Vol. XXII, No. 5

Ithaca, N. Y., October 23, 1919

Price 12 Cents

THE registration in all departments of the University has now reached 5,370. The various departments rank as follows: Arts, 1,723; Engineering, 1,516; Agriculture, 1,180; Law, 168; Architecture, 121; Veterinary Medicine, 98; Medicine (in Ithaca), 36; Graduate School, 301; Medicine (in New York), 218.

A BODY OF GRADUATES resident in China have sent to the University a handsome memorial of the celebration last June. This is a shield of cloisonné, in principal dimensions fifteen inches by fifteen, in the center of which is a metal cast of the University seal eight inches in diameter. Above the seal is the legend, "In Commemoration of the University Semi-Centennial June 20-23, 1919"; and below, "Presented by the Chinese Alumni of North China." The shield is now on exhibition in the University library.

THE INTERFRATERNITY ASSOCIATION at a meeting last week made certain changes in the rules governing relations between fraternities and freshmen. The second period for rushing is shortened to six days, and during that period a fraternity may have two appointments with a freshman. The hours of such appointments are six o'clock to 8:15, each made later by fifteen minutes in order to avoid inconvenience on account of drill and practice in athletics. Friday of this week, the day before the Dartmouth game, is removed from the rushing period. The date of pledging new members is set for Wednesday, November 5.

THE TOMPKINS COUNTY BAR ASSOCIATION at its recent annual meeting elected officers for the ensuing year. As president Edward H. Bostwick '85 succeeds Mynderse Van Cleef '74, who remains a director. The vice-president is William Hazlitt Smith '73; the secretary, Edward Morgan St. John '11; and the treasurer, Bert T. Baker '97. The association adopted a new schedule of fees for legal services in conveyancing: for deeds and mortgages, $3; for discharge of mortgage, $1; for assignment of mortgage, $1.50; and for bonds, $2. It was also voted that in general fees be increased from fifty to one hundred per cent over those of five years ago.

PROFESSOR ORA M. LELAND, of the College of Civil Engineering, has been elected a delegate from the 37th Congressional district to the national convention of the American Legion, which meets at Minneapolis on November 11. Professor Leland was lieutenant colonel in the 303d Engineers. He is a member of Ithaca Post No. 221.

ITHACA as an inland naval training base is among the probabilities, if the universal military training bill now pending is passed by Congress. Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the Navy, has promised to support a proposal to establish a station on Cayuga Lake. In this way advantage may be taken not only of the lake itself but of its proximity to the University.

GEORGE F. BAKER, donor of the three dormitory buildings known as Baker Tower, North Baker Hall, and South Baker Hall, made a short visit at the University last week. He had not been in Ithaca since the buildings were completed; he had accordingly his first sight of his splendid gift. Mr. Baker was accompanied by his son, George F. Baker, jr., a graduate of Harvard, and by E. E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

MEMBERSHIP TICKETS in the Cornell University Athletic Association, the so-called season tickets, have been bought by students to the number of more than three thousand. The goal set by the management has thus been attained. The sale to residents of the city is much less encouraging, since to the date of writing the number of purchasers is less than three hundred.

THE CORPS OF CADETS at their first regimental formation on October 10 were marched in a body to Bailey Hall and there addressed by officers representing the three branches of military work done at Cornell: Colonel Frank A. Barton, commandant, for the infantry, Lieutenant Colonel T. J. J. Christian for the field artillery, and Captain Thomas H. Ramsey for the machine gun unit. Captain Ramsey has only recently been detailed at the University by the War Department. The number of cadets now in the R. O. T. C. is 1,690, distributed thus: infantry, 1,121; field artillery, 377; machine gun unit, 118; band, 74. These figures do not include some five hundred men who have received credit for work in military science and tactics by reason of their service in the Army during the war. The University is now the custodian of about a million dollars' worth of military equipment and supplies, all practically new. The old equipment thus replaced was shipped from Ithaca early in October.

THE DEPARTMENT OF HOME ECONOMICS has lately added to its other activities a laundry for the patronage of students and Faculty. Office and work rooms are in the basement of Roberts Hall. Thither patrons must take their laundry on Monday or Wednesday morning and call for it on Thursday or Saturday. The prices are said to be about the same as those at commercial laundries in the city.

A CONFERENCE OF THE American Association of Teachers of Journalism, held at the University of Michigan on October 16, 17, and 18, was addressed by Professor Bristow Adams, of the College of Agriculture, who has sixty-two students enrolled in agricultural journalism this term.

