We're Glad to Hear From You

Almost every day our mail contains a few letters from former Cornellians. Sometimes they ask about Cornell banners or etchings, sometimes about new books which are in use in their colleges. These letters receive first attention and we hope that all alumni will join the group who are using the Co-op as a sort of contact point. Let us hear from you often—we are glad to be of service.

PFANN '24 IN TRENTON

George R. Pfann '24, Alumni Trustee, will speak at a meeting of the Cornell Club of Trenton, N. J. February 5. William H. Hill '21, 501 Klagg Avenue, Trenton, is in charge of arrangements.

PITTSBURGHERS AT HOME

Word comes from Eugene C. Batchelar '02, president of the Cornell Club of Western Pennsylvania, that in addition to Coach Snavely and football captain-elect Edward E. Hughes II '38, Robert H. Menges '37, commodore of crew, will also speak at the Club's annual banquet February 8.

Both Hughes and Menges are sons of Pittsburgh Cornellians, the former of Henry M. Hughes '13 and the latter of Harry P. Menges '10. At the banquet, to be held at the University Club in Pittsburgh, new motion pictures of the Campus will also be shown.

LHEVINNE CONCERT

Again a capacity audience in Bailey Hall signified its enthusiastic enjoyment of a University concert and a great musician, Josef Lhevinne, pianist, who played January 12. His generous program was a difficult one, rendered with such skill and feeling as to excite universal commendation.

Most unusual, perhaps, was the performance of Brahms's "Variations on a Theme by Paganini" in its entirety. This was preceded by the "Rondo in G Major, Opus 51," and "Sonata in C Major, Opus 53," of Beethoven. Following the intermission the artist presented a group of Chopin works, including three "Preludes," the "Valse in A Flat Major," and "Ballade in F Minor," and "La Soirée dans Granade" and "Poissons d'Or" by Debussy and "Etude in F Minor" by Dohnanyi.

NEW ENGLAND ELECTS

Cornell Club of New England at its annual meeting December 14 elected new officers, and the forty Cornellians present discussed with interest the Club's projected program for the coming year. Richard O. Walter '01, recently returned from a trip around the world, recounted his "Impressions in Germany."

Francis A. Niccolls '13 is the new president; Leon M. Brockway '08, vice-president; Thomas Dransfield, Jr. '10 is treasurer; and Newton C. Burnett '24, Room 701, 7 Water Street, Boston, Mass. is now secretary. Regional vice-presidents are H. Hunt Bradley '26, for Rhode Island; Robert C. Bradley, PhD '26, for New Hampshire; and Edward A. Rice '04, for Central Massachusetts. Governors for terms through 1937 are Hugh S.

Fifield '25 and Robert J. Wilkes '28; through 1938, Frank G. Anderson '05 and Giles M. Smith '08; through 1939, William G. Mollenberg '24 and Louis A. Zimm '16. M. Gregory Dexter '24 is athletic director, and George H. Rockwell '13, alumni representative.

SPRING DAY MAY 29

Spring Day has been set this year for May 29, and designated a University holiday by the Faculty committee on student activities. The only athletic event announced for Ithaca is a crew race with Syracuse on the Lake. The baseball team will be away that day, completing its schedule against Dartmouth at Hanover, N. H.

CORNELL ENGINEER

"How Are Traffic Lights Regulated?" by Dr. Herbert Ashton '13 is the feature article in The Cornell Engineer for December. Describing the principles used in traffic systems of large cities, the author concludes: "The avoidance of costly congestions will depend upon the ability to maintain consistently a speed of movement which can be accurately determined upon the basis of the volume of traffic which is to be carried in any given case." Resuming the former policy of publishing student-written articles, Norman E. Schlenker '37 relates his experience last summer "Tapping and Trapping for Drinking Water" in the employ of the United States Geological Survey in Shenandoah National Park.

TO EXCHANGE TEACHERS

The Department of Botany has announced for the second term what may be the first of annual exchanges of instructors with other institutions. During the second term Dr. Edward M. Palmquist '31 of the Department will teach at Ohio State University and his place here will be taken by Dr. C. E. Taft of Ohio State. Both instructors will teach the large elementary courses in general botany. The exchange arrangement was proposed at Cornell, and is largely the work of Professor Loren C. Petry.

Dr. Palmquist was appointed assistant in Botany in September, 1931, and has been instructor since September, 1934. During Professor Petry's absence on leave the first term last year Palmquist was in complete charge of the course in General Botany, which is taken by most Freshmen in Agriculture and many of Arts and Sciences. He received the BS degree in 1931, the MS in 1933, and the PhD last September; is a member of Sigma Xi, Phi Kappa Phi, and Alpha Zeta. As an undergraduate he was a member of the ROTC rifle team and the Musical Clubs.

SPRINGFIELD WEDNESDAYS

Alumni in Springfield, Mass. will gather for round-table luncheon every Wednesday at the University Club, according to word received from Harry C. Beaver, Jr. '26, secretary of the Cornell Club of Springfield.

