ASSASSIN A Drinker of Hashish!

In eleventh-century Persia, a secret order was founded by Hassan ben Sabbah, indulging in the use of the Oriental drug hashish, and, when under its influence, in the practice of secret murder. The murderous drinker of hashish came to be called hashash in the Arabic and from that origin comes our English word assassin!

Summer School

June 13 to August 25

The late date of opening of the session, the satisfaction of definitely completing the work in August, a cool and pleasant environment, and skillful instruction in small classes make our summer session a most satisfactory means of completing Cornell entrance requirements.

Credentials are secured through New York State Regents examinations at the close of the six-week session. Individual instruction if desired.

Eighteen Classes Hold Reunions

Perfect Weather Helps Spirit and Numbers of Returning Alumni—Total Almost Equals Record

THIS STORY of the reunions of 1931 might have started off with the statement that, owing to the much maligned financial depression, the attendance on the Hill dropped like the market, to a new low. But such a statement is far from necessary, for despite these publicized hard times, the registration came very near to touching that of last year, which was almost a record. The exact figures are 1587 registered at the Drill Hall this year as against last year's 1660; and the difference becomes minimized still more when it is remembered that fewer classes than usual were scheduled for reunions this year.

True enough, the festivities were slow in getting under way. Friday dragged and the reuners came to sign their names and get their buttons and regalia in what was a mere trickle compared to Saturday's flood. But Saturday's warm, perfect weather, and Saturday's trains and roads brought out the multitude and before the day was over the excellent total had been reached and one record had been shattered: the class of '06 with 131 members back topped all other twenty-five year reunions, beating '03's reunion in 1928 by one man.

Two members of the Class of '71 returned, Royal A. Taft, and Judge Pascal C. J. DeAngelis. They celebrated their sixtieth reunion together, finding among all the new faces many recurrent friendships.

To the class of '81, returning for the fiftieth anniversary of their graduation, went the cup given annually by the Cornell Association of Class Secretaries to the class registering the largest proportion of total membership. Fifteen of them came back, or thirty-five per cent. The class of '85 followed close on their heels with twelve registered, or thirty-four per cent, and '71, the sixty-year class, came third with two, or thirty-three per cent.

The other cup, given annually to the class registering the largest actual number of those returning was won by '26, celebrating its five-year anniversary. One hundred and fifty-two came back, of which eighty-three were men and sixty-nine were women. It took the prize by the smallest of leads over the two-year olds of '29 who registered fifty-eight men and ninety-one women, a total of 149. Third place was taken by '06 with the total given above. ATHLETICS

SCHOOL ATHLETES HERE

The Long Island section won first honors in the New York State Public High School Athletic Association's annual championship meet held on Schoellkoof Field June 6. The meet was run off under the auspices of the Cornell Athletic Association. Upwards of 100 of the leading high school athletes of the state, outside of New York City, participated. Long Island section scored 28 points, Section five, the Rochester district was second with 22 1/2 points.

Maynard McNally of the Hempstead High School set a new mark of 9 4/5 seconds in the 100 yard dash and he tied the record for the 220 yard dash of 21 3/5 seconds. McCranels of Corning made a new record in the half mile run of 2:00 1-10. Noerager of Schenectady set a new record of 25 3/5 seconds for the 220 yard low hurdles and the fourth new mark of the meet was made by Morrissey of Dunkirk, who cleared 11 feet 11 inches in the pole vault.

NINE CLOSES POOR SEASON

The baseball team closed a disastrous season Saturday, losing a 13 inning game to Syracuse by the score of 3 to 2. The other two Senior Week games proved easy victories for Cornell's opponents. Seton Hall won the game on June 11, by a score of 6 to 0 and Pennsylvania captured the last Eastern Intercollegiate League game on Cornell's schedule June 12 by the score of 8 to 0. The Quakers thereby clinched the championship of the league, and to give further proof of their superiority won two games from Sartmouth on Saturday.

From the baseball fan's viewpoint only the Syracuse game could be called a contest. The Seton Hall game was listless, the school boys have a wide edge over the home team. Stevens on the mound for Cornell, pitched a fair game. He allowed ten hits however, and some of them were bunched. He received indifferent help from the team, especially in batting. Joyce, Seton Hall's left-hander, held Cornell to six hits.

Pennsylvania won Friday's game easily. Pitchers Peterson and Ushka allowed Cornell but five hits. The home team fielded smartly, but was as usual weak at the bat. By turning in two double plays, Cornell set a new league record, of 12 for the season. Smith was the only successful Cornell hitter, getting two of the team's five hits.

