Bill sparked his school football team...
now he calls signals on a GM assembly line.

Bill Geshwiler is a Methods Engineer, quarterback of the engine assembly line for Buick at Flint, Michigan.

He works with miniature men and machines on a three-dimensional board, an actual facsimile of the plant. By moving, changing, arranging and rearranging, he coordinates and balances men and equipment for peak efficiency and productivity. He evens the individual work load so that a smooth, orderly production flow is maintained all the way along the assembly line.

Bill has always been a quarterback—in grade school and high school at Beech Grove, Indiana, near Indianapolis. The fact is, he made the All-

State football team in 1954. Passing up scholarships at two universities and an appointment to a service academy, he decided instead on the General Motors Institute in Flint, and was graduated with an engineering degree.

He's the kind that could make any team, but we're glad Bill Geshwiler is in the General Motor's lineup.

General Motors is people making better things for you.

A man works hard to get $400,000

He wants the bank that works hardest to invest it well.

It's a simple truth, whether you head a growing textile complex or a one-man firm: The harder you work for your money, the more you favor our approach to investment management.

Demanding executives have singled out Chemical New York's Trust Investment Department to help manage over one billion dollars of their investments. Why?

SPECIAL CARE: Your investments are managed by a senior officer with an average of over 20 years' experience. His aim—to keep all your investments secure and growing. Each day he reviews and analyzes the market information available to us as one of America's biggest, best-informed banks.

YOU DECIDE: We make recommendations based on an understanding of your individual investment objectives and an analysis of your portfolio. But you may alter them as you see fit. The final decision is always yours.

THE COST: For the care you receive, you pay only a modest annual fee, most of which is tax deductible. A detailed schedule of our investment management fees will be sent upon request.

Wouldn't you like to discuss soon what our hard work and skill can accomplish for you?

A new communications network gives police the jump on fast-moving fugitives

It takes a suspect 85 hours to drive, and nearly six to fly, from New York to Los Angeles. California is ready and waiting for him just four minutes after he starts.

Reason? A fully automatic teletypewriter network just completed by the Bell System to provide better communications for law enforcement agencies from coast to coast.

The new national service, known as Law Enforcement Teletypewriter Service or LETS, cuts from days to minutes the time required to transmit criminal descriptions, license checks, bulletins and other vital police data.

The Bell System is also working on other service improvements to help combat crime and protect the public.

The reason is simple enough. We have an obligation to keep providing the best communications possible—for law enforcement or for you and your family at home.

It looks like a lot more people will be driving station wagons this year.

That tastefully sculpted Executive Safari you see up there is bound to change a lot of thinking about station wagons. Along with its equally new Tempest Safari cousin, it was designed to prove that a wagon can look as good at the opera as it does out at Lake Winnebago.

Together, they bring to eight the number of Pontiac wagons designed for everything from seeing America first to delivering Junior and seven friends to PS 32.

Our new 400 cubic inch V-8 is Executive's standard moving force (our revolutionary Overhead Cam 6 powers the Tempest series) and a flock of new options like a stereo tape player are available to help make getting there more than half the fun.

To get you there safely, we've added new safety features like folding seat back latches, a four-way hazard warning flasher, a dual master cylinder brake system and the new energy absorbing steering column developed by General Motors. Your Pontiac dealer has the whole story. Just tell him you want to get out of town. In style.

WHERE ARE THE ACTIVISTS?

■ The fall term is half over and none of the dire predictions made over a fretful summer have materialized. The "activists" have seemed leaderless and ineffectual. Oh, there was a brief flurry over the alleged lopsidedness of the symposium on drugs (no advocate of drug usage was on the panel); even briefer flurries were occasioned by the questioning of Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory's conducting classified research, and the university's role in administering the selective service tests. But, events and smart, prompt administration-faculty action seem to have "cooled" most controversy.

Watermargin sponsored a forum featuring two LSD authorities, Dr. Sidney Cohen, associate clinical professor of medicine at the University of California and author of The Beyond Within: The LSD Story, and Dr. Ralph Metzner, editor of Psychodelic Review. A week later, it brought Timothy Leary, PhD, and high priest of his own psychedelic religion, to a standing-room-only session in Bailey Hall. By then, the drug question had enjoyed about as much coverage as anyone could stand.

Aero Lab, or CAL, has troubled some people in just about every category - students, faculty, and administration. Classified research - especially in weaponry - by any arm of the university is a big pill for many people on campus to swallow. Some react because of a reluctance to be associated in any way with the development of more efficient methods of killing human beings, others because they fear "classified" research as an ever-present threat to the freedom-of-research-and-discussion atmosphere so necessary to the intellectual vitality of the university. It's too early to say the fuse has been pulled from this potentially explosive issue, but it has been temporarily deactivated while a Faculty Council-appointed committee and one made up of administrators named by President Perkins are working cooperatively on the question. The reports are not expected before next term.

The draft test rhubarb picked up where last term's outcry ended. From a high pitch of moral outrage the controversy fizzled to a bleak meeting on November 15. The Faculty Council Committee on Selective Service Policy on that evening found itself largely ignored by organized campus groups as it attempted to "determine the University's response to the draft and the draft test and to discover their effects on education."

And, so it has gone. The fraternity system, favorite target of the Sun, is in the hands of a Board of Trustees Commission that won't report until next year. Stokely Carmichael and "Black Nationalism" seem to have quenched some of the fire that burned so brightly a little while ago on the civil rights front. Apathy and resignation have sapped much of the enthusiasm for anti-Viet Nam war marches and have made picketing seem like so much wheel-spinning. The one student who stepped out of line at a university-sponsored event was handled quickly, quietly and effectively by the Undergraduate Judiciary Board and the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs.

The Sun and student government have had to content themselves with attacking university food prices - but that's an act they have to share with the nation's housewives.

There has been a noticeably renewed interest in football. Other than that, as we wait for the snow season, there is an unusual calm on the Hill. Perhaps if Secretary of State Dean Rusk hadn't canceled his speaking engagement here, things would be different - as our friends in Cambridge who entertained Secretary MacNamara are well aware.

There have been some expressions of relief heard around the Quad because there has been virtually no activist manifestation on campus this term - so far. On the other hand - for the onlooker - it's also been a bit of a bore. - CSW.

Standard & Poor's Corporation is out again with the college affiliation breakdown of the 71,107 people listed in the current edition of Poor's Register of Corporations, Directors and Executives. Ranking number one again this year is Harvard with 3,561. Second is Yale with 2,620. The rest of the top ten: Princeton, 1,509; Pennsylvania, 1,397; Michigan, 1,268; New York University, 1,200; Cornell, 1,094; Columbia, 975; Illinois, 973; MIT, 932. One third of the executives didn't report attending any college at all.

There are labeling problems. Just getting the name and address stickers on our 39,000 copies now takes five days. It could be done in one.

If you'll look at the labels on the magazines that come to you in the mail, you'll find that most of them have, top and bottom, a little half-hole. Those notches make the difference between hand and machine labeling. But our old equipment, bought when the NEWS circulation was about 10,000, won't make holes.

So, the NEWS is in the market for new addressing equipment. Along with the job of making 39,000 new stencils, there comes the question of how much we should "code" our subscribers. Publications run the gamut on this. The Wall Street Journal is willing to do business on a simple name-and-address basis; a bill just in from U. S. News & World Report says, "When writing about your subscription kindly refer to this code:

LETTERS

More on Alumni Trustees

[The following letters were addressed to Ned W. Bandler Jr. '49, chairman of the Cornell Alumni Association's Committee on Alumni Trustee Nominations. Copies of the letters were sent to the NEWS for publication - Ed.]

I read with great interest your article on selection of trustee candidates in the September ALUMNI NEWS. As an individual who, like many of the letter-writers, found it impossible to vote for trustees at all last year, I have given some thought to the problem. And as the individual who may hold the record for the longest continuous attendance at Cornell, I hope that my thoughts will be given at least some consideration.

I believe that wider alumni interest in the election of trustees could be easily achieved, if the candidates were selected and presented in a way that shows an awareness of the nature of the office. It is my understanding that the Board of Trustees constitutes the ultimate authority in the guidance of the university. There is a corporation, financial-management aspect to this, certainly, but this has been allowed to dominate the selection process to the detriment of a much more important trustee function. This is his role in steering the university, in the broadest sense. To properly fulfill this function he must have considered some basic and important questions. What should a university do in our society, and why? What special opportunities and problems are uniquely Cornell's? How should we meet them? I doubt that there is a Cornell graduate who has not considered these questions at one time or another, and most of us would read provocative answers with interest.

The descriptions of the candidates, of course, tell us nothing of their views on these questions. This omission clearly means that the candidate's ideas and thoughts are not important criteria in his selection. The only information which is presently supplied about candidates which interests me at all is his profession, since from this his interest in education may occasionally be inferred. The only two votes I can remember giving happily were made on this basis, and I think it may be significant that both of these individuals (the director of the Hampton Institute and a professor from the Cornell Medical School) did win election to the Board.

The fact must be faced that many alumni (and probably most of the recent ones) are interested in Cornell, to the extent that they are interested at all, as a university, rather than as their university. For us, past campus activities and membership in alumni groups are of no interest in assessing a candidate. We have a small voice in the guiding of a large university, and this interests us to the extent that we are given a real choice of ideas as to how that university should be run.

My proposal, then, is a very simple one. Every candidate should have a platform. He should certainly be given several pages (if he can fill them) in which to develop his ideas about higher education and Cornell's place in it. Qualified candidates—those who have thought about Cornell deeply and in broader perspective—could then be identified.

Some unexpected candidates might then start to appear on the ballot. I would like to see, for example, some young high school teacher of proven innovative ability with some strong ideas on the nature of undergraduate education. He might have to be given carfare to attend the meetings, but I predict he would win by a landslide.

DEL MAR, CALIF.

Your article in a recent NEWS confirmed what I had thought to be the case, that the nomination process was open, and that every effort was made to seek out and nominate only those who were qualified for the post. But there are two problems with the system. First, it is not clear just what it means to the "qualified." Certainly interest, loyalty, competency, and integrity as evidenced by past work on behalf of Cornell (in any capacity) and success in career (whatever it might be) should be among the criteria for defining success. There is a danger that the selection process might be biased toward selecting those in business careers and from large cities; but this does not seem to have been serious in the past and the openness of the nominating procedure gives interested alumni the chance to correct any oversight on the part of the nominating committee.

The other problem is that degree of qualification (however one defines it) is not a sufficient criterion for choosing among several alternative nominees, at least for those alumni who have their own views about the future of Cornell and the many problems

1966-67 CORNELL FUND

For the betterment of education

To provide a good education is the primary function of any competent academic institution. For some, this is sufficient. But for others it is the starting point of a never-ending quest for self-betterment, and Cornell long ago chose this course as the only way to fulfill its obligations.

Unwavering faithfulness to this concept has enabled Cornell to become one of the principal universities of the western hemisphere. Through its commitment to a balanced program of teaching, research, and public service, it exerts a direct and powerful influence now, and on the future of the world in which we live.

We, through the Cornell Fund, are thus mak-a contribution that far exceeds the face value of our gifts.

Our gifts to the Cornell Fund have also become increasingly important to Cornell as the pressure of rising costs paces academic improvement.

During the last ten years, every item in the University budget went up—a rise paralleled by a corresponding need for an increase in unrestricted income, an increase in the size of our gifts to the Cornell Fund.

The Cornell Fund is maneuverable money, using the quiet power of its cumulative strength to maintain Cornell's greatness. With our help, it will always be there when needed.

of policy and implementation which confront the trustees. It is essential, if the election of trustees by the alumni is to have any value, that the electors have some means of obtaining the information by which they can make an intelligent choice. At first glance, it would seem that the submission of a statement or essay outlining what the candidates feel are the important issues and their own views on these issues is the answer. But it is an imperfect answer at best. As you suggest, this may give an undue advantage to those who can afford some public relations or research staff. Also, there is the strong likelihood that candidates will draft statements which have a little something for everyone and avoid any positions or statements which might be unpopular with any particular group of alumni. But this is a universal problem in political systems. Anyway, any statement, even an issue-dodging, fence-straddling statement, seems to me to be preferable to no statement at all, for then you know where the candidate does not stand. And that, in itself, could be a help.

If it turns out that all candidates draft the same kind of say-nothing statements, then it is incumbent upon the nominating committee to seek out new candidates who, by their forthright expression of different points of view, display the qualities of leadership that are required of trustees; and if different points of view are not revealed in slates nominated by the committee, the committee should take the lead in seeking out representatives of different points of view so that the alumni in their selection of alumni trustees can play a role in shaping the future of their university.

This is quite a responsibility to hand to a committee; but it seems to be a necessary one since in the present system the candidate does not actively seek the office, rather the office seeks the candidates. Certainly something must be done to improve the system, lest it be continually an object of ridicule and scorn, or worse yet, apathy.

BRUNSWICK, ME.

... and Fraternities

EDITOR: Can you bear yet another letter on fraternities?

It is easy to predict which incoming freshmen are going to be sought after and invited to join fraternities—the tall, the outgoing, the well dressed, the affluent, the polished, and/or the distinguished. Then with the inevitable pecking order attendant on these things, the "top" three or four houses claim the tallest, the most outgoing, the best dressed, the most affluent, the most polished, and/or the most distinguished. The rest of the people submitting their souls to the system are layered on down until their supposed level is reached, and where people of their own kind are likely to be found. Thus, after a few months at Cornell, one's spot on the social ladder is determined for the duration.

This layering process uses as its determinants the very attitudes that education seeks to erase—that is that the depth of a man's soul and the size of his heart can be determined by the cut of his clothes, and that the strength of his character relates to the speed and brilliance of his smile. Those quivering souls already downtrodden by circumstances of background and finance receive thus another rejection by the system, and those most favored add just another honor to the many already attendant on social good fortune.

Quick value judgments, such as must be made in fraternity rushing, are obviously made in society but the moral worth of a system is not determined by the fact that it exists. It could be hoped that Cornell, in molding tomorrow's leaders, might set a moral example by discouraging a method of systematic discrimination.

SCARSDALE LYNNE KEEFE VERNA '60

EDITOR: In his letter, Mr. Turner (Sept. issue) cites Berkeley as among the major universities with which Cornell has to compete "where fraternities either don't exist or have a microscopic influence."

As a recent graduate of both institutions, I would comment that fraternities have much the same impact on undergraduate life at Berkeley as at Cornell. In fact, the problem seems more that Cornell is becoming all together too much like the cancerous multi-versity.

TOUGALOO, MISS. ROGER D. HARRIS, '65

EDITOR: From the exchange of letters appearing in this magazine, it is obvious that the fraternity-sorority debate may well go on ad infinitum, if it is allowed to. The pro-fraternity faction advances the same arguments and the anti-fraternity coalition the same retorts each month.

In attempting to answer Mr. Turner, whose letter appeared in the September issue, and whose arguments admirably sum up those of the "con" camp, I hope I may have the final word in this long-winded debate.

In opening, I'd like to admonish my worthy opponent to compile his statistics a little more carefully before putting them into print. When I pledged at Cornell, in 1962, 70 per cent of my classmates also submitted themselves to the fraternal "cookie cutter," not 30 per cent as Mr. Turner suggests. However, I suppose it's possible that only 15 per cent of fraternity men make it as far as graduation, which would justify my fellow Cornellian's figures. It is presumed that the remaining 55 per cent of the freshman class was allowed to float out of Cornell in a tide of inebriation, despite such paltry placebos as fraternity study tables and enforced quiet hours. Yet this is contrary to life's most basic law, "self-preservation," which is so elemental that it can even be comprehended by fraternity men. It is my experience that self-preservation, if no more edifying reason, such as friendship, motivates fraternities to everything in their power to see their members safely through the "obstacle course" of the classroom.

Though fraternalism may be a "negation of all that has made America great," of the virtues of freedom, individualism, and independence, it has many lesser qualities to teach: qualities such as the ability to work and get along with other human beings, to occasionally put the good of a group ahead of one's own goals and desires, the practice of self-sacrifice.

Mr. Turner's contention that fraternities are "virtually the only social force" on campus may well be the most serious defect in his argument. After the student graduates, no matter how tightly he clings to his "independence," at some time or another during his life he will inevitably be forced into contact with other members of the human race. Before being subjected to this cathartic event, it may have behooved the student to observe and experience at close hand the customs and attributes necessary to life within society. Up to now, this opportunity has been offered to every student who has entered the university. Why in this era of increasing freedom should this one liberty be denied?

FOREST GROVE, ORE. PATRICK J. HUSTON '65

EDITOR—: For some time I have been reading articles and letters in the NEWS that cause me a great deal of concern as to what is wrong with Cornell.

I do not have before me several recent issues, as they are en route from my summer home. However, I note a letter in the September issue from Mr. Harvey S. Turner '52 on the theme, "Fraternities Must Go."

We have been hearing this sort of nonsense off and on for at least the more than half-century that I have known and loved Cornell. One thing that seems to be overlooked by these people is that there is no compulsion about joining a fraternity. If they do not appeal to anyone, let him refrain from joining one. That is his inalienable right.

If I feel happier by joining a fraternity, that is MY inalienable right and neither Mr. Turner nor anybody else, including the university itself, has the slightest right to criticize me or to interfere in any way whatsoever.

I have a right to choose my own associates and to set up rules by which I and they desire to govern ourselves. If we wish to invite some individuals to join with us and live with us, and if we wish to refuse to invite other individuals, that is our basic human right, and if we did not insist upon it, no fraternity or any other club could possibly survive.

Mr. Turner's letter is a fair sample of the current craze for regulating other people's lives and most of what he cites as arguments for eliminating fraternities is pretty silly.

As long as a student at Cornell keeps in mind what his parents send him there for—an education—and keeps his marks up to the proper level, and in addition, comports himself as any other good American citizen should do, the university has not the slightest right to enquire into, or regulate, whether or not he should or should not associate himself with others in a fraternity, or to live in such a house if he so chooses. The sooner this ridiculous and un-American propaganda is terminated at Cornell, and other colleges, so much the sooner can our students get down to the business of acquiring the knowledge they are in Ithaca to get.

sible for this error, for though I have no recollection of doing any such thing, I am told that I did sign the notebook for Row 6, "Clarence Hotson, '18."

It appears that this was the result of force of habit and perhaps advancing years, for it is true I had been for many years identified with the Class of 1918, for which I had a high regard, which still continues.

I entered Cornell in 1912, and thus started with the Class of 1916, but from 1914 to 1916 I had to be out of college for financial reasons. I came back in 1916 and finished in 1918, and therefore decided to be identified with the Class of 1918. It was only within a few years that an old friend in the Class of 1916 convinced me that I belonged with the class which I had started, and I therefore had my membership transferred to the Class of 1916. I am sorry that the Editor did not consult the Directory of the Class of 1916. It seems that the Directory of Living Alumni is still out of date in this particular.

Certainly when I had my picture taken with the Class of 1916, I was a member of that class, and had been for some time. It just shows what force of habit can do to a person!

Cornell Sports Coverage

EDITOR: I am enclosing some clippings from Dayton, Ohio newspapers. The Cornell Athletic Association or the Publicity or Public Relations Departments might like the clipping on the anniversary of the Dartmouth - 5th down game - to see the sort of coverage they get in the midwest. It is usually difficult to find out the score, let alone read an account, of any major sports event at Cornell in this area, and minor Cornell sports, of course, are NEVER mentioned in our local papers.

Cornell in Pictures: THE FIRST CENTURY

Originally compiled by the late Charles V. P. ("Tar") Young '99, Professor of Physical Education, and Honorary Associate, Cornell University Archives. New edition by H. A. Stevenson '19, editor emeritus, Cornell Alumni News. Published by the Quill and Dagger Alumni Association.

Back in the summer of 1953, "Tar" Young wrote in the preface to the first edition, "Cornell in Pictures: 1868-1954 will, we hope, be expanded, supplemented, and improved on the occasion of the one-hundredth anniversary of this still-growing University."

This is the "expanded, supplemented, and improved" Centennial edition with pictures from the early days of the University down through the Centennial Convocation.

Published in a big, new format (9 x 12), with more than 590 pictures and an index of some 1,700 separate entries, CORNELL IN PICTURES: The First Century "tells the story of the glory of Cornell" — from campus capers, athletics, and theatrical productions to faculty, the beauty of the campus, and events (serious and trivial, formal and informal). And, of course, your fellow Cornellians. 176 pages, 593 pictures, 9 x 12. $7.50

SUMMER INTERNS

A CORNELL PROGRAM
AFFAIRS

BY MARTIN B. STILES

■ "No, we're merely undergraduates at Cornell," they told Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, Hugo Black.

"By the questions you've been asking, I thought you were law students," the oldest member of the nation's highest court replied.

The 80-year-old jurist, who has been a member of the court in back of the Capitol since 1937, made the observation following a three-hour dialogue with more than 30 question-firing Cornell students. All were in Washington as job holders during the past summer vacation. The talk with Black was one in a number of similar seminars which epitomized the meaning and purpose of the newly instituted Cornell University Public Affairs Summer Internship program. Through the program, 65 Cornell undergraduates worked elbow-to-elbow and talked face-to-face this summer with such government leaders as Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and New York's Senator Robert F. Kennedy. Forty students worked at government jobs in Washington, D.C., and 25 at jobs with the government of New York City. On the Cornell campus this fall, a 19-year-old student, who took part in the Washington program, observed:

"You realize you can deal on an equal footing with these men. They'll actually sit down and talk and respect what you have to say and sometimes do what you say. Often they ask, 'What do you feel about this?' Black, Shriver, Rusk . . . they were great."

The student, who was rushing between classes, kicked at a clump of brightly colored dead leaves and added: "There are some down there, though . . . you find just don't have it. They can't deal on an equal footing with you or anything."

The students have returned to the campus with opinions, favorable, unfavorable, objective and subjective about what they saw and did during the summer. The opinions are not based on sideline observations, but on participation in performing the great and little tasks that total the daily work output in both the nation's Capitol and the world's greatest city. The students were there to work. Their contributions were often significant.

Steven Schlesinger '67, as intern in the legislative reference service of the Library of Congress, wrote speeches all summer. His father is Rudolf B. Schlesinger, William Nelson Cromwell Professor of International & Comparative Law, Cornell Law School. Cary Hershey '67, helped prepare a 75-page research report for the U.S. Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. His report on housing and urban development legislation will serve as a basis for a larger commission report. David F. Maisel, Arts '68, worked with Congresswoman Edna F. Kelly of New York; Roger Abrams '67, a government major and State Department intern, wrote a report used by State Department officials in negotiating new cultural exchanges with Communist bloc countries; William Falik '68, an English major, while serving as an analyst in the Library of Congress, researched a paper on recent Supreme Court decisions on the legality of confessions after interrogation of suspects; Claudia Goldin '67, an economics honors student, while working in the plush glass offices of the Pan American Union, World Health Organization, studied the effects of malaria on economics and environment in South America. In New York City, Donna Davis '69, majoring in the biological sciences, worked in the City's Department of Hospitals; Lawrence Mackles '67, psychology, served in New York City's Mental Health Bureau; and Patricia Smith '67, history, spent her summer in the City's Department of Welfare.

Many of the students, as interns with senators and congressmen, were in the daily behind-the-scenes activity that goes into the making of the country's laws. The experience has deeply influenced many of them. Says Hershey:

"I always wanted to attend Law school, but that's not unique. My summer internship, however, has added substance and definition to my career objectives, for now I have some idea of what I want to do with a law education."

Hershey says as a direct result of his summer experience he is making specific plans, including a timetable, for his future:

"I'm in the process of applying right now for a four-year combined law and master's program, in which I would get an LLB in three years, and for the fourth year I would get a master's degree in city planning and urban affairs. I would specialize in urban land law. . . . Of course, when I finish my education five years from now, I intend to return to Washington and enter a career of public service."

Not a new idea at many schools, the summer intern program was introduced at Cornell this year largely through the efforts of students and one student in particular: Steven Simmons of Great Neck, a junior majoring in government. Simmons, who has been described as "Mr. Summer Intern" by Steven Muller, PhD '58, vice president for public affairs, developed the idea from a private summer intern program he conducted for himself two summers ago. As he puts it:

"I was working in Senator Robert Kennedy's office as an intern. I had not gotten the job through any program at Cornell. It was, I guess you'd say, an individual effort.

"While I was down there, I had the opportunity to see a lot of other programs operating. Specifically, there was a girl working next to me in the office who was part of the Mount Holyoke program, and she told me that there were 39 girls from Mount Holyoke in Washington, and that none of them had had to leave the Mount Holyoke campus to get their jobs. In fact, their intern program had been so successful that those 39 girls selected their jobs from 109 openings. So I came back to school wondering why Cornell with its student body, its fine name and its excellent government department was not in the running in terms of intern programs. I handed in a resolution to the Executive Board of Student Government which proposed the establishment of a steering committee which would try to institutionalize an intern program at Cornell." Less than a year after Simmons had worked in the office of Robert F. Kennedy, he was working again in Washington, this time in the office of Vice President Humphrey. Surprisingly enough, though, he didn't get the post through the newly established Cornell Summer Internship program, but again through, as he says, "an individual effort."

At any rate, most of Cornell's summer interns did obtain their summer jobs through the mechanism of the university's new program. In fact, one of the big responsibilities in making the program a success is the on-campus screening of would-be interns. Last spring, 88 students were considered for placement.

Rep. Gerald Ford (Rep., Mich.) meets with interns in the House Minority Leader's office in the Capitol. Shown here in the front row are Judith Areen '66, Todd L. Kiplinger '68, Seth Goldschlager '68, two students from other universities, Leslie Glick '69, and a third visitor.

Barbara Miracle '68 sits at desk of Sen. Strom Thurmond (Rep., S.C.) as the Senator talks with Cornell students.

Seventy-two were offered jobs, and 65 accepted. There were 47 men and 18 women. Divisions represented were Arts, 46; Industrial & Labor Relations, 8; Agriculture, 4; Engineering, 3; Architecture, 3; and Home Economics, 2. There is little question, though, that the students are running the show. Key members of the steering committee this year are Simmons; Hershey; and Seth Goldschlager '68, who served as an intern last summer with Representative Seymour Halpern of New York.

The Cornell interns were among 6,300 college undergraduates working in the government this summer in Cabinet and Congressional offices and numerous federal agencies. The intern idea, which dates back a number of years, has really come into its own in the past five years. Last year, the House voted funds to each congressman enabling him to hire at least one summer intern at $75 a week. The State Department is considering sending interns overseas next year. And President Johnson gave his seal of approval to the program late last summer when he addressed the interns at a farewell-to-Washington ceremony in the shadows of the Washington Monument. Referring to the multiple aims of the program, he told the interns that their job is "not just to learn, but to make a contribution to your government now." While the federal government is taking an increasingly formal part in the program the sustaining force of the program has been, and still is, a volunteer effort on the part of the students, the universities, government officials, and the many ties in the form of friends and alumni the schools have on the Washington scene.

Simmons points out that the steering committee which formed Cornell's program last spring had representation from the student body, faculty and administration, and that most of its activity was directed towards developing jobs.

"I might point out," he said, "that the Washington alumni gave us tremendous help and support in our effort. Needless to say, there are a great many Cornellians down in Washington who are in the government—I believe 12 Congressmen, plus Senator Muskie. . . . In fact, I was overwhelmed. It seemed to me that if you could gather all the Cornell alumni from Washington into one room, we could control the government."

An indication of what the Cornell Intern program may become can be seen in the way it started to snowball from the beginning. While 40 undergraduates headed for Washington, D.C., the traditional destination for summer interns, 25 others took the shorter trip to New York City. The Cornell students in New York City were part of a program called the Urban Core, which employed college students to work in agencies in the city government. And, as the Cornell intern idea expanded from Washington to New York City, so did the seminar program. One of the student leaders of the New York program, Andrea Jacoby, a senior in the Arts College, was instrumental in introducing the Washington seminar idea to the New York City program.

"We had the distinction, and pleasure," she said, "of being the only school participating in this Urban Core Program to organize a series of extra-curricular seminars. The director of the program, who is a student and ex-Cornellian, liked it so much that he said he would suggest it to the schools in the program next year."

Miss Jacoby said the important thing about the Cornell seminars in New York City was that the group was small and could meet informally with officials.

"First we decided we would talk to Deputy Mayor Costello to tell him just what we thought of the Urban Core Program he had thought up. And after he went home with a few new ideas for next year's program, we decided we'd tackle a few more people. We spoke to a Miss Cunningham from the State Commission on Human Rights, who was working for the re-election of Governor Rockefeller. We spoke to Welfare Commissioner Mitchell Ginsburg, who, incidentally, was very interested to hear about the Urban Core Program since he hadn't known much about it himself. It had just been started this year, and Cornell was instrumental in helping place students. And we also spoke to two Cornellians—Robert Rosenstock '57, who's now legal adviser to UN Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, and Bill Vanden Heuvel '50, close friend of Senator Kennedy."

The New York seminars were an outgrowth of the Cornell seminars in Washington which were an amplification of the various get-together programs used by other schools. The Cornell students in Washington, on their own, organized a list of seminar speakers that reads like a governmental "Who's Who." In addition to Black, Kennedy, Rusk, and Schriver, they met with Selective Service Director General Lewis Hershey, House Minority Leader Gerald Ford (Rep. Mich.), Senator Strom Thurmond (Rep., S.C.), CIA Director Richard Helms, Senator Muller talks to Cornell students and alumni from the Washington area at the Kiplinger party.

Lee Metcalf (Dem., Mont.), Representative Charles A. Mosher (Rep., Ohio), Representative Richard L. Ottinger '50 (Dem., N.Y.), and White House aides John Stewart and Henry Wilson. Summer-speech-writer Schlesinger, who had the duty of notifying the other Cornell interns of the time and place of the seminars, points out a number of interesting aspects of the program: "Our group was small enough to make it possible to meet in the private offices of various officials rather than in a lecture room-type environment. This kind of atmosphere contributed greatly to the free and friendly exchange of ideas which normally took place."

Schlesinger said the seminars were conducted on a highly serious level as evidenced by Justice Black's comment that he thought the Cornell undergraduates were law students. Said Schlesinger: "It would seem that this high level of discussion right from the outset was responsible in large measure for a willingness on the part of the officials to deal with us in a particularly candid and informative manner. One of the most important objectives of our intern program is that the summer's work be a part of the student's general educational experience rather than simply another form of gainful employment. We feel that the intern program, in sum, should contribute to the making of more knowledgeable men, more responsible citizens, and perhaps even better public officials.

"In this connection, it was the seminars which could often both coordinate and focus the diverse and often confusing impressions which each intern had from his individual work. This became quite apparent when the various officials were subjected to questions which related not only to Cornell learning but also to the accumulated experience and, I suppose, gossip which 25 or 30 students picked up in almost as many corners of Washington. In this way, we learned not only from the officials themselves, but also in all humility from each other."

Schlesinger said the seminar with John

Steve Simmons, Claudia Golden '67, Ellen Stromberg '67 meet with Rep. Richard L. Ottinger '50 (Dem., N.Y.) in the latter's office, along with other members of the Cornell contingent in Washington this past summer.

Robert Engel '67 interviews Sen. George Smathers (Dem., Fla.) in the Senate's TV studio in the Capitol.

Stewart, who is assistant to Vice President Humphrey and formerly professor of government at Cornell, gave many of us an opportunity to test the various textbook formulations of the legislative process against the details of the passage of one of the most important pieces of legislation of our time, the 1964 Civil Rights Bill.

He said: "I'm quite sure that later on when we look back at this experience from the point of view of alumni—hopefully—this series of seminars will stand out as one of the really important building blocks in our education."

The successes of the Cornell intern program have opened speculation over the possibility of a Cornell institute for a year-in-Washington program similar to the Junior-year-abroad. Many of the students in last summer's program say their education was enhanced immeasurably by the program. They say that they have been able to match what they have been taught with what they have seen. Many, like Cary Hershey, have developed a clearer picture of exactly what they want to do in life.

As if to work and talk with the nation's leading public officials weren't enough, the interns also dined and danced in their homes. The students' glittering summer social life included parties at the home of Senator Robert F. Kennedy and Cornell trustee Austin Kiplinger '39, canoeing on the Potomac, and weekly mixers at Georgetown discotheques. Several Cornell students, during a moment's boredom, decided to crash a party at the Liberian Embassy. Their presence was announced by the official greeter who, without losing cadence, announced the entrance of the next guest: "His Excellency, the Ambassador of Iraq." Other less enterprising interns also had an opportunity to attend an Embassy party when the Chinese Embassy gave a reception for all the interns in the city.

The story of what the summer intern program was last summer has laid a firm foundation for what it can become next summer. A steering committee of students, faculty, and administration is again at work finding jobs in Washington and New York City and exploring the possibility of instituting internships in the governments of cities like Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland, and Albany. But as the saying goes: "You don't get something for nothing." As far as intern jobs are concerned, a formula of inverse proportions has developed through the years. In other words, the better the job the less the pay. In many cases, "daddy" has had to subsidize partially the intern's stay in Washington. In some cases, he paid the entire bill. In other instances, students maintained two jobs: one non-learning paying job and one all-learning, non-paying job.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk conducts a seminar on Viet Nam and China policy in the State Department's executive conference room. After a brief opening statement, the Secretary answered students' questions for an hour and 45 minutes.

However, government money has begun to come into the picture as evidenced by the $75 a week allotted to congressmen for interns. The Bureau of the Census hired six Cornellians last summer at $80 a week. It was the first time the Bureau had hired interns. According to reports based on last summer's experience with Cornell undergraduates, they plan to hire more interns next summer. Of course, the interns who worked in New York City with Urban Core were paid. Some universities provide stipends for qualified students. The University of California awards certain students with up to $300. The needs of the students in the past also have been met with good-will not just financial aid. Often alumni and friends allowed the students to become caretakers of their homes during the summer vacation months or other prolonged absences by the owners. Alumni homes have often served as half-way houses where the students could stay before finding permanent residences. In the spring, when the students flock to the nation's Capitol for interviews, alumni often provide lodging.

The university put nearly $1,000 into the program last year and provided the administrative leadership of J. David Cullings, assistant director of placement. This year the university is furnishing a graduate assistantship to a student from the government department to assist Cullings.