JAMESTOWN HEARS SNAVELY

The Cornell Club of Jamestown, in collaboration with the Kiwanis Club, entertained Coach Carl Snavely at a dinner December 11, at which the guests were the high school football squad and the "J" Club. On the program also was Congressman Daniel A. Reed '98, former Varsity player and coach. About fifty alumni were present. Following the banquet an informal reception was held for the high school boys and Cornellians, at which Snavely and Reed spoke again briefly, and movies of the Penn State football game were shown.

DR. DAY IN BOSTON

The Cornell Club of New England took advantage of the presence in Boston on January 8 of Dr. Edmund E. Day, president-elect of the University, and entertained him at a special luncheon at the Hotel Bellevue. Dr. Day spoke with pleasant anticipation of his coming connections with Cornell, knowing that he would have the whole-hearted cooperation of Faculty, Trustees, students, and alumni, and he spoke particularly of the great loyalty which he knew Cornell alumni felt for their university. Francis A. Niccolls '13, president of the Club, introduced Dr. Day. Cornell songs were rendered by the new quartette, led by Alexander N. Slocum '01. The other members of the quartette were William G. Starkweather '92, Frank G. Anderson '06, and Leland Merrihew '10, who acted as soloist.

FOREIGN STUDENTS GATHER

Foreign students were guests at a smoker in Willard Straight Hall on January 13. The hosts were the board of managers of the Hall, assisted by the members of the Student Council, Sphinx Head, Quill and Dagger, Scarab, Aleph Samach, and Red Key. In the illness of John M. Batten '37, president of Willard Straight Hall, Professor Bristow Adams, Faculty member of the board, was master of ceremonies.

Dean Floyd K. Richtmyer '04, president of the International Association of Ithaca, spoke. Adolph J. Szendel, Grad., of Poland, called the roll of nations and spoke on behalf of the foreign students. John G. Steytler, Grad., of South Africa, told of the big game in his country. Wei Liang Chia, Grad., of China, sang two native songs, and selections were given by the Russian quintet, well known on the Campus for several years: Michel Afansiev, Gabriel A. Lebedeff, Abraham S. Rabotnikoff, Anatole Safonov, and Vladimir G. Terentieff. American students who performed were William C. Kruse '37, with a rapid-change stunt, Robert S. Brewer '40, magician, and two soloists from the Glee Club, Robert H. Bodholdt '38 and Thomas N. Magill, Grad.

Refreshments and informal visiting closed the evening.

CLEVELAND WOMEN

Word comes from Mrs. Armin R. Boethelt (Lucille Marshall), MA '15, of an interesting meeting of the Cornell Women's Club of Cleveland at the Women's City Club during the Christmas holidays. Mrs. Edwin G. Pierce (Lewette B. Pollock) '15 discussed her experiences as "gang boss," directing a Government research project in which the occupations for young people are reviewed.

ON BEQUESTS

Lawyer members of the Cornellian Council's committee on bequests to the number of nearly a thousand received last month from Edward Cornell '89, chairman, a new booklet, "Cultivating Willful Giving." Written by Archie M. Palmer '18, executive secretary of the Council, the pamphlet traces the history of bequests to American colleges, and notes that Cornell was the first to organize a definite program to encourage testamentary gifts from its alumni and other friends. It discusses the organization and operation of a bequest program, and suggests procedure and possible results of a well organized plan for obtaining bequests, from a survey which Palmer made of bequest programs in American colleges and universities. The material was originally presented by Palmer before the American Alumni Council, and is printed with the title, "The Quest for Bequests," in The Reflector and Alumni News for December of George Peabody College for Teachers, at Nashville, Tenn.

During the past twelve years more than $6,000,000 has been bequeathed to Cornell, and the Cornellian Council has been advised of wills written by many persons still living which contain gifts to the University. The University's bequest program is under the direction of an executive committee of which Cornell is chairman and whose other members are J. DuPratt White '90, John J. Kuhn '98, Earl J. Bennett '01, Winthrop Taylor '07, Lawrence G. Bennett '09, Jacob G. Schurman, Jr. '17, Jacob Mertens, Jr. '19, Neal Dow Becker '05, ex-officio, and Palmer, secretary.

The booklet is also being mailed to all representatives of the Cornellian Council. Some copies are still available upon request to the office of the Council at Alumni House, Ithaca.

C. in the University's second year, and remained three years. For most of his life he was an engineer and industrial architect with paper manufacturing companies, since 1902 with the Jenup & Moore Paper Co. in Wilmington. In 1986-97 he introduced American paper machinery into Germany, Norway, Finland, and Russia.