Pennsylvania started scoring in the second inning when Masters touched Seyersky for a single. McLoughlin forced Masters and then stole second. Jones singled to left and McLoughlin scored before Jones was thrown out at second. Cornell had two men on in this inning but failed to hit in the pinch. In the fourth inning Moulton's error allowed Martens to reach first and he scored on McLoughlin's double.

The fifth was Pennsylvania's big inning. The Quakers scored six runs. Dennison went out on a tap to pitcher, but Hendlr singled to left and stole second. Carlsten received a base on balls. Graupner walked also, and with the bases full Martens hit into left field for a triple. Masters doubled and then Seyersky was replaced by Williams. McLoughlin drove the ball far into center field for the longest hit of the season here. He crossed the plate easily but failed to touch it, and was put out by George. Jones and Peterson singled. Dennison got a base on balls and Henderson was also passed, forcing in the sixth run. Williams finally forced Carlsten to ground out.

The Syracuse game was close, exciting and well played. For seven innings Cornell held a 1 to 0 lead, Shultz holding Syracuse to two scattered hits. In the eighth errors by Goodman and Payne and two singles gave Syracuse a two to one lead. Cornell tied the score in its half of the eighth. Two were out when Goodman doubled to center. Smith was given a base on balls by Yardley. Kappler's single through pitcher's box scored Goodman but Smith trying to stretch to home from second, was thrown out at the plate. Yardley the Syracuse pitcher, outpitched by Schultz won his own game in the 13th inning by a single through third scoring Balch.

AN INTERESTING REMINISCENCE

BY H. P. DEF.

I entered Cornell University in the Spring of 1880 and took my first degree at that institution in 1884. The Professor of Entomology at that time at Cornell was John Henry Comstock, who also came from Oswego County and who had been the United States Entomologist. His successor in the Government position was Leland Ossian Howard, also a personal friend. The difference between the culex and the anopheles had not yet been established, but it had been determined that malaria was probably transmitted by the bite of a mosquito. In my work in the Medical Preparatory Course I elected to study Entomology and believed that knowledge so gained would ultimately prove of help to me in the practice of medicine.

I had collected and classified about one thousand insects before I entered Cornell. Prof. Comstock knew this, for he had sent me some of them. In my first hour in the laboratory, my friend directed me to go out on the campus, turn over an old board, collect in my cyanide bottle some of the black beetles which I should find, and bring them to him. I followed instructions and returned with my specimens. I was then told to mount one of these in the usual way, spread out its six legs symmetrically, put the antennae in their usual position and make a drawing of the insect. I had taken a course in free hand drawing the previous year to help me in this very work, so I did not find this difficult. I found on each wing cover a row of small depressions. At the bottom of each depression was an erect spine. These were easy to draw and I fancied that I had made a good beginning in my laboratory work.

At the end of an hour Dr. Comstock came to my table, examined the specimen and my drawing and asked: "How many spines are there on each elytrum, Mr. de Forest?" "Four," I replied, for that was the number I had drawn. "Look again," said he, "and use your hand glass." I did so and could find but three. After I had made the correction, my teacher and friend said to me, "I have spent a lifetime in the study of Entomology. I do not expect to make you an entomologist in a single year; the only thing which we try to do with our students here is to teach them to be careful observers and then to record accurately what they see."

More than half a century has elapsed since that bit of wisdom was given to me by the man whom I am still proud to call my friend. His admonition is still remember and on many occasions I have had reason to profit by it.

JUST LOOKING AROUND

ALONG ABOUT the middle of the last century the discovery of new materials and methods of manufacture had a baneful effect on artistic taste. Tin imitated wood; wood imitated stone; stone imitated china; china imitated bananas, cigars, everything. "One of the successes of the 1851 exhibition (says Joan Evans in Patterns) was Odier's silver plate representing a damask table-napkin, and a few years later Charles Blanc especially lauded a wall-paper representing padded silk, with the folds in relief, held in place by buttons of colored glass." Much applauded was a pitcher-and-washbowl set; "the wide-mouthed pitcher, with neck and handle powdered in gold, seems to issue from a bag, shirred and tied up with a carelessly knotted string; the leather color of the bag and the scattered gold favor the conceit of the picture issuing from a bag of the precious metal."

Does your lip curl with scorn? Do you thank God that we are not as our in-artistic grandsires?

Well, did you perhaps read the description of Yale's new seven-million dollar library, by William Harlan Hale, the thorn in Yale's flesh? It is a cathedral, with cloister, rood-screen, high altar—this last the book-delivery desk. At the end of the nave stand fourteenth-century confessional boxes. They are telephone booths.

