for the Federation Scholarship Fund. Table prizes were given by Walter P. Phillips '15. Mrs. Ruth Haines Alexander '29 was general chairman of the committee.

Fraternities Cooperate

FRATERNITY "Work Week" was arranged by the Interfraternity Council, April 25-30, to consider problems and responsibilities of fraternities at the University. First round of discussions was divided into nine sessions at which house presidents, managers, rushing chairmen, and other officers met to discuss their specific jobs and to hear views of Faculty members invited to give advisory talks.

Program of the following days included exchange dinners among all houses, interfraternity discussions of scholarship, membership, and informal initiations, and a meeting of the IFC executive committee with representatives of the Independent Council, Women's Self Government Association, Pan-Hellenic Council, and the Cornell Daily Sun. April 29, a public meeting in Bailey Hall featured talks on world affairs by University Trustee J. Carlton Ward, Jr. '14, chairman of the board of the Fairchild Airplane & Engine Co., who discussed the cold war and America's stakes in world politics; and David Wainhouse, associate chief of the United Nations Political Affairs Division of the State Department, who clarified UN methods and organization. Interfraternity Council President Richard J. Keegan '49 of New Haven, Conn., summarized the week's accomplishments and stressed the need for fraternities to become more useful to the community and more closely integrated with the rest of the University. He repeated a suggestion, made earlier in the week, that the IFC should set up a self-government association comparable to that of the women's governing body. Last event of the evening was the final round of the interfraternity song contest which was won by Phi Kappa Psi over Alpha Zeta and Sigma Phi, the other two finalists. Eighteen fraternities had competed.

Saturday night, April 30, the week-long program closed with a well attended Interfraternity Council Ball in Barton Hall which was decorated with Greek letters.

Bergen County Women

CORNELL Women's Club of Bergen County, N. J., met April 18 at the Rutherford home of Mrs. Thomas A. Morris (Katherine Jacobs) '26. Thirty members were present to hear a talk by Pauline J. Schmid '25, Assistant Alumni Secretary. Club president Mrs. Reginald S. Paulison (Kathryn Davidson) '26 presided.

Launch Fund Campaigns

DINNER for President Edmund E. Day, attended by 225 alumni and guests from Los Angeles, Cal., and vicinity, is reported by Dean Dexter S. Kimball as "of a high order." Reese H. Taylor '22, president of Union Oil Co. of California, presided at the Ambassador Hotel, April 7, and introduced President Day who spoke for the Greater Cornell Fund. Dean Kimball remarks that "Dr. Day was in good form and made a most excellent talk;" when he finished, his audience stood and cheered.

Greater Cornell Fund campaign in western Massachusetts was launched April 5 with a dinner at the Sheraton Hotel in Springfield. Eighty-seven alumni attended and heard Asa S. Knowles, Vice-president of the University and executive director of the Greater Cornell Committee. He was introduced by Francis C. Heywood '11, local campaign chairman. Edward H. Thomson '09, vice-chairman, Paul F. Beaver '24 of the Greater Cornell Committee, and Richard R. Nickerson '43, Cornell Club president, were also at the speakers' table.

Knowles also spoke April 13 to a gathering of ninety-seven alumni to start the Hartford, Conn., campaign. Presiding at the dinner in the Wompanoma Club, West Hartford, was Robert H. Knowlton '06 as campaign chairman. Vice-chairman for this area is Charles J. Brunelle '36.

RARE BOOKS excite our reverence, to be sure; but their purpose is not simply to stand on shelves and be revered. For books are intended for instruction, or delight, or happily both. Books become "rare" only because men value them, and men value them not because they inspire awe but because they offer some kind of enjoyment, some means to pleasure. Take an example from the collection of rarities in the University Library. Here, in neat three-quarter calf, pleasing to the eye and inviting to the hand, is the scarce John Nichols edition of Dunton's Life and Errors, London, 1818. (Even Cornell does not yet own the well-nigh unobtainable first edition of 1705.) Let us consider this little book, surely as curious and engaging a work as we are likely to find among any collection of rarities.

Dunton's errors began early. On the way home from school one day when he was only about eight, he was so lost in meditating upon what he should do when he became a man that he solemnly walked into a river, and would have ended his errors then and there had not someone hauled him out. His schooling was further interrupted when he almost choked to death on a leaden bullet, and later when, still fascinated by esophageal experiment, he got an ear of corn stuck half-way down. He had wanted to see "how far I could venture it down my throat, and pluck it back again." Between chokings, the boy mastered Latin; but Greek he never did learn, being, at the age of thirteen, "wounded with a silent passion for a Virgin in my Father's house, that unhinged me all at once." The girls continued to unhinge him from time to time, especially in church, until at last he married Elizabeth Annesley, one of the twenty-five children of the minister. His love-letters to her were addressed to "Iris," and he signed himself "Philaret."

Such pastoral sentimentalities would have been kept under lock and key by most middle-aged men, but not by Dunton. He proudly prints them, intimacies and all, for the world to see. Neither was he reticent about other family matters. When his sister-in-law was unable to repay a loan for which Dunton had gone surety, he expresses his love for her and then duns her unmercifully, page after page, document after document, for her defection. And at another point he describes to the reader a projected literary work which simply cannot fail to bring him fame and fortune, and which will be published instantly "if my honoured mother (in-law) will be so kind as to lend me Two Hundred Pounds."