One of the big projects this year is to enlist the aid of Cornell Clubs in opening internship programs in their respective cities.

Cornell's young intern program appears well on its way. The students are busy as ever. The administration is behind it, and the alumni have and are playing their part. All phases of government in the country are there for the development of intern jobs. But wait, Simmons who worked for Senator Robert F. Kennedy the summer before last and then for Vice President Humphrey last summer, when he helped prepare a report on how effectively college students have been used in the war on poverty, has been thinking this fall. He says he has learned a great deal the last two summers about the administration and operation of bureaucracy and its relation to business. Simmons says he is looking for an intern-type job in industry for next summer. The university's intern program is not quite equipped to handle this request. But wait till next fall when Simmons returns.

Prof. Max Black, director of the Society for the Humanities

Sir Isaiah Berlin

The University:

SOCIETY FOR THE HUMANITIES INAUGURATED

■ "Knowledge is morally neutral, neither intrinsically good nor evil," said Prof. Robert M. Adams, English. "The function of the scholar is to proclaim reality and let the chips fall where they may."

The occasion for this pronouncement was the October 27th inauguration of the Society for the Humanities, which began with a day-long symposium on "The Morality of Scholarship."

Among the other participants was Conor Cruise O'Brien, noted Irish writer and diplomat, who said that "so-called studies" of underdeveloped nations often present false pictures of the countries concerned. The former UN representative to the Congo during the Katanga uprising said the distortions he has seen "are the magnification of Communist activity and the minimizing of Western activity." He said, "so-called studies of the political life of certain countries, which are known to be dominated by the United States, present an otherwise exhaustively detailed picture of the country, leaving out the United States."

O'Brien, who currently serves as Regents Professor and holder of the Albert Schweitzer Chair in Humanities at New York University, said that even works of genuine scholarship are "sometimes touched by unscholarly circumlocution when they approach the delicate region of relations with the United States."

He said that when added to the fact that most of these studies are financed by the United States "or by some foundation whose policies are the same as those of the United States government, it is apparent that here the morality of scholarship has been exposed to temptation and has succumbed with enthusiasm."

Other speakers, other views. Northrop Frye, literary critic and principal of Victoria College at the University of Toronto: "A scholar must work under the assumption that life is better than death, that happiness is better than misery, that freedom is better than slavery." The scholar, he concluded, must be more concerned with individuals than with society.

Stuart Hampshire, professor of philosophy at Princeton University, concurred, emphasizing individual rather than group commitment, and said that "The price of rationality is detachment."

However, Sir Isaiah Berlin, Chichele Professor of Social and Political Theory and a fellow of All Souls College at Oxford University, now a visiting professor at City University of New York, questioned the value of detachment. "In arts," he said, "we are dealing with human beings, their feelings and motives. . . . Any attempt to eliminate concern is futile."

Robert S. Morison, director of Cornell's Division of Biological Sciences, was the main speaker at the luncheon, and Prof. Lynn White Jr., a medieval historian from the University of California, spoke after the evening banquet.

The Society for the Humanities, announced last spring by President James A. Perkins, was established under the direction of Max Black, Susan Linn Sage Professor of Philosophy, to provide a program of imaginative and experimental teaching and research in the humanities.

The Society plans to appoint fellows in three categories—senior visiting fellows of the highest distinction, Cornell faculty fellows on leave from their regular teaching assignments, and junior post-doctoral fellows of high promise. These fellows, drawn from America and abroad, will be, for the most part, teachers and scholars in the humanities proper. It is hoped, however, to include writers, composers, and artists, as well as eventually scientists, statesmen, jurists, and other men of eminent achievement who are articulate exponents of the humane bearings of their professions.

All fellows, whether distinguished visitors or Cornell faculty released from regular duties, will be asked to teach one unit per term, at a level and on a topic of the fellow's choice. Cornell faculty members will not repeat regular course offerings, but will be encouraged to explore subjects or topics they would not normally teach, and in general to experiment both in the content and method of their courses.

Eventually, it is hoped that the activities of the Society will include the establishment of an academy for all the humanities. For the present, however, the Society is not yet in full operation. It has been occupying itself in the preparation of a house to provide seminar rooms and studies for the fellows, and has brought distinguished lecturers to the campus. The October visit of Dr. F. R. Leavis and Mrs. Q. D. Leavis of Cambridge University was sponsored by the Society.

The Society is presently funded by an unrestricted grant of $500,000 from the James Foundation, established by the Board of Trustees as an expandable capital sum in support of the Society. One Senior Fellowship has been endowed by a generous gift from the Class of 1916.

Three fellows have already been appointed: Mrs. Philippa Foot of Somerville College, Oxford, a distinguished philosopher and scholar in the field of moral philosophy, who is at present working on a book about "Virtues and Vices"; Mr. Jean Seznec, Foch Professor of French Literature at Oxford University; and Mr. Neil Hertz, recently an instructor in the Cornell English Department, who is pursuing studies on Wordsworth and Milton.

HANS BETHE HONORED

Nearly 185 friends and colleagues, including many of the world's leading physicists, were on campus October 21 to honor Hans Bethe, John Wendell Anderson Professor of Physics, on his 60th birthday. He has been on the Cornell faculty since 1935. The reason, as one of his colleagues put it: "Hans Bethe is the great craftsman of our profession, the master of the trade."

The program included a day-long symposium entitled, "Some Perspectives in Modern Physics," comprising lectures by Bethe, Bengt Stromgren, Freeman Dyson, '47-'48 Grad, and Richard P. Feynman, all former colleagues of Bethe's.

In Bethe's talk, "Nuclear Matter," he discussed a theory he is currently working on which attempts to explain the nucleus in the way physics can now explain the atom. Professor Stromgren, an astrophysicist with the Institute of Advanced Study, Princeton, gave the second talk, on "Ages of Stars." In this field, Bethe's theories on energy production in stars explain those processes responsible for the birth and death of stellar systems, for the origin of the radiation from outer space, and for the source of energy which has made possible life on earth.

Nobel Laureate Dyson, also from the Institute of Advanced Study, spoke on "The Stability of Matter," and Richard P. Feynman on "Current Algebra and Strong Interactions." Feynman, also a Nobel Laureate, is the Richard Chance Tolman Professor of Theoretical Physics at the California Institute of Technology. He worked with Bethe here after World War II.

The wide scope of the symposium and the varied specialties of the speakers reflected the spectrum of Bethe's contributions to all fields of physics and his wide influence on both men and science. This aspect of his career was also emphasized at the banquet in the evening when Bethe was presented with a leather-bound first edition of a new book, Perspectives in Modern Physics, which contains contributions from more than 40 scientists, all of whom were influenced by Bethe's work, and President Perkins read a letter from President Lyndon B. Johnson congratulating Bethe for his many contributions to theoretical physics and his public service.

A recipient of the Enrico Fermi Award for 1961 by the United States Atomic Energy Commission, Bethe formulated some of the physics theories which were the basis for the development of the atomic bomb. Since World War II he has been a top advisor to the government on scientific matters. He was a member of the first President's Science Advisory Committee and was a key man in the decision to open nuclear test ban negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Bethe concluded the evening by thanking everyone involved. "I have enjoyed it all," he said.

'26 AND SPERRY DEDICATED

President James A. Perkins participated in the dedication ceremonies on October 22 when University Halls #5 was formally named "Class of 1926 Hall." The dormitory building near Stewart Avenue was named for the class in recognition of gifts totaling $200,000 pledged by class members. William H. Jones '26, chairman of the Special 40th Anniversary Class Gift Committee, said that this was the first time a class had united to collect such a large sum. It is also the first time in Cornell's history that a dormitory has been named in honor of a class.

On November 1, University Hall #6 was dedicated in memory of the late inventor and industrialist, Elmer A. Sperry, and his two sons, Edward G. '15 and Lawrence B. Sperry. Renaming of the building was in recognition of an unrestricted gift of about $200,000 to the university by the Sperry family, said a university spokesman. The funds have enabled the university to proceed with a planned renovation program for Sperry Hall, including the installation of new rugs, furniture, and acoustical insulating material.

Mrs. Robert B. Lea, the former Helen Sperry, assisted President Perkins in unveiling a bronze plaque mounted in the dorm entranceway. Elmer A. Sperry Jr. '17 and Mr. Lea '15 were also present.

WHITE PROFESSORS NAMED

The Board of Trustees has elected a botanist, a lawyer and an anthropologist as Andrew D. White Professors-at-large at the university.

Elected to six-year terms were Sir Eric Ashby, master of Clare College, Cambridge University; Gino Gorla, director of the Institute of Comparative Law at the University of Rome, and Louis S. B. Leakey, a paleontologist, anthropologist and historian.

Ashby, who gave the principal address at the Centennial Convocation in 1964, is a former president and vice-chancellor of Queens University in Belfast. He was a professor of botany at Australia's University of Sydney and was director of botanical laboratories at the University of Manchester, and has published extensively on experimental botany and on education. He also is a former president of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

Gorla, who studied at the University of Milan, taught private law at the universities of Cagliari, Perugia, Modena, Parma and Pavia. He also taught private comparative law at the University of Rome.

Leakey worked for more than 30 years in East Africa in many areas, including the political problems of the emerging African states. He served as curator of the Coryndon Museum and has conducted research on man's biological history. He has taught at Edinburgh, Yale and other institutions.

Andrew D. White inaugurated the position of "nonresident professor" to be held by eminent scholars. The Board of Trustees revived the practice in 1965, the university's Centennial year.

During the six-year terms, the White professors-at-large are not required to perform regular university duties, but spend periods of residence on campus. During his residence periods, the professor-at-large is entitled to all rights and privileges accorded members of the university faculty and takes part in such teaching, discussion and other activities as he and his colleagues decide upon.

The professorships were started under a $300,000 gift from the Lilly Endowment Inc., in honor of Nicholas H. Noyes

A Policy for Cornell Architecture

The Board of Trustees has adopted an architectural policy to unify the Cornell of the past, present, and future. Vice Provost Thomas W. Mackesey, Grad, prepared the policy after consulting with the Faculty Committee on Environmental Values which was formed last year.

A key passage: "While the importance of direct and vigorous architectural solutions is paramount, it must be remembered that each new building will be placed in a setting that has evolved over a century. It will not stand alone as an isolated monument, but will contribute to, and become part of, a total environment. This environment, with the older buildings, the spectacular gorges, the views across the town to the west, of the Lake to the north, of the valley to the south, the symbolism of the Library Tower, must be not only recognized but embraced by the architect."

The policy specifically discusses the problems of encroachment on open spaces and of high-rise buildings, necessary "in order to hold down land coverage and to preserve that sense of spaciousness which is a fortunate characteristic of Cornell." Thus, architects of the high buildings must consider the profile of the university as seen from the town and the hills, while the architects of the lower buildings must especially consider the developing roofscape and the pattern of the campus as it will be seen from the upper stories of the higher buildings.

Death of Nobel Laureate Peter W. Debye

Professor emeritus Peter J. W. Debye, Nobel Prize-winning physical chemist, died on November 2 in Ithaca at age 82. He had been hospitalized after a heart attack on October 28.

Debye, Todd Professor of Chemistry, emeritus, at the university, is known internationally for his work on molecular structure as well as for numerous other contributions of fundamental importance to chemical physics. The specific heat of solids, the theory of strong electrolytes, the scattering of ultrasonic waves and X-ray diffraction techniques are only a few of these. His discoveries constituted much of the foundation for the development of synthetic rubber, high-octane gasoline, and rayon.

He received the Nobel Prize in 1936 for his explanation of the strange behavior of salts in solution. He demonstrated that each sodium atom was surrounded by a cloud of chlorine atoms and vice versa.

Franklin A. Long, vice president for research and advanced studies, said Debye's career could actually be divided into two phases—the period until 1939 in which he worked in Europe and during which he received the Nobel Prize, and the period in which he worked in the United States. "If he hadn't won the Nobel Prize for his work in Europe, he certainly would have for his work in this country," Long said.

Born in Maastricht, The Netherlands, Debye graduated from the Technische Hochschule in Aachen after studying electrical engineering, and received his doctorate in physics in 1908 from the University of Munich.

In 1911, at age 27, he succeeded Albert Einstein as professor of theoretical physics at the University of Zurich. Following several teaching and research assignments he became director of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute—now the Max Planck Institute—for Physics in Berlin in 1935.

He left Germany in 1939 and reached the United States by way of Italy. Coming to Cornell in 1940 to give the Baker Lectures in chemistry, he stayed on to become a professor and head of the chemistry department, becoming a professor emeritus in 1952. At the time of his death, Debye was directing four research associates in projects supported by three federal and one private grant.

Debye held honorary degrees from 17 universities and colleges and was a member of more than 20 academies. In addition to the Nobel Prize, he received many awards including the Faraday Medal and the Priestley Medal. The latter, awarded annually by the American Chemical Society, is the highest honor in American chemistry. In 1964 the Journal of the American Chemical Society devoted an entire issue to articles contributed in his honor—the third time in the Society's 85-year-history that such an honor has been bestowed.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, and a son, Peter, PhD '44.

Aeronautical Lab Under Study

President James A. Perkins has established a committee to study the relationship between the university and Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory of Buffalo (CAL). The Laboratory is a non-profit, independently-managed, research center which has been wholly-owned by the university since 1946.

Franklin A. Long, vice president for research, will serve as chairman of the committee which will investigate and make recommendations to President Perkins on all aspects of the relationships between the university and the Laboratory. Among the specific points which will be studied are: CAL's effectiveness as an applied research center; the importance of the role it is performing; the necessity for a formal link between CAL and the university; mutual advantages resulting from this relationship to both the Laboratory and the university; and any changes in this relationship that may be desirable.

The Faculty Council has also established a committee to examine the implications to Cornell of the operation of an applied research laboratory such as CAL. This committee, which will cooperate and interact with the president's committee, will pay particular attention to the classified research aspect of such a laboratory.

Both committees are expected to submit reports early in 1967.

Bellevue Hospital Connection Severed

Cornell has severed its 68-year association with Bellevue Hospital in New York.

The hospital is planning a gradual one-quarter reduction in its number of patients in order to facilitate the renovation and consolidation of its medical services. Until now, Cornell has provided one-quarter of the medical staff, Columbia one-quarter, and New York University one-half.

Cornell's major teaching hospital is New York Hospital, while Columbia's is Presbyterian. Bellevue is the major teaching hospital of New York University.

Cornell has led in major research studies at Bellevue, particularly in metabolic studies, neurology, and antibiotics. The university also developed the use of anticoagulants in stroke therapy there, and the first artificial kidney in the city was introduced at Bellevue by Cornell.

The university has agreed to staff the Kips Bay Health Center in New York.

Graduate School Requirements Eased

In keeping with last spring's elimination of uniform language requirements for all graduate students (see the June ALUMNI NEWS), the Graduate School has announced a series of legislative changes which, said W. Donald Cooke, dean of the Graduate School, will "give more procedural jurisdiction to the fields."

One such change allows the awarding of a master's degree without completion of a thesis. It was made to cover unusual circumstances for students enrolled in a PhD program who are unable to finish their studies.

As an example, Cooke cited the coed wife of a graduate student who earns his doctorate and moves on, forcing his wife to leave school without completing her program. "Under the old rules," he said, "the wife had nothing to show for her work at Cornell, no matter how extensive." Now a special committee in her field may give such a student a master's degree after four terms of residence, if warranted, even though she has not completed a thesis.

Other changes include a drop in the number of oral examinations required for a PhD student from three to two and the possibility of a single minor. Cooke said the elimination of a second minor by some fields will allow a student to tailor his selection of elective courses more closely to his own particular needs.

One uniform requirement, however, designed to abolish the perpetual student, has been strengthened: "no more than four years may intervene between the first registration in the Graduate School and the completion of all requirements for the master's degree and no more than seven years may intervene for the doctoral degree."

Archives in New Microfilm Project

The university has launched a new project in a federally-sponsored program of service to scholars—the microfilming of historical papers from the Collection of Regional History and University Archives.

As part of an experimental program financed by the National Historical Publications Commission (NHPC), Cornell has joined with 15 institutions in filming the collections of writings and correspondence of persons of national interest whose work may not have been adequately covered in letterpress publications.

Cornell's contribution to the program started with recording on film the papers of George Bancroft, a diplomat and historian who wrote the first comprehensive history of America.

The project director, Herbert Finch, associate archivist of the Collection of Regional History and University Archives, said Cornell started with one of its smaller collections because it was a pioneer effort and "the Bancroft Papers provided fewer problems as the mechanics of the process were worked out."

The success of the Bancroft project, which was cited as an example for other institutions to follow, resulted in NHPC approval of Cornell's second project—the papers of Andrew Dickson White. Whereas the Bancroft Papers consisted of materials filling just eight boxes, the White Papers include 110,000 items filling more than 200 boxes.

Finch said the White project will be done over a two-year period at a total estimated cost of $45,840. Cornell will contribute $14,400 to cover indirect costs with the balance in the form of a federal subsidy from the NHPC.

The NHPC, formed to encourage the preservation of American historical resources, had concentrated its efforts in support of letterpress editions of historical papers until 1963, when the microfilming process was proposed as a development of long-range influence.

A Committee Looks into Academic Freedom . . .

Issues raised by the recall of a graduate student from the university's Philippines project last spring are being considered by the subcommittee on academic freedom of students of the Cornell chapter of the American Association of University Professors. The College of Agriculture student, Fred Magdoff, who is now working toward a doctoral degree and is a recipient of a National Science Foundation traineeship, was among eight students doing research and teaching at the University of the Philippines College of Agriculture under a mutual exchange program.

Magdoff's father, who teaches economics at the New School for Social Research, visited his son last March and was accused by Manila papers of organizing mass demonstrations opposing the war in Viet Nam. The student has said he felt his association with members of the Philippine nationalist group was a factor in the decision to ask him to leave.

Professor Kenneth L. Turk, MS '31, PhD '34, animal husbandry, director of International Agricultural Development and in charge of the exchange program, said the dismissal was initiated by the vice president of the U of the Philippines. "It was the only thing to do," he added. "Our projects are abroad only at the invitation of the particular country. When the host country asks us to do something, we have to remember we are there at their pleasure. It is the policy of the projects that go abroad not to engage in the politics of the country."

. . . Another Examines Selective Service Policy

Selective Service policy as it affects Cornell will be investigated by a special faculty committee recently appointed by the Faculty Council. The committee, to report in December, will consult with undergraduate and graduate students as well as members of the faculty and administration. The Faculty Council also supported the administration's decision in August permitting use of university facilities for draft examinations in the fall. It requested, however, that no further examinations be scheduled until the special committee's report has been submitted and acted upon by the university faculty.

Students Protest Food And Food Prices

The latest campus institution to come under student fire is the department of housing and dining: Food prices were hiked last summer (see September ALUMNI NEWS, page 22), and when Milton R. Shaw '34, director of the department, was asked about it, he replied that the rises were inevitable and that there would probably be more next year.

He cited general inflation and climbing food and labor costs as causes, explaining that the department is self-supporting and adding, "We know we can serve more, better food in a better environment for less money under a contract dining plan, but the students don't want it."

Meanwhile, the Cornell Daily Sun discovered that during the last fiscal year housing and dining had an excess of income over expenditure of $104,498.62 (as compared with $907.78 for the previous year).

This sum, derived from a jump in the coin-vending business and from a "heavy and good batch of conventions in June," had been added to the department's credit balance to provide a reserve. The Sun, however, concluded that the surplus should have been construed as profit and used to underwrite cuts in food prices, declaring in an editorial: "Cornell students are being exploited and something must be done about it now."

On November 2, the Executive Board of Student Government did something. It issued an open letter to the administration, threatening a boycott of food services and demanding "thorough investigation of housing and dining by an outside efficiency expert," "commitment [sic] to reduce food prices," "university subsidy of housing and dining," and "improvement of food quality and service."

President Johnson Appoints Linowitz to O A S . . .

On October 6, President Johnson announced that Trustee Sol M. Linowitz, LLB '38, would serve as the American representative to the Organization of American States, with the rank of Ambassador. Linowitz will also serve as United States representative on the Inter-American Committee on the Alliance for Progress (CIAP).

The United States OAS Ambassador is the President's representative in the OAS much as Ambassador Goldberg is his representative to the UN. He represents the country on the OAS Council which is the permanent executive body of the Organization.

The US Representative on CIAP works with six other CIAP members representing the other American republics to review the over-all progress of the Alliance for Progress, recommend policy, to review plans and performance of Alliance members, and to coordinate all Alliance efforts requiring multilateral action.

Said the President, "Mr. Linowitz will work closely with Secretary Rusk, Mr. Gordon, and me in the formulation of our Latin American policies."

. . . And Perkins to World Education Conference

President Johnson has appointed President James A. Perkins to help organize a world conference on education scheduled for 1967. Perkins will assist John W. Gardner, Secretary of Health, Education & Welfare, in organizing the project. The conference is expected to discuss the educational needs of various nations and how they can best be met.

A New York Times editorial on Oct. 18, 1966 said: "The effectiveness of the education conference will be greatly enhanced by the fact that it is to be organized by Secretary John W. Gardner, with the aid of Dr. James A. Perkins, president of Cornell University, rather than by the State Department."

Student Loans Suffer Cutback

A serious cutback in funds for student loans is reported by the Financial Aids Office. Gary Lee, associate director of the Office, said that the university's request for loan funds under the National Defense Student Loan Program has been cut by some $82,000, a reduction of almost 20 per cent. In addition, some students have been unable to secure bank loans under the federal Guaranteed Student Loan Program because of the tight money situation currently prevalent in banking.

Both factors have placed unusually high demands on the university's own resources, and, said Lee, it is thus becoming increasingly difficult to grant loans to Cornell students.

University Press Doubles Sales

Cornell University Press is expected to gross $1 million in book sales this year, a sum double the sales figure of three years back. In 1963, the Press put out 35 titles with a staff of 22. This year, said Roger Howley '49, university publisher, a total of 80 to 85 books is expected, while the staff has grown to 36.

Howley feels that the Press has become not only larger, but also better. Increased income and the resulting enlarged staff has enabled the Press to become more sophisticated in all phases of publication, he explained. The growth of the past few years will level off now with the Press publishing between 85 and 100 titles a year in the future.

Cornell faculty members write about 25 per cent of the books published by the Press, a self-supporting, non-profit academic division of the university. The actual printing and manufacture of the books is leased to firms throughout the country. Howley said, "We publish books that make a contribution to the advancement of scholarship. Most are written by scholars for scholars. Many, however, are written by scholars for the serious general reader."

Freshman Enrollment Down As Planned

Enrollment figures released in October show initial success in the university's efforts to control growth through the next few years: 2,275 freshmen matriculated this fall, a decrease of nearly 300 from last year. This figure is 10 below the quota imposed last spring by President James A. Perkins.

Over-all enrollment stands at 14,006, an increase of 102 students as compared to last year's increase of 801 students. All undergraduate schools except the Arts College came within 10 students of their projected goal.

Official figures indicate a total university enrollment of 10,669 males and 3,337 females, but it was left to the Sun to calculate the male-female ratios: 3.20 : 1.

Next Year - a New Academic Calendar

Beginning with 1967-68, the academic year will start about 10 days sooner and end approximately a week earlier than it now does. Next year, for example, fall term instruction will begin on September 11 and end on December 16, and commencement will be on June 3. This year instruction began on September 21, and commencement will be on June 12.

The new calendar and changes are a result of the faculty's decision to end instruction of fall-term courses by the start of the Christmas recess.

Law School Announces Foreign Law Program

The Law School has started a program in which legal experts from foreign countries will become visiting professors. Dean

Ray Forrester said the program will give students and faculty an opportunity to learn more of the legal systems of other parts of the world and to become acquainted with leading figures in law and government from other countries.

To initiate the program, Ronald H. Maudsley, professor of law at King's College in London, is a visiting professor at Cornell for the fall term. Formerly a fellow of Brasenose College in Oxford, Maudsley has been visiting professor at the University of San Diego, the University of Chicago and the University of Miami, and is the co-author of Cases and Materials—Land Law and numerous professional articles.

"Student Briefings" Begin

The first "University Student Briefing" was held in Ives Hall on Oct. 20, with Vice President for Public Affairs Steven Muller, PhD '58, moderating. Cornell officials explained and answered questions on the university's position on the drug symposium it sponsored here in September, the relation between Cornell and the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo, and the cancellation of a planned visit to campus by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Designed to "establish a continuous process of direct communication with students interested in the affairs of the university," briefings will be held at regular intervals during the academic year.

Muller to Festival Board

The Ithaca Festival has added four more trustees to its board, including Steven Muller, PhD '58, Cornell's vice president for public affairs.

Other new board members are: Edward A. Mooers, chairman of the board of the Hilliard Corp.; Anthony Ceracche, president of the Ceracche Television Corp.; and S. Arthur Shull '53, president of the Lansing Research Corp.

The name of the department of rural education at the College of Agriculture has been changed to department of education because, says Dean Mauritz Johnson Jr., PhD '52, School of Education, "With modern communications and mobility of the population, problems of rural education are problems of all education."

While there will thus be increased emphasis on research into educational problems, attention will continue to be directed to needs of rural education, and the department will still train teachers for agriculture, science, and elementary grades. In the field of agriculture, secondary school courses have been expanded from farm operation and management to include others serving the portion of the agricultural industry which is not on the farm.

The Veterinary College has announced plans for construction of a $550,000 laboratory to combat a disease threatening the state's horse population and tax revenues.

State officials said the disease, equine infectious anemia (commonly called "swamp fever"), has been diagnosed in race horses in New York and adjacent states. A possible quarantine on the movement of horses in and out of the state, or between race tracks within the state, would cut deeply into tax revenues from betting (about $140 million last year).

The disease is caused by a virus which cannot be killed by ordinary disinfecting methods—it can even withstand boiling temperatures for up to 15 minutes. There is no known cure, and, once infected, horses generally remain carriers of the virus for the rest of their lives.

The building will be in the Snyder Hill section of the campus and will be the largest laboratory of its type in the country devoted to the study of this disease.

The field of pure mathematics of the Graduate School has voted overwhelmingly not to accept new National Defense Education Act Title IV graduate fellowships as long as two conditions for holding the fellowships are imposed.

The two conditions are the listing of all crimes, both charged and convicted, and prohibition of membership in any organization ordered to register by the Subversive Activities Control Board.

The action means that no new NDEA fellowships will be awarded to the field starting next year. Current holders of fellowships, which last three years, will be allowed to keep them until they expire.

An Interfraternity Council offer to let seminars be scheduled in "quiet, well-lighted rooms" in 22 fraternity houses has been rejected by the College of Arts & Sciences. The educational policy committee of the Arts College has decided that faculty legislation of last spring calling for university disengagement from the fraternity system prohibited acceptance of the IFC's offer. However, in letters to the IFC, both the College of Architecture and the College of Home Economics have expressed interest in the seminar plan.

The subject of disengagement is currently being considered by a university commission established by the Board of Trustees to study Cornell's social and living conditions in order to bring about a residential environment "that gives maximum support to the educational purposes of the university."

Mrs. Jeannette Van Cleef Booth, wife of the late Dr. Arthur W. '93, died Nov. 1, 1966 in Elmira. For several years her father, the late Mynderse Van Cleef '74, former university trustee, gave a Reunion dinner for all returning alumni out of the university 50 years or more. She and her sister, the late Eugenia Van Cleef of Ithaca, carried on the custom after his death, endowing the dinners in his memory. Her son is M. Van Cleef Booth '39.

During Campus Chest Week this fall, the Cornell Campus Chest collected a total of $12,000, a record for the drive, and expected another $2,000 or $3,000 before contributions stopped coming in.

Over $2,500 was collected from fraternities alone, more than five times the amount given by fraternities last year. (As of last March, 56% of the undergraduate men were fraternity members.) The men's dorm complex contributed a total of almost $7,000, an increase of $1,000 from last year. The remaining amount of money came from women students and people living off campus.

Nineteen of the first 90 recipients of the newly established Herbert H. Lehman Fellowships are at Cornell. The fellowships are provided by the State of New York. Although students from any school in the United States are eligible for the Lehman Fellowships, they must pursue their graduate studies at a university in New York State. They receive $4,000 the first year and $5,000 for each of the three succeeding years of their studies which must be in the fields of social sciences or public or international affairs.

The university is expected to let $31 million in construction contracts before the school year ends. During the same period, much of the $33.5 million building program underway should be completed. The new construction includes five projects: a $15.5 million dormitory complex, a $1 million addition to Lang-muir Laboratory, a $1.3 million addition to Statler Hall, a $10 million research and laboratory pavilion for the Medical College in New York, and a $3 million entomology building at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva.

An Office of Public Information, newly established as part of the reorganization of the university's public relations program, is to be headed by Thomas L. Tobin, former head of the News Bureau. He will be responsible for Cornell's total public information program, including news media and community relations, special events and visual services. John Marcham '50, director of university relations, who formerly held these responsibilities, will now serve vice president Steven Muller, PhD '58, and President James A. Perkins in a staff capacity.

Ten college educators from as far away as California are participating in an Acaademic Year Institute in Radiation Biology at the Veterinary College. The program is designed to give college teachers a chance to get specialized training in radiation biology and isotope methodology and to expand their knowledge in other fields of biology.

The College of Engineering has been awarded a $95,988 grant from the Department of the Interior's Office of Saline Water to improve the "Cornell Process" for desalting water by partially freezing sea water. The process has been tested successfully in a 35,000 gallon per day pilot plant at St. Petersburg, Fla., by the Blaw-Knox Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa.

A tribute to the late Prof. J. W. Debye was offered at the first lecture in the annual Debye Lecture Series at the university on November 7.

Provost Dale R. Corson paid tribute to Debye on behalf of the university, and Henri S. Sack, director of the Materials Science Center, spoke as a long-time friend and associate of Debye's.

The lectures, presented annually since 1962, are sponsored by the Cornell section of the American Chemical Society. Two of the lecturers were subsequently named Nobel Prize winners.

This year's lecturer was Prof. Dudley R. Herschbach of Harvard, who discussed "Molecular Beam Scattering."

Allen A. Funt '34, producer of the television show, "Candid Camera," has lent copies of some 400 films to the psychology department. Under the leadership of Prof. James B. Maas, a seminar of graduate students will catalogue the films, build a taxonomy of psychological concepts, and select pertinent films to be made available to behavioral scientists through a national lending library. Funt has given a grant to provide for equipment and pay for some undergraduate assistants.

FACULTY & STAFF

Professor R. Clifton Gibbs '06, AM '08, PhD '10, physics, emeritus, died Oct. 3, 1966 in Arlington, Va. He started at Cornell as an instructor, was made assistant professor in 1912, and full professor in 1918. He was head of the department of physics from 1934 until his retirement in 1946. That year, he was appointed chairman of the division of physical sciences of the National Research Council. His daughters are Mrs. Charles (Ruth) Jones '31, Mrs. John (Marjorie) Roehl '34, and Mrs. Kenneth (Elinor) Thompson '35.

Professor Lincoln D. Kelsey, emeritus, College of Agriculture, died in Saranac Lake on Sept. 6, 1966, after a short illness. He had retired from an administrative position in Extension in 1955 after 27 years at the university. He directed Farm & Home Week for 14 years, and had several assignments overseas on government and university projects. With C. C. Hearn, he was co-author of Cooperative Extension Work. His son is Paul '43; his daughters, Mrs. Norman (Edith) Lewis '44 and Mrs. Gordon (Martha) Davenport '54.

Professor J. Douglas Hood, PhD '32, professor emeritus of biology and entomology, died on Oct. 22, 1966. He had taught biology at the U of Rochester before coming to Cornell in 1939. He was an authority on thysanoptera (thrips) and taxonomy, and a fellow of the Royal Entomology Soc. of London and of the American Assn. of Arts & Sciences. He retired in 1957.

Miss Frances E. Young '31, associate professor of textiles and clothing at the College of Home Economics, retired on June 30, 1966. Miss Young had been a member of the extension faculty of the College since 1945, after two years as a district 4-H Club agent. She also taught home economics in the public schools of Schenectady for 11 years. The 4-H Clothing Handbook which is used with the beginning 4-H clothing projects in this state was written by Miss Young and Miss Gladys Adams in 1953.

A graduate of the College of Home Economics, Miss Young holds an MA degree from Columbia.

Professor Mabel Doremus, food and nutrition, retired as professor emeritus on Oct.

5. A University of Nebraska graduate with a master's degree from Columbia University, she taught high school home economics in Nebraska and was extension nutritionist with the University of Nebraska for 14 years. She joined the College of Home Economics faculty as extension specialist in food and nutrition in 1950, specializing in the areas of home food preservation and consumer information on nutritionally important foods.

Nils H. Bjorkman, anatomy and histology, Royal Veterinary College in Stockholm, has been appointed the visiting associate professor of histology in the Veterinary College for 1966-67. Besides teaching a course in microscopic structure of cells, tissues, and organs of domestic animals, Bjorkman will continue his research with the electron microscope on the bovine placenta.

Marice W. Stith, a musical educator, conductor, and performer for nearly 20 years, has been named director of bands. He will direct the Cornell Symphonic Band, the Big Red Band, and the newly-formed Cornell Wind Ensemble. In addition, he will be an assistant professor in the music department in charge of teaching brass instruments.

Vernon H. Jensen, assistant dean of the School of Industrial & Labor Relations, has been named associate dean. An economist and authority in the labor field, he has had extensive experience as an arbitrator, and has been on the staff of the ILR school for 20 years.

Professor Gordon G. Hammes, chemistry, has won the $1,000 American Chemical Society Award in Biological Chemistry sponsored by Eli Lilly & Co. and given annually to recognize contributions to fundamental research in biological chemistry by young chemists. A magna cum laude graduate of Princeton, Hammes received the PhD from the University of Wisconsin in 1959, and taught at MIT before joining the Cornell faculty in 1965.

Paul J. Luegans, associate director of the Materials Science Center and acting director during the past academic year, has been appointed assistant dean of the College of Engineering. He will be responsible for the continued development of the college's research activities, will help faculty members prepare research proposals, and will help solicit research contracts through liaison with sponsoring agencies.