It represents, in architecture, the same vulgarity of mind that rejoiced in a pitcher emerging from a bag of gold. It pictures our apish joy in dressing up in any regal vestments of the past. It suggests our fear of accepting the world and finding a meaning in our own time.

Yet, granting all that, you must admit that a telephone booth is a very fitting and usual place for making confessions. And many a fellow has dropped into a confessional to put in a Long-Distance Call.

THE DRILL HALL LUNCHEON WAS A POPULAR REUNION EVENT

Hold Reunions

Following the custom which is becoming traditional, the University was host at the Drill Hall luncheon Saturday to all alumni, faculty, students, and guests. Thousands attended, in such unexpectedly large numbers the supply of chicken salad was in danger of too early extermination, but survived. This luncheon served as the big, informal gathering, before the final meeting at Saturday night's rally.

Hosts at the rally were '16, the fifteen-year class. They went back to '09 for their toastmaster, R. E. Treman. Under Bob's quick and witty guidance, everything clicked perfectly, to make it one of the most successful of rallies. Opening with Professor Harold D. Smith at the organ playing the Alma Mater, it included quartette numbers by Allan Treman '21, Wes Thomas, Archie Durham '31, William A. Corcoran '21, the inimitable Hibby Ayer '14 playing and singing a group of his own compositions, end with a brief address from President Farrand who has just completed ten years at Cornell, and the singing of the Evening Song.

Sunday, too, was a glorious day, and following a growing tendency, a large number of the crowd stayed over to enjoy the more casual contacts which the programmed hours of Friday and Saturday tend to prohibit, to play golf at the Ithaca Country Club, and to end the weekend on the Campus at Senior Singing.

The Dix plan emerged as a great success. There were this year three groups: '85, '86, '87, and '88; '04, '05, '06, and '07; and '23, '24, '25, and '26. Each of the first two of these groups held joint dinners, and the women of the latter met together for a dinner at Risley. On Friday night the classes of '86-'88 held a joint dinner at the University Club. A particularly notable event was the buffet supper by the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs in Prudence Risley on Friday for all women guests in Ithaca.

No account of the reunion can be complete without mention of Charles A. Hendryx '69 of Cincinnati, who made his sixth consecutive trip to reunions this year. He is the oldest living graduate, in the sense that he has held a Cornell degree longer than any other individual. Unfortunately Mr. John A. Rea of Tacoma, Washington, was unable to attend this year. Had he been here the class of '69 would have been represented one hundred per cent although not officially holding a reunion.

WILLIAM A. SOUTHWORTH '32, Batavia, has been elected chimesmaster for the academic year 1931-32. He is also student director of the University Orchestra and editor of The Cornell Widow. Howard W. Harler '34, Cleveland, Ohio, has been named first assistant.

MAKE CHANGES IN STAFFS OF TWO STATE COLLEGES

New appointments, promotions, and leaves of absence in the State Colleges have been announced by Albert R. Mann '04, dean of the colleges.

Dr. John H. Parker, Kansas State Agricultural College, has been appointed acting-professor of plant breeding for the year 1931-32 only, to take the place of Dr. H. H. Love who is on leave of absence.

Miss Doris Schumaker of Teachers' College, Columbia University, will be acting-professor of Home Economics for the year 1931-32 only, to help in working out certain experimental educational procedures on which she has been specializing. Miss Schumaker was on the staff of the College of Home Economics for a number of years.

Dr. W. A. Anderson, of North Carolina State College, has been appointed assistant professor of Rural Social Organization, effective October 1, 1931. Dr. Anderson was graduated from Iowa State College in 1921, and received his Master's degree there in 1922. In 1929 he received his Doctor's degree from the University of Minnesota. From 1922 to 1925, and from 1927 to the present, he was at North Carolina State College, as instructor, assistant professor, associate professor, and professor of Sociology. He is engaged this year by the Institute of Social and Religious Research for a year's work in China. He taught in the New York State Summer Session at Cornell University during 1930.

Dr. George A. Knaysi has been promoted from instructor to assistant professor of Bacteriology in the Department of Dairy Industry, and assistant bacteriologist of the Experiment Station.

Dr. A. L. Winsor becomes assistant of Rural Education.

SIGMA DELTA CHI, professional journalistic fraternity, has elected to membership the following men: DeWitt C. Seward, Jr., '32, New Paltz, John B. Tuthill '32, Kirkwood, Robert E. Stevens '32, Corfu, Cyrus E. Brush '32, Haffey, Pa., Henry S. Reuss '33, Milwaukee, Wis., John P. Nell '33, Rochester, Paul N. Lazarus '33, Brooklyn, Calvert C. Canfield, Jr. '33, East Cleveland, Ohio, Raymond B. Redfield '33, Ithaca, and Alfred C. Witteborg, Jr. '33, Green Bay, Wis.