'79 BS—CLARENCE NEWMAN BLOWERS, July 23, 1936, at his home, 1328 East Fifty-third Street, Chicago, Ill. He entered the Course in Science and Letters in 1877. He became a reporter for the Syracuse Standard, city editor of the Oswego Times, and editor-in-chief of the Binghamton Dispatch. '87 AB—DR. FREDERICK VERNON COVILLE, January 9, 1937, in Washington, D. C., only a few days after his retirement. He was "dean" of the scientific staff of the United States Department of Agriculture, acting director of the National Arboretum, and a life trustee of the National Geographic Society. His was truly a Cornell family. Mrs. Coville was Elizabeth H. Boynton '89, and their sons are Stanley Coville '15, whose wife was Irie M. Bassett '16, Cabot Coville '23, and Frederick Coville '27; their daughter is Mrs. Chester C. Woodburn (Katherine Coville) '18; and his brother is Dr. Luzerne Coville '86. After a year as instructor in Botany, Dr. Coville went to Washington, D. C. in 1888 as assistant botanist in the Department of Agriculture, and became botanist in 1893. Perhaps his greatest individual contribution to science was the taming of the wild blueberry in the bogs of central New Jersey, vastly improving the size and quality of the berry, launching a new industry in regions which had hitherto been considered worthless, and establishing the acidity of soils as of prime importance in plant distribution. Dr. Coville had been honorary curator of plants of the National Herbarium since 1893 and since the establishment of the National Arboretum in 1929 had been its acting director. He was formerly adviser to the Carnegie Institution of Washington and vice-president of its section on botanical science; a fel-

He received the Doctor of Science degree at George Washington University in 1921. In 1931 the Massachusetts Horticultural Society awarded him its George Robert White gold medal of honor "for eminent service in horticulture." Becoming a life trustee in 1895 of the National Geographic Society, he had served since 1920 as chairman of the research committee. In 1891 he made the first botanical survey of Death Valley, Calif., proving for the first time that life exists there in surprising abundance. As an undergraduate Coville held the University records in the 440-yard dash, the hurdles, the standing high jump, and the high kick; won three events in the New York State Intercollegiate Athletic Association meet in Utica May 26, 1886; was adjudged the best general athlete there. Phi Beta Kappa; Sigma Xi; Theta Delta Chi.

He then joined the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., and became superintendent of the Mellon Pipe Lines in 1893. From 1894 to 1900 he was with the Cone Paper Co., and traveled around the world, returning in 1906 to become treasurer of the United States Box, Board, & Paper Co. He became a broker in 1908 with Walter Fitch & Co., and served in 1914 as a fiduciary agent in Pasadena, Calif., to retire the following year.

'05 AB—PROFESSOR CYRUS RICHARD CROSBY, Entomology Extension, January 11, suddenly, in Rochester, where the next day he was scheduled to make his thirtieth annual appearance before the meeting of the State Horticultural Society. He was well known as an entomologist, especially to the fruit growers of the State, and was also a recognized authority on spiders. For years he had worked on spiders with Professor Sherman C. Bishop '13 of the University of Rochester, and was with him at his death. After a year as assistant entomologist at the University of Missouri, Crosby returned to Cornell in 1906 as experimental entomologist, became an assistant professor in 1909, and since 1913 had been extension professor of Entomology. Fellow, Entomological Society of America; member, American Association of Economic Entomologists, Entomological Society of France. Son, Eugene E. Crosby '39, who lives with Mrs. Crosby at 219 Bryant Avenue, Ithaca.

'08 BSA—LEONARD RIDER GRACY, January 12, 1937, at Montclair, N. J. He was treasurer of the Riser Land Company of Teterboro, N. J.; a director of the Kingston, Pa., National Bank; and formerly owned the American Huhn Metallic Packing Company of New York. He wrote several books on bridge, the last being Elective Contract of which he was co-author. He was vice-president of the charter executive board of the New Jersey Bridge League and editor of "Game Rules" of the United States Playing Card Company. During the World War he served as Major in the 155th Infantry at Camp Lee, Va. Sphinx Head; Varsity Crew; Delta Tau Delta.

'10 MD—CHARLES FREDERICK LUTZ, August 20, 1936, in New York City. In 1926 he resigned as assistant principal of Naples High School to become a member of the staff of Curfew Union in New York City.

'14 ME—JAMES AUSTIN MYRICK, December 22, 1936, in New York City. He was a mechanical engineer in the New Haven plant of the Safety Car Heating and Lighting Company, and lived at 12 Woodmont Road, West Haven, Conn. Brother, the late Donald W. Myrick '22. Aero Club; Anvil; Alpha Chi Rho.

C. He served as junior civil engineer on the PWA project at the District of Columbia Penitentiary, Lorton, Va., during 1933-34, and later with the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, he was one of two engineers appointed to survey the boundary between Guatemala and Honduras. Beta Theta Pi.

About ATHLETICS

POLO TEAM LOSES

The ROTC polo team lost to Kenyon College Saturday night in the Riding Hall, 17½-23, with Robert C. Taber '38 of Newfield and Walter P. Naquin, Jr. '38 of Kukuihaele, Hawaii, alternating, in place of Paul R. Coombs '40 of Cortland, with whom the team had defeated Kenyon December 30, 15-12½. Giving their opponents a 3-goal handicap, the Varsity led at the end of the second period, but fell behind badly in the next three, to stage a rally of 6 goals, led by Captain Stephen J. Roberts '38, in the final period. Thomas Lawrence '38 rode at No. 2 and Roberts at No. 1 throughout.

SWIMMERS LOSE FIRST

With three members incapacitated by gripe and one by scholastic ineligibility, the swimming team lost its first meet of the season, 24-51, to Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy January 15. Nevertheless, Captain Norman H. Rasch '37 of Buffalo set a new pool record of 2:41.2 in the 200-yard breast stroke, and Robert D. Cloyes '38 of Cleveland, Ohio, won the 50-yard free style race in 0:24.8.

