ITHACA, N. Y., FEBRUARY 25, 1926

PRICE 12 CENTS

WITH the departure of the last Farmers' Week guest the University settled down to uninterrupted work, with nothing of special note to look forward to before spring vacation in April. That is, unless the weather be considered exciting, and any one who spends a week in Ithaca will say it is. Snow, followed by rain and thaw, makes canoeing on the main thoroughfares seem imminent, and then the thermometer drops twenty or thirty degrees, and Beebe Lake becomes but a small part of the skating rink covering the town. It is never possible to predict in the morning whether it will be Florida, Venice, or Lake Placid that Ithaca will most resemble by night.

THIS is the season of competitions. Most of the college publications are out to corral all the bright boys possible to carry on the work next year, with the Sun, the Graphic, the Civil Engineer, the Sibley Journal, and the Countryman already in the arena. Eight freshmen have reported for the Sun's second business competition for freshmen this year, and four juniors and six sophomores are out for the Civil Engineer. The other publications report similar figures.

IN ADDITION to the business competition of the Sun, C. D. X. director of the Berry Patch, announces that he is looking for a potential F. P. A. or Heywood Broun among the students to become C. D. XI and run the Patch next year.

TWO SOPHOMORES and six freshmen have reported for the business competition of the Dramatic Club, and two juniors, one sophomore, and two freshmen for the staging competitions.

AT A MEETING of the Executive Council of the University Orchestra, Robert L. Zentgraf '27 of New York was elected manager for the coming year, and Henry L. Page '28 of Phelps, assistant manager.

THE ANNUAL RECEPTION of the Dean of Women to the Faculty was held on the evening of February 16. Receiving with Dean Georgia L. White '96 were the wardens of Sage and Prudence Risley, Miss Grace A. Seely '04 and Miss Gertrude Nye, and the women of the senior class.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB on February 19 and 20 presented "The Shadow of the Glen" by John M. Synge, "The Dumb and the Blind" by Harold Chapin, and "The Medicine Show" by Stuart Walker. All are one-act comedies.

THAT BUT ONE term remains between them and the cold cold world is being impressed upon the seniors by the influx into Ithaca of representatives of firms on the look-out for smart young men. Practically every day the Sun carries the announcement that a representative of some organization is in town to talk to seniors on the opportunities available in his firm, and to take the names of any who are interested. The student who has made something of his education is apparently to be spared the ordeal of overcoming the office boy and the bored stenographer on his way to ask the president of some business for a job.

BECAUSE of the enthusiastic reception given by Junior Week audiences to the performances of Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" the comedy was repeated by the Dramatic Club February 12 and 13. The leading roles of Jack and Algy were played by H. L. Woodward, Jr., '29 of Cincinnati, and Malcolm B. Stark '27 of Brooklyn.

HIRERS of taxis during Junior Week were quite agreed that Captain Kidd left a flock of descendants, who might even show that old hand a trick or two at the pirate game. The announcement of Vincent J. Coffey '28, that he had formed the Fifty Cent Taxi Company, was therefore greeted with applause. The company will take one to four passengers anywhere within the city limits for fifty cents. The other companies are reported to be a little peeved.

SUPERINTENDENTS of departments for the State Fair, recently named by the State Fair Commission, include Professor Elmer S. Savage '09, cattle department, and Professor Arno H. Nehrling, flower department.

A LONG letter to the Sun, from a graduate student in chemistry, Mahadeva L. Schroff of Behar, India, continues the comment started by the Sun's publication of a guide to courses. Of the nine chemistry courses he analyzes, he has kind words to say about four, but actually praises only one, Introductory Physical Chemistry. Of the others he objects either to subject matter or presentation, and in the case of Advanced Organic Chemistry, to both. He writes, "There could not be any worse course in any department." Whatever the merit of these student analyses, in this case at least the critic is not rationalizing and letting off anger at low marks, for he has uniformly received high grades.

PROFESSOR A. BRUCE CURRY conducted a series of round-table conferences on February 19, 20, and 21, on "A Fresh Interpretation of the Life and Personality of Jesus in Relation to Life." The conferences were under the auspices of the United Christian Work at Barnes Hall, and a large number of both students and Faculty members registered. Mr. Curry is a student and lecturer at Union College.

PROFESSOR ERNST COHEN, of the University of Utrecht, Holland, has arrived in Ithaca to take up his duties as non-resident lecturer in chemistry for the term. He is one of the world's greatest authorities on the effect of high pressure on chemical reactions and metastability of metals. He will give two lectures a week on "Physico-Chemical Metamorphosis."