THE ALUMNAE Association of the College of Home Economics has made available for the use of students faced with unexpected financial problems a fund of $100. The fund will be available each year.

THE CLUBS

ELMIRA

The Club held a reorganization meeting at the Elmira Country Club on May 19. Jervis Langdon '97 as president presided, and William B. Flannery '12, chairman of a special committee on organization, introduced by-laws which were adopted unanimously. The gathering was in the form of a smoker, and visitors from Ithaca, all of whom made short talks, were Romeyn Berry '04, R. W. Sailor '07, Louis C. Boochever '12, and Foster M. Coffin '12.

WINS CLUB TROPHY

The Utica Free Academy won the annual interscholastic track and field meet in Utica on May 16, and with it the trophy of the Cornell Club of the Mohawk Valley. Fifteen schools competed, coming to Utica from as far as Endicott and Watertown. At the close of the meet the award was made by Bradley Fuller '97, former president of the Club.

HONOR DR. FRANK H. MILLER, RETIRING TRUSTEE, AT DINNER

A complimentary dinner in honor of Dr. Frank H. Miller of New York, retiring as trustee of Cornell University after 20 years of service, was held June 5 at Willard Straight Hall. Dr. Simon H. Gage '77, a member of the original State Veterinary College faculty, presided.

The dinner was attended by President Livingston Farrand and other members of the Board of Trustees, and the Veterinary College faculty and their wives. Mrs. Miller also was present.

Speaking on behalf of the University, President Farrand sketched the steady growth the College of Veterinary Medicine has made and indicated its role as an integral part of the University. He touched on Dr. Miller's contributions to this growth and on his fidelity to his duties as a trustee. In closing, he presented Dr. Miller an illuminated scroll signed by colleagues expressing appreciation of his services.

Other speakers on the program were Howard E. Babcock, who represented the trustees, and Dr. Denny H. Udall '01, who spoke in behalf of the Veterinary College faculty.

In responding to the speeches, Dr. Miller spoke feelingly of the pleasure he has derived from his associations with members of the Board of Trustees and with the Veterinary College faculty and declared his faith in the things Cornell University represents.

Dr. Miller is a practicing veterinarian in New York City.

New Council Head

Paul A. Schoellkopf '06 succeeds Jervis Langdon '97 as President—Hold Annual Meeting

At the annual meeting of the Cornellian Council held in Morrill Hall Saturday morning, June 13, the following officers were elected: President, Paul A. Schoellkopf '06 of Niagara Falls, N. Y.; vice-presidents, Maxwell M. Upson '99 of Baltimore, Md.; Edward E. Soule '88 of New Orleans, La.; Allen C. Balch '89 of Los Angeles, Calif.; William G. Strong '94 of Waukegan, Ill.; The executive committee: J. DuPratt White '90 of New York, Robert T. Mickle '92 of Philadelphia, Jervis Langdon '97 of Elmira, Maxwell M. Upson '99 of Baltimore, Walter C. Teagle '00 of New York, Floyd L. Carlisle '03 of New York, Neal D. Becker '05 of New York, Robert E. Treman '09 of Ithaca, Andrew J. Whinery '10 of East Orange, N. J., and Paul A. Schoellkopf '06 of Niagara Falls, ex-officio.

Mr. Schoellkopf, the president-elect, who has served before on the executive committee and as a vice-president, is president of the Niagara Falls Power Company, chairman of the board of the Power City Bank, general manager of the Canadian Niagara Power Company, director of the Shredded Wheat Corporation, the Empire Builders Supply Company, the Reed-Coddington Engineering Company, and is connected with many other important concerns.

He is a member of Zeta Psi Fraternity and the Cornell Club of New York as well as of many other clubs and organizations. He has been actively interested in Cornell affairs for years and particularly in the work of the Cornellian Council.

The meeting was directed by the retiring president, Jervis Langdon of Elmira, who has held office for three years. Just before adjournment a resolution for a standing vote of thanks and gratitude to him for the accomplishments of the council under his administration was offered by Mr. Schoellkopf and passed with acclamation.

Routine business was transacted and reports on the work of the past year were given.

