CORNELLIANS' FIRMS PRODUCE FOR WAR

More Alumni Industries Receive Army-Navy "E"

More industrial concerns of which Cornellians are executives are receiving almost daily the Army-Navy "E" for excellence in war production. In addition to those previously published in the ALUMNI NEWS, these firms have recently come to notice as having received the award:

Bethlehem Steel Co., Baltimore, Md., plant. John M. Ellis '03 is general manager of sales of Bethlehem Steel, and Edward E. Goodwillie '10, president of the Alumni Fund Council, is assistant to the vice-president.

Crucible Steel Co. of America, Park Works, Pittsburgh, Pa. Frederick B. Hufnagle '00 is president and chairman of Crucible Steel.

Make Rubber In Cuba

B. F. Goodrich Co., of which University Trustee John L. Collyer '17 is president, received the "E" for its Clarksville, Tenn., Division, its plant in Los Angeles, Cal., and its Koroseal Division in Louisville, Ky. Goodrich has recently begun operation of a new $1,000,000 rubber factory in a suburb of Havana, Cuba, Compania Gomera Goodrich Cubana, S. A., producing truck and bus tires and materials essential to maintaining the island's transportation services.

Monsanto Chemical Co., Trustee Edgar M. Queeny '19, president, received the "E" at its Longhorn Ordnance Works, Marshall, Tex.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., of which Robert L. Clause '14 is president, now flies the "E" burgee at its plant in Dayton, Ohio.

Machlett Laboratories, Inc., Springdale, Conn., manufactures X-ray tubes, and its president, Raymond R. Machlett '22, has given tubes to the University for special research in the College of Engineering.

Two New England companies of which David T. Schultz '18 is a director have received the Army-Navy award, Raytheon Manufacturing Co., Newton, Mass., and Spencer Thermostat Co., Attleboro, Mass. Schultz is vice-president and treasurer of Raytheon. His son, Burton J. Schultz, is a Freshman in Electrical Engineering.

Diamond T Motor Car Co., Chicago, Ill., has entirely converted its plant to designing and building trucks, troop transports, tank carriers, half-tracks, and their parts for the Army. Clarence A. Peirce '07, vice-president in charge of engineering and production, accepted the "E" burgee for Diamond T.

President of Goodman Manufacturing Co., Chicago, whose "E" award was announced by the Undersecretaries of the Army and Navy April 13, is William E. Goodman '17.

S. G. Taylor Chain Co., Hammond, Ind., of which E. Winthrop Taylor '21 is president, received the "E" last December.

Worthington Pump & Machinery Corp. received the award at its Moore Steam Turbine Division, Wellsville. Among the many Cornellians with this company are Carleton Reynell '07 in Harrison, N. J., and Vincent de P. Gerbereux '24 and Meade C. Yarrington '33 at the Buffalo plant.

Elliott Co., Jeannette, Pa., founded by the late William S. Elliott '87, has likewise received recognition for excellent war production. Among its Cornellian executives and engineers are Thomas F. Crawford '05, Dana L. Barbour '16, and R. Nelson Williams '27.

George D. Roper Corp., Rockford, Ill., entirely devoted for some time to production of war materials, was headed by Mabon D. Roper '14 as president, until his death last December. Likewise, the Masonite Corp., Laurel, Miss., largest industry in the State, was founded by the late William H. Mason '00.

Rollin D. Wood '06 was elected March 25 president of Mississippi Valley Structural Steel Co., operating in Melrose Park and Decatur, Ill., and St. Louis, Mo. He had been vice-president for twenty years. Last year, in cooperation with two other companies under the name Quincy Barge Builders, his company received the Army-Navy "E" for production of landing barges for the Navy.

Builders Get Awards

Of the few engineering firms awarded the "E," two are Ford, Bacon & Davis, Inc., New York City, and Whitman, Requardt & Smith, Baltimore, Md.

George W. Bacon '92 is chairman of the board of Ford, Bacon & Davis. His firm designed, built, and operates the Arkansas Ordnance Plant at Jacksonville, Ark. The plant covers an area of some fourteen square miles and cost more than $30,000,000 to build.

The Baltimore engineering firm received the "E" April 17 at Denver, Col., as engineers on construction of the Rocky Mountain Arsenal for the Army Chemical Warfare Service. Its partners are University Trustee Ezra B. Whitman '01, Gustav J. Requardt '09, and Benjamin L. Smith '14. Continuously since August, 1940, the firm has been engaged by the Army on Chemical Warfare Service arsenals at Edgewood, Md., Huntsville, Ala., and Denver, and an Ordnance plant at Huntsville. They employ many Cornellians, Theodore W. Hacker '16 having been construction engineer on two of the projects; Richard F. Graef '25, A Russel Vollmer '27, and Harold E. Kunsch '27, project engineers on each of the arsenals; and Norman D. Hacker '25, Baltimore office manager and in charge of design and construction of a new industrial water supply for Bethlehem Steel Co. at Sparrows Point, Md.

A third engineering firm to receive the "E" is Sanderson & Porter, formerly headed by, the late University Trustee Edwin N. Sanderson '87.

