How to use ‘Our English Book’

These pictures tell you what to do:

This means read silently. Usually you can discuss with your friend. Sometimes your teacher will tell you to work alone.

This means read, and do writing activities. Only write answers, never write the questions.

This means write. Usually you can write in your copy. Sometimes you will write on paper or chart paper.

This means talking. Sometimes it is a game, sometimes it is all the class talking about something. Sometimes it is telling a story or acting a drama. Sometimes it is talking about new language.

This means practise talking with your friend. Your teacher will show you how to do it, then everyone can practise with their partner. Sometimes you can act. Sometimes you can talk about the answer with your friend.

This means read, talk about it, and write about it too.

This means listen. There will be things to do. Read the instructions carefully first.

Every unit has a story about Chankhay the clever monkey. Your teacher will tell you to listen or to read. You can learn and act the stories with your friends. You can ask and answer questions. You can make the stories longer.

Language boxes are for practising and checking new things. You can say the sentences using different words. You can ask and answer questions with your friend. They help you to remember.

Puzzles are fun to try alone or with a friend.

Several exercises are marked with a star *. This means that although the work is important for improving reading skills and for giving enough necessary practice, no essentially new language which needs teaching in class is introduced. So these starred exercises can be used in a variety of ways:-
for homework, followed by brief classroom discussion or written work; for classwork with students working singly or in pairs; for revision lessons before exams, or for students own revision; for informal assessment tests; for extra practice where students are weak; for longer listening practice and for exercises to increase reading speed, guessing skills and reading enjoyment.
Unit One

Welcome to the New School Year

A. The new school year has just begun. An important visitor has come to Shakti School. What's his name? Practise reading the dialogue, then act the story.

Chankhay's got some one's bag. Whose is it, I wonder?

There's some one coming with Sir. Quick, hide Chankhay.

May I introduce Mr Adhikari. Mr. Adhikari, this is Sham-bhu, our class captain.

Famous people.

Some time later...

Before I go, has anyone seen my bag? I've lost it.

A monkey! Er...er... Thank you very much.

B. Make groups of three. You are A,B, or C. B is a visitor. A introduces C. Practise this dialogue. Use your own names.
A. "Mr ________, may I introduce you to __________?"
C. "How do you do? I'm pleased to meet you."
B. "How do you do? It's good to be here."

C. Read these dialogues aloud with your friend.

"Have you got any eggs?"
"Sorry, I haven't any now, but I'll get some tomorrow."

"I've got some sweets. Have you got any biscuits?"

"No, I haven't any biscuits, but I've got some chiura."
You can see that any is used in questions and negative sentences. Put 'some' or 'any' in the spaces and practise these conversations.

a) ________ Sweets Shop ________ money?
"Yes, I've got ________ in my pocket."
"Shall we buy ________ sweets?"
"No, I don't want ________, but I'd like ________ cake."

b) "I haven't got ________ crayons. Where can I buy ________?"

c) ________ Sweets Shop ________ more rice?"
"I'm sorry, there isn't ________ more."
d) A Game

Take two small pieces of paper, exactly the same. Leave one blank. On the other draw a plate of oranges.

Take one of the pieces and put it face down on the desk, with your hand over it. Ask your friend this question:

Are there any oranges?

Your friend replies:

No, there aren't any. or Yes, there are some oranges on the plate.

Look at the paper.
Is your friend right? He wins 1 point.
Is your friend wrong? You win 1 point.
Now you guess. Play 7 times.
Who's the winner?

D. Read silently about some famous people. Decide who is an explorer, a writer, a scientist or an inventor.

3,000 years ago, in a famous story, Odysseus made a ten-year voyage home from the wars, with many adventures.
Only 600 years ago, a ship commanded by Ferdinand Magellan, sailed all round the world. But Magellan was killed in the Philippines. His ship was very small.

Jules Vernes lived in France from 1825 to 1905. He wrote many exciting stories.

William Shakespeare wrote many plays. Actors act these plays in many languages, all over the world.

Louis Pasteur discovered that germs make people ill.

Jean-Jaques Cousteau made the first aqualung. He explored under the sea.
Orville and Wilbur Wright made the first aeroplane, and Graham Bell made the first telephone.

1. Can you give the name of:
   a) anyone who flew aeroplanes?
   b) someone who wrote books?
   c) anyone who sailed a boat?
   d) a famous French man?
   e) a famous diver?
   f) someone who has helped us to be more healthy?

2. Write these sentences, using the words from the box.

    “But I can see _______.
      There, near the top!”
ii) Now practise the same dialogues using:

F. Another game. Read how Shambhu and his friends played.

I'm thinking of somebody wearing a cap.

Is it Shambhu?

No it isn't.

Is it Mohan?

Yes it is. Well done. Now you choose someone or something.

I'm thinking about something made of wood.

Now you play the game with your friends.

G. Listening.

Listen to the discussion about George Washington, the first President of the United States of America. Then listen again and join the dates to the things which happened.

H. We can say:

George Washington was born in 1732.

Three years later his family moved to a remote farm.

Three years later he...

Eight years later he...

Write about George's life as far as 1775 like this.

I. You are going to read about two famous men. Read the text quickly and answer this question: What are their names?

On December 17, 1903, at Kitty Hawk in America, an aeroplane flew for the first time ever. It stayed in the air for only twelve seconds, and only went forty metres, but it was the first powered flight. The plane had a small petrol engine. Orville and Wilbur Wright built the aeroplane. They were brothers. Wilbur was born in 1867 and Orville in 1871. They both went to school, but were very ordinary students. They left school and built and sold bicycles. They became interested in flying. They built big gliders, with 5 metre wing-spans. A glider is like an aeroplane, but it doesn't have an engine. They did many experiments with model wings inside a tunnel. In the tunnel a fan made a wind. They tried many different shapes of wings. They saved a thousand dollars and built their first aeroplane. It was 13 metres across.
They tossed a coin, and Orville won the toss. He was the pilot for the first flight. But they tried three more times that day, and Wilbur flew further. He stayed in the air for 59 seconds, and went 280 metres. They didn’t know how much aeroplanes would change the world.

i) Draw and complete this diagram in your copy.