The following alumni attended the meeting:

Jervis Langdon '97, Elmira; Leon Stern, '89, Rochester; Frank O. Affeld, Jr., '97, New York City; Robert T. Mickle '92, Philadelphia; Lewis Gulick '05, Buffalo; Paul A. Schoellkopf '06, Niagara Falls; Harvey J. Couch '01, Odessa; L. C. Boochever '12, Ithaca; Christopher W. Wilson, Jr., '00, Brooklyn; Merritt E. Haviland '77, New York City; Harry Clarke '95, Syracuse; Frederick J. Whiton '79, New York City; Mrs. Leonard C. Urquhart (Jane D. McKelway) '13, Ithaca; Mrs. Bessie DeWitt Beahan '78, Cleveland; Mrs. R. W. Sailor (Queenie N. Horton) '09, Ithaca; David Darrin '01, Brooklyn; Mrs. F. A. Weisenbach (Clara O. Koeller) '09, Philadelphia; Elam Anderson '17, China; Henry P. DuBois '06, New York City; Robert J. Eidlitz '85, New York; George P. Flint '23, Great Neck; Walter A. Bridgeman '13, Owego; Chester T. Reed '03, Worcester; Mrs. Sara Bailey Sailor '09, Ithaca; Harold Flack '12, Ithaca; Paul Lesch '06, Washington; George H. Young '00, Binghamton; Lynn H. Keeler '02, Auburn, George W. Graham '76, Chicago; Dorothy Delany '23, Ithaca.

SIXTY-SEVEN GIVEN DEGREES

AT MEDICAL COMMENCEMENT

President Farrand conferred the degree of Doctor of Medicine upon sixty-seven candidates, among whom were nine young women, at the Medical College Commencement in New York on June 11. He also administered the Hippocratic oath, which has been a customary procedure in the profession, he said, following its institution more than 2,000 years ago, and through which the graduates asserted their loyalty to the fellow members of the medical profession.

The following awards were presented by Dr. G. Canby Robinson, director of the medical school:

The John Metcalf Polk Memorial Prizes—For the highest standing, first, $300, to Alfred Lillienfeld; second, $125, to Herbert M. Williams; third, $75, to Thomas H. Ham. For efficiency in Otolology, first, $50, to Vernon O. Stahl; second, $25, to Eugene M. Katzin.

The William M. Polk Memorial Prizes in Gynecology—First, $125, to Leonard Druckerman; second, $75, to Vernon O. Stahl; third, $50, to Lyman R. Fisher; honorable mention, Ira H. Degenhardt.

The Gustav Seeligman Prizes in Obstetrics—First, $75, to Eugene W. Green; second, $25, to Francis L. Carroll.

The Alfred Moritz Michaelis Prizes—For Efficiency in General Medicine, $50, to Thomas H. Ham; for Efficiency in Neurology, $50, to Charles M. Brane.

The honor roll comprised the following students: Alfred Lillienfeld, Herbert M. Williams, Thomas H. Ham, Eugene M. Katzin, Hyman Levy and William Seldeen.

The presentation of the Manual of Surgical Anatomy was made to Vernon O. Stahl on behalf of the Surgeon General of the army by Major Thomas G. Trousey of the Medical Corps, who also presented commissions as first lieutenants to ten members of the class.

Dr. Max Mason, president of the Rockefeller Foundation, delivered the address. It was the 33rd Commencement of the College.

Alumni Trustees Elected

Election of Frank E. Gannett '98 and Robert E. Treman '09 Officially Reported at Corporation Meeting

Baker Laboratory was crowded Saturday morning with gaily costumed alumni who for a few moments paused in their celebrations of reunion week to hear the ever-welcome annual "confidential" message of President Livingston Farrand.

Prior to his address, announcement had been made of the election of Frank E. Gannett '98 of Rochester and Robert E. Treman '09 of Ithaca as alumni trustees of the University. Chester T. Reed '03, as chairman of the ballot committee, read the results of the balloting. William W. Macon '98, president of the Alumni Corporation, presided at the meeting.

Gannett, this year completed his first term of five years. Treman, the son of Robert H. Treman '78, fills the vacancy caused by the board's election of Ezra B. Whitman '01, who formerly held office as alumni trustee and who now has taken office as a member elected by the board itself.

This is the first time in the history of the board that a father and son have both been alumni trustees. Robert H. Treman '78, "R. E.'s" father, who is completing his fortieth year on the board, was first elected as alumni trustee though now holding office as a coöptive member.

The total number of legal votes cast was 7,382, of which 7,207 were for Treman and 7,151 for Gannett. Scattered votes for independent candidates numbered 52, and votes cast because of unsigned ballots, failure to place a mark in front of the candidates' names, mutilation, or other causes, totaled 146.

PROFESSOR PAUL J. WEAVER, head of the Department of Music, sailed for Europe last week to attend the Anglo-American music conference at Luzerne, Switzerland, early in August. Professor Weaver is chairman of the American organization, of which Professor John Erskine of the Juillard School of Music is president.

