Columbia to Begin Annual Series on March 5

The Messenger Lecturer for 1929 will be Professor Edward Lee Thorndike, professor of educational psychology in Teachers College, Columbia, since 1904, who will begin a series of twelve on "The Nature and Evolution of Human Learning" on March 5. He will speak Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday afternoons at 4.30 in Goldwin Smith Hall.

Professor Thorndike took his A.B. degree at Wesleyan in 1895. He received his A.M. degree from Harvard in 1897, and his Ph.D. degree from Columbia in 1898. In 1923 he was given the degree of Sc.D. by Wesleyan and of LL.D. by the University of Iowa.

He was an instructor in education and teaching in Western Reserve for one year before he became adjunct professor of educational psychology in Columbia in 1901, serving for three years.

Professor Thorndike is a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the New York Academy of Sciences, the National Academy of Science, and the American Psychological Association. He has also served as professor and director in the Division of Psychology of the Institute of Educational Research.

He is the author of a number of standard works on educational psychology, particularly on the psychology of learning.

The Messenger Lectureship was founded in 1923 with a bequest of $77,000 received under the will of Hiram J. Messenger '80, who died in 1913. The fund provides for a series of lectures each year on the evolution of civilization. Previous lecturers have included Professors James H. Breasted, Robert A. Millikan, Herbert J. C. Grierson, and Thomas F. Tout.

The subjects to be discussed by Professor Thorndike include: the influence of frequency of occurrence of a situation; the influence of the frequency of occurrence of a connection; the principle of belonging; the influence of the after-effects of a connection; explanations of the influence of the after-effects of a connection; new experimental data on the after-effects of a connection; identifiability, availability, trial, and system; facts concerning mental connections, conditioned reflexes, and learning; purposiveness and learning; the Gestalt theory and learning; insight and analysis; thinking and reasoning; the evolution of learning in general; and the evolution of learning in recent times.

BECOMES CHANCELLOR

He became Collier Professor of Greek at Washington University in 1917, leaving a year later to become assistant librarian of the St. Louis Public Library. He returned to Washington University late in 1921.

ATHLETICS

Quintet Loses Two

The basketball team lost two League games last week, dropping to a tie with Columbia for fourth place. Columbia won on the Drill Hall court February 20 by 35 to 30, and Pennsylvania won at Philadelphia February 23 by 26 to 25.

The Pennsylvania game was lost in the last two minutes of play, when Cornell was leading 25 to 23. Schaaf, Pennsylvania forward and leading league storer, dropped in a long shot to tie the score and Lazar shot the winning point from the foul line. Beck, playing his first game of the season, had a chance to tie the score with a free shot, but he missed.

Cornell, led by Hall, forward, stepped out to a 7 to 3 lead early in the game, and by the end of the half, had lengthened the margin to seven points. The score at half-time was 17 to 10 in Cornell's favor.

The second half rally of the Pennsylvanians slowly cut down Cornell's lead, until the final minutes, when the fine shooting of Schaaf had its effect. The Pennsylvania players scored most of their goals on long distance shots, while the Cornell courtmen found it more effective to cut in under the baskets.

Hall was high scorer for Cornell. His shooting brought him into second place in the league standing with fifty-five points. Schaaf is the leader with ninety.

Columbia started Cornell down the ladder by winning, in spite of the score, an easy victory. Led by Smith, guard, and Magurk, forward, the New York team took the lead early in the game and held it, with one exception, to the close, although Cornell three times tied the score.

With Hall, forward, and Lewis, center, performing in stellar style, Cornell closed up the score in the first half, leaving the floor with the score tied at 16-all. Lewis had scored first with a field goal, but Magurk, Tys, and Gregory rallied to give Columbia a seven-point lead halfway through the period.

Lewis and Hall contributed several spectacular shots from the field to bring Cornell into a tie at the half. Captain Layton, although he was invaluable in his passing and floor work, was unable to score during the period. He made only one point in the entire game.

Columbia stepped into the lead again when the second half opened, but Cornell overcame the lead and obtained a one-point margin on Lewis's field goal. Urbach's foul point tied the score, and Blatterman put Columbia in the lead with another. Lewis tossed in a foul shot, and the score was again tied at 22-all.

