UNIVERSITY ORGANIZES WAR PROGRAM

Impact of the war on the University took form when a special meeting of the University Faculty January 6 voted to shorten the year, advancing Commencement three weeks to May 25. Spring recess was eliminated, and first-term examinations will begin January 26, second-term classes starting February 2 and continuing to May 16.

Reunions, Athletics Continue

Alumni Reunions, according to present plans, will probably be held the week end of Commencement, May 25. It is likely that they will attract mainly the older Classes, but all alumni will be invited to visit the Campus at that time. Further plans will be made at a meeting of the Association of Class Secretaries in New York City February 14.

At meetings of athletic directors in New York City last week, it was agreed that Eastern colleges and universities would continue intercollegiate athletics. Schedules are being rearranged somewhat because of earlier closing dates, and Cornell will have two baseball games the week after its Commencement, the Athletic Office says.

To Offer Summer Courses

The Faculty voted to offer summer classes at the University in three units, May 25 to June 27, June 29 to August 8, and August 10 to September 12. Instruction to be offered was left to decision of the separate Colleges, but it was agreed that the Colleges may admit new students to a Freshman program in the summer on their principals' reports, a school statement of expected graduation before July 1, and on results of scholastic aptitude and achievement tests to be given by the College Entrance Examination Board April 11. Such Freshmen would enter the University for the second summer unit beginning June 29.

Students in Arts and Sciences, Agriculture, and Home Economics when they register for the second term January 19-24, will be asked if they wish to attend summer classes, whether for five, six, eleven, or sixteen weeks, and what courses they will require. From this information, the Summer Session board will later announce what courses will be given.

The Law School announced January 9 that students may now enter in February, June, or September and by taking courses continuously, receive the LLB two years later. The change was announced three days after the New York Court of Appeals had ruled that during the emergency a year of law at a full-time school shall consist of thirty instead of thirty-two weeks of instruction. The change was proposed by the State Conference on Legal Education. Dean Robert S. Stevens points out that "These steps have greater significance in view of the change of entrance requirements, effective in September, 1941, making students eligible for admission after they have satisfactorily completed three-fourths of the work for the AB or BS degrees at an approved college." Students in Arts and Sciences can now obtain both the LLB and the AB in five years instead of six as formerly, or in shorter time if they attend two Arts College summer sessions.

Improve Physical Fitness

The University has already begun a comprehensive program offered to all male students to improve their physical fitness, both for future military service and for civilian defense. During Christmas recess, a committee headed by Robert J. Kane '34, Assistant Director of Physical Education and Athletics, organized mass calisthenics to be given every afternoon in forty-five-minute periods in Barton Hall, classes in first aid, and special classes and facilities to be offered by the coaches in all sports, together with enlarged opportunity for intramural athletics. In addition, the committee prepared and has distributed a leaflet of suggestions including calisthenics to be done at home, outdoor exercise, and health and diet. Registration January 9 for the Barton Hall calisthenics, to be conducted by Trainer Frank Kavanagh, brought enrolment of some 250 undergraduates, and the first class was January 12. Senior societies and other undergraduate organizations have endorsed the program and agreed to take part. At the Faculty meeting January 6, a resolution making a program of physical fitness compulsory for all male students beginning the second term was referred to the committee on University policy for investigation and report at a special meeting of the Faculty January 20.

Committee Coordinates Activities

Endorsing the importance of improving physical fitness, Professor A. Wright Gibson '17, chairman of the University committee on student counselling for national defense, pointed out that "The first concern of every student should be his regular studies. . . . Each Cornell student will have to make his own decision as to war service, but the word of military and educational authorities is that the college course should not be interrupted until a definite call comes for services that the student is especially qualified to render. Cornellians will have opportunity, while carrying on their regular studies, to take part in an all-University program sponsored by the committee and planned to contribute directly to the country's war strength."

Offer Training Courses

This program included listing of all regular credit courses which bear directly on the war effort, for guidance of students arranging their second-term schedules. Some additional courses are being announced, such as a new one in Mathematics dealing with spherical trigonometry and map projects to give students knowledge of navigation. A number of extra-curricular, non-credit courses are also being offered, including physical training, first aid, home nursing, optical testing, observing and charting aerial and land objects, aerial and marine navigation, grinding and testing optical lenses, practical applications of electricity, household mechanics, motor boat patrols, and preparation for outdoor living.

Discuss War's Effects

As a further part of the University's war program, lectures, forums, and discussion groups of undergraduates and Faculty are being announced to promote understanding of national and world developments. Willard Straight Hall, the International Relations Club, and the Cornell Daily Sun sponsor a series of weekly discussions to be held Monday evenings on war developments under the general topic, "Where Do We Stand Now?" The first, on "Price Control in War Time," was January 12 with Professor Helen Canon, PhD '30, Home Economics; Dr. George P. Adams, Jr., Economics; Corwin D. Edwards, PhD '28, chief economist for the anti-trust division US Department of Justice; Dr. S. M. Whitney, economist recently in Japan; and Alumni Trustee Tell Berna '12.

University lecture committee has arranged for the second term a series of six lectures by members of the Faculty on the general subject of the impact of the war on America. First of these will be February 16 by Professor Robert E. Cushman, Government, on "The War and the Constitution." Professor Royal E. Montgomery, Economics, speaks February 26 on "Labor in the War." March 5, Professor Cornelius W. DeKieweit, History, discusses "The Relations of the United States and the British Empire." Professor

EXPERTS MANAGE CORNELL'S ENDOWMENT

Trustee Committee Keeps Investments Productive

Cornell's productive funds, composed largely of endowments established by numerous donors during more than seventy years, now total $33,871,539, according to the recently published Treasurer's Report for 1940-41. After provision for reserves and other adjustments, the net income from the endowment in the fiscal year ending June 30 was $1,282,214.

Almost none of this income is used for support of the State Colleges of Agriculture, Home Economics, and Veterinary. These are largely financed by direct State appropriations and by Federal grants which come to the University as the New York State land-grant institution. Of last year's total income for the State colleges — $4,274,962 — more than 65 per cent came from the State of New York.

Endowment income is very important, however, in financing the other divisions of the University. In 1940-41 it provided approximately 37 per cent of the funds for operating the Medical College in New York, 23 per cent of the funds to operate the endowed Colleges in Ithaca, including general University services such as central administration and the University Library, and a large proportion of the funds available for student aid. The remainder of the total incomes of $2,957,431 for the endowed Colleges in Ithaca and $1,136,616 for the Medical College came from student tuition and fees, gifts for current use totalling $450,214, and minor amounts from miscellaneous sources.