MILES R. STEVENS '32, Lakewood, Ohio, was elected president of Willard Straight Hall for next year at a meeting of the Board of Managers May 27. He succeeds John P. McGinn '31, Sioux City, Iowa. Charlotte A. Dowrie '33, Brooklyn, was elected secretary to succeed Edith M. Macon '31, Brooklyn.

IN The Saturday Evening Post for April 18 and 25 Kenneth Roberts '08 has an article on "The Half-Baked Palace." In the issue for May 2 he has an article on "The Scenery Wreckers." In the issue for May 9 William Hazlett Upson '14 writes a story on "Divine Curiosity."

THE ALUMNI FUND A FINE

ACCOMPLISHMENT

THE ALUMNI FUND of Cornell University has achieved distinction in the twenty-odd years of its existence. It has again the largest number of contributors of the alumni funds of the country. Only among the closely knit alumni of the smaller colleges is it possible to find alumni funds with larger percentages of subscribers.

If times are hard it is, nevertheless, often possible to dig up funds for a subscription to a project that satisfies one's pride and sentimental interest. This fund has done much for the University. Noteworthy primarily for the number of subscribers, the aggregate of the gifts is also great. It has helped the University over many a bump and has averted many a catastrophe that has never, for that reason, appeared as news.

The fiscal year ends June 30, for the Cornellian Council as for the University. The showing, as well as the usefulness, of both will depend in no small measure on the number of subscriptions, and thus the total sum of cash, that are paid before the period closes.

Though times are hard, every Cornellian will hope to pay his subscription. A subscription paid in July or August will be welcome, but if paid in June it will accomplish a triple purpose.

FIFTEEN CLUBS REPRESENTED

AT WOMENS MEETING

The annual meeting of the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs was held in the organization room of Risley Hall on Friday, June 12. Mrs. R. W. Sailor (Queenie N. Horton) '09, the president, was in the chair.

Fifteen clubs were represented by a total of about 200 women.

Routine committee reports were given and two officers elected for 1931-32—Mrs. Albert H. Emery (Julia McClune) '04 (reelected) of Glenbrook, Conn., and Miss Caroll Griminger '24, of Rochester.

Dr. Mary M. Crawford '04 of New York City, alumni trustee, gave a brief informal talk. Miss R. Louise Fitch, dean of women, made two reports concerning the Dearstynne Fund and the Association to Aid Scientific Research among Women.

Mrs. Bessie DeWitt Beahah '78 of Cleveland, gave the report for the publicity committee. Definite plans were then presented for getting Cornell publicity before the preparatory schools.

The Cornell Women's Club of Ithaca offered a resolution in recognition of the great loss to Cornell women in the death of Anna Botsford Comstock '85. This resolution was read by Mrs. Grace E. Griswold '97 and was embodied in the minutes of the meeting.

The formal meeting was followed by a buffet supper on the lawn behind Risley Hall, as is the annual custom.

The resolution on the death of Mrs. Comstock follows:

The Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs cannot meet at this time without some recognition of its great loss in the death of Mrs. Anna Botsford Comstock.

From the birth of the present Federation and throughout the whole life of that earlier organization, the "Associate Alumnae of Cornell University," of which this Federation is an outgrowth, she had been to us a leader. Looking over our records, we find her name constantly appearing. At the very first meeting, held in Barnes Hall on June 14, 1893, she was made a member of a newly formed committee to "work for a woman on the faculty." At our second meeting, in 1894, the president being absent, Mrs. Comstock presided in her place and vigorously refuted the false impression that co-education is a failure at Cornell. In June, 1895, she was elected president of the Associate Alumnae, and held this office for two years. Greatly interested in establishing an alumnae scholarship, she for several years served as chairman of the committee which created it. When it was decided that there should be a testimonial to Mr. Henry W. Sage in recognition of what he had done for women at Cornell, Mrs. Comstock was made chairman of the committee, was the leading author of the memorial, and made the presentation speech when the beautifully bound volume was presented to Mr. Sage. In June, 1899, at our first alumnae luncheon, Mrs. Comstock acted as toastmistress. For years she had had charge of the Dearstynne Loan Fund, and, in spite of ill health, she attended the Federation meeting last June to make her report on this fund. In 1922 she was our candidate for alumnae trustee, losing the election by only about 100 votes.

But all this service to us has been but an incident in her career. Her services as a teacher, as an author, and as an artist are known to us all. We all know, too, the hospitality of the Comstock home, for we have ourselves been its guests. Keenly though we feel her loss, our personal grief at her passing is only a part of the larger grief we share with the whole country. Her death is a public disaster. But we are deeply grateful for her long and useful life, a life lived so fully and so well.