GEORGE H. VANT, former advertising manager of the ALUMNI NEWS, has been appointed manager of sales of the Cincinnati district for the Carnegie Steel Company. Vant was also assistant to John L. Senior '01, graduate manager of athletics, from 1901 to 1907.

THE ITHACA BOARD OF COMMERCE, broadening the scope of its organization, has lately modified its by-laws by providing for civic memberships. These memberships are for citizens who are interested in the growth and improvement of the city, but who are not actively engaged in its commercial and professional activities. Members of this kind, though their annual dues are lower, have all the privileges of regular members. Several professors in the University, including two deans, have already joined the board as civic members, a further link in the chain of cooperation and sympathy between town and gown. A meeting of the Board of Commerce on October 15 was addressed by J. Du Pratt White '90, of the Endowment Fund Committee.

Endowment Campaign Is On Cornell Not Alone in Crisis—Higher Education at Stake

The endowment fund campaign is on and $5,000,000 for salaries alone is the goal. Almost one hundred committees, including over a thousand alumni, began their active work on Monday, October 20. The campaign is being carried into every section of the country where there are Cornell men.

J. Du Pratt White '90 of New York and Walter P. Cooke '91 of Buffalo are alternate chairmen of the national committee, which includes in addition to the University's most influential graduates, many other friends of Cornell and of higher education, of national prominence.

"The local chairmen," said Mr. White in announcing the start of the campaign, "have in their hands the names of men in their localities who are able, and should be willing, to give liberally to protect the fate of higher education in this country. No definite quotas have been assigned to the several committees, but New York is planning a campaign for an amount greater than all the rest of the country, the Chicago committee has fixed its own goal of not less than $1,000,000, and Cleveland will add $500,000."

President Schurman has sent a message to the alumni through the campaign committee. "It is not only the Faculty of Cornell," he says, "but the future of the entire teaching profession which is at stake. A like increase in salaries is imperative at the other American universities; the cause of education throughout the country is imperiled, and as far as Cornell is concerned she will, unless speedy relief is forthcoming, be forced to yield the position of importance in national service which she has won by a half century of achievement. It is this relief which the alumni and friends of education in this country are expected to furnish in the form of a $5,000,000 fund for the increase of salaries alone."

NEW YORK CAMPAIGN STARTED

The national campaign committee announces the appointment of Frank S. Washburn '83, president of the American Cyanamid Company, as chairman for the New York City committee. He will be assisted by a large number of well-known New York Cornellians, including an executive committee made up of the following: R. H. Treman '78, Ira A.

Place '81, Otto Eidlitz '81, T. S. Williams '84, J. G. White '85, E. D. A. de Lima '86, E. N. Sanderson '87, E. H. Hooker '94, W. F. Atkinson '95, R. H. Williams '95, A. Graham Miles '96, Walter C. Teagle '99, and F. Jansen Noyes '06. R. J. Foster '16 is acting as campaign director for the New York City committee, and has taken up his headquarters in the office of Mr. Washburn, 511 Fifth Avenue.

The chairman will give a dinner on Thursday of this week at the Cornell Club, 30 West 44th Street, for the entire New York committee.

HEARS CORNELL'S NEEDS

The Cornell University Association of Michigan held the first dinner of the season at the University Club on October third, with seventy-six men present. Professor C. L. Durham presented in a very forceful manner the needs of the University for an additional endowment of five millions, and a committee was appointed to raise Detroit's share of the proposed sum.

The following officers were elected for the year 1919-20: president, Albert B. Hoffman '05; vice-president, M. A. Beltaire, jr., '02; secretary, W. H. Yates '06; treasurer, Harold Cole '16; industrial secretary, E. M. Shepherd, jr., '13; sixth member of the executive committee, C. F. Harvey '02; delegates to the Associate Alumni meeting, Heatley Green '01 and Gleeson Murphy '05.

ROCHESTER OPENS UP

The opening gun for Rochester in the Semi-Centennial Endowment Fund campaign was fired at a dinner on October 18, held at the Rochester Hotel, and attended by a most enthusiastic gathering of Cornellians. Congressman "Dan" Reed, of football fame, and Prof. A. A. Young, who attended the Peace Commission in Paris as an economic expert, made the principal speeches of the evening. The Rochester committee is going to hold a luncheon at the University Club each noon during the campaign.

KANSAS CITY REVIVES

On October 16 the Cornell alumni of Kansas City, Missouri, held a meeting, and Professor Kimball spoke on the subject of raising a $5,000,000 endowment fund for the professors at Cornell. He held the attention of the men for one hour and a half, and gave a most interesting talk. Afterward there was an election of officers, and the following were elected: president, O. C. Snider; vice-president, George Mersereau; secretary and treasurer, H. Laub, jr.