Since income from endowment is so vital to the successful operation of the endowed Colleges and the overall administration of the University, the management of Cornell's investments is one of the most important responsibilities of the Board of Trustees. It is a large-scale enterprise, calling for constant and expert supervision and attention.

Turnover of securities now amounts to more than $10,000,000 a year, or approximately 40 per cent of the entire marketable list of securities, excluding such investments as real estate and mortgages. This rapid turnover, reflecting the severe dislocations in the investment field in the last few years, has been accentuated by large-scale transactions in US Government bonds and the refunding of high-yielding corporate securities. The present condition contrasts sharply with the situation in former more stable years, when the investment committee would meet only when cash was available for investment. In those days the University usually kept an issue in its portfolio until it was redeemed.

The finance committee of the Board of Trustees, in making decisions concerning investments, must constantly work with two objectives in mind: first, to safeguard the principal, since the University is acting as trustee for funds given it for educational purposes; and second, to obtain the largest reasonable annual income, because the University has in its budget a very high percentage of fixed charges, such as Faculty salaries, wages and upkeep of property.

Success in conserving principal is indicated by the fact that on June 30, 1941, the depreciation, after reserves, on the total of $33,871,539 book value of investments was about 12 per cent.

CHART I—TREND OF THE UNIVERSITY'S INVESTMENTS

Character of investments has changed significantly since 1900, as shown by selection of certain years and projection of the trend lines, above. In 1900, virtually all the University's endowment funds were invested in bonds and mortgages. Preferred stocks began to assume importance about 1917, and common stocks in the middle '20s. The small increase in real estate holdings accompanied by decrease in mortgages beginning in 1936 are explained by the fact that it was necessary to foreclose many mortgages and transfer the investments to the real estate account.

In other words, the market value of Cornell's securities was approximately 88 per cent of actual cost or book value. One might say that this depreciation has in part been the cost to date of all the business depressions since the beginning of the endowment in the 1860's. The percentage is so small, however, that the depreciation could easily be wiped out by any reasonable improvements in market values. During the brief market rise in 1937, for example, the market value of securities for a time exceeded the book value.

Although there is a constant weeding out of weak securities and replacement with those of better grade and quality, the actual market value of individual securities at any particular time is less important than the continuous payment of interest and dividends at a reasonable rate. So long as interest and dividends continue without interruption, Cornell can afford, in most instances, to disregard short-term fluctuations in the market.

The fact that the largest possible annual return consistent with safety is so important to the successful operation of the University makes it imperative that the endowment funds be kept almost fully invested. This condition, coupled with the fact that Cornell is restrained, by provisions of the deeds of gift, from invading the principal of the endowment in times of crisis, might create a difficult situation during severe business depressions if new money for investment were not available. Advantageous purchases of securities during short-term market fluctuations are made possible by funds derived from matured obligations and from the continuous flow of donations to the endowment.

As of June 30, 1941, Cornell's investments were divided approximately as follows: bonds, 29 per cent; mortgages, 6 per cent; real estate, 7 per cent; preferred stocks, 19 per cent; common stocks, 36 per cent; and other miscellaneous investments, 3 per cent. The portfolio is at all times kept highly diversified, and, with few exceptions, no single investment totals more than one-half of one per cent of the entire investment account.

Portfolio Diversified

Largest holdings, as a group, on June 30 were public utility bonds and stocks, which approximated 16 per cent of all investments. Real estate and mortgages were second at 13 per cent, and railroads third at 12 per cent. Many of the railroad securities were purchased years ago, and there has been a steady reduction in these holdings for some time. The present 12 per cent is a reduction from 17¾ per cent in 1938, a decrease of more than $2,000,000. Other groups of holdings totalling between 8 and 4 per cent included oils, banking and finance, Government and municipals, chemicals, and foods. In the last several years there has been an increase in the proportion of securities of chemicals, oils, food, and stores (chain and mail order). Of common stocks the largest holdings on the basis of book values are, in order, oils, railroads, banks and fire insurance stocks; on the basis of market values, fire insurance stocks, oils, chemicals, and public utilities.

Charts II and III show return on investments and the amount of endowment.

Endowment Increase Important

Gifts totalling $1,485,711 were added to the endowment in 1940-41, and in the same fiscal year the rate of return increased from 4.077 to 4.244 per cent, while depreciation of book values decreased from 16 to 12 per cent. It is evident that the present sound financial condition of the University reflects successful management of the endowment funds and that continued progress will depend, to a significant degree, both on the rate of return which the finance committee can manage with safety and on regular continued increase of the endowment fund itself.

The Board of Trustees committee on finance is now composed of Stanton Griffis '10, chairman, Roger H. Williams

'95, vice-chairman, Howard Edward Babcock, President Edmund E. Day, Floyd L. Carlisle '03, Walter S. Carpenter, Jr. '10, John L. Collyer '17, Frank H. Hiscock '75, Nicholas H. Noyes '06, Walter C. Teagle '99, and Maxwell M. Upson '99. The committee is assisted by University Treasurer George F. Rogalsky '07, Assistant Treasurer Lewis H. Durland '30, who acts as secretary of the committee and handles transactions in stocks and bonds, and Assistant Treasurer James E. Matthews '17, who, as part of his duties, handles real estate and mortgages.

DEAN NILES '00 DIES

Dr. Walter L. Niles '00, for thirty-eight years a member of the Faculty of the Medical College in New York, died suddenly December 22 at his home, 133 East Sixty-fourth Street, New York City. Acting Dean and Dean of the College from 1918-28, he was recalled as Acting Dean last fall during illness of Dean William S. Ladd. He was also a member of the joint administrative board of the College and New York Hospital.

Dr. Niles entered Civil Engineering in 1896 from Norwich High School, and upon establishment of the Medical College in 1898 he enrolled in the Ithaca division, receiving the MD in New York in 1902. After internship at Bellevue Hospital, he entered practice in New York City in 1904, and the same year was appointed instructor in Medicine at the College. He became assistant professor of Clinical Medicine in 1912, professor in 1920. In 1921, as Dean, he established the model "pay clinic" at the College which treated more than 50,000 persons of moderate means in its first six months. He was consulting physician to Bellevue, Memorial, and the Southampton, Jamaica, and Nassau County hospitals, and to the New York Infirmary for Women and Children; member of many professional societies; and in 1936 was elected a trustee of the New York Academy of Medicine.

As an undergraduate, he sang bass with

CHART II—AVERAGE RATE OF RETURN ON INVESTMENTS

Not adjusted for intermediate fluctuations, the curve shows the general trend. From 1925 to 1935, the rate declined steadily from nearly 5½% to 4.076%. Since 1935, returns have fluctuated slightly above 4%, reaching 4.747 in 1936-37, sinking to 4.007 in 1938-39, and attaining 4.244 in 1940-41.