Freshmen Win

In Elmira January 13 a strong Freshman team won every event but the fancy diving to defeat a team of the Elmira YMCA, 51-24. Here also, Rasch broke the pool record by 7 seconds in a 100-yard breast stroke exhibition which he swam in 1 minute 11 seconds.

WRESTLING CHAMPIONS

After a week of preliminary competitions, the University wrestling championship matches, held in the Old Armory January 13, saw only one defending champion, Captain Charles B. Reimers '39 of Hammond, La., defending champion at 155 pounds and captain of last year's Freshman team, fought his match to a draw; and John C. Hemingway '39 of Syracuse, champion in the unlimited class, lost his after extra periods. John P. Floros '36, last year University champion at 135 pounds, was referee. The summary:

LOSE TWO AT BASKETBALL

The basketball team, sorely missing Captain Thomas A. Rich '38, ill with a cold, lost its fourth straight League game Saturday night, to Harvard, 26-40, in the Drill Hall before 2,051 spectators. This was the same margin of 14 points by which Harvard beat Cornell at Cambridge December 19, when the score was 40-54. The issue was never in doubt, as Coach Rowland used every available substitute, to no avail. The summary:

An unusual Freshman schedule of ten more games, the last March 8, has been announced.

NO IVY LEAGUE

Athletic directors of the seven Eastern colleges and universities of the proposed "Ivy League" last week jointly answered the proposal for such a league made December 3 jointly by the undergraduate newspapers of the seven institutions. These directors had been invited to a house party before Christmas at the estate of James Lynah '05 near Savannah, Ga. The Cornell Daily Sun of January 13 published the following statement, which it said had been sent to all seven newspapers which proposed the league:

"During the past few weeks the formation of an heptagonal league in football, as advocated in your editorial of Dec. 3, has been the subject of several discussions by athletic representatives of Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Princeton, and Yale. As these institutions have for some time been allied in associations in baseball, basketball, and track, there already exist a community of interests and a basis of friendship that have made possible very frank and extended conversations.

"All are in agreement that the trust and confidence which these institutions have in each other is of the utmost value to the institutions themselves and to the game of football. There is a further accord as to the desirability of maintaining and increasing this confidence and in exercising the greatest vigilance in upholding the best standards of the game. All are mindful of the anxiety of undergraduates and others for the welfare of football, and it is our hope that through frequent exchange of views and frank discussions of our problems we shall be able to continue to play this game with the highest type of sportsmanship.

"Some doubt was expressed, however, that the establishment of a formal league would attain all of the desired ends. Further difficulties arose in contemplating the limitations of a round robin schedule. The net result was a conviction that while a football league has such promising possibilities that it may not be dismissed and must be the subject of further consideration, the time has not yet come when the seven suggested members feel ready to establish a definite and formal organization."

OUTLINES ALUMNI HELP

Writing to members of the board of directors of the Cornell Alumni Corporation, C. Reeve Vanneman '03, re-elected president of the Corporation at the recent Baltimore convention, outlines a program of alumni activity and invites the active participation of each member of the board.

"Cornell in a large measure will be in the future what the alumni make it," he says. "Through them it may absorb the power by means of which it will carry on the old traditions and develop new ideas for the coming generations. From its alumni Cornell will receive reflections of the work of the Faculty and students, and from them will come inspirations for 'higher deeds and nobler thoughts.' In direct proportion to alumni interest will be the effectiveness of Cornell. Such an attitude does not imply that the alumni shall be dictators of policy or thought. Rather, on the other hand, it suggests the possibility of stimulation, supplementation and activation."

Mentioning Cornell Day and the alumni part in "the rejuvenation of the esprit de corps on the Campus" as having "demonstrated the opportunities and the possibilities," Vanneman continues: "But there remains much to be done."

"One of the major items is the co-ordination of alumni effort. At present there are five separate agencies, all operating with substantially the same end in view—the betterment of Cornell through alumni effort. Due regard for efficiency leaves only one tenable conclusion, which is that these efforts should be coordinated. The Corporation of which you are a part is fundamentally, if not actually, comprehensive of all the others. . . . an extended observation of all the activities points conclusively to but one decision, which is that divided responsibility, such as now exists, not only confuses the alumni as a whole, but actually dulls the effectiveness of all groups. A mere examination of the possibilities of each agency and a contemplation of the results cannot but be accepted as a proof of failure rather than as evidence of success. Who will say that the consummation of Cornell Day, of improvement of secondary school relations, and numerous other activities of the Corporation represents even a start on that which an organization of alumni may accomplish for the University? Who will say that an average of a little over $2. per Cornellian, or a little over $3. per graduate as an annual contribution is the best attainable, especially when one considers that a large percentage of the total contribution comes from perhaps less than 200 Cornellians?

"So it is also with local interest. Why should not Cornellians have a stronger tie one to the other in those sections in which they live and work? Why should they not have closer contacts? Why should they not share exuberation in success and solace in defeat? Why should they not be aware of those intimate performances in the laboratory and lecture room which only occasionally filter out through the spectacular press? Why should not all these things operate to engender in all Cornellians a hope for better things for themselves as well as for the world at large and for the University in particular? Perhaps my enthusiasm may seem too effusive. Perhaps there may be some who cannot see the same wide field of operation which to me is so apparent. But this does not deny its existence nor prove that properly directed efforts may not produce better results. The contrary seems obvious."