The new secretary, whose address is 611 American Bank Building, writes that the Kansas City alumni are coming back to life. There was a unanimous feeling that representatives from Cornell should come to Kansas City more often, as the men were all eager to hear from their Alma Mater.

N. Y. WOMEN TO MEET

The Cornell Women's Club of New York will meet on November 8 at 2:30 p. m. at the Women's University Club, 106 East 52nd Street, New York City, and a most cordial invitation is extended to all Cornell women in the vicinity to attend the meeting, whether members of the club or not. This is an opportunity to meet friends, to make new acquaintances, and to hear a speaker from Cornell.

The club has established a permanent mailing address at the Women's University Club, to which all communications intended for the club or any of its officers may be directed.

The club is this year revising its list of Cornell women in New York and vicinity, and it will be greatly assisted in this undertaking if all Cornell women in the district who are not members of the club will send their names and present addresses, and those of their friends, to the corresponding secretary of the club, Miss Mabel E. Rose, 950 Marey Avenue, Brooklyn, or to the club address, in care of the Women's University Club.

DAYTON ARCHITECTS

The following Cornell men are associated with Schenck and Williams, architects, of Dayton, Ohio: Harry I. Schenck '03 and Harry J. Williams '03, members of the firm, Nelson J. Bell '04, Robert E. Schenck '12, Albert R. Reilly '14, Wolfe Marcovitch '15, Leslie L. Lambert '16, Ernst W. Kurz '17, and Ellason R. Smith '17.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL FACULTY on October 17 recommended twenty-four persons for advanced degrees. The degrees were distributed as follows: A. M., 4; M. S., 2; M. S. in Agr., 2; M. L. D., 1; M. C. E., 3, all Chinese students; Ph. D., 12. The degrees are to be conferred as of October 1.

WORKING TO RAISE $5,000,000 FOR CORNELL PROFESSORS' SALARIES

FELLOWS AND SCHOLARS

In our issue for July we published a list of persons appointed up to that time to graduate fellowships and scholarships. Since that time there have been several changes in and additions to the list.

Miss Louise Kelley has resigned the Sage Fellowship in Chemistry to accept the newly created Du Pont Fellowship in Chemistry.

Major Edward Holmes has resigned the University Graduate Scholarship in Chemistry to accept the Sage Fellowship in the same subject.

Herbert V. Hotchkiss has resigned the University Graduate Scholarship in English to accept an instructorship in the Department of English. He is succeeded in the scholarship by Henry Andrews Ladd, A. B., Amherst '18.

Evelyn I. Fernald and Mitchell S. Lurio have resigned the University Graduate Scholarships in Botany and Mathematics, respectively. Their successors have not yet been appointed.

Marjorie S. Harris has resigned the Susan Linn Sage Fellowship in Philosophy and Israel Chasman has resigned the Susan Linn Sage Scholarship in Philosophy to succeed Miss Harris in the fellowship.

Flora T. Mercer has resigned the Susan Linn Sage Scholarship in Psychology and has been succeeded by Mabel Florence Martin, A. M., Mt. Holyoke '18.

Glenn R. Morrow has been transferred from the Susan Linn Sage Fellowship in Psychology to a corresponding fellowship in philosophy.

The second of the two graduate scholarships into which the President White Fellowship in Political Science has this year been divided has been filled by the appointment of Herbert Saphir, A. B. '19.

The following new appointments have been made:

The McGraw Fellowship: Henry R. Lordly, C. E. '93, Civil Engineering.

The University Fellowships: Gerhard Baerg, A. B., Kansas '17, A. M., Cornell '18, German; William Edward Zeuch, A. B., Lenox '15, A. M., Clark '15, Political Economy.

The Susan Phelps Gage Fellowships in Physics: Chi Ting Kwei, A. B., Yale '17; Herbert Kahler, B. S., University of Washington '18.

The Susan Linn Sage Scholarships in Philosophy: Gladys K. Bleiman, A. B., A. M. '19; Stuart Meiklejohn, A. B., Amherst '19; De Forest Fox, A. B. '19; Henry R. Smith, A. B., Ohio Wesleyan '19. The last three, owing to a printer's error, were reported in our issue for July as fellows.

University Graduate Scholarships: Edward Julius Truthan, B. Arch. '19, Architecture; Herbert Lester Gilman, D. V. M. '17, Veterinary Medicine.

Of the twenty-five University fellowships six and of the twenty graduate scholarships six also remain unfilled.