Two Cornellians' firms have received their third stars for the Army-Navy "E" burgees previously awarded, signifying excellence in war production for four successive periods of six months. These are the Carrier Corp. of Syracuse, of which Alumni Trustee Willis H. Carrier '01 was founder and is chairman of the board, and Ford Instrument Co., Inc., Long Island City, of which Hannibal C. Ford '03 is president. Ford production of Navy fire control equipment for March was announced as 15 per cent more than in the entire year 1939 and almost as much as for all of 1940.

SAGE COLLEGE

Leviton '44

Blue and white "M" pennant of the US Maritime Commission was hoisted to the masthead at the yards of Sun Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co. in Chester, Pa., March 23, as three new tankers were launched within sixteen minutes. Speaker at the award ceremonies was Joseph N. Pew, Jr. '08, who is chairman of the board of "Sun Ship." The yards extend for two miles along the Delaware River, with twenty-eight shipways. Sun Ship built forty-six vessels in 1942; may double that number this year.

About ATHLETICS

BEAT PRINCETON TWICE

The baseball team defeated Princeton twice by the same score, 4-3, on Hoy Field last Saturday as Donald R. Clay '45 and Edwin L. Bell '44 turned in extraordinary performances despite near-freezing weather. Clay held Princeton to three hits in eight innings the first game, and Bell yielded four hits—all of them to Talcott, Princeton's pitcher and second baseman,—in ten innings in the second game. Both games were scheduled for seven innings.

The victories gave Cornell a record of three wins and one loss in the Eastern Intercollegiate League and a tie for first place with Pennsylvania.

Cornell took a one-run lead in the first inning of the first game when Carl W. E. Almquist '45 reached first on an error, went to second on a wild pitch, and scored on a single by newly-elected captain Jerome A. Batt '43. Princeton tied the score in the second when Captain Perina drew a walk, advanced to second when Talcott walked, went to third on Brewer's sacrifice, and scored on Clay's wild pitch.

Princeton took the lead in the fourth when LaBlond was safe on an error by Edward S. Steitz '43, reached second on a passed ball by John M. Tully '46, and scored on Talcott's single. Cornell returned to the lead with two runs in the sixth. Wilfred R. Loeser '46 was safe on a two-base error, went to third on an infield out, and scored on Almquist's double. Almquist moved to third on a single by Batt and scored on another hit by Norman J. Dawson '46.

Two were out when Princeton tied the score in the seventh. Clay walked Talcott, and the Princeton pitcher stole second after the next two batters fled out. Talcott scored as three Cornell players were unable to decide who should take Johnson's fly to short right field.

In the eighth, Almquist reached first on an error. Dennis C. Redden '45 replaced him as a pinch-runner and went to third on Dawson's single after Batt had fouled out. Charles P. Weiss '44 laid down a bunt and squeezed Redden across with the winning run.

Dawson led the batters with three hits in four times at bat.

In the second game, Cornell took a three-run lead in the second inning after Batt had struck out. Dawson singled, and Weiss was safe at first on an error. Steitz doubled to center, scoring Dawson and putting Weiss on third. Tully came through with a single to right to score both runners.

Princeton picked up a run in the fourth when Loeser's error put Paris on first. He went to third on Tully's passed ball and scored on a hit by Talcott. The visitors tied the score in the sixth when Howell walked and scored on Talcott's double. Talcott scored on the same play when Steitz threw wild to the plate.

The next three innings were scoreless. Cornell failed to make a hit, but in the tenth frame, Weiss opened with a single. Steitz sacrificed him to second, and he scored on Tully's single to right. It was Tully's third run batted in of the game.

Before last Saturday's games, all five teams were even in the League percentages. Cornell and Pennsylvania each won twice to tie for first. Pennsylvania defeated Dartmouth in their doubleheader. Current League standings:

	W	L	PC
Cornell	3	1	.750
Pennsylvania	3	1	.750
Columbia	1	1	.500
Princeton	2	4	.333
Dartmouth	1	3	.250

A non-league game with Syracuse, scheduled April 28 at Syracuse, was postponed because of wet grounds.

Captain Batt is in Hotel Administration and is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha. He was captain of the hockey team last winter.

TEAM WINS TRACK MEET

Running on a slow track and competing in close to freezing weather, the track team defeated Syracuse, 81-54, on Schoellkopf Field last Saturday, Spring Day. Cornell scored in all but one of the fifteen events.

Captain Charles E. Shaw '43 of Scarsdale, Donald H. Scott '45 of Rydal, Pa., and Robert W. Larson '43 of Dover, N.J., each had double victories. Shaw won the two dashes, Scott the high and low hurdles, and Larson the high jump and discus throw. Larson also placed second in the javelin throw to top the scorers with 13 points.

The times were slow, from 0:10.4 in the 100-yard dash to 11:12.6 in the two-mile run. The summaries:

120-yard high hurdles: Won by Scott, Cornell; second, Brown, Syracuse; third, McIvers, Syracuse. Time, 0:16.6.

220-yard low hurdles: Won by Scott, Cornell; second, Pullman, Cornell; third, Erbe, Syracuse. Time, 0:26.

100-yard dash: Won by Shaw, Cornell; second, Rice, Syracuse; third, Pressler, Cornell. Time, 0:10.4.

220-yard dash: Won by Shaw, Cornell; second, Pressler, Cornell; third, Greaves, Syracuse. Time, 0:23.7.