THE FORESTERS' CLUB has elected the following officers for the coming year: Seth Jackson '26 of Saginaw, Michigan, president; Willoughby H. Walling '27 of Hubbard Woods, Illinois, vice-president; Ernest C. Abbé '28 of Yonkers, secretary; and J. D. Pond '28 of Albany, treasurer.

PROFESSOR MARTIN W. SAMPSON read a number of his poems and short essays on February 21, to an audience of Faculty and students meeting in Memorial Hall in Willard Straight. These informal gatherings, at which some Cornellian speaks before the friendly open fire, are being held every Sunday evening.

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS of the Ithaca Community Chest have elected Harry G. Stutz '27 president and Harold Flack '12 vice-president. The community chest takes care of raising money for all of Ithaca's charitable institutions.

LECTURES were many during the past week. The largest crowd assembled February 19 to hear Professor Henry Fairfield Osborn of the American Museum of Natural History, whose address on "Convincing Evidence of the Geologic Antiquity and Creative Evolution of Man" had to be transferred from Baker Laboratory to Bailey Hall. Others on the calendar were "Tivoli: Hadrian's Villa and the Villa d'Este," by Professor Eugene P. Andrews '95, on February 15; "Europe in Recovery," by S. K. Ratcliffe, and "Laboratories and University Towns in France," by Professor Emile M. Chamot '91, on February 16; "Florence," by Professor Andrews, and "The Russian Soviet System in Operation," by Dr. Anna Louise Strong, on February 18; "Educational Forces in the Far East," by Dr. Strong, on February 19. Six lectures on admiralty and maritime law were given daily before the Law School by Hon. Harrington Putnam, formerly Justice of the Appellate Division of the New York Supreme Court.

OMICRON NU, honorary Home Economics Society, has elected Helen M. Bull '26 of Middletown treasurer of the organization.

Tank for Cornell

Major Seaman Obtains Fighting Machine as War Trophy for University

Through the efforts of Major Louis L. Seaman '72, a former alumni Trustee, Cornell will soon receive the famous fighting tank, "America," as a gift from the British War Office. This tank, which took part in all the major engagements on the Western Front after America entered the War, was presented to the British Army by a New York woman whose name has not been made public. Throughout the War, the front of the tank bore a brass plate with this inscription: "Presented to the British War Office through Major Louis Livingston Seaman, President of the British War Relief Association of New York. The only good Hun is a dead one. Tank, do your duty!"

That the tank did its duty according to instructions is apparent from the notes of its activities written by Major C. L. T. Matheson of the Royal Engineers. Notes in connection with two battles in which Americans took part are here reprinted:

"On July 4, 1918, in the big attack with the Americans, which was so entirely successful, the tank started off a little before dawn, leading the infantry, and remained out all day in front of the attack. During the fight it destroyed several machine gun nests and one trench mortar, besides killing a great many Germans. On its way back it was able to pick up several wounded Americans and Australians and convey them to the dressing station.

"On August 8 it took part in the great counter-offensive against Amiens which made such a successful advance and freed the country for many square miles, besides opening up the Amiens-Paris Railway once more. Starting at dawn it fought successfully until the battle was over. Numerous machine guns were destroyed, and Germans attempting to fire were killed. A hostile gun was knocked out of action at six hundred yards' range. Upon the tank's firing into a farmhouse, a large number of Germans ran out and surrendered. On this occasion the tank, 'America,' took two hundred prisoners single-handed. It returned at the end of the day without casualties in spite of heavy shelling."

The Cunard Steamship Line has volunteered to transport the tank to this country free of all charges, as "the gift of a nation to a new nation." Final arrangements for its reception and disposition at Cornell have not yet been made.

Fifty men took part in the Glee Club trials held on February 15, of whom sixteen were chosen. The director reports they are a promising lot, and with another try-out scheduled for an early date, it seems assured that the Club next year will live up to the good reputation of its predecessors.

SPORT STUFF

The more conscientious readers of this column will remember that just before Junior Week I expressed the hope that the event would arouse the undergraduates from their ennui. I recorded the impression that these undergraduates were too middle-aged and the suspicion that they wore their winter underclothes right up to the fourth of July and gargled their throats before retiring. I regretted that they were devoid of emotion and that nothing made them mad except their occasional inability to get a desired book at the Library.