Place: _______ Date: _______ Pilot: _______

Distance flown: _______ Time in air: _______ Cost of plane: _______

ii) True or False?

a) Wilbur was two years older than Orville.

b) They won many prizes at school.

d) They studied the science of flying because they were very interested.

e) They used their own money to build gliders and an aeroplane.

f) Kitty Hawk is a person.

g) They flew four times on December 17, 1903.

Practise this dialogue with your friend. Notice that scissors, trousers and glasses are plural words for only one thing. Use “are” not “is”.

Here there are two pairs of trousers, and three pairs of scissors.
K. Write the following very neatly in your copy, and put in three full stops, two commas, four capital letters, one question mark and two pairs of inverted commas " ". These go round what people say.

“And a giraffe at the front!”
“What’s that at the back of the room?”
“I think it’s a porcupine. And see, there’s a cat to the right of the monkey.”
“And a mouse to its left.”
“And there’s an elephant outside. It has just put its head inside.”
“Where have they come from?”
“I’ve no idea.”

Now ask your friend questions like this:

G. Shakti School Grade Sevens are studying the earth. There are so many interesting things to find out. Here are some of them. Read and discuss the questions:

i) The earth is a huge ball, with a diameter of 12,800 km.

The equator is not a real line. It divides the earth into two halves.

It is 39,000 km around the equator.

The earth is spinning all the time. It takes twenty-four hours (one day) to turn once. The sun is much bigger than the earth, but it is 149,000,000 km away. It looks small.

The moon is much smaller than the earth. It is 3,540 km across, but it is much nearer to us than the sun. It is only 394,000 km away. It goes round the earth once every month.

a) How far is it
   - to the sun?
   - to the moon?
   - around the earth's equator?

b) Which is bigger
   - the earth or the sun?
   - the earth or the moon?

c) Is Nepal in the Northern or Southern Hemisphere?
When our country is opposite the sun it is the middle of the day. When we are away from the sun it is night. The sun's light can't reach us.

Look at the diagram. Is it day or night in Nepal? Is it day or night in America?

ii) Read about different parts of the world.

Where can you find cacti, ice and rain-forest? How many birds and animals are mentioned by name?

Near the equator it is very hot and wet. There are many big, thick rain forests. These have many kinds of tall trees, and many insects, reptiles, birds and animals. The forests are important for everyone because they make oxygen. We need oxygen for breathing. But people are cutting down the forests. They want to sell the wood.
One third of the earth’s land is desert. Deserts are very dry. It may only rain once in a year. Some deserts are cold, but most deserts are very hot. The biggest desert is the Sahara. It is in Africa. Its area is 7,000,000 square kilometres. [The area of Nepal is 1,47,181 square kilometres] Cacti grow in deserts. A cactus keeps water in its thick stem. Camels have big flat feet. They can walk over soft sand.

The coldest places are near the poles. The area round the North Pole is the Arctic. There is no land there. There is ice floating on the sea.

There is land near the south pole. It is covered with ice. The ice is 4 km thick.
There are no plants and not many birds or animals. But there are seals and fish in the sea. In the Arctic there are big polar bears. They have thick fur and sharp teeth and claws.

In the Antarctic there are many penguins, but no polar bears.

We live in the monsoon area. In the winter it is dry and not too cold. In the summer it is very wet, but it is not too hot. Many people, animals and birds can live in the monsoon lands. The climate is good for growing food.

a) Find the words to fill in the puzzle.

1. The biggest desert in the world.
2. 1/3
3. Turning round.
4. A plant growing in deserts.
5. An Antarctic bird.
6. A gas in the air.
7. A long time of heavy rain.
8. A useful animal in the desert.
9. What do penguins eat?
10. Near the equator it is very _______.
b) Make a chart in your copy. Use two pages. Read the text carefully and then fill the boxes using the items at the bottom of the page.

Naresh is a night watchman. He has a lot of duties to do first thing in the morning. His supervisor has just arrived and is asking what he has done. Listen to their conversation and put a tick by the pictures that Naresh has completed.

Now ask your partner what he or she has done already today. Tell your partner what you have done.

I. And now a two part story. Discuss together. Would you like to be Bishnu Rai? Why or why not?

Desert Crash

Mrs. Rai is a pilot. She has entered a small plane race across the northern part of the Sahara Desert. Her son, Bishnu, is with her.
The wheels and tail are damaged, and the engine is no use. It won't fly again, and I can't get anyone on the radio.

Quickly, hide behind the plane. There's a sandstorm coming. The wind blows the sand into the air.

Now what can we do? We have only a little water and no food.

We must stay near the plane. We must stay in its shadow during the day and keep still. They will search for us.

But two long days and nights pass. The days are so hot, the nights cold. Bishnu and his mother have only drunk four small cups of water. They can't live much longer. But early next morning——

Mum, I can see something. I think it's a camel. No, two camels!

He's giving us water. And he's pointing. He wants us to get on his camel.

It's an oasis - there is a well here. There are his tents.

J. Shambu is writing about mountains in Africa. First he looks at books and makes notes. Then he writes some sentences and draws a picture. He wrote this about Mount Kenya:

Mt. Kenya is a very old volcano in central Kenya. It is 17,058 feet high, and the second highest mountain in Africa. The top is very rocky, with many small lakes and glaciers. Lower down there are beautiful forests. The area is a National Park.
Here are his notes about another mountain in Africa. Write about it in the same way and copy the picture.