440-yard run: Won by McGuire, Syracuse; second, Rice, Syracuse; third, Bromstedt, Cornell. Time, 0:51.2.

880-yard run: Won by Kennedy, Cornell; second, Rate, Syracuse; third, Moore, Cornell. Time, 2:10.3.

Mile run: Won by Rate, Syracuse; second, Kelsey, Cornell; third, Mahnken, Cornell. Time, 4:48.5.

Two-mile run: Won by Kandl, Cornell; second, Dillon, Cornell; third, Cullen, Cornell. Time, 11:12.6.

Hammer throw: Won by Sanford, Cornell, 132 ft. 9 in.; second, Claggett, Cornell; third, Dorie, Cornell.

Pole vault: Won by Erbe, Syracuse, 11 ft. 6 in.; tie for second between Junge and Carter, Cornell.

Javelin throw: Won by Fitherolf, Syracuse, 163 ft. 7 in.; second, Larson, Cornell; third, Ornitz, Cornell.

Shot put: Won by Taylor, Syracuse, 44 ft. 7 in.; second, Blose, Cornell; third, Miller, Cornell.

High jump: Won by Larson, Cornell, 5 ft. 10 in.; tie for second between Mitchell, Cornell, and Erbe, Syracuse.

Broad jump: Won by Guild, Syracuse, 20 ft. 2 in.; second, Erbe, Syracuse; third, McConnell, Syracuse.

Discus throw: Won by Larson, Cornell, 130 ft. 5½ in.; second, Dunlap, Syracuse; third, Whittemore, Cornell.

CREWS RACE ON SCHUYLKILL

Varsity and Junior Varsity crews placed third in the Adams Cup regatta and the 150-pound eight won on the Schuylkill River at Philadelphia, Pa., last Saturday.

Cornell competed on invitation and was not eligible for the Adams Cup. All races were over the Henley distance of a mile and 550 yards.

Harvard won the Varsity race by six tenths of a second from the US Naval Academy. The distance between the shells was estimated at approximately one foot. Cornell, three lengths astern of Navy, barely saved third place from Pennsylvania by the same margins in time and distance. The times: Harvard, 6:42; Naval Academy, 6:42.6; Cornell, 6:55.4; Pennsylvania, 6:56.

In the Junior Varsity race, the Academy crew won over Harvard by two lengths. Cornell was a length behind Harvard, with Pennsylvania trailing by less than a length. The times: Naval Academy, 6:39; Harvard, 6:47; Cornell, 6:53.6; Pennsylvania, 6:54.4.

Over the same course, but perhaps with wind and water conditions different, the Junior Varsity turned in a faster time than did the Varsity.

In a 150-pound race, Cornell came up from third place to take the lead and win in the last quarter-mile, with Pennsylvania and Princeton rowing a dead heat for second place, a half-length behind.

Platoff '43 of Weehawken, N.J.

ARMY WINS TENNIS

Playing on the two asphalt courts along Cascadilla Creek last Saturday, the US Military Academy defeated Cornell in tennis, 6-3.

Cornell's winners in singles were Gordon B. Blatz '43 of Philadelphia, soccer captain last fall, and Peter W. Stone '45 of Staten Island, who captained last year's Freshman tennis team. Each had to play an extra set to win, Stone defeating Swank, 1-6, 6-4, 6-3, and Blatz defeating Calder, 7-5, 4-6, 7-5. Stone and Hollis D. Young '46 of Oyster Bay accounted for one point in doubles, beating Drake and Steele, 6-3, 6-2.

LACROSSE TEAM WINS

The lacrosse team defeated Syracuse, 7-5, in an overtime game at Syracuse last Saturday. The game wound up a home and home series in which Cornell won the first contest, 10-8.

Cornell scored twice in the overtime period after a goal by Nigro, Syracuse second attack, tied the score at 5-5 in the last three minutes of regular play. The winning goals were scored by D. W. Hoagland, a Navy V-5 aviation cadet stationed at Cornell, playing at in home, and Seth J. Campbell '44 of Towson, Md., out home. Hoagland scored three goals and Campbell two, with Captain Robert A. Moore '44 of Brooklyn, first attack, and Craig W. Bradley '45 of Auburn, a spare, accounting for the other two.

GOLFERS LOSE OPENER

The golf team lost to Syracuse, 3½-5½, in its first test April 28 over the Drumlins course at Syracuse. Cornell's medalist was Clarence H. Hutt '44 of Buffalo, with a 79. He tied his singles match with McElwain of Syracuse to account for the half-point. Individual winners for Cornell were Robert E. Dillon '44 of Williston Park and Henderson G. Riggs '44 of Elmira. Riggs and Hutt teamed to win one point on best ball for their foursome.

The match with Colgate, scheduled May 1 on the University Golf Course, was postponed because the course was considered unplayable.

McEWAN '11 IN MILWAUKEE

Thirty-five members of the Cornell Club of Milwaukee, Wis., attended the annual dinner at the University Club, April 14. Principal speaker was Thomas S. McEwan '11, who was the first regional director of the Seventh Federal Reserve District, War Production Board, and is now vice-president of McClure, Hadden & Ortman, Inc., management engineers, of Chicago, Ill. Speaking on the subject, "Quality Will Win the War," McEwan recounted some of the products being developed for war use and cited the large number of newly-trained mechanics and their important uses after the war is won.