The Cornell Sun responded with this:

UNDERGRADUATE LETHARGY

A Cornell official writing in a recent issue of the ALUMNI NEWS bemoans a lethargy from which the inability to obtain a desired book from the library alone is able to arouse the undergraduate. Nothing else, he continues, can make them mad.

The "shaving blue" era in American universities, he forgets, is gradually passing, an era which manifested itself by blatant displays of college spirit and heated disputations between classes. In its place, we hope, is coming a more serious attitude toward studies and courses. Undergraduate activities are commendable and beneficial but only in their subordination to the real purpose of a college education and when this desire for intellectual attainment is exhibited, we feel constrained to give a cheer for Cornell.

But when the undergraduate has no interest other than obtaining a D in his subjects every February and June, this lassitude is unhealthy and might well be the cause of consternation to university officials, both academic and athletic.

I now offer that editorial in evidence and I submit that it substantiates every allegation of the indictment—that the undergraduates have become prudent, discreet, sagacious, and middle-aged.

What chance would you have to seduce that boy from his lessons on a soft Spring night to snare suckers in Six Mile Creek?

Frivolity, lightness of touch, spontaneity, joyousness, youthfulness, irrepressibility are qualities still to be found in universities, but the hunting is better in the higher administrative offices and among the more learned professors than in the dormitories. You could get a Dean or two for sucker spearing any time. And if the night were particularly inviting it would not be too difficult, I think, to recruit the President for such brave adventure.

And may I add in avoidance that when I speak of heavy underclothes I refer to mental attitudes and not to the more robust and utilitarian forms of lingerie. I can't risk having the work of a busy office interrupted by a visit from a literal and indignant Sun board who desire to confound my contentions by showing me their nainsook unmentionables.

CONDITION OF THE AG. COLLEGE

The thirty-eighth annual report of the College of Agriculture has lately appeared as a pamphlet of eighty-seven pages.

The State appropriations for the year for agriculture and home economics amounted to $1,625,232, an increase of $95,670 over the previous year. Under the Purnell Act, which became a law on July 1, the experiment stations received $20,000 for the support of special studies, which are to be devoted to certain special topics in the fields of agricultural and home economics, home management, rural sociology, and production. The General Education Board has given the University a grant of $10,000 a year for five years for the purpose of increasing the facilities for graduate study in the Department of Rural Education. The Laura Spelman Rockefeller Foundation has given the University a grant of $13,000 annually for four years to be devoted to initiating work in child care and training in the College of Home Economics.

The building program of the College has been regrettably retarded, owing to the fact that no further appropriations were made for this purpose in 1925, the view being advanced that this program should be part of a larger State building program for which a State bond issue is proposed. The College must therefore resign itself to still another year of the really embarrassing space conditions that have hampered the work for many years.

The College is joining with the International Education Board in a project which is being carried on with the University of Nanking in China. The plan contemplates a thorough-going study of plant improvement in China on the basis of modern methods of hybridization and selection. The College will release, for a part of each year and through a series of years, some of its experts in plant breeding, and their support will be furnished by the International Education Board and the University of Nanking, the latter institution furnishing also the land and facilities for the work to be done. The plans include also the training of native Chinese to carry forward plant improvement permanently.

The enrollment of students in agriculture since 1924 has dropped markedly in all the older and larger colleges. Cornell is no exception. Our losses have been in part counterbalanced by increases in home economics and in graduate students, so that the total enrollment is now less than twenty-five per cent below that of 1915-16. There were 1204 regular students as compared with 1174 the previous year.

Marked progress in research is noted. The description of papers and monographs published and the list of papers ready for publication fills twenty pages.

Extension work has been carried forward vigorously. A tuberculosis eradication plan campaign was carried on at the Allegany Indian reservation in Cattaraugus County. The Tuscaroras in Niagara County have turned from dairymen into fruit raisers and under guidance from college leaders are doing well. The extension workers spent 656 days in the field and reached a total of 311,150 persons. The Farm Bureau now has 28,503 members, a slight increase over 1924. The number of publications totaled 105; these contained 3,842 pages and were issued in editions amounting to 1,350,700 copies. The number of copies of publications distributed amounted to 1,144,576.

The reports of the activities of individual departments, which fill twenty-eight pages, give evidence of intelligent activity and energetic performance of the various duties involved.