A few minutes later, and the score was 28-all, with both teams battling hard, but Columbia gained the lead and held it to the final whistle.

Take Third in Track

The track team opened the indoor season on February 23 at Boston by placing third in the annual triangular meet with Harvard and Dartmouth. Harvard won the meet for the fifth consecutive season with 47  $\frac{1}{3}$  points, while Dartmouth scored 37 $\frac{3}{4}$  and Cornell 31.

A victory for Levering in the two-mile run over Captain Reid of Harvard and firsts and seconds in the 16-pound shot put and the 35-pound weight throw were high lights for Cornell. Captain Anderson set a new meet record when he tossed the shot 46 feet 6 $\frac{3}{8}$  inches to better the mark set by Levy of Cornell last year. Levy placed second with a mark of 45 feet 6 $\frac{3}{8}$  inches.

Weis tossed the weight 49 feet  $\frac{1}{2}$  inch, defeating Worden, also of Cornell, for second place. Worden's mark was 47 feet 10 $\frac{3}{4}$  inches.

Benson, former intercollegiate two-mile champion, placed third in the mile run behind Cobb and Reid of Harvard. Treman scored third place in the 600-yard run, in which Swope of Dartmouth set a new meet record of 1:15 $\frac{3}{4}$ .

Yocum, Cornell freshmen, won the yearling 50-yard dash in 5 $\frac{1}{5}$  seconds.

Weakness in the jumps and hurdles contributed to the low score of the Red and White trackmen, who failed to win a place in these events.

One other meet record was broken when Mason and Tuppet, both of Harvard, were timed in 33 $\frac{1}{5}$  seconds in the 300-yard run. The event was run off on the basis of times.

The summaries:

Penn State Wins on Mat

The wrestling team lost a dual meet to the Pennsylvania State matmen on February 23 in the Drill Hall 15 to 12. It was one of the best team matches of the season. The visitors scored victories and their fifteen points in the middle weights, while Cornell was victorious in the 115-pound, 175-pound, and unlimited class bouts.

Josefson, intercollegiate champion, won an easy decision over Steele of State in the opening bout. Defensive tactics by Steele prevented a fall. Another intercollegiate titleholder, Captain Wilson of Pennsylvania State found Trousdell, Cornell's 125-pounder, hard to manage, although he scored a decision on a substantial time advantage. Trousdell displayed skill in twice squirming out of a dangerous situation in the last two minutes.

The 135-pound and 145-pound division bouts were hard fought, with Penn State men gaining time decisions of less than three minutes each. Lipschitz was hurt at the opening of the 135-pound class bout, but he held off Hubler of State by fine defensive work. Eisenman of State, second place man in the intercollegiates last year, and McConnell battled every second, but Eisenman's time advantage won him the decision.

Campbell scored State's only fall in the 158-pound class, when Abkarian, wrestling his first varsity bout, was outgeneraled and thrown with a half-nelson and crotch hold in less than five minutes.

Johnson brought Cornell back into the scoring column with a fine victory over Kranmer in the 175-pound class. Johnson scored a fall with a head chancery and body hold after five minutes of fast mixing. In one encounter he was caught in an in-advertent strangle hold which temporarily put him out of action.

Captain Stafford easily defeated Pearce in the heavyweight event. He took his man to the mat in thirteen seconds and worked on him for the rest of the bout. Pearce's defense was too good for Stafford, and he was unable to score the fall and the six points that would have tied the score.

The summaries:

115-pound class: Josefson, Cornell, defeated Steele, Penn State, on decision. Time advantage: 6.43.

125-pound class: Captain Wilson, Penn State, defeated Trousdell, Cornell, on decision. Time advantage: 4.31.

135-pound class: Hubler, Penn State, defeated Lipshitz, Cornell, on decision. Time advantage: 2.31.

145-pound class: Eisenman, Penn State, defeated McConnell, Cornell, on decision. Time advantage: 2.10.

158-pound class: Campbell, Penn State, threw Abkarian, Cornell, with half-nelson and crotch hold. Time: 4.09.

175-pound class: Johnson, Cornell, threw Kranmer, Penn State, with head chancery and body hold. Time: 5.40.