Kilimanjaro - volcano in Tanzania
19,340 feet high - highest in Africa.
Top - thick snow
Bottom - farmers grow coffee

C. Here are more interesting facts to read about the earth, and some questions to answer.

Air and Water

All round the earth there is a layer of air called the atmosphere. Near the ground there is a lot of air. Higher up there is less air. Above the atmosphere there is no air, and you are in space.

How high can balloons fly?

Winds are moving air. In Nepal we have strong winds every day in Jumla, Jomsom, Manang and other places. Everywhere in Nepal there are storms in March and April. The wind blows off roofs and breaks trees.

Look outside your classroom.
How strong is the wind today?
In the summer, rocks become hot, but the sea doesn’t become hot. The air over the land becomes hot, and lighter and goes up. Moist air, carrying water, from over the seas and oceans moves north over the land. This air brings water. The water falls on the land. This is the monsoon. We can grow all our crops because of the rains.

In summer, which is hotter, the land or the sea?
Why does air rise?
How does rain help us?
Rain is fresh and pure. It falls on the land and runs into rivers. It carries a lot of soil and rocks, and salt from the rocks. The rivers flow into the seas and oceans. Sea-water is very salty. You can't drink it.

Why are our rivers brown in the summer?

Water covers three-quarters of the earth. We say there are five oceans. The Pacific is the biggest ocean, and the deepest. In the Marianas Trench near Japan, the water is 11,033 m deep. Mount Everest would disappear.

A small submarine called 'Trieste' went nearly to the bottom of the Marianas Trench in 1960.
1. Can you find...
   a) The name of the ocean between America and Africa?
   b) The height of the tallest building?
   c) The height that aeroplanes fly at?
   d) Two windy places in Nepal?
   e) What fraction of the earth is land?
   f) What does the Beaufort Scale measure?
   g) What kind of wind is force 8?
   h) The names of two kinds of clouds?
   i) The name of a famous submarine?

2. Water is always moving. Draw the circle and put these words in the boxes in the correct order.

   cloud  ocean  small river
   rain    big river

3. True or False.
   a) In space there isn’t any air.
   b) Moving air is called atmosphere.
   c) A hurricane is a very, very strong wind.
   d) In Nepal we have many storms in October.
   e) There is more sea than land.
   f) Sea-water is good to drink.
   g) The beginning of a river is called its mouth.
   h) Rivers start in the hills and mountains.
   i) Helicopters can’t fly as high as Mt. Everest.
   j) Thin cirrus clouds are higher than big cumulus clouds.
   k) There is more air higher up than low down in the atmosphere.
   l) Moist air means air with water and water vapour in it.
   m) Soil and rocks become hot quickly when the sun shines on them, but water takes a long time to become warmer.
   n) A gale is a very strong wind. It makes trees bend.
D. It is school holidays, and Sabitri and Shanti are going to stay with Sabitri's uncle. He works in a hotel in Thamel in Kathmandu. Thamel is full of tourists.

The tourist used another way of asking politely. It needs a different answer!
Would you mind....
- closing the window?
- turning the music down?
- not smoking?
- helping me carry this bag?
- showing me the way?

Of course not.

Did you know?
Camels can travel long distances without drinking or eating. They have big feet. They don't sink into the sand. They can carry more than 250 kg. They can eat thorny plants like cacti. Their hair makes good cloth and their milk is good to drink.

Get into your groups of four. You are four people. Your aeroplane has crashed in the jungle, far from any village. There is plenty of water, and you have lots of food. But you only have five things from this list. You must discuss and choose five things. They must be the most useful to help you reach safety. You must decide together, and give your reasons.

The students in Shambu's group started discussing.

We want matches because we must light a fire to cook, keep warm and send a message with smoke.

The Magic Rice Pot

In a village in the hills, perhaps in Myagdi, perhaps in Ramechhap, perhaps in your district, there was a poor widow and her only daughter. One day there was nothing to eat at all. The little girl went into the jungle and lay down. She was so hungry.

Suddenly she looked up and saw a stranger, a lady holding a cooking pot. "Take this," said the lady. "When you are hungry say, 'Cook, shiny pot, cook.' When you have enough, say 'Stop, stop, shiny pot, stop.'" The girl thanked the lady and took the pot. The lady walked quickly away.

The girl was very hungry. "Cook shiny pot, cook," she said. Immediately the pot was full of delicious rice, soft and dry. There was so much rice it was coming out of the pot. "Stop, stop, shiny pot stop," she called. Then she sat and ate all the rice. It tasted like the best meat and vegetables.
The little girl ran home and told her mother. Her mother was thrilled. "Now we'll always have good food," she said. The little girl ran outside. She wanted to find her friends in the next village. Her mother said, "Cook, shiny pot, cook." She took some of the rice, put it on her plate and began to eat. The pot did not stop. It made more and more rice. In a minute it was all over the floor.

The woman rushed outside. She was horrified. Rice was pouring out of the house. She couldn't remember the words to stop the pot.

In a moment the village was full of rice. Everyone ran out of their house. Everyone began to run away. The rice covered everything. And still no one could stop the pot cooking more and more rice.
At last the little girl came back. She saw a mountain of rice covering her village. “Stop, stop, shiny pot, stop,” she shouted. And the pot stopped at last. Somewhere in Nepal there is a lot of rice and a buried village. Do you know where?

Unit Four
A chapter to read and enjoy
Let's find out about horses.

For thousands of years men and horses have lived and worked together. Dogs and horses were the first wild animals to share men's lives and homes.

Here's Hem Lama galloping towards Manang. A horse can also walk or trot. Nepali horses are small and strong with thick fur. Small horses are called ponies. There have been ponies like these in Asia for thousands of years. In 1220, a fierce, cruel king called Genghis Khan conquered most of Central Asia. He had an army of 700,000 cavalry, or soldiers mounted on horses.
Nowadays policemen ride horses. You can see them in Kathmandu. Mounted policemen can control crowds. The police horses do not get frightened when there are people shouting or throwing things.