CHART III—AMOUNT OF ENDOWMENT FUNDS

Comparison with Chart II shows how financial distress was narrowly averted from 1930 to 1935 by continuance of gifts and bequests. Since 1935, the flow of gifts for endowment has been of major importance in improving the University's financial condition and consequently its educational service.

the Glee Club for three years and was chairman of the committee which published Songs of Cornell. He was a member of the Savage Club, Phi Alpha Sigma, Sphinx Head, and the Cornell Club of New York.

His son was the late John L. Niles '32.

WAR PROGRAM

Knight Biggerstaff, History, speaks March 11 on "The United States in the Far East." Professor Philip E. Mosely, History, speaks March 19 on "The United States and the Balance of Power in Continental Europe," and March 26 Professor Herbert W. Briggs, Government, will discuss "The United States and Post-war International Organizations." The University Press will publish these six lectures shortly after the series is concluded.

Although no census has been taken, it is thought that few undergraduates left for military service during Christmas recess. Professor Arthur S. Adams, Assistant Dean of Engineering and director of Engineering defense training courses, has announced, however, that 119 Juniors and Seniors of the College have applied for commissions as engineer officers in the Naval Reserve after graduation. During Christmas recess, the University defense committee sent information on a new program of the Naval Reserve for enrolling midshipmen for training and commissions later, to 1,000 Juniors and Seniors in Agriculture, Architecture, Arts and Sciences, and Hotel Administration. The Army Air Corps last week sent an examining board to interview applicants in Barton Hall, to form Cornell units of aviation cadets, and a Navy examining board is expected this month.

Considerable undergraduate discussion of plans for Junior Week has resulted in the Student Council reducing it from three days to two, February 6 and 7, at the end of the first week of the second term. Junior Prom in Barton Hall February 6 was approved, but with only one "big name" band instead of two and "without unnecessary expense." Ice carnival originally planned for February 5 was cancelled; the Interfraternity Council urged economy in houseparties; and these were approved by the WSGA Council for Cornell women for but two nights instead of three. The Musical Clubs will offer their Christmas recess show, "Red Rolling," in Bailey Hall before the Prom, and the Dramatic Club has announced William Saroyan's play, "Jim Dandy," for the Willard Straight Theater February 5, 6, and 7, before its New York opening.

ENEMY ALIENS living in Tompkins County had deposited with law enforcement officers one short wave radio, four guns, and eight cameras up to last week, following the President's order.

WIN LEAGUE STARTERS

With two victories on successive nights, the basketball team took first place in the Eastern Intercollegiate League last week end. Cornell defeated Harvard, 31-27, at Cambridge, Mass., Friday and Yale, 51-43, at New Haven, Conn., Saturday.

The victories were the first since early December when Cornell won from Alfred, 58-42, and Penn State, 28-25, in Barton Hall. Niagara handed the team its first defeat, 45-42, in Barton Hall December 17.

No games were won on the three-day holiday trip west. Toledo won, 52-31, at Toledo, Ohio, December 27; Wayne, 36-30, at Detroit, Mich., December 29; and Pittsburgh, 39-32, at Pittsburgh, Pa., December 30. Returning to Barton Hall the team lost to Syracuse, 46-28, January 5.

The two victories in League play gave Cornell a total record of four victories and five defeats.

Before the western trip the lineup was William D. Stewart, Jr. '43 and George W. Bouton '42, forwards; John F. Harper '43, center; and Captain Frank K. Burgess '42 and Samuel W. Hunter '43, guards. This combination was changed to send Bouton to center and bring Robert E. Gallagher '44 into the lineup at forward. Milton D. Coe '43 replaced Burgess at guard in the Harvard game, then went to forward in place of Gallagher in the Yale game, Bouton shifting to guard and Harper returning to center.

Stewart and Gallagher were the chief scorers on the western trip, and Stewart continued his streak with 11 points against Syracuse.

In the Harvard game, Cornell started slowly, trailing at one time 4-14 and then cutting the deficit to 5 points at the half, 14-19. Four minutes after the second half started, Cornell went into the lead for the first time, 22-21, and pulled away, holding Harvard to 8 points in the twenty minutes. Stewart and Bouton were top scorers with 8 points apiece.

The Yale game was a close battle the first half, with Cornell holding a one-point advantage, 26-25, at the intermission. Yale lost one of its better players with an injury shortly after the second half started, and Cornell quickly started for victory, with Stewart, Coe, and Hunter high Cornell scorers with 10 points each. Yale's Kearney, a forward, scored 18.

Only Junior Varsity contest of the last month saw the basketball team nose out Syracuse, 36-35, in Barton Hall December 17. Theodore G. Brown '43 of Manchester, Conn., a guard, was the team's high scorer with 9 points.

The Freshman basketball team won two games, one by one point, and lost one last week.

Cornell lost to the Ithaca College freshman team, 31-43, in Barton Hall January 5, then defeated Bucknell Junior College, 46-27, at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., last Friday and Penn State freshman, 32-31, at State College, Pa., last Saturday.

Richard K. Giles of Reading, Pa., and Maynard F. Lednum of Sayville were the leading scorers in the Ithaca College game.

WRESTLERS BEAT ARMY

The wrestling team, scoring two falls, defeated the US Military Academy, 19-9, in Barton Hall last Saturday.

Captain Joseph C. Littleton '42 of Corning opened the meet by throwing Huddleston with a double reverse bar in 3:37 in the 121-pound class. The Academy led, 6-5, on decisions to Fishel and Hertel over Robert L. Kenerson '44 of Ithaca and Richard R. Nickerson '43 of South Hadley, Mass., respectively, in the 128- and 136-pound divisions.

Cornell went ahead for good in the 145-pound bout as Erie J. Miller '44 of Ithaca scored a decision over Ingwerson.

Joseph S. Mount '42 of Ithaca threw Terry with a cruxifix hold in 3:45 in the 155-pound class.

Buckner of Army scored a decision over Robert L. Harris '42 of Watertown in the 165-pound class, but Cornell wound up the match with two more decisions. Fenton E. Brown '43 of Amsterdam defeated Blatt in the 175-pound class and Gordon H. Steele '45 of Cherokee, Iowa, won over Hennessee in the unlimited division.

Brown is a brother of Forbes H. Brown '42, the team's original captain this year who was inducted into the Army. Littleton was chosen to succeed him.

COLUMBIA SINKS SWIMMERS

The swimming team opened its season with a three-point loss to Columbia, 36-39, in New York City last Saturday, winning four of the nine events.