Heavyweight class: Captain Stafford, Cornell, defeated Pearce, Penn State, on decision. Time advantage: 9.47.

Referee, Davidson, Syracuse.

Place Second in Fencing

The fencing team placed second in a triangular meet with Yale and Hamilton in the Drill Hall February 23, scoring twenty points. Yale won by one point, scoring twenty-one, while Hamilton scored ten.

The Cornell foilsmen scored a signal victory over Yale, winning five of the nine foils bouts. Yale won the intercollegiate foils title last year.

In the dual meet competitions, Yale defeated Hamilton, 12-5, and Cornell, 9-8, while Cornell won over Hamilton, 12-5. Yale's single point margin over Cornell gave the Elis the first honors of the meet.

BOOKS

A Pioneer College

Illinois College: a Centennial History, 1829-1929. By Charles Henry Rammekamp '96, President of the College Since 1905. New Haven. Yale University Press. 1928. 25.9 cm., pp. xvi, 605. Price, $7.50.

Dr. Rammekamp has performed a difficult task with great skill and sound judgment. He has mastered his sources and has made a well connected and highly readable narrative. His book is bound to be read and treasured by all the members and friends of the college which he has served so faithfully for almost a quarter of a century.

But the work has a wider appeal. While there are many details which may not greatly interest the general reader, yet in its broad outlines the book is to be regarded as a valuable chapter in the historical development of education in the Middle West; and as such it may and will be read with interest and profit by many who have never seen the College. For what went on at Jacksonville is typical in many respects of early education in the West.

The movement which led to the founding of Illinois College was started by an itinerant missionary, John Millot Ellis, who, having practiced for some time the trade of a tanner, felt the urge to carry the Gospel to the remote places; so, after a course at Dartmouth and at Andover, he set out for the then Far West. Morgan County, Illinois, was already in 1929 one of the more thickly settled parts of the State, the entire population of which, however, was only around 160,000. Educational facilities were meager in the extreme. Ellis saw at once the need of a higher seminary of learning. The raising of funds among the pioneers was slow and difficult; but fortunately an announcement of the enterprise in The Home Missionary caught the eyes of a group of Yale men eager to go out as missionaries; and with their cooperation the new institution was launched. When the doors opened, on January 4, 1830, nine students presented themselves. The floors of Beecher Hall were completed, and the building was enclosed; but there was no lathing or plastering, no stove, no teacher's desk, and only a few of the pupils' seats were done. The first job was to put up a stove. Then Professor Shutevant spoke briefly to the students, offered prayer, and proceeded to find out what his pupils knew. "Not one of them had ever studied English grammar or geography, a few had learned the ground rules of arithmetic, and two had some knowledge of the rudiments of Latin." One is not surprised, then, to learn that collegiate instruction was not begun until 1831.

For many years Illinois College had a hard time financially. One reason for this was the courageous stand taken by the members of its faculty on the slavery question. Another was the panic of 1837, which dealt the College a severe blow. Denominational friction and jealousy also contributed to hold back the development of the College, as did also the gradual withdrawal of help from the East. In April, 1905, the debts of the College amounted to over $36,000 and it was running behind about $8,000 a year; its productive endowment was only about $155,000. Within a few years, thanks to Andrew Carnegie and others, the debts were paid, the endowment was increased, and the deficits were stopped. There are now over four hundred students.

On the scholastic side the record of Illinois College has been a notable one. It has fostered sound learning and truly liberal education. President Rammekamp deserves to be congratulated not only for a good book but also for a brilliantly successful administration, which he chronicles with perhaps excessive modesty.

Walking Popular

Contest Sponsored by Professor Young '99
to Continue Until March 23—
Leaders Announced

"Get There on Your Feet" is proving a popular slogan at Cornell, and the real enthusiasts for walking have not been stopped by the heavy snows of last week. The walking contest, for which an anonymous donor has put up a cup, began January 14, and will close March 23.

Participants may not record a daily mileage of more than ten miles, except on Saturday or Sunday, when twenty miles may be walked and recorded for either one of the two days.

The rules of the contest provide that walking about the house or between buildings on the campus may not be counted, and that no credit will be given for less than one mile of continuous walking. No part of the walk may be taken by automobile or train except in accordance with a fixed schedule previously planned. Reports of contestants must state accurately the route taken and the time consumed in each walk.