In 1685 Dunton departed from his beloved Iris and sailed with a stock of books for New England. Whether this venture is evidence of heroic enterprise or incredible folly is hard to say. At any rate, we have in his account of the visit a picture of late-seventeenth-century Boston that we should not want to miss. The proper Bostonians of Increase Mather's day did not altogether satisfy the visiting bookseller. "He that trades with the inhabitants of Boston should be well furnished with the Grecian Faith; he may get promises enough, but their payments come late." In other ways, however, he found them devastatingly honest. Once when he and his friend Mason unexpectedly visited a Boston lady who received them warmly but apologized for her house's being dirty, Mason blandly replied, "Why, pr'ythee, when was it otherwise?" And certainly one of the strangest compliments ever paid the American medical profession is to be found in Dunton's tribute to Dr. Bullivant, who "never practises new experiments upon his Patients except in desperate cases, where death must be expelled by death."

Witches, of course, abounded, and Dunton knew one. "She will take nine sticks, and lay them across, and, by mumbling a few words, make them all stand on end like a pair of nine pins." He ogled the New England ladies endlessly; some were much to his taste, but many were not. Among the latter was Mrs. T——, "whose tongue runs round like a wheel, one spoke after another. It is somebody's happiness that she is yet unmarried." Dunton visited the happy few out at Harvard, but his only remembrance of that University was the exact amount of its original endowment, "seven hundred and seventy-nine pounds, seven shillings, two pence." A large sum of money, especially to an impoverished bookseller; yet, had he only known it, he carried back to England with him a parcel that in time at least would have exceeded in value all the books Dunton ever sold in his whole lifetime. For Eliot, the Apostle of the Indians, had given him twelve copies of the great Indian Bible. In our day, one copy alone would bring a king's ransom; if even one copy were purchasable. Dunton never gets round to saying what he did with his twelve.

Caught In China War

BELIEVED to be still in Nanking, recently occupied by Chinese Communist forces, are Professor Knight Biggerstaff, Far Eastern Studies, and his wife. Professor Biggerstaff is on sabbatical leave to study the beginnings of the modernization of China on Rockefeller and Fulbright fellowships. Also in Nanking was Major Robert L. Van Ausdall '49, who specialized in Far Eastern Studies on leave from the Air Force and became assistant air attaché at the American Embassy in Nanking.

Robert A. Aylward, John M. Farrior, Alfred Harding, and John E. MacDonald, all of the Class of '48, were last heard from in Peiping, also taken by the Communists. Harding went to National Peiping University for graduate work with a Fulbright Fellowship and the others were continuing study of Chinese language and culture as members of the US Foreign Service.

Books By Cornellians

About Cornell

The People's Colleges: A History of the New York State Extension Service in Cornell University and the State, 1876-1948. By Professor Ruby Green Smith, PhD '14, Home Economics, Emeritus. Cornell University Press, Ithaca. 1949. xxi + 593 pages, $4.75.

For twenty-six years until she retired in 1944 as State leader of home demonstration agents, Mrs. Smith helped to make the history of the Extension Service in New York State which is now set forth in her book. But for forty-four years, since she first came to the campus from Stanford as the bride of the late Dean Albert W. Smith '78, she has been an ardent and informed Cornellian.

Thus her book is not only a monumental history of the Extension Service in New York, but it is inevitably also an absorbing story of Cornell in a field that is too little known to some alumni. Beginning at the very start with Ezra Cornell's interest in farming and Andrew D. White's vision of a new kind of University, these warmly-written chapters delineate both an educational program that has broadened the Campus to every corner of the State and those many Cornellians who have had a share in it.

Here are Isaac P. Roberts, the first professor of Agriculture, "The Comstocks of Cornell," Liberty Hyde Bailey, "Perennial Pioneer," and the many others who, here and throughout the State, have contributed to making this phase of the University, from the beginning to now. In an "Index of Persons" which occupies nearly twelve pages in small type, double column, any Cornellian is sure to find the names of numerous friends, and may even see his own! Pictures of many are grouped with several of the Campus, past and present, in sixty-four pages in the center of the book.

This is a very personal book. It comes from the first-hand experience and trustworthy research of the author; it tells the stories of many interesting Cornell personalities; it is an absorbing account of a University program that will bring personal pride and gratification to every alumnus.

"Caravan of Comics," May 21 Spring Day parade of floats, will be judged by twelve leading cartoonists, including George Wunder who draws "Terry," Otto Soglow, "The Little King," and Russell Patterson, illustrator and editorial cartoonist for the New York Daily News. All of them, with Al Capp and Bill Zaboly, creators of Li'l Abner and Popeye, respectively, will contribute drawings to a Spring Week End Booklet edited by Richard F. Koppe '49 of Dayton, Ohio, for Sigma Delta Chi.

30,000 beetles, recently arrived at the University, were enthusiastically received by the Entomology Department. Mounted, labelled, and representing 6,000 species, the collection is the gift of Mrs. Helen W. Chamberlain, widow of K. F. Chamberlain, former Assistant State Entomologist in Albany.

Convention of the National Independent Student Association at the University of Illinois, April 22-24, was attended by Sydelle Hamburg '49, Brooklyn; Phyllis Bender '50, Jackson Heights; and Gerald L. Klerman '50, New York City, members of the Cornell Independent Council.

Final contest this year for the Cornell Debate Association was an April 29 debate with the University of Pennsylvania in Willard Straight Hall. The visitors won their affirmative argument on the topic: "Resolved, that the Federal Government should adopt a policy of equalizing educational opportunities in tax-supported schools by a system of annual grants." Cornell speakers were Robert G. Van Dwyne of Pine Brook, N. J., and Hyman G. Etkind of Elmira, both Seniors.

Pershing Rifles first annual intercollegiate drill meet, in Barton Hall April 30, ended in victory for a Fordham University company which came complete with two drummers and a bagpipe player. Cornell's unit, led by retiring Captain James E. Roeber '49 of Maplewood, N. J., took fourth place. Captain of the honorary group for next year is C. Brandon Chenault '51 of Wellsville.