Top performer for Cornell was Harold H. Millar, Jr. '44 of Flushing, who won the 440-yard freestyle in 5:28.2 and was second in the 220-yard freestyle. Winner of the latter race in 2:26 was Warren H. Fisher '43 of Jackson Heights, who also placed third in the 100-yard freestyle. Frank Wheeler '43 of New York City won the 150-yard backstroke in 1:47.9.

The team of James F. Morgan, Jr. '43 of Honolulu, Hawaii, Douglas R. Calsetta '44 of New York City, Richard J. Huff '44 of Upper Darby, Pa., and Robert A. Moore '43 of Brooklyn won the 400-yard freestyle relay in 3:54. Wheeler, Morgan, and Huff made up the 300-yard medley relay team which placed second to Columbia.

Other point scorers for Cornell were William W. Paty, Jr. '42 of Honolulu, Hawaii, second in the 50-yard freestyle; George F. Critchlow '42 of Trenton, N. J., second in the 200-yard breaststroke; and John H. Eppler '43 of Baltimore, Md., third in diving.

OUTFENCE ST. LAWRENCE

The fencing team defeated St. Lawrence, a newcomer to the schedule, 18-4, in Barton Hall last Saturday. Only four, instead of the usual nine, epee matches were contested.

Rubin Clarvit '43 of New York City won three foils matches with the loss of only four touches, and John W. Tunnell '42 of Philadelphia, Pa., won three saber bouts.

HOCKEY TEAM STARTS

The hockey team reached the semifinals of the annual College Week invitation tournament at Lake Placid December 26-29, losing to Colgate, the eventual winner, and then defeating New Hampshire in the consolation round. The team opened with a 9-2 victory over Middlebury, lost to Colgate, 1-4, and took the New Hampshire game 8-5.

ALUMNI ENJOY GLEE CLUB
On Christmas Recess Tour

T. Crouse Barnum '42, manager of the Musical Clubs, and reports from the Cornell Clubs which sponsored performances of the Glee Club show, "Red Rolling," agree that this year's Christmas recess tour was eminently successful in spite of war conditions.

The road company for the five-day, five-show tour numbered fifty-three persons including undergraduate members of the Glee Club and their director, Eric Dudley; Alfred F. Sulla, Jr. '29 with his banjo; the Savage Club Quartet of Allan H. Treman '21, William B. Corcoran '23, C. Wesley Thomas '25, and Truman K. Powers '30; and comedians "Shilly and Shally" in the persons of Frederick M. Shelley III '42 and Robert C. Johnston '43. They pleased their audiences with ensemble singing and special numbers by these featured artists and by a Sophomore Quartet composed of Frank J. Haberl, Jr. of Phoenix, Ariz., George L. Landon of Ithaca, George M. Wilkins of Williams-ville, and Willis A. Wood of Binghamton.

First show was at Kleinhans Music Hall in Buffalo December 26, where attendance was reduced somewhat by announcement of the first test blackout that evening. Guest soloists here were Dorothy M. Cothran '43 of Gasport and Mary L. Klauder '43 of Niagara Falls. After the show, the visitors and guests were entertained with a dance arranged by the Cornell Club of Buffalo.

December 27, at a performance in the Palmer House ballroom sponsored by the Cornell Club of Chicago, Ill., Clark J. Lawrence '13 sang the "Alumni Song." Here, too, the Club gave a party following the show.

Sunday afternoon concert December 28 was arranged by the Cornell Club of Toledo, Ohio, in the Dorman Theater, and the Club was host for a buffet supper following.

Cornell Club of Pittsburgh, Pa., reports the best attended Glee Club concert ever held there, December 29 in Carnegie Music Hall. The show was stopped for encores numerous times. A Cornell Club dance followed at the University Club.

The tour ended with a successful performance and dance at the Hotel Cleveland, managed by the Cornell Club.

Ripley is also chairman of the board of the Cramp Shipbuilding Co., a director of United Airlines Transport Co. and West Virginia Paper & Pulp Co. As vice-president of the Investment Bankers Association of America, he has taken active part in organizing the Association's aggressive program of public information.

Entering Sibley College in 1908 from Oak Park, Ill., High School, he received the ME in 1912. As a Junior, he won first Sibley Prize for scholarship; was Senior manager of rowing, and was elected to Tau Beta Pi. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi and Sphinx Head.

OLIN HALL

TO THE EDITOR:

It is good to note that Berry has at last brought out in print the smoldering, yet vigorous, verbal argument about the "Campus-defacing" architecture of that munificent gift, Olin Hall.

I am willing to submit that the appellations that were attached to Sibley Dome, Rockefeller Hall, and Baker Lab were and are justified. They are erected. The storm that broke on Olin Hall occurred before it was erected. It became livid when the miniature design for the group was exhibited in Willard Straight. The writer's discussion with Dean Hollister along these lines is still quite fresh in mind.

If we are going in for the practicality alone of buildings (and I for one refuse to give up the inspiration breathed into me by Willard Straight and Taylor Hall each time I see them), then for the sake of those with good taste, build them apart from the heart of the Campus where loftiness of design had just started to evince itself in these very aforementioned buildings.

It is a virtual abortion to have made Olin Hall bear its present facade. Let's stop any more of this type of edifice in the heart of the Cornell Campus. Remember that students have been and still are inspired by exterior architectural beauty. By the same token, they can be depressed by the hard exterior of "factory wall practicality."

In publicising these reactions, let it be proclaimed that any architectural criticism of Olin Hall "annot in the slightest degree dim the significance of Mr. Olin's timely gift and what it means to Cornell University and its future. Every Cornellian thrills to it."—MARCEL K. SESSLER '13

BERRY RECALLS WIZARD

TO THE EDITOR:

Romeyn Berry's column, "Now In My Time!" causes me to recall a Sibley lecture by the great electrical engineer, Steinmetz, of the General Electric Co. In my Senior year, the great Steinmetz delivered a lecture to us embryo engineers on the rotary converter. On the long blackboard he rapidly chalked down a long series of equations, while spouting a steady stream of information about the workings of the rotary converter.

Perhaps few of us listeners understood what the little wizard said. Coming close to the end of his long series of equations, he suddenly jerked away from the blackboard as though some devil were grinning at him and mocking his mastery of mathematics. Quickly he scanned the lines of hieroglyphics, spotted the error (?) in the fifth (?) line, corrected it and followed through with concurrent corrections in the following lines, and triumphantly concluded the equations.