A schedule of distances and walks has been prepared by Professor Charles V. P. Young '99, whose suggestion inaugurated the contest.

The five leaders in the contest are Benjamin Kotov '32 of Dorchester, Mass., Jermain D. Porter '32 of Hagerstown, Md., Harold Saperstein '30 of Weehawken, N. J., Carl E. Van Deman '31 of Ithaca, and Maurice W. Jackson '31 of Candor.

DISCUSSES PRESIDENTIAL OATH

A letter written by Robert P. Ludlum '30 of Brooklyn, an associate editor of the Sun, and printed in The New York Times discloses that Franklin Pierce, fourteenth president of the United States, used the expression "I affirm" instead of "I swear" at his inauguration.

The letter was inspired by discussion over the possibility that Herbert Hoover's religion would prevent his answering "I swear" in taking the oath of office. Mr. Hoover is the first Quaker to become President, and Quakerism proscribes oaths.

Ludlum's letter to the Times follows in part:

"If our study of American history at Cornell University has had no other value, it has at least given us an acquaintance with some of the authorities on this subject. James Ford Rhodes in his 'History of the United States' says of President Pierce: 'When he took the oath he did not, as is ordinary, use the word swear, but accepted the constitutional alternative which permitted him to affirm that he would faithfully execute the office of President of the United States.'"

APPROPRIATION RETAINED

An item of $475,000 for a new building at the College of Home Economics has been retained in the executive budget of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt after it was revised by the Legislature's finance committees. Many other appropriations originally included in the budget were cut.

TWENTY STUDENTS took the Current Events examination conducted at the University February 16 by The New York Times. Winners of the contest in each college in which it was given will compete in a final examination.

WILLIS C. GORTHY '30 of Buffalo has been elected manager of the Orchestra. Gilmoure N. Cole '31 of Hopewell Junction has been named assistant manager.

TRUSTEE CANDIDATES NEEDED

It will be recalled that the alumni corporation has gone on record as favoring a field of at least one more than twice as many candidates as there are alumni trusteeships to be filled each year. The latter are usually two, the former five. For two or three years this has resulted in a larger field than formerly. It has never fully come up to the expectations of the corporation.

This mechanism offers as much advantage to those who run to succeed themselves as does any other. We are sure the two gentlemen whose terms expire in June would prefer to win by conquest rather than by default. We feel sure that this is always the case, and that Cornellians will all wish the trusteeship race to be a sporting event in which the best candidates win through sheer weight of ability and experience.

The year 1929 has progressed to nearly the first of March without a candidate or a sign of a candidate. Cornell is uppermost in the minds of many, and yet no one comes voluntarily to offer a candidate to assist in its management.

It is an honor to be nominated for a trusteeship and a bit more to win the election. We hope the partly established custom of having a sizeable field will not die in its early manhood. We hope none will think that the idea should be used only to boost or block some individual's game.

If the task of making a nomination seems too laborious, the service department of the ALUMNI NEWS will cheerfully get up the petition, get it signed and file it. What Cornell needs is nominations and acceptances of the nominations by the candidates. The rest is mere routine.

WARNER VISITS DOBIE

Glenn S. Warner '94, former football coach, came East last week for the annual meeting of the football rules committee. He was the guest of Coach Gilmour Dobie for several days and while in Ithaca renewed many friendships.

Warner, now coaching the Stanford eleven, approves the changes made in the football rules, as does Dobie. In an interview, he stated his belief that the new ruling which makes a fumbled ball dead at the point of recovery "will eliminate fluke victories and should make the game more spectacular.

"A fumble is not due to poor football, but an accident likely to happen to the best of backs. Under the new rule, the penalty for fumbling is worth on an average of thirty-five to forty yards as the team recovering may kick. The danger of the run to a touchdown is removed, but the possible loss of yardage is heavy enough. Forward passes are not included in the interpretations of the rule.

"The team carrying the ball has most of its men in front of it, while the defensive eleven has its men converging on the pigskin, with a good chance to take advantage of a mistake. Marking the ball dead on the spot of recovery will encourage more intricate plays."

The visit was Warner's first to Ithaca since 1924.