Many other kinds of horses work hard. Mules are half horse and half donkey. They are very strong and carry loads. They carry many goods from Pokhara to Jomsom and other places. Twenty or more mules make a "mule train". The leader has a big plume on its head, and all the mules have bells and decorated bridles. They carry sacks of rice. At night the muleteer takes off the sacks, and the mules eat and rest.
In America cowboys ride horses everywhere. They must look after thousands of bulls, cows and calves. This cowboy has just thrown a lasso. A lasso is a loop in a rope to catch a young calf.

Horses must be trained. They must go quietly. They must obey their riders. When they are trained they can do many very clever things.
Cowboys like a competition called a rodeo. They try to ride an untrained horse. Who can stay on the longest time?

In a circus the horses dance and do tricks, and acrobats perform on their backs. Some heavy horses pull heavy loads or plough fields.
All horses need care. They must have water, good food, and the rider must groom them. He will brush and comb their hair. A male horse is a stallion, the mother is a mare. The baby is called a foal. Horses can see well, even at night. They can smell and they can hear very well.
Some things to do.

Bucephalus

Alexander was thirteen. His father, Philip, King of Macedonia in Greece, had a beautiful horse. His name was Bucephalus. He was black with a white blaze on his face. But no one could ride him. He was nervous and high-spirited.

"Please give him to me," said Alexander to his father.

"No one can ride him. I can’t even ride him. And you are only a boy," replied his father.

But at last Philip gave Bucephalus to his son. He waited to see what Alexander would do.

Alexander knew the horse was afraid of its shadow. He held the reins and made Bucephalus look towards the sun. Now his shadow was behind him. He was calmer. Alexander jumped onto his back. Bucephalus started to gallop. Alexander sat firmly, riding Bucephalus. They galloped and galloped. At last the horse was tired. Alexander was still riding him.
Alexander became a great king of many countries. He always rode Bucephalus. When Bucephalus died, Alexander was very sad. He gave his horse a grand funeral. He called a city Bucephalus so that everyone would remember his beautiful horse.

D. Find Hamelin on the map. It is on a big river. What is the river’s name?
There is a very famous story about Hamelin. It happened about five hundred years ago.

The Pied Piper Of Hamelin

Hamelin was a good town, but it was full of RATS. Big rats, small rats, black and brown, rats in the houses, rats in all the town.

The people went to the mayor. "The rats are eating everything. Please get rid of the rats," they said. "What can I do?" asked the mayor. But the people were angry. "You need to kill all the rats. Or we don't want you as our mayor," they said.

What did the people want the mayor to do?
That night a strange man came to the mayor's house. He was tall and thin. His clothes were "pied" - of two colours. He had a pipe to play.

"I can take away all the rats. How much money will you give me?" he asked. "I can give you ten thousand guilders," said the mayor. The next morning the piper took his pipe. He played a tune.

He walked through the town. The rats came from everywhere. Big rats, small rats, black rats, brown rats. They all ran after the piper.

How much money did the mayor promise to pay the piper? How will the piper kill the rats?
The piper stopped at the river, but all the rats ran into the water and drowned. Every rat was dead.

The piper went to the mayor. "Please give me my money," he said. "Oh no," said the mayor. "All the rats are dead. You can go. I won't give you any money."
The piper went into the street. He played his pipe. It was a new tune.

In every house the children stopped playing. They went to the windows to listen. What beautiful music! The children ran outside to look for the piper. Boys and girls, big children and small children, they all ran after the Pied Piper.

They reached the river, but the piper didn’t stop. He walked on and on towards the mountain. All the children followed. They were laughing, dancing and singing. They wanted to hear the beautiful music.
The mountain opened. The piper and all the children went into the mountain. Inside the mountain there were trees and flowers, beautiful birds, clear lakes, butterflies and fruit. All the children went into the mountain to enjoy the beautiful country there.

Except for one small boy. He was lame. He only walked slowly. When he reached the mountain, it closed. He couldn't go inside.

Sadly he returned to Hamelin. Everyone looked for the children. But they never found the children. They never saw the Pied Piper again.

All about games and sports

A. Shakti School are competing in the district sports. Their P.E. teacher is giving them advice and instructions.

...and you can train until 5 o'clock every evening.

You mustn’t argue with the umpires. You have to accept their decisions cheerfully...

...and you should be friendly towards the other teams. Be good sportsmen and women!

It’s great Chankhoy...

THE OLYMPIC GAMES

The Olympic Games began 2,800 years ago at Olympia in Greece. There were races and throwing competitions. The prizes were crowns made of leaves.

Only men competed. The games stopped in 393 A.D.

The first modern Olympic Games were in Athens in 1896 A.D. Now they are held every four years in different cities. Men and women from all over the world compete. The five circles mean the five continents, all joining together. The prizes are medals. Gold for the winner, silver for second and bronze for third.

Find three differences between the first Olympic Games and the modern Olympic Games.

There are hundreds of different events. Here are some field and track events.

There are ________ brakes, one on the__________ wheel, and one on the back.
J. Read the text and answer this question:

How are modern bikes better than bikes of a hundred years ago?

FROM HOBBY HORSE TO RACING BIKE

In France in the 1790's you could ride a 'hobby horse'. You sat on the saddle, and pushed on the ground with your feet. You could not turn right or left. The wheels were made of metal. It was very heavy.

In 1839 Kirkpatrick Macmillan from Scotland invented a bicycle with pedals. The pedals went backwards and forwards. There was no chain, but bars from the pedals to the back wheel. You could turn the front wheel.
By 1880 these bicycles were very popular. There were many cycling clubs. These bicycles were called ‘penny-farthings’. A penny was a big coin, and a farthing a small English coin. The pedals were on the front wheel. They were exciting, but dangerous. They were 2 metres high. It was a long way to fall! Getting onto a penny farthing was also very difficult.