TRIBUTE TO PROFESSOR DANN

In an interview published in The Musical Courier for October 2 Hugh Dougall, of New York, formerly of Salt Lake City, pays Professor "Hollis Dann of Cornell University, where he worked last summer, a fine tribute. Dr. Dann is the author of a set of school books, which if taken up by schools all over the country, will, according to Mr. Dougall, revolutionize music in these institutions. The books deal with the training of the children's ears so that they are enabled to sing a melody on the correct notes instead of using the written words. Dr. Dann has done the finest thing ever in this country for public music and he deserves to be highly honored for his work."

THE SENIOR SOCIETY ELECTIONS

In the elections to the senior societies held on Tuesday morning, Sphinx Head extended bids to eighteen seniors, of whom seventeen accepted, and Quill and Dagger extended bids to four, of whom one accepted.

These elections bring the two societies to about the usual size of several years ago, Sphinx Head, which this fall was somewhat smaller in numbers than Quill and Dagger, being now somewhat larger.

The lists of new members follow:

Quill and Dagger

William Bell Daley, Chatham, N. Y.; crew.

Sphinx Head

John Robert Bangs, Baltimore, Md.; track; Theta Alpha.

Charles Baskerville, jr., New York; art editor The Widow; Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Donald Edward Breckenridge, Franklin, Pa.; managing editor of the Annals; Psi Upsilon.

Ludlow Earle Bretz, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.; football; Psi Upsilon.

Reginald Gower Hammond, Chicago; associate editor of the Sun; Phi Kappa Psi.

John Hart, Clarksburg, W. Va.; Musical Clubs, head cheerleader; Delta Tau Delta.

Donald Osmond McLeod, Concord, N. H.; baseball; Kappa Sigma.

Arthur Olsen, Brooklyn; captain of the baseball team.

John David Shuler, Davenport, Ia.; football; Beta Theta Pi.

Henry Horner Straus, Chicago; football.

Francis Marvin Sutton, jr., Brooklyn; football; Chi Psi.

Wilberforce Taylor, Hubbard Woods, Ill.; football; Chi Psi.

Walter Kendall Wipperman, Logansport, Ind.; crew; Theta Alpha.

Byron Earle Wrigley, jr., Philadelphia; manager of freshman football; Delta Kappa Epsilon.

THE SOCCER COACH, James A. Campbell, of Rochester, is in Ithaca this week at work with the soccer team. There is practice every afternoon.

OBITUARY

Dr. Joseph A. Kenefick

Dr. Joseph A. Kenefick, a prominent physician of New York, formerly assistant laryngologist at the Cornell Medical College, died on September 10 at Lawrence, Mass.

He was born at Lawrence on September 9, 1861, and later receiving the degree of M. D. at Harvard took a post-graduate course at the Vienna Polytechnic and the University of Vienna. In addition to his connection with the Medical College, he acted as assistant surgeon of the Throat Department of the Manhattan Eye, Ear, and Throat Hospital, aural surgeon of the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary, and otologist and laryngologist of the New York Foundling Hospital.

Dr. Kenefick was a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, and a member of the New York Academy of Medicine, the Harvard Medical Society, and the Harvard Club.

Edward F. Johnston

Edward F. Johnston, former organist at Cornell, died on September 4 at St. Vincent's Hospital, New York, at the age of forty years.

Mr. Johnston was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, on November 16, 1879, and was educated at the University of Edinburgh; later he entered the Academy of Music at Florence, Italy. From 1901 to 1904 he was music master of Loretto College, Scotland, and in 1907 went to Troy, N. Y., as director of the Emma Willard Conservatory, remaining there a year. He was the composer of piano and organ music, and of several comic operas. At the time of his death he was organist at the Madison Avenue Baptist Church, New York, and at the Rialto and Broadway theatres, and had been engaged for that position at the Capitol Theatre which is now being built.

Richard F. Humphrey '22

Richard Frederick Humphrey, a sophomore in Sibley College, met his death in Fall Creek Gorge some time during registration week. Humphrey, last seen on Wednesday, October 1, had been missing for several days. On Monday his brother, Harry L. Humphrey, A. B. '16, came to Ithaca to join in a search previously begun by fraternity brothers and classmates. Late that afternoon the body was found floating in a pool under the suspension foot bridge. The warm weather had apparently led the student to go swimming. It is believed that in diving he struck some jagged rocks, was thereby rendered unconscious, and consequently drowned. During the past Summer Session he had frequently swum in the pool where he lost his life. The coroner gave a verdict of accidental death. Humphrey had registered in the University, but had not completed his registration in Sibley. His home was with his mother in Waterbury, Conn. He was twenty-two years old, and was a member of the Eleusis Fraternity.