Edwin B. Oyer of Purdue University has been named head of the Department of Vegetable Crops, succeeding Prof. Henry M. Munger '36, PhD '41, who will devote full time to teaching and research. Oyer had previously been on the Cornell staff for eight years. He left in 1963 to become associate professor at Purdue where he had received undergraduate and graduate degrees.

The first program of a new National Educational Television (NET) science series featured shark expert Prof. Perry Gilbert, PhD '40, zoology. The program, "Attack Patterns of Sharks," investigated his work of studying the shark's attack patterns by learning more about their sensory mechanisms. The series is called "Experiment" and examines eight experiments that have led to a significant increase in the knowledge of man's environment.

The new chairman of the department of music is Professor John T. H. Hsu, cellist, and one of the nation's few recitalists on the viola da gamba. A member of the Cornell faculty since 1955, he received his bachelor of music degree and his master's degree in music from the New England Conservatory. He is cellist of the resident trio at Cornell and teaches cello, viol, chamber music, and theory.

Sculptor Jack Squier, MFA '52, art, attended the Fifth Triennial Congress of the International Association of Art Oct. 6-14 in Tokyo. He is the American delegate for sculpture to the UNESCO organization which deals with all matters concerning painting, sculpture, and the graphic arts for United Nations members. He will also visit Thailand, India, and Russia, returning in time for the opening of a new one-man show Nov. 8 at the Landau-Alan Gallery in New York.

How agriculture can be made to assume a much larger role in national economic development is the subject of a book by Professor John W. Mellor '50, MS '51, PhD '54, agricultural economics, and associate director of the Center for International Studies. The Economics of Agricultural Development was published by Cornell University Press.

Professor Harry Levin, child development and family relationships, education & psychology, has been appointed chairman of the department of psychology. A Cornell faculty member since 1951, Levin is director of Project Literacy, a group organized at Cornell for research and curriculum development in child and adult literacy under the auspices of the U.S. Office of Education.

Professor E. Elizabeth Hester, MS '47, PhD '52, has been named head of the food & nutrition department in the College of Home Economics. She succeeds Prof. Catherine J. Personius, PhD '37, who retired in August.

Miss Hester was an instructor and assistant professor in food and nutrition at Cornell from 1947 to 1952, when she joined the Pennsylvania State U staff as associate professor of food and nutrition, with responsibility for expanding graduate teaching and research. She returned to Cornell in 1959 and was appointed full professor in 1964.

Prof. Hester has conducted undergraduate and graduate courses at the university on the scientific principles underlying modern food theory and practice, and has led undergraduate seminars in the food & nutrition honors program, graduate seminars, and graduate reading courses.

At the invitation of President Johnson, Dean Helen G. Canoyer, Home Economics, attended the signing of the Truth in Packaging & Labeling Bill at the White House on Nov. 3.

A leader in consumer education, Dean Canoyer was appointed by the late President John F. Kennedy as chairman of the Consumer Advisory Council set up by him in 1962. She served as a member of the Advisory Council and of President Johnson's Council on Consumer Interest from 1962 to 1964.

Herbert J. Carlin, professor and head of the electrophysics department at the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, has been named the J. Preston Levis Professor of Engineering at Cornell. He will also serve as director of the School of Electrical Engineering.

Carlin earned BS and MS degrees from Columbia and his doctorate in electrical engineering from the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn. He has been associated with the Institute since 1953.

In his major work, Carlin is the author of more than 40 articles on network theory and microwave measurements, techniques and devices, and is the senior author of Network Theory, published by Prentice-Hall in 1964. In 1965, the U.S. Air Force Systems Command presented him its Award for Outstanding Achievement for contributions to the theory of distributed systems.

The J. Preston Levis chair in engineering, was established by grants from the Owens-Illinois Charities Foundation, the Ford Foundation, and Levis '24, chairman of the board of Owens-Illinois Glass Co.

New head of the department of child development & family relationships at the College of Home Economics is Prof. Edward C. Devereux Jr., who has been a faculty member since 1950. A Harvard PhD, he had previously taught at the U of Toronto and at Princeton.

Devereux has published on juvenile delinquency, the sociology of gambling, patterns of community leadership, the suburban movement, social ecology, and adjustment to unemployment, while his most recent research concerns consequences for children of varying patterns and parent-child relationships. In 1960, with Prof. Urie Bronfenbrenner '38 of the same department, he was co-recipient of the E. W. Burgess Award for the best design for research on the family.

Professor Bart J. Conta, MS '37, mechanical engineering, is the new acting director of the division of unclassified students. Conta will also continue his duties in the College of Engineering.

The Division of Unclassified Students was established in 1951 to assist the misplaced student who appears to have potential in a different course of study. Frequently such a student is a poor risk for direct transfer to another division of the university, but may succeed in proving his ability while enrolled in the Unclassified Division, Conta explained.

A faculty member in the College of Engineering since 1937 and a professor since 1951, Conta received the BS degree from the U of Rochester in 1936. He was a professor of engineering at Syracuse U from 1947 to 1951.

Four Cornell professors are among American historians who have contributed analyses to a two-volume collection of documents, speeches, and proclamations that have been decisive in this country's development. The book, An American Primer, was edited by Daniel J. Boorstin, history professor at the University of Chicago, and was recently published by the University of Chicago Press.

Cornell contributors are Clinton Rossiter '39, John L. Senior University Professor of American Institutions and Government, who wrote on George Washington's First Inaugural Address. Professor Dexter Perkins, emeritus, wrote on the Monroe Doctrine; Milton R. Konvitz, PhD '33, industrial & labor relations and law, on the Bill of Rights; and Paul W. Gates, John Stambaugh Professor of American History, on the Homestead Act.

Norman C. Dondero, PhD '52, a scientist in the field of microbiology of water and wastes, has been named to the faculty as professor of applied microbiology in the food science department, College of Agriculture.

Dondero was professor of environmental science in the College of Environmental Science & Agriculture at Rutgers U from 1957 to 1966, and is the co-editor of Principles and Applications of Aquatic Microbiology (1963). He was chairman of the Committee on Aquatic Microbiology in the American Society of Microbiology from 1961 until 1964.

Also in the department of food science, Norman N. Potter '50 has been named associate professor. Potter, who received his MS and PhD degrees from Iowa State U, comes to Cornell from the American Machine & Foundry Co. where he was section manager in charge of food technology.

Faust F. Rossi, LLB '60, has been appointed an associate professor at the Law School. A visiting lecturer of law at Cornell during the 1966 spring term, Rossi previously was a tax trial attorney with the Department of Justice and a partner in the Rochester law firm of Rossi & Rossi.

Rossi received his BA degree from St. Michael's College in the University of Toronto in 1953. He was graduated with distinction from the Cornell Law School in 1960, and was one of the representatives of the Cornell Law School in National Moot Court Competition in 1959.

The Rev. Alvin L. ben-Moring has been installed as associate director for service of CURW in a special service on Oct. 9, when the Rev. David W. Connor '59 was also installed as associate chaplain for Roman Catholic students.

Mr. ben-Moring, formerly chaplain of the United Campus Christian Fellowship at Howard University, earned his bachelor of philosophy degree at Seattle Pacific College and later studied at the Biblical Seminary in New York and the Jung Institute for Analytical Psychology in Zurich, Switzerland. He is a playwright, with six plays having been produced, a teacher of judo and other forms of hand-to-hand combat, and was the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics half-mile champion for two years as an undergraduate. He won the half-mile and quarter-mile championships at the Vancouver International Relays of 1953 and was named track and field athlete-of-the-year by the Seattle Post-Intelligence in that year.

Father Connor is a former Cornell student who left the university after his freshman year to enter St. Andrew's Seminary, Rochester. He also studied at St. Bernard's Seminary, Rochester, before being ordained in June, 1964. He has been actively involved in the civil rights and social justice movements which took him to the Appalachia region of Kentucky last year for work with poverty victims.

Donald G. Dickason '53, director of admissions relations, has been appointed director of engineering admissions and student personnel for the College of Engineering. He will direct all the college's functions in secondary school relations, undergraduate admissions, and undergraduate financial aid programs.

Frederick W. Edmondson '37 has been appointed planning officer at the university. He will be responsible for long-range campus planning and the general physical development of the campus, working with faculty committees to determine requirements for new buildings and with architects retained to design the buildings. Edmondson taught in the College of Architecture from 1948 to 1962, and was landscape architect for buildings such as Anabel Taylor Hall and for the engineering quadrangle.

As part of its recent expansion program, the Cornell University Press has appointed three new executives. George W. Bauer, formerly sales and promotion manager at the U of Tennessee Press, has been named assistant director, while Charles Pepper, a science writer for Princeton's Department of Public Information, will be an editor responsible for procurement and assessment of manuscripts in the social and natural sciences. The new sales manager will be

Thomas L. Bonn, textbook consultant and assistant director of training at Franklin Book Programs.

Two veteran newsmen have joined the staff of the Office of Public Information. They are Charles C. McGillicuddy, a Boston University graduate who spent nine years with the Associated Press in New England, and Martin B. Stiles, who worked with the Bergen County (N.J.) Record, for eight years.

Adell McMillan has been appointed program adviser at Willard Straight Hall. She is the former program director at the Erb Memorial Student Union, U of Oregon, and at the Whitman Student Center, Whitman College. Miss McMillan is a graduate of Whitman College and received her master's degree from the U of Oregon.

The Topic Is Dogs

BY ROBERT J. KANE '34

■ No point in saying much about the Dartmouth game. It's in the record book, 32-23, for Dartmouth. It was, nevertheless, in my opinion the finest game a Cornell team has played since we beat a good Princeton team, 34-8, in 1958, and that was eight years ago. We lost this Dartmouth game and we played superbly, but no one wants to hear about a defeat and few will believe me if I say it was one of the finest games a Cornell team has played in a long time — except those who saw it, so we won't talk about it. And it would be foolishly risky to say anything about the upcoming (three days after this is written) Princeton game.

So our topic today is on dogs, on our campus dogs, our sports-loving campus dogs. I love 'em, but when the long catalogue of my sins is totted up on Judgment Day these animals will have been responsible for many of them.

They attend every game on Schoellkopf field, in spite of all our efforts. Our dogs just love football, that's all. I don't see dogs at Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Dartmouth, Penn — oh, maybe an occasional one, but we have a positive claque at our events.

Here is an excerpt from The Ithaca Journal account of the Dartmouth game on November 12, written by sports editor, Kenny Van Sickle: "The game was held up a minute in the first quarter while a Cornell assistant manager, Mel Kronick, shooed a dog, 'Spooky' Wilcox, from the playing field. Spooky is a regular at Cornell athletic events. She especially likes hockey."

In the Yale game three weeks previously there were two dogs in the way of the players and had to be shooed off. One, a smooth-haired, brunette, fox terrier, loved the by-play and kept coming back, happy to be chased. He leaped in the air, pirouetted, and was a positive delight to everybody except those who wanted to get on with the football game. Referee Buchanan finally stopped the game and came over to the Cornell bench and scolded Jack Musick. For the first time since he hit Ithaca the usually calm, equable coach blew his top, in front of 20,000 people. "Why me?" he bellowed, "Am I the dog catcher?"

Probably the most famous of the recent campus dogs was Tripod, a three-legged Alaskan husky, the house dog of Kappa Delta Rho. He was around for a good part of the Lefty James regime (1947-1960). He was not one to shun the spotlight, but he had dignity and never interrupted the football action. He came on, took his bows and retreated when the game started to a place on the sideline. He intimidated his canine friends to do likewise. His era was a period of relative peace between the dogs and us.

For this and other reasons Tripod was held in strong affection by the campus community. There was an uproar when he was threatened with banishment from the campus in the fall of 1958 "for chasing a cat to his death under a Campus Patrol car." There were other misadventures too, said the cops. Nevertheless, the campus united in protest against the indictment of Tripod. Barbara A. Hirsch '59, chairman of the Student Council Rally Committee remarked: "This protest action has had a great unifying effect. It has done wonders for campus spirit."

Professor Clinton Rossiter '39 made this doleful observation on the state of affairs: "First they stop the drinking at the football games; then they tore down Boardman Hall. Now they want to exile Tripod. Next thing you know we'll have coed cheerleaders. But this thing is too much. My children are terribly upset. To them Tripod is Cornell." But the Establishment prevailed, as always, and KDR was given a week to find another home for Tripod, away from Ithaca.

Friday, October 17, 1958 was designated "So Long Tripod Day." There was a loudly mournful demonstration in front of Willard Straight Hall, fiery speakers denounced Campus Patrol and the administration, but a farewell dinner for the three-legged hero at KDR that night marked his final Ithaca appearance.

His infectious sense of propriety on public occasions did not carry over. The very next fall there were no fewer than four dogs bouncing around on the field during one of the early games and the athletic director, from high up in the Crescent, was silently tearing his insides apart watching their depredations. Fuming, frustrated, preoccupied, he was approached from the rear with this question: "Why must we have all the dogs in Ithaca on our football field?" Without turning he brusquely snapped: "They have season tickets," and then he had a visceral seizure as he realized that his questioner was President Deane W. Malott. Before he could stammer out his apology, Mr. Malott had walked away without a word. Returning to his box, the president nudged Mrs. Malott and said, deadpan: "Eleanor, you wanted to know why we have all the dogs in Ithaca on our football field. I just asked Bob Kane and he said they had season tickets."

And maybe they do have . . . Perhaps there is a CUAA dog season ticket. And a special dog gate. Our gatemen swear they do not get in through their wickets.

It's hard to stay mad at them, their devotion to our shows is so complimentary, their cavortings so utterly guileless and full of merriment. But, I do wish Tripod were back to keep order.

A Good Year In Football

BY 'THE SIDELINER'

■ Veteran Ithaca Journal sports editor Kenny Van Sickle probably phrased it best, in his Princeton game story:

"The 6-3 accomplishment, after looking back to pre-season predictions of just plain wonderment, seems good in the starting year for Coach Jack Musick," he wrote.

"It gives him the best Cornell football coaching inaugural year since Gil Dobie's 6-2 in 1920. It also is the best (Cornell) record in eight seasons . . ."

It was a good year in Cornell football.

The losses to Dartmouth and Princeton were tough to take, especially after the thrilling early-season conquests of Colgate (its only loss) and Yale, but the Big Red played good football in both contests.

Musick, though, was proud of Cornell's efforts the last two games, and added:

"The seniors have done well all year," he said. "Their job has been a tough one, and they have been superb. They certainly have set a fine example. If the juniors and sophomores will only emulate them, we'll be in good shape for a long time."

The play of halfback Pete Larson '67 and split-end Ron Gervase '67 was little short of inspirational. Both set school records, Pete in rushing and Ron in pass-catching.

Bill Abel's performance at quarterback was a revelation.

The fullback slot was manned in the last four games by sophomore Art (Buddy) McCullen of White Plains, a good runner and excellent blocker. The halfback post opposite Larson was shared by sophomores Ed Zak of Clifton, N.J., and Jim Heeps of Allentown, Pa.

The line's play was superb.

On offense it was Frank Tamulonis '68 of Pottsville, Pa., at tight end, Reeve (Ting) Vanneman '67 of Old Greenwich, Conn., and Harry Garman '67 of Lancaster, Pa., at tackles, George McWeeney '67 of West Haven, Conn., and Richard Musmanno '68 of Coraopolis, Pa., at guards, and Chuck Roll '68 of Berkeley Heights, N.J. at center.

The defensive line was even more heroic in the last few games, namely Dick Gerken '67 of Stamford, Conn. and Tom Diehl '68 of Rochester at ends, John Wal-tention for the Ivy League football crown with a fourth-quarter field-goal by Pete Zogby '68 of New Hartford the difference.

The victory, before 20,000 at Schoellkopf, was particularly gratifying to the Ithacans, coming on the heels of the previous week's 21-0 disaster at Harvard.

The two teams used different means of travel.

Yale, with senior quarterback Pete Doherty smashing three Ivy League records in completing 24 of 41 passes for 304 yards, struck through the air, managing just 44 yards rushing.

Cornell, on the other hand, picked up only 21 yards passing, but totalled 157 rushing - with reliable Pete Larson '67 of Paxton, Ill., accounting for 82 and fullback Art (Bud) McCullen '69 of White Plains, making his first start, gaining 58.

Musick had high praise for Larson.

"There aren't enough things you can say about Larson," he commented. "He's tremendous. His constant battling for that extra yard is a great inspiration to the others."

Larson's 99-yard kickoff return in the second period, 14 seconds after Yale had tied the game at 7-7, put Cornell in front, 13-7, at halftime.

Yale scored in the third period after a pass interception, but Zogby's boot put Cornell back in the lead with 12:48 left.

Yale had a couple of field goal attempts from 38 and 43 yards out in the last minute, but Dan Begel, Eli kicker, is no Chuck Mercein. The latter, now a first-string fullback with the New York Giants, kicked three field goals, two of them over 40 yards, to beat Cornell, 23-21, at Schoellkopf two years ago.

Oct. 29, New York

Pete Larson, Cornell's fair-headed boy, wouldn't mind playing all his games at Baker Field.

Perhaps he owns some of it.

Larson scored three touchdowns in the Big Red's 31-6 mauling of the Lions. He also had three TDs in the 57-20 Cornell romp two years ago.

Columbia gave Cornell some trouble the first half.

The Big Red led, 10-0, on a field goal by Peter Zogby and a two-yard run by Larson at the end of a 20-yard drive, set up by a pass interception by John Zankowski '67 of Niagara Falls.

In the second half, though, Cornell's might prevailed, and reserves played most of the fourth period.

The Big Red lost the battle of statistics, but won the game.

And in doing so, Coach Jack Musick's men propelled themselves back into con-

Pete Larson had another banner day with 136 yards in 23 carries.

Coach Jack Musick also had praise for fullback Art McCullen, tackle Reeve Vanneman '67 of Old Greenwich, Conn., middle guard Joe Homicz '67 of East Longmeadow, Mass., defensive halfback (rover) John Zankowski, and linebacker Doug Kleiber '69 of Auburn.

The Big Red dressing room exploded in a jubilant roar afterwards when word was received of Princeton's 18-14 conquest of previously unbeaten Harvard, throwing the Ivy race into a four-way tie for the lead among Harvard, Cornell, Dartmouth, and Princeton.

"A new season, a two-game one," several players shouted.

Larson scored three touchdowns, which makes it four times he's scored three in a game, tying a school record.

Pete Zogby put Cornell ahead, 3-0, with a 25-yard field goal, with Larson's 49-yard run setting it up.

Brown's offense was dormant most of the half, gaining 7, 2, 1, 5 and 12 yards on the first five possessions.

Cornell gradually ground out the yardage, leading, 17-7 at halftime, stretching it to 23-7 in the third period, before yielding a Bruin TD in the final stanza.

the third quarter, with the bulk of the 23,000 fans at Schoellkopf in pandemonium, anticipating an upset, and gave Dartmouth a thrilling nine-point triumph, with the final TD coming in the closing seconds.

Beard completed 16 of 19 passes for 274 yards and three touchdowns.

He also caught a pass and quick-kicked 56 yards in one of the greatest individual efforts ever seen here.

"He certainly was at the peak of perfection," a stunned Coach Jack Musick said afterwards. "He was fantastic."

Musick, though disappointed and somewhat shocked at losing, had high praise for Cornell.

"Our kids made a great effort in preparing for the game, played their hearts out during it, played Dartmouth to a standstill, then had the misfortune to see it slip away," he said.

"What might have been an upset victory turned into a tough loss."

Dartmouth was unable to make a first down for the first 28½ minutes of the game. And it was able to muster just 25 yards on the ground the entire game - despite being ranked No. 2 nationally in this category prior to the contest.

Defensive ends Dick Gerken '67 of Stamford, Conn., and Tom Diehl '68 of Rochester and linebacker Doug Kleiber were sensational for the Big Red.

Quarterback Bill Abel '67 of Rochester was brilliant on offense for the Red, completing 9 of 14 passes for 111 yards and two TDs.

"Bill Abel did a great job, "Musick said. "I was thrilled with his fine performance."

Pete Larson gained 83 tough yards in 24 carries, and closed to within 22 yards of Gary Wood's single-season school record, set three years ago. Ron Gervase '67 of Mount Morris caught two touchdown passes.

As late as the last 80 seconds of the first half, Dartmouth had totaled just two yards offense, and was down, 10-0. But the Indians, in a portent of things to come, went 55 yards in four explosive plays in 33 seconds to score and make it 10-7 at halftime.

Cornell went 77 yards midway in the third period for a score to make it 17-7, and jubilation reigned on the Big Red bench.

Dartmouth coach Bob Blackman gathered his forces around him, delivered a short pep talk, and on the next four possessions Dartmouth registered four touchdowns.

Cornell interrupted briefly, after Dartmouth had gone ahead, 26-17, when Chris Ritter '69 of Belvidere, N.J., went 98 yards with a kickoff to narrow the gap to three, with 7:41 remaining in the game.

Dartmouth, however, consumed the next 7:33 with a 67-yard, 16-play drive, with third-down pass completions the key, and fullback Pete Walton dove over from the 2 with the clincher and a deserved Dartmouth win over a plucky Cornell outfit.

Princeton 7, Cornell 0

Nov. 19, Princeton

Two defensive titans battled evenly for three periods, but Princeton won with a fourth quarter touchdown.

Pete Larson gained 112 yards to bring his season's rushing total to 979, beating the 889 mark set by Gary Wood in 1962.

"Larson really put out 100 per cent," Coach Jack Musick said.

"That was tough yardage he picked up."

Another valiant performer was split-end Ron Gervase, who caught seven passes for 100 yards, making his season's total 36 receptions and 559 yards, breaking Cornell records set by Dick Cliggott '53 (25 catches in 1952) and Vic Pujo '52 (420 yards in 1950).

"You can't begin to give credit to Gervase for the performance he gave under trying difficulties at Princeton," Musick said. "He played with a bruised shoulder that I know gave him trouble. It would have kept a less sturdy athlete out of action. But he turned in a tremendous game."

Tom Diehl '68, defensive end, did a fine job against Princeton's single-wing power.

The two teams battled evenly for three periods. Cornell had a chance midway in the third, but a 24-yard angled field goal attempt by Pete Zogby '68 of New Hartford got caught in the wind and went wide.

Princeton recovered a Cornell fumble on the Tiger's 48 early in the fourth period, and marched 52 yards in 12 plays for the score, with tailback Dick Bracken sweeping end for the final five at 7:05.

The Tigers nearly scored again in the closing minutes.

"I felt we had them in our grasp and it was too bad our fellows couldn't pull it off," Musick said.

"We had Princeton well contained throughout. I felt there was a lot of psychology with the flow of momentum in the fourth quarter. The quick changes may have caught our defensive fellows down a little and Princeton was quick to make the jump.

"I felt our team did a great job defensively against a team that scored 18 points on Harvard."

150-Pound Football

The Cornell lightweights, under Coach Bob Cullen, concluded a 4-2 season, with losses to the two service schools, Eastern champ Army, and Navy.

Following two season-opening victories, the Red bowed to Navy at Annapolis, 22-16. Cornell held 3-0 and 9-7 leads before falling. Bob Smith '68 of Plainfield, N.J., a halfback, scored both Cornell touchdowns on passes from quarterback Rick Fricke '67 of Darien, Conn.

Steve Schuck '67 of Philadelphia, Pa., had a 17-yard, soccer-style, field goal.

Navy quarterback John Burch ran for one TD and passed for two others.

The Big Red bounced back for a 21-6 conquest of Rutgers, with Smith starring both offensively and defensively. He had two touchdown passes from Fricke. Halfback Jim Alexander '67 of Bedford, Ohio, scored the other TD.

Sophomore quarterback Ken Bevis threw three long TD passes and ran for a fourth to lead Army to a 25-7 victory at West Point in the next game to eliminate Cornell from title contention. The Red, which held Army's rushing to a minus-7 output in the first half, scored in the second period on a nine-yard pass from Fricke to Alexander to temporarily tie the score, 7-7.

Columbia was a 34-0 pushover in the season finale, with Tom Charlton '67 of Syracuse returning the opening kickoff 89 yards for a touchdown. Fricke completed 11 passes to Smith, twice for scores. Fricke also had a TD aerial to Alexander.

Freshman Football

Bill Arthur of Rome, fine quarterback prospect, led Cornell's Frosh to their first win in three starts, a 25-20 upset of Yale. He had two touchdown passes and ran for a third. He gained 167 yards in 25 carries and was 5-for-12 passing for another 80. Paul Johnson, 5'9", 160-pound halfback from Brooklyn, scored twice, and halfback Jay Miller of York, Pa., was also impressive.

Colgate scored single TDs in the third and fourth periods to blank the Cornellians, 14-0.

Halfback Ed Mahoney of Kenmore led the Big Red to a 21-6 win over Cortland State. He scored Cornell's first TD on a 26-yard scamper and set up the second.

Manlius whipped Cornell, 22-16, in the season finale, giving the Big Red a 2-4 record, first losing mark in eight years here. Arthur did well, connecting on scoring passes of 45 and 58 yards.

Cross Country

Any hopes Cornell may have had for respectability in cross country were ruined by a leg injury sustained by sophomore sensation Gordon McKusick of Rochester. He failed to place in the Heptagonals—won by Navy, with Cornell last—and finished 10th in the 1C4As, with Cornell 20th.

Cornell lost in dual meets to Yale and Army, before McKusick's injury, but Gordon was the individual winner both times out, setting a Moakley course record of 25:47.2 against Yale, cracking Steve Machooka's old mark of 26:05.5.

CLASS NOTES

Addresses in the following columns are in New York State unless otherwise noted. Personal items, newspaper clippings, or other notes are welcomed for publication.

'90-'93 Grad - Asa Smith, now 101 years old, was honored on Oct. 24 by Ontario County Democrats as the county's oldest living Democrat. He was born Sept. 25, 1865, at Manchester Center, where he was a farmer until recently.

'06 CE - Max Haupt, a construction engineer, has moved from Upper Darby, Pa., to 229 N. 60th St., Philadelphia.

'07 ME - From Jacob M. Fried Sr., 2512 Cherry St., Vicksburg, Miss.: "No change in address for over 50 years. Five grandchildren (three in New Orleans & two in Memphis, Tenn.). In my eighties, but still enjoy hunting & fishing. In my spare time I make throw rugs, mostly knotted or punch & clip. Also going to SEC football games. Also make preserves & pickles."

own car. Returning from Lake Chautauqua in August was met by Dr. Tom Laurie in Syracuse - our '07 day. 1967 will be 60th for Class. Thinning out. Possible yet for the rugged ones to meet again."

'08 AB - Seth W. Shoemaker, 3284 Rumson Rd., Cleveland Heights, Ohio, writes that he is retired and living with his son, John W. '37, who is now vice president of Warren Refining & Chemical Co. in Cleveland.

By this time your secretary will have made Trinidad by freighter from Texas, on up a river in Surinam to a bauxite loading depot, back to Trinidad, and be well on our way island-hopping the lesser Antilles to head home from Puerto Rico about Feb. 1. If before that you have any news for the class, pass it along to G. J. Requardt, 1304 St. Paul St., Baltimore, Md. Meanwhile, it has been disappointing that out of 110 personalized letters to classmates from whom there has been no news for too long, only 17 responses have been received. Three got into the October issue; here are some more.

Dr. Victor W. Anderson (136 Riverside Ave., Westport, Conn.), after an MD from Cornell, four years at German Hospital at Lenox Hill, and two instructing at Fordham, received a captaincy in the Canadian medical corps, discharged as General Surgeon in 1919. With two more years at Metropolitan area hospitals he became associate professor in Columbia's post-graduate medical school, specializing in head, neck, and facial plastic surgery for 25 years, latterly attached to Norwalk, Conn. General Hospital. Many prominent names are on his roster of patients. Since 1955 he has been emeritus.

Harry A. DeWitt, RD 5, Box 158, Annapolis, Md., enrolled in the GE test course with his new ME and was an engineering assistant until military service. In 1919 he returned to Schenectady for the apparatus division of GE's Dept. of the Far East. From 1946 to retirement in 1952 he managed that section for most of South America. At his present address since 1954, fishing and crabbing are good, also gardening, until this year's drought. Health is pretty good.

Dr. Earl W. Fitch (608 N. Elm St., Wichita, Kan.) traded veterinary practice in his native western New York in 1922 for the beef feeding lots of Kansas where winter snows are light and herds graze the range the year round. Only in the last five years has he given up his heavy large animal practice but at age 82 still operates a hospital for small animals. His family consists of wife, three children, five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. A daughter follows in his footsteps, running the Vanderbilt Animal Hospital, practically a neighbor of your secretary, in Durham, N.C.

John P. Hooker (1410 Sheridan Rd., Wilmette, Ill.) retired only recently from the successful real estate and mortgage business long conducted at 30 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago. Weight is no problem on his husky frame; is in good health but legs a bit too stiff for any more hammer throwing or even fast walking. The Hookers frequently entertain their 12 grandchildren summers on the Rappahannock River, Rt. 1, King George, Va. Travel is limited to fishing in Canada. Though a contributor to what is popularly considered Cornell's necessary growth and progress, he prefers to remember it as in our time, and his name is on none of the Reunion lists back through '49. If, as he hopes, he makes it in '69, the present campus will be a shock.

William J. Mauer, (2525 Colfax St., Evanston, Ill.) hasn't missed a year getting back to Ithaca until the last two. He will pick up again in '67; doesn't say what broke the string. He and wife take frequent trips but he doesn't bring her to Reunions, unless prior to '49, my oldest record. He has sold his business and is fully retired with two sons, nine grandchildren, and a great-grandson.

It was distressing to hear from a Wm. C.H. Ramage, president of Valley Mould & Iron Co., and the son of our classmate, William C. H. Ramage, Hubbard, Ohio, that his father was not up to writing, with prospects for improvement not bright. He retired from the company presidency in 1959, then was board chairman for only six months. This and other information in Who's Who for 1966-67.

Frank P. Rhame, (1320 Quinby Ave., Wooster, Ohio) retired as president and general manager of Lunkenheimer Co. of Cincinnati (makers of valves, if my old ME training serves me) in 1950. He gives only one other highlight of his career, Major of Ordnance in World War I. Stepping down at a mere 62 should have left ample time and energy to build up his gardening and golf but it seems that Mrs. R. can beat him regularly at the golf. A daughter is in Cocoa Beach, Fla., a granddaughter teaches Spanish in Lexington, Ky., another is at Florida State, a grandson in Columbia College of Physicians & Surgeons, another at Williams.

John H. Scott, (W. Woodland Rd., Pittsburg), has finally retired, "Thank God!" he says, but not from what. In '54 he wrote on a Scott Mortgage Co. letterhead, but he never writes business or talks it at his frequent Ithaca appearances. This August he picked Turkey for a trip, oddly enough finding it hot, with no Riviera as advertised, but Istanbul to Izmir interesting though not enough to tempt him back. Your secretary could have given him an introduction to a Turkish couple with a summer home on the Sea of Marmora, also to a little family hotel next to the Luxembourg Gardens in Paris at a price not so outrageous as he complains of. He has a daughter in England with four "limey" grandchildren, a son married to an Australian who evidently came here to give him two American grandchildren. He was in Ithaca for the Penn game, with Ed Bullis and Nan Patterson with wives, also Gus Requardt, Walt Todd, and Jesse Tuller; probably again for Homecoming as he wrote me to meet him then; sorry I couldn't.

Charles Moon, in response to that yellow slip which the NEWS sends out with a bill indites some humorous (?) remarks, to wit: "has been Lawyer & Mail order business, Printing Rochester Salesbook Co. now retired by request and necessity. Hear from a few of the old 1910 bunch. Saw Tom Barnes in Chicago before I started to make the Veterans Hospital my temporary home but they just gave me an honorable discharge, said I was too old to fix. Back for our 55th in June 1965. Back last June to help the 1911 boys celebrate their 55th. Jim Mahon (Abe) said, 'Chuck, would you think to look at me that I had been out of college 55 years?' I said, 'Abe, to look at you I wouldn't think you had ever been to college.' Look, if we do not do something about keeping our names out of that 'Necrology' section of the A.N. you or me are going to be one of the '10 most wanted men.' How about that? 'Finally,' he writes, 'Drop me a line; will be delighted to bite.' Chuck is back again at 93 Albermarle St., Rochester.

As you all know, Bill Marcussen of 11 Claremont Dr., Maplewood, N.J., is our class representative for fund raising activities. After attending a meeting at Ithaca in October, Bill wrote me, "As has always been the case with 1910 our class showed its loyalty to the Cornell cause by a fine performance. Following a fine contribution to the big Cornell Centennial, 1910 did nobly in 1965-66. We can all be proud of 1910."

In line with current happenings, Tom Barnes, 2474 Estes Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes us that his grandson, William Anthony Shepanek, graduated from high school last year. He passed up an all-expense-paid college education to enlist in the helicopter service. On his 19th birthday, he landed in Saigon and joined the 1st Air Cavalry Division, where he has been awarded the Air Medal with two clusters. His father was a Wellington bomber pilot with the RAF and flew 16 missions over Germany before his plane was shot down.

Smooth sailing in the Caribbean Sea in the vicinity of Dominican Republic, with temperature about 85 degrees, provides a delightful environment for writing a December column far from the source of news. There is not much of it, except to report some October gatherings. Your scribe was fortunate to be in Ithaca for two long weekends - during the first one to participate in the program of "Cornell Fund Leaders on the Campus." Here it was learned that in the successful 1965-1966 annual giving program of the Cornell Fund, the Class of 1912 had contributed more than $14,000 with 30 per cent of its members maintaining the splendid giving record. That week Cornell won a very exciting game from Colgate, 15 to 14. Fritz Krebs and Si Crounse were also at the game.

The following week the annual meeting of the University Council provided a full schedule and a stimulating group of affairs. Fritz Krebs had spent more than a week in Ithaca and was also in attendance to be at his 58th consecutive Cornell-Penn game. "Crab" Magoun, our Reunion chairman, joined the party when we were guests, as we were the week before, in the box of our sociable secretary, Phil Sainburg. The game was thrilling, Cornell winning by the high score of 45 to 28. Charley Davidson and his wife and Ed Filmer were seen at the game.