CONFERENCE MARCH 20

The third annual Conference on Fields of Work for Women, sponsored by the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs in cooperation with Dean R. Louise Fitch and the Women's Self-Government Association, will be held this year on March 20 in Willard Straight Hall. Mary H. Donlon '20 is chairman of the committee arranging the Conference, and she is being assisted by Mrs. Olive Northup Snyder '22, assistant Alumni Representative, who is chairman of the Ithaca committee. According to Miss Donlon the program this year will again include seven or eight prominent alumnae who will lead round table discussions to acquaint undergraduate women with the training and qualifications necessary in their several professions, and their opportunities and limitations.

BURRELL IN ROCHESTER

Professor Arthur B. Burrell, PhD '31, Plant Pathology, was speaker at the luncheon of the Cornell Club of Rochester January 13. In town for the annual meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society, he spoke on "Eye Wash for Apples."

Hey (Rosalind Heidt) '32, Mrs. Nathan Reifler (Martha Gold) '31.

FOUR CORNELL PRESIDENTS

At least four Cornellians were elected presidents of professional societies and associations during the Christmas recess. Professor Herbert A. Wichelns '16, Public Speaking, was elected president of the National Association of Teachers of Speech, meeting in St. Louis, Mo. Professor James M. Sherman, head of the Department of Dairy Industry, was named president of the American Society of Bacteriologists, which met at Indianapolis, Ind. Professor Gustavus W. Cunningham, PhD '08, Philosophy, was chosen to head the Eastern division of the American Philosophical Association at its meeting in Cambridge, Mass. The company included ten prospective students and ten fathers whose sons are now students at the University.

William H. Forbes '06 led Cornell songs, John C. Barker '12 told stories, the Hermit Club Band performed, and Gordon F. Stofer '37 talked of current affairs at the University. Films were shown of the Yale-Cornell football game.

LETTERS

Subject to the usual restrictions of space and good taste, we shall print letters from subscribers on any side of any subject of interest to Cornellians. The ALUMNI NEWS often may not agree with the sentiments expressed, and disclaims any responsibility beyond that of fostering interest in the University.

TRUSTEES IN PROPORTION

TO THE EDITOR:

In re: your recent editorial in which you ask many questions in reference to proper selection of Alumni Trustees. It is my frank opinion that Alumni Trustees should be selected according to the theory of proportional representation.

I am directly interested in the Alumni Trusteeship for the Medical School. Even though this institution has a separate endowment from the University, it is closely connected with the University at Ithaca. Being a graduate school, there would be few of its graduates interested in the University as a whole.

In 1934 I was selected to run for Alumni Trustee by a group of Medical men. This occurred again in 1936. Both times my votes were as follows: 1934, 2333; 1935, 1697. It is a significant factor that both of these votes are in excess of the total number of graduates of the Medical School. During my first campaign I made a general campaign for votes. In my second attempt, I made no campaign except to Medical men. I am quite sure that I secured the votes of practically the entire alumni of the Medical College. Dr. Preston A. Wade of the Class of 1925, a more recent graduate, also was a candidate. The number of votes secured by him also showed that he must have secured all of the votes of the Medical alumni, plus some other scattered votes. If there were proportional representation we would have been elected.

Dr. Mary Crawford, who is now a Trustee, was originally elected as a Trustee representing Cornell women. It is fortunate that she is also a doctor.

In view of the tremendous endowment and importance of the Cornell University Medical College, it is my frank opinion that its alumni should be definitely represented as above suggested.

MORE ON SCHOLARSHIPS

TO THE EDITOR:

The letter by Harold F. Norton '96, in your issue of December 3 prompts me to add my plea for more scholarships or loan funds for boys in the smaller communities throughout the country; boys whose scholastic record, high character, and evidence of the qualities of leadership give promise of their future accomplishments both in Cornell and in after life, but boys whose parents cannot afford the $1200 a year which the University Bulletin estimates as about the minimum cost of sending a boy to Cornell. Very few such boys can win a Lefevre Scholarship, chiefly because they do not have the privilege of special review classes such as are run by a select group of large city high schools in the East. The McMullen Regional Scholarships are very helpful for boys who wish to take Engineering, but they are not available to boys who wish to take other courses.

In this connection, I happen to know a boy who wants to enter Cornell in September, 1937. He will have completed five years in an accredited high school, standing in the top quarter of his class. He is very active in dramatics, glee club, Sea Scouting, and church work. He is not potential football material, but he is in excellent health and is a Red Cross life saver. He is intensely interested in history, archeology, and architecture. Last summer he had a scholarship in dramatics in Northwestern University summer session, and has been offered scholarship assistance if he will go there. But he has been brought up in the Cornell tradition; both his parents and two of his grandparents are Cornell alumni, and naturally he wants to follow in their footsteps. Unfortunately, his father was one of the many victims of the depression and is financially unable to send him. Is there any way that this boy can go to Cornell?