By 1890 there were safety bicycles. These had a chain to join the pedal wheel and the back wheel. They had pneumatic tyres—that is rubber tyres with air inside. After 1890 they also had gears. These made cycling up hills easier.

Nowadays we have light racing bikes, standard bikes, and mountain bikes with big tyres and more than 20 gears.

The Battle of Marathon

In 490 B.C. Darius was a powerful King of Persia. Persia is in Asia. Nowadays it is called Iran and Iraq.

Darius sent a big army on 600 ships to attack the city of Athens in Greece.

The Athenian people sent their best runner, Pheidippedes to another city, Sparta, to ask for help. The Spartans were celebrating a festival. They could not come and help. Pheidippedes ran back to Athens. In four or five days he ran 160 kilometres. Then he joined the army fighting against the Persians.

The two armies met at a place called Marathon.
The Persians attacked the Athenians, in the middle, but the strongest soldiers were on the left and right. They came round and attacked the Persians.

Six thousand four hundred Persians died, but only one hundred and ninety two Athenians, and the Persians ran back to their ships. Pheidippides ran to Athens. When he arrived he shouted, “We have won!” Then he fell down dead.

The distance from Marathon to Athens was about 42 Km. Nowadays we run ‘marathons’. They are races 42 km long. Vaikuntha Manandhar is a famous Nepali marathon runner. He has run in the Asian and Olympic Games.

In your copy, make this ‘newspaper’ about the battle. The missing words are at the bottom of the page.

Unit Eight
I've just made a wish.

A. Listen or read and answer this question:

Where was Shambhu's camera?

B. Being on television, buying a motor-bike, having a camera, going to America, flying in a plane. These are too difficult or too expensive for us. We know that, but we can think about them. We can wish we had them.
Did you notice? After "I wish..." we use the past tense. 'Had', 'was', 'could', 'knew' are all simple past tense.

Make 3 wishes. Use your own ideas or choose from those below. Tell your friend and tell other members of your class. Then write them in your copy.

1. I wish........................................
2. I wish........................................
3. I wish........................................

- have a bicycle.
- be able to swim (use could)
- be able to go to Kathmandu.
- be beautiful or handsome.
- have a lot of friends.
- be able to pass SLC.
- be first in class.
- be a film star.
- be 20 years old.
C. Read the story. What were the three wishes?

Be careful!

There was once an old man and his wife. They were poor and lived in a small house. One evening a handsome young man came to their house. "It's late," he said. "Please may I stay the night?"

"Of course," replied the old woman. "Our food is simple, but you can share it."

Next morning the young man left. "I haven't got any money, but I give you three wishes. They will come true," he said. "But be very careful how you use them."

That evening they only had a little food. "Oh! I wish I had a lovely fat banana to eat!" said the old lady. Immediately, there was a banana in her hand. "You silly woman," said her husband. "Why didn't you think? One wish is now finished and you only have a banana. You are so stupid. I wish your nose was a banana!"

What happened?
Oh dear! The wish came true. His wife’s nose was a beautiful yellow banana.
“What have you done, what have you done?” she cried. She felt her nose, looked in the mirror, and began to cry. Her husband was ashamed and sorry. He didn’t want a wife with a banana for a nose.

“What can we do?” he asked. They had only one wish left. Sadly the old man said, “I wish my wife’s nose was normal again.” And so the three wishes were lost. Be careful when you make wishes. They may come true.

Things to do.

a) What were the three wishes? Draw the pictures, and write the wishes.
b) Find the words in the story.

I Have Lived and I Have Loved

I have lived and I have loved;
I have waked and I have slept;
I have sung and I have danced;
I have smiled and I have wept;
I have won and wasted treasure;

Unit-Nine
It was 3 years ago.
A. Read or listen. Why is Shambhu so sad?

When did you get Chankhay?
3 years ago. You know what happened, don't you?

...It was the monsoon. The river was very high. I saw a tiny baby monkey on a log.

I used a stick and rescued him.
9 took him home.

9 took him and looked after him.

Two years ago I took him to the forest. I thought he should live with other monkeys.

I left him, and walked sadly home. I was crying.

What happened next?
B. Asking and answering about the past.

Mohan has broken his arm.
(That is what you can see now.)
He broke it on Saturday.
(That is what happened.)
Today is Tuesday.

Hello Mohan, When did you break your arm?

On Saturday. Three days ago.

To answer a "When did..........?" question we can either give the date, day or time, for example:
(On Saturday, In 1990, At 3 o'clock, Last week.) Or we can say a length of time "__________ ago."
(3 years ago, an hour ago, 2 weeks ago, a minute ago).

Ask and answer these questions with your friend. Choose answers from the box.
1. When did you buy your camera?
2. When did you arrive?
3. When did you pass your SLC?
4. When did you write the letter?
5. When did you finish?
Now give true answers. Use ‘in’, ‘at’ or ‘ago’.
1) When did you start to learn English?
2) When did you arrive at school today?
3) When was your youngest brother or sister born?
4) When did you buy your pen?

C. Write this information using ‘ago’.
For example: Tenzing Sherpa and Edmund Hillary climbed Everest ___ years ago.

- Tenzing Sherpa and Edmund Hillary climbed Everest in 1953.
- The Battle of Marathon was in 490 BC.
- The Wright brothers flew for the first time in 1903.
- The Second World War was ended in 1945.
- King Birendra came to the throne in 1972.

D. There’s ‘in’, ‘on’, ‘at’, or ‘nothing’! I’m confused.
It’s ‘in’ for years and months. It’s ‘on’ for days, and ‘at’ for times. We don’t need anything if the time is described like ‘last year’ or ‘yesterday.’
Shambhu tried these. Talk about them, then write them correctly in your copy.