The speed and accurate aim with which he weeded out (one might almost say "blasted out") the faulty items, replaced them with orthodox ones, and arrived at the foreknown result, were bewildering to one already baffled at the very beginning; in race-track jargon, "left at the post." Although dazed during the entire lecture, I could not help wondering if the great Steinmetz were putting on a show for us upstart Sibleyites and seeking to impress us with his domination in the domain of mathematics.

CLUBS ENTERTAIN STUDENTS

Cornell Clubs report successful gatherings with undergraduates who were at home for the University's Christmas recess.

At the Montclair Golf Club December 22, forty members of the Cornell Club of Essex County, N. J., entertained as many students at a smoker. Wendell K. Webber '25, president of the Club, introduced Frank L. Sundstrom '24 who welcomed the guests, and Webber led singing with Dean H. Gallagher '21 and R. Thomas Cochrane '44 at the piano. Frederick M. Shelley III '42, president of the Dramatic Club, performed and football motion pictures were enjoyed.

Cornell Club of Pittsburgh, Pa., reports its most successful Christmas party, with thirty-nine undergraduates, twenty-five alumni, and nine prospective Freshmen at luncheon December 27 at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club. Fred W. Waterman, Jr. '24 was in charge of the program, which included a welcome by Darwin F. Carrell '23, informal stunts, stories, and singing of Cornell songs. The annual "turkey shoot" was won by Philip C. Collins '44, who accepted the twelve-pound turkey with the statement that he is in the Field Artillery of the ROTC and has registered for the advanced course.

Professor John R. Bangs, Jr. '21, Administrative Engineering, was the principal speaker at a luncheon of the Cornell Club of Syracuse December 27 at the University Club. Some twenty undergraduates were present with fifty alumni including Trustees Frank H. Hiscock '75 and Willis H. Carrier '01. Introduced by Club President Warren R. Bentley '26, Professor Bangs spoke on "Cornell's Part in the War." William D. Graham, Jr. '42, president of the Junior Cornell Club of Syracuse, was called upon, and at a brief business meeting the undergradu-

NOW, IN MY TIME!

By Romeyn Berry

All the warring nations are represented in the membership of the University.

What these boys think about—what hopes and hates consume their hearts—your reporter cannot tell you. Suffice it that there has come from this group of unhappy exiles no ungenerous act, no word of incivility.

Thailand sits across the aisle from Nippon in Mechanics 51; Free France and Vichy occupy adjacent stalls in the biological laboratory; Finland and Russia meet head on at the Library desk, presenting requisitions for the works of Hugo Grotius. Three weeks ago, all thronged Willard Straight Hall in the vacation that commemorates the advent of the Prince of Peace.

It's a matter, one suspects, of manners; of ancient disciplines that curb primitive instincts. The predominating emotion must be the desire to spring at some enemy throat and tear it out by hand. But it is the point that nothing happens; that an impersonal courtesy prevails. So overwhelming is the thousand-year-old tradition that pervades all universities that in universities alone can the hunters and the hunted meet in an academic Truce of God that for the moment conceals all outward evidences of hate.

All this, of course, is no new thing. It was in the universities of Europe—Bologna, Utrecht, Oxford, and the Sorbonne—that the germs of civilization and of learning were kept alive through the dark centuries when human life was all but wiped from the earth by wars and pestilence and famine. It was the universities that then became the little islands of refuge to which scholars might repair and ply their trade in reasonable safety when the rest of the world seemed to be breaking up into small fragments.

Europe has to keep one Switzerland and knows it. Nations giving their last ounce in the struggle for existence must keep their universities. They know it. Instinctively in all time, men have starved in the winter rather than consume the seed corn without which life could not start again when the spring came.

SIX PASS BAR EXAMS

Six graduates of the Law School passed the October examinations for admission to the New York State Bar. They are Joseph W. Cribb '37 of Canandaigua who received the LLB in 1940; and from last spring's graduating class, Moses L. Goldbas '39 of Utica, Gurson L. Schweller '39 of New York City, Frederick L. Turner '39 of Ithaca, and Ralph Leone and Donald S. Wilson of Brooklyn who entered Law from other universities.

COVER PICTURE

Olin Hall of Chemical Engineering, pictured on our cover this week, begins to assume its place as the newest Campus building. Contractors have now closed in the building, glass is in the windows, and most of the exterior work on the building itself is completed. During Christmas recess, the board fence which enclosed it during construction was removed, and work is proceeding on grading the site and on the interior walls and finishing.

NEW STAFF MEMBER

New assistant editor of the ALUMNI NEWS is Mrs. Nan W. Bruff (Nan Willson) '09, whose name appears in our "masthead" for the first time this issue. She takes the place of Marjorie G. Tillinghast '40, who was married December 27 to Stephen S. Jones '37 and now lives in Buffalo.

Mrs. Bruff takes over the writing of our department, "Concerning the Alumni," and relations with Class correspondents, news items about the Faculty, Necrology, proofreading, and general editorial assistance. She has lived in Ithaca most of her life and knows and is well known to many Cornellians. For several years she assisted the late Harold Flack '12 in the office of the Cornellian Council; later in the Alumni Office helped to prepare the 1938 Alumni Directory for publication. She is a member of Alpha Phi and was for four years secretary-treasurer of the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs. She is the mother of Betty R. Bruff '33 and Lawrence W. Bruff '38.

BUREAU SERVES EMPLOYERS

Service of the University Placement Bureau to employers is indicated in its current bulletin of "Registrants Available." Brief qualifications, experience, age, and minimum salary requirements are listed for business executive, research workers, engineers, and personnel and sales workers who are registered with the Bureau. These bulletins are sent periodically to employers who request them. Director Herbert H. Williams '25 at the Placement Bureau office in Willard Straight Hall, Ithaca, and Paul O. Reyneau '13 at the Cornell Club of New York exchange information on alumni registered with the Bureau, to serve the needs of employers seeking qualified persons.

ALUMNI DRIVE AMBULANCES

Professor Laurence Pumpelly, Romance Languages, has received word that five Cornellians have enlisted with the American Field Service as ambulance drivers with the British forces in the Middle East.

H. Gregory Wait '25 sailed from New York City December 1 with the first contingent of volunteers. With the second contingent to go are Melvin L. Adler '15, Robert G. Dean '25, Christopher Morley, Jr. '38, and Herman Tausig, Jr. '42.

American Field Service headquarters, 60 Beaver Street, New York City, has received notice since Pearl Harbor that the State Department has approved its continued operation, and that selective service boards will still defer volunteers for its service of one year abroad.

OFFICERS WIN PROMOTION

Newly-appointed colonels by the War Department are three officers formerly detailed to duty with the ROTC at Cornell. Colonels Charles S. Ferrin, Willis R. Slaughter, and John A. Stewart were in the first list of promotions from lieutenant colonels after the United States entered the war.