TRUSTEES GRANT LEAVES

The Board of Trustees on February 6 granted twenty-one leaves of absence to members of the Faculty. In the College of Arts and Sciences these men were granted leaves: Frederick C. Prescott, professor of English, second term, 1926-27; Harry P. Weld, professor of Psychology, second term, 1926-27; Earl H. Kennard '13, Ph. D., assistant professor of physics, both terms, 1926-27; Carleton C. Murdock '10, assistant professor of physics, first term, 1926-27; Charles L. Durham '99 Ph. D., professor of Latin, first term, 1926-27; Arthur W. Browne '03, professor of chemistry, second term, 1925-26.

Twelve members of the faculty of the College of Agriculture were granted leaves: E. Laurence Palmer '11, professor of rural education, both terms, 1926-27; James D. Brew '12, extension professor of dairy industry, both terms, 1926-27; Emery N. Ferris, professor of rural education, second term, 1926-27; Frederick G. Behrends '16, extension professor of rural engineering, both terms, 1926-27; Julian E. Butterworth, professor of rural education, first term, 1926-27; Charles Chupp Ph. D. '17, extension professor of plant pathology, both terms, 1926-27; Jay Coryell '12, county agent leader, second term, 1926-27; Laurence H. McDaniels Ph. D. '17, professor of pomology, both terms, 1926-27; Gustave F. Heuser '15, professor of poultry husbandry, both terms, 1926-27; Edmund L. Worthen '06, extension professor of agronomy, first term, 1926-27; Earle V. Hardenburg '12, professor of vegetable gardening, both terms, 1926-27; Cora E. Binzel, professor of rural education, both terms, 1926-27.

In the College of Engineering Herbert H. Scofield '05, professor of civil engineering, was granted a leave of absence for the first term, 1926-27.

In the College of Law Edwin H. Woodruff '88, professor of law, was granted a leave for the second term, 1925-26, and Horace E. Whiteside '22, assistant professor of law, was granted a leave for both terms, 1926-27.

REMINISCENCES OF DR. ADAMS

Writing from 1125 Westover Avenue, Norfolk, Va., under date of January 16, to The Michigan Alumnus, Professor Emeritus William H. Mace, '90-91 Grad., Michigan '83, has the following to say about the late President Charles Kendall Adams:

In a late number of the Alumnus you very properly referred to Charles Kendall Adams as the pioneer in introducing the historical seminar to undergraduates in this country. This allusion was made appropriate on the occasion of the meeting of American Historical Association with the University. Last year at a similar meeting of the Association at Richmond, Virginia, I had the honor to call the attention of the Association to the same fact.

It must have seemed odd to Professor Frank H. Hodder, who was present to listen to the discussion of a topic whose importance had been settled over forty years before in the seminar of Charles Kendall Adams. Among other things, I told the "boys" in that discussion that nearly fifty years ago Dr. Adams returned from Europe full of enthusiasm for seminar work which he had imbibed in the seminars of Germany, Leopold Von Ranke's seminar probably among them; that he gathered together two graduates, Professor Lucy M. Salmon and George W. Knight, and a number of seniors, including Professor Frank H. Hodder and myself, and a number of others; that these persons were organized into a seminar, were assigned topics, gathered their authorities, and made reports in meetings for discussion and criticism, sometimes in Dr. Adams' library; that in the second semester of the year '82-'83, Dr. Adams announced that we should hold a joint meeting with the History and Political Science Association, lately established; that I could recall two facts about that meeting: that it fell to my lot to read a part of my thesis, and that Dean Thomas M. Cooley was one of the distinguished guests on that occasion; that this seminar did not unearth any startling new historical facts, but its members did gather some notion of the ideas and methods which historians employ in working out their problems.

Now, Mr. Editor, whether I accomplished my purpose or not I did want those young and enthusiastic historians to feel that on this particular topic they were nearly half a century behind times.

A few more words about Charles Kendall Adams, of a reminiscent nature. The students nicknamed about every member of the Faculty. Sometimes the designation arose from some personal peculiarity such as "Long" Jones and "Short" Jones, but to Adams they gave the name of "Droop Eye," because one of his eyelids drooped a bit. This may have seemed a bit odd to seize on such a peculiarity, but on the part of the student there was not the least reflection in such a designation.

Dr. Adams never played to the "galeries" in lecturing. He did not care, apparently, whether he was lecturing to six or six hundred students. He began his work in a very formal way: "Ladies and Gentlemen," and when he was done he disappeared. But in his seminar he was friendly, sympathetic, cordial, and helpful. How helpful to young men and women just pushing out into the world to have this personal contact with a great man!