Charles N. Mellowes '33 was elected president of the Club, succeeding C. Brooks Stevens '34, who presided at the meeting. New secretary is Jack D. Dorner '36; treasurer, William H. Worcester '40.

The Cornell Club of New York will hold open house on the evening of May 14 to all interested in the Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association track and field championships to be held in New York City the following day. Former athletes of all descriptions, fans, coaches, members of the press, and air-carrying songbirds whether or not of glee club extraction are cordially invited. No program, no admission charge, no moving pictures of the war, no discussions of the four freedoms. Coaches and oldtimers will tender an informal reception to Jack Moakley. Sole equipment required of guests: one thirst, one appetite, and the ability to sing at least the chorus of all popular songs composed prior to the election of Grover Cleveland. John Terry McGovern '00, perennial president of the Veterans Association of the IC4A, will act as host.

William Rorke, the new boniface of the Hotel Barclay, gave a luncheon for a few officers of the Club one recent Saturday. Mr. Rorke, who assumed his duties with the Barclay not long ago, was for many years manager of the Biltmore Hotel.

News of Doc Peters's new post was read with interest by his friends in the Club here, all of whom hope that the Doc's transfer of activities to a new sphere will not prevent him from putting in a welcome appearance at the Club occasionally.

A band of embryo Cornellians took possession of a large table in the dining room recently when the boys of the baseball team of the Newburgh, N.Y., High School were guests at dinner of J. Renwick Thompson '97. Each April at about the time the crack of the bat on the ball is heard at the Polo Grounds or the Yankee Stadium, Mr. Thompson brings the Newburgh High baseball team to New York to watch a big league game and then take dinner with him at the Club. This year fourteen guests were present, including members of the faculty of the Newburgh school.

Lieutenant (jg) Ed Dort '38, of Elizabeth, N.J., was in the Club recently, from Annapolis where he had been stationed.

Lieutenant Wade (Tex) Haynes of Abilene, Tex., who lived at the Club a year ago when he was on shore duty in New York, was host recently to Bob Dahn '16, and Ben Sloat '02, aboard the ship on which he is now stationed.

TO ASSURE NEW YORK'S FOOD

Chairman, executive director, and four other members of an eleven-man New York State emergency food commission appointed by Governor Thomas E. Dewey "to foresee and meet situations as they arise," are Cornellians.

H. Edward Babcock, chairman of the University Board of Trustees, is chairman of the commission and Dean Carl E. Ladd '12, Agriculture, is its executive director. Others are Professor Lloyd R. Simons '11, Director of Extension; Professor Thomas N. Hurd, PhD '36, on leave from Agricultural Economics as State Farm Manpower Director; Harold M. Stanley '15, vice-chairman of the New York Conference Board of Farm Organizations and elected to the University Board of Trustees by the State Grange; and Professor Leonard A. Maynard, PhD '15, Director of the School of Nutrition. Earl C. Foster '26, county agricultural agent of Oneida County, has been granted leave of absence to act as executive secretary of the food commission.

The commission holds weekly meetings in Syracuse, and has already investigated a reported shortage of feed grains in the State. It found there was plenty of grain to be had, but a lack of cars in which to ship it from the Middle West. "We're working on that now," Babcock reports. The commission has organized with Professors Hurd and Simons to be in charge of farm labor problems, Stanley to work on assuring sufficient miscellaneous farm supplies, Dean Ladd in charge of planning and stimulating food production on farms and in victory gardens, Professor Maynard heading work on nutrition, and other members in charge of other phases of the commission's work.

Governor Dewey referred to members of the commission as "some of America's ablest agricultural experts" and praised Chairman Babcock for taking action his first day in office to get Secretary of Agriculture Wickard to rescind an order which reduced the price of milk to farmers.

MORTAR BOARD president for next year is Charlotte M. Licht of Trumansburg. Vice-President is Elizabeth J. Scheidelman of Whitesboro; Barbara Gans of New York City, treasurer; Barbara A. Chapin of Lyons, secretary; Marjorie O. Sandy of Glenshaw, Pa., editor.

NOW IN MY TIME!

By Romeyn Berry

The picture on the cover of this issue shows a small piece of the President White Historical Library. Perhaps you'd better fold your paper back so you can refer to the picture as we jog along, as if it were a road map.

The two arm chairs in the lower right hand corner came forty years ago from the private library of Willard Fiske in Florence. The light-colored one still has its original tapestry cover. The dark one is a recent local job. There are other such chairs from the same source scattered around among the stacks. From any one of them you can reach out to grasp a volume many a scholar would give his soul to possess.

The little shield below the center of the picture displays the arms of Brasenose College. The plate glass window at the upper right looks directly west to where the Jericho Turnpike disappeared over the sky-line on its journey to the sunset by way of Applegate's Corners. Its companion window to the north permits the dreaming student to look forty miles into the handiwork of the glacier that carved the surrounding lakes and hills. The White Library is the only noteworthy collection of books we know of that is housed in a place where the searcher can dig into the stored wisdom of the ages without being shut off for an instant from the blessed sunshine, or from sight of the actual world that lies about him.