BROOKLYN LAWYERS GIVE

Alumni who practice law in New York City and live in Brooklyn, and who have offices in Brooklyn, are being urged to contribute to the current Brooklyn scholarship in the Law School. Judge Rowland L. Davis '97, Appellate Division, Borough Hall, Brooklyn, is chairman of the committee. Herman Wolkinson '25, 72 Wall Street, New York City, is secretary.

PARIS CLUB MEETS

The Cornell Club of Paris, France, met for dinner at the University Club of Paris November 23. Hubert K. Snively '19, president of the Club, presided. Others present were Harvey S. Gerry '24, Alphonse D. Weil '86, Albert B. Cudebec '08, Lewis K. Neff, Jr. '17, George T. Brown '09, Hubert J. Roemer '22. Lindsey Riley, of the University of Tennessee, was a guest. Three new members were welcomed to membership: Robert T. Combemale '22, J. Arthur Whitecotton '16, who is with Socony Vacuum Oil, Paris, and Christopher W. Wilson '31, with White and Case, Paris. Gerry was elected treasurer of the Club.

THE BUSINESS PROPERTY at 115 East State Street (two doors East of Treman, King & Co.) recently purchased by the University for investment, has now been leased by it to the J. C. Penney Co. for a ten-year term. A modern store is in process of construction on the site.

ON THE CAMPUS AND DOWN THE HILL

THE CORNELL SUN stops publication with the issue of January 27 and examinations begin February 1. That gives you a hint as to the general morale of the Campus at the moment.

RUMBLINGS of another Junior Week are now being heard. An ice carnival on Beebe—so marvellously successful last year—will again be the Junior Week feature. Last year weather and ice conditions were perfect for the carnival. In the immediate vicinity of the hockey rink the ice was more than twenty inches thick: ample to sustain the massed weight of the 3000 spectators who concentrated there.

PLEASANT JUNIOR WEEK innovation (suggested, perhaps, by the Hanover custom) is to be a fraternity competition in snow sculpture. Prizes will be awarded the houses which produce the most pleasing figures and groups done in the medium of snow and ice, from sketches submitted in advance.

THE MEDICAL OFFICE announces that there isn't as much grippe as there was among the students, but admits that there is still plenty.

NEW YORK SUN recently published an interview by George Trevor with Jerome Holland '39, end on the football team. He quotes Holland as saying (1) that he'd rather play end than half back; (2) that he regarded Princeton as the strongest team Cornell met last season; (3) that Penn State tackled hardest; and (4) that he chose Cornell because his (Holland's) father had been valet to the late Robert H. Treman '78. That story about Holland's father having been R. H. Treman's valet has popped up in the newspapers two or three times this fall. There is, of course, not a word of truth in it.

THE COLGATE-Cornell ski meet scheduled for January 16 was postponed indefinitely on account of the weather, while the wrestling match between the same colleges for the same date goes over to February 24, both squads being decimated for the moment by the prevailing pestilence. Hockey match scheduled with Union at Schenectady was also postponed.

THE SKI CLUB on Thursday night presented a movie showing the high lights of the skiing competition at last year's Olympic games. The proceeds are to be applied toward the cost of a ski jump the Club is constructing out at Tobeytown. Showing movies and building ski jumps is about all the Ski Club can do just now because there hasn't been a pinch of snow in the Caroline hills for weeks.

THE JUNIOR PROM of 1937 will be spurred on, calmed, inspired, and soothed by no less than three expensive orchestras. Bob Crosby's Dixieland Band, Jimmy Lunceford's Colored Orchestra, and the Hudson-Delange Band have been nominated to start. There appears (from the Sun) to have been some slight difference of opinion among the students as to the wisdom of these selections. But the editor, bringing his strong right arm to the support of the committee, points out that this group of musical organizations absolutely insures variety. Mr. Crosby's hired men "play a smooth, but at the same time, swing type of melody, while Lunceford band makes a specialty of adapted jungle rhythms." The Hudson-Delange organization plays "sweet" and not "hot." ("Boy, page Mr. Richard Straus." "Is Mr. Straus in the house?" "Mr. Straus, please!")

THE CROWD at the recent Columbia basketball game numbered 2284. Of this number 1886 came in on season tickets and 398 paid admission at the gate. This year the same season ticket that is used for football games is good for admission to the basketball games.

THE TWO TOP FLOORS of the Ithaca Savings Bank building have been leased by R. W. Witmer, formerly of the Hotel New Yorker, who will convert the premises into a metropolitan restaurant with dancing and what not. Mr. Witmer is a brother-in-law of Dean Rollo A. Talcott of Ithaca College. Meanwhile the Green Lantern Tea Room on State Street, dark for the past two years, was reopened Saturday under the management of William B. Hosner '36. The Green Lantern, long a popular restaurant under Mrs. Perry, will now feature an oyster bar.

LECTURES for the week include Dr. R. E. Gibson of the Geophysical Laboratory, Carnegie Institution, before the American Chemical Society, on "The Physico-chemical Behavior of Matter Under Very High Pressures;" and Prince Hubertus Loewenstein, former leader of the German Catholic Center Party, on "Freedom and Dictatorship," January 19; Professor Dexter S. Kimball, Emeritus, before the ASME, on "The World's Great Inventions," January 20; and Dr. Jacob Hieble, German, on "The German Folksong" before the Deutscher Verein January 21. The Campus Forum lecture by Josephine Roche, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, scheduled for January 19, has been postponed to the second term.

