Biomonitoring
Frequently Asked Questions

Question

What kinds of samples can be examined during biomonitoring?

Answer

Whole blood, serum, lymphocytes, white blood cells, urine, saliva, fat tissue (adipose tissue), breast milk, toenails, hair, and even exhaled breath.

Answered by: Suzanne Snedeker, Ph.D.

Last Reviewed: 10.19.05

Return to topic list