FORMER STUDENTS HONOR

EMERITUS PROFESSOR BURR

Emeritus Professor George Lincoln Burr '81 was presented on June 13 a volume of twenty essays prepared in his honor by former students. The presentation was made by President Livingston Farrand in the south lounge of Willard Straight Hall. Many friends of Professor Burr were present at the ceremony.

Professor Burr's class is this year holding its fiftieth reunion. The volume commemorates his fifty years of distinguished service to the University as a scholar and as a teacher of Medieval History. It is offered "in grateful recognition of a debt, too great to be paid, which is felt by all the students who enjoyed the inestimable privilege of attending Professor Burr's classes, and as a mark of esteem for his incomparable services to American historical scholarship."

Professor Burr's life as a scholar has been largely devoted to such subjects as the witchcraft delusion, religious persecution, and the rise of religious toleration. Upon these matters and all subjects connected with them he has long been recognized, both in Europe and America, as the greatest living authority. Because of his continued interest in the methods of historical study and of historiography Professor Burr's influence extended to many students whose specialties were far removed from his own chief interest.

The commemorative volume reflects in a considerable measure the subjects of Professor Burr's teaching. About half of them deal with some aspect of the history of heresy, witchcraft, persecution, or toleration, and several with other aspects of the struggle for liberty. For this reason the book has been entitled "Persecution and Liberty." Three deal with the French Revolution and one discusses a phase of the abolition of the slave trade in America. One has to do with the sources of Hebrew history and two with paleographical subjects. The volume includes also an introduction by Dr. Franklin Jameson.

The results of the Poughkeepsie races are given on the cover. Details will be given in next week's issue.

THE WEEK ON THE CAMPUS

THE BOYS AND GIRLS have been examined, their brains have been graded, their knowledge and achievement have been recorded as A, B, C, D, E, or F. Having discovered so much about them, we have nodded to them to begone; and one by one they have disappeared over the hill, bound for home, for summer jobs, for summer study, or for the mere acquisition of sun-tan, the new gymnosophy. The alumni have spotted the Campus scene with cherry red and white for a day or two, and have vanished to resume their sober, well-cut business suits. They had a fine time while they were here; the setting was propitious for sentiment or gayety. There is some story about a fight with beefsteaks . . . 900 baccalaureate and advanced degrees were conferred; the recipients have paid their farewell calls and vanished into what we term the Outside World. You might say that one of the things you learn at college is to distinguish between the Inside and the Outside World.

THE ART GALLERY is showing an exhibition of the work of various Faculty members in various mediums. The sculpture of Professor Harry C. Camden is being displayed for the first time. The exhibit includes also paintings by Professors Olaf M. Brauner, Christian M. S. Midjo, Walter King Stone, Kenneth L. Washburn, Walter C. Baker, and Clara L. Garrett. '08

PROFESSOR EMERITUS George Lincoln Burr '81 was presented with a volume of historical essays by his former students, during the fiftieth anniversary ceremonies of his class. The book is entitled "Persecution and Liberty;" most of the essays deal with some aspect of the history of heresy, witchcraft, persecution, or toleration. The volume contains an introduction by Dr. Franklin Jameson. President Farrand formally presented the book to Professor Burr, mentioning the fitness of the tribute to one whose animating purpose for more than fifty years has been the fight against persecution, the fight for liberty. Professor Burr replied, on the theme of Persecution and Liberty, with that lyric Shelleyan ardor which is utterly his own—and which we miss so grievously! "Liberty," he proclaimed, "Liberty is no negative thing; it is the career of a free man."

A PORTRAIT of Dr. Abram T. Kerr '95, professor of anatomy in the Medical College, was presented to the University by his friends and old students on June 9. Dr. Kerr has completed 31 years of service to the University. The portrait was painted by Professor Olaf M. Brauner of the College of Architecture.

PROFESSOR WALTER F. WILLCOX of the Department of Economics has retired after forty years' service. He has worthily fulfilled the ambition of most teachers; he has been able to apply the results of his study and research to the needs and perplexities of the active world. The new reapportionment of the House of Representatives rests in large part on Professor Willcox's studies. Senator Vandenberg of Michigan speaks of this work as "a crowning achievement in his notable career. The importance of Dr. Willcox's contribution cannot be overstated." Professor Willcox began his census work in 1899 as chief statistician of the United States Census. He has ever since been a special consultant of the government on statistical matters. He is a former president of the American Statistical Association; he has written widely on economics and statistics, and is now engaged on a monograph on the vital statistics of the United States.