WITH THE SURF beating heavily on the coast of Beebe Lake and no ice in sight, the Sun urged editorially that the Athletic Association cease to rely on that pond as a place for hockey and general skating, and start in to flood tennis courts for this purpose. Your reporter has failed to find any tennis court that would hold ice in this weather any better than Beebe has.

THE BOARD TRACK on the football field is in active operation these days. For about two hours every afternoon it sounds as if someone was beating carpets on Schoellkopf. The track squad, as it shapes up in January, seems to possess demonstrated power in the distance, middle distance, and low hurdle events only. It is fair in the sprints and the javelin. The jumps and weights present at the moment serious let-down from the high standards that have prevailed in these events for years.

THE UNIVERSITY has this year granted the use of the Drill Hall for President Roosevelt's Birthday Ball.

SAGE CHAPEL PREACHER January 24 is the Rev. Charles R. Brown, Dean of the Divinity School, Yale University, Emeritus.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL has approved, and this week submits to the students for a vote, a brand new constitution for its own government. The proposed set-up is a little too complicated for us to go into here, especially as it may not be adopted at all. (You can get bets that it won't). If it passes we will then analyze it and tell you about it. One of the suggested changes is to put on the Council (but without vote) the presidents of the Independent Association and the Interfraternity Council and the editor of the Cornell Daily Sun. Another is to add the president and vice-president of the Womens' Self-Government Association. This one is merely submitted without recommendation either way. Up to now the men and women have had their own separate governments. On the eve of the election the populace seems calm and under complete control with respect to the whole business.

SATURDAY NIGHT at Willard Straight The Coffee Club, an organization of East Hill business men, gave a dinner to the football team and presented awards. The cup for the most valuable player went to Captain-elect Hughes. The trophy for the player who had shown the greatest improvement during the season was given to Elliot Hooper. Carl Spang, end, won the medal for the most aggressive player.

Concerning THE FACULTY

DEAN DEXTER S. KIMBALL, Engineering, Emeritus, was guest lecturer at the University of Maine, Orono, Maine, January 14 and 15. Speaking on "Engineering as a Vocation" before students in the orientation course, he also delivered two lectures to engineering students on "Administrative Engineering." Enroute Dean Kimball visited Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he participated in several conferences called by President Karl Compton.

PROFESSOR PAUL J. WEAVER, Music, addressed the Society of Cornell Dames January 12 on "The Music of Debussy."

PROFESSOR JULIAN P. BRETZ, American History, will debate with Tucker Smith, director of Brookwood Labor College, the subject, "Do We Need a Labor Party?" February 25 at the final weekly meeting of the Ithaca Public Forum.

"BUT how shall we know where to settle?" Indians of Asia asked the Great Spirit. "Between Niagara ('the waters roar') and Schenectady ('the gateway between the mountains'), where the Great Spirit laid his hand and in his fingerprints ran the water; there shall you settle." Thus Dr. Erl A. Bates, Advisor in Indian Extension, retold an old Cayuga legend at an Ithaca Kiwanis Club luncheon January 11. Discussing "New Theories of the Origin of Man," Dr. Bates concluded that modern science is in accord with the Indian mythology that man arose in central or northern Asia.

TWO MEMBERS of the Physics Department have recently been invited to address the physics colloquium at the University of Rochester. On January 8 Professor Lloyd P. Smith, PhD '30, spoke on "The Emission of Positive Ions and Its Relation to Electron Emission from Composite Cathodes;" and at the December meeting Dr. Robert F. Bacher discussed "Nuclear Effects in Atomic Spectra."

ASSERTING that employers now realize the importance of the health of their employees, Professor R. Foster Kennedy, Clinical Neurology, of the Medical College in New York, addressed a joint conference of the Personnel Research Federation and the Society for the Advancement of Management in New York City December 2-6. He said that from 85 to 90 percent of all accidents have their origin in some mental disability, citing such influences as personal problems, domestic troubles, the temper of an employee's wife, as bearing directly on the performance of employees. Speaking in a humorous vein, Henry Bruere '02, president of the Bowery Savings Bank, said he had found that increases in wages now and then had proved excellent psychiatric treatment for employees.

SIX CORNELLIANS appeared on the program of the New York State Nurserymen's Association in Rochester January 20. Professor George F. Warren '03, Agricultural Economics, discussed prices as they affect the nurserymen's business. Professor Donald S. Welch, PhD '25, Plant Pathology, spoke on the control of plant diseases in the nursery. Dr. Alfred M. S. Pridham, PhD '33, Donald Bushey, and H. T. Skinner, all of the Department of Floriculture, took part in the meeting. Donald Wyman, '31 MS, horticulturist at the Arnold Arboretum at Jamaica Plains, Mass., described trends in ornamental plantings.

LANE LECTURE FOUNDATION of Stanford University Medical College has chosen Professor Eugene F. DuBois of the Medical College in New York as lecturer for 1937. Professor DuBois will speak on "The Mechanism of Heat Loss and Temperature Regulation" in five addresses, to be given April 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9.