Newman Club convention of Central New York State brought 200 students from thirty-nine colleges to the Campus for three days of talks and discussions on "The Social Responsibility of the Catholic Student," April 29-May 1. Featured speakers were the Rev. Maynard A. Connell, PhD '32, and the Rev. Mark Tsai, Chinese author and missionary. Officers of the Cornell Newman Club for next year are Charles R. Bauerlein '50 of Staten Island, president; Elsie M. Lawrey '52, Camp Le Jeune, N. C., vice-president; Joseph C. Dwyer '50, Cortland, treasurer; and Dolores R. Hartnett '51 of Moravia, secretary.

Cornell Pilot's Club was unanimously chosen to head the Association of Northeastern College Flying Clubs at an April 24 meeting in Kingston. The Association includes twenty-six college flying clubs. First event under Cornell's leadership is an intercollegiate air-meet in Schenectady, the week end of May 14, with the Cornell club flying its own plane.

Interfraternity Council president for 1949-50 will be Glenn W. Ferguson '50 of Bethesda, Md., secretary of the Council this year. Edward K. Crothers, Jr. '51 of Media, Pa., is vice-president; Donald T. Grady '51, New Haven, Conn., secretary; and Alan L. Gleitsman '51, Great Neck, treasurer.

Ski Club elected John H. Phillips '50 of Devon, Pa., president for next year. Other officers will include Joseph M. Carter '50, Quincy, Mass., vice-president; Martha K. Palmer '51, West Newton, Mass., secretary; and Jo C. Kessel '50, Storrs, Conn., treasurer.

Woodford Prize in oratory for Seniors was won this year by Frank H. Davis, Jr. of San Diego, Calif. He won the seventy-ninth award with an address on "The Quest of Our Lives."

MAY DAY chimes program, which jokingly followed the "party-line" with left-wing songs and red kites flying from the Library Tower, received mixed comments from the public, May 2. Starting an hour early in honor of the occasion, the morning concert planned to last from 6:50 to 8:00 a.m. was soon stopped by the Campus Patrol which refused to believe that students up that early could be doing anything legal. Student letters to the Sun included protests from men in Sage College who objected to being awakened an hour early; praise from women in Risley Hall who enjoyed the concert; and a note of warning from a resident of the West Avenue temporary dormitories who denounced the whole thing as "another sad example of the lethargic attitude of the majority of Americans toward the insidious threat of Communism in this country."

Tie vote in Class of '51 elections will result in split terms for winning presidential candidates Rodger R. Baldwin, New York City, and Jack R. Vinson, Kansas City, Mo. Baldwin will serve as president with Vinson as Class secretary until Christmas, when they will switch positions.

Air-mail carrying record for Robinson Airlines was set April 22 with a total of 145 pounds for one flight. Previous record, made during the 1948 Christmas rush, was 118 pounds. Arrival of daylight-saving time and a newly-expanded schedule almost coincided this year as Robinson Airlines announced new daily round-trip flights to Albany and a round-trip schedule between Binghamton and New York City. The latter is designed to leave more seat space for through passengers on the Buffalo—Ithaca—New York City flights.

Officers of the Cornell Business and Public Administration Association for the coming year are Michael Serven, Washington, D. C., president; Clayton E. Raney, Akron, Ohio, vice-president; and Robert R. Irwin, Belleville, N. J., all of the Class of '49.

International arts and crafts exhibit, sponsored by foreign student groups at the University, filled Willard Straight Hall Memorial Room with a varied and colorful collection of costumes, toys, paintings, and other items from countries all over the world April 27-28. An added air of reality was given to the scene by a recorded background of unmistakably exotic music.

Painter Ezra A. Winter, whose mural depicting aspects of an ideal character in historical and mythological scenes decorates the lobby of Willard Straight Hall, died April 7 in New Canaan, Conn. Willard Straight mural was painted from 1925-27 with the assistance of Hugh C. Troy, Jr. '26 and Alison M. Kingsbury, the wife of Professor Morris G. Bishop '14, Romance Literature. Among many other murals painted by Winter are those in the foyer of the Radio City Music Hall building in New York City, the reading room of the Library of Congress, and the Federal Reserve Building in Washington, D. C.

Republican Club president Charles B. Forsyth, Jr. '50, head of the Cornell delegation to an April 30-May 1 conference of the National Young Republican Federation at Yale, presided at a discussion of the role of Young Republican Clubs.

President Edmund E. Day was re-elected a councillor of the National Industrial Conference Board for five years, April 21 in New York City. A councillor since 1939, he has taken active interest in the Board's program of research and education in economics and business.

University Trustee Mary H. Donlon '20, chairman of the New York State Workmen's Compensation Board, recently gave two talks at the University. As guest of honor at a women's tea in Willard Straight Hall April 29, she discussed job opportunities for women in the fields of law, government, and social work. May 2, in a lecture sponsored by the School of Industrial and Labor Relations, she explained the New York State Disability Benefits Act, which the Workmen's Compensation Board will administer. She also attended an institute for administrators in social security, March 28-April 1, sponsored by the School and the committee on education and social security of the American Council of Education.

American Society of Landscape Architects elected Dean Gilmore D. Clarke '13, Architecture, president at its annual meeting in Washington, D. C., last month. The term is for two years. Philip H. Elwood '10 was elected vice-president; Norman T. Newton '19 was re-elected treasurer; Thomas H. Desmond '08, former vice-president, and Ralph E. Griswold '16 were elected trustees; and Justin R. Hartzog '17 was re-elected a trustee.

At April meetings of the American Institute of Nutrition in Detroit, Mich., papers were presented by Director Leonard A. Maynard, PhD '15, of the School of Nutrition; Professor Frances Johnston, Home Economics; Harriott O. Kunkel, graduate assistant in Biochemistry and Nutrition; Doretta M. Schlaphoff, Fellow in Food and Nutrition; Myron Brin '45; and Mrs. Betsy Patterson Smith, PhD '48.