On January 19, 1887, Andrew D. White wrote to the Chairman of the Board that for thirty-five years he had been collecting a private, historical library that had now grown to 30,000 books, 10,000 manuscripts and pamphlets. This library he now proposed to give to the University, provided satisfactory safeguards could be set up for its housing, maintenance, and use. He suggested a committee to treat with him about details. On July 5, 1887, the dicker had been completed and expressed in an instrument that covered every point. In becoming a scholar, an historian, a university president, a diplomat, and an idealist, President White never ceased to be an Upstate hoss trader of parts!

The Autobiography states (Vol. I, p. 440): "The Trustees accepted it [the library], providing a most noble room for it in connection with the main University Library and with the historical lecture rooms; setting apart, also, from their resources, an ample sum, of which the income should be used in maintaining the library, in providing a librarian, in publishing a complete catalogue, and in making the collection effective for historical instruction."

"Making the collection effective!"

There, perhaps, you have the key to the unique distinction of the White Library. The Morgan collection in New York City is the priceless, breath-taking triumph of the collector's magic; apart from it, one gazes in awe. But the White, though incidentally containing some of the rarest of volumes, manuscripts, and papers, strikes you as being made up primarily of the well-worn tools of the skilled workman. You can get at them and are invited to use them. Andrew D. picked them up as he went along and as he needed them and where he could get them cheap. One can imagine a boy possessing intellectual curiosity, once exposed to the lure and charm and accessibility of the White Library, rather wishing he could stay right there and become a scholar by trade, rather than having to go back home to work in the family's plant.

Andrew White started the collection and gave it, but I'm not sure that what you see in the picture—and can imagine around it—wasn't quite as much the creation of George Lincoln Burr '81. Certainly, it's a joint monument to both men and neither would deny all credit to the other. This Library has never known a librarian other than Professor Burr. He lived in it, loved it, patted it, formed it, catalogued it, and gave it throbbing life for just short of fifty years.

Usefulness to the scholar rather than the triumph of the collector has always been the aim of the White. Nevertheless, it is commonly regarded as possessing the most complete collection of materials dealing with the French Revolution and with the subject of witchcraft. Libraries the world over borrow from it in these fields. Almost as noteworthy are the books dealing with the Protestant Reformation. Most of the latter were picked up by President White through the long years when his Warfare of Science and Theology was incubating.

The White never had much money for acquisitions, but it always possessed two shrewd little bargain-hunters, who knew their business, working for it. Andrew D. estimated that no more than $100,000. had gone into getting together the original collection, and in all the years of his stewardship Professor Burr never had that much to spend for acquisitions. But he had a nose for a book and every once in a while he'd dash over to Paris for a titbit he'd smelled out. On such occasions, President White would come down from Berlin, or some place, to join the hunt.

Nor were these two boys from the Town of Homer above rigging the Paris market a little for the benefit of Cornell and their joint baby! There is in the Library documentary support for the assertion that sometimes on such hunts White would work the quais ahead of Burr, passing among the old bookstalls and putting the fear of God into the booksellers. He's tell them, the letter says, that this little man coming down the river bank was an American expert who couldn't be fooled on prices, and "what a fearful mistake it would be for them to get in wrong with Professor Burr; that he was a close buyer."

CASCADILLA AND DR. JORDAN

TO ROMEYN BERRY:

Your column is the first news I look for. It is all so readable, and I think it appeals to old grads because you give us items of ancient history; e.g., Cascadilla and David Starr Jordan. I have eaten many a tough fried pork chop in Cascadilla Hall!

Your article explains why the pond was there west of the old East Hill House and north of Hi Corson's house. We ducked many a Freshman there during initiations. I rented Professor Corson's house for my fraternity and took his course in English Literature; a snap course, but it was worth the trouble just to hear the old man read "St. Agnes Eve." He busted me and can you blame him?

Your mention of Dr. Jordan in the NEWS recalls an item I think should be preserved: In the late '50's, some Holyoke Seminary graduates founded a female seminary in Gainesville, N.Y. The precocious village boy had learned all he could in the village school; was too young and too poor to go away. He was allowed to attend the seminary, and was in my mother's class. Dr. Jordan was the only man ever graduated from a female institution. I doubt if he was given a diploma. His autobiography is fascinating reading. As a boy, I fished the same stream near Delhi Road that he loved so well. He lectured at the University in the early '90's on his ascent of the Matterhorn.—WELLS GILBERT '93

FRAUDULENT CORNELLIAN?

Report has come to the University from St. Albans, Vt., that a person using the name Monte M. Wladover represented himself as a Cornellian. The name does not appear in the University records. The St. Albans caller approached the Chamber of Commerce early in April about locating a wood-working industry in that city. He said he had received a scholarship at Cornell, graduating about ten years ago, and that he had also graduated at Swarthmore College.

DANCE CLUB TO APPEAR IN NEW YORK CITY RECITAL MAY 9

ELDER CLASS RALLIES To Support Bonded Reunions

To the Treasurer of the University last week came this firmly hand-written letter from the secretary of the Fifty-five-year Reunion Class:

Enclosed please find one Series F War Savings Bond for $100. Please credit this to the Cornell Alumni Fund from Frank Bruen, Class of '78.

I have written the rest of the living graduates of '78 asking them to send Bonds. There are only five of us. Of these, one writes that he has done so. One cannot, being tied up locally. The others are able and I think will comply.

