UNDEFEATED INDOORS

7 and 0

The indoor track season turned out to be one of Cornell's best ever. Records were broken as the team defeated every opponent it faced during the dual meet season.

Following the victory over Army (reported in the last issue) the Big Red track team took a 'breather'. The non-scoring Cornell Invitational provides Coach Jack Warner with an opportunity to find out how his men perform in unfamiliar events. The meet has grown and in its fourth renewal had athletes from 17 schools entered. Unfortunately the field was cut to 11 when a severe snow storm made travel impossible for many.

Notable performances were turned in by Tom Baker and Charlie Ferrell in the mile. They ran 1:2 in 4:15 and 4:17. Don Alexander won the 1000 in 2:15.8. Glen Fausset suffered a rare loss in the long jump, but came back in the triple jump to win at 45' 11" despite a very short runway.

NYU was the next team standing in the Red's way to an undefeated season. After expecting a tough battle, Cornell demolished the visitors 81-27. Top performance was Don Alexander's school record in the mile of 4:10.3. He was dogged all the way by Tom Baker who ran 4:11.5. Capt. Glen Fausset won three events, the long jump, high jump, and 60 yard dash. Two-miler Jon Anderson came out of a slump with a 9:00.6 win.

The thinclads continued to roll and notched their fifth win at Yale. The 61-48 victory was accomplished by an unusually balanced effort. Phil Ritson turned in an outstanding double. He placed second behind teammates in the one and two mile runs with times of 4:10.8 and 9:06. John McKeown and John Wyrough placed 1-2 in the 600 and Tom Baker and Charlie Ferrell duplicated in the 1000. In the field events, Randy Sokolik heaved the shot 51' 1" for a win. Glen Fausset had a tough dual with a Yale. In the long jump before coming out on top with his best of the year, 23' 7 1/2". The mile relay team trailed Yale but turned in a fine time of 3:20.9, anchored by McKeown's 48.8.

With the Heps just a week away, the track men had to divert their attention to a triangular meet with upstate rivals Colgate and Syracuse. The Big Red breezed to victory and would have defeated a combined team of Colgate-Syracuse. It was the first meet of the season on a banked board track and the runners showed no signs of inexperience. Tom Baker and Jon Anderson set Manley Fieldhouse records in the 1000 and two-mile. Their times were 2:11.9 and 9:02.4. Baker also anchored the two mile relay with a fine 1:54.8 leg. Glen Fausset continued to score heavily. He won the 160 yard dash and the long jump. Ken Rablee won the pole vault at 13' 6" and looked as if he could have gone higher.

The undefeated season was Cornell's first indoors since 1958. The Big Red defeated seven teams in six meets and was a Heps dark horse along with Princeton, Army, and Navy. Penn and Harvard were the decided favorites.

HEPS AND IC4A

Penn walked away with the 24th annual edition of the Heptagonal Games. Harvard, Navy, Princeton, Cornell and Army followed in that order. These teams were separated by just six points.

Tom Baker was the Cornell hero. He won the 1000 yard run in 2:12.8 and led most of the way. He came back in the two mile relay and moved into first only to be nipped at the tape by Penn. His split was 1:54.7. His championship was Cornell's first Heps win on the track in a long while.

Cornell scored 22 points. Its output suffered when Phil Ritson was hospitalized with whooping cough and Craig Cyphers ruled ineligible due to scholastic difficulties. Glen Fausset was the first scorer. He placed third in the long jump with a leap of 23' 1 1/2". Sophomore John McKeown came through with his best day ever. After a 1:12.6 in the 600 heats, he placed fifth in the final with 1:12.5. Later he anchored the mile relay team in 49.2. This team of John Wyrough, Paul Comiskey, Tex Cohen, and McKeown (all sophomores) placed second in 3:20.2. Wyrough and Cohen ran their bests ever, 50.4 and 49.5 respectively.

Jon Anderson led the two mile for all but the last lap and trailed a Harvard man then. The race was perhaps the most exciting of the night as both men were given the identical time of 8:56.6. The two mile relay team finished the Cornell scoring. Baker's teammates were Steve Maiben, Don Alexander, and Charlie Ferrell. Ferrell blazed a personal best of 1:52.9.

Cornell placed eighth in the IC4A championships. The meet was moved from Madison Square Garden to Princeton's Jadwin Gym, a 220 yard flat tartan oval. The team scored ten points in five events. Glen Fausset, after failing to score in the long jump Friday, came back Saturday to place second in the triple jump with record distance of 49' 11 1/2". He had a see-saw battle with the eventual winner from Pitt.

Jon Anderson smashed the Cornell two-mile record by almost 5 seconds. He placed fifth in 8:51.5. Mid-distance men Steve Maiben and Charlie Ferrell placed in the 1000 and 880 respectively. Both had to run two races in order to get into the finals. Ferrell was fifth in 1:53.6 Maiben amazed the team by running heats of 2:15.6 and 2:13.5.

HEPS AND IC4A

In the final he placed fourth with a fine 2:12.7. The last two marks were both personal bests.

The mile relay unit of Wyrough, Comiskey, Cohen and McKeown also had to run three races. The team ran 3:19.0 in the semis. Wyrough (49.9) Comiskey (50.1), and McKeown (48.5) ran all personal bests. In the final, lead-off man Wyrough collided with a falling competitor and went down himself. He gamely got up and quickly finished the remaining 300 yards of his leg. The team placed fourth despite the mishap.

Glen Fausset was the Big Red's lone competitor in the NCAA at Detroit. After two fouls in the triple jump, he leaped 47' 11\(\frac{1}{2}\)" and failed to qualify for the final round.

This indoor season was easily the best ever for Cornell in many years. The perfect 6-0 record followed a cross country record of 5-0-1. Cornell track and field has made great advances under Head Coach Jack Warner and Asst. Tom Pagan. The future continues to look bright.