What the School of Industrial and Labor Relations has accomplished, especially in workers' education, was related by Dean Martin P. Catherwood, PhD '30, before the Economics Club of Detroit, Mich., April 14. He spoke to an audience of 500 at a luncheon meeting of the Club.

Sir Evelyn Wrench in "The British Way," feature article of the April issue of National Geographic Magazine, quotes from "The Great Inventions of the Century," which Professor Dexter S. Kimball, Mechanical Engineering, Emeritus, wrote for the Centennial Celebration of the American Patent System, 1836-1936.

Professor James Hutton '24, Classics, has been appointed to the University Trustee-Faculty Committee on Fine Arts. He succeeds Provost Cornelis W. de Kiewiet.

Whitman Daniels, assistant to the President in charge of public relations, presided at a discussion of "Federal Aid and the Future of Higher Education," April 27 at the national convention of the American College Public Relations Association in Washington, D. C.

Professor Richard F. Fricke '17, assistant State leader of county agricultural agents, was honored at a dinner meeting of county agents and assistants in Albany for thirty years in the Extension Service.

Lawrence M. Vaughan '23 of the US Department of Agriculture, assistant professor of Farm Management from 1928-32, and Lowell S. Hardin, PhD '43, are authors of Farm Work Simplification, published by John Wiley & Sons, Inc., New York City. The book applies the industrially developed techniques of scientific management and methods engineering to farm work.

An essay by Professor Milton R. Konvitz, PhD '33, Industrial and Labor Relations, constitutes a chapter on "The Churches and Education" in the book, Social Problems in America, published by Henry Holt & Co., New York City. April 23, Professor Konvitz spoke on "What Can Israel Learn from America?" at a conference of the American Council for Judaism in Chicago, Ill.

John F. McManus '36, administrative assistant to the Dean of Engineering, has been appointed to the University Board on Traffic Control.

Low Vitamin E content in milk may have a direct effect on the strength of "off" flavors in milk, Professor John K. Loosli, PhD '38, Animal Nutrition, said in a paper he presented April 15 at the International Conference on Vitamin E in New York City. With Professor Vladimir N. Krukovsky, PhD '35, Dairy Industry, he found that Vitamin E is especially low in milk when cows are not on pasture.

Spring number of the Cornell Law Quarterly is dedicated to Professor Herbert D. Laube, Law, Emeritus. The issue contains a chapter from Professor Laube's forthcoming book on jurisprudence.

Professor Peter J. W. Debye, Chemistry, has been elected to honorary membership in Phi Lambda Upsilon and has been asked to deliver the annual Phi Lambda Upsilon lectures at Ohio State University next fall. He is pictured on the cover of the April 25 issue of Chemical and Engineering News as Willard Gibbs Medalist.

Professor Robert E. Cushman, Government, gave a lecture on "Civil Liberty and National Security" at Wells College, April 19. April 30, he participated in Mademoiselle magazine's sixth annual college forum in New York City, which was on "Freedom and Security." He reviewed the present status in America of individual rights protected by the Constitution.

Finnish steam bath and how to build one is described by Professor Joshua A. Cope, Forestry, in the March issue of The American Forester. First introduced to the "sauna" while on a trip to Finland several years ago, Professor Cope has built one at his camp near Slaterville.

Professor Curtis P. Nettels, History, spoke in "America's Town Meeting of the Air," April 19. He and Senator William E. Jenner (R., Ind.) argued the negative side of the question, "Should the U.S. Senate Ratify the North Atlantic Pact?"

Professor Edwin P. Reubens, Economics, spoke at a luncheon of businessmen, bankers, and consular representatives, April 25 at the Bankers Club in New York City, under sponsorship of the Institute of Pacific Relations. He discussed economic development in the Far East.

Women's activities at the New York State Fair to be held in Syracuse, September 5-10, will be directed by Professor Martha H. Eddy, Home Economics.

Hotelmen's Holiday

SPRING outing of the Philadelphia chapter of the Cornell Society of Hotelmen was at the Pocono Manor, April 23-24. About thirty attended, including a number of wives. John M. Crandall '25, manager of the Manor, gave a banquet for the group. Howard E. Welt '34, manager of the Scranton Club in Scranton, Pa., won the golf tournament.

Ag Alumni Elect

ALUMNI Association of the College of Agriculture at its annual meeting, March 23, elected Professor Van B. Hart '16, Farm Management, president. He succeeds Harold J. Evans '17 and becomes a director of the Cornell Alumni Association. T. Kenneth Bullard '22 was elected a vice-president, to serve with Gerald F. Britt '27 and William H. Sherman '35. Professor A. Wright Gibson '17, Director of Resident Instruction, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Dean Bosworth Dies

PROFESSOR Francke Huntington Bosworth, Jr., Architecture, Emeritus, died in his apartment in the Bedford Hotel in New York City, April 27, 1949, after a long illness. He was Dean of the College of Architecture from 1920 to 1928.

Professor Bosworth received the AB at Yale in 1897 and for the next four years studied architecture at the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris. He came to Cornell in 1920 as professor of Design and Dean of the College of Architecture after sixteen years of practice in New York City and one year with the American Red Cross in France. He held the Andrew Dickson White Professorship in Architecture from 1923 until his retirement in 1940.

He was a past president of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture; a former member of the national board of accrediting colleges of architecture in the United States, of the New York State Board of Examiners for Architects, and of the College of Architecture Advisory Council; and a fellow of the American Institute of Architects. He belonged to the Society of Beaux Arts, Phi Kappa Phi, Tau Beta Pi, and Psi Upsilon. His writings included a Carnegie Foundation report on architectural education in collaboration with Professor Roy C. Jones of the University of Minnesota.

Mrs. Bosworth and two daughters, one of whom is Mrs. David Davis (Mary Bosworth) '24, survive.