Yesterday (Oct. 22) it was a pleasure to hear over the Armed Forces radio that Cornell had won from Yale, 16 to 14. One wondered how many had enjoyed the annual Homecoming parties of the class. My wife and I were sorry to have missed them, but traded a seven-week cruise to South America. From down under, we send best greetings and good wishes for Merry Holidays and a very Happy New Year. 1967 is an important one for The Famous Class and we are looking forward to seeing many at our BIG 55th Reunion.

'13 Men: Harry E. Southard 3102 Miami Rd. South Bend, Ind. 46614

Mortimer D. Leonard, who retired in 1961 as consultant to the Shell Chemical Co. in entomology, still lives in his Dorchester house, 2480 16th. St. NW, in Washington, D. C., about a mile and a half north of the White House. He also still continues his life-long hobby, the study of aphids (plant lice), and his collection of these insects continues to grow until now it is one of the largest in the country. Ultimately, the great collection will go to Cornell. Mort continues to publish papers in technical journals on "these interesting little insects." (I wish they weren't so interested in my roses.) Needless to say, Mort is very happy in retirement which gives him more time for his hobby.

Clinton (Beau) B. Raymond, 847 Harmon Rd., Penfield, reports no news but emphasizes that "No news is good news." He sees Bill Stokoe from time to time. Bill lives in Scottsville with his sisters. Beau reports Bill is as interested in everyone as ever, "but most especially the widows."

While Lewis B. Pitcher lists his address as 201 51st St. West, Bradenton, Fla., he actually spends the four hot months of summer at their home in the mountains of Franklin, N. C. They enjoy fresh vegetables from their large vegetable garden in Franklin and fruit from their citrus grove in Bradenton. Lew sends his best to all '13ers and says to come and see him any time.

I had a big disappointment the first part of October. George Masland and his wife were in South Bend, driving west from their home in Blain, Pa. When he stopped out at the house, I was downtown, but he did have a little visit with my wife, Esther, and our three daughters who by chance were all there for a luncheon with friends. He was visiting friends in nearby Walkerton. I talked with him later over the phone and we made arrangements to get together next day, but our signals got fouled up and we never did get together. He was on his way west to Milwaukee and I only hope he returns the same route so that I may get to see him then. We do not have many '13ers passing through here and I was mighty sorry I missed you, George.

William A. More recently bought a new home at 888 W. Ferry St., Buffalo. Bill spends five months each summer in a place in Vermont which they acquired some 30 years ago. He is kept so busy building things, repairing things, mowing lawns, etc. at both ends of the line, Vermont and Buffalo, that he does not get around to Reunions much. Bill retired about two years ago. He has an executive son who provided three grandsons, and a daughter, living in Vermont who "set me up with a cute granddaughter." He sees Ed Scheu occasionally. Ed is blessed with a number of grandchildren, and at least two sons who are corporation presidents, one heading the largest bank in New York State, outside of New York City.

I'm sorry to say my supply of '13 news has just about run dry.

'13 PhD - Karl M. Dallenbach, 2106 Meadowbrook Dr., Austin, Texas, received the Gold Medal of the American Psychological Foundation at the annual meeting on Sept. 5 in New York. He served on the Cornell psychology faculty from 1911 to 1948, "passing through all the grades from Sage Fellow in Psychology to Sage Professor of Psychology and head of the department." He is an editor of the American Journal of Psychology, and was Distinguished Professor of Psychology at the U of Texas from 1948 to 1958. Since that time, he has been serving at Texas on "modified service."

'14 Men: Emerson Hinchliff 400 Oak Ave. Ithaca, N.Y. 14850

Homecoming Game (Yale) brought at least four '14ers to town. At the Drill Hall (Barton) I saw Guy Campbell and Wilson Ballard, from the Baltimore area, and Leonard Treman from Rochester. Guy and his wife had been on the North Cape cruise of the Kungsholm and then had chased all over Northern Europe apparently. Wilson is planning on going to Spain next year. Len expects to go back to France in '67, with stress on an extended visit to Vienna and Austria. (I might mention that Spain seemed to be full of French tourists last spring and summer.) I had slipped down to Barton between the halves of the frosh game with Yale, which we also won. Jim Munns came to see us Sunday, brought over by Hunt Bradley '26, who then took him to see Mildred Moakley '18. Jim had spotted me and my Navarre red boina (beret to you who only know the French term) which I had bought in Pamplona. That's the place made familiar to Americans by Hemingway and the newsreels of bulls careening through the streets on the way to the plaza de toros; we stayed at his hotel, La Perla, and enjoyed our three days there immensely. I even learned the San Fermín song.

But I was talking about Munns, not Hemingway. Jim went up at frosh halftime to see part of the soccer game, which, candor forces me to say, Yale won. Jim has three grandchildren. He was still mourning the death of Bill Munk '12, his neighbor and golf and hunt-club companion down in the Landrum-Tryon section of South Carolina. Jim wrote me March 18, eight days after Munk's death, recalling that Bill was captain in our sophomore year, the year we upset Michigan, six to nothing in Ithaca. Quoting the letter: "He was tall (6' 4"), rangy, and fast down the field on punts, playing left tackle. Bill was a real All-American. It was a pleasure for me to play in the line right next to him. On Bill's team I am about the only one left." In another letter he mentioned that he was a Tau Beta Pi. Jim also told of having had a delightful visit from "Doc" and Elsie Peters.

I might interject a little something on my own right here. I remember that, at one of our Reunion dinners, we had then coach Carl Snavelly as a guest and speaker and Snavelly ascribed to our class the start of the Cornell tradition in football. Previously we had been nationally famous for rowing, track, and cross-country. It was when Jim's senior-year team broke the Franklin Field Jinx, 21 to 0, that we started to be a football power, too. I'll never forget that game, with Philadelphia boy "Howdy" Fritz, playing defensive end and offensive halfback, and making all three touchdowns, if I am not mistaken. Jim can look back on his captaincy with real pride.

The Ithaca Journal of the following Monday had a big story about the opening of the new Sigma Phi Epsilon house, built at 109 McGraw Pl. under the university's Group Housing Plan, and mentioned that H. Guy Campbell had spoken for the alumni in responding to the thanks of the undergrads.

It's suprising how much '14 news I glean from the Journal, such as a long editorial entitled, "A 'Code' a Good Idea," based on an idea presented to a planning group preparing for the 1967 New York State Constitutional Convention by our own Republican politician and elder statesmen, Hal Riegelman. Quoting from the editorial: "The code idea stems from a philosophy that there should be a body of law sandwiched in between the basic guarantees of the state constitution and the kind of statute law that the legislators ... can change any time. At the convention hearings, the principal exponent of the 'code' idea was Harold Riegelman, a New York City attorney who received the AB degree from Cornell U in 1914 and who has been a US delegate to the UN."

Again from the Journal: "Oct. 10, 1941 - 25 Years Ago. Thomas E. Milliman of Ithaca has been placed in charge of work on insecticides and fungicides in the chemical section of the Office of Price Administration, Washington. He is on leave from GLF Exchange." I saw Tom a few days later at Rotary and mentioned it and he said that that was when he was a "dollar-a-year man." A few of his choice semi-epithets: "Mass bureaucracy. Tore me apart trying to get something done. Frustrating." Later, Tom graced the head table at a big Republican fund-raising dinner where he was introduced as "Mr. Agriculture."

Also at Rotary, Bill Myers, our national and international Mr. Agriculture, told me that his Marguerite had suffered a coronary a month before. Bill spent six weeks in India last winter for the Ford Foundation. I asked about birth control there. He said that there are no religious restrictions and that there is great interest in getting help; illiteracy is the big handicap on the campaign. Bill had recently seen Doc Peters and Art '15 in New York.

From farther away came a clipping of 9-30-66 from a Tulsa paper telling of attorney Remington Rogers and his appearance before the Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington representing the Tulsa Airport Authority in support of an attempt to get a new route to the Pacific Northwest from Tulsa and the Southwest.

Peter Simons '68, Bert Halsted's grandson, after giving soccer a try this fall, returned to cross-country and was second Cornell finisher in his first meet. Bert and Marjory had a nice Grace Line cruise through the Panama Canal as far as Peru late last winter; he reported George and Jane Kuhlke looked fine after their annual visit to the White Stallion Ranch in Tucson.

1915 tosses a bouquet to the editorial staff of the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS for excellent news coverage during the trying year of 1966, despite hurtful delivery delays by the lose two or three weeks at the printer's. Advertisers, subscribers, and the university at large are entitled to a better break than a story about the final Princeton-Cornell football game (Nov. 19) in January.

Our recipe for 1915 column success in 1967 is simple. In responding to the upcoming "dues and news" appeal of Treasurer Richard Reynolds, please include even a brief item identifying your present and expected residence, travels, and unusual family doings. What you send will also serve the class letter, emanating from Secretary Art Wilson's desk in Fort Myers Beach, Fla.

Letters and meetings have revealed a strong desire for a representative Reunion at Ithaca on a "joint venture" basis with other interested "teen-age" classes—'13 through '19 in 1968. Claude Williams has been named chairman of whatever 1968 Reunion is finally developed. He and Dick Reynolds and a few others were at Ithaca for the Homecoming game with Yale, and have been sounding out possibilities for 1915 headquarters.

This decision emerged from the most successful 1915 area luncheon ever held at the Cornell Club of N.Y. (On Oct. 13, 1966). Twenty-one men attended to pay their respects to President William H. Cosgrove on his first official appearance here, and to A. Lester Marks, second vice president, who came from Hawaii to attend a Cornell Council meeting and to hob-nob with the 1915 boys in the east. (He looked as fit as one would expect the owner-operator of a big cattle ranch and a family foundation in sunny Hawaii to be!) In photo below, seated from left to right are: Dr. John E. Sutton, Alfred L. Marks, William H. Cosgrove, Richard J. Reynolds, Alfred L. Boegehold, Gerald L. Kaufman, Allan Torres. Standing, from left to right: Charles Kuchler, Abraham Kaufman, E. Roy Underwood, Ira E. Cole, Chris F. de Neergaard (slightly behind) Arthur C. Peters, M. Raymond Riley, E. M. Geibel, Chas. P. Heidt, Robert Mochrie, Claude Williams, W. W. Pickslay, and R. B. Lea. Thomas F. Keating arrived too late for the picture, but joined in the luncheon. After Cosgrove's welcoming comments and coverage of the 1968 Reunion plans, the talk ranged from good football to bad manners on the campus (reportedly much improved) and from Ireland, Bill's last port of call, to the world travels of Art Wilson.

new printer. Keeping the publication newsworthy when copy deadlines are from 40 to 60 days before publication date is no mean accomplishment. Writing readable items under these conditions is like trying to see tomorrow yesterday. Our sympathies are with the editors who must produce — in hasty, last-minute spasms, to save a day — only to

The ALUMNI NEWS arrives later since it is no longer printed in Ithaca, and they skipped us in July, so I have lost track. However, I hope they have items for October, as I have missed November.

Please, girls, send in news so we can keep up interest in the ALUMNI NEWS, our column, and our class.

Here are a few notes for December. I'm sure you know I visited England and Western Europe this summer, starting on TWA the day before the strike and changing to Pan Am for the return on the appointed day.

I had struck up a friendship with a Katharine Simpson of Bogner Regis 16 years ago when touring the British Isles with my niece and nephew. So we were able to spend a day together in London on this trip.

As planned, my nephew and family met me in Heidelberg for dinner and the evening. A career man, Major in the Air Force, he has another year in Germany before returning home. I enjoyed visiting the U of Heidelberg. The guide mentioned the late Cornell President Schurman's connection with it.

Then in September came the Cornell workshop for secondary school committee members. Mrs. Rita Ross Pomada '36 and I represented Orange County. I am indebted to her for transportation and other cooperation and to Cornell for a very worthwhile two days on the campus.

Back a couple of days and came our "Farewell Frosh" and "Hello Prospects" get-together. As last year, our local Cornell undergraduates, let by Susan Rickert '68, did a wonderful job interpreting Cornell to the group. During October, we were busy interviewing, especially the EDP applicants.

My hands are a bit sticky as I've just finished making old-fashioned Pennsylvania Dutch lemon butter from my mother's recipe for our Hobby Show food table.

Members of '15 are saddened by the death Aug. 23 in Burlington Vt. of our classmate Mildred Severance of 208 Summit Ave., Buffalo, daughter of the late Frank Hayward Severance '79 and Lena L. Hill Severance '79.

Women, please get in the holiday spirit and send me news of yourselves, family reunions, holiday cruises, and "what have you."

We sincerely hope that this closing column for 1966 will reach you before the Christmas and New Year's holidays. This thought also goes for the Commemorative Photographic Booklet which has finally been put "on stream" at the time of the preparation of these paragraphs. Several problems arose in connection with finishing the latter task. Many photos were late in arriving; many were either blurred or over- or under-developed, which accounts for the absence of those which some of us may be wondering about. Then again, we had some technical problems, as well as a real shocker when, in the middle of the job, our artist and planning man was forced to resign for reasons unknown to the writer. However, at the moment, while the job is still on the tracks, my preview of it and the strong hopes now nurtured, give me a feeling that the booklet will not only be of high quality, but something which will long be treasured.

A "boo-boo" of major proportion came to light in the September ALUMNI NEWS, which has caused Clarence Hotson's hackles to rise.

A gremlin, no doubt, caused the numerals '18 to appear after his name in the class picture and this, according to Clarence, "ain't doing right by our Nell." Having graduated in 1912 from high school with Clarence, and knowing that he entered freshman year with me, I can testify as to his having been a '16er. Since he finished with the Class of 1918, some slight area of uncertainty by the photography committee could have been broached. Sorry about this, Clarence. We know you are one of us.

What might qualify for the "Candid Camera" show came to light recently in a story appearing in Rochester's Times-Union. Donald McMaster, former director and chairman of Eastman Kodak's executive committee, goes around the city of Rochester snapping pictures of refuse strewn outside homes and businesses. He then mails the photos to the addresses and generally gets quick clean-up action. He has even pitched in with neighborhood groups to pick up trash. His committee is working on projects ranging from planting greenery to spurring posters and slogans for city clean-up. Don has time for golf (shoots in the high 70's) and bridge, and the jottings in his daily calendar show he is far from retired.

Additional items came in recently, among which are that Eva and Stan Ridgway will be visiting Eva's sister in Kissimmee, Fla. this winter. Grace and Rus McLaughlin spent a month in London, England, after the Reunion last June. They have a host of friends overseas. Kay and Jim Moore were to be in San Diego to attend the wedding of son Kenneth on Nov. 23rd, Jim to be the best man. Either beforehand or after, they will spend some time as guests of the Carpenters. Likewise, Barbara and Johnnie Hoffmire will be visiting the Carpenters this winter and will, of course, relive the events of last June.

Birge Kinne has started his dues campaign with the usual good results. He is offering a bonus to dues payers. If anyone didn't receive a Reunion necktie because of his absence, he may get one by requesting it. There are only a few left, so hurry up. They are really nice. Among those requesting same are Cliff Edward, who had to cancel plans last June because of a phlebitis condition. He spent most of the summer at his farm in Vermont, but is now back at his office good as new. Also, Felix Hales, former president of Nickle Plate R. R. He says that, although retired, he has no hobbies and prefers to "do what he wants to when he wants to." Also, Abe Haibloom, who says nary a word, but wants a tie. Dues received from Walt Foley, Louis Camuti, Irv Wise, Greg Landres, Art Golden, Carl Harvey, and a host of others too numerous to include in a column. As a matter of fact, this falls into Birge Kinne's category, and it behooves me to be careful, lest I be embarrassed by omissions. The names above are mentioned because they included a news item. More power to those who do this. Please help us out.

A very Merry Christmas and a most successful New Year to all.

When Doc Raymond Crispell passed away recently, Charlie Bunn lost his chief rival as the No. 1 vagabond or globetrotter of the Class of 1917. But another contender has appeared on the scene in the form of John C. Kratoville.

Kraty has been bumming around the world for the last several years. He wrote recently, "I'll soon be off again for the Far East for three or four months." Hope it is no longer! We want Kraty back here for our Big 50th next June.

Dunbar Hinrichs wrote from Switzerland that he was over there for several months. He was at Vevey on the shores of Lake Geneva at an altitude of about 1,000 feet. He said, "We jaunt by car to this or that spot - a small castle, a good spot to feed, a wine festival in a small town without a tourist (except us) and so non-professional and spontaneous and real. We have had wonderful views of the Alps which separate Switzerland, Italy, and France."

Ells Filby and wife returned from several months in England, Wales, and Scotland, and also considerable time on the continent, just in time to attend our 1917 Homecoming dinner in Ithaca, Saturday, Oct. 22, 1966, which was a very pleasant affair.

One 1917 couple was present, Charles and Maizie (Montgomery) Rowland of State College, Pa. Five other 1917ers were there with wives and five 1917ers attended alone. Three 1917 women were present and there were four guests - the Horace Shackletons '19, and also Jim Miller and wife, Jim, the son of Mrs. Erie Miller (Helen Kirkendall), is varsity wrestling coach with the most successful record of any of the present Cornell coaches.

Before the dinner started, Ells Filby, George Newbury, and Herb Johnston had a meeting with Alumni Secretary Hunt Bradley '26 and reviewed plans for our Big 50th in June. During the dinner, George Newbury discussed these plans, which were approved by all those present. Everyone voted this fifth annual 1917 Homecoming dinner the most successful of all.

Ells Filby's Committee of 17 to promote attendance at our Golden Jubilee Reunion has already started work and reports great success to date.

It seems a long time ago now, but the fantastically slow publication schedule of the NEWS has delayed until now a report on the annual class picnic held last Fall in a beautiful setting on a lovely day. Charley Muller, reporting the event to your correspondent from afar, states "As always, the weather came off beautifully and the pool on Harry Mattin's big estate was used more than ever. Time passed fast. Then came the magnificent steak and lobster dinner." Those present included Les and Marge Fisher, Paul Miller and Sara (Steel) '21, Harry Moore and Gertrude, Lou and Rae Samuels, Phil Prince with his daughter and son-in-law, Lou and Audrey Freedman, Harry and Ellie Handwerger, Adolph and Ruth Miron, Nelson and Natalie Cornell, Joe Granett, Tal and Monie Malcolm, Paul and Eloise Wanser, John Bowker and wife (somebody goofed in not telling me her name), Charley Muller and Jack Welles playing solo parts, along with Harry Mattin the host, and Malcolm and Ruth Tuttle. Ben Pepper had long planned to be there as in the past but was seriously ill all last summer and could not make it. At last report, however, he was convalescing well. Sawyer Thompson also reported with regret that an imminent physical checkup in the hospital at White River Junction, Vt., was keeping him at home.

Charley Muller has written that the brainwork of the planning for the 1918 50th Reunion will be getting under way shortly and all classmates with stimulating ideas are requested to step forward and say their piece. Charley writes that he wants to find a way to bring both those who stay away only for money reasons and those who need a little prodding to get them back. With a treasury that is in pretty good condition, there's no problem on that score. In the case of 1916, which had by far the greatest attendance at its 50th of any Cornell class, some eight anonymous members had underwritten all the Ithaca expense, leaving only travel costs to be paid by the reuners themselves. Maybe something like that is our own potential solution though it will be hard to match '16's record with 37.3 per cent of its alumni and 50 per cent of its alumnae attending. Well, we can try. Anybody with ideas should write to Charles Muller, our class Secretary, at 7 Nassau Rd., Westport, Conn.

Joe Granett, secretary of the Cornell Alumni Assn. of New York City, has sent me a copy of the letter he wrote on behalf of the association expressing to his family the regrets and sorrow of friends and classmates at the passing of Herb Lustbert. He died last Aug. 28 in his home town of Stamford, Conn.

Looking back over the many visitors who found their way last year to this southwest corner of the US and our home, I recall happily seeing such old friends as B. O. Bushnell and Paul Miller (with wife Sara) of our class, and such other Cornellians as Austin Kiplinger '39, Carol Cline '37, and my own two daughters Dorothy (Shaw) Jones '37 and Peggy '43, with Dorothy's husband Dick '35. I wish more of you could come out to explore this country, or better still settle here (and I'm not even a member of the Chamber of Commerce!).

My apologies to all for the failure of the '18 column to appear in a recent issue but the time lag between writing a column and the receipt by subscribers of the NEWS issue containing it has now lengthened to over three months, and that makes it difficult to keep track of schedules.

This has been a memorable year for your scribe. On the negative side: Not a single insurance company or bank sent us one of those calendars that contains a formula for measuring stacks of hay. They never failed us before. Every time we mowed the lawn, we had to guess how much hay. On the positive side: Seedless watermelon seeds became available to the masses. The seedless watermelon is a product we have long championed. This alone makes 1966 a good year.

Unfinished business comes before new business, and we are pained to note that we failed to mail in the Annual Activities Report for the class on time, so we shall do it forthwith. There are some questions we can't answer so a passing mark is doubtful.

A recent newspaper column says in part: "Charles Baskerville's vernissage at the Far Gallery - such beautiful watercolors and drawings - brought out a covey of his devoted fans, friends, and collectors."

We have not had much contact with classmates recently. Rudy Deetjen, our president, wrote me recently. He certainly keeps busy, yet never fails to keep in touch by phone or letter. We had a long phone conversation with Mal Beakes, our treasurer, today and was glad to find him in good health and active. While retired, he has a number of things to keep him pretty well occupied.

E. Winthrop Taylor, who can be reached through PO Box 509, Hammond, Ind., has been doing a lot of traveling. He reports that he and his wife have visited the Pacific Northwest, Portugal, and Brazil in recent months. They spent last winter in Naples, Fla.

Lloyd E. Bemis, who lives at 41 Prospect

St., Caldwell, N.J., says that he frequently enjoys an hour or more with fellow Cornellians at the Cornell Club of New York, the Cornell Club of West Essex, and the Cornell Engineers Club in New York. Son Lloyd '48, or Ned as he is called, is in business in Gonzales, Texas, and is doing well. How many besides Lloyd and your scribe have sons who are '48ers?

We haven't heard from S. Charles Lerner in some time. He has developed quite a business in inspecting bars not only in the New York area but all over Latin America and Europe. Lest you get the wrong idea, we might add that Charlie is doing it for the management of big hotels in his capacity as an expert on the fine points of liquor bar management.

Edwin A. Leibman of 9625 Sunset Ave., La Mesa, Calif., has been active with the Cornell Club of San Diego, as chairman of the luncheon committee, and as a member of the secondary school committee. They hold a luncheon once a month. He has continued to paint watercolors and shows some modest improvement. Incidentally, he is the only '19er in the San Diego Cornell Club which numbers 100 or more. Ed used to live at Chappaqua in Westchester County. Either San Diego County or Westchester County is a good place to live. Like Ed, we have lived in both.

Jack Leppart informs us that the Lepparts have settled permanently in Florida, and that visitors are welcome any time at Coronado Pines Lake, Oklawaha.

Ross L. Milliman, who formerly lived in Florida, has sold his property in that state and moved to Phoenix, Ariz. — 1314 N. First St. He expects to make this permanent headquarters, but wishes he were a little closer to old New York where he could see more of the oldtimers. He is looking for '19ers in the Phoenix area but so far has not located any. He sends regards to the "old gang" and would be glad to see classmates who are passing through Arizona.

Ed Duffies is still the ardent golfer and played much of the past winter. The Duffies have confined their activities to the Arlington, Va., area where they live, at least prior to the time of writing. Ed sends best regards to all classmates.

Era A. Ladd retired Nov. 1, 1965 from his position as comptroller of the Ohio Edison Co. The Ladds will continue to live at 1423 N. Medina Line Rd., Akron, Ohio. A call from any classmates passing through Akron would be welcomed.

Samuel S. Goldberg, 369 W. Hudson St., Long Beach, writes: "My wife and I returned to Long Beach after a five-month stay in Hollandale, Fla. I have been retired for two years and love it."

H. A. (Steve) Stevenson, who edited the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS for many years, is enjoying retirement in Florida. He mentions that Mike Hendrie and Gene Beggs and their wives visited them last winter. He also reports that 11 of their 14 grandchildren visited them during the course of the winter. The Stevensons live at 140 Sabal Dr., Ft. Myers Beach, Fla.

Come to think of it, we haven't heard from Carples, Story, Bateman, & Co. in some time. Possibly they have been lying low during the hurricane season.

tion. They are in fact four prominent classmates consisting of the president and secretary on the ends, and a couple of vice presidents in the middle. If you can't recognize them without your bifocals they are Walt Archibald, Dick Edson, Orv Daily, and Hank Benisch. It was snapped by someone during one of the quieter moments at the class picnic at Edson's Scotch Pines, and just reached us, a hitherto undiscovered classic.

We suppose we ought not mention above a whisper that someone put the kibosh on the class dinner at the Playboy Club! Whaddya know! It was supposed to have been held way back in October. The news had spread like wildfire and reached us from four unimpeachable sources. We enthusiastically reported it and it looked like a sell out. But somewhere along the line the machinery broke down. Maybe too many wives got wind of it, though they know they've got nothing to worry about. We just can't believe that any of the New York regulars would chicken out. The official word was that the notices didn't get mailed out on time. Guess they do have some slow-down problems in the Alumni Office. If you don't think so, just check the date calendar as you read this.

Dick Edson and Kass have just returned from a delightful Homecoming weekend in Ithaca. The annual Mummy Club rendezvous was more delightful and the outcome of the Yale game was most delightful. We've had two pitcher post cards from Paul Fitzpatrick from Athens, raving about the beauty of the Greek Isles and Turkey. Paul was stranded there for some time, a long way from Buffalo, because of a waiters' strike aboard ship. By the time this reaches you, we're positive that Paul will have completed a trip around the world — maybe more than once.

Harold Brayman, of Wilmington, Del., retired director of DuPont's public relations dept., has been elected vice president of the American Academy of Achievement. Harold was given an award a year ago, the first to be given in the field of public relations, a fine recognition of Harold's prominence and ability.

Howard B. The illustrations of chicks going through the process of evolution shown in the N.Y. Times Book Review are detailed to say the least and leave nothing to your imagination, nor appetite. The Times calls Dr. Adelmann a scientist turned historian, and further states, "The only comparable work is The Embryological Treatises of Hieronymus Fabricius of Aquapendente, in which, in 1942 Mr. Adelmann did for the first quarter of the seventeenth century what he has now done for its third quarter." We're impressed!

We're waiting, oh so patiently, for the doozanooz program to get under way and feed our famished kitty. Dapper Don needs the dues and we need news. Don't be so modest. Write us direct of your latest accomplishments or escapades and get your name in print! We guess it's safe to say Prexy Archibald and Dottie are away on a short vacation. Aren't they always?

No telling when you'll read this, but we're taking no chances in wishing you all a Merry Christmas and good health for the New Year.

'20 Women: Mary H. Donlon 201 Varick St. New York, N.Y. 10014

Friday, Oct. 7, 1966, was a Red Letter Day on the campus because it was "Mary Donlon Day at Cornell."

The events honoring Mary were impressive. Even the weather cooperated – the day was bright and sunny, showing up the fall colors at the height of their beauty.

A luncheon in honor of Mary was given at the Statler Ballroom, attended by 350, including members of the board of trustees, the Cornell Council, the administration, and friends. Two sisters and a brother-in-law represented Mary's family and were introduced: The James Huntingtons (Joanne Donlon '17) and Mrs. Betty Alexander.

President James A. Perkins presided at the luncheon. The invocation was given by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Donald M. Cleary, pastor of St. Catherine of Siena Church in Ithaca and formerly the Catholic chaplain at Cornell.

The Cornell Glee Club with over 100 voices entertained, Thomas A. Sokol directing. Among their songs was one of '20's favorites, "Spirit of Wisdom." Also especially enjoyed was a piece written by Prof. Harry Kaplan in honor of Mary and sung to the tune of Gounod's Chorus from Faust. Everyone joined with the Glee Club in singing the Alma Mater.

President Perkins then introduced the Hon. Arthur H. Dean '19, chairman of the board of trustees. He spoke of the tremendous amount of time, effort, creativeness, and imagination that Mary had given to the affairs of Cornell ever since her graduation in 1920.

Then on behalf of the President and the board of trustees, Mr. Dean presented to Mary the Citation as a Presidential Councillor. This recorded Mary as the indefatigable champion of numberless Cornell efforts for more than four decades, three of them as a member of the board of trustees and as a pioneer in law, government, and education. Mary was named the 11th Presidential Councillor. There will be no more than 25 holding the title at any time.

President Perkins proposed that all join in a toast to Mary Donlon.

In her acceptance of the Citation, Mary stated that never can service to a great institution be a service of the individual – it is always teamwork and that it was her great privilege to work on the Cornell team. Her love affair with Cornell began, she noted, 50 years ago, about Cornell's first mid-century, in the fall of 1916 when she entered Cornell as a freshman. She felt that our challenge now was to insure that 50 years from now in the year 2016, Cornell would be an institution in the forefront of educational leadership and service.

Adele Langston Rogers (wife of William P., LLB '37) '33, LLB '36, trustee and member of the executive committee, was introduced. She spoke of Mary as always having been a leader and a person "who never makes you feel less but always picks you up!" She stated that as far as she knew, Mary was "the only living Cornell grad, man or woman, who through no monetary consideration, has become a dormitory."

A reception was held in Donlon Hall at 4:30 in the afternoon to give the students living in this dormitory an opportunity to meet the woman in whose honor it was named. Following the reception, Dianne Fassett '68, president of Donlon Hall, spoke of the students' pleasure in meeting Mary and their appreciation of having such a fine place in which to live while at Cornell.

Norma Ross Fox '27 (Mrs. A. Leo), president of the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs, announced that all the funds contributed to the Federation Scholarship Endowment Fund for the year 1966–67 would be designated as a Mary Donlon Scholarship.

Alice Callahan Jensen, president of our '20 class, spoke of the pride of the class in having such an outstanding Cornellian as a member and also of all that Mary had done not only for her class but for all Cornellians. On behalf of the class, she presented Mary with a gold Cornell key inscribed on the back "Mary Donlon '20 – October 7, 1966."

Alberta Dent Shackleton, our treasurer, congratulated Mary on her wonderful record of service. I had the privilege of presenting Mary with a book containing letters and telegrams from our class. Mary knew that we would all have loved to be there with her on "her" day, but since that was impossible, these messages expressed to her the congratulations and affection of her classmates.

Mary, as trustee emeritus, will, we all know, continue to serve Cornell in many significant and important ways.

I am delighted to be class "Guest Columnist" for this month in order to share with you "Mary Donlon Day at Cornell," and wish each of you a very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

We are shocked and grieved to learn of the death of George Munsick, who had served faithfully for many years as class treasurer. He died of a cerebral hemorrhage at Morristown Memorial Hospital on Oct. 23. George had retired last year as president of the Trust Company of Morris County at Morristown, N.J. He was 66 years old and lived at 7 Beechwood Dr.

Before coming to the trust company as president, he had been financial secretary of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Hartford from 1934 to 1943.

He was a member of the Morris County Golf Club and Morristown Rotary Club. He was formerly president and a member of the executive committee of the New Jersey Bankers Assn., and a member of the advisory committee on federal legislation and a vice president of the state and regional groups of the American Bankers Assn. He had also been a member of the operations and expenditures committee of the US Chamber of Commerce.

George was one of those who regularly attended the Class of '21 dinners which have been held in New York at least once a year for the past several years. He will be greatly missed. Notes sent to George with payment of dues have been one of the main sources of information about many members of the class.

George is survived by his widow, the former Margaret Alliot; three sons, Robert A., George W. and Lee R.; a brother, Roger, and three grandchildren. Our sympathy is extended to all of these.

President Tony Gaccione has appointed Seward M. (Skew) Smith treasurer. Skew's address is 2 Broadway, New York.

Leon Buehler, Jr. retired Sept. 1 from St. Regis Paper where he had been chief refrigeration engineer since 1943. He and wife Lorraine will continue to live in Evanston, Ill., near their daughter and her family.

Rowland F. Davis and wife Sophie (Deylen) have moved from Yonkers to Flat Rock, N.C. William D. Ellis is chairman of the board of Southern Mills, Inc. He lives at 585 Wells St., SW, Atlanta, Ga., and has two daughters, one son, and four grandchildren.

Steve Horrell of Hutchinson, Kan., retired from the Carey Salt Co. at the end of 1965. Mardiros H. Ishkanian of 5028 Sierra Villa Dr., Los Angeles, Calif., sends his regrets that his health did not permit him to attend the Reunion. We hope that he can make it in '71.

Since retirement in 1962 from the Standard Oil Co. (N.J.), A. T. Rynalski and wife have traveled extensively in the US, Canada, and Mexico, and are planning a trip to the South Pacific Islands, New Zealand, and Australia for early next year.

Milo F. Winchester of Millerton is retired from his position as county superintendent of schools and spends the winters with his wife in Venice, Fla. They have two daughters, a son, and five grandchildren.

James H. Winter is working as a consultant to Atlas Chemical Industries of Wilmington, Del., and travels much of the time. His address is 823 Parkside Blvd., Claymont, Del. Roy H. Workman of 1568 Radley Rd., Westfield, N.J., and his wife are now taking a cruise on the Caronia to the Mediterranean and Black Sea.

J. Arvid Peterson of Houston, Texas, writes that he is helping a 14-year-old grandson rebuild a Model T Ford.

Charles C. (Ches) Bailey writes from 900 Cathedral St., Baltimore, Md., that he is still enjoying life and continuing in full employment at the State Bureau of Labs. He comments gratefully (and with good reason) on George Munsick's long and devoted service as class treasurer.

When you read this column, I expect to be basking in Florida sunshine at 436 Australian Ave., Palm Beach. If you get within reach of me, do come to see me. At the time of writing this, however, I am just back from a glorious University Council weekend in Ithaca. Several of our classmates were there. Just as I started into the Statler to register, I saw Sara and Paul Miller '18. Later on, in the lobby, I was greeted by Thad Collum who just finished his term as class president. Then at dinner, I glimpsed the new president, Tony Gaccione, with his charming wife. Another classmate, trustee Spencer Olin, was there – especially for the banquet in honor of his brother John Merrill '13, trustee emeritus, who was one of 10 alumni honored that night with the recently-created title of Presidential Councillor.