OUTDOORS

After the extremely successful indoor season, the track team had hopes of continuing right on through the outdoor season undefeated. But a rash of illnesses and injuries weakened the previously strong squad. Phil Ritson left school after four weeks in the hospital. He was unable to make up the lost time in the classroom. Discus man Tony Blummenstetter and Hammer thrower Craig Cyphers were lost due to academic deficiencies. Finally, while training down in Florida, All-American six mile Jon Anderson suffered a stress fracture in his right foot. He missed the entire month of April.

The first dual meet was against Colgate in Ithaca. The losses suffered by the team made it a close meet. Colgate eeked out the win by a score of 79-74. Winners for the Cornell team were Tom Baker in the mile, John Wyrough in the 440, Charlie Ferrell in the 880, Tex Cohen in the 440 hurdles, and Don Alexander in the three mile. The team lost most of its points on the field. The only winners were John Pozhke in the javelin and Glen Fausset in the horizontal jumps. A dropped baton in the first event, the 440 relay, turned out to be the deciding factor of the meet.

The following week the Big Red traveled to Philadelphia for the famous Penn Relays Carnival. Glen Fausset was the only Cornellian to really shine. He won the long jump with a great leap of 25' 3\(\frac{1}{2}\)". The next day he broke his own school record in the triple jump. He placed third with a jump of 50' 7\(\frac{1}{2}\)". The runners did not fair nearly so well. John McKeown had the best effort on the track. He anchored the mile relay unit with a 47.8 leg in a consolation race.

Eastern powerhouse Penn was next in line for the trackmen. The Quakers have the best dual meet squad in the country to make this change. The 1971 freshmen track teams were full of talent at Cornell. Many of the fine performers will move quickly into top spots on the varsity.

Bob Anastasio and Phil Collins led the distance runners. Anastasio set a freshmen record of 1:53.2 in the 880 and ran 4:12.2 and 48.7 in a relay. He will also run cross country and should earn a spot on the first seven. Anastasio, from New York City, could very well be Cornell's first four minute miler. Collins is a true distance runner. He has bests of 4:17.4, 9:01.4, and 14:17.8 in the one, two and three mile runs. Phil, a native of New Jersey, is destined to become one of Cornell's growing number of two milers that have bested nine minutes in the two mile. He gets tougher as the distance gets longer.

Bruce Hulse, from Philadelphia area, already has shown great potential in the 440 intermediate hurdles. He has also shown that he can handle a basketball and will attempt to make the starting five on Jerry Lace's squad.

best time in the hurdles is 55.5, a freshmen record.
Field Coach Tom Pagani has been blessed with two outstanding high jumpers. Both Steve Lahr and Bob Wheeler cleared 6' 6". Lahr competes on the football team in the fall. Wheeler is versatile. He also long jumps and sprints.

Early word on the incoming freshmen, indicates that some outstanding talent will enter Schoellkopf Hall next year. Hopefully these rookies of the Class of 1975 will be able to fill weak spots in the sprints, hurdles, pole vault, and shot put.

CROSS COUNTRY PROSPECTS

Next year's cross country team promises to be Cornell's best ever despite the loss of Heps champion Jon Anderson. Anderson is the only loss from last year's undefeated lineup. Returning will be aces Don Alexander, Captain, and Phil Ritson. Alexander was third in last year's Heps and is Cornell's best miler ever. Ritson will be coming back after an illness wiped out his 1971 track season. Both are proven competitors. Another senior is Tom Baker, the Indoors Heps...
CROSS COUNTRY PROSPECTS

1000 champion. Baker improved considerably last year over five mile and will most likely continue. Other returning lettermen are Dave Oertel, Tim Cahill, and George Mitchell. The three showed signs of things to come last year. The most important goal for them will be to become consistent from week to week.

Add to this group an outstanding group of incoming sophomores and prospects look great. The leaders from the Class of 1974 are Phil Collins, Mike Walker and Bob Anastasio. Collins and Walker placed 2-3 in last year's Columbia Invitational. Collins and Anastasio hold freshman track records.

Next season will be especially interesting. It will be the first season that freshmen will be eligible in Ivy League varsity competition. Recruiting has gone fairly well for Coach Warner and he hopes several freshmen will find spots on the varsity squad.

One tie blemished last year's record and the 1971 hurdles will most likely remove that come next Fall. The Heps should turn out to be a Cornell vs. Penn battle.

E.C.A.C. AWARD

Charles S. Ferrell, '71 from Mequon, Wisconsin was the 1971 recipient of the Eastern College Athletic Conference Merit Award for excellence in the classroom as well as on the athletic field. Charlie had a 3.7 academic average and improved from a 2:04.4 half-mile in high school to :49.5, 1:52.7, and 4:14.0 at Cornell. One such award is given at each member institution each year. We are particularly pleased that one of our trackmen won it this year. The presentation ceremony was a surprise to Charlie and the award was presented by Mr. Charles M. Werly '27, member of the Cornell Board of Trustees and former Cornell track captain.

COACHES COMMENTS

Starting this Fall we in the Ivy League will join the rest of the colleges in the country in the use of Frosh on our varsity squads in cross country and track. This should help us quite a bit as it will also help our opponents. However it will put us in a better competitive situation when we meet teams outside the league who have been using Frosh on their varsity. We will also field a JV team for those Frosh and upperclassmen who do not make the varsity.

The 1970-71 school year was a very good one as we look back over it. We had some bad luck towards the end with academic deficiencies, sicknesses, and injuries, not to mention bad weather this Spring. However as we look over the year we must be thankful for the first 2/3 of the year as the cross country team went undefeated and the indoor track team also was undefeated.