Appointments, Promotions

BOARD of Trustees, meeting in Ithaca April 30, ratified several Faculty appointments for next year.

James J. Gibson comes September 1 from Smith College as professor of Psychology. He received the BS in 1925, MS in 1926, and PhD in 1928 at Princeton, and since has been at Smith with leaves of absence spent at Yale and as director of the AAF aviation psychology program from 1942-46. He left the Army with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Professor of Rural Education beginning October 1 will be Marvin D. Glock, who received the AB at University of Nebraska in 1934, MS at Illinois in 1938, and PhD at Iowa State in 1947. He taught in high schools in Illinois and Nebraska from 1934-43, was in the Navy, 1943-45, and has been assistant professor at Michigan State College since 1947.

John P. Leagans will be professor of Extension Education next year. Receiving the BS at North Carolina State College in 1934, he has been a high school teacher, county extension agent, and a specialist in the North Carolina and Federal Extension Service. He receives the PhD at University of Chicago this year.

Acting professor of Mathematics will be Joseph L. Doob, effective July 1. He received the AB in 1930, AM in 1931, and PhD in 1932 at Harvard; was National Research Fellow at Columbia, 1932-34, and went to University of Illinois in 1935, becoming professor of mathematics.

John Lamb, Jr., PhD '33, who has been research supervisor for the Soil Conservation Service at the University since 1934, was appointed also professor of Soil Conservation. Kenneth C. Beeson, PhD '47, member of the Federal Plant, Soils, and Nutrition Laboratory staff since 1940 and its director the last year, becomes also professor of Soil Science.

Associate professor of Botany beginning next fall will be Harlan P. Banks, PhD '40. He came to the Graduate School in 1936 with the Cramer Fellowship from Dartmouth, where he had received the BA in 1934 and was instructor. In 1940, he became instructor in biology at Acadia University, Nova Scotia; resigned as associate professor in 1947 to go to University of Minnesota.

Dr. Frank W. Foote, Jr. has been appointed associate professor of Pathology at the Medical College in New York, effective July 1.

Gustav Elfving of the University of Helsinki, Finland, comes July 1 as visiting associate professor of Mathematics. He has taught at University of Abo, Helsinki Technical College, and University of Stockholm.

New associate professor of Law, effective next fall, will be Ernest N. Warren '31. He entered the Law School with the AB from Hamilton College, received the LLB in 1931, and practiced law with Miller, Hubbell & Evans in Utica until 1941, then with Smith, Warren & Roberts in Carthage.

Dr. Charles R. Shaw, resident at the University Infirmary since 1947, has been appointed assistant professor of Medical Nutrition in the School of Nutrition and in the Department of Clinical and Preventive Medicine.

Betty F. Steele, appointed assistant professor of Foods and Nutrition in the School of Nutrition, received the BS at Michigan State in 1941 and has been at University of Wisconsin, where she received the MS in 1946 and will get the PhD this year.

New assistant professor of Romance Literature and Philology for next year is Jean Bruneau, educated at the Sorbonne and an active member of the French underground during the war. He was captured by the Germans in 1944 and was released from a concentration camp by Allied armies in 1945. Since coming to the United States in 1946, he has been instructor of French at Yale, visiting assistant professor at Columbia, and taught at a summer session of Middlebury College.

At the Medical College, Dr. Fred W. Stewart '16, associate professor of Pathology since 1943, becomes professor. Promoted to associate professors are Drs. Edward J. Hehre '34, Bacteriology and Immunology; John MacLeod, PhD '41, Physiology; Carl T. Javert, Obstetrics and Gynecology; Cosmo G. MacKenzie, Biochemistry; and Stewart G. Wolfe, Jr., Medicine. Dr. John G. Pierce becomes assistant professor of Biochemistry.

Clinton L. Rossiter III '39, who joined the Government Department as instructor in 1946, advances to associate professor. Dr. Charles G. Rickard '43, assistant professor of Pathology and Bacteriology in the Veterinary College since 1946, becomes associate professor. J. Howard Nelson, for six years instructor in Hotel Administration, becomes assistant professor.

New University Proctor is Captain John F. McCarthy, soon to retire after thirty years in the Ithaca police department. He replaces Charles D. Manning, who resigned in March.

Hear Buffalo Presidents

LUNCHEON for past-presidents of the Cornell Club of Buffalo brought 100 alumni to the Buffalo Athletic Club, April 22. James W. Persons '06 introduced the new president, Arthur M. Shelton '14, and sixteen past-presidents, each of whom spoke briefly. Elmer E. Fink '14 was chairman of arrangements.

Study Heart Diseases

RESearch grant of $158,914 for study of cardio-vascular diseases, announced February 2 by the New York Heart Association, has been divided among five medical colleges in New York with the Cornell Medical College receiving $72,858 for eight specialized projects. Among these is $12,000 allotted to Dr. Irving S. Wright '23, Clinical Medicine, to study the mechanism of thrombosis.

Largest of the Cornell grants is $19,236 for a study of the influence of age on the formation of edema in premature infants, directed by Dr. Henry L. Barnett, Pediatrics. Other doctors working on these grants are Pathology Professors John G. Kidd, $9,681 for studies of the coronary vascular system; Aaron Kellner, $6,951, solubility of lipids in blood plasma; and John M. Pearce, $3,150 for study of inflammatory diseases of the heart; Harold L. Temple, Radiology, $6,825; James M. Neill, Bacteriology, $3,150; and Ephraim Shorr, Medicine, $11,865.

CLASS REUNIONS AT ITHACA, JUNE 10 & 11, 1949

'89, '94, '99, '04, '09, '14, '19, '24, '29, '34, '39, '44, '47

'06 ME—Leon C. Welch of 222 Lake Street, Evanston, Ill., spent the winter in the Hawaiian Islands. He is retired.