I felt that $50 was all I could afford, but have doubled it to make up for the one who could not chip in.

Yours truly—Frank Bruen.

Bonded Reunions, replacing this year the usual Class Reunions at Ithaca, through May 3 had brought $2925 to the University in War Savings Bonds, from the Association of Class Secretaries and ninety-one alumni. More Bonds are coming at steadily increasing rate as the many letters from Class secretaries are being received by Cornellians everywhere. These letters tell the University's need for help this year and urge members of all Classes to buy at least one $25 War Bond for Cornell with what a trip to Class Reunion would cost.

Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau, Jr. '13 and ODT Director Joseph B. Eastman have publicly endorsed Cornell's Bonded Reunions as patriotic relief to the country's war-crowded transportation system, and as important support both to the country's war effort and to education.

Other colleges and universities are following the Cornell plan, adapting it to their own alumni programs. University of Pennsylvania urges its alumni at a distance who cannot get to Alumni Day May 8, to "devote travel costs and other Reunion expenses to the purchase of War Bonds which may be deeded to the University."

To May 3, Series F War Savings Bonds had been credited to the following Classes in the Alumni Fund, supporting Bonded Reunions: '77, '78, '79, '82, '84, '85, '89, '91, '93, '03, '04, '05, '06, '07, '09, '12, '13, '14, '15, '17, '20, '21, '27, '28, '36, '37, '38, and '42.

CORNELL TRADITION

Cornell Daily Sun reported April 27: "At a special meeting held late yesterday afternoon at the request of the executive committee of WSGA, the Faculty Committee on Student Activities unanimously voted to permanently rescind its October ruling eliminating houseparties for the duration. . . . The reasons for the Committee's decision were that their inability to enforce the houseparty ban made it a useless and undesirable measure. A good idea in theory, the ban has failed utterly in practice. . . . After reviewing the reasons for waiving the ban for the Victory Week End and Spring Day houseparties, the Committee decided that more or less similar conditions exist permanently, and that consequently there was no alternative but to rescind the ban altogether. The Committee termed the move necessary but 'regrettable,' making it clear that the majority of the members still favor the elimination of houseparties in principle."

Next day, the following appeared as the Sun's leading editorial, headed "Tradition and Houseparty:"

Three years ago yesterday the distinguished University Historian, Carl Becker, delivered an address on "The Cornell Tradition: Freedom and Responsibility." His speech resolved the many legends and theories which were extant on this subject.

Yesterday, three years later, the Faculty Committee on Student Activities announced its decision to rescind permanently the ban on houseparties which it had unwisely formulated last fall at a time when the Campus was swept by war nerves. There is an obvious tie-up between Dr. Becker's speech and the Faculty Committee action. They deal with the same subject: the famous Cornell tradition.

We are happy that the Faculty Committee has backed out entirely. It is true that they are still clinging to their "theories," but, at least to us, it is a heartening sign for Cornell University and for its students and Faculty that in practice the theory "failed utterly." We believe that the Cornell student, like the Cornell Faculty member, has seldom, if ever, failed to make good use of the freedom which was his. We deplore the contention of the Faculty Committee that in war time the student would fail to do so. We deplore their lack of confidence in us.

Carl Becker has coined an apt expression which fits this year's problem. He has called the freedom at Cornell "something less formal, something less self-regarding, something more wordly, something, I will venture to say, a bit more impudent." This year the Cornell student, in dealing with a houseparty ban, has been impudent in his freedom. By his collective disobedience he has forced a Faculty Committee, unwilling to enforce its ruling, to back down on it.

There are few universities in America which would have tolerated this impudent freedom. Cornell did. And we shall all feel far better towards our University because it did.

Not many days ago we remarked that we had the fear that Cornell's best-loved tradition of freedom and responsibility was dying, almost being choked to death. We are happy now that the Cornell student has not stood by to watch the death, but has done what he could to restore life. We hope that the University administration, smarting from its departure from usually good judgment, will not lie in wait for a chance to show revenge, to show that "the modern student must and shall have discipline." We hope it will be broad enough to sense the full import of this impudent freedom which sprang forth when a tradition was violated.

There is one rule for conduct, and a very important one, in this University. That is: "A student is expected to show both within and without the University unfailing respect for order, morality, personal honor, and the rights of others." Let's stick to that rule. And, trusting in the Cornell male and female, make no other laws.

We echo Carl Becker, expressing the "hope that Cornell in the future, whatever its gains, whatever its losses, may hold fast to its ancient tradition of freedom and responsibility."

SECOND WAR LOAN campaign in Tompkins County during April brought more than double the quota, to "Buy Five Bombers" with $4,058,492.25 of War Bond sales. Cornell University invested $1,030,000 as its part in the campaign, and officers in the US Naval Training School purchased Bonds worth $1,518.75 in their first "pay-day sale."

CORNELL CHORUS broadcasts on the CBS network at 3:30 Friday afternoon, May 7. They are among the twenty music clubs invited by the president of the Federation of Music Clubs to take part in its "National Festival of the Air."