Johnson S. Henderson '23

Johnson St. Jacques Henderson, a freshman in the College of Agriculture, died at the Cornell Infirmary on October 14, of causes not definitely known. He reported at the Infirmary on the evening of the 13th, apparently in good health except for a slight sore on his face. It is believed that infection set in, affecting his throat. His home was in Ogdensburg, N. Y.

WAR HONORS

Captain J. E. Ray '12 Decorated

Following are the citations of Captain John E. Ray '12 (deceased), from both American and British authorities.

For the Distinguished Service Cross: "Captain John E. Ray, Medical Corps, 119th Infantry. During the attack in the Bellicourt area (Hindenburg line), 29th September, 1918, Captain Ray administered first aid to many of our own and the enemy wounded, helpless under heavy shell and machine gun fire. He established his aid post in the front line trench and maintained it with the front line troops on their advance. It was during this time that he was wounded and died a few hours later. His exceptional bravery and devotion to duty is worthy of the utmost praise."

For the Military Cross: "The award of the Military Cross by the British Government to you having been approved by the Commander-in-Chief, you are authorized to accept and to wear such decoration. The award was made for the following services rendered: This officer showed exceptional bravery and devotion to duty, administering first aid to many wounded Americans and Germans under heavy shell and machine gun fire in the Bellicourt area during the attack of his regiment on the 29th September, 1918. At the commencement of the attack, he established his battalion first aid post in the front line trench.

With a smile he remarked: 'Is anybody around here afraid to die?' He advanced his aid post with the advancing infantry, and continued treatment of the wounded until he himself was so severely wounded that he had to be taken to the rear, and died in this hospital."

Captain Ray died on October 6, 1918.

Decoration for Hayes '76

Colonel Webb C. Hayes '76 was decorated by General Lyautey, the French resident general in Morocco, with the Ouissam Alaonitie, the highest Franco-Moroccan military order.

Hayes served as a major in the war with Spain, as a lieutenant colonel in the campaign of the Philippines, and as a colonel during the trouble with Mexico in 1911, 1913, and 1916. In the campaign of the Philippines, he won the Congressional Medal of Honor.

At the outbreak of the World War, he was appointed special agent of the State Department, and sailed for France, remaining in Paris until the withdrawal of the French Government to Bordeaux. While carrying American gold from the U. S. S. Tennessee from Havre to Paris he was captured and interned overnight by Von Kluck's German Army. He returned to America in September, 1914, and when this country entered the war, applied for active service, sailing for France in August, 1917; the Italian Minister of War appointed him a member of an American commission to visit the Italian front, and sources of supply; and accordingly, accompanied by Italian officers, he visited the entire front on the Piave from its mouth near Venice, north to the Pre-Alps, under constant artillery, bomb, and small arms fire. On his return to France in 1918, he was appointed regional commissioner for military labor in France and North Africa, and spent the month of August in French Morocco; it was in recognition of this work that he received the decoration.

Colonel Hayes resigned when the armistice was signed, and soon after returned to this country. He is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Scheidenhelm '05 Cited

Lieutenant Colonel Fred W. Scheidenhelm '05 has been cited by General Pershing "for exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services as water supply officer of the First Army."

Scheidenhelm has been in the service since 1917. He received his captaincy at the close of the First Officers' Training Camp, and went to France soon after, attached to the 26th Engineers (Water Supply). After his promotion to lieutenant colonel, he was placed in charge of the 26th Engineers, and in addition had under his command the 301st Water Tank Train and some detachments of other Engineer troops and Pioneer Infantry, totaling, during the period of maximum activity, something over three thousand troops. He returned to this country with his regiment last spring, and received his discharge in late August, having been on duty at the War Department since his return, preparing the report and recommendations concerning the Water Service of the Army for future campaigns.

He has now resumed the practice of his profession as a member of the firm of Mead and Scheidenhelm, consulting hydraulic engineers, 120 Broadway, New York. His partner is Daniel W. Mead, C. E. '84.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

THE ACADEMIC FRESHMAN CLASS at the University of Minnesota now numbers 1740. The largest previous enrollment was 919.

HARVARD reports the following enrollment: College, 2,504; Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, 476; Graduate School of Business Administration, 365; Divinity School, 47; Law School, 846; Medical School, 413; Dental School, 188; Engineering School, 117; total, 5,017. This is a slight gain over 1916.

Of the 218 students in the Medical College in New York, 72 are freshmen, and forty are registered in the first year of the medical course at Ithaca.