Colonel Ferrin was a major in charge of the Field Artillery unit here from 1932-35. He is now chief intelligence officer for the Department of Puerto Rico, stationed at San Juan.

Colonel Slaughter, likewise then a major, was Ordnance officer of the ROTC from 1938-40; since last April has been stationed in Washington, D.C.

Colonel Stewart, also now on duty in Washington, was detailed to the ROTC as a captain of Field Artillery for two years, 1930-32.

OLD-TIME MELODRAMA

Forty members of the Dramatic Club and their large and responsive audiences in the Willard Straight Theater enjoyed to the utmost the old-time melodrama, "Across the Continent," January 9 and 10. Staging, costumes, and gusto of actors and spectators were all in the tradition of this great moral drama of the '70s and '80s, which ended in a blaze of gunpowder as the US Cavalry arrived in the nick of time to kill off the Indians and save the beleaguered white folks.

Among the principals who made the most of their parts were John L. Holden '44 as the drunkard with delirium tremens, Gwen C. Schmidt '42 as his starving wife, Edward D. Eddy '44 as Johnnie O'Dwyer, Jean M. Saks '43 as "The Ferret," Frederick M. Shelley III '42 as "The Dude", Alvin S. Klein '42 as the old Negro servant, and Dorothy L. Dodds '42 as a young lady of quality. Direction was by Professor Alex. M. Drummond, and the scenery was by Joel Trapido '34.

Songs between the acts were borrowed "from the library of Mr. Frank Warren over on Canandaigua Lake," sung by the principals, and arranged and played by Maurice H. Dell '42.

The show goes on again January 16 and 17.

ON THE CAMPUS AND DOWN THE HILL

STUDENT REACTIONS toward war since the attack on Pearl Harbor were collected before Christmas recess. Professor Leonard S. Cottrell, Sociology, and Dr. Ralph K. White, Psychology, circulated a questionnaire, explaining that their Departments were undertaking an investigation of "actual thoughts and feelings of students since the outbreak of the war" as a contribution to "maintenance of high student morale . . . both nationally and on the Cornell Campus."

WEATHER MAP in Roberts Hall that has been a daily guide to many members of the University for years is now blank, since the US Weather Bureau has ordered discontinuance of all detailed forecasts that might be of value to the enemy.

STUDENT PILOTS trained at the University and Ithaca airport during the last two years under the Civil Aeronautics Administration were last week called upon by the CAA to fulfill their pledges to apply for training in the armed forces of the United States. Including six who stayed in Ithaca during Christmas recess to complete their training, 245 student pilots have been trained here.

"TAR YOUNG HILL," the new University skiing center eleven miles east of Ithaca in the hills of Caroline, is now in operation. Equipped with a 1,000-foot tow, shelter, parking space, and two open fireplaces, it has a moderate jump and grades ranging from gentle to nearly perpendicular; is operated every afternoon and all day Sundays. Tickets are being sold by the Department of Physical Education and Athletics for a day, four days, and the season.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL teams are grimly fighting it out in Barton Hall and the Old Armory, sometimes as many as six games an evening. Nick Bawlf, Director of Intramural Sports, announced that other sports starting this week had enrolled twenty-six teams for hockey, twenty-five for skiing, forty-five for bowling, thirty for badminton, thirty-five for table tennis, and thirty-six for volley ball.

EDWARD R. MURROW, recently from London where he broadcast for CBS, gave an intimate account of what war means in a lecture and question period in Bailey Hall January 6. He was brought to Ithaca by University Station WHCU, was a dinner guest at the President's House, and was introduced to the Bailey Hall audience by President Day. At a party given for him by Sigma Delta Chi, Murrow spoke of Charles C. Collingwood '39, who is carrying on the daily morning broadcasts from London in his absence. Saying that Collingwood has FOUNDER'S DAY, the 135th birthday of Ezra Cornell, was observed with a reception and tea January 11 given by the Willard Straight Hall board of managers, the Student Council, and the women's Self Government Association. In the receiving line were Charles Ezra Cornell, grandson of the Founder, Mrs. Cornell, and Miss Mary Cornell, the Founder's granddaughter, together with Mrs. Edmund E. Day and Foster M. Coffin '12, Director of Willard Straight. These guests attended later the Sunday evening reading hour in the Willard Straight library, at which Dean Dexter S. Kimball, Engineering, Emeritus, spoke on "foundings" in general and the early days of the University. Between these two events, the Cornell family, Mrs. Day, and Dean and Mrs. Kimball were entertained at dinner by student members of the Willard Straight board.

"the combination of calmness and toughness that makes him invaluable for the job he is doing," Murrow referred to him as "the most promising young man in radio news reporting today."

USS BANCROFT, a 1620-ton destroyer, slid down the ways of the Fore River shipyard of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corp. December 31, with Mrs. Romeyn Berry (Hester Bancroft) '22 as its sponsor. She is the daughter of Professor Wilder D. Bancroft, Physical Chemistry, Emeritus, and granddaughter of the late Secretary of the Navy George Bancroft who established the US Naval Academy. Our editorial associate accompanied Mrs. Berry to the launching and movingly reported its events upon his return.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON CONCERT by John Tyers, baritone, January 11, crowded Willard Straight Memorial Room. The artist took part in the recent Metropolitan Opera radio auditions. Mrs. Tyers is the former Winifred Waring '39.

NEW YEAR change in the Ithaca city administration brought into office Mayor Melvin G. Comfort, former police commissioner, succeeding Mayor Joseph E. Campbell. The mayor appointed Leslie B. Townsend '20, police commissioner, and Truman K. Powers '30, city attorney in place of Louis K. Thaler '25. He reappointed Lawrence M. Mintz '11 acting city judge, Henry C. Thorne '10 building commissioner, to the planning commission Professor John E. Perry, Engineering, and William J. Mitchell '00, Professor Robert F. Chamberlain '08, Electrical Engineering, to the examining board of electricians, and D. Boardman Lee '26 to the board of zoning appeals.

TOMPKINS COUNTY and Ithaca are being organized for air raid defense under direction of Fire Chief Bernard J. Reilly, with many members of the University volunteering as wardens for the city's ninety-four defense districts and in outlying communities. The siren on the Morse Chain Company's plant which used to signal fires and the daily weather forecast has been rehabilitated to serve as an air raid warning. The county will have its first practice blackout as soon as the organization has been perfected. Alumni Secretary Emmet J. Murphy '22, who is air raid warden for the district which includes Sage College, says he has been overwhelmed with volunteer assistants.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB members and guests were thoroughly entertained January 11 by Leopold Tschirky '12 with color motion pictures and his account of recent travels in Latin America and Europe. After his scheduled show, he was prevailed upon to show more pictures until nearly midnight.