In the course of time Dr. Adams succeeded Andrew D. White as president of Cornell University. There Mrs. Adams died. Cornell had also lost a generous giver in Mr. Alfred S. Barnes. After the proper time had passed Dr. Adams began courting, on the sly, Mrs. Barnes, a handsome woman. She was in London on a summer's vacation and met one of Cornell's most famous Professors, and naturally asked about President Adams. "Oh! That old farmer! Well, he would do better on a farm!" The professor had the pleasure of meeting the farmer and his new wife in the fall. These two bits of gossip are related to show that great men are the victims of "jokes and jibes" by faculty and students, but usually these are not hard to live down if mixed with a bit of humor.

Dr. Adams became president of the University of Wisconsin. When he died in 1902 he left a magnificent foundation for fellowships in history for that university.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

Chicago

The luncheon supervised by William J. (Bill) Miskella '05 on February 11 was one of the best. There were fifty present, representing classes from '73 to '25. It was aviation day, and Bill's guest was Colonel Charles Dickinson, the sixty-seven-year-old flier and widely known president of the Aero Club of Illinois. Colonel Dickinson started his career in the air in 1910, learning the active work of a pilot when over fifty years of age, and has been continuously in the air game as a builder and operator of aircraft since that time.

On February 18 Roger Vail '16 was in charge of the meeting. Sixty were in attendance. Among the visitors were representatives of Michigan, Northwestern and Dartmouth. Major General George Bell, Jr., '94, who commanded the 33d Division during the War, made a short talk on early days in the Army. He was followed by William English, a prominent Chicago lawyer, whose father was in command of a company in the Indian campaign which culminated in the battle in which General Custer lost his life. Mr. English read extracts from his father's diary made on the battlefield only a few hours after Custer's last fight. And finally Colonel William A. Graham, prominently known as a military historian, gave a brilliant address on the Battle of the Little Big Horn.

Elmira

President Farrand was the guest of honor and principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Cornell Club of Elmira, held at the Country Club on February 15. There were eighty in attendance. In addition to the Cornellians, a number of guests were invited, representing other leading colleges and universities.

Jervis Langdon '87, president of the club, presided as toastmaster. He first introduced Lewis Henry '09, who in turn introduced, with his usual eloquence, the guests of the evening. The second speaker of the evening was Professor Hamilton of Elmira College. A quartet composed of Leslie D. Clute '13, Raymond A. Perry '18, Lewis Henry, and Mr. Monroe, one of the guests of the evening, furnished music for the occasion.

Dr. Farrand delivered a most inspiring address, first covering problems facing higher education in general, and then turning to the specific problems of Cornell.

Founder's Day

The Cornell Women's Club of Cleveland had a Founder's Day dinner in January at the College Club with an evening of social entertainment after a short business meeting. Resolutions of regret were passed concerning the resignation of Dr. Georgia L. White '96 as Dean of Women. These resolutions were ordered sent to her and to the President and Trustees.

The Cornell Alumni Society of Washington, D. C., held a Founder's Day meeting, word of which was not received in time for the general report of celebrations published several weeks ago.

Washington

The Cornell Alumni Society of Washington gave its annual dance February 5 at 2400 Sixteenth Street. Mrs. Raymond W. Bell (Carol Curtis) '21 was in charge. Abbie S. Tingley '19 was chairman of the ticket and invitation committee. Samuel Rosey '15 and his orchestra furnished excellent music. Among the distinguished Cornellians acting as patrons and patronesses were Hon. Sao Ke Alfred Sze '01 and Mme. Sze.

Hawaii

The Cornell Club of Hawaii held its annual meeting at the Oahu Country Club following a dinner in celebration of Founder's Day. Sixteen were in attendance. In the absence of Cornell visitors, an informal get-together was held at which several members spoke on incidents of their college life at Cornell. Dr. Nils P. Larsen '16 spoke on the founding of the Medical College in New York and his college life there. Although Dr. Larsen is a Cornellian, he said he had never visited Ithaca.

A letter was read from the He Hui Hawaii Club at Cornell giving the news of the University of today. New officers for the coming year are: president, Robert Alexander Anderson '16; vice-president, Dr. Larsen; secretary and treasurer, William W. G. Moir '18.