THE COLLEGE WORLD

PLANS are now being formulated for the institution of approximately seventy-five junior colleges in the State of Texas. The bill for State support of these institutions is now pending and its passage is predicted this year. Owing to the size of the State, the plan of junior colleges spread over the various important districts, with a central university for senior college work proves to be the most successful means of meeting the higher education requirements of the State. The colleges will receive support from the State only through specially authorized legislative bills of appropriation.

In The Alumnus of Iowa State College for February there is a portrait and sketch of Dean Anson Marston '89 of the Engineering Division of the College. Marston is now president of both of the Association of Land Grant Colleges and of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

PROFESSOR GEORGE A. SHIPMAN of the Department of Government addressed the Ithaca Women's Democratic Club on February 22 on "County Reorganization in New York State."

PROFESSOR OTHON G. GUERLAC of the Department of Romance Languages gave an address before the Saturday Lunch Club on February 23 on "France and Alsace since the War."

The Week on the Campus

THAT mysterious segment of human existence known within our walls as "After Life" or "The Outside World" impinges upon us at this season. No more do our graduates carry their diplomas to the anterooms of the great, there to plead pitifully for a position, an employment, a situation, or, if worse come to worst, a job. The great firms, recognizing that no business is better than its personnel, send their scouts to the University and sign up likely seniors as if they were big-league baseball players. During the past week we have had the educational director of the American Steel and Wire Company, the director of educational training of the Carrier Engineering Corporation, a personnel director of E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company, Joseph H. Speiden '27 of the General Electric Company, Earle C. Adams '28, Bruce S. Cornell '28, and John M. Francis, Jr., '27 of the Bell Telephone System, and the chief engineer of the E. M. Hauserman Company, all flourishing contracts in the face of the supercilious undergraduates.

A NEW TRUSTEE has been appointed by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, to succeed the late Thomas B. Wilson '88. He is Peter G. Ten Eyck of Albany, who is well known in public life, especially in connection with the promotion of agriculture. The Governor also appointed Frank E. Gannett '98 of Rochester to the Finger Lakes State Parks Commission.

THE GOVERNOR'S agricultural advisory committee has recommended that our Department of Animal Husbandry be strengthened through the appropriation of additional State funds. Fifty-five per cent of the farm income of the State comes from live stock, and the service of our research department in solving problems of feeding, breeding, and disease control is judiciously recognized.

THE COLLEGE of Home Economics was editorially lauded by that sober chronicle, The New York Times, on February 19. Miss Martha van Rensselaer '09, says the editor, saw "that the discontent, the restlessness, the maladjustments between the generations were in part due to unsatisfactory home conditions. These, in turn, she felt were the result of ignorance and prejudice. Her sound experience led her to believe that by removing these obstacles better spiritual as well as economic conditions could be brought about, that by correcting errors of diet, by helping to make the house more attractive, by showing how economics could be effected at the same time that comforts were increased, it would be possible to make the home more satisfactory to live in." He concluded that the college must have further support.

"THIS IS A GOOD time to buy a farm at a low price in western New York," said Dr. George F. Warren '03 of the College of Agriculture. The prices are lower than they have been for a long time. We are glad to pass on the tip. He said also; "The purchasing power of hogs will rise for a year or two." That is always one of the annoying things about prosperity.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS of the week: Ernest Rhys, author, poet, and editor of the famous Everyman's Library, lectured on February 22 on "The Modern English Novelists"; George Young, British diplomat and writer on politics, spoke on February 23 on "Sea Power and Naval Disarmament"; Dr. Adolf Morsbach, director of the Kaiser Wilhelm Society for the Promotion of Science, spent several days here studying our equipment and methods; and Glenn S. ("Pop") Warner '94 was the guest of Mr. Dobie for a few days.

PRESIDENT FARRAND, with Professors Francke H. Bosworth and Lewis Knudson '11, returned from their trip to Guatemala, Honduras, and Havana. In Havana they were the guests of the Cornell Club. Among those present was General Mario Garcia Menocal '88, former president of Cuba.