When I decided that you would like to have biographical sketches of our new officers, I wrote to each one and asked for a picture as well as biographical tidbits. Hazel Dates Schumacher (Mrs. John), our secretary, sent me two pictures – one of the 1918 vintage and one snapped last summer. Here is Hazel's data.

"I was born in Lansing, one of eight children; my education began in a one-room school house. When the oldest children had completed the work in the elementary grades, my father moved his brood to Groton where there was a high school. After my graduation from there, I went to Cornell.

"After receiving my BA from Cornell, I taught history for an enjoyable 15 years.

Then being aged 37 and afraid of being an old maid as well as having the opportunity, I joined the ranks of the married and found I enjoyed myself as much as I had while I was a teacher. My husband John Schumacher, a truly swell guy, was a Long Island farmer with a farm just 20 miles east of Manhattan. He died in 1961. Later I moved back to Groton when my twin, Helen, was big-hearted enough to move over and let me in.

"Coming from a large family and having friends in many parts of the country, we have guests a good share of the time and that keeps us on our toes. We also take off at the drop of the hat for little trips. We have been to Alaska, Bermuda, Canada, Florida, New England, and through the British Isles. Now that Helen has retired from her daily activities at her Dates Chevrolet Co., we are planning more distant objectives.

"My life has been a happy one. I have made no records in any line but I have tried to hold up my end in volunteer activity. I am proud of my 10-year service in a veterans' hospital on Long Island where all the patients were psychotic. It was a worth-while experience. I have regretted having no children but now I have no long-haired grandsons to worry about. I went back to Cornell to study after returning to Groton; took a course in floriculture and one in ornithology (passed them both). Helen and I took a year course in field natural history and we loved it. Our professor, Prof. Fischer, called us 'the girls.' The others in the class were in their early 20's. Though we started out at the head of the pack on our field trips, we always wound up at the rear.

"My life has been somewhat run of the mill; but it has been fun, all of it, and I am good for several more years . . . I think."

From the letters I have been receiving, I gather that "little reunions" have been going on ever since our record June Reunion. I will tell you more about them next month.

The class executive committee held its kick-off meeting for the 45th Reunion coming up next June in Ithaca. It was a luncheon meeting at The Bankers Club in New York on Sept. 29. Present were: Pat Thornton, president; Dave Dattlebaum, v.p.; Ed Kennedy, class rep.; Joe Motycka, editor; Don Baker, secretary; and Ross Anderson, Ben Burton, Dick Eberhardt, George Editt, Bill Fox, Dick Kaufmann, Nat Moses, "Keeze" Roberts, and Irv Sherman. Ted Baldwin was reappointed Reunion chairman and he will be assisted by a number of deputy chairmen strategically located throughout the world. Ben Burton will again head the committee to nominate a new slate of class officers to serve for the next five years.

The Skungamaug River Golf Club located in Coventry, Conn. was the scene of the second annual 1922 golf tournament on Oct. 5. It was originally scheduled for Sept. 21 but was rained out. Even so, a few stalwarts showed up and played. They also showed up on the second date. Here is the list: Ross Anderson, Don Baker, Chris Christianson, Bill Hill, Bill Jackson, Walt Knauss, Joe Motycka, Ed Perragaux, Keeze Roberts, Harold Woodward, Bill Schreyer '21, and Carl Wolf, one of Bucknell's immortals. The big prize was taken by Ross Anderson for the second year in a row and Walt Knauss was closest to the pin on the fifth hole, also a repeat of last year. Chris Christianson, who came all the way from Hammond, Ind., also won a prize for scoring the most number of eights. We will hold it again next year and hope it will be bigger.

Bob Roesch retired from International General Electric after passing the past 20 years traveling in many far-off lands. He still lives at 3 Polly Rd., Rye.

After Ted Baldwin's retirement this summer, he and Ann toured Europe. They might have crossed paths with the Carl Weichsels who also toured most of Europe last summer. I guess that Carl is officially retired as president of Great National Insurance of Dallas.

Charlie Stillwell retired as manager of research for Dennison Mfg. in Framingham, Mass. He spent the summer visiting a daughter and grandchildren up in Juneau and is now about to get used to the retirement routine.

A couple of new addresses: Walter Popham, 620 Cody Ct., Lakewood 15, Colo., Nathan Moses, 74 S. Broadway, Tarrytown.

On Oct. 22 right after the Homecoming game, the class held another of those parties at The Statler Club for which the class is famous. I was not there, but according to Jim Trousdale, it was a swell get-together. It can be reasonably assumed that the team contributed by beating Yale on that date. Living right here in Yale territory, as I do, wins over them are not hard to take. The following attended: Ted Baldwin, Paul Beaver '24 and Kay, Burnett and Ruth Bear, Syd and Eleanor Berliner, Hunt Bradley '26, Ed and Thelma Brown, Chape and Marian Condit, Walter and Kay Dann, Dr. Ben Diamond '19, and Annabel, George and Hazel Hanselman, Jim and Kathryn Harper, Bill and Ruth Jackson, Ed and Ivy Kennedy, Chet and Peg Ludlow, Jack and Hilda Maloney, True and Blanche McLean, Nat and Rosilyn Moses, Tommy and Alice Thompson plus their friends Gerald and Rita Neary, Jim Trousdale, Fritz and Ruth Utz, Vic and Marian Williams—in all. Although retired, I still do some consulting work so that is why I could not be there.

Pat Thornton is supposed to be retired but, he is thinking of taking a job as an automotive consultant with the International Executive Service Corps in Tunis, Africa. Instead of attending the Yale game, which he was afraid he would miss, he went to Ithaca to see Penn get walloped. While there he saw Dave Dattelbaum, Dick Kaufmann, Walker Cisler, and others.

Directors of S. C. Johnson & Son (Johnson Wax) have announced the election of H. F. (Hib) Johnson to the new position of honorary chairman, and son Samuel C. '50 to president and chief executive officer. Both are Cornell trustees.

Eddie Hoff is now retired and living in Holmes Beach, Fla. That's the post office address (Box 1064). His home is on Anna Marie Island on the west coast near Bradenton. If I am not mistaken, that's where Stan Duncan moved to last January.

Ted Wright, our honorary classmate, retired from Cornell as vice president for research and, at one time, acting president of Cornell, but is still active as chairman, executive committee, Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory. Last year the Wrights toured the Far East, but this summer they went to Europe, particularly Norway and Sweden. They also went to England to attend the centenary celebration of the Royal Aeronautical Society and, of course, Wright was pressed into service to deliver lectures at that gathering.

Our first class president, Dan Strickler, represented President James A. Perkins at the inauguration of Robert A. Christie as president of Millersville State College, Millersville, Pa. on Oct. 15, 1966. Dan is a practicing attorney in Lancaster, Pa. and still carries the rank of Lt. General of the US Army.

Frank Conklin of 410 Royal Palm Ave., Clewiston, Fla., is retired and having fun touring the country during the summer months in his Airstream Travel Trailer. Last year it was the Northwest and this past summer it was the Northeast and Canada. I'll bet he passed within two miles of my place.

Sterling Colby reports from Manchester, N.H. that there is nothing new in his life. Lack of newness still does not stifle the story that he is active in the truck gardening business, and each year raises 250 to 300 acres of cabbage, sweet corn, and winter squash. It sounds like an awful lot of planting, cultivating, weeding, picking, packing, and shipping, but all those hungry mouths in New England must be fed.

Charles E. Lewis, who hails from Matamoras, Pa., reports that after 40 years in the school business as teacher and administrator, he finally threw in the towel this summer, and will take things easy from now on. Boy, bring up another rocking chair for Professor Lewis.

Kenneth G. (Ken) McDonald has been retired for two years. He reports that he is well, with everything going along all right. His spare moments are taken up with his well-developed hobbies, model railroading, woodworking, gardening, and bird-watching.

H. H. Morrison retired in December 1965, but couldn't stand inactivity. In order to keep limbered up, he is now special accounts agent for his previous employer, Permutit Co., and also spends some time as field representative for on-job training for the Atlanta Urban League. Despite these activities, he managed to squeeze in a few weeks in Europe last summer.

Thomas J. (Tom) Potts is still working on his golf game. He plays about three times a week, but is holding back his application for the big tournaments. In deference to his old and creaking frame, he is vice president of the Westfield (N.J.) Old Guard, a retirement group of 400 men. No women allowed. This is a new version of the "When I Was a Young Man" sect.

Lawrence M. (Larry) Orton is still holding forth as a member of the City Planning Commission in New York. He goes on a busman's holiday every now and then to find out how some other town dolled up Main Street and solved the parking problem. (Oh yeah?) Not long ago he embarked on a Mexican safari where he learned about some nice old customs that prevailed in the days of the Aztecs. It seems that when one spouse died, they buried the other alive in the same grave. As soon as Larry learned that, he hurried right back to the good old USA. When last seen, he was trying to transform Manhattan into the Garden of Eden.

A little more than a year ago, I reported the exodus of some of the outstanding talent in Bell Telephone Labs, in the persons of Ted Crabtree and Ray Ford. Now comes the time when the parent company, American Telephone & Telegraph, is also going to lose a couple of its shining lights. Charles V. Stone has turned in his tools after 42 years with AT&T, and has moved to Dutchess County where he will settle down for his final innings. A little frosting on the cake takes the form of a summer home in Thousand Island Park. The other AT&T vacancy is S. A. (Stan) Haviland, who has also completed 42 years. He is still bragging about the number of his grandchildren, but that will be settled when the scoreboard is posted at our 45th Reunion in 1968.

No snow has fallen in the front yard yet, but by the time you read these words, the Christmas holidays will be just ahead. Your shopping list will still be unattended, waiting for those frantic last few days when you run around like a maniac trying to get something attractive for the little woman and some toys for the grandchildren to leave for you to stumble over. Christmas might get back to its original conception if we did not have these enjoyable nuisances to punctuate it.

The column sends its warmest wishes that Christmas be happy and joyous, and that the New Year will present a happier world for everyone in it.

Maribelle Cormack, was awarded an honorary doctorate in pedagogy at Rhode Island College, Providence, R.I. at the annual commencement on June 11, 1966.

The Department of Public Parks of Providence has stated:

"After leaving Cornell, Miss Cormack was for two years science teacher at the Buffalo Museum of Science in her home city. She did a year's graduate work abroad at the Universities of Vienna and of Geneva, Switzerland and took her Master's degree at Brown U, Providence, R.I. in 1928 in botany.

"She has been on the staff of Park Museum, the city museum of science and anthropology, since 1926. She was in charge of the educational work until 1947 and since that has been director of the Museum and since 1953, of the Planetarium at the Museum.

"She is the author of 20 books, juvenile and adult."

Maribelle's most recent publication is: Imhotep: Builder in Stone. Imhotep was a scientist, physician, and architect. He devised entirely new principles of building with "giant stone blocks." At that time (c.2750 BC) Imhotep had only human muscles and a knotted rope. The wheel was unknown. The ruins of Step Pyramid still stand today in the desert sands of Saqqara, "a symbol of the genius of the man who began Egypt's most glorious period."

We can all be very proud of Maribelle and her remarkable achievements.

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute announced last April that as of June 1966 Andrew J. Fairbanks, who has taught there since 1936, will retire. He was a professor of mechanical engineering. Andy was a designer with Consolidated Aircraft Corp. until 1930, and then joined the Ohio State U faculty for three years before returning to industry. He was a designer with Fairchild Aircraft Corp., then with Sikorsky Aircraft before being named an assistant professor of aeronautical engineering at Rensselaer.

On Sept. 20 we got a card from George R. Durland saying he was retiring after 42 years with New Jersey Zinc Co. His new address is: 2452 Breakwater Circle, Sarasota, Fla.

Last March Bob Newstead reported that he had just returned from a voyage around the Pacific. Bob writes "Noted big scene in Singapore re Glee Club - the cabbie then lost me!"

If Donald W. McClure's plans for last February did indeed culminate, he and his wife spent two months cruising in the South Sea Islands, New Zealand, Australia, Singapore, Bangkok, Hong Kong, Japan, and Hawaii. Then, Don wrote, they hoped to settle in Florida this fall.

Post Junior College, of which Donald J. Post Sr. is vice president and dean, is now a non-profit, degree-granting institution. Don writes that enrollment has increased 141 per cent in the last two years. Son Donald Jr. '52 is secretary and registrar.

Laurence H. Daniel, after many many years in Cuba, left four years ago with "one suitcase, one wife," and has since been with Black & Veatch International, consulting engineers. Laurence writes that "although the Middle West is not like Cuba in the pre-Castro days, we have grown to love it!"

The annual Class of 1924 dinner will be held on April 21, 1967 at the Cornell Club, 50th St. and Third Ave. It will be stag.

Charles A. Carpenter, 2711 Fairview St., Allentown, Pa., retired last Sept. 30 as vice president, Pennsylvania Power & Light Co. after 41 years with the organization. He joined them immediately upon graduation in 1925, became an engineer in the system operating department at Hazleton, and in 1931 returned to Allentown in the system planning department. He was named assistant system planning engineer in 1937 and was promoted to chief system planning engineer in 1954, becoming vice president in 1963. He served his company on the management committee of the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland Interconnection. This committee supervises operations of the complex interconnection between the 12 electric utility companies, coordinating its capacity installations, and develops transmission developments, and develops major studies on power pooling principles for the region. He has also represented the company in the studies and arrangements connected with its participation in the Keystone & Conemaugh mine-mouth power plant projects now under construction in western Pennsylvania. He and his wife have two children, Mrs. R. E. Roberts, and Charles A. Jr.

George T. Hepburn, along with Stu Richardson, Frank Henderson, Guy Warfield, and Bob Morris met for lunch one noon in late April. Luncheon left them in high spirits, but it is reported they met seven of New York City's finest and none of them was questioned! As a result of that get-together, they are going to try to meet on an informal "Dutch Treat" basis once a month, tentatively on the third Wednesday. Any classmates who want to join them may do so by calling Stu Richardson, 212-WO4-5600, a day or so in advance. One piece of serious business developed at that luncheon in relation to the class of 1925 award in memory of Bob Patterson: A letter from George to "Bub" Wade last spring told him, "We are all in enthusiastic agreement in nominating you to make the next presentation at the 1966 football banquet in Statler Hall Ballroom shortly following the season's close." In order to encourage his presence on that occasion, the five who met for lunch agreed to sponsor a small 1925 table at the banquet.

Alfred S. Mills, 4771 N.W. 5th St., Miami, Fla., sent his dues a while ago and reported that the Cornell Club of Miami is quite active. Hunt Bradley '26 was their most recent speaker at a restaurant managed by a Cornell graduate.

Joseph H. Nolin, 13 Bronson Ave., Scarsdale, became an honorary life member of Club Managers Assn. of America earlier this year because of his work as chairman of the committee which compiled the uniform system of accounts for clubs in 1954 and two later revisions in 1960 and 1966.

Myron Zucker, 708 W. Long Lake Rd., Bloomfield Hills, Mich. left Detroit with his wife for Lisbon, South Africa, Israel, and Rome the day before the date of his dues notice. A 200-mile per hour tail wind prevented their stop in the Azores and ruined the island's radio. They were allowed 30 minutes in Angola, and 600 miles later, 15 minutes for refueling and take-off in Rhodesia. Myron, please tell us more.

The fall season brought many a classmate to the campus for various occasions - the Cornell Fund meeting, the sixteenth annual meeting of the University Council, Homecoming, and the home football games. Seen in person or at a distance in a game crowd were Schuyler and Sally Tarbell, Harry and Agnes Wade, Bill and Marion Jones (Bill was in town three weekends), Artie and May (Elish) '28 Markewich, Marie and Bob Noll, Marion Quell, Max and Randy Savitt, Del and Anne Vincent, Frank and Louis Podboy, Fred and Marion (Davidson) '29 Dochtermann, Dick and Barbara Aronson, Warren and Muriel Bently, Stew and Rosemary Beacher, Tom Fennell, Howard Zimmerman, and Ithacans Jeannette and Pete Powell, "Chick" and Helen LaBonte, Norm Stagg, Chuck and "Ted" Sayles, "Hap" and Arlene (Nuttall) '32 Sadd. (If anyone has been overlooked, kindly advise me.)

Leonard B. Richards, vice president of United Gas Improvement Co., attended a meeting in Cleveland earlier this year of the American Standards Assn. sectional committee (made up of 36 people drawn from all types of representation all over the country) and noted that three members of the group were from the Class of '26: Elmer O. Mattocks of the American Petroleum Institute, Eugene L. Lehr, and of course Len. Len is also chairman of American Gas Assn.'s standards committee which has supervision over all the standards activities of the industry. Len and Elizabeth live at 1353 24th St., Camp Hill, Pa.

Due to unanticipated and unfortunate circumstances far beyond the control of the office from which your correspondent operates, the mailing of Treasurer Bentley's letter (and other class letters) requesting news and dues had not reached the Ithaca post office at the date of this writing (Oct. 31). The bright side of this delayed mail is that it affords yours truly an opportunity to urge all of you to include some news about yourself for future columns, whether it be about your retirement, your present business or professional activity, your journeys abroad or elsewhere, number of grandchildren, recently bestowed honors, change of address, or even complaints about your class correspondent's column and literary style.

This time of year we enjoy reflecting on pleasant past events and projecting important future events. Surely our big 40th must be included in this category. Looking back, Homecoming this year was pleasant and the football game with Yale exciting. Cornell's warm welcome at the Big Red Barn, Barton Hall, Willard Straight, Statler Hall, and Schoellkopf Crescent added to our pleasure. The thrilling football game between two superb teams recalled that day in 1926 when our boys Mike Rapuano made a neat center pass to Vic Butterfield who placed it for June Carey to make another one of his famous perfect field goal boots to win over Dartmouth 24-23 in the last seconds of play. This year the Yale booter failed in two last-minute tries, giving Cornell a 16-14 victory. We are anticipating meeting again with these three '27 greats, plus all your classmates who wish to celebrate the big 40th with us. Here's your opportunity to see the beautiful campus and its many improvements.

Gene Tonkonogy, 45 N. Station Plaza, Greatneck, Writes, "I am eagerly looking forward to the big event and hope the boys are keeping trim so that at Reunion time we can continue our reputation as the youngest looking 1927 class Cornell ever had." Gene sends greetings to Charles Schaaff, (picture) adding that in an FM radio program of Casper Citron titled "Die now, pay later," he extended himself beyond his business specialty by defending life insurance companies on the American agency system and the present course of the bulk of our life insurance companies.

We congratulate Charlie on his recent award for outstanding service in the life insurance business. In New Orleans, La. in September he received the coveted John Newton Russell Memorial Award for 1966. This award is the highest individual honor that can be accorded by the American Life Insurance Ass'n. Charlie continues as president of Mass. Mutual Life Ins. Co. On the side he is a trustee of the American College of Life Underwriters and chairman of the joint committee on public relations for the American College and the American Society of Life Underwriters. In Springfield, Mass. he is a trustee of the Eastern States Exposition Corp., Massachusetts Foundation, Springfield College, Wesson Memorial Hospital, Memorial Industrial Park, and Springfield Institution for Savings.

We enjoyed reading in the '59 column about Dr. Douglas W. Lewis, son of Windsor D. and Veora Tyrrell Lewis. How about some news for our column, folks?

A nice letter from Philip Lyon came after I had featured him in the column. Phil was in England on a business trip where as he stated "the trip did not preclude some sight-seeing and a couple of efforts to cope with British golf courses, once at Troon in Scotland and once at Wentworth outside of London." Phil is kept busy by extracurricular activities - director of one of the large hospitals in Kansas City, the Kansas City area Hospital Assn., Republican committeeman, and former councilman of one of the suburban communities, and the Episcopal Church locally and nationally. They have three grandchildren by a daughter in Salina, Kan. Their son is a senior in mechanical engineering at the U of Oklahoma, with an eye on Cornell Law next year. Phil says the Reunion dates of June 15, 16, 17 are on his calendar but his tight schedule will postpone a decision until June 1. Phil's business address is J. F. Pritchard & Co., 4625 Roanoke Pkwy., Kansas City, Mo.

We wish happy holidays and the best for 1967 to all.

In response to my frantic call to my good friend and ardent competitor Albert E. Koehl (picture), I received the following interesting information on his recent activities:

"I am semi-retired, but still somewhat active as chairman of the board of Koehl, Landis & Landan, Inc., New York. This past summer, my wife and I spent a month in Algeria doing a tourism survey for the World Bank. Earlier in the year, we were in Panama as volunteers for the International Executive Service Corps (the Paunch Corps) attached to the Panamanian government's Institute of Tourism. It was an interesting experience and I urge those of my classmates who might want to offer their part-time services in specialized fields to read the November 1966, issue of Reader's Digest which has a feature article on the Corps.

"In 1965, I was invited by Dean Beck of the School of Hotel Administration to participate in a three weeks' seminar in Manila which was put on by Cornell for the Philippines Hotel & Tourism Assn. In that same year, I was also a member of teams doing tourism studies for the governments of Peru and Yugoslavia, so I have managed to remain quite active even in 'semi-retirement.'"

In addition to Al's modest remarks, he is still a superb master of ceremonies and the popular story teller at all Cornell gatherings.

Stanley W. Schaefer, formerly with Cornell University Press, is president of W. H. Freeman & Co., book publishers in San Francisco. He is a frequent visitor to New York where he is an avid member of The Players. Stan and his family live at 418 Yerba Santa Ave. in Los Altos, Calif.

All classmates will be pleased to learn that Kent Hall came through a recent operation in record time and is back in his office on a part-time basis at the stock brokerage firm of Jessup & Lamont where he is a partner.

In the proud father and son department, a number of '28 dads have been bursting their buttons lately. David A. Keiper '53, son of classmate Francis P. Keiper, recently completed a Trimaran trip of eight months covering 11,000 miles to French Polynesia. An extensive story of this trip in a sailboat appeared in the Laurel, the official publication of Phi Kappa Tau. Trustee Jim Stewart's younger son, Dave, recently received the Daily Princetonian award presented annually to an undergraduate "for his contribution to the university, both physical and spiritual, in the field of non-athletic extracurricular activity." Jim's older son, Mike, was a Rhodes scholar and played on the varsity football team. Although both of Jim's sons strayed to Princeton, he has not let this affect his great devotion and loyalty to our alma mater. Jim and wife Freddie recently moved from Princeton to PO Box 190, East Millstone, N.J. Lew Seiler, president of Associated Dry Goods, is bursting with pride over the marriage of his older son, John Cotten '57 to Harriette Nye in Sudbury, Ontario.

Ray Beckwith, our class president, has settled down after retiring as director of advertising of Recordak. He and wife Nan are living in a new house which they had built at 7 Eastwood Lane, Belleaire, Clearwater, Fla. The latch string is out to all '28ers.

Ned Johnson and his bride, Billie, recently celebrated their silver wedding anniversary with a beautiful tea dance at the Shenorock Club in Rye.

I need lots more news for this column. Please don't be so modest! Send me a glossy print of your latest photograph together with news about yourself, your family, and your classmates.

Your roving columnist had a delightful visit with Agnes and John D. Shepard, 2318 N. Elm, Greensboro, N.C., which was followed up with (lucky me) seeing the Si Wilds, 317 Strickland Ave., Winston-Salem, N.C. (Sulla, keep in shape as best you can because Si has the edge with his climate.) In Mobile I tried to reach Walter Knox by phone to a constant n.a. in my short stay in the area of Mobile Bay. In New Orleans, Donald Savery came by the St. Charles-Sheraton for a lengthy visit. He looks fine and his literary efforts are getting deserved recognition in the local press. He is a regular contributor to the Times-Picayune. I'll be seeing as many '29ers on this coast-to-coast trip as time in each city will permit.

Joseph B. Karp, 195 N. Middleton Rd., Pearl River, received a BS in optometry from Columbia in '31, practiced for some time, and then went to NYU where he received an MBA in '60. Joe is now a registered investment adviser in addition to teaching economics and investments at evening sessions of Rockland Community College. Joe's three children are all married.

Bert Orthman, Shenorock, won the "Over 50" bowling tournament. Bowled 545 plus handicap. Latest golf score was 42 for 9. He wants his Delta Chi brother, Si Wild, to "watch out."

Iz Stein, 700 Ave. C, Bklyn, returned recently from a lecture tour in Madrid, with a side tour to Portugal, Greece, and Turkey. Daughter Diane graduated from Cornell in June '66. E. R. Heiberg, West Point, is away on a trip to California and regrets he was unable to attend the class dinner.

Dr. A. E. Alexander returned recently after two months of searching the world for rare gems. He reports having dysentery in Jaipur, encountering ripe odors in Bangkok, and cavorting with Red Chinese in Hong Kong where he ate a superb steak in a French restaurant owned and operated by a Chinese entrepreneur.

Our most worthy secretary and class dinner chairman, Mike Bender, 115 Broadway, New York, declares he is still trying to retire, the better to devote his time to picking up paper clips, turning out the lights, and (ah, what a pleasure) playing around with his grandchildren.

In answer to a recent query, John L. Hayner has moved to 4721 Covington Rd., Port Wayne, Ind.

A. Gordon Bedell, Wells College, Aurora, is still working hard at that institution of learning for girls. Anne (Asmus) '30 joined him on a week's visit to daughter and grandchildren at Pope Air Force Base this past summer. Son has been working for Xerox at Rochester since he graduated from Northeastern in sixty-five. John Jordan Jr. is with the Cornell purchasing department and is located at 160 Day Hall, in Ithaca.

Chuck Eeles and wife, 75 High Way, Chappaqua, report they took a November vacation, motoring through the always interesting Commonwealth of Virginia. Daughter Betsy got her master's degree at Wisconsin in sixty-three and is teaching at Wellesley College. Son Dave graduates from Ohio State in '67.

William J. Losel, 95 Tulane Rd., Kenmore, Brig. Gen. (ret.) NYARNG, reports son Glenn W. is following in his footsteps - now a 1st Lt. and recently promoted to commanding officer of "D" Battery, 1st Bn, 106th Artillery, 27th Armored Division, his old outfit.

Kenneth Davenport, Leggett Rd., Stone Ridge, is president of Walter Davenport Sons, Inc., at High Falls (bottled gas business), and chairman of the board of trustees of Ulster County Community College. Ken is a member in good standing of the '29er Gramps Club with two grandchildren, Kenneth Scott Davenport, born 3/14/65, and Sarah Gordon Brinig, living with her parents in Phoenix, where her father, Joe, is a young attorney.

We learn with regret of the death of Ade-laide Robertson Gage (Mrs. William H.) in February 1966. She had lived at 192 Mt. Vernon Rd., Snyder.

To continue with the Reis-Hill tour: They spent several days in Delhi, one night in Agra (Taj Mahal), one in Jaipur, and one night in Calcutta. What they saw of India was hot (108°), crowded with people and animals, and terribly poor. The cattle in the streets, the barefoot children begging, the dirt, the hopeless feeling one gets about the future, the extreme contrasts between the hotels with swimming pools, the rich fabrics in the stores, and the city streets (especially Old Delhi and Calcutta where about 300,000 sleep and live in the streets), all leave a mark on the mind of the tourist, they say. To them the Taj Mahal was exciting to see

Academic Delegates

■ Walter A. Scholl Jr. '41 of New York represented the university at the inauguration of Provost Norton Nelson of New York University on Oct. 6. On Oct. 8, Mrs. Francis W. (Phyllis Andre) Montanari '40 of Delmar was the Cornell delegate at the inauguration of Sister Clarence Paul Keeshan as president of The College of Saint Rose.

At the Oct. 16 inauguration of The Rev. John S. Bonnell as president of New York Theological Seminary (formerly Biblical Seminary), The Rev. Lee E. Snook, CURW Lutheran chaplain, represented the university. Mrs. Reverdy C. (Georgia Teal) Ransom '24 of Wilberforce, Ohio, was the delegate at the inauguration of Dr. Harry E. Groves as president of Central State University on Oct. 20.

Emmett A. Hazlewood, AM '31, PhD '36, of Lubbock, Texas, represented Cornell at the inauguration of Dr. Murray as president of Texas Technological College on Nov. 1. On Nov. 4, Alfred H. Thatcher '09 of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., was the university delegate at the inauguration of President Masterson at the University of Chattanooga.

Samuel A. Bingham '34 of Asheville, N.C., represented the university at the inauguration of Fred Blake Bentley as president of Mars Hill College on Nov. 5. Also on Nov. 5, James E. Bennett Jr. '41 of Poland, Ohio, was the delegate at the inauguration of Dr. Albert L. Pugsley of The Youngstown University; and Roy C. Lytle '24 of Oklahoma City was the Cornell representative at the inauguration of President Grady C. Cothen at Oklahoma Baptist University.

On Nov. 7, Harry L. Tredennick '42 of Abilene, Texas, was the delegate at the inauguration of Elwin Lloyd Skiles as president of Hardin-Simmons University. Mrs. William C. (Helen Robinson) Banks Jr. '47 of Valdosta, Ga., represented Cornell at the inauguration of Sidney W. Martin as president of Valdosta State College on Nov. 15.

- a perfect building, gleaming white in the sun with most intricate handwork of inlay of precious stones and bas relief. They visited the Nehru Museum which had been his home, stayed at a hotel that had once been a home of a maharajah, visited Fatima Sikri, and took an elephant ride. They saw monkeys running around on the temples, flies everywhere, snake charmers with snakes squatting by the side of the road, camels being used as beasts of burden and eating from trees, naked children in the villages, buffaloes cooling themselves in the rivers, bears dancing in the roads, and farming being done as it was 2,000 years ago. Their driver was a Sikh, complete with turban, who took them in an air-conditioned car. When they had to stop to cool the engine a bit, the driver presented them with ice-cold Coca Cola, further bearing out their feeling that India is a country of contrasts - old and new, rich and poor.

Elizabeth Philbrick Hays (Mrs. Paul) 58 Parkside Crescent, Rochester, reports that she continues to do pastoral calling and work at Central Presbyterian Church in Rochester. Her grandchildren now number 10, with Elizabeth Ann Hays as the newest, born April 5, 1966 in Brockport. Marion Murphy, 312 Chestnut St., Phoenix, has an avid interest in outer space activity, but limits her traveling to TV satellite. She is active in the local women's club, does a lot of reading and bird-watching. She tells us that Agnes Gainey Williams and husband Bill (Prof. H. H., PhD '33, of Cornell), 1060 Highland Rd., Ithaca, and daughters Patricia '59 and Kathleen '64 have just returned from a Scandinavian tour.

Another professor and wife, the Joseph Smiths (he of Columbia Law School and Edith Stenberg) were in London this summer for their third visit in four years. At home they are at 155 Beech St., Floral Park.

Adria TenBroeck Parsell (Wife of Richard '21) 57 Sunset Dr., Manhasset, is one of our hardier members who still takes pre-breakfast swims in 55° water at Squam Lake, N.H. where they summer. Dick is talking of retirement to some place in New England but can't pull himself away from patent law. Son Ken is an industrial designer in Chicago enjoying a bachelor's life. Daughter Gail and her husband and three children live in Manhasset. Lynn, the youngest, is married to a classmate from U of Vermont who has completed his first year of law. They live in Portland, Me. Adria accompanied Dick to his Reunion in June and says that June 1969 can't come too soon - our 40th Reunion coming up.

Walt Bacon's presidential letter this fall has resulted thus far in the normal flow of dues payers, but Class Treasurer Joe Wortman lives in hopes that this year will see a new high in contributing supporters. Walt's letter did trigger a fresh batch of news items and even stimulated Joe to tell us some news about his family. His son Richard S. '58, assistant professor of Russian history at the U of Chicago, and wife Marlene, who recently received her doctorate in American history from the U of Chicago, are in Moscow doing research under the American-Russian exchange agreement. Next spring Cambridge U Press will be bringing out Richard's book, Crisis in the Populist Movement, dealing with the Russian reform movement in 1850-1870. Son Miles L. is getting his MA from American U and is currently at Texas Tech undergoing Peace Corps training for assignment in Costa Rica where he will be assisting in the supervision of credit unions.

Benjamin F. Carpenter, Jr., 90 William St., Whitehall, is still "rusticating" as editor of The Whitehall Times "with only a few press association awards to show for it." The retirement of brothers Robert H. '23 and Charles A. '25 has left Ben as the only working member of the family.

George (Casey) and Mary Lou Castleman, 52 Hubbard Ave., Red Bank, N.J., are planning a visit to Fez, Morocco in January to see their new grandson, Sean-Bruno Davez-Fontaine, born to daughter Betsy and son-in-law Bruno Davez-Fontaine, an engineer in the French army.

Daniel Denenholz, 250 E. 65th St., N.Y., continues to function as vice president, research-promotion, of The Katz Agency, Inc., TV and radio station representatives.

Fred C. Fay II, son of Fred C., Small Brook Lane, York, Pa., is a junior in the Arts College at Cornell. Herman Grauer, 151 Village Rd., Manhasset, reports that his son William is currently an honor student at Wilbraham Academy.

Seymour Pike, 11 Park Pl., New York, has cause for fatherly pride in son Carl who graduated from Yale this past June summa cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa, winner of the Chittenden Award for Bachelor of Science with the highest academic standing, and the Belknap Award for excellence in biological research. Carl won a National Science Foundation Fellowship for graduate study and is back at Yale starting work on his PhD.

O. E. Schneider, 131 Oak Ridge Ave., Summit, N.J., has been appointed manager of single-acting compressor products for Ingersoll-Rand Co. In his new position, Schneider will be responsible for the coordination of sales, manufacturing, engineering, development, and service of single-acting compressors. He is the author of numerous articles on compressor installation and maintenance.

Dr. Stephen N. Tager, 3700 Bellemeade Ave., Evansville, Ind., continues in the private practice of radiology and hospital consultations. Daughter Jocelyn is a senior at Western Reserve U. Deborah Ann and Hollie are preparing to enter college next year.