MANUAL OF ARMS, close order drill, and practice in rifle marksmanship, voice control, and command is being given to some 200 volunteers from the ROTC by members of the Pershing Rifles, military honor society. Twice weekly for a total of three hours, the prospective soldiers are drilled at Barton Hall by officers and members of the Pershing Rifles, commanded this year by Robert J. Mitchell '43 of Ithaca. Major Francis H. Schaefer, Jr. '29, Field Artillery, is in charge for the ROTC staff.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON swimming team beat Beta Sigma Rho and Delta Tau Delta in the annual breaststroke relay race for the Reeves Trophy given in memory of the late Theodore K. Reeves '40.

White brought overflow audiences to the Olin Hall auditorium, including many undergraduates. The six lectures will be published this summer by the University Press.

WINNER of the Woodford Prize of $100 in the oldest speaking contest of the University is Julian A. Jackson '43 of Meridian, Miss. His address, "The Price of Peace," was judged the best of the six finalists by a Faculty panel. Dean Dexter S. Kimball, Engineering, Emeritus, presided April 27 in Goldwin Smith Hall.

RADIO GUILD, which broadcasts wired programs from its studio in Willard Straight Hall through the University power lines, has completed a new transmitter designed by Peter Winokur, Jr. '43 of Philadelphia, Pa. and Richard C. Koch '44 of Denver, Col. They had advice from Professor Lawrence A. Burckmyer, Jr. '26 and others of the Electrical Engineering Faculty.

SYMPHONIC BAND, organized and conducted by Wendell Margrave, Music, gave the Sunday afternoon concert in Willard Straight Memorial Room, May 2.

BIRD WALKS which for several years have taken numbers of interested persons on early morning tours of observation about Ithaca with Professor Arthur A. Allen '08, Ornithology, started last week. The birds are coming, he says, regardless of unseasonable spring weather.

ALUMNI NEWS article of last December 10, "Salary Limit Affects University" by Provost H. W. Peters '14, was reprinted in The Congressional Record at the instance of Congressman Daniel A. Reed '98, supporting his opposition in Congress to the President's salary limitation order. Reprints of the article have had wide circulation among executives of philanthropic institutions and other persons all over the United States.

SAGE CHAPEL PREACHER May 9 is the Rev. Harold C. Phillips of the First Baptist Church, Cleveland, Ohio.

FUERTES MEMORIAL Prizes in public speaking for Seniors and Juniors in Engineering and Architecture were awarded, first ($80) to J. Arthur Purdy '44 of Hinsdale, Ill., for his paper, "Aircraft Engines: Radial vs. In-line"; second ($40), to Mircea R. Sfat '43 of Detroit, Mich., for his on "Engineering Education for Post-war Reconstruction"; and third ($20), to George W. Bishop '44 of Baltimore, Md., who spoke on "Welding Construction for Hydraulic Turbine Runners."

SUN COMPETITIONS have resulted in election of three Freshmen to the news board: Robert F. Brodsky of Germantown, Pa., Robert J. Lifton of Brooklyn, and Myron E. Mendelson of Woodmere.

AN ALUMNUS REMEMBERED

Bequest of approximately $5,000 has come to the University from the estate of Harvey L. Westover '06, who died in Washington, D. C., January 2, 1943. The University was his residuary legatee. After teaching schools in Columbia County, he entered the College of Agriculture in 1902, received the BSA in 1906, and at once joined the Bureau of Plant Industry, US Department of Agriculture, as an agronomist. A specialist on alfalfa, he travelled over the world collecting seeds of promising grasses, legumes, vegetables, and cereals for American introduction. One of his discoveries developed, after many crosses made in this country, into the new "Ranger" alfalfa which has become generally available the first time this year. Because of its resistance to bacterial wilt, it promises immense savings to farmers and stockmen.

176 CORNELLIANs WITH GE

General Electric and its associated companies report 176 Cornellians among their 9,222 college graduate employees. The total is approximately 5 per cent of all General Electric employees, says R. C. Muir, GE vice-president and chairman of the company's education committee. They are from 325 American colleges and universities and from thirty-four foreign countries. Those with engineering degrees number 6,000, Muir says, and 500 have degrees in physics, chemistry, or science; nearly 800 have liberal arts degrees; more than 1,000, degrees in business administration; and the US Military and Naval academies, law, medicine, agriculture, forestry, education, journalism, music, secretarial, home economics, and theology are all represented.

PRESIDENT of the Trumansburg Community Council this year is the Rev. Henry P. Horton, rector-emeritus of St. John's Episcopal Church in Ithaca.

Concerning THE FACULTY

PRESIDENT EDMUND E. DAY will deliver the Commencement address at the College of Letters and Science of St. Lawrence University, Canton, May 10. He is a member of the Copernican Quadracentennial committee organized by the Kosciuszko Foundation to arrange for nationwide observance of the 400th anniversary of the death of Nicholas Copernicus and of the publication of his treatise, De Revolutionibus Orbium Coelestium, which opened the era of modern science. A meeting of scientific tribute will be held May 24 in Carnegie Hall, New York City.

PROFESSOR PERCIVAL J. PARROTT, Entomology, Emeritus, and Director of the Geneva Experiment Station from 1937 until his retirement in 1942, will receive the DSC May 23 at Kansas State College, Manhattan, where he taught entomology from 1898 to 1900.