'07 BArch; '09 ME—Harold F. Wardwell (above) was elected March 15 chairman of the board of Detroit Steel Products Co., of which he has been president since 1943. He joined the firm in 1910 and has also been Eastern sales manager, general sales manager, and executive vice-president. He is president and director of Bloomsbury Corp.; director of Rivard-Maumee Investment Co. and Wayne Land Co.; and president of Canadian Grosse Pointe Properties, Ltd. Randolph W. Weed '09 is a vice-president of Detroit Steel Products Co., with offices at 475 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Wardwell is at 2250 East Grand Boulevard, Detroit 11, Mich.

'08 BS, '10 MS; '44 BS—Maurice C. Burritt of RD, Hilton, retired from the New York State Public Service Commission March 31. He and Mrs. Burritt spent April in Coral Gables, Fla., with their son, Maurice B. Burritt '44, who is recovering from polio. Young Burritt is still in the hospital, but gets out in a wheel chair and on crutches.

'10 CE—Howard T. Critchlow, formerly chief engineer of the division of water policy and supply of the New Jersey State Department of Conservation, has been named by Governor Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey director of this division in the reorganized Department of Conservation and Economic Development. He will retain direct supervision over the engineering activities of the division. Critchlow's headquarters are in Trenton at 28 West State Street. He lives in Trenton at 577 Rutherford Avenue and is chairman of the secondary schools committee of the Cornell Club there. He is the father of Howard T. Critchlow Jr. '36, Raymond R. Critchlow '40, George F. Critchlow '42, and Mrs. William Blackman (Ruth Critchlow) '46.

'11 BArch—Arthur B. Holmes is executive director of the New Jersey Society of Architects and the New Jersey Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, with headquarters at 1 Clinton Street in Newark. head of the firm. Home offices are at 200 Grain Exchange, Minneapolis 15, Minn.

Class of 1913

E. J. J. Kluge, Correspondent
Rm. 1205, 70 Pine St., New York 5, N. Y.

Don Beardsley reports 255 cash customers as of April 18. What's the matter—don't the rest of you like this column even $5.00 worth?

We are glad to report that our Class still has at least one worthy representative in the Philippines. He is Carlos L. Locsin, who is mill superintendent for Victorias Milling Co., Inc., at Victorias, Occ. Negros, Philippine Islands, engaged in the manufacture of raw and refined sugar and alcohol. He has written a number of scientific papers on sugar and sugar cane, is a director of two educational institutions, and has five children and six grandchildren.

Amos K. Hobby, formerly chief chemist and director of research and development, Woonsocket (R. I.) Color & Chemical Co. has joined Research Laboratories Corp., PO Box 388, Durham, N. C., as vice-president and director of chemical research. His work will focus on the development of treatments for mothproofing, flameproofing, etc., as well as production controls and testing of processed fabrics, rugs, etc.

Frank B. Bailey lives at 657 Washington Avenue, Albany, and has taught for many years in Albany high schools. He received first prize for an original composition in a contest sponsored by the Mendelssohn Club of Albany, in which he sings bass. Don't forget our Fortieth in '53, Frank; we can use that voice.

Harry Schmelter is approaching his twenty-fifth year with the Dime Savings Bank, Brooklyn. He finds this a far cry

NOTICE OF ANNUAL MEETINGS

Cornell Alumni Association — Cornell Alumni Fund Council

Bailey Hall June 11, 1949 10:45 a. m.

President Day's Report to the Alumni

Report of Alumni Trustee Elections

Election of Officers, Alumni Fund Council

from his early post-college days when he and his crew of timber cruisers often put their automatics under their sleeping bag pillows after having drawn dirty looks from groups of British Columbia Indians. Judging from what this correspondent has read of Brooklyn recently, shouldn't you, Harry, continue the practice?

C. H. Newman's daughter is Cornell '51 and his son will be '53. Charley took the whole family to New York recently but after three days had to ship them back to Ithaca while he went to Florida for a week's rest.

Marcel Sessler has returned safe and sound to the bucolic scene at Lyme, N. H., after some 12,600 miles by car and, he vows, 126 at least on foot. Visits with three '13ers enroute developed the following data of interest: Carroll "Hendy" Hendrickson of Frederick, Md., is largely engrossed in his growing number of grandchildren and still sings almost as well as he did in the Glee Club. Fred McClintock, when not immersed in his duties with Standard Oil Co. of California, furnishes his guests with eye-filling views of The Golden Gate and—refreshments! Lysle Aschaffenburg was an extremely busy man during Mardi Gras week in New Orleans conducting his beautiful Hotel Pontchartrain. Only trouble, says "Ses," is that "Babe" works too hard.

THAT PEERLESS 35th REUNION CLASS 1914

It's been interesting to follow the budding romance of Ed Truesdell's daughter, Salle A., '50 Arts, and another young friend of mine, Peter L. Detmold '45, who is in the Graduate School studying Musicology. Sally transferred to Cornell in February, 1948, and I have known Peter for five years or so in Book and Bowl. They were married in April. Ed is partner in the firm of Newell & Truesdell Co., importers and wholesale grocers in Binghamton.

Clarence Morse is sporting around Ithaca in a new Cadillac. J. Carlton Ward was in town recently, speaking before a big interfraternity gathering.

There are Reunion stirrings in the air, about 1914 in particular, though there will be a few other Classes present, too. Let me suggest to all serious-minded Reuners (Acheson might even attend) that you take in the round-table discussions with Faculty members on Friday afternoon and the Alumni-Faculty Get-Together Saturday afternoon. The first is still in the experimental stage, but the second has proved itself successful already; you mill around the Memorial CORNELL UNIVERSITY: The Founders and the Founding is a book which places Cornell among those few favored universities that have had their fortunes recounted by a distinguished historian who is also a literary stylist.