THE CORNELL DEMOCRATIC CLUB is to be added to the list of organizations. It is an outgrowth of the Smith-for-President Club of the recent campaign. Its initial meeting was addressed by Professors Martin W. Sampson, George W. Cavanaugh '93, Julian P. Bretz, and Charles L. Durham '99, and by City Judge Daniel Crowley '07. The officers are George E. Heekin '29, president, Miss Kathryn A. Hannon '29, vice-president, Thomas D. Kelley '31, secretary, George M. Michaels '31, treasurer, and Walter E. Sundell '29, executive committee member.

THE FRESHMEN WOMEN'S play, "The Sleeping Beauty," was staged on Friday and Saturday, and received the vigorous plaudits of the audiences. Jane F. O'Neil's interpretation of her part received the warmest of the critic's encomia.

THE WOMEN are planning to group the seniors and the sophomores in the new dormitories now under construction, with the juniors and freshmen in Sage and Risley. The W. S. G. A. will alter its organization to fit the new arrangement.

THE ENDOWMENT funds of Cornell, in the form of securities worth $20,000,000, are now in the vaults of the National Bank of Commerce of New York, whither they have been shipped in small consignments during the past month by Comptroller Charles D. Bostwick '92. The transfer was made without mishap.

TEMPLE BETH-EL, Ithaca's synagogue, just erected at the corner of Tioga and Court Streets, was dedicated on Sunday, President Farrand making the principal address. Henry Gichner '29, for the Jewish students of the University, delivered a message of welcome. The incumbent is Rabbi I. B. Hoffman, of Utica, who is also director of the Hillel Foundation for Jewish University Students.

ONE OF the oldest firms in Ithaca is to disappear. The book and stationery store of Andrus and Church, founded in 1824 under the name of Andrus and Mack, is to make way for the Home Dairy Company. William A. Church will, however, continue his printing and bookbinding business.

EIGHT BELOW last Saturday.

THE Sun publishes editorially a satirical "Cornellian's Credo," which you may regard as material for the study of the undergraduate mind and thought. The Cornellian, asserts the Sun, believes: that in the Arts college students must think; that in Engineering they work hard, but don't have to think; that most of the Faculty are interested in scholarship or research, and that good scholars cannot be good teachers; that daylight saving was adopted because professors feared that alumni pressure would cost them their jobs; that daylight saving was discarded because professors could not figure out what time it was down town; that Rym Berry would like to wear knickers with evening clothes; that we do not have winning football teams because all the players are bought up by other colleges; that engineers whistle at the girls out of sheer boyish devilment and not because they would do the same thing if they weren't engineers; that ushering at football games and being chairmen of committees are honors; and that it is an unpardonable sin to say "frat," but that there is no particular harm in stealing two bits from the house store. M. G. B.

HOME FROM TROPICS

President Farrand, Professor Lewis Knudson, Ph.D. '11, and Professor Francke H. Bosworth returned to Ithaca on February 22 after a three weeks' visit to Guatemala, Honduras, and Cuba. In Guatemala the Cornellians were guests of the United Fruit Company, and they made inspections of many fruit plantations being cultivated in Central America.

The party traveled extensively by train, boat, motor, and airplane. President Farrand inspected Maya monuments and the ruins of ancient Central American civilizations.

At Havana, President Farrand and Professor Bosworth were guests of a large group of Cornellians. They journeyed by airplane from Havana to Miami, Florida, where they were also guests at a luncheon given by Cornellians.

"Book of Views" and other Viewbooks

Several thousand copies of the Book of Views have been sold but this number represents only a small proportion of the Cornellians who should be interested. The price of $4.00 is below the cost of production but aids the University through the Cornellian Council. Why wait for another Christmas to roll 'round?

Songbooks

Probably the larger part of the purchases of songbooks at Christmas time are for gifts. If they are so desirable there must be Cornellians now who need songbooks. The price is $1.75 postage paid.

Cross Section Papers

We do not wish to disturb your evening's thoughts by suggesting business but many men read their business magazines in the evening. When I read something worth while I put a slip in my pocket to be acted on next morning at the store. Write for the Co-op cross section samplebook.

Candy

The Christmas supply of candy must be about gone and a craving for more by now with you. Try a box of Whitman's Campus chocolates at $1.50 per pound. This is our most popular assortment at Christmas time. Keep it in mind for birthdays.