PROFESSOR GEORGE J. THOMPSON contributes an article, "New York Reconsiders Consideration," dealing with the age-old law of the seal as used to authenticate documents, to the New York State Bar Association Bulletin for April.

DR. DAVID P. BARR '11, professor of Medicine at the Medical College in New York, spoke in a symposium on civilian hospitals in wartime, conducted by the United Hospital Fund of New York in cooperation with the Greater New York Hospital Association and the New York Academy of Medicine at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria, New York City, March 30.

PROFESSOR KENNETH L. WASHBURN '26, Fine Arts, and his student, Jules Gregory '43, had water colors in the annual exhibition of the American Watercolor Society at the National Academy Galleries in New York City, in April. Professor Washburn showed one of his series of town and country life in Western New York. Gregory's water color, "Between Two Houses," was commended by Edward Alden Jewell, art critic of the New York Times.

PROFESSOR CLIVE M. McCAY, Nutrition, after almost a year's research on meat substitutes, recommends sprouted soybeans. He says they are a good meat substitute because they are high in protein and fat; minerals, including calcium and iron; and vitamins. Furthermore, an abundant crop can be produced on a small amount of land. There is no waste in this vegetable, and it requires only ten to twenty minutes to prepare it for the table. Dr. McCay visited Chinatown in New York City recently to obtain information on the extensive bean-sprouting methods of the Chinese. A test in the Home Economics cafeteria revealed the need for some flavoring, as practiced in the Orient, and cooking tests for more savory dishes are underway. Dr. McCay says that it takes a few meals to develop a liking for soybeans as most persons are used to the "mushy" kinds, whereas the soybean has a chewy, crisp texture, "something you can sink your teeth into."

DOROTHY H. BATEMAN, Physical Education, attended a joint conference of the National Association of Directors of Physical Education for College Women and the American Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation, in Cincinnati, Ohio. Miss Bateman is president of the Eastern branch of the National Association.

PROFESSOR RUSSELL H. WAGNER, PhD '38, Speech, is editor of the 1942 Speech Monographs, research annual of the National Association of Teachers of Speech.

THE SISTER KENNY method of treating infantile paralysis is now being taught to large groups of doctors and nurses in New York City. One of the teachers is Dr. Kristian G. Hansson '20, assistant professor of Clinical Surgery at the Medical College and director of physiotherapy at the New York Hospital for Special Surgery, who went to Minneapolis last summer to study and evaluate the method of treatment. Dr. Hansson received the AB in 1920 and the MD in 1923.

FOUR PUPILS of Dr. Egon Petri, Pianist-in-Residence, have recently played in various parts of the country. Thelma Emile '45 appeared in Town Hall, New York City, April 3, in joint concert with the Cornell Chorus; Ruth Strassman of Newark, N. J., won the New Jersey student contest sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs; Robert Mueller '41 gave a concert in Decatur, Ill.; and Aurora Mauro-Cottone has been awarded the prize given annually by the Brooklyn Academy of Music.

PROFESSOR FRANK O. ELLENWOOD, Engineering, and Nicholas Kulik '38 and Norman R. Gay, instructor in Heat-power Engineering, are authors of "The Specific Heats of Certain Gases over Wide Ranges of Pressures and Temperatures," Bulletin 30 of the Engineering Experiment Station. The bulletin gives results of the authors' research with air, carbon dioxide, carbon monoxide, ethylene, hydrogen, methane, nitrogen, and oxygen, which are of primary importance to the engineer. Widespread use of these calculations by engineers in industry and in the Army and Navy have made necessary a second printing of the bulletin.

REPORTS TO THE PUBLIC

PROTECTING THE FAMILY

$590,000 A DAY is the rate at which benefits were paid in 1942 by The Equitable. Behind this impressive figure are thousands of human stories of life insurance in action.

A total of $215,354,000 of Equitable benefits went to families throughout the nation last year. Of this, $76,526,000 was paid to widows, children and other beneficiaries—holding families together, providing funds for education, clearing homes of mortgage debt, and accomplishing many other cherished purposes. In addition, $31,762,000 in annuity payments brought comfort and peace of mind to older persons. Equitable policyholders also received $107,066,000 in matured endowments, dividends and other payments.

The flow of these Equitable dollars is doubly important in wartime because it helps strengthen the home front, benefiting not only individual families but the communities in which they live.

The Equitable has paid more than five billion dollars in benefits since it was founded 83 years ago.

SERVING THE NATION

In direct aid of the war effort, The Equitable purchased $489,999,000 of U. S. Government securities last year.

Other funds are invested in essential industries helping to win the battle of production, in public utilities, producing power for victory, and in railroads, performing vital transportation service. These assets, while providing family security, are at the same time contributing to the economic stability of the nation.

Because family security helps national morale, it is particularly significant that the life insurance protection provided by The Equitable increased $359,025,000 in 1942 to $7,966,328,000.

The premiums paid on life insurance policies represent funds flowing into a useful, permanent channel of thrift, and help the government's efforts to check rising living costs.

It is in the national interest to own life insurance, and if the protection of your family is insufficient, to buy additional life insurance.

Looking ahead, the one great hope of all Americans is for a speedy conclusion of the war, with victory for a way of living that upholds the dignity and freedom of man. The Equitable is resolved to meet its every responsibility to the nation to help bring this about.