Jim Morrison's son Bill, a freshman in hotel administration, is a third-generation Cornellian. Jim's father, William H., graduated in the class of '01. Jim lives at 292 Upper Gulph Rd., Radnor, Pa., and is in his 12th year as executive director of the Philadelphia Convention & Tourist Bureau.

Every now and then we take stock of our blessings! And then we give thanks for having such a wonderful group in the class behind us. The first response to our dues request was outstanding. Our thanks to all of you who responded. We hope more will join in as the year progresses.

We also have, at the moment, a surfeit of news and in spite of our efforts over the last two issues, we still have not caught up with past correspondents. Don't let that deter you — keep it coming.

Five years ago we had the pleasure of driving H. E. (Hand) Gardiner (picture) to Ithaca for our 30th Reunion. He had come from Santiago, Chile. We had hoped to see him this last June, but circumstances prevented it. Hank has returned to the States and was recently elected vice president of the Anaconda Co. He has been associated with Anaconda since 1932 when he joined the legal staff in Butte, Mont. From 1949 until 1964, he was an executive in the Anaconda subsidiary companies in Chile and resided in Santiago. He is now with the offices in Washington, D.C. During the last war he served with the combat forces in North Africa and Italy and attained the rank of Colonel. We do not have a home address for Hank, but a letter to the Anaconda Co., 1511 St., NW, Washington, D.C. will reach him.

James Barker Smith is a perennial correspondent and a favorite of ours. He does not say much, but "still operating Wentworth-by-the-sea" in New Hampshire and all classmates are welcome. Charlie Olson can vouch for the reception, as he took Jim up last year.

We are delighted to hear every now and then from one of our classmates who has hidden for lo these 35 years. Such a one is Alfred D. Todd, 79 Acacia Ave., Great Kills. Al retired last June 30 and is now building a home in the Bahamas. We hope he will keep us informed of progress.

We do not know the date of this note from Robert Schwartz, MD, not too old we hope. Daughter Peggy, graduated from the Cornell School of Nursing in June '64, is now a staff nurse at the New York Hospital, and is married to David Chipken, a third-year medical student at Cornell Medical Center. Bob's son Dick is a senior at Dickinson and hopes to become a doctor. Home is 1282 Pinewood Dr., Pittsburgh, Pa.

On Oct. 17, Fred Rubman, 2 Edgewater Hillside, Westport, Conn., sent word of his children. (Don't we all!) Daughter Ruth '65 and her husband Timothy D. Wood '65 are living in London where Tim is attending the Architectural Assn. as a Fulbright Scholar. Fred's son, Lewis H., has a teaching fellowship in the Spanish department at Harvard where he is studying for his doctorate. To complete the family, mother is Hermine Cohen '34.

We cannot claim a Cornell Family in the generations following us. Judy followed mother to Connecticut College and son Roger went to Gettysburg. Judy is now working in the social studies department of the Harvard Graduate School of Education. We can't win but we keep plugging for Cornell. Keep the news a-coming.

Irving Taylor (picture), PO Box 263, Lafayette, Calif., competed with 64 other pilots in the 33rd Annual (National) Soaring Championships, held near Reno, Nev., June 28 through July 7. He averaged about 130 miles per day on the various speed and distance tasks and ended up in 53rd place. The photo shows him a bit thirsty beside his sailplane after one of his landings at Likely, Calif.

Hiram S. Phillips has been awarded a Federal Executive Fellowship by the Center for Advanced Study of the Brookings Institution, Washington, D.C. While on leave from the Agency for International Development, he is working on a project on the building of institutions in developing countries. With one son, Larry, a senior at Harvard Medical School, and Richard, a senior at Rutgers, the Phillips family is trying apartment living. The new address is 4701 Willard Ave., Apt. 302, Chevy Chase, Md.

Robert R. Schorn was elected a vice president of the National Assn. of Manufacturers, and joined them Oct. 1 in charge of their government finance department. Daughter Nancy is a freshman at Boston U, having graduated from Westover School last year. He still lives in Cold Spring Harbor, with wife Isabel and private beagle pack.

Dr. Norman E. Tymeson has been practicing dentistry in Rockefeller Center (630 Fifth Ave.) ever since receiving his DDS at the U of Pennsylvania in 1938. He has one granddaughter, a prospective coed for '85 or '86.

Norm and Meda (Young) '35 Thefford's daughter, Lois '67, was married in Anabel Taylor Chapel to R. H. Smith, Grad, (Arch) on May 31. Their son, Norman Anderson, who is in Rutgers doing graduate work in bioelectronics, followed to the altar in August. Daughter Virginia '64 and husband Ivan Valiela, are both seeking advanced degrees at Cornell, Spanish and entomology, respectively. In spite of all these good examples, their youngest, Connie, said "I don't see why I should go to Cornell just because the rest of you did," and is a sophomore at Duke!

Deborah '69, daughter of Saul Cohen, 541 Washington St., Gary, Ind., spent last summer in Spain under the auspices of the Experiment for International Living. It proved to be a rewarding and educational summer with the full impact not properly assessed except for a generous sprinkling of Spanish in her letters home. Next summer, Saul, his wife, and Deborah are planning to tour Portugal, France, and Switzerland, as well as Spain.

A. G. Odell, Jr., 102 W. Trade St., Charlotte, N.C., a former president of the American Institute of Architects, and the first southerner to hold this post in the Institute's 109-year history, was recipient in May of the highest honor of his state — the North Carolina Award. It was awarded in the field of fine arts "in recognition of his pre-eminence as an architect." He is the first architect to have received this honor. Recently he won the US Army Chief of Engineers Award for the best Army building built in 1965 in this country or abroad — the John F. Kennedy School of Special Warfare at Fort Bragg.

Your class secretary underwent surgery this past summer and actually while he was in the hospital acquired a new paper and started a joint enterprise with The American Express Co. Presented at the banquet of the Federation of Cornell Men's Clubs 21st annual meeting held in Ithaca on Oct. 21, the banner was received by Armand K. Goldstein '37 (right), president of the club. Making the presentation is Peter G. Pierik '52, Syracuse, 1st vice president of the Federation and chairman of the Outstanding Club Award selection committee.

To top off a fine weekend, the Big Red team thumped Penn in the football fracas, and the weather was sensationally good from start to finish. The game was memorable for four touchdowns in a single quarter, two by each team. Who said the pros play more exciting football than the collegians?

Elsewhere on the '36 front, Howard Heintz (picture) has two new jobs. He is the Fairfield, Conn., Cornell Fund chairman, and was back in Ithaca for meetings on the weekend of the Colgate game. Howie has also joined Associated Merchandising Corp., New York, as divisional merchandise manager of infants, children's, and junior apparel. AMC is the service organization for 26 leading department stores.

George W. Darling, with Hooker Chemical Corp., Niagara Falls, since 1943 in various engineering research posts, has been promoted. He has the intriguing new title of "supervisor of reliability assurance," industrial chemicals division. With his wife and two sons, George lives at 624 Second St., Youngstown (N.Y.). Our annual "little reunion" in Ithaca in October was a rousing success, as usual. Fourteen mates made it to the Country Club of Ithaca for Friday night festivities, hosted by Jack and Alice Humphreys. Most of them had their wives along.

At the Saturday breakfast meeting of the class council, the attendance swelled to 16 - a record turnout, and at the ungodly hour of 8 a.m. Regrets were received by President George Lawrence from Bill Baum, Harry

Bovay, Bob Hamburger, and Hank Untermyer, who sent George a tin of Norwegian reindeer meatballs and "sauna warm regards."

Principal business at the breakfast session was the financial news from Treasurer Deed Willers. We are still solvent despite losing $692.72 for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31. Reunion expenses ran to nearly $6,000 while Reunion receipts were only about $5,500. The ink would have been much redder had not an anonymous classmate contributed $1,000.

There are 935 names on our class roll, of whom only 250 paid their $10 class dues last year. We have a free rider problem because we send the ALUMNI NEWS at class expense to 481 men, including 128 who have not paid dues nor made a contribution to Cornell for at least four years.

A committee comprising Messrs. Lawrence, Willers, John McManus, and Andy Schultz was named to pare the free rider list. However, there are 53 classmates who do not pay dues but made a recent gift to Cornell and yet do not receive this journal. They will in the future, by unanimous vote of the class council.

Others not mentioned above who were on the scene included Dick Reynolds, Stan Shephardson, Charlie Shuff, Chuck Lockhart, Charlie Dykes, George Swanson, Joe Mondo, Joe King, and Pick Mills.

Jim Forbes was a bit late in arriving in Ithaca, and made it by courtesy of a kindly judge who let juror Jim leave town in the midst of a first-degree murder trial. Jim had to postpone a European business trip because of jury duty. Getting back to Ithaca allowed Jim to see his senior son play one last game of varsity soccer.

Another news-maker on hand was Don Hart. He has returned from Europe permanently and is now a New Yorker, although maintaining his Tennessee residence. Effective Nov. 1, Don became administrative director of the American Gas Assn., with offices at 630 Third Ave., in Manhattan.

About now I am beginning to run down on news, hope everyone will shower me with Christmas notes and news.

Have been waiting for a hot scoop from Dotty Storms Schumann and husband Jack, 150 Queens Dr. So., Little Silver, N.J. on their newly-published or about-to-be-published cook book, Low Carbohydrate Cookery. Saw their copy at Reunion, and it's great for all us dieters.

Ruth Staley Engel, 155 Hamilton Ave., Dumont, N.J., missed her first Reunion as she was heading west to the Canadian Rockies. She works as a secretary in a real estate office in Hackensack, N.J. Vivian Collier Walker, 808 Ackerman Ave., Syracuse, and husband John went to the AHEA Convention in San Francisco in June. Jane Butler, 17 Cherry Lane, Huntington, has been able to publish articles under her name in national magazines and newspapers.

Ruth Cornelius Weeks, Troupsburg, completed her 17th year in June teaching home ec at Troupsburg Central School. Oldest daughter Louise graduated last June from Keuka College, an English major; married David Tetor '65 in April. He is at OCS in Georgia and she is teaching at Jasper Central School. Second daughter Helen completed her second year at Mansfield State College, majoring in home ec. Jim graduated from high school last June and entered agriculture at Cornell in September. David, 12, is in seventh grade. Ruth hopes she can make our 35th; she doesn't plan to teach forever!

Dorothea M. B. Vermorel Bohannon, 2632 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, Fla., is a lawyer (U. of Miami, LLB '49) does a great deal of trial work, about 50 per cent criminal cases. She married Neal E. Bohannon Jr. in 1960 and says the marriage has produced four Siamese cats. Her activities are numerous - on the board of governors of Cornell Club of Broward County since 1963; active on aviation committee of Chamber of Commerce; on board of directors and past president of Florida Assn. of Women Lawyers; listed in 1965 edition of Who's Who in American Women (under Vermorel); charter member and officer ever since, finishing years as president of Kappa Beta Pi, legal sorority international; after 25 years has finally "folded wings" and is no longer actively flying or in women's air races, did it from 1950-1962 and some day on her leisure time may go back to piloting, and still belongs to Lawyer-Pilots Assn. (only three other gals in US in same); says her last good vacation was in 1964 when she went to Africa and spent three weeks in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia visiting friends and met John Forsyth then just arrived as general sales mgr. for Ethiopian Air Lines (TWA).

Anne Myers, Kamehameha School, Honolulu, Hawaii, is on her sabbatical leave this year. She left Aug. 15 for Vancouver and will be at the U of Washington two or three quarters and then eastward around the world. She is looking forward to her first visit to Russia. We received an abundance of orchids from Anne for our Saturday banquet at Reunion. They were just beautiful to have.

Jean Elizabeth Hallock Johnson (Mrs. Ray W.) 116 Park Blvd., Malverne, says with three sons and a daughter she is still at home and busy. Girl Scouting remains a real interest and she has 10 years as an adult in scouting.

Send me a load of news. Thank you.

'Tis brown October ale time, for sure (ha! It'll be white December snow time when you read this), and last Saturday was a perfect football day throughout the East. Fortunately (for those who saw them) the Cornell-Yale and Harvard-Dartmouth games matched the weather in sunshine and excitement. Here in Philadelphia, the Penn-Princeton game fell short of the weather, although Ann Bos, Pete's daughter, and I had a smashing time rooting for ill-fated Penn, followed by an open house at SAE, with a wind-up sing-along at "Your Father's Mustache." Almost like being back on campus!

But enough about me. How about you? Word about two mates not recently reported on: Tom Frank has become kind of a live ghost in my notebook of class column material. Last fall I saw him at the opening of the horse show at Madison Square Garden; he didn't see me. A couple of weeks ago, I saw him at the opening of Dinner at Eight at the Alvin Theatre; he didn't see me. I'd been under the impression for years that Tom was a securities broker (so our 1963 Directory has it). Today I get notice that he's been elected assistant secretary of Ketchum, MacLeod & Grove, advertising and public relations agency, where he's been (so their press release has it) since 1950. Will the real Tom Frank please stand still?

Report from Dave Eden: "Daughter Jan applying for this fall. She's convinced the toss of a coin is more reliable than Board scores! Son Larry's combo, 'The Squires,' busy cutting a record. Also suggests that the swimming team hold a place for him (diving). Barbara, the last of the bunch, winning ribbons at horse shows, hopes Cornell will field a jumping team!" Enigmatic note from Ed Frisbee: "Hobby - historic Cherry Hill - brochure enclosed." (No brochure.)

Ed Hughes writes: "Now have two granddaughters. My, oh, my! Hope to see you all soon if I can get these educations out of the way. Son Sandy is soph at Lafayette, playing basketball and tennis. Still have one daughter at home. See Chuck Stanley fairly often, also Gurdy Miller, now living outside Chicago." More family notes from Fred Huntington:

"Now our oldest daughter Anne is working in Honolulu, Emily is a junior at Indiana U, and Babs, youngest, is a freshman at Colby Jr. College. Barbie and Fred are now apartment dwellers. I was able to visit with Anne in late June en route to Japan. While stopping there, also visited with John Mills '44."

Short notes from all over... Jack Candee: "Betsy and I observed our 25th anniversary in Sept. with a week's trip to Florida. Had a ball!" (I suddenly blush: Jack was referring to September '65. Quel class correspondent!)

Bill Miller: "Present occupation: Executive vice president, Seruomation Mathias Co., Baltimore. Son James - 1st Lt., Marine Corps, Viet Nam. Son Stephen - senior, high school. Grandchildren - one." Bob Wilkinson: "Daughter Jami - senior, St. Agnes School for Girls, Loudonville. My golf handicap went from 5 to 6 - damn!" Bill Davis: "Several people called me about the nice picture (June issue) on dinner in April. Wife and daughter think I looked crooked, which is no doubt true, but at least they know I went to it."

Although it sticks in my craw on this autumnal night - Merry Christmas to all and to all - oh, nuts!

William H. North (picture), 3525 Townley Rd., Cleveland, Ohio, is a member of the executive committee of the American Supply & Machinery Manufacturers' Assn. Bill is vice president and general sales manager of the Ferry Cap & Set Screw Co., Cleveland, and has served in a number of capacities in the ASHMA in recent years. He is also president of the American Hardware Manufacturers' Assn. and the US Cap Screw Service Bureau.

An announcement from the White House reports that Jerome H. Holland, president of Hampton Institute, has been appointed to the Presidential Task Force on Career Advancement, one of 11 citizens selected to furnish a set of recommendations toward the establishment of a training and education program in the federal service. Brud received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from the U of Cincinnati in June and was cited as a "dynamic educator and administrator, notable champion of respect for the importance of the individual, influential public officer and author, expert in finance, friend of higher education."

No references to "carrying the ball," but it's obvious that's what he's been doing.

Dr. Peter A. Granson, 355 W. Whipp Rd., Dayton, Ohio, has been elected to the office of president of the Montgomery County (Ohio) Medical Society. Pete, a general surgeon, will serve as president-elect in 1967 and become the 119th president of the society in 1968. He was chief of staff at Kettering Memorial hospital in 1965 and a director of the Dayton Area Chamber of Commerce.

News of our class for this month is limited in quantity but wide in range. In September we received a letter from Eleanor Dodge Hassett, 817 Newell St., Utica, giving the tragic news that their oldest son, Thomas, died in Gurkha, Nepal on July 12. Tom graduated cum laude from Utica College of Syracuse U in June 1965, and went to Nepal as a Peace Corps volunteer. Eleanor writes, "Evidently he slipped crossing a stream and hit his head, which caused his death." Every member of our class joins in sending our most sincere sympathy to Eleanor and her family. They must be strengthened and sustained by the knowledge that their son cared enough about our world and its people to literally give his life in the cause of humanity. The Hassetts' son James, at the time Eleanor's letter was written, was at Signal Corps School, Fort Monmouth, N.J. Son Stephen is a paratrooper in Viet Nam. Eleanor teaches chemistry at Whitesboro Central School, and husband Thomas C. '40 is specialist in projects scheduling and control at General Electric in Utica.

It is with deep regret, also, that we note the deaths of two classmates; Mrs. John W. (Barbara Bruen) Stewart of Box 314, Morrisville, on Sept. 16, 1965, and Mrs. Alvin (Gladys Selverne) Gallant of 115 Central Park West, New York, on Nov. 25, 1965. If no mention was made of this in former letters, we sincerely apologize, and send belated but profound sympathy to their families and friends.

On a happier note, our congratulations go to Toni Zimmerman, wife of Sol Linowitz, LLB '38, on her husband's appointment as Ambassador to the Organization of American States. It is indeed a high and well-deserved honor, and the United States is fortunate to have such a distinguished and able ambassador.

Mrs. Edmund P. Silver (Rawley Apfelbaum) has been awarded the EdD degree from Teachers College, Columbia U. Her special field of study is art education for the deaf. The Silvers' home is 5 Woodland Dr., Rye, and their sons Paul and Jon attended Yale and Harvard respectively.

A welcome card from Elizabeth Luxford Webster informs us that her daughter spent the summer in France, through the Experiment in International Living program. This struck a responsive chord, for our daughter Lynn, who is now a freshman at Bucknell U, was also an Experimenter, and lived with a family in Leeuwarden, Friesland, Holland during the summer. How the young people do get around these days!

Luxie also reports that she saw Peg Schuman Green during the summer. Peg's daughter is engaged, and is teaching here in Rochester.

Since lack of news is one of the causes for lack of newsletters, your belated and reluctant correspondent suggests that, as you address your Christmas cards, you send one this way with any news about family and classmates. And, though in October it does seem to be rushing the season a bit, a most happy Christmas and New Year to you all!

On July 12, 1966 while crossing a stream, Thomas Hassett, the son of Tom and Eleanor (Dodge) '39 Hassett was killed in Gurkha, Nepal. He was in the Peace Corps and had graduated cum laude from Utica College of Syracuse U in June 1965. The Hassetts have two other sons. James '67 age 21, is currently enlisted in the Advance Technical School, US Army Signal Corps, Fort Monmouth, N.J. Stephen, 20, Utica College '68, is an Army paratrooper in Viet Nam. Tom himself is with General Electric in Utica as a specialist - projects scheduling and control, and his wife teaches chemistry in the Whitesboro Central School. The Hassetts have established a scholarship fund in their son's name at Utica College. They live at 817 Newell St., Utica.

Bob Bennett's son Frank entered the Hotel School this fall. Frank was captain of his high school football team and All-Philadelphia Catholic High School Fullback selection. Ted Thoren, the freshmen football coach, reports that Frank is doing a fine job on the freshmen team here. He plays on the defensive team as a "rover back," which is a key position in the new Musick strategy. Frank was acting captain of the team for the Penn game. Bob is innkeeper of the Treadway Inn, St. Davids, Pa., a suburb of Philadelphia.

New York Life Insurance sent us a news release announcing the appointment of Bob Bradley, one of their representatives in Denver, Colo., to their advisory council. I don't know what this means, but what impressed me was that the business of the council apparently took place at a conference in Jasper, Alberta, Canada, and I envy Bob's visit there.

Harold J. Evans Jr. of 90 Sound Ave., Riverhead, is teaching Junior high school science now after a 23-year career in farming. He writes: "Trouble is that the State Ed. Department does not feel this farming was sufficient preparation, so am a student again, at several of the L.I. colleges. Estelle (Wells) also began her teaching career last fall at the second grade level after substituting here and there for several years. Eldest son Jim now working on master's in English at Geneseo after his music degree from Potsdam. Son Glenn at Bethany. Daughter Carol and Gail in 11th and 7th grades respectively. I am still active in church and 4-H work and am the local rock hound and birder."

'40 BFA — Elfriede Abbe has completed a limited edition of 100 numbered and signed copies of The Georgics of Virgil, hand printed from hand-set type and illustrated with original wood blocks. The work is an outgrowth of a book Miss Abbe wrote and illustrated last year entitled The Plants of Virgil's Georgics, published by the Cornell University Press.

A scientific illustrator at Cornell since 1942, Miss Abbe was awarded a Tiffany Fellowship in 1948, a Hunt Foundation Fellowship in 1961, and the Gold Medal of the Pen & Brush in 1964.

The Georgics of Virgil is the 10th book she has hand set and printed in the studio of her home at 24 Woodcrest Ave., Ithaca.

It's June in January!

Here's an attempt to warm up your winter day with a few memories of Ithaca in June at our ne'er-to-be-forgotten 25th Reunion. Photographic credits go to Cal English, Herb Ernest, and Adolph Wichman.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

Yes, the Tent!

December 1966

Bob Findlay continues to buzz along in our interest for our 25th Reunion. He indicates that Dick Young, Len Schley, Don Kent, Don Goodkind, Dick Thomas, Walt Storm, Gordon Kiddoo, Al Entenman, "Orbie" Orbison, George Howell, John Aldworth, and Will Templeton have agreed to serve as activation chairmen in their localities.

ties. You will be hearing from these gentlemen as they urge you to make your plans now for June 15, 16, and 17, 1967.

Bob is attempting to find activation chairmen (the job is easy and carries a great deal of recognition) for the following areas: Eastern - Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, & Virginia; Southern - Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, & Alabama; Mid-Western - North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, & Missouri; Rocky Mountain - Wyoming, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, & Arizona; Northwestern - Washington, Oregon, Idaho, & Montana. If you are interested and will help, write Bob at 730 Pelham Rd., New Rochelle. Make a note of that address for future use.

Bob also needs a classmate in the Hotel School to counsel with on our meals (which should be gourmet delight). Did you know that Bob is a member of Sommelier Society of America, Inc.? But wine does not make the meal. Also needed is someone for consultation on publicity - public relations - or call it what you will.

The dates are: June 15, 16, and 17. Hold these! Plan now! Come back! Gape at all the new buildings! And generally have a ball!

Bob, I can only say thanks for sending the above news. The Class of '42 would not have been represented in this month's column if it weren't for your willingness to go all out on their behalf.

A short note from Earle Houghtaling (150 Ulster Ave., Walden) indicates that he is practicing law and was elected trustee of Holland Society of New York and president of Ulster County branch of Holland Society.

Well, I'll wait and see who will be responsible for next month's column. I know there is nothing I can do without your support and cooperation.

Elizabeth Schlamm Eddy (Mrs. Scott), our class representative who has done such a wonderful job for the Alumni Fund and the Centennial Fund, reports in from New York where she is a vice president and copy supervisor at Benton & Bowles. Liz writes: "Have been making several speeches under the auspices of Advertising Women of New York to young people interested in advertising as a career. One was at 'Career Day' at Westbury High School where 30 representatives from different fields spoke. Another in May was part of a series of career conferences held for students at Jamaica High School and a third in July for the advertising class of the summer session at Queensborough Community College. It was great fun." The Eddys live at 215 E. 31st St. in New York.

Elaine Hoffman Lupescu (Mrs. Harvey) writes from 37 The Oaks, Roslyn Estates, that she plays golf and dances for recreation and exercise. She also does volunteer work at Northshore Hospital and serves as publicity chairman for the Roslyn section of the National Council of Jewish Women. The Lupescus' son, Stuart, entered the College of Arts & Sciences this fall.

This correspondent enjoyed a reunion with Renee Dick Gould at a party at her home in Albany this summer. Renee's husband Henry is a lawyer with the State Court of Appeals. Daughter Kyna is a junior in high school. The Goulds entertain well at 118 Winnie St.

Ralph H. Hansen (picture) has been awarded the Union Carbide Chemicals prize by the American Chemical Society's division of organic coatings and plastics chemistry. The award was made to Ralph and a fellow scientist at the Bell Telephone Laboratories in recognition of their paper presented at the division's meeting last March.

The paper is entitled "A New Technique for Preparing Low Surface Energy Polymers for Adhesive Bonding." Ralph received the MS and PhD degrees from NYU. He joined Bell Laboratories in 1952 and lives at 50 Thackeray Dr., Short Hills, N.J.

Homecoming Weekend attracted many alumni who enjoyed perfect weather and a squeaker of a football game with Yale. Among them were "Bud" Cushing, Bill Whitner, Bob Ready, "Pinky" Johnson, Joe File, Franklin Moore, Hugh Gerstman, Hendy Riggs, Phil Gilman, Haines Gridley, and your correspondent. The last three are listed together because they were the only ones wearing that great '44 Reunion blazer. What we need more of is identification. So let's see a splash of '44 color at all Cornell affairs! But I shouldn't accuse Hendy Riggs of inattention, as I didn't see him. Perhaps there were four in proper attire. But it was more fitting for your correspondent than for any other classmate - on Sunday, at any rate. While driving on the Northeast Extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike that evening there was a brief encounter with a wandering deer. The deer lost, as did the insurance company. Only the automobile repair garage seems to have come out ahead.

The deer probably had not read the New York State Manual of Uniform Traffic Control Devices. He should have consulted with Edward W. Melchen, (picture) who served for nine years as a member of the Traffic Engineering Advisory Committee to the New York State Department of Motor Vehicles. Ed's committee was the first such group of practicing professional traffic engineers to review and recommend legislative changes and to propose changes to the Manual that one deer obviously did not read. For 18 years Ed served in various capacities with the City of Ithaca, including city traffic engi-

The Class of 1944 held its first 25th Reunion planning meeting at the home of Co-chairmen Dotty and Art Kesten. Enjoying the August sun at poolside were: First row: Dotty (Kay '44) Kesten, John Whittemore, Connie Bailey, Fred Bailey, Lila (Perless '44) Savada, Len Myers, Joyce Haft. Second row: Bill Falkenstein, Sally Falkenstein, Wally Ross, Jill Ross. Third row: Betsey Smith, Alma (Huber '45) Whittemore, Yolanda Robinson, Allen Barry. neer and city engineer. He has been appointed vice president of the Duncan Parking Meter Corp., Chicago. Ed is a professional engineer registered in New York, and is an instrument-rated private pilot. His wife is Elizabeth Ann Vose, '43.

Also making a change is Richard L. Hagy. Dick entered the Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary in September. At the time of our Reunion in 1964, Dick was in the food business in the New Orleans area. His company serviced off-shore oil well operations. The Hagys' address is 31 Rutland Rd., Prospect, Ky.

'45 Men: Lud Vollers 7 Hilltop Rd. Smoke Rise, N.J.

Roy Spreter (picture) has been appointed president of Worthington Corp.'s pump and heat transfer division. Roy and wife Isabel live at 60 Whittredge Rd., Summit, N.J. with their three children.

Some belated items which were sent in with class dues: Dick Saville, Box 81, W. Main Rd., Fredonia, is assistant vice president of Manufacturers & Traders Trust Co., Dunkirk office. Dick is extremely active in all local affairs including the family department. Witness - six children: Virginia, 17, Dick Jr., 13, John, 11, Melissa, 7, Patricia and Holly, 3.

Ralph Riehl and wife Sue are living at 4959 Wolf Rd., Erie, Pa. and have three children: Chris, a freshman at Sweet Briar College; Chip, sophomore at Lawrenceville; Cathy, first year jr. high.

Morton Rauff, 1611 Lafayette Pkwy., Williamsport, Pa., has been coaching the swim team at Lycoming College as an avocation. He reports five winning seasons in the past six years. In this year's Middle Atlantic Championships, Lycoming finished third in the college division.

Lt. Col. Everett T. Nealey invites all Cornell friends to drop in at his new post, Fort Bragg, N.C. where he is chief of fixed prosthodontics in the US Army dental unit there. Wife Dottie (Lemon) '44 and kids, Jim, 14 and Pam, 12, are with him.

Robert Frank reports his new address is 77 Irving Ave., Livingston, N.J. Bob is married to Ruthann Setei '50 and has two daughters, Wendy Susan, 12, and Carol Gay, 7. He is east coast sales manager for the Prophet Co., the industrial and institutional food service management subsidiary of Greyhound Corp.

Don Iseman sends his new address 45 E. 85th St., New York.

'45 MA - Feb Grumman has been appointed director of advertising for The Macmillan Co. He has been in advertising for 15 years after teaching English at Cornell and Harvard, and is a former senior vice president and account group head of Kastor, Foote, Hilton & Atherton.

Michael Natapoff, who has been an experimental physicist with RCA for seven years, has recently been appointed assistant professor of physics at Newark College of Engineering. He lives at 49 Watson Ave., Elizabeth, N.J.

Richard Beard is manager of products service in components sales operation for General Electric. Dick, wife Lorraine, and their three children live at 3624 Chancellor Dr., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Dr. Francis King traveled in Europe this past spring. He and wife (Margaret) have six children. Frank is engaged in the practice of medicine and makes his home at 49 Fair Oaks, St. Louis 24, Mo.

Leslie J. Dolhof has been appointed General superintendent of Georgia-Pacific Corp.'s Gould Paper Division of New York. He and his family live in Lyons Falls.

O. Charles Koenig is the manager of the foreign and domestic sales division of the Empire Livestock Marketing Cooperative. In line with his position he has traveled in Mexico and Puerto Rico. He, his wife Johanna, and their three sons live at 100 Country Club Rd., Oneonta.

The David Kemps make their home at 44 Corell Rd., Scarsdale. He is married to Jacqueline Beckman '51, and they have three sons. David is the vice president of the Service Mfg. Co., Yonkers.

Burton M. Sack has been elected vice president of the Howard Johnson Co.'s Mid-Atlantic division and named national director of public relations. He and his wife Susan live at 11 Rocky Ridge Rd., White Plains.

Stephen A. Jarislowsky is the president of Jarislowsky, Frager Co., investment counselors, and the director of other companies. He lives at 3435 Drummond St., 12-B, Montreal, Canada.

Herbert R. Askew Jr., his wife Mary, and their son and two daughters live at 30525 Woodgate Dr., Southfield, Mich. Herb is the project manager for the Harlan Electric Co., Electrical Contractors.

'46 Women: Elinor Baier Kennedy 503 Morris Pl. Mifflin Park, Shillington, Pa.

The Alumni Office received the following information on your recent activities: Sonia (Sunny) Ginzberg Kramer of Scarsdale wrote that she finished the three-year, part-time program instituted by Sarah Lawrence College in conjunction with New York City. Sunny received her master's degree in elementary education plus certification. The Kramer family consists of daughter Karen, a freshman at the U of Denver, and teenaged Peter. Husband Herbert, LLB '48, recently moved his New York law office to Madison Ave.

The State U of New York at Geneseo sent the January commencement program. We were pleased to see that Louise Carmody Wiley received her master's in elementary education. Louise has taught fourth grade for the past three years. Husband Kenneth owns and operates Locust Lanes Bowling Center in Naples and recently opened Locust Creek Park for overnight campers. The Wileys have four children, two boys and two girls, 10-15.

Mary Hankinson Meeker wrote that she was elected a Republican committeewoman for Radnor (Pa.) Township at the spring 1966 primary. Mary and Tom have four children: Ann, 12, Jane, 10, Susan, 8, and Kenneth, 6.

Phyllis Crane Libby wrote that she was moving in October to 2424 Woodfern Way, Rockford, Ill. In the last two years she divorced, recently remarried, and moved from Philadelphia, Pa. to Rockford. Her husband, Harry, is an official court reporter in the Circuit Court. Phyllis is working as a free-lance court reporter under the name of Libby Reporting Service. Does anyone have any recent news of Clara Knapp Adsit, Mary Gridley Allaben, Virginia Kerr Anderson, Barbara Brown Anderson, or Jean Allanson Arnold?

Since going to press for last month's NEWS, the following classmates have reported in for attendance at our 20th in June: Joe Nemeth and spouse, Barry Cohen, "Moose" Miller and wife, J. Ray Bergen, Gene Carlson, Joe Coleman, Nick Eddy and wife, Gordon Harrison and wife, and Bill Rogers and wife. Fifty men and 32 wives are definitely coming; more probable. Our goal is at least 100 men. We're almost halfway there — let's get going.

William Pendarvis, Box 642, Manila, Philippines, writes, "I can think of several reasons to be in Auburn next June so I can make the 20th Reunion." Bill is general manager of the Philippines operation of the Columbian Rope Co. whose home office is in Auburn.

Henry F. Dylla, Mohawk Trail, Medford Lakes, Medford, N.J., has been appointed regional general manager of the new central region of ARA-Slater School & College Services. Henry L. Langknecht '54 has succeeded to Dylla's former post of director of operations services at ARA-Slater headquarters in Philadelphia. Both are graduates of the School of Hotel Administration.

Automatic Retailers of America, Inc., is among the country's largest contract food service management companies. ARA-Slater School & College Services, which supervises dining facilities in some 225 educational institutions, is one of four divisions within the parent corporation. Other ARA service divisions manage facilities in industrial plants, business offices, public buildings, government installations, medical institutions, and recreation centers in 46 states, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

The new ARA-Slater School & College Services central region will supervise operations for institutional clients in 15 eastern counties of Pennsylvania, the State of New Jersey, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. Henry Dylla was first acquainted with college dining halls during his undergraduate days as a student employee. He began his career in food service with three years as a lieutenant in the US Navy Supply Corps. After World War II, he supervised the operation of clubs and restaurants in Florida and in Colonial Williamsburg, Va. In 1951, he became a civilian employee of the food service branch, US Naval Supply Research & Development Facility. As head of the food service branch, he supervised provisions planning for the world's first nuclear-powered submarine, the USS Nautilus.