COLD WAVE last week took the official temperature in Ithaca to 8 below zero January 8 and brought skaters to Beebe Lake, Vannatta's dam, and Stewart Park. Weather Bureau thermometers on the University farm showed 14 below, and outlying residents reported even lower temperatures. Accumulation of ice and snow has resulted in the Buildings and Grounds Department closing paths in the gorges.

SAGE CHAPEL PREACHER January 11 was the Rev. Carl H. Elmore of the First Presbyterian Church, Englewood, N. J. Preacher January 18 is the Rev. Halford E. Luccock of Yale University Divinity School.

Thomas of Princeton University, "Religious Basis of Democracy," on the Goldwin Smith Foundation January 7; and Malvina Hoffman, whose sculpture was exhibited in Willard Straight Hall and who spoke on the Schiff Foundation January 12 on "The Artist in War Time." She appeared in Red Cross uniform. January 15, Rabbi Joshua Liebman of Hebrew Union College spoke on the Campus Forum series on "Modern Knowledge and Ancient Wisdom."

"PARADE OF BANDS," three simultaneous dances with members of nine Ithaca orchestras donating music for benefit of the American Red Cross, was held January 14. Milton R. Shaw '34, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, was chairman. One of the dances was in Willard Straight Memorial Room.

NECROLOGY

MRS. N. CARTER DANIELL, head resident of Balch Hall, Unit 3, since 1935, died December 27, 1941, in Chicago, Ill. Mrs. Daniell was a friend to hundreds of Cornell women. Because of ill health, she had been given a leave of absence beginning last June. She first came to Ithaca in the summers of '27 and '28 when she was in charge of Cascadilla Hall, then a dormitory for women students. From 1932-35 she was chaperone of Alpha Xi Delta sorority. She was a member of the board of control of CURW.

'84—LOUIS MICHAEL EILSHEMIUS, December 29, 1941, in New York City, of pneumonia. He entered Agriculture and remained two years, but his interest was in art and he later studied in Paris. In 1886, his picture "Evening in Milford" was accepted by the American National Academy of Design, but his revolt against Victorian influences caused him to be blacklisted and the National Academy never recognized him again. Though he called himself "the world's greatest painter," Eilshemius fought for recognition for fifty years without success and became an eccentric and bitter old man haunting the galleries where his pictures never hung. In 1933, he was run over by an automobile and deprived of the use of his legs. Within a few years fame came to him, and his pictures were in great demand but the recognition came too late to bring him any happiness. In 1939, Eilshemius was the subject of a biography, And He Sat Among the Ashes, by William Schack '19.

'92—ARTHUR BUSHNELL PARK, December 2, 1941, in New York City. He entered Sibley College in 1888 from the West Winfield Academy and remained two years. He was associated with the Mutual Life Insurance Co., and lived at 2266 Hampden Place, New York City.

'93 ME—ROBERT SEVER HALE, December 31, 1941, in Boston, Mass. He entered Sibley College in 1891 as a Junior, having received the AB at Harvard. In 1892 he received the AM at Harvard. For most of his life he was an engineer and executive of the Boston Edison Co., retiring in 1931 as superintendent of the special research department. Known to thousands of Boy Scouts as "Uncle Robert," he was for many years president of Scoutland, Inc., the 1,000-acre woodland used by Scouts. He was the author of The Language of Economics and Ethics and of The Revolution in Economics. Psi Upsilon, Sigma Xi, Phi Beta Kappa.

'95 CE—HARRY CLARK DELANO, December 19, 1941. He entered Civil Engineering from Canastota Academy. His life-long career as a civil engineer in-

The god Mars cheated us once and is doing his best to cheat us again. We vow that he won't be successful this year, and the present word from Ithaca is to proceed with our original Reunion plans. So keep the treads on your tires in good condition until June! Of course, if Uncle Sam finds it necessary to change our plans, we're with him 100 per cent, as we were twenty-five years ago!

The formal beginning of our Reunion plans will probably be a Class meeting in New York City about the middle of February. The tentative date is Friday, February 13, (which shows we are not superstitious). All will be notified as soon as plans are definitely established.

Time Marches On! ROG MUNSICK sent us newspaper clippings stating that BILL LIPPINCOTT had passed away the night of Dec. 7. Death was due to a heart attack. Bill spent the first three years with us and then returned to get his degree in 1918. He had been associate professor of Chemistry at Clemson College for the last several years and was very popular on the campus. During his undergraduate days he was well-known in the Chemistry Department and he will be missed especially by the BChems who were in school at that time.

The Man Who Agrees With His Wife!

Said a guest to us recently:

I've stayed at many hotels in New York, but the Grosvenor is the only one I've found that my wife and I agree on. She likes particularly your delightful location there on lower Fifth Avenue, your good-sized rooms, and especially the fine atmosphere of the hotel. I like your handsome little bar, and convenience to both downtown and midtown, and the reasonableness of your rates. We're glad we found the Grosvenor.

Congratulations are in order for Mr. and Mrs. FABIAN KUNZELMAN on the birth of an eight-pound six-ounce son by the name of Dixon. This all took place December 19. Fabe is still with the Phelps-Dodge Copper Products Corp. in Fort Wayne, Ind.

Howie was best man at Ed WILLIAMS's wedding earlier in the year. From all reports, Ed is now a lieutenant in the Army stationed at Fort Niagara.

Got a card from COLEY ASINOF the other day. It was written November 27. At that time he was at maneuvers in the Carolinas with the First Army. Coley's address is now first lieutenant Coleman D. Asinof, First Antitank Battalion, First Division, Fort Devens, Mass.

1939 WOMEN

*By Sally S. Serbell, Class Secretary
333 Springfield Avenue, Summit, N. J.*

There have been some very interesting letters in my mailbox this past month. Sometimes I think that if '39 were given a book, we could still fill it. Your Class correspondent has made a resolution. never to miss a column again. Here's hoping that that resolution lasts!

SHAFFER wrote a very newsy letter. Here are some of her contributions which were much appreciated: Shaffer was married, as most of you know, June 28 to AL BOSSON '39. It was a Cornell wedding all the way through. GLADYS FRANKLE was maid of honor and MARION CHANDLER was bridesmaid. LYN STEVENS '39, BILL MILLS '39, and ED WARDWELL '40 also took part in the ceremony. Shaffer is part of the Army now, since Al is stationed at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md. Their address is 416 Union Ave., Havre de Grace, Md. Shaffer writes that DAPHNE GIANELLA married an ensign in Hawaii. If any of you know any further details, please, send them on.