Professor Carl Becker, late Professor of Modern European History and late University Historian, here brings to life the story of Cornell's early days and the personalities of her founders and early leaders in a book that all Cornellians will want to own. The triple position of Cornell as a land grant institution, a state university and a privately-endowed school is clearly presented and Ezra Cornell, Andrew D. White, and the other early leaders stand out as purposeful and very human men working in the service of that educational renaissance of the last century in which Cornell was an impressive leader. Carefully chosen documents and an appended address, "The Cornell Tradition: Freedom and Responsibility," complete the book.

"The greatest merit of the book lies in the penetrating judgment with which events and persons are appraised. The review of the Morrill Act and the New York land grant and the characterizations of Ezra Cornell and Andrew D. White command unqualified admiration."—Am. Hist. Rev. 248 pp., illus., $2.75

THE PEOPLE'S COLLEGES: A History of the New York State Extension Service in Cornell University and the State: 1876-1948, records Cornell's signal success in extra-mural education.

From four state colleges of the University—the New York State College of Agriculture, the New York State College of Home Economics, the New York State Veterinary College, and the New York State School of Industrial and Labor Relations—professors have gone out to the people of the state with the best that the University had to offer. In the early days, the professors paid their expenses out of their own pockets in order that the people of the state might benefit from the knowledge and skills that were developed at the University; in 1948 the enrollment in Extension Courses numbered more than 200,000.

Ruby Green Smith, Professor Emeritus in Cornell University and former State Leader of Home Demonstration Agents, has written this book from her own intimate knowledge of the Extension Service gained during many years of work in that Service.

124 ROBERTS PLACE, ITHACA, NEW YORK

Room in Willard Straight and meet some of your old favorites from the Faculty.—E.H.

'14 BS—Isadore R. Asen is president of the New Jersey Association of Clinical Laboratory Directors, which successfully spearheaded the opposition to a bill in the New Jersey Senate to prohibit the operation of clinical laboratories by others than licensed physicians. With the assistance of the American Chemical Society, the American Institute of Chemists, and the American Society of Professional Biologists, the bill was smothered in committee despite a proposal by its sponsors to modify it. Asen is a director of the National Association of Clinical Laboratories, conducts a Clinical Laboratory at 33 Lincoln Park, Newark, N. J., and lives at 71 Rhode Island Avenue, East Orange, N. J. His daughter, the former Elizabeth J. Asen '41, is married to Dr. Benjamin A. Lincoln '41, who practices veterinary medicine in New Rochelle.

'15 CE—Seth G. Hess, executive director of the Interstate Sanitation Commission, addressed the New York State Society of Professional Engineers, in New York City in April. His topic was "Water Pollution Control and New York's Sewage Disposal Problem."

'16, '17 CE—March-April issue of The Explosives Engineer carried a biography and full-page portrait of S. Everett Hunkin, president of the Hunkin-Conkey Construction Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

'16 AB, '21 MD—Testimonial dinner dance, attended by more than 200, was given for Dr. David Warshaw by the staff of the Doctors Hospital of Queens, Jamaica, L. I., April 16 at the Forest Hills Inn. Dr. Warshaw, who in 1944 established the hospital and became its executive director, was presented a bronze plaque citing his fine work as a hospital administrator and his major contribution to medicine and humanity as a leading surgeon of Queens County. He recently was elected director of surgery at Hillside Hospital.

The Reunion crowd is growing rapidly! As of April 20 over fifty checks (with assorted waist measurements, mostly in the forties) were in Jimmy Hillas's cash register. He is looking for your reservation and check. Stragglers always worry Jim. Why not give our overworked treasurer a break and for once in your rapidly-ebbing middle age do something on time. And now is the time to send that card and check!

Remember you cannot attend your 30th Reunion next year or even in August of this year. June 10, 11, and 12, 1949, is the only time!

Here are some new names of Classmates you will find in Ithaca this June: Rudy Deetjen, Victor Emanuel, W. Morgan Kendall, Mahlon Beakes, D. G. Nethercot, Wilbur H. Simonson, I. C. Dresser, James R. Hillas, B. Solovay, M. G. Dial, Harold J. Mollenberg, Everett Gidley.

About forty-five Classmates attended the Reunion Rally dinner at the Cornell Club of New York, April 19. Reports on the early part of the evening are relatively lucid and include talks by Al Saperston and Bill Emerson (I'll bet he is as long-winded as ever). From there on the fog really closed in and the sounds you heard were not foghorns but shower room harmony of Hal Lalley, Johnny Ross, Parker Monroe, Everett Gidley, etc., etc. The fog was so dense that one group trying to get to Westchester found themselves on Long Island and that is why April 20 was such a long and trying day at the office.

Wilbur Simonson is president of the Cornell Club of Washington, D. C. This Club sponsored the Glee Club Show in Constitution Hall March 30 with a record-breaking sale of 2200.

'20, '21 AB—Fields S. Pendleton, Jr. is treasurer of Lyford-Woodward Co., merchants in Bangor, Me. His address in Bangor is 113 Broadway.

'21 AB—Edward H. Van Duzee is director of sales research for Dan River Mills, Inc., 350 Broadway, New York City 13.

'22 CE—Burnett Bear is contracting engineer on fabrication steel construction for Bethlehem Steel Co., Bethlehem, Pa. He has been with Bethlehem Steel for quite a number of years, ever since it took over the McClintic-Marshall Co., which he joined in June, 1922. Bear was general chairman of the Bethlehem concert of the Cornell Men's Glee Club, March 28. He is chairman and a member of the executive board of the South Mountain District, Lehigh County Council of the Boy Scouts. Mrs. Bear is a member of the class of '26 of Sweet Briar College. They have a seventeen-year-old son, who is attending Lawrenceville School and wants to come to Cornell, and a fourteen-year-old daughter.