THE COMMUNITY was shocked to hear that Professor Howard J. Milks '04, of the Veterinary College, was seriously injured in an automobile accident in Utica. A car in which he was riding skidded on the car tracks; Dr. Milks, his wife, and Mrs. Margaret Vose of Auburn all suffered concussion of the brain. Their condition was still serious, at last reports.

NEWSY NOTES by our world-wide staff of correspondents, whose only thought is their duty to their public! Professor Harry H. Love Ph.D. '09 of the Department of Plant Breeding, is carrying on some important work in plant breeding in China. He began the work in 1925; he returns there this Spring to find that the seed he sowed has yielded mighty crops, so to speak. He has been received on his return there with traditional Oriental honor. The Minister of Industries, Mr. H. H. Kung, is planning to start an agricultural experiment station and to make Professor Love the chief technical expert. Meanwhile Mrs. Love has been asked to teach English to some army officers who are coming on a mission to the United States, and Miss Elizabeth Love, '32 harpist, has taken part in a concert at Ginling College * * * Miles G. Northrop '22 of the Department of Electrical Engineering helped to save four members of the University of Pennsylvania baseball team from drowning in Cayuga Lake * * * Foster M. Coffin '12 and Mrs. Coffin (Carolyn Slater) '23 are to conduct a party of girls through Europe this summer * * * George S. Tarbell, Jr. '26 has been appointed U. S. Assistant Attorney for the New York City district.

THE WEDDING of Miss Helen Conway Lovelock of Forest Hills and William J. Waters '27, an editor of the Cornell Alumni News and the Ithaca Journal-News, took place in Forest Hills on June 6.

PHILIP K. KNAPP came here from Syracuse in the fall of 1921, and entered the College of Mechanical Engineering. One night in January, 1922 he left his rooming house at 101 Quarry Street and failed to return. The University authorities and the police hunted him far and wide; he turned up at his home after a week, having been touring New York State on a motor cycle. He next appeared in the news as the suspect in the case of a murdered taxi-driver; the crime was unusually callous and senseless. That was in 1925; now he has been caught, living respectably in West Orange, N. J. He has confessed to the murder. Some of you may be moved by the thought that you have sat and worked beside a destined murderer. But in spite of the glamor with which the papers invest him, he seems to have been no diabolic genius, seeking a super-thrill; he seems rather a weak-witted young man, who couldn't do his work nor face his first-term examinations. We would put in a plea of insanity. Anyone who would take a trip around New York State on a motor cycle in January!

TWO FRATERNITIES have suffered from the universal fraternity habit of leaving their doors permanently unlocked. Someone frisked the clothes and bureau drawers of the Kappa Delta Rho house at 306 Highland Avenue and got about $140. The Alpha Gamma Rho house at 203 Highland Ave. suffered similarly on the night of the Navy Ball. About $74 were taken. In each case the janitor heard footsteps in the small hours, and in each case attributed the noises to someone who had spent the night bent over his books. The trouble seems to be that the fraternities are run like hotels without a night clerk.

THE BODY of George Washington, the janitor of Tau Epsilon Phi, has been recovered from the Inlet. Thus the questions as to his disappearance have been tragically settled.

THE ONE BRIGHT SPOT of the examination period: the examination in French read, in part: "la reine parla à sa première fille d'honneur." A charming girl, after some apparent struggle, wrote: "The queen spoke to her first legitimate daughter."

THE UNSEEN

C O U R I E R S

OF THE SPOKEN WORD

THE FAMILIAR TELEPHONE that stands upon your desk at the office or in your home is only a very small part of the great communication system that enables you to talk across the miles with such surprising ease.

Behind it are complicated exchanges, a carefully trained organization of more than four hundred thousand men and women and eighty million miles of wire. These are the forces that make efficient telephone service possible. These are the unseen couriers of the spoken word.

Tirelessly, day or night, without rest or sleep, the Bell System awaits but the lifting of the receiver to carry your voice to any one of thirty-two million other telephone users in this country and abroad, and on ships at sea. It is done so quickly and with so little trouble that few people stop to consider what goes on between the giving of the number and the completion of the call.

Some time every day—perhaps many times a day—you use some part of a telephone system that has taken fifty years and more than four thousand million dollars to build.

The simple words “long distance,” which you speak so casually into your telephone, place millions of dollars of equipment at your disposal. Yet the cost of a call from New York to Chicago is only three dollars and but a fraction of that for lesser distances.

Equipment of comparable cost is also needed to connect your home with the thousands or hundreds of thousands of other telephones in your town or city. Yet the charge for local service is only a few cents a day.

In relation to service rendered, the cost of the telephone is one of the smallest items in the monthly business and family budget. Few things purchased are of such real, constant and increasing value.