THE NEW YORK STRIKES had their effect upon the University. The tickets for the Dartmouth game, at first delayed by the printers' strike, were at length ready on October 11, but were then held up by the expressmen's strike. They were finally brought to Ithaca by a special messenger, who arrived on the 17th, and the tickets for out of town patrons were mailed on the 18th.

DR. LIBERTY HYDE BAILEY, late Dean of the College of Agriculture, has returned to Ithaca after several months of botanical research in Europe. In England and Scotland during the summer he made extensive collections and pursued his general studies in botany. Later he visited botanical gardens and observed the progress of work carried on in Denmark and Scandinavia.

PRESIDENT SCHURMAN'S APPEAL

The teaching profession in the United States is in grave peril. Able young men in their thirties are leaving the faculties of American colleges and universities; the ablest young men in their twenties are no longer entering them.

What depletes the faculties of our universities and colleges is the utter inadequacy of professorial salaries.

At Cornell University the average compensation of professors has been $3,285, of assistant professors $1,751, and of instructors $1,029. In June, 1919, the salaries were increased about $400, but to provide the funds the Trustees were compelled to raise tuition fees for students from $150 to $200.

Cornell University had an enrollment of 5,370 students on October 11, 1919. Of these 1,278 were in the State Colleges of Agriculture and Veterinary Medicine, which are almost entirely maintained by State and Federal appropriations. For the education of the rest, namely 4,092 students, the University must trust exclusively to the income from endowment funds and fees received from students.

Fees having been advanced to the highest permissible figure, the University has no other recourse but to augment its endowment funds. It now asks for an endowment of $5,000,000 to increase salaries alone, and a second $5,000,000 for general endowment.

The task of raising these funds has been undertaken by the graduates and former students of the University. They have come to the help of their Alma Mater in a fine spirit of loyalty and devotion. And they stand ready both to work and to give—to work hard and to give generously.

But the cause they serve is not private, but public; not restricted to an institution but vital to the Republic. These Cornellians, therefore, must have the assistance and cooperation of all good citizens. They are undertaking a work for the Nation. For the education of its youth—and especially the higher education—is the supreme interest of the Nation. The peoples of Europe provide for it by public taxation. In this part of the world the obligation devolves upon men and women of wealth.

They know the record of Cornell University. They know that its ideals, its aims, its achievements are a part, and a very honorable part, of the history of higher education in the United States. Arts and letters, science and technology—all alike have found a place in its curriculum. It has stood for both liberal and practical education, for instruction and also for research.

The tens of thousands of its graduates and old students now scattered over this country and the world are the living epistles by whom the University will be judged. By all means let the University be appraised by the lives and achievements of Cornellians. Nor must the latest record be overlooked. In the Great War there were 6,850 Cornell men in uniform; and of the 5,276 in active service 3,226 were commissioned officers.

Not only Cornellians, but the American public generally, are proud of the record made by Cornell University during the half century of its existence. It is universally recognized that Cornell has been one of the vital and effective organs of the higher education and civilization of America.

Will the University continue its life and activity with increased vigor and efficiency in the new half century on which it has just entered? Yes, a thousand times yes, if only the generous and public-spirited men and women of wealth in our country cooperate with the body of Cornellians in supplying it with the funds necessary to secure and retain the ablest young men of America for service on its Faculty.

I refuse to consider the alternative. I see only a successful end of this campaign. I recognize only one way of meeting the crisis that now confronts the University. That is the way of Victory.

And so to all our friends and old students I say, Onward to Victory!

INDEX TO VOLUME XXI

The ALUMNI NEWS announces that the index and title-page to the last volume are now ready and a copy of each will be mailed to all those who request them. The index fills sixteen pages and includes lists of about 4,400 Cornellians concerning whom items have appeared during the last year. These include notices of about 160 men who died in the service, of about 85 who received military and naval honors and decorations, and of about 150 Cornell civilians who died during the year.

LITERARY REVIEW

A Collection of War Cartoons

The War in Cartoons. A History of the War in 100 Cartoons by 27 of the Most Prominent American Cartoonists. Compiled and edited by George J. Hecht '17, New York. E. P. Dutton & Company. 1919. 4to, pp. x, 207. Price, $2.50 net.

The ALUMNI NEWS has more than once referred to Mr. Hecht's efficient work in connection with the Bureau of Cartoons, which published the weekly Bulletin for Cartoonists and which did much to stimulate the making of cartoons as a help in carrying on the war. From the thousands of war cartoons collected by the manager of the Bureau of Cartoons, Mr. Hecht has made the excellent selection reproduced in these pages. From these cartoons one can see the justice of the claim that they played a powerful part in molding public opinion and stimulating action toward the winning of the war. They can be apprehended at a glance, and they have often an emotional appeal which the editorial pen quite fails to communicate. Thus it is that the work of such cartoonists as Ding, Briggs, Chapin, Cesare, Harding, Kirby, Sykes, McCutcheon, Cassel, Donahy, Pease, Marcus, and the others here represented deserves to be preserved in this way. The book deserves a place in every war collection.