OBITUARY

Monfort D. Weeks '73

The word has just been received that Monfort David Weeks died at Albion, Mich., on March 30, 1920. He came to Cornell in 1869 from Houston, Del., and was a science student for four years. During that time he was a member of the Philathea Society.

William F. Nicholson, '90-91 Grad

Brief word has been received that William Franklin Nicholson, a graduate student during the year 1890-91, died in Toulon, Ill., on April 7, 1922.

Jo D. Murray '93

Jo Dorr Murray died in Kobe, Japan, on December 12, 1922, it has just been learned. He came to Cornell in 1892 from Hillsdale, N. Y., as a student of architecture and remained only one year.

George H. Smith, Sp. '13

Dr. George H. Smith died on September 28, 1925, at New Castle, Ind. He was born on August 21, 1873, and later attended Illinois Medical College. In 1912 he came to Cornell from East Orange, N. J., as a special student of medicine and remained for one year.

John W. Lee, Sp. '15

Dr. John William Lee died on March 11, 1925, in Minneapolis, Minn. He was a special medical student in the University during the year 1914-15.

John W. McCauley, Jr., '20

John Worden McCauley, Jr., died on December 26 at the Johns Hopkins Hospital after an operation to remove a brain tumor.

He was born in Rochester, N. Y., on November 15, 1894, the son of Dr. and Mrs. John W. McCauley. He attended a high school in Rochester and then went for three years to Union College, in the class of 1918. In the War he served in France for a year as a member of the Rochester Base Hospital Unit. In the fall of 1919 he entered Cornell as a student of arts and sciences, and graduated in 1920 with the degree of A. B.

After leaving Cornell, he took a position with the Rochester Gas & Electric Company and was in its security department at the time of his death. In 1922 he married Miss Eunice Bickford of Rochester. He is survived by his wife, and two children, John W. McCauley III and Edward Bickford McCauley.

LITERARY REVIEW

A Book on Cheeses

The Book of Cheese. By Charles Thom, '02-4 Grad., and Walter W. Fisk '10, Professor of Dairy Industry in Cornell. Revised Edition. New York. Macmillan. 1925. 19.3 cm., pp. xxiii, 415.

The first edition of this sterling book was issued in 1918. Since then there has been distinct progress in the investigation of cheese problems, new varieties of cheese have been developed (e.g. loaf cream, Pasteurized or Process), and some changes have been made in commercial processes. All these are reflected in the new edition, which forms an indispensable handbook for the student and practitioner alike.

Although the rapid growth of the great cities has revolutionized rural conditions and has caused much more raw milk to be sent to the city than formerly, the cheese industry still flourishes. The total product of the United States increased in 1879-1919 from two hundred to four hundred eighty million pounds. The average per capita consumption of cheese in the United States increased in 1909-19 from 3.8 to 4.2 pounds. Switzerland is the greatest cheese-eating country; the average Swiss consumes 26.4 pounds a year, twice as much as the Dutchman (13.3 pounds) or the Dane (12.3 pounds). The Briton contents himself with 11.2 pounds a year, the German with 9.5 pounds, and the Frenchman with 8.1 pounds. The United States exports $2,170,000 worth of cheese and imports $17,313,000 worth, mostly from Switzerland, Italy, and Canada. The wholesale price of cheese has advanced in 1910-23 from 16 to 25 cents a pound. Wisconsin is the chief cheese-producing State to-day; she makes twice as much as New York, which a quarter of a century ago was the leader.

Cheese remains one of the most useful of foods. A pound of American Cheddar cheese contains 1950 calories (compare porterhouse steak, 1270, dried beef, 790, eggs, 720, milk, 310, bread, 1215, potatoes, 385, apples, 290). Even cottage cheese is cheaper than most meats for supplying protein.

There are many varieties of cheese; names of more than five hundred varieties are on record. As a competitor for the place of the best known, Limburger is still going strong.

Tales of the Pennsylvania Dutch

Bred in the Bone and Other Tales. By Elsie Singmaster '02. Boston. Houghton Mifflin Company. 1925. 21 cm., pp. xii, 300. 9 illustrations by Elizabeth Shippen Green. Price, $2.50.

This handsomely bound volume contains an attractive collection of the author's best short stories. They are all concerned with that quaint old-fashioned folk, the Pennsylvania Dutch; and some characters run through several narratives, so that Miss Singmaster leaves the reader feeling that he has really had the pleasurable experience of knowing these plain but interesting people.