1) I went home _____ 5 o'clock.
2) The first landing on the moon was _____ 1969.
3) We harvested the rice _____ November.
4) The school picnic was _____ Saturday.
5) He arrived _____ yesterday.
6) The election was _____ last year.
7) Christian Barnard did the first operation to give someone a new heart _____ 1967.
8) He was born _____ November 8, 1922.

E.

Hello Mohan. How long have you had a broken arm?

Since Saturday. For 3 days.

To answer ‘How long have/has ......................’ questions, we can answer ‘since’ and give the date or time or day or we can say ‘for’ and the length of time.

b) I’ve known my best friend for four years.
c) I’ve been waiting here for half an hour.
d) I’ve had my dog for three months.

“Ever since” means without any change, without stopping.
“I came to Kathmandu in 1985 and I’ve lived here ever since”.
“I bought a new pen last year, and I’ve used it ever since”.
Make your own “ever since” sentence.

“You cleaned the board, didn’t you?”

Notice ‘cleaned’ is PAST, so we need [didn’t]

You live here, don’t you?

‘Live’ is PRESENT, so we need [don’t or doesn’t]

Try saying and writing these ‘making sure’ questions. The “tags” are in the box.

The Story of the Seven Kids

Here are seven kids. Their mother, Mrs. Goat, has gone shopping. She has left the kids safely in the house. But the wolf has come and knocked on the door.

"I'm your mother. I've brought you some sweets. Open the door," he's saying.

"No, your voice is very rough, and we can see your black paw," the kids reply.

Now he's come back. He's eaten some chalk to make his voice soft. He's put his paw in flour to make it white. He's asked the kids to open the door......

And they have!

Has the wolf eaten the kids?
Now their mother has come back. She's walked into the house and she has seen the mess. Everything is untidy and broken.

But there's a little head under the bucket.

"I am here, mother," says a little kid. "But the wolf has eaten my brothers and sisters". Mother Goat holds the little kid tightly, and they both cry for a long time. Then they go sadly outside.

The wolf has eaten six kids. He ate them very quickly. He's gone to sleep under the tree. His stomach is moving. Mother Goat has seen it.

Now the baby kid has run home and brought scissors, needle and thread. Mother Goat has cut the wolf's stomach and out have come one, two, three, four, five, six little kids. They are dancing and skipping and everyone is happy.

What will happen to the wolf?
He has stopped by a well. He wants a drink of water. He bends over. He is very heavy; and he falls down and down into the well and drowns. And Mrs. Goat and her kids? They are having a party!

Now Mother Goat has filled the wolf's stomach with big stones, and she has sewn up the cut with her needle and thread. The wolf is walking home. "What rumbles and tumbles inside my poor bones? I ate six young kids, but they feel like six stones".

Things to do.
1. Here's a different way to tell part of the story. Put in the verbs.

Mrs. Goat _______ seven kids. One day she _______ them safely in the house and _______ shopping. A big wolf _______ to the house and _______ on the door. "I'm your mother. The bird is in the middle of a maze. Can it escape? Can you find a path from the middle to the way out? You mustn’t cross a black line.

This maze is only on paper. A real maze has high walls. You must walk inside the walls. You walk for many hours. You still can’t get out of the maze. Here is a story about a maze. This story is 4,000 years old.

The Minotaur

Long, long ago, there was a powerful king in Crete. His name was King Minos. Other kings were afraid of his strong army.
In an enormous maze under his palace he kept the Minotaur. This Minotaur was half a man and half a bull.

Every few years, seven young men and seven young women had to come from Athens. Soldiers pushed them into the maze. They were the Minotaur’s food.

Aegeus was the king of Athens. His son, Theseus said, “Father, I will go. Perhaps I can kill the Minotaur. “Aegeus agreed”. “When you come home,” he said, “change the black sails to white sails on your ship”.

What did the Minotaur look like? Will it kill Theseus?
So Theseus came to Crete. He waited his turn to go as food for the Minotaur. King Minos's daughter was Ariadne. She loved the handsome Theseus. Secretly, she gave him a sword and a ball of wool.

In the maze, Theseus tied the wool to a rock. The sword was under his shirt. He took it out. He walked and walked. He heard the Minotaur roaring. At last he found the monster, and attacked.

It was a long, fierce, hard battle. But Theseus killed the Minotaur, and followed the wool to get out of the maze.

With Ariadne he escaped in a boat.
But he forgot to change the sail.
His father saw the black sail.
He thought his son was dead,
and jumped from a high cliff.
Theseus became King of Athens.

And a poem. Don’t try to understand every word, (though some words are in the glossary).
The Minotaur can frighten us in our dreams. Listen to the tape or to your teacher, and read aloud altogether.

Minotaur

In the middle of the sea lies an island,
in the middle of the island stands a palace,
in the middle of the palace is a maze,
of darkened rooms and alleyways,
endless walls and hidden doors,
miles and miles of corridors.
Here shadows fall and footsteps sound
echoing along the ground.
Here is my home
I am Minotaur. half-man half-bull
shaggy-headed, golden horns.
Hear me bellow hear my roar,
see the slandering of my jaw.
Round the corner here I wait,
flaring nostrils sniff the air.
For here or somewhere a door may open and I will enter your dream
of the sea
and in the middle of the sea lies an island,
in the middle of the island stands a palace,
in the middle of the palace is a maze
of darkened rooms and alleyways
endless walls and hidden doors
miles and miles of corridors.
Here shadows fall and footsteps sound
echoing along the ground,
Here is my home
I am.............waiting.

E. Shambhu has noticed something very interesting.

English words sound a bit like Nepali words, don't you? Can you tell us why?

Have you noticed? Think about —

Miss Nirmala told Grade Sevens about the Indo-European language family. Read what she said and study the map. Then do the activities.