Your Class secretary has been busy during the past month as you probably noticed by the change of name at the top of this column. I was married December 22 to Lieutenant Carl V. Serbell. Vic had been stationed at Fort Belvoir, Va., with an engineering battalion, but has been called for foreign service. He is a graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute '38, and was a construction engineer employed with the Stone & Webster Engineering Corp. before being called to duty. While Vic is in the Army, I shall still be working with the New Jersey Extension Service and living at the above address.

Since I am writing this on New Year's Day, best wishes to each member of the Class of '39 for a happy 1942!

DAL COORS writes that he studied this summer in Ithaca, and in September took the Foreign Service exams. He is now connected with the Australian division, British Purchasing division, 15 Broad Street, New York City. He also reports that JERRY WADE studied for these same exams. Jerry is now back at his former job with the National Broadcasting Co. (Now don't jump to conclusions from this that Jerry didn't make a go of the exams. He probably did and then returned to the good position he formerly held. I am just reporting news as it comes.)

VAN WORMER WALSH is an experimental engine tester at the Wright Aeronautical Corp. in Paterson, N. J. He recently married ALEINE ELLIS '41. He reports that he had the privilege of escorting Professor Ellenwood through the experimental test lab where the new aircraft engines are put through their paces.

Women

By Ruth Cothran, Class Secretary

ANNE WALLACE writes a grand letter telling about her job in Cleveland, Ohio, supervising about fifteen girls, ages six to nine, in a health school at 2801 East Boulevard. She likes her job and Cleveland, where there are trolleys and more trolleys, but she misses the hills and gorges of Cornell as many of you mention in your letters.

JEAN (Petey) PALMER reports her approval of teaching home ec in Fonda. If others of you feel, as Petey does, that you'd like to see your ALUMNI NEWS regularly instead of just during vacations at home, just drop us a card with your changed address, and tell us how life is treating you.

JANE BROWN, teaching home ec in Montgomery, has just announced her engagement to RICHARD M. HANSON '42.

ALLENE CUSHING (Cush) likes her work. She's assistant director of the Garden Center Institute of Buffalo. She mentions especially enjoying writing and broadcasting radio talks on gardening. Saturdays, she spends her time as apprentice to Anderson, Florists. Write her at home, 79 Chassin Avenue, Eggertsville.

RITA LESENGER is attending the New York School of Social Work; her address is 642 Lincoln Ave., Hawthorne, N. J.

I've just finished all training preparatory to going to work for the Navy and please note the change of address when sending me any news about yourselves, which I hope you'll all do in the near future. I ran into a bit of difficulty moving out of the Fort in that all my correspondence for the last month or so was lost in the confusion, so at present I'm short on news. I'd appreciate it very much if you who have written me about yourselves in the last four weeks would write again and this time it won't be lost.

Recent visitors at the News office were Second Lieutenants HOWARD S. FREEMAN, on his way to join the 73d Brigade at Camp Shelby, Miss., and RICHARD A. FRASCATI, US Army Reserve.

MORRIS WAGNER is at 717 East Corby Boulevard, South Bend, Ind.

CHARLES E. OSTRANDER teaches agriculture in Portville. Address: Box 443.

On a field trip a couple of weeks ago to Floyd Bennett Field on Long Island, I ran into NIAL SHERWOOD, RALPH CORLEY, and BOB HARLEY. They are taking the Naval Air Corps training there and from all reports seem to be making out fine.

The only other 41er I've run into in the last few weeks is KEN RANDALL who is making investigations in the credit department of the Manufacturers Trust Co. in New York. Ken is taking up badminton due to the shortage of tennis balls for the coming year. He lives at home at 166 Major Avenue, Staten Island.

At a couple of football games last fall, I happened to run into a few fellows, namely FRED WEST, working for Bethlehem Steel, KEN JOLLY who is with International Business Machines, BILL ROBINSON who's taking his fifth year in Chemical Engineering, and JOHN ELFIN who is working at the Willard Straight desk.

GEORGE E. MATTUS has a graduate teaching assistantship at the University of California at Berkeley where he lives at 1809½ Vine Street.

NORMAN C. MORGAN is attending Dartmouth medical school and living at 21 Rope Ferry Road, Hanover, N. H. Mrs. Morgan is the former MARITZA LESKOVAR '44.

JAMES R. WILLIAMSON is veterinarian for the Litchfield, Conn., Farm Bureau.

Let's start off the New Year with a lot of news from all of you so we can make this column the fullest yet. Happy New Year!

TO BELONG TO THE BOOK-OF-THE-MONTH CLUB

Yet, in the past year
IF YOU WERE A MEMBER AND HAD BOUGHT THESE SELECTIONS

YOU WOULD HAVE RECEIVED Six of these books Free

Pictured here are the most recent books that were Club Selections and Book-Dividends. Members do not have to take the selection every month; they may buy as few as four a year. But whenever they do buy the Club's selections they receive one book-dividend FREE for every two selections they buy.

OVER 425,000 families—thus at the very least, over a million discriminating book-readers—now belong to the Book-of-the-Month Club. They do so, in order to keep themselves from missing the important new books they are really interested in.

Time and again you buy the "book-of-the-month"—not knowing it has previously been chosen by our judges—merely because some discerning friend has said warmly: "There's a book you must not miss." How sensible to get these books from the Club, since you pay no more for the books you buy, and save enormously in other ways.

You are not obliged, as a subscriber of the Club, to take the book-of-the-month its judges choose. Nor are you obliged to buy one book every month. You receive a carefully written report about the book-of-the-month chosen by our four judges, in advance of its publication. If it is a book you really want, you let it come to you. If not, you merely sign and mail a slip, saying, "Don't want it."

Scores of other careful recommendations are made to help you choose among all new books with discrimination. If you want to buy one of these, you merely ask for it.

In addition, there is a great money-saving. For every two books-of-the-month you buy you receive, free, one of our book-dividends.

Two microphones fit against the sides of his Adam's apple. He doesn't have to hold this "mike"—his hands are free.

How can a throat microphone help win battles?

This throat microphone is something new—made by Western Electric for the nation's air forces.

It picks up the vibrations from the flyer's vocal cords. Motor roar and machine-gun chatter don't get in to drown out his radio message. And the battle's outcome may depend on that message getting through.

This important device was developed by Bell Telephone Laboratories, pioneers in the field of aviation radio, and was made in the same workshop as your Bell Telephone.

It is among the many benefits which have grown out of Western Electric's long experience as manufacturer for the Bell System.