Plain lives they live, these Mennonites and Dunkers; yet the writer shows clearly the quiet force of character and definite personality which are a part of the native caliber of all of them.

The two Shindledecker sisters, Betsy and Tilly, who figure in most of the stories, are rare indeed; and their vivid experiences contrast strangely with their supposedly colorless existence. The visits of the collector of antiques against whom the sisters had to fortify themselves by the abolition of the masculine element of their household; the pow-wower by whose spell some of the weaker members of their little community were bound; the excited preparations for the coming of the end of the world; the Gray One; the Little and Unknowable; these are only a few of the touches of color that, with the quiet serenity and dignity of these people, produce an effect of artistry that leaves upon the reader's mind an impression best likened to that of an exquisite masterpiece of Vermeer or Millet, picturing the quaint peasant folk of Holland or France.

A WAR MEMORIAL AT LAST

WHILE the proper placing of such a gift as the tank America may give concern to those whose business it is to find adequate display for our monuments, the possession of a war trophy of such significant proportions and of such direct connection with Cornell's war traditions must give pleasure to all but the most belligerent pacifist.

It must comfort the monument department also to realize that the tank is in a sense portable. Its location need not at once be made permanent, unlike statues and other memorials. Only enough of its works must be removed to assure its maintaining its position until a location is discovered or made for a permanent war memorial. At that time the works can be restored and the memorial moved under its own power.

Too little has been done to symbolize Cornell's honorable part in the World War. The entrance into action, under Tinkham '17, of a Cornell fighting unit a whole summer before any other American college had begun to think of actual fighting—this event alone would have reared a marble shaft anywhere in New England. Cornell had its own fighting men, under the Stars and Stripes, in a unit bearing the name "Cornell" in action in the Aisne Sector on May 24, 1917. No one knows how many thousand Cornellians followed.

The record is as creditable as that of any group that participated.

If Major Seaman's foresight in securing as a gift to Cornell the tank which he was instrumental in securing as a gift to Great Britain when it was most needed bears fruit, we hope the fighting tank America may be the nucleus of a war memorial worthy of the record it commemorates.

ATHLETICS

Columbia Gives Battle

The team put up a stiff fight against Columbia in a match in the Drill Hall last Wednesday night, but the league leaders won a hard fought and close game by a score of 23 to 18. Their accurate foul shooting more than offset Cornell's superiority in throwing field baskets. The home team caged seven baskets from the floor to five for the Lions, but failed on the foul line. The Cornellians had twelve tries and made good only four. Columbia on the other hand converted thirteen of sixteen attempts into points.

The teams were about even up in guarding and passing. Columbia's team play was smoother, but it was the Lions' ability to make foul shots count that turned the tide. Cornell lost altogether too many of these shots, as in the Pennsylvania game. Albee had a field day on the floor, scoring four field baskets, two of them on long shots. Rossomondo also dropped in a long shot, and Moynihan an overhead basket that was the most spectacular play of the game. Rothenfeld, with one goal from the floor and six from the foul line, led the Columbia drive. Columbia led practically all the time, but never by a large margin. At half time the score was 12 to 8. The line-up:

Columbia (23)	Cornell (18)
Rothenfeld.....L.F.....	Albee
Laub.....R.F.....	Schaenen
Mannheim.....C.....	Dake
Madden.....L.G.....	Rossomondo
Lorch.....R.G.....	Moynihan

Summary: Goals from field: Columbia, Rothenfeld, Laub, Mannheim, Madden, Norris. Cornell, Albee 4, Rossomondo, Schlossbach, Moynihan. Goals from foul: Columbia, Rothenfeld 6, Laub 2, Madden 2, Mannheim, Lorch, Norris. Cornell, Dake 2, Albee, Moynihan. Substitutions: Columbia, Norris for Laub, Kirchmyer for Mannheim, Mannheim for Kirchmyer, Laub for Norris. Cornell, Schlossbach for Moynihan, Moynihan for Schaenen, Clucas for Rossomondo, Rossomondo for Schlossbach, Dill for Dake, Dake for Dill, Hall for Schaenen, Clucas for Moynihan, Masten for Rossomondo. Referee: Walsh, Hoboken. Umpire: Risley, Colgate.