In 1959, Henry joined ARA-Slater as a headquarters staff operations analyst. Promoted to staff consultant in 1960, he became director of operations services in 1965.

Bob Flickinger, 175 Columbia Ave., Hamburg, who is also in the food business, tells us Henry will be joining us for Reunion.

John and Helen Allmuth Ayre announce the arrival of twin daughters 6 years old, adopted last summer. Jack and Betsy, their other children, are fast-growing teenagers. The Ayres live at 89 Lincklaen St., Cazenovia.

One more message on Reunion: when you send a Christmas card to a classmate, tell him you're coming to Reunion and tell him to come too!

'47 AM, PhD '49 — John P. Roche appointed assistant to President Johnson this fall. A constitutional historian, he was chairman of the politics department at Brandeis U, and the author of Courts and Rights, The Quest for the Dream: The Development of Civil Liberties in Modern America, and Shadow and Substance: Studies in the Theory and Structure of Politics. Prof. Roche was national chairman of Americans for Democratic Action from 1962 to 1965 and is a consultant to the President's Council on Equal Opportunity.

This past month has been the delight of the US Post Office: the annual dues letter and its request for news was not mailed by the university, our correspondent at Homecoming became so involved in rewriting his notes that his contribution missed the deadline, and the usual barrage of class news was aimed elsewhere. But maybe this was a good thing!

At this moment (last of October), the Class of '49 is planning to be noticed at the Princeton game. Ninety-seven applications for seating bloc reservations have been received. Remembering past years' pre-game parking lot parties, it promises to be a jolly affair.

Norman C. Merz (picture), 5 Glendale Rd., Morristown, N.J., has been promoted to chief system engineer by Jersey Central Power & Light Co.

Norm joined JCPL in 1954 as an assistant engineer at their Sayreville generating station. He was named system economy engineer in 1960. A member of the Cornell Alumni Club, Norm is married and has a son.

Larry Vince recently moved to 2619 Traymore Rd., University Hgts., Ohio. His family now includes four children (3 girls!). Larry is in point-of-purchase display advertising for the Ohio Mounting & Finishing Co. in Cleveland.

Harold W. Ferris moved from Dallas, Texas, to 17130 Clemons Dr., Encino, Calif. He left Bell Helicopter Co. after 15 years to accept an assignment in project engineer development in the aircraft division of the Hughes Tool Co.

And here is a press release about our former All-American football player: Hillary Chollet lectured at a meeting of the National Assn. of Physical Therapists in Los Angeles recently. His topic was "Peripheral Vascular Disease and Its Relationship to Problems in Physical Therapy." Hil is a diplomat of the American Board of Surgery, and former chief of surgery at Fort McArthur Hospital, San Pedro, Calif. He now practices surgery in Covina, as well as being surgical consultant for the East Pasadena Medical Group and the Azusa Southwest Medical Clinic. He and wife Janet (Dingwall) live at 3160 Edges St., West Covina, Calif.

'49 MS, PhD '51 - A. J. Ashe has been named to the post of director of business research and planning for B. F. Goodrich Co. Before joining BFG in 1960, Ashe was business economist for Butler Mfg. Co. of Kansas City, Mo. He had been a marketing specialist at Cornell.

Donlon Scholarship

■ The executive committee of the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs has recommended that all funds contributed to the scholarship fund for the year 1966-67 be designated the "Judge Mary H. Donlon Scholarship." Contributions may be sent to: Federation Scholarship Endowment Fund, Judge Mary H. Donlon Scholarship, c/o Alumni House, Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y. 14850.

leges is the Rev. B. Channing Johnson, whose father, E. M. Johnson, was an English department faculty member at Cornell and then became chancellor of the Telluride Assn., a post he held for many years. Rev. Johnson received his seminary training at Berkeley Divinity School.

Emery F. Boose has joined the MITRE Corp.'s technical staff in Bedford, Mass. He previously served with the advanced electronics department for AVCO/missile space division from 1959 to 1966, and from 1952 to 1958 as leader in the navigation components group at GE.

Gerald L. Klerman is on the faculty of Yale Medical School. His fourth child and second son was born on June 23, 1966. He is director of clinical services for the Connecticut Mental Health Center.

Bernard Herman was recently elected president of Loral Electronic Systems, a division of Loral Corp. where he has been since 1950. He lives with his wife and three children in Plainview. We are sorry to hear that Stu M. Beard III is in the U of Florida hospital at Gainesville and we wish him a good recovery. His wife Alice writes he would like to hear from Cornellians.

James H. Petersen (picture), a graduate of the Hotel School, has been elected president of ARASERV, Inc., a subsidiary of Automatic Retailers of America.

ARASERV is the food system company's recreation services division. After graduation, Jim was a paratrooper with the 82nd Airborne Division and prior to joining ARA in 1955, was vice president of Petersen-Owens, meat purveyors to hotels, restaurants, and ships. He lives with his wife and three children at 918 Bryn Mawr Ave., Narberth, Pa.

Dan Chabot, 1820 Independence Ave. S., Minneapolis, Minn., writes he ran into Bob Post at the Broadmoor in Colorado Springs and that he sees Dave Van Tassel regularly. He lives in an airplane as executive vice president of Business Incentives, a sales incentive program. Frank Friedlander, 2189 Lamberton Rd., Cleveland Heights, Ohio, has joined the faculty of the division of organizational sciences at Case Institute of Technology in Cleveland where he is doing research, teaching, and consulting in the areas of organizational change and team development. Wayne H. Friedrich, 506 Westwood Dr., Dover, Del., recently purchased a 28-foot Broadwater cabin cruiser and his family is enjoying it on the Chesapeake at Kent Narrows.

James T. Kelly 228 E. Lothrop St., Beverly, Mass., just moved from Cleveland, Ohio and has taken over as general manager of the Logan International Hotel, Logan International Airport in Boston. Fred H. King, 645 N. Westmount Dr., Apt. 309, Los Angeles, Calif., has remained a staunch bachelor among the Hollywood starlets. He invites fellow Cornellians to drop in.

Mark Marcussen, 681 Berry Lane, Media, Pa., has a new job with Atlantic Richfield Co. as manager of industrial products and wife Barbara (Singleton) is president of Cornell Women's Club of Philadelphia. Robert F. Nell, 131 Adlershot Lane, Manhasset, and his wife Cary (Caroline Kramer '48) inform us that Bob was promoted to vice president and product manager of Esso Chemical Co.'s world-wide industrial chemicals line. Richard G. Parker, Chase Rd., Wallkill, now has six children. His company, Fair-Rite Products Corp., which he formed in 1953, opened a 20,000 sq. ft. plant in Palestine, Ill. to augment the 55,000 facility in Wallkill. James C. Preston, 1133 Warren Rd., Ithaca, is currently enrolled in graduate school here at Cornell majoring in Extension education and will obtain his doctorate in education next year. His family includes three daughters.

Norton M. Smirlock, 24 Providence Rd., Morton, Pa., and his wife Doris (Rozett) '47 were proud to have their daughter Sue, who was born in Ithaca in 1949, enter as a pre-med freshman at the U of Massachusetts last September. Victor Withstandly, 127 W. Whitehall Rd., State College, Pa., informs us that the Cornell Club at Penn State is quite large, with ever-changing membership. Vic, who has three daughters, was co-winner of a tennis doubles tournament this summer but feels he is getting old as he lost the early-round matches in two singles. J. F. Robinson, 5 Forest Glenn Rd., Old Saybrook, Conn., is in the poultry processing equipment business covering the New York, New Jersey, New England, and Canadian areas.

William J. August, 194 Sumner Ave., Springfield, Mass., is the owner and operator of the "Springfield Bridge Club" and is an author, columnist, teacher, and outstanding bridge player ranked as a "Life-Master," the highest ranking available. He has taken up flying as a hobby and often plays golf with George Cohen. Kirk E. Birrell of 4107 Beechwood Dr., Bellbrook, Ohio, is product manager, advanced systems, the automation and measurement division of Bendix Corp. in Dayton, Ohio. Kirk has five sons. Rodger W. Gibson, has been at 1523 Red Fern Dr., Bridgeville, Pa. near Pittsburgh for the past two years. He was recently promoted to marketing manager, room air conditioners at the Gateway marketing headquarters for Westinghouse. Rodger and wife Betty Lou are living a good life of hosting dealers on the room air conditioner trips in Las Vegas, Lisbon, Rome, Capri, Monaco, Madrid, and the Grand Bahamas. In October and November they were in Puerto Rico, Rio, and Caricacas. Rodger has also been serving on the board of directors of the Cornell Club of Pittsburgh for the last year and a half.

Jean Bullock Benbow and husband Jim bravely took all three of their children - Richard, Sarah, and Carol - with them to Europe in the spring. "We hurried to get the trip in before Richard was 12 and past the half-fare ticket," says Jean. "Surprisingly, it worked perfectly and we all enjoyed it. In a carefully planned schedule we got them to all the sights in London, Bath (including Stonehenge, a must for kids), Paris, Rome, Madrid, Avila, Segovia, and Lisbon in a short 21-day trip." When at home, the Benbows live in Hillsborough, Calif., outside San Francisco, at 934 Baileyana Rd.

A few months ago this column carried a brief paragraph giving the address of Jane

Merry Chavez in Rio de Janeiro – all the information I had at the time. Jane has now sent a long letter, explaining that she and Jerry were married in Rio in 1960 and that both their children, Linda Ann, 5, and Merry Jane, 3, were born there. The children are completely bilingual, speaking both English and Portuguese with no trace of accent. “I wish I could say the same,” Jane adds. “Jerry can.” Jerry works for the National 4-H Club Foundation of Washington, D.C. and is director of the Brazil 4-S Clubes Agrícolas Peace Corps project. Jane travels with him, visiting Peace Corps workers in the field. “I really use my home economics training,” she says, “and my nine years experience as a 4-H Club agent in New York State.”

Last year Jane and Jerry took their two little girls on a three-week trip through Argentina and Chile. “We flew southward to Buenos Aires, two hours by jet, a huge sprawling city where the steak dinners are delicious and inexpensive. Then to Bariloche in southern Argentina, and what a dream! Lakes, snow-capped mountains, forest, glaciers, animal life – it reminded us of Switzerland and Norway wrapped up in one. Then by boat across the vivid green and blue lakes to the Chilean border, by bus across the Andes past the magnificent volcano Osorno and into Puerto Varas, where people told us dramatic stories of the earthquakes and volcanic eruptions that they had lived through. In Mendoza we really felt saudades (homesick), the terrain, the vegetation, and the shortage of water reminded us so much of New Mexico. We returned to Buenos Aires via an 18-hour bus trip across the beef-cattle rich pampas.” Here is Jane’s address again: Sr. e Sra. Geronimo Chavez, Rua General Artigas 570, Apto. 102 (7C-20), Rio de Janeiro, GB, Brazil.

Class Treasurer Maria Nekos Davis (Mrs. George A.) has a new address in Tenafly, N.J.: 144 Highwood Ave. Betty Hyland Rivoire (106 Elizabeth Dr., North Syracuse) writes that she is “just busy with children, home, Sunday school, Campfire Girls.” Betty has three children, Bruce, 11, Linda, 9, and Steve, 5.

Class President Pat Carry spent a delightful weekend recently with Phil ‘48 and Lee Jurkiewicz O’Rourke and their five children: Peter, 15; Philip (better known as Jay), 13; Tommy, 12; Paul, 10, and “last but far from least” (according to Pat) Nancy, 4. The O’Rourkes live at 50 Hutchinson Rd. in Arlington, Mass., where Phil has a real estate firm.

Did anyone in the class make it back to Ithaca for Homecoming this fall? While you’re writing Christmas cards, send me the news.

’51 Men: Thomas O. Nuttle

At this writing, Homecoming has just passed and what a confusing ending the football game provided. No more confusing though than our continued promises of a Homecoming notice and our sending it to you the week of the game. Actually, a breakdown of machinery at the university was the cause, but we apologize anyway.

Class news has very definitely slowed up. Historically, the Class of ‘51 has never had to plead for news so let’s not make it necessary now. Keep your notes coming. The slow-up, however, does give me a chance to catch up on some brief hello’s from classmates that I fear may extend back into last spring.

Lecture Series

■ The Cornell Women’s Club of New York and the Cornell Club of New York are jointly sponsoring a lecture series which is open to all alumni, parents, and friends in the New York City area. All lectures will be held at 8:15 p.m. in the auditorium of the Chemical Bank-New York Trust Co., 277 Park Ave., between 47th and 48th Sts. Tickets for the entire series are: $10 for members of the Cornell Women’s Club of New York and the Cornell Club of New York; $15 for non-members; $3 for a single lecture; and $2 for students attending a single lecture. Proceeds will be donated to the Cornell Faculty Fund. Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. John B. Francis, 210 E. 68th St., New York 10021, (212) UN 1-1037.

The schedule is as follows:

Jan. 12 – Dr. Donald B. Louria, Second Medical Division at Bellevue Hospital, president of the New York State Council on Drug Addiction.

Subject: Narcotics and Hallucinogens: 1967.

Jan. 26 – Prof. Eric Polisar, Industrial & Labor Relations.

Subject: Civil Rights and Employment.

Feb. 8 – Prof. Marvin A. Carlson, chairman, speech & drama.

Subject: Drama and the University.

Feb. 23 – Prof. Jean-Jacques Demorest, Romance Studies.

Subject: Charles de Gaulle.

March 9 – Prof. William T. Keeton, PhD ‘58, biology.

Subject: Modern Biology and Man’s Evolution.

March 23 – Prof. J. Mayone Stycos, chairman, sociology; director, International Population Program.

Subject: The Population Explosion in Latin America.

going along just great,” reported Bud. Equally short from Dick Jung: “Still in US Foreign Service; still in Vientiane, Laos; due out in January 1977.” Read into that what you will. Dick’s address: American Embassy, APO San Francisco.

Larry Burckmyer announced the arrival of twin daughters in October 1965. This doesn’t prevent his strong participation in competitive sailing and extracurricular work in real estate. His prime vocation is as chief engineer for Koehler Mfg. Co. An earlier note from Heikki Jutila told of his plans to take wife Barbara (Bell) ‘51 and three children to Finland for summer vacation. They were also contemplating building a new home in Summit, N.J. Heikki says five new cargo ships have been added to Finlines’ fleet to begin service to US gulf ports and to Montreal, Canada. This brings the total number of vessels to 16.

Steve Rounds wrote of visiting George Bantuvanis when passing through Seneca Falls. I think the note was prior to George’s September wedding. Steve is completing the first of five years on the seven-member board of education of West Irondequoit, a suburb of Rochester. He is also serving on the board of governors of the Cornell Club of Rochester.

Bob Siegfried returned home from a year in France in time to join us at Reunion. Bob says his three children are having a tougher time making up their stateside school work than they did attending French schools. Bob’s address now is 514 Evanswood Pl., Cincinnati.

In the south, Norm Ronemus moved to Orlando, Fla. last spring to become assistant district manager with Mobil Chemical Co. Since his wife Sally is a native of that area, they feel right at home. Their new address is 2767 Bower Rd., Winter Park, Fla. Still in the south, Dick Salsitz tells of discovering “cause and effect relationship” so family is constant (one boy and three others). He and family thoroughly enjoy civilian life after nearly seven years in the US Navy Medical Corps. Says he resigned after they discovered a “high blood chicken level.” Dick is now one-fourth of the anesthesiologists of Louisville.

I started with an apology and find I must end with one too. To Pet Bolanis, we’re very sorry you were inadvertently clipped from the Reunion picture in the September issue.

’51 Women: Kay Kirk Thornton

Billings, Mont. 59101

Life on a ranch such as ours changes pace as autumn becomes winter. Summer days are long ones when the men are involved with harvesting this year’s grain crop or preparing the ground for next year’s crop. Autumn days find us catching up on maintenance and beginning to get the cattle ready for winter. Gathering the cow herd, weaning the calves, sorting out replacement heifers take about a week. As the ranch’s worst rider, I help by fixing a few meals for the crew and occasionally riding “drag” on a drive. Max spends a lot of days at cattle markets buying cattle for the feed lot. Our eldest daughter, Katherine, is in the fourth grade in our two-room country school and Cynthia has begun special education in Billings. Since I generally pick her up from school, I have a little more time in town to do frivolous things such as attending League of Women Voters meetings, taking piano lessons, and trying to recall some Spanish in a small discussion group led by a Spanish minister. After one year of teaching pre-kindergarten class two mornings a week, I have retired in for his hometown, Cheshire, Conn. He sent his regrets at having missed Reunion. Another Connecticut resident is Bill Shewman. He says he, his wife Joyce, son Bill, and three-month-old St. Bernard puppy are all rapidly becoming confirmed Easterners. Bill is product group manager in the Jell-O division of General Foods.

Still going strong at The Greenbrier in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. is Bill Coley. He regretted being unable to catch Reunion and “sure will miss seeing everyone.” Prior to Reunion, Al Beck and wife Pat (Peck) with Don and Carolyn (Niles) Armington helping the wives plan the women’s half of the Fabulous Fifteenth. The success of their efforts is now well known, so much so that the Armingtons will head up the 20th. Frank Decker announced his intentions of being at Reunion, and so he was. Frank had just transferred from production control to purchasing for Rohm & Haas in Philadelphia. Said his family of three children remains status quo.

A short note from “Bud” Goode, in Redmond, Wash. was appreciated. “Everything order to be free to do the driving necessary to get two children to schools 20 miles apart.

I received a note from Carol Buckley Swiss who promised, at Reunion, to send me news of people whom she saw in the New England area. She had seen Dot Stilwell Rowe at the U of Maine. Dot lives at 6 Charles Pl., Orono, Me. She and her husband Richard J. '52 had just got back to Orono after being at Cornell a year while he worked on his doctorate. After three boys (aged 5, 7, 10), they have a little girl, whom Carol describes as "literally covered with golden curls."

Helen Malti Oliver (Wife of Leon '50) who lives on Highland St. in Lunenburg, Mass., talked to Carol on the telephone. Helen says that things are much the same except that their youngest child started kindergarten. She keeps up with her violin and plays once a week with her accompanist.

Marjorie Relyea Vanderburgh, whose husband is Emmet B. '52, lives on RD 2, Marion. She wrote that Emmet teaches driver education at Marion and North Rose during the school year and in the Canadaigua summer school. She occasionally substitutes in home economics, but is mainly busy at home. Susan is in second grade, Philip is in kindergarten, and Cynthia is 3.

Betty Goldsmith Stacey (Mrs. Nicholas A.), 1841 Columbia Rd., NW, Washington, D.C., has written that she is not currently doing anything interesting except kibitzing at community council meetings, giving the dentist lots of practice, and attending Reunions. On her Reunion questionnaire, she said that her occupation is "bureaucrat" and that she ferrets out dead ancestors, "which is a lovely treasure-hunt type game that is a great excuse for slow travels in odd corners of the country."

Jacqueline Goldberg Eisenberg (Mrs. Joseph), 3136 Mark Ave., Windsor, Ontario, Canada, wrote that in addition to Ethel, 13, and Howard, 11, there is now Naomi, who at 2½ is a handful and a doll.

Della Krause Thielen (Mrs. Jack E.), 320 Drew Park Dr., Lake Charles, La., has written that they moved to the lake right after returning from Reunion. She spent much of the summer driving Chad, 11, to summer school at McNeese College for an enrichment program, and Katie, 13, to ballet and sailing lessons. She is involved now as coordinator of the Speech & Hearing Center of Southwest Louisiana. This involves two therapists, three pre-school classes, and some afternoon therapy.

Margaret Button Lorimer (Wife of Norman A. '50) has a new address, 406 E. Lakeshore Dr., Tower Lake, Barrington, Ill. She wrote that it seems that every three years or less they house-hunt in a new area and that they are gradually seeing the United States by transfers from Los Angeles, San Francisco, Santa Ana, Pittsburgh, and now to Chicago. While they lived in Pittsburgh they saw many Cornellians, including Anne Forde Lamb (wife of L. Cecil '50), 117 Cardiff Rd., Pittsburgh, Pa., and their veterinarian, J. P. Childress '55 and wife Barbara (Williamson) '53.

Joan Vorwerk Howie (Mrs. James M.), Washington Vally Rd., Morristown, N.J., wrote that they sold their dairy herd, now raise beef from Sept. to June while Jim is teaching and then travel during the summer. They have traveled to Mexico, northwestern US, Canada, and this past summer to southwestern US, including California. Joan is a bedside teacher and does educational therapy. They have a daughter, Carol, 12.

'51 MS, EdD '56 - New acting president of Saint Augustine's College in Raleigh, S.C., is Prezell R. Robinson. He had been executive dean and a professor of sociology there.

'51 PhD - Carl Walske, previously a theoretical physicist at the Los Alamos Scientific Lab. in New Mexico, has been appointed assistant to the Secretary of Defense (Atomic Energy) and chairman of the military liaison committee to the Atomic Energy Commission. He was sworn in by Secretary Robert S. McNamara on Oct. 3, 1966.

'51 LLB - Hudson Pulp & Paper Corp. has appointed Walter C. Wallace, former assistant secretary of labor in the Eisenhower administration, to assistant vice president, corporate industrial relations and public relations.

Last month, we reported that Fred Eydt had accepted the post of Reunion chairman; we can now add Whitney Mitchell as vice chairman. Whit can be reached through his successful realty company at 36 Grove St., New Canaan, Conn. If you would like to serve on the committee, announce your intention to return to Ithaca next June, or buy a house.

The dues campaign, I am advised, is progressing nicely. Through Oct. 20 we had received sufficient returns to pay the mailing cost for the dues bill, this year's subscriptions to the ALUMNI NEWS - including a "sampling" of additional members of the class - and we still had about $100 left over to start planning such things as additional mailings. In this latter category, we might have a newsletter one of these days, or possibly, there can be an extra mailing or two in conjunction with Reunion or another class gathering such as a fall cocktail party at one of the football games. There is nothing to stop you from making additional suggestions, and we can consider them all at the Reunion. One payment entitles you to one vote.

Anthony W. Bryant reports from Box 466 Waukesha, Wis., where he is president of Century Fence Co., (a property protection firm), president of Brysons Forestry Farm, is heavily engaged in nationwide highway work, and is the father of four.

I believe I owe an apology to Air Force Majors Arnold R. Kane and Lewis S. Daugherty. Last month I reported that Maj. Frank Micklavzina was going to be our first general officer after graduating from the current class of the Armed Forces Staff College in Norfolk, Va. It seems that Arnold and Lew are members of the same class - and the race is on! Before entering the school, Arnold was an intelligence staff officer in the Pentagon; Lew was a tactical fighter pilot at Nha Trang Air Base, Viet Nam where he flew 281 combat missions.

Eric A. Teddlie reported his recent marriage (Nov. 23) to Jan Curtis. They are living at 4930 Cedar Springs, Apt. N, Dallas, Texas.

Dr. Paul Schlein, 7717 Persimmon Tree Lane, Bethesda, Md., is practicing internal medicine in the District of Columbia. Paul reports there was a recent addition to the Schlein household, one red-headed young man.

Arthur M. Reader has been transferred by Celanese to Corpus Christi, Texas where the clan (Pat and the four children) are living in the new house at 3526 Lynwood Lane. Art is working in the company technical center after previous service in the corporate research laboratory in Summit, N.J.

Seymour Marcus is a member of the Trenton, N.J. law firm of Levy, Levy, Albert & Marcus and lives at 333 W. State St., Apt. 9G in that city.

For the past 15 years we have firmly stood by our decision to keep our "family" small. However, we have had countless requests to share our exclusive club facilities and have decided to increase our "membership" on a strictly limited basis for the first time this winter season.

The Club is on fifty tropical acres away from commercial atmosphere, yet minutes from the cultural and recreational facilities of Sarasota. Private beach, bowling-on-the-green, Par 3 golf course, pool, tennis, and unexcelled food service.

Wide range of accommodations. Facilities for small groups can be reserved during December, January and April. Please write Edward St. Phillip, Vice President, P. O. Box 3199, Sarasota, Florida.

William J. Lyon, 5524 Sandalwood Ave., NE, Canton, Ohio, writes that American Electric Power Service Corp. transferred him to the Canton engineering division last June. J. Byron Hicks, 12 Lakeridge Dr., Matawan PO, N.J., was transferred to Mobil Oil's New York office where he hopes to remain for a while. The Hicks' house now contains six boys.

James E. Strub is a major in the Air Force, stationed as an instructor at the Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs.

Thomas Marshall has gone into the retirement hotel business with Carl Arnold '43. Their company, Continental Pacific Hotel Co., San Francisco, operates several hotels for senior citizens who do not wish to leave the city upon retirement, along with a string of other California hostels. The Marshalls have four children.

Thomas W. Weber is another classmate who gave up the bachelor route when he married Marianne Hartmann in New York on June 4. Irwin Margiloff and Lem Wingard were in attendance. The Webers live at 2386 Colvin Blvd., Apt. 2, Tonawanda.

John H. Voight, 395 Prussian Lane, Wayne, Pa., is another early registrant for Reunion, although he and Lydia may leave the four children behind when they journey to Ithaca. Jack is a sales specialist in the mill products division of Kaiser Aluminum.

And, from 713 Jansen St., Cayle, S.C., Alan P. Rose reports that he has become part-owner of the Tremont Motor Inn. Welcome to the ranks of the entrepreneurs!

'52 PhD - Edward S. Wheeler has been appointed manager of engineering for General Electric's insulator department. He had been with Amchem Products until 1963, when he joined GE as manager of thermo-setting polymer development for the insulating materials department. Wheeler lives in Severna Park, Md.

Most of you should be receiving 1967 calendars by now, either from your insurance broker, or the milkman, or the local plumbing supply company. Some probably contain nice innocuous pictures, others may be a little more exotic, while ours is just a black leather book in which a new insert is placed each year. But for all of them, we have the pleasure of providing an important date to be set down: Friday, Feb. 17. It's the date of the annual class dinner, only it's got a new twist this year. Wives are invited. And not only wives, but the co-eds of the class are invited too, together with their spouses. Knowing the good times we've had at the husband-wife affairs at Reunion and at Homecoming, we decided it was about time to add some femininity (of the domestic type) to the class dinner. Furthermore, in choosing a Friday evening, we are gearing the dinner to the convenience of out-of-town classmates, to whom a weekend in New York combined with the class function should have a special appeal. Accommodations will be available at the Cornell Club. Details about the dinner will be forthcoming in the mails, as well as in the next issue of this column. Feb. 17, a date to remember.

Homecoming was mentioned above. Despite the fact that the October issue of this magazine, which advised of the weekend, wasn't received by most of us until November, we did have a good turnout at the cocktail party which we've been holding each year after the game at the Statler. Present were: Bob Abrams, Sonny and Jerry Adler, Cecil and Pete Carhart (whom we were glad to welcome back to '53 social events), Claire (Moran) and Clark Ford, Clay and "Bud" Grice, Sue and "Cork" Hardinge, Phyll (La Rue) '56 and Joe Hinsey, Gracie and Rich Jahn, Joan and Walt Knauss (who are now living in Pittsfield, Mass. where Walt is with GE), Jack McWilliams (of Bromley House, Vt. – a skiers habitu ), M. Jane and Mike Milmo , Carol and Jack Parker, Susan and Sandy Posner (who were chauffeured to Ithaca by Susan's sister and her spouse, Rhoda and Don Parmet '52), Art Shull, Pat and Bill Sullivan. If we missed your name, be sure to collar me next year and we'll make amends.

Art Shull, noted above, was recently the subject of articles in the Cornell Daily Sun and the Ithaca Journal. Art was appointed to the board of trustees of the new Ithaca Festival. An Ithaca resident, he is president of the Lansing Research Corp. (developer of optical-mechanical systems used in research) and the builder of the new Howard Johnson motel north of Cayuga Heights. His latest venture is a shopping complex being developed on the old fairgrounds site.

Jack Bradshaw has been appointed an industrial relations manager for Sylvania, a subsidiary of General Telephone & Electronics. The Bradshaws live on Fawn Rd., Sherborn, Mass. William Ash is now an associate professor of biology at St. Lawrence U, Canton. Bill holds a bachelor's, master's and doctorate from Cornell.

Mary Helen (Lenni) Howard, who is a librarian, had a very exciting trip this year she traveled with her parents to Australia, New Zealand, Hawaii, Samoa, and Fiji. She has just moved to New York and lives at the East End Hotel, East River Dr. at 78th St.

Carol Esdorn Leighton writes that she, Peter, and their boys, Peter, 11, Carl, 8, and Chris, 5, have moved to a larger house at 132 Sturges Rd., Fairfield, Conn. Also in the family is Emily, the dog. Carol is busy with garden club, Junior League, the Metropolitan Zoological Society, and PTA. Everyone in the family skis, plays tennis, and camps: this past year in Canada and Maine. Insurance conventions took Peter and Carol to New Orleans and San Francisco.

In October 1965 Helena Penal  was transferred from a field position in Michigan to Corning where she is now in charge of all promotional activities for the home economics dept. at the Corning Glass Works. Her address is 184 W. Pulteney St.

This issue of the NEWS should arrive in your mail box about the same time you are sending out your annual news to friends and relatives. Why not also include your classmates with a note to the above address?

From Olin K. Dart Jr. comes word that he received his PhD from Texas A&M in January and was promoted to associate professor of civil engineering at Louisiana State U in September. Olin, who reports he is still single, makes his home at 2219 Myrledale Ave. in Baton Rouge, La., and was recently elected senior warden of St. Luke's Episcopal Church there.

Harry S. Leonelli, 2402 New Hampshire, Joplin, Mo., is now serving as a production supervisor for Atlas Chemical. Harry has two girls, 5 and 2, and reports that he spends his leisure time enjoying the game of golf.

Still in Ithaca is John F. Spencer, who lives at 605 Mitchell St. and is admissions counselor in the College of Agriculture.

John G. Kacandes was on sabbatical leave from the White Plains public schools for 1965-66, while working at Yeshiva U in New York to complete his doctoral program in educational administration in urban centers.

Another offspring, Charles Matthew, joined two sisters in the family of Dr. Robert E. Lynk in January. The Lynks make their home at 70 Mosner Rd. in Delmar.

Alan Cohen is president of Site Engineers, Inc. in Moorestown, N.J. His firm is a diversified organization practicing all phases of soil and foundation engineering and investigation of distressed structures.

Appointments of new professors in the College of Arts & Sciences at the U of Rochester include Norman Stein as associate professor of mathematics. Norman comes to Rochester from Haverford, and formerly taught at Yale, Columbia, and the State U of New York at Stony Brook. He received his PhD from Cornell in 1957.

George W. Bogar, manager of the Sheraton Maui Hotel, Kaanapali Beach, Maui, Hawaii, recently proved he could still use a shovel at the groundbreaking for a 30-room addition to his 212-room resort hotel. This news item was accompanied by a picture of George riding an earth-mover, which we decided not to use, since it was better of the earth-mover.

Dr. David J. Albert is now the chief resident in urology at the Dartmouth-Mary Hitchcock Medical Center in Hanover, N.H. Dave, wife Dot (Goudsmit) '57 and two children live at 6 Claflin Circle in Hanover. Dave writes that they are enjoying all the outdoor life that New England can offer, and that they occasionally see Judy (Bryant) '60 Wittenberg, whose husband Jack is now a full-time radiologist at Boston City Hospital. Dave also reports that football coach Jack Musick, who left Hanover dressed in green, recently returned in a bright carnelian convertible!

From Robert F. Martin comes word that he is now in real estate and litigation practice with Cahill, Gordon, Rundel & Ohl "and a hundred other guys" in New York, while making his home at 238 Ward Ave. in Staten Island. Bob, wife Barbara Jane (Leyson) '57, and three children took a vacation trip to Mexico City this past summer, traveling a northern route which included visits with friends in Montreal.

Dr. Kenneth G. Paltrow is in residency training in psychiatry in Portland, Ore., where he and his wife and two children live at 5340 S.W. Illinois St. Kenny's wife, who is a registered nurse, received her BS at the U of Oregon this past June.

From Brussels, Belgium comes a new address for Edward M. Krech Jr., who is overseas with Procter & Gamble and may be addressed at Temselaan 100, Strombeck-Bever in Brussels. Ed writes that he is head of mechanical engineering for P & G for the European Common Market, North Africa, and the Middle East. For him, his wife Joan (Gras) '56 and their three children, this will be the third stretch of living in Europe.

Donald K. Miller writes that in June he joined G. H. Walker & Co., an investment banking firm, as vice president and senior associate in their new business department. Don, who lives at 85 East End Ave., New York, was formerly with the Electric Bond & Share Co.

Another new address belongs to Frank J. Hummel at Pleasant View Ter., RD 1, Middlebury, Vt. Frank writes that he has been enjoying life in "the land of milk and honey" since moving in '65 to accept a new position with Agway (formerly GLF). Frank and his wife have enjoyed visits with Doug and Pat Milligan Pierson of Burlington, last fall took in the Cornell-Dartmouth game at Hanover, and subsequently took part in an old-fashioned Cornell house party in Peru, Vt. at the Bromley House, owned by Jack MacWilliams '53 and his wife Janice.

Thank goodness for our overseas classmates – they are most dutiful in reporting to the class column. This month we have another interesting installment in the life of anthropologist Mary Racelis Hollnsteiner (wife of Helmut, Grad '51.) She continues to jet around the Pacific but has a new home to start from at 4 K-9th St., Kamuning, Quezon City, Philippines. This summer she spent eight weeks in California at San Jose State College training Peace Corps volunteers for service in the Philippines. Back in February she was in Honolulu for two weeks attending a conference on "An Intercultural Perspective in Social Work Education." When she wrote in September, she was home making up to her five children for her long summer absence and getting ready to rejoin her colleagues at the Institute of Philippine Culture, Ateneo de Manila University. Despite a new home, Mary's mailing address continues to be: Ateneo de Manila, PO Box 154, Manila, Philippines. Mary mentions that she has frequently seen Sylvia Dutra Vatak '55 who left for India in September with her four children to study urban family patterns in a middle-sized city there. Several grants cover their travel and living expenses, and she will use the data for her doctoral dissertation in anthropology at Harvard.