Seven thousand years ago a large group of people lived in East Europe. It says Indo-European on the map. That is where they lived. Slowly these people travelled to different parts of Asia and Europe. After hundreds of years, some reached India, some reached Italy, some reached Germany, some reached Scotland. The words they used changed. They couldn't understand people from far away. They spoke new languages. We call these first languages SANSKRIT, PERSIAN, GERMANIC, GREEK, LATIN, CELTIC.
People speaking these languages moved further on to new places. Slowly the words changed again and they spoke differently. From Sanskrit came many modern languages like Hindi, Urdu, Gujarati, Panjabi, Bengali and Nepali. English words came from German and Celtic. Later, English had many words from Greek and Latin. But in the beginning all these languages were the same, so many words sound nearly the same.

Here are 16 Indo-European Languages and their word for '3'. They are all nearly the same.

D. Read all this text. What kinds of creatures were dinosaurs?

140 years ago in England, a doctor was walking near the sea.
Dr. Martell found the first bones and teeth of a dinosaur. Dinosaurs lived long ago, between 65 and 200 million years ago. The world was very different then. There were no people. The plants and animals were different.

Some of the animals were dinosaurs. Sometimes a dinosaur died in a lake. Mud covered its bones.

The mud and bones became rock, and the rocks made hills. Scientists have found the dinosaur bones in places all over the world.

They put the bones together and make a skeleton. We can see the skeletons in museums.
Artists look at the skeletons and draw pictures. Scientists tell us about the dinosaurs. They were all reptiles with cold blood like snakes and lizards. They used to lay enormous eggs. There were many different kinds. Scientists give them different names. They are long words. Don’t learn them!

Scientists call this one Diplodocus. It was the longest ever. It was 30 metres long, and weighed about 15,000 kg. They used to walk on 4 legs, and they used to eat only plants.

Some dinosaurs were carnivores. A carnivore eats meat. These dinosaurs were very fierce. They used to run on two legs.
On their front legs they had big claws. Their heads were more than one metre long, and they had very many big sharp teeth. The one in the picture is called Allosaurus. It weighed 4,000 kg. It was 11 metres long, much shorter than the dinosaurs like Diplodocus, but it used to attack and fight and then eat the bigger dinosaurs.

After millions of years these kinds of dinosaurs disappeared. They became extinct. But other kinds appeared. There were dinosaurs with many horns. The horns kept them safe from their enemies. They used to eat only plants. Here is Triceratops. It weighed 8,000 kg, was 2 metres high, and had three big horns and very thick, hard skin like bone.

![Triceratops drawing]

What do you think its name means?

Its enemy was the enormous Tyrannosaurus Rex, 20m long, taller than a house and weighing 8000 kg. It used to run with its powerful back legs. Its front legs were only 20 cms long but strong. Its teeth were like a saw and 20 cm long.
About 65 million years ago all the dinosaurs disappeared. We don’t know why. Today we have reptiles, but they are much smaller: crocodiles, snakes, lizards and tortoises.
E. Things to do.

a) Here are some of the dinosaurs. They are drawn to scale. 3cm in the picture is 10 metres on a dinosaur. Trace or draw the pictures in your copy, and write the notes.

b) How to say the names. Practise saying them:
   i) Dip_ lod_ oh_ cus
   ii) Al_ lo_ sore_ us

   ii) Did they live more than 70 million years ago?
   iii) Did they lay eggs?
   iv) Was their blood warm, like ours?
   v) Can we see dinosaurs now?
   vi) Can we see dinosaur skeletons?
   vii) Is a skeleton all the bones of a body joined together?

xv) Which was the longest dinosaur ever?

d) Go outside and measure 30 metres on the ground. Can you imagine a creature this big?

F. A paragraph is a few sentences all about the same thing.
a) Here are ten sentences. Five belong in one paragraph, and five belong in another paragraph. The pictures show you what the paragraphs are about, and you can read the titles. In your copy write the two paragraphs with their titles. The order of the sentences is correct.

!The First Mammals

THE FIRST MAMMALS

!Roman Schools

ROMAN SCHOOLS

The Romans spoke Latin and also Greek. When the dinosaurs lived all over the world there were other very small animals. These were the first mammals. People all over Europe and West Asia all spoke Greek. They were as big as a mouse. Roman children used to learn to read and write and to do arithmetic at primary school. Each school used to have one teacher and ten or twenty students. They slept in the daytime and came out at night. Mammals have warm blood and give milk to their babies. The students wrote with a sharp stick on wax.
b) Look at Exercise D about the dinosaurs. Can you see eight paragraphs? Each paragraph starts near the middle of a new line. Here are titles for the eight paragraphs. Write the titles in your copy in the correct order.

- Tyrannosaurus
- Why we can find dinosaur bones
- Scientists' work and discoveries
- Meat-eaters
- Conclusion: the end of the dinosaurs
- Introduction: When dinosaurs lived
- Diplodocus
- New kinds: dinosaurs with horns

"Good evening everybody. I was thirteen years old. I was carrying a sack of rice to the mill, when I saw a big group of people near the river. All round there were big pieces of shiny tin. I went to look. They were making a film, and asking for five or six village girls to do an easy dance.

"I'll dance", I said to the chief man. He chose me and others. First we practised. Then while the film star, Rani, was singing, we danced. At the end the film star, Rani, came to me. She was very beautiful. "I've never seen such a lovely dancer. What's your name?"

"Mon Maya", I told her. She asked a lot of questions. Then she came to see my parents.
"I want to take Mon Maya to Kathmandu. She can work for me, and she can learn singing and dancing and acting."

So I began a new life. I worked hard cleaning and cooking and washing clothes. But I also went to singing and dancing class.
One day, Rani was ill. "Please go to the studio and tell them", she said.
So I went.
"Oh dear, we must practise today", said the manager.
"I know all the words. I've seen Rani dancing. I've heard her talking and singing. I can do it today. Then everyone can practise", I said.