Basketball Team Loses

Pennsylvania made it two straight in basketball by defeating Cornell in Philadelphia Saturday night by a score of 28 to 12. The Cornellians put up a stout fight in the first half, which ended 10 to 5 in favor of the Quakers, but they blew up in the second period. Inability to shoot foul goals, which cost them the Columbia game earlier in the week, again proved damaging. Thirteen out of twenty-one shots from the foul line were missed, while Pennsylvania made good on ten out of sixteen attempts. The Cornellians were unable to cut and most of their shots at the basket were wild.

Cornell scored only two baskets from the floor, one in each half, while Pennsylvania caged nine. When Coach Ortnor saw that the game was lost he sent in several substitutes to gain experience.

The line-up:

Pennsylvania (28)	Cornell (12)
Lindsay.....L.F.....	Schaenen
Davenport.....R.F.....	Albee
Scherr.....C.....	Dake
Ramage.....L.G.....	Rossomondo
Goldblatt.....R.G.....	Moynihan

Goals from floor, Ramage (3), Lindsay (2), Scherr (2), Davenport, Goldblatt, Albee, Clucas. Goals from foul, Lindsay (3), Davenport (3), Goldblatt (2), Ramage, Mathews, Albee (3), Schaenen (2), Dake, Moynihan, Clucas. Substitutions: Cornell Schlossbach for Moynihan, Scileppi for Schlossbach, Hall for Rossomondo, Masten for Hall, Clucas for Masten. Pennsylvania, Fields for Lindsay, Chapman for Scherr, Mathews for Davenport.

Wrestlers Win

The wrestling team proved its caliber Saturday by defeating Penn State at State College, Pa., by a score of 14 to 9. It was the first time in two seasons that Penn State, champions of the league for the past two years, suffered defeat. The Cornellians gained one fall, Geiers victory over Long in the 145-pound match and three decisions. Penn State gained three decisions. Most of the matches were close, and two of them went into extra periods. This makes the third consecutive victory for the Cornell wrestlers, and the result proved that the team is sure to be a factor in the championship matches in March. The summaries:

115-pound class: decision for Kaiser, Penn State, over Loeb, Cornell; advantage 2 minutes 15 seconds.

125-pound class: decision for Wallace Liggett, Penn State, over Eisenhauer, Cornell; advantage 6 minutes 45 seconds.

135-pound class: decision for Chakin, Cornell, over Captain Liggett, Penn State; advantage 1 minute 55 seconds.

145-pound class: Geier, Cornell, threw Long, Penn State, with half nelson and crotch hold. Time, 4 minutes 36 seconds.

158-pound class: decision for Partee, Cornell, over Packard, Penn State; advantage 2 minutes 55 seconds, in extra periods.

175-pound class: decision for Howard, Cornell, over Rumbaugh, Penn State; advantage 5 minutes, in extra periods.

Heavyweights: decision for Garrison, Penn State, over Captain Affeld, Cornell; advantage 2 minutes 55 seconds.

Referee: W. E. Cann.

Win and Lose at Hockey

The hockey team closed its season Saturday with a victory over Syracuse by a score of 2 to 0. The match was played at Syracuse. For three periods neither team scored, but in the last Captain Tilton drove the puck into the Orange net twice. Earlier in the week, on Wednesday, the Cornell sextet lost a well-played match on Beebe Lake to Princeton. The score was 2 to 1.

Tennis Team Defeats Columbia

Winning all but one match, the Cornell tennis team defeated Columbia in an indoor meet in the Drill Hall Saturday afternoon. The score was 6 to 1. Cornell won all of the singles matches, and the Lions took one of the two doubles.

Freshmen Basketball Team Wins

The freshman basketball team defeated the Rochester University freshman team by a score of 38 to 20 in the drill hall Saturday night.

Freshman Lose at Hockey

The freshman hockey team lost to the Ithaca High School sextet on Beebe Lake Saturday. The score was 6 to 1.

YOU
should read
this
BOOK

White's, Willard Fiske, Life and Correspondence. This book is very well written and illustrated. A great many Cornellians will remember the collection of his books left to the Cornell Library.

The price is $7.50

Troy's
Art Calendar

Perhaps you were too busy during the holidays to think of the Cornell Calendar. It is not yet too late to order now. While the sale this year has been larger we have a few left. Send in your order at once.

$1.55 Postpaid

Cornell Banners
and Pennants

Quality counts. At a slight extra cost, the Co-op furnishes only the best grade of felts and colors. Cheap banners soon fade. Write in for descriptions and prices. We are only too glad to serve you.