A new home and a new job are items in the life of Ruth Behrens White (Mrs. John R.). Ruth is a technical writer trainee for the computer division of Honeywell, Inc. in Newton, Mass. Their new home is at 9 Greenleaf Rd., Natick, Mass.

One of '54's very successful career gals is Judy Weintraub Younger (Mrs. Irving). Judy, Irving, and Rebecca, 3½, are still at 3 Peter Cooper Rd., New York, but Judy has a new office address, 33 W. 56th St., New York. Judy, an attorney with the firm of Powell, Goldman & Younger, is delighted with her new offices in a Stanford-White designed brownstone between 5th and 6th Aves. Irving (Harvard '53) is a professor of law at NYU Law School.

Diana Skaletzky Herman (Mrs. Robert) is happy to announce their new daughter Amy Elizabeth, born Aug. 17. Husband Bob (Rutgers, PhD '64) has a new position as a visiting investigator and fellow at the Rockefeller U in New York. Home for the Herman family is still 19 Donald Ave., Passaic, N.J.

An amusing note from Joan Harvey Rosgosch tells us that three years in Louisiana haven't "southernized" her and her Yankee husband John although their three girls (Jeannie, 8, Carol Jo, 6, and Jody, 5) are happy with perpetual summer weather. Mama and girls are willing to forego the pleasures of ski pants, mufflers, and mittens. I, too, have children who find it an imposition to wear shoes all day after six months of tolerating them only for school or Sunday school. Joan's husband works for Ethyl Corp. in the plastics division in research and development. Joan says they travel constantly - this year it was a quick three weeks in Europe and seven weeks in New York. When home, she claims to do the usual "mother of three girls" things i.e., sing in a chorus, work as a secretary for a local pool and for local sorority alums, car-pool little ones, shop for perma-press wardrobes, drink coffee, play bridge, and chat. The center for all this activity is 9814 Regency Dr., Baton Rouge, La.

Mason and Patricia Jerome Colby accompanied by Bonnie, 10, Jennie, 6, and Carrie, 3½, traveled East this July for a marvelous three-week vacation visiting old friends in New York State. Jaye reports they saw Carol Reid Lyons (Mrs. J. Austin Jr.) and their son, 9, and daughter, 5, who still live at 109 Betsy Brown Rd., Port Chester. While spending five days in the Adirondacks they saw Bev McNamarra Wait '55 who has recently moved to 78 Reitz Pkwy., Pittsford. Jaye and Mase, when home at 155 Vande Hei Rd., Green Bay, Wis., are both very active in trying to interest more high-schoolers from their part of Wisconsin in going to Cornell.

Happy I am to conclude this column and my two-and-a-half years as class correspondent. Little did I realize what agonizing hours this near-illiterate would endure attempting to create sentences that were grammatical and not repetitious. I trust this will not trouble my literate successor Barb Johnson Gottling. I am confident she will dash off amusing columns and perhaps even include photographs from her trusty old Cornellian camera. Please help her all you can with piles of news notes sent immediately to Mrs. Philip F. Gottling Jr., 15 Windy Hill Rd., Cohasset, Mass. 02025.

Alumni Meeting

■ The class organization meetings are once again upon us. On Sat., Jan. 14, the annual midwinter meeting of class officers, including presidents and vice presidents, secretaries and treasurers, Reunion chairmen, dues-collectors and class correspondents, will be held in New York at the Hotel Roosevelt (Madison Ave. & 45th St.). Vice president Steven Muller, PhD '58, public affairs, will be the featured speaker.

The morning program consists of workshops for all class officers, followed by a lunch at noon. The annual meeting of the Cornell Assn. of Class Officers will be held at 2:30. Reunion chairmen will also meet in the afternoon.

All class officers, class council members and their representatives are invited to attend. For reservations please write to the Alumni Office, 626 Thurston Ave., Ithaca, New York 14850.

'54 PhD - Robert A. Christie has been inaugurated as president of Millersville State College in Pennsylvania, which has a student body of over 3,000. From September 1962, to April 1965, he was assistant to the president of Hofstra U.

'56 Men: Stephen Kittenplan
505 E. 79th St.
New York 21, N.Y.

Dear '56 Classmates:

Steve Kittenplan has provided me with the opportunity to bring you up to date on the affairs of our class since last year. Quite a bit has occurred, and I'll just mention the highlights.

Most important was the merger of the men's and women's classes. The idea arose last year, with preliminary agreement reached last fall during Homecoming weekend. Over the winter, a new constitution was drafted by Ed Berkowitz, Bob Day, and George Pazianos. This document was approved and the unification took place at our 10th Reunion.

I strongly urge you to write to any of your class officials with your suggestions or comments on Cornell or our class: President: Curtis S. Reis, 258 Gateway Rd., Ridgewood, N.J.; Vice President: Elizabeth Wright Tower, 118 Five Mile River Rd., Darien, Conn.; Secretary: Allison Hopkins Sheffield, 20 Duff St., Watertown, Mass.; Treasurer: Werner Mendel, 61 Rye Rd., Rye; Alumni Fund Co-Chairmen: Ernest L. Stern, 15 W. 72nd St., Apt. 19G, New York, and Jeremiah Tarr, 251 Standish Rd., Ridgewood, N.J.; Reunion Chairman: Lawrence B. Caldwell, 1292 Ellis Hollow Rd., Ithaca; Group Subscription Plan: Gerald W. Cunningham, Apt. 7-0, 72-61 113th St., Forest Hills.

One of the principal benefits will be the bringing of many women "back to Cornell" through the ALUMNI NEWS. As soon as Ithaca can schedule it, all the '56 women will receive the News for six months under the Group Subscription Plan. The payment of class dues of only $10 per year will insure its continuation in your home. Those who have been receiving it since the men went on the plan know what an excellent periodical it has become, in addition to its being a monthly class newsletter.

Our 10th Reunion in June was most successful, with real credit going to Larry Caldwell and Allison Hopkins Sheffield for making it run so smoothly. Close to 300 classmates, including a fair sampling of non-'56 husbands and wives, returned to Ithaca. The theme for the weekend was "C. U. Again After Ten," and it earned Stan Intihar a $100 US Savings Bond. Incidentally, the class had a little left to add to our treasury after all expenses were settled.

I have been able to turn some of my attention and energies toward finding out a little about what is going on at Cornell. One weekend in early October, I attended some seminars in Ithaca presented in conjunction with a program for Alumni Fund Workers. While campus demonstrations may have received a great deal of publicity, I found the searching reappraisal of teaching methods and department reorganization far more exciting. To these eyes, it appears that Cornell is taking innumerable forward steps in striving for greater academic excellence. Total enrollment in Ithaca is now about 13,500.

While the growth is not over, the pace is slowing, with the administration aiming for a campus population of under 15,000 in 1980. Cornell's long-range plans thus call for the addition of only about 100 undergraduate and 225 graduate students per year, with quality and not just quantity as the goal. One final comment is that while Cornell's tuition and fees are among the highest in the country they still cover but 60 per cent of the cost of educating a student. The Alumni Fund Drive is important.

Among the many interesting people I met in Ithaca was Steven Muller, PhD '58, vice president for public affairs. The occasion of our meeting was to discuss the idea of "continuing education for alumni." We talked about the changing arithmetic center of Cornell's 100,000 living undergraduate alumni. Exact center can be found now in the post-war Class of 1947, in the person of an alumnus only 41 years of age. We felt that it was imperative for Cornell to find out more about its alumni and most importantly to try to re-define Cornell's relationship with its alumni. Finally we agreed that education alone was the common denominator for all Cornellians, and that this should be the logical focal point.

Does the idea of returning to Ithaca for a week or two in the summer for an academic program have some appeal? Would you, and perhaps your family, be interested in attending classes, coupling this with the cultural programs envisioned by the Ithaca Festival and the recreational facilities of the Finger Lakes region in the summertime? Would faculty forums in major urban areas or on educational TV stations have some attraction? I can see some exciting possibilities for our class to help implement the continuance and broadening of our education. Give it some thought and please write me with your ideas.

Many thanks,

Curt Reis

P.S. Steve and "Pete" are both in dire need of some current gossip. Drop them a post card.

'55 MS - Bartolo Toro-Ramirez is a professor of civil engineering and associate director of the civil engineering dept. at the U of Puerto Rico at Mayaguez.

'56 Women: "Pete" Jensen Eldridge
16 Lighthouse Way
Darien, Conn. 06820

A good letter arrived from Katherine (Tis) Weigt Huberth, to bring us up to date on what's happening in the great Northwest. She and Pete are still in Washington, and though they haven't moved in three years, the post office has given them a new address: 4828 86th Pl., NE, Marysville, Wash. Pete is tree farm supervisor for Scott Paper Co., while Tis keeps busy caring for their son Rob, 5½. In addition, they are both extremely active in the Washington State Jaycees, Pete having been elected one of the state's six national directors in May. He is also involved with the Society of American Foresters, and spends any spare time he can find on the ski slopes. Tis works with the Jaycee Auxiliary, does community work, and takes art lessons - you can see that the state of Washington has some pretty active people!

One wedding to report this month - Genevieve Hughes was married on Aug. 24 to John T. Houghton, an alumnus of the U of California at Berkeley. The couple is living in Berkeley.

Once again it's time to wish you all a happy holiday season . . . and let me remind you that all news for this column is printed on a first-come, first-serve basis. Please write! Happy 1967!

'56 PhD - Leo S. Packer has been made Assistant Postmaster General for the Bureau of Research & Engineering. As head of the new Bureau, Packer directs all of the Post Office Department's research and development programs for new mail processing equipment, and will also be responsible for the architectural and engineering programs for all new postal facilities. From 1949 to 1959, he was head of the instrumentation section of Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo.

Hooray, I found the missing packet of letters just in time for this deadline! First of all, Susie Howe Hutchins, who is expecting her fourth child in January (at home, Bobby, 7, Timmy, 5½, and Christopher, 3), requests help with the Cornell Fund campaign. Please let her know if you would be willing to contact about five classmates. Susie and Bob '56 live at 19 Leemond St., Wilbraham, Mass. Bob is still busy with his father and brother in Hutchins Tool & Engineering Co., with little time for golf; enough to qualify for the championship flight in his latest tournament. Besides Cornell Fund, Susie is occupied with local Cornell Club and Junior League volunteer work.

Another busy class officer, Ann Phillips Drechsel (wife of Andrew) has three boys, Dick, 5, Andrew, 2½, and Duncan, 1½, and besides being our class treasurer, is publicity chairman for the Cornell Women's Club of Bergen County. Ann, Andy, and family live at 86 Hillside Ave., Tenafly, N.J.

Ruby Copellman Mintz and husband Allen live at 51 Blake Rd., Lexington, Mass. and have three children, Howard, 9, Jeffrey, 7½, and Tania, 3½. They have a very interesting hobby: Ruby says they are experimenting with gardening in the basement under lights, have done well with gloxinias, violets, and seedlings, and are now trying orchids. Ruby Tomberg Senie is completing her training in nursing education at Queens College. She, husband Michael, and David, 7, and Daniel, 4, live at 6-09 159th St., Beechhurst, and spend their summers in a cottage they are building themselves in Becket, Mass. Rita Feldman Cohen (Mrs. Harvey W.) is also continuing her education. She is attending night school at Montclair State College, pursuing a master's degree in English. Rita and Harvey live at 28 Tanglewood Dr., Livingston, N.J., and have two children, Susan, 5, and Jeffrey, 2½. Rita is also active in the Cornell Women's Club of Northern New Jersey, and is a board member of the League of Women Voters of Livingston.

Pat Roth McIntosh and husband Lester, of 2981 Reservoir Dr., RD 1, Mogadore, Ohio, have four children, the last one of them unreported in this column! He is Bill, and his siblings include Susan, 6, Laura 4½, and Mac, 3½. Another unreported baby is Daniel John Hosterman, who arrived Feb. 8, 1966 in the family of Jack and Connie Santagato Hosterman. He has two brothers, 6 and 7, and a sister, 2. Their home is at 215 N. Fourth Ave., Mechanicville.

Lori Grassl Ineson is now living at 18 Churchill Rd., Port Chester, but has moved three times in the past 18 months. RCA moved them to Boston in September, and back to New York in May, and just prior to these moves, they had just moved into a new home in Valhalla. John, MBA '57, is now on the corporate staff of the Singer Co. as manager of systems and programming. They have two children, Erika, 5, and Peter, born March 31, 1965. Lori says now they hope to stay in one place for awhile!

Beth Ames Swartz, 8122 N. 7th Ave., Phoenix, Ariz., has been making quite a name for herself as an artist. I last reported that she had articles published on art and creativity. Her latest achievement was this summer, two one-man shows of her work, in July at Los Robles Gallery, Palo Alto, Calif., and in August at the Galeria Glantz in Mexico City. She also has been the art consultant for the local Head Start program.

Here is a new address for Jane Mitchell Lizars: 259 W. Belden, Chicago, Ill. Also one for Judy Liersch, who is back in New York again! She is now with the copy processing section of Time, Inc. instead of with Time magazine. It involves computerized handling of editorial copy to set type and even up the right-hand side of a column of type, and Judy says they will feed the product of the computer (IBM 360) into a machine in New York which will set type in Chicago! She has been taking some fantastic trips: last one in spring of '65 took her to Southeast Asia, visiting ruins, mostly temples. Her address: 118 E. 19th St., New York.

Georgia Freeman Messmer is another busy one. She is on the board of directors for the Topanga Playhouse, also leads a junior Girls Scout troop. The Messmers live at 21830 Corvo Way, Topanga, Calif. and have a daughter, Laura, 3. Georgeina Turnbull Christie (Mrs. W. Robert) received her master's degree in library science at Drexel Inst. of Technology in 1958, and is now employed as reference librarian at the Syosset Public Library. Her husband is an engineer, and a Lehigh graduate. They live at 46 Fieldstone Dr., Syosset.

Beverly Robertson Murrell and husband Jerry moved to 4733 W. 61st Ter., Mission, Kan. in August. Jerry is a radiology resident at the U of Kansas Medical Center. Jerry Neuman Held, husband Paul, '56 and family consisting of Steven, 7½, Andrew, 4, and their Labradore retriever, Humphrey, have just moved to 1134 Hollywood Ave., Upper Darby, Pa. Jerry is studying at the U of P for an MA in economic history.

Another artist in our class who is making good is Amy Freedman West. She writes that she recently had her second one-man show in the Guild of Creative Art in Shrewsbury, N.J. Also that her work has been selling! Amy lives at 1 McCain Ct., Closter, N.J. with her husband Ted, a dentist who practices in Englewood, N.J., and their three children, boys, 5½ and 4, and a girl, 2½.

'57 MBA - Robert E. Coleberd Jr., 51 Ridge Rd., Westminster, Md., is an associate professor of economics at Western Maryland College.

'59 Women: Carroll Olton Labarthe

Month's end seems to come around rather rapidly these days. Last month's column was lacking since at the time it was due I was immersed in a three-week intensive orientation course at the Graduate School of Library & Information Sciences at the U of Pittsburgh. My course time has now subsided to three mornings a week, but time is still mighty scarce.

I happened to be in Ithaca Homecoming Weekend, though for a very short time: I left as people were going to the game. However, I did see Jack '58 and Carol Hardy McFadden for a time Friday night and they told me about all sorts of people they have seen since they moved back to Ithaca. Most of what they told me I have, naturally, forgotten. I do remember that Carl and Ruth Daniel Vail are back in Ithaca. Carl is teaching at the Hotel School.

Mimi Niepold Horne (Mrs. Paul) writes that she is still in Rome, Italy (Via del Governo Vecchio 25) where Paul is a freelance writer. Their daughter Alison is 3 and speaks Italian and English equally well. This fall she is becoming multi-lingual as she is enrolled in a French nursery school.

Pat Castaldo Hobbie (Mrs. Ed) has a new address and a new baby in that order. In May the Hobbies moved to 648 Westfield Ave., Westfield, N.J. and on Aug. 5 Laura Elizabeth arrived.

Julia Leader, who was mentioned in this column a few months ago because of an article by her concerning the demise of The Bomb, has her name in the news again. On Aug. 27 she became Mrs. Richard P. Hine. She is now living at Homewood Ave., Dayton, Ohio.

Cordy (Brennan) and Randy Richardson '58 have bought a house in Darien, Conn. (39 Dubois St.). Cordy understands that Ann Shaw Lang also lives in Darien at 8 Forest Rd. Deloyce Timmons Conrad visited the Richardsons in August. Deloyce's children, Katherine, 4, and Christopher, 1, were with her. Cordy's children are Ricky, 6 and Jacqueline, 3.

Phil Clark is now on a leave of absence from grad school at Cornell and is working for a city and regional planning consultant. Phil also toured the Orient with the Cornell Glee Club this past spring, after having come back to Cornell in the fall of '65.

At last word, Raoul Sudre was still the Cornell fencing coach. Last spring Raoul also volunteered to give special hand-to-hand combat training to local army reservists. Raoul organized the Cornell Judo Club in 1961.

Dave Donner is now living at 744 N. Azusa Ave., West Covina, Calif. Dave is a loan officer assistant with Crocker Citizens National Bank at Pomona. Jim Carter is at 201 Duncan Ave., McDaniel Hts., Wilmington, Del. He has been teaching at a junior high school in Wilmington. Joe DiIorio just got his MBA from the Harvard Business School. The DiIorios saw a good deal of Peor Ghent and wife Sonia while at Harvard. Jim Dimon is now living at 28 Peake Rd., Fords, N.J. and since Aug. 1, 1965, has been the director of quality control for Johnson & Johnson's New Brunswick, N.J. operations. Tom Barney graduated from the Indiana Law School this past February and entered the NYU School of Law, graduate division, this fall, to get his LLM in taxation so he can practice tax law.

Ralph Fields spent last year at Columbia under a Kellogg Fellowship, studying the administration of higher education. He got together frequently with Robert Sulzman at Bob's home in Fanwood, N.J. Dave Flinn has been living at 316 Eastwood Ave., Ithaca, and has been taking courses in the Business School with the ultimate goal of getting his MBA. Dave has been running the Stellar Industries & Star Lease (communications and electronics sales, service, and leasing). Seymour Goodman's latest address is 10 Green Moor Way, Henrietta. He has been a member of the soil survey party, SCS-USDA, attempting to complete the survey of Monroe County. Gerald Higier has been associated with the New York law firm of Marshall, Bratter, Greene, Alliso & Tucker.

'56 Women, No. 53

■ The Women's Class of 1956 starts a group subscription to the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS with this issue and becomes the 53rd class using the Plan. Class dues pay for the subscription.

At present, all but four men's classes between 1913 and 1964 have group subscriptions. The exceptions are 1922, 1933, 1958, and 1959. In addition, the Women of 1920, 1950, 1951, 1954, and 1957 are in the Plan. The Men of 1916 and 1917 send the NEWS to the women of their class as well.

Dave Stevens is located c/o Dept. of Medicine, U of Wisconsin Hospitals, 1300 University Ave., Madison. In August '64 Dave married Julie Ann Teece of Sydney, New South Wales, Australia. Dave has been interning at the U of W Hospital, while Julie has been teaching and pursuing her MS in history at the university. Moritz Gluck is located at 1560 Pelham Pkwy., Bronx. Moritz has also joined the ranks of the defeated, having married Judith Stern. He is the resident of oral surgery at the Bronx Municipal Hospital while also in attendance at the NYU College of Dentistry, postgraduate division.

Herb Rod, DDS, is living at 236 South St., Pittsfield, Mass. He has begun his dentistry practice there after having completed his internship at the Albany Medical Center Hospital. Don Waldowski and wife Betty are now living at 103 Valley Rd., Charlottesville, Va. Don is an intern in pediatrics at the U of Virginia Hospital. The Waldowskis were blessed with a baby girl born Sept. 5, 1965. Dick Kneen is located at 3023 Birch Dr., La-Crosse, Wis. He reports that the Kneens' second son, Scott Edward, was born Oct. 14, 1965. Melvyn Schaffer is currently at 201 E. 25th St., Apt. 7H, New York. Mel says a son, Robert Howard, was born May 19, 1965.

Gilbert Simmons is located at 4 E. 74th St. New York. He spent 18 months in Spain in '64 and '65. Dick Thatcher is at 32 Betsy Lane, Ampler, Pa. Dick has an executive sales position with Computer Associates, Inc. — a financial leasing and data processing consulting firm. R. L. Venezky is living at 2616 Waunona Way, Madison, Wis. He joined the faculty there as an assistant professor of English and linguistics after receiving his PhD in linguistics from Stanford in June 1965.

Dick Schartz has just completed his internship at Philadelphia General and reports to headquarters of the Public Health Service in Washington, D.C. for two years of duty. Tom and Constance (Purick) '63 Hunter are living at 7900 Howard Ave., La Grange, Ill. where Tom has a position with DuPont Co. as film dept. salesman. The Hunters frequently see Larry and Judy (Minor) '62 Steenberg who live in Chicago. Larry is a group leader with Universal Oil Products Corp. Bruce Kerfoot writes that he is owner-manager of Gunflint Lodge, Inc. at Grand Marais, Minn. There are now two little Kerfoots, Brian, 5 and, a girl, Shawn, 2.

Paul Grannis spent the last year at Cal (Berkeley) where he had a postdoctoral appointment at UC for particle physics research. He and wife Dorothy (Eckert) are now the proud parents of daughter Jennifer Gibson (born June '65). Bill Knight graduated from Yale Medical School in June of '64. After that he did a pediatric internship at Strong Memorial Hospital in Rochester. Bill is now married to Marilyn Ollayos, a graduate of the U of Connecticut School of Nursing. Bob Lawrence was married in November 1963 to Mary Stout. Bob got out of the Army in September '65, and after studying at NYU this last year for an LLM degree in tax law, is now working for Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft, at 14 Wall St., New York.

'60 Women: Susan Phelps Day

I was delighted to hear that Michael and Nancy (Cohen) Nowak are the proud parents of a little girl, Karen Joanne. The baby was born Aug. 6, weighing six pounds, eight ounces. Nancy worked last year as a speech therapist in the Ithaca Public Schools, working with children in kindergarten through 12th grade. Until last June, Michael was employed at Tallman & Tallman Architects in Ithaca. Now he is working with Uncle Sam as a 2nd Lt., stationed at Fort Belvoir, Va. where he is an instructor in the Engineer School. The Nowaks' address is 7262 JonPaul Dr., Alexandria, Va.

Nancy said she saw Cindy Wolloch Frey with husband Jeffrey '59 prior to the Freys' departure for London where Jeff is working for the year. Sorry, no address.

Another new arrival is Steven Jeffrey Luper, born July 23. Fred '62 and Carol Perlmuter Luper are now in Columbus, Ohio where Fred is an attorney. The Luperes would love to hear from Cornell friends in the area. They have a new split-level home, 1757 Gaynor Dr., and welcome visitors. Carol also wrote that Fred was appearing as Nathan Detroit in Guys and Dolls for the Columbus Independent Players.

Suzanne Peckham and John V. Ogden were married last June. While John is at Michigan Law School, Suzanne is using her Chinese language and history background at Bendix Systems. Their address: 1316 Packard, Ann Arbor, Mich.

Suzanne writes that Lisa Anderson is in her last year of Law School at Stanford and plans to do legal work for civil rights upon graduation. She has spent two of her past summers working for legal rights for Negroes in the South. Harley Brown is currently in the Army in Korea and Tom Chirug is finishing off his last year in the Navy in special intelligence operations. He is currently fighting in South Viet Nam — because he volunteered to do so. Thanks, Suzanne, for the news.

Federation Meets

■ The weekend of Oct. 21-22 saw the 21st annual meeting of the Federation of Cornell Men's Clubs. At the Friday meeting, there was a symposium on "The Combining of Men's and Women's Clubs Pros, Cons, and Techniques," and a report on the annual giving programs.

At the banquet on Friday night, the "Outstanding Club of the Year" award was presented to the Cornell Club of Rochester, and vice president for public affairs Steven Muller, PhD '58, spoke on "The Changing Scene of Higher Education."

President Perkins spoke at the annual business meeting on Friday morning before the delegates retired to lighter concerns such as an alumni luncheon and the Cornell-Yale game.

The following new officers were selected: president, Stanley R. Stager Jr. '35, CC of Delaware; 1st vice president, Peter G. Pierik '52, CC of Syracuse; 2nd vice president, Franklin W. Carney '47, CC of Boston; and secretary-treasurer, Hunt Bradley '26, General Alumni Secretary. Edward M. Miller '35, CC of Washington, D.C., and William G. Ohaus '49, Lackawanna CC, were elected to the executive committee.

Carol Kirtland in August 1965, is a dairy farmer in upstate New York. His mailing address is RD 1, Wolcott.

Second Lt. Edgar Thorsland Jr. (picture) has entered the US Air Force pilot training program at Webb AFB in Texas. He will be awarded silver pilot wings upon completion of the program. Martin Sampson III has been named a Peace Corps Volunteer after completing 11 weeks of training at Princeton U. He was one of 25 volunteers trained there this summer to begin work in Libya. He will be teaching English in secondary schools and will assist in such areas as adult education programs, English clubs, and sports. Marty can be contacted c/o his parents, Prof. and Mrs. Martin Sampson Jr. at 107 Ridgedale Rd., Ithaca.

Anthony Serafini and Marco Dicapua have sent me pleasant, informative letters. Anthony is in his second year as a graduate student in philosophy and logic at Syracuse. He has a $3,000 research and teaching assistantship and is quite happy in his choice of career. He is still an inveterate chess player and violinist; in fact, he is continuing his violin studies at Syracuse. He would love to hear from his old classmates at 1322 E. Genesee St., Syracuse. Marco, after spending last year at Cornell studying for a master's in aerospace engineering, spent a part of the summer at the Naval Research Labs in Washington, D.C. and then took a quick two-week trip to Rome to visit some relatives. He is working for his PhD in aerospace sciences at Princeton and can be reached at Guggenheim Laboratory in Princeton, N.J.

The Ithaca Journal was the source of two bits of news. Dr. Peter Scribner, a '65 graduate of the Veterinary College at Cornell, was married to Martha Northrup on Aug. 27. The Scribners left Sept. 12 to live in New Zealand. Montgomery Shaw and Stephanie Habel were married on Sept. 5. Shaw, who has a Cornell MS in chemical engineering, is enrolled as a graduate student at Princeton. His wife (Bryn Mawr '66) is a graduate student at Rutgers U. The Shaws live in Highland Park, N.J.

October wasn't a very newsy month for many of you, but it was filled with lots of excitement for us. As a present for passing the New Jersey Bar Exam, I gave my husband a 7-lb., 2-oz. baby boy named Jeremy. He's very anxious to find out who may be at Cornell with him in the class of '88.

Phyllis (Weiss) Haserot wrote me on Cornell stationery since she's back in Ithaca again to finish her second year on a master's in city planning while her husband attends law school. They live at 142 Pine Tree Rd. She added that Phyllis (Friedman) and Brad Perkins are there while Brad finishes his BA and Phyllis works for two professors in the ILR school. Mary Hays has been seen attending first-year law classes. Thank you for reporting, Phyllis.

Also returning to Ithaca is Susan Kuschner who married Stuart Ende last June. After spending the summer in Europe, Stuart is a teaching assistant and doctoral candidate in the department of English and Susan teaches English at the George Junior Republic in Freeville.

Cate (Sloan) and Charles Abbe, MChE '65, are on the West Coast at Edwards, Calif. where "Jay" is a 1st Lt. in the Air Force. Jeanne Albert is nearby in Berkeley teaching seventh-grade mathematics in San Lorenzo. She lives at 2334 Bowditch.

Settled at 54-44 Little Neck Pkwy., Little Neck, are Judy (Rosuck) and Robert Fox '63. He is employed with Emery Roth & Sons, architects, while she teaches biology and chemistry at Great Neck North Senior High School.

"Lindy" Zesch has finished her graduate work in English and secondary education. She spent the summer at Harvard U on a scholarship for graduate study, after spending the previous academic year at Michigan State U. Now she is working as an area supervisor for the American Field Service (AFS) in New York and living at home at 320 Crestmont Rd., Upper Montclair, N.J.

I hope to have news next month on Homecoming Weekend activities.

Phil Ratner's address is now c/o Parkrose Apts., Apt. 32, 10235 N.E. Prescott Ave., Portland, Ore. Walt Alexander dropped me a note that he and his roommate Fred Zappert keep running into fellow alumni out there in California. He says "Fred and I are looking forward to seeing old friends from the Hill. . . . Our address is 1003 Lane Ave., Mountainview." Steve Trumbull is at Brockport State Teachers College. Address: 141 Holley St., Brockport.

Rich Steubing writes from 255 Grapevine Rd., Wenham, Mass., that he is now attending Gordon Divinity School in preparation for mission work in Africa. Jonathan Silverman just finished 14 weeks of Peace Corps training at the Harvard Business School before going to India, and Nicholas Veeder has finished 12 weeks in Hawaii, training to teach in Korea. His home address is 6 Wick-ersham, St. Louis 24, Mo.

Yesterday's mail included a post card from Randy Gibson. He and wife Mary Louise live at 10960 Caribbean Blvd., Miami, Fla. "As of Sept. 19, 1966 we are the proud parents of a baby boy, Thomas Paul." Congratulations!

Larry Berger wrote, from 502 Morrison Hall, U of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, that he is studying for a master's degree in city and regional planning. Also at Chapel Hill are Guy Cohen, Joel Oseroff, and Neil Chafetz. Larry's comments include "It feels different to be a Southerner!"

Out in California (I'd love to be there right now; the Ithaca weather has been typically bad recently) is Pete Jacobs. He and Steve L'Heureux are roommates at Hastings College of the Law. Address: Apt. 206, 140 Delores St., San Francisco.

Very often I run into people from our class, either here in Ithaca or elsewhere. Up at Buffalo for the Cornell-Buffalo game, I met Dana Harris, who is now a Buffalo student. He wouldn't tell me which side he was rooting for. On campus recently I met Jack Carlson and John Bittence at a party next door at Acacia. Jack is now married and studying for an MEE. Also still here for an MEE is Ken Kanagaki.

Except for the news that Hotellie Frank Carey is now dining management supervisor for Cornell's Department of Housing & Dining, that's all the news I have. Remember, photos, addresses, and news of other classmates are all welcome.

This column comes to you quite a bit after Homecoming, but at the time of its writing (late October), the weekend is still a very recent - and very pleasant - memory to me. It was nice to see Cornell beat Yale, to go to Fall Tonic, and above all, to talk to old friends. I hope that those of you who were able to make it back enjoyed your visit as much as I did.

Now for a little news (and that's all I have this month, a little): Marilyn Mather is working as a caseworker for the Lutheran Children's Bureau. She lives at 2309 Allen St. Allentown, Pa.

Carol Stamp is in her first year at the Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania. Women's Med, by the way, is the only women's medical college in the western hemisphere.

Susan Rockford is doing graduate work in microbiology at George Washington U. Her address is 5905 Fisher Rd., Apt. 202, Oxon Hill, Maryland, Washington, D.C., SE.

Susan Rosen writes: "I toured Europe (12 countries) on my own itinerary for nine weeks, and then rested in Deal, N.J. and sailed our catamaran every day. I am now employed at the Fashion Institute of Technology as the executive secretary of the alumni office. My address is 201 City Blvd., Staten Island, until I get my own apartment in Manhattan."

From Jo Anne Wirsig comes this news: "I'm now up to my ears in work at MIT, trying to get a PhD in biochemistry a year earlier than it's normally given. Four years is just too much! I'm also dabbling in CDC-like productions at Harvard, which are a lot of fun and a good way to hammer too many hours of seminars out of the system!" Jo Anne is living at 22 Magazine St., Apt. 3, Cambridge, Mass.

More news from my mailbag: Phyllis Tashlik and Martha Goell are now working in Washington, D.C. I have no address for them - sorry. Bonnie Lazarus was married to Stephen Wallace in August. She's teaching kindergarten and attending Bank Street College of Education for a master's degree, while husband Stephen is a senior dental student at NYU. The Wallaces are at 60 Remsen St. in Brooklyn.

Phyllis Gibber is at Boston U working for a master's in speech therapy. She's living at 126 Warren St., Brighton, Mass. and says she'd love to hear from people in the area. Phyllis says, "BU isn't Cornell but it offers some positive things and my particular department is great." (Funny thing, Phyllis, I feel the same way about Syracuse.)

That's it for this month. Merry Christmas (or Happy Hanukkah) and Happy New Year, everyone!

We tip our hats to the editors of the Saturday Review for a "house ad" which calls attention to a costly problem which only you can solve:

A moving plea to subscribers on the move

WE DON'T LIKE to burden you with our problems.

But since your cooperation is essential in helping us solve one of them, we hope you won't mind wading through the next few paragraphs to find out how you can help us save money, improve subscription service, and continue the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS's editorial growth.

Here is the problem:

Recent changes in postal regulations have greatly increased the expense of handling copies which are not correctly addressed.

If you move without notifying us or your post office, your copies of the ALUMNI NEWS are not forwarded. Nor are they returned to us. They do no one any good. The local post office sends us notification, however, that your copies were not delivered . . . and each of these notifications costs us ten cents. We lose ten cents per notification . . . plus the cost of the undelivered copies . . . the expense of tracking down your new address . . . and the outlay for sending you the missing copies if they are available. Multiply this by the several thousands of subscribers who change their addresses each year, and you can easily see that the waste of money and manpower is considerable.

We would rather put that same money and manpower to work on the editorial side—continuing to add to the NEWS new and important material to increase your reading enjoyment each month.

Please notify us at least five weeks in advance if you plan to move or be away from home for any considerable length of time.

Time out— for the future

In a sense, this is not a business call: an investor whose securities we manage is taking his family on a tour of the financial district. Along with the Stock Exchanges and Wall Street he includes, as a matter of course, a visit with his friends at the United States Trust Company.

For the family, it is part of sightseeing; for us, it is an opportunity to get to know young people we may see often in years to come.

For both the family and for us, it is an important chapter in the mutual confidence and understanding on which every trust relationship depends.

This visit—time out for friendship—may prove to be wonderfully helpful in the year 19xx.