'22 ME—An article, "A New Method of Balancing Forced Warm Air Heating Systems," by Willis H. Elwood, owner of the Elwood Heating Co., 209 King Street, Ithaca, appeared in the April issue of Sheet Metal Worker.

'22 MS; '22 AB—Charles N. Silcox has been named assistant general manager of the Cooperative GLF Exchange in Ithaca. He continues to be manager of the seed and feed division of the GLF, a position he has held for the last two years. Silcox and Mrs. Silcox (Helen Palmer) '22 live at 312 Cayuga Heights Road.

'23 ME—George W. Holbrook is an oil and natural gas producer. His address is 333 North Main Street, Wellsville. George W. Holbrook, Jr., is a Freshman in Mechanical Engineering.

'24—1924 held a rousing Pre-Reunion Class Dinner March 25 at the Cornell Club of New York, attended by 52 (count 'em) stalwarts from the Greater New York area. Fred Brokaw was chairman of arrangements and Chick Norris kept matters at feverish levels as master of ceremonies. Reunion Chairman Shorty Davis reported that attendance prospects are swelling to record proportions and Costume Chairman Freddie Wood has his end of the business all set to go; all he needs are some measurements.

Latest flash from Reunion headquarters is that 200 have signified that they will join the party in Ithaca on June 9, 10, and 11 and 205 others are undecided. Many haven't replied at all to the Reunion questionnaire. Let's hear from you pronto. It will be the event of your life!

H. F. (Harney) Bassett holds down the Denver office of American Steel Foundries and reports are that he is quite a figure on skis.

D. W. (Dave) Kimball is a big cog in Chicago's famed W. W. Kimball Co., noted for pianos and music in general. Headquarters are at 306 South Wabash.

J. P. (Whitey) Levis accounts for a big percentage of the nation's bottles and other glass products as president of Owens-Illinois Glass Co. of Toledo.

officer assigned there in about two and a half years. Daughter of Benjamin T. Babbitt '97 of 501 Tennyson Avenue, Syracuse, she entered the WAAC in 1942, resigning as secretary to the headmaster of Pebble Hill School, Dewitt.

'28 ME—From A. Ranney Galusha of 50 Cleveland Road, Caldwell, N. J.: "April 1, I returned to New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. for maintenance engineering work after six years with the Western Electric Co. as a material handling engineer. February 20, I became the father of twin girls, Muriel and Minetta. They are a howling success! My wife and I and our five other children completed a 10,000-mile tour of the West last summer. Our house trailer added much to the enjoyment of staying in twenty States. Of all the colored movies that I took, I still maintain the most beautiful were those of the Cornell Campus and adjacent gorges, photographed at the June Reunion."

'29, '30 ME—Robert M. Smith moved in November from Rutherford, N. J., to 79 Park Slope, Ridgewood, N. J.

Camp Otter

A Summer Camp
for Boys with a
Cornell Background

Boys' camps, like schools and colleges, develop in the course of time an individual character, tone, and tradition of their own.

Camp Otter in the Muskoka region of Ontario in its thirty-eight years of continuous existence has achieved an individual identity of a wholesome, rugged, active camp that boys enjoy and parents trust.

"It's sort of tough not to come back to Camp after six summers. During those years it has been my life during the summer and with the opportunity denied me, one can realize how much Camp life and the friendships made there have meant. It is the greatest way of life I can think of for making boys and young men conscious of their ability to be regulated to a different way of life and get something out of it. I certainly want to thank you once again for the wonderful times you gave us at Camp. I hope that this year and for many more to come, you can continue to give the boys and counselors the wonderful times and memories that stay so long with a person."—From a sophomore at a prominent Eastern university where he has been on the varsity crew and hockey team.

They live in Apt. 16C, London Terrace Apts., 440 West Twenty-fourth Street, New York City.

'45 AB—Mrs. J. R. Macdonald (Margaret Taylor) writes from Oxford, England, where her husband is a Rhodes Scholar: "We have been in Oxford now since September and it is very unlike the dreamy cloistered town of English novels. It is terrifically overcrowded with students and all sorts of factories. Haven't run into any Cornellians, though there are lots of American students here. Saw Charlotte McGrady '48 in Paris in January. We hope to get to both Scandinavia and the Edinburgh Music Festival this summer, which plan calls either for wings or a split personality." The Macdonalds live at 140 Walton Street in Oxford.

'45 AB; '46—Mary E. Wood and Robert E. Dalrymple '46 were married March 12. They live on Dalrymple Avenue in Elmira, where Dalrymple is associated with his father in Dalrymple's Contracting Co. For their wedding trip they went to Cuba. Mrs. Dalrymple is the daughter of Edward J. Wood '15.

'46, '45 AB—Myron E. Mendelson has formed his own company for marketing a packaged ice cream cake for frozen food markets. Clementine Paddleford in her column in the March 23 New York Herald Tribune went into great detail in describing and praising the new dessert, called Cari-cake. She concluded: "Cari-cake is the first product of the Cari Frozen Desserts, of 56 Court Street, Brooklyn, opened ten days ago by Mike E. Mendelson. Mike is agog with 'frozen' ideas which he plans to be launching one by one. Mr. Mendelson is a former reporter for United Press, then a switch to encyclopedia editing, a boring job that finished Mike with the business of writing and started him scheming a new career among the frozen desserts."

'46, '48 BEE; '49 AB—Sanford W. Seidler and Jean Gordon '49 were married in New York City, April 7.

'46, '45 AB—Mrs. Newton F. Miller (Dorothy Sells) is teaching in a Friends' school in Pennsylvania, while her husband, a former ASTP student at the University, is attending medical school. Address: 500 South Forty-seventh Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