The volume is appropriately dedicated "to Uncle Sam, the child of the cartoonists' fancy, who having gained new stature through the war, symbolizes American manhood and thus embodies the highest ideals of freedom and democracy."

Books and Magazine Articles

In Scribner's for July Lieut. Charles Baskerville, jr., '19, publishes some war reminiscences under the title, "With the Rainbow Division on the Oureq: Leaves from a Sketch Book." Dana Burnet '11 contributes a story entitled "The Making of William Simms."

The third edition of "The Principles of Reinforced Concrete Construction" by Dean Frederick E. Turneaure '89 and Professor E. R. Maurer, of the University of Wisconsin, has lately been issued by John Wiley & Sons of New York.

The address of Dean John F. Hayford, C. E. '89, "Reflections of an S. P. E. E. President," delivered before the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education on June 25, is printed in Engineering Education for September.

In Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering for September 1 Dr. Edwin F. Northrup, '91-2 Grad., writes on "Electric Production of Carbon-Free Alloys."

In The American Journal of Psychology for July Professor Margaret F. Washburn, Ph.D. '94, of Vassar College, publishes "A Note on the Terman Superior Adult Tests, as Applied to Vassar Freshmen," and several studies from the Vassar psychological laboratory, of which studies she is joint author. Poughkeepsie Course Shortened

If the Poughkeepsie regatta is revived next spring, and present indications are that it will be, the classic four-mile varsity race will be missing from the program. At a recent meeting of the board of stewards of the Inter-collegiate Rowing Association it was unanimously decided to reduce the course of the varsity eight-oared race from four miles to three. The stewards thereby reaffirmed the decision reached in 1917; but as the regatta was abandoned that year the action could not become effective.

Cornell supported the movement to reduce the varsity race to three miles, in fact Cornell was a pioneer in the agitation to bring about the change. Cornell's position was largely influenced by Charles E. Courtney's unqualified declaration in favor of a three-mile race. Some years ago Mr. Courtney wrote a letter to The Yale Daily News, upon that publication's request for a statement on the subject, declaring that three miles was long enough for a varsity race. He asserted that such a race would not place so severe a strain on the physical powers and endurance of oarsmen, and that not so much time would be required to develop a crew for a three-mile race as for the longer contest. Although Coaches Rice of Columbia and Ten Eyck of Syracuse did not agree with the Old Man, his views made a profound impression in the rowing world and the Poughkeepsie stewards have now given them the stamp of their approval.

Although no official decision has yet been made, Cornell is believed to be in favor of reviving the Poughkeepsie regatta next spring.

Colgate Defeats Cornell 21-0

The football team suffered a decisive defeat at the hands of Colgate last Saturday by the score of 21 to 0. The opposing team outplayed Cornell throughout the contest, maintaining the offensive practically all the time. The play was constantly in Cornell territory, compelling Shiverick to punt continually, and permitting Cornell little opportunity to take the offensive. And the few attempts to advance the ball that were made failed. By the time they could be launched the men were too weary under the heavy pounding and bewildered under a rapid fire aerial attack to make any consistent progress. Cornell failed to make one first down during the whole game.

As a team, and individually, Colgate clearly excelled Cornell. In fact the visiting team was one of the most resourceful and powerful elevens seen here in many a day. It had a great advantage in possessing experienced, shifty, clever players. It has one of the best all-around backfields in the college world to-day. Anderson, the Colgate quarter, played brilliantly, and he was ably seconded in the running game by Watkins, left half back, while Gillo's hard hitting line plunging was very effective and Laird, the fourth member of the quartet, besides making a number of good gains through the line, caught half a dozen forward passes from Anderson, running for a good gain each time.

Colgate made many yards by plays outside of tackle and sometimes pushed through the line for substantial advances, but their most effective weapon was the forward pass, which gained much territory, confusing the Cornell defense. Most of these passes were short, thrown with the speed of a bullet by Anderson, and usually straight ahead. They were thrown from a running play, which drew the Cornell team over and allowed Laird, who jumped through the line and from position behind guard and tackle and ran straight ahead, a clear field to catch them unopposed.

Some idea of the caliber of the Colgate eleven may be obtained by recalling that the "breaks" of the game were against them. Twice Gillo fumbled inside of his 20-yard line when a touchdown seemed but a few moments away. Yet after these two setbacks Colgate still persisted and kept driving away to victory.