INITIATION of Dr. Otto Kinkeldey, University Librarian and Professor of Musicology, as an honorary member of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, national music fraternity, took place at the national convention in Chicago, Ill., December 30 and 31. Dr. Kinkeldey was cited by the national officers as "an outstanding musicologist who has advanced the cause of music in America."

THE REV. RICHARD H. EDWARDS, for eighteen years director of the activities centered in Barnes Hall, will retire October 31. On leave of absence from January 1 to April 10, he and Mrs. Edwards will tour the Southern states visiting colleges and universities; lecturing at the school for ministers and theological students at Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., from January 17 to 22; and conducting courses in "personal counseling" and "the organization of the self" at the school of theology at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas, from February 17 to March 18. After next fall they will live at their home at Happy Valley, Lisle, where Dr. Edwards will write, conduct conferences, and teach. Coming to the University in 1919 at the invitation of former President Schurman, "Dick" Edwards was responsible for the reorganization of the former Christian Association into Cornell United Religious Work, through the affiliation of several additional denominations and creeds. A graduate of Yale and Union Theological Seminary, he had previously served as general secretary of the Yale University Christian Association; assistant pastor of the old First Presbyterian Church in New York City; Congregationalist minister at the University of Wisconsin; and in various capacities for the International YMCA. He has been executive director of the National Council on Religion in Higher Education; chairman of the advisory committee of the Hazen Agency Grant System, which distributes grants to student religious workers, professors, and others; and is a co-founder with Mrs. Edwards of Happy Valley, Inc. at Lisle.

"THE UNITED STATES is definitely on the road to recovery," Professor George F. Warren '03, Agricultural Economics, told a joint meeting of the Empire State Potato Club and the New York State Vegetable Growers Associations in Syracuse January 7. "We may look forward to four or five years of improved demand," he said, "and to a higher average level of prices." Describing the benefits of agricultural research, Dean Carl E. Ladd '12, Agriculture and Home Economics, stressed the need for additional personnel in bio-chemistry, plant physiology, and other plant sciences.

PROFESSOR WILDER D. BANCROFT, Chemistry, has been invited as resident lecturer on the Tallman Foundation at Bowdoin College for the second term. He is the first chemist to lecture on this Foundation, established in 1928, and the second American; the first having been Donald MacMillan, the Arctic explorer. Professor Bancroft will be in Brunswick, Me. from February 8 to June 1, and has been granted leave of absence from the University.

CAMP OTTER

A SUMMER CAMP FOR BOYS WITH A CORNELL BACKGROUND

The time is past when it is necessary to persuade American parents of the desirability of a summer camp for their young sons. The question has become merely one of ways and means and of "which camp?"

An Advertisement Addressed to Cornell Fathers

This is the first of a series of seven advertisements addressed primarily to the Cornell fathers of sons who may become Cornell students. Its purpose is to tell you about Camp Otter at Dorset, Ontario, which has become in the course of its twenty-six years of flourishing existence, something of a Cornell institution.

Camp Otter is Different

Camp Otter is like many other first class boys' camps in possessing its own beautiful lake in rugged, isolated (but readily accessible) surroundings, its complete, permanent camp, its corps of experienced, responsible directors and councillors, and its fascinating program of water sports, athletics, canoe trips, woodcraft, horsemanship riding, and fishing. It differs from the others (from the Cornell standpoint) in that its owners, directors, councillors, and old campers are, for the most part, Cornell men whom you know or know of.

If you decide to send your son to Camp Otter he will not be among total strangers. You will know the kind of men he will be under and the kind of boys he will be with.

Moreover, if your boy eventually goes to Cornell he will be among old friends and old campers from the moment he arrives in Ithaca if he has previously spent one or more seasons at Camp Otter. Half the men in Ithaca whom you'd like the boy to know when he comes to college have been at Camp Otter and many of them have sent their sons there.

Foundation, Management, Location

Camp Otter was established in 1910 by Prof. C. V. P. Young '99 and has been in continuous expanding operation ever since. Its present director is Howard B. Ortner '18, for many years coach of basketball and director of intramural sports at Cornell, who has been in charge of the camp since 1931 and who was before that its assistant director and a councillor.

Lake Otter, which the camp has all to itself, is an irregular, well-wooded body of water about two miles long and a mile wide, situated in the Canadian lake country about 150 miles north of Toronto. It lies about three miles east of Dorset on the Lake of Bays. It is readily accessible by the Canadian National Railway, and is now become a perfectly feasible trip by motor. But it must be remembered that Camp Otter is a camp and not a summer resort.

The Financial Side

Sending your boy to Camp Otter, you will also know you are not going out of your class on the financial side; for Camp Otter, from the beginning, has appealed to boys from Campus homes and its charges are geared to the moderate income.

Cornell in September?

The classes of our second term, January 26th to June 19th will be of special interest to those who have difficult college entrance programs to complete. The cost is moderate, the training thorough and the working conditions and environment agreeable.

Family Before Self

Reverence and regard for his wife and children spur many a man on to success.

The same profound affection leads him to acquire all the life insurance he can afford.

Such a man reaps deep satisfactions that far outweigh apparent cost.