At the very outset Colgate got the jump and held it, forcing Cornell well back into her own territory. West tried two goals from placement in the first period, and six all told in the game without success.

There was no scoring in the first period, but early in the second Colgate passed and hammered her way to the 25-yard line, where the Cornell line braced and threw off two onslaughts. Changing his tactics, Anderson tossed a 10-yard forward pass to Watkins, who caught it near the southwest corner of the field and ran for a touchdown. A similar pass to Watkins at the northeast corner of the field gave the visitors their third and final score in the third period. The second Colgate tally, made in the second period, was scored by Anderson, who caught one of Shiverick's punts on his 35-yard line and by clever dodging and swift, elusive running, went right through or by the Cornell players for a touchdown, one of the most spectacular feats ever seen on Schoellkopf Field.

Colgate was the favorite. A defeat for Cornell was not unexpected. But that the eleven could be so badly beaten was somewhat of a shock to the eight thousand persons who watched the game. The crowd was a record one for this time of the year, hundreds of persons motoring here from various cities near by. But the defeat should prove a salutary lesson. Cornell's green team learned a powerful lot of bootball, although in a hard school, and with two regulars who could not play against Colgate in the lineup next Saturday and a hard week's scrimmaging on the program, a much stronger team, and a much better game may be looked for against Dartmouth.

The line-up:

Colgate (21)	Cornell (0)
Cottrell	Colvin
Burton	Center
Wooster	Right guard
Harris	Right tackle
Laird	Quarterback
Gillo	Right halfback
	Fullback
Score by Periods
Colgate	0 14 7 0—21
Cornell	0 0 0 0—0

Touchdowns: Watkins (2); Anderson.
Goals from touchdowns: West (3).

LAURELWOOD ON CORNELL HEIGHTS

the beautiful park developed by the late George F. Atkinson, located 250 feet north of the point where the main trolley line makes the curve overlooking lake and valley, and planted under the personal direction and expert guidance of the owner with hundreds of the rarest and most beautiful trees and shrubs, many of which are not found elsewhere in this locality. With the wooded slope adjoining on the south it comprises three and one-half acres; bounded on the east by Ridgewood Road; on the west by the Cayuga Heights macadam; on the north by Beta Theta Pi; and on the south by Thurston Avenue. Nearly everything else on the brow of the University plateau for over a mile north of the campus has been picked up.

The property is now placed on the market for the first time. The owners would prefer to sell it as a whole; but in event it becomes necessary, will consent to subdivision into smaller plots.

The "Constitution" of To-day—Electrically Propelled

THE U. S. S. "New Mexico," the first battleship of any nation to be electrically propelled, is one of the most important achievements of the scientific age. She not only develops the maximum power and, with electrical control, has greater flexibility of maneuver, which is a distinct naval advantage, but also gives greater economy. At 10 knots, her normal cruising speed, she will steam on less fuel than the best turbine-driven ship that preceded her.

The electric generating plant, totaling 28,000 horsepower, and the propulsion equipment of the great super-dreadnaught were built by the General Electric Company. Their operation has demonstrated the superiority of electric propulsion over old-time methods and a wider application of this principle in the merchant marine is fast making progress.

Figures that tell the Story of Achievement

Length—624 feet
Width—97 feet
Displacement—32,000 tons
Fuel capacity—a million gallons (fuel oil)
Power—28,000 electrical horsepower
Speed—21 knots

Six auxiliary General Electric Turbine-Generators, of 400 horsepower each, supply power for nearly 500 motors, driving pumps, fans, shop machinery, and kitchen and laundry appliances, etc.

Utilizing electricity to propel ships at sea marks the advancement of another phase of the electrical industry in which the General Electric Company is the pioneer. Of equal importance has been its part in perfecting electric transportation on land, transforming the potential energy of waterfalls for use in electric motors, developing the possibilities of electric lighting and many other similar achievements.

As a result, so general are the applications of electricity to the needs of mankind that scarcely a home or individual today need be without the benefits of General Electric products and service.

An illustrated booklet describing the "New Mexico," entitled, "The Electric Ship," will be sent upon request. Address General Electric Company, Desk 44, Schenectady, New York.

... and at the Shoreham
Washington

A fact:

The best-selling cigarette at the exclusive Shoreham is Fatima. At such a place this preference can hardly be a matter of price. It is rather that Fatima's common-sense blend contains "just enough" Turkish—just enough to taste right and still leave a man feeling fine and fit after a long-smoking day.

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Fatima contains more Turkish than any other Turkish blend cigarette.