So I did. It was wonderful! While I was dancing I felt so happy. We finished at 5 o'clock. The manager (he is called the producer) spoke to me.
"Mon Maya, you are the best", he said.

Swords

!Image
Here is a Nepali man. What is he doing?
He is cutting wood with his khukuri.

And here is a Greek soldier. This soldier lived 2,500 years ago. He is holding his kopis. A kopis is a kind of sword. It is like a khukuri. They both have the same shape, but a khukuri is much smaller. People from Greece may have travelled to Nepal. They brought their kopis with them. Then for more than two thousand years people in Nepal have made blades this shape.

This is a swordfish. Its nose is long and sharp like a sword. The fish is about 3 metres long, and its "sword" is 1 metre long. It swims at 100 km per hour, and its sword can make a hole in a wooden boat. Swordfish live in all the oceans. They eat smaller fish and squids.

This fish is a swordtail. It is only 12 cm long. It is green and lives in rivers and lakes in Mexico. Many people keep them in an aquarium. This is a tank made of glass.

The male swordtail has a "sword" but the female doesn't. Swordtails don't lay eggs, so the baby fish are born alive.

“Come on!” shouted the man. His donkey had worked hard for many years. Now it was old. “I won’t feed a useless old donkey like you”, the man said. “I’ll go to Ilam. I like music I can join a band. I can be a musician”, thought the donkey.

On the road he saw an old, tired dog. “My master is going to kill me,” he said. “Come with me to Ilam”, said the donkey.

On the way they saw a cat. “I’m too old to catch mice. My mistress won’t feed me,” she said. “Come with us. We are going to be musicians in Ilam”, said the donkey and the dog. So the cat joined them.

Soon they saw a cock. “Tomorrow my mistress is going to eat me”, he crowed sadly. “Don’t worry” said the donkey, the dog and the cat. “Come with us to Ilam.”
So the four friends went along the road to Ilam. When it was dark, they were in a big forest. They could see a small light. They walked towards the light. They came to a small house. They looked inside. There was a gang of thieves sitting round a table. They were eating a big meal, and laughing and talking. “How can we get a meal like that?” said the animals. They made a plan. Silently they climbed on each other’s backs. Then they all began to make a noise. The donkey brayed. The dog barked. The cat miaowed and the cock crowed. And they jumped through the window. The thieves were terrified. They ran away into the forest.

The four friends sat down at the table and ate a wonderful meal.

Then they put out the light and went to sleep. The cock sat on a beam near the ceiling. The cat lay near the fire. The dog lay behind the door. And the donkey lay on some straw in the yard outside. The thieves were in the forest. They saw the light go out. Everything was quiet. “Why were we so frightened? Why did we run away?” they said.
"I'll go and look at the house", said one of them. He went quietly to the house and opened the door. He saw the cat's bright eyes. He thought it was a fire. He poked his candle in the cat's eyes. He thought he could light the candle. The cat jumped up and scratched him with her claws.

The thief ran back to the door. He kicked the dog. The dog bit his leg. The thief stumbled across the yard. The donkey kicked him. And the cock flew down, screeching. 'Cock-a-doodle-do'!

The poor thief limped back into the forest. "What happened to you?" the other thieves asked. "Oh dear" he said. "There's a witch in the house. She scratched my face. There was a man with a knife behind the door. He stabbed me in the leg. In the yard there's a big monster. It hit me with a great stick. And near the roof there's a judge. He shouted 'Bring-the-thief-to-me.' I ran away as quickly as I could."

After this, the thieves went far away. They never came back. And the four friends? They never went to Ilam. They lived in the house in the forest, happily, good friends together.

Balloons

It was June 5, 1783. A big crowd of people in Annonay, France watched a big bag, 10 metres across, made of cotton and paper. Hot air from a fire went into the bag. Hot air is lighter than colder air. The balloon began to pull. The men dropped the ropes, and the balloon went up, and up and up, 1,800 metres into the sky. Then the air inside became cold again, and the balloon came down. This had been the first hot air balloon flight. Two brothers, Joseph and Etienne Montgolfier had made this first balloon.

On Nov. 21, 1783 two brave men sat in a basket under the bag and flew over Paris, the capital city of France.
In the same year J. Charles filled a balloon with hydrogen. Hydrogen is a very light gas. Balloons filled with hydrogen can stay high in the sky for a long time. In December 1783, Mr. Charles flew 104 Km. from Paris northwards.

In 1978, nearly 200 years later, a very big balloon carrying 3 people called 'Double Eagle' went right across the Atlantic Ocean. In 1981 a balloon went across the Pacific Ocean. Nowadays hot air balloons carry gas heaters in the basket. When the air in the balloon is getting cold, the balloonists light the gas. A big flame quickly heats the air, and the balloon rises up into the sky again. One day you may see a hot air balloon over your village. Or you can make your own paper hot air balloon.

F. Learn how to give invitations.

a) "I'm having a party on Saturday. Can you come?" Sarada asked her friend Dil. "I'm very sorry", Dil replied. "I have to go to my Grandfather's house. Thank you for the invitation."

"Would you like to come to my party on Saturday?" Sarada asked Asta.

"Thank you very much. I'd love to," replied Asta.

On Saturday they had a great time together. Nine of Sarada's friends had come. Sarada had prepared a lot of games, and they had great fun playing them. Sarada's mother had cooked sel rotis and jalebis and she had made some delicious lemon juice.

"Thank you for a lovely party", they all said.

J. Here is a true story about a girl who flew up in the air. But she didn't go in a balloon............
Read the first page and decide in which country Hetty lived. Then read to the end.

Is this a happy or a sad story?
Hetty Jarvis was born in England. When she was a baby, her family had left England. They had gone to America. They had travelled for many weeks across the flat plains of America. Then Mr. Jarvis had built a small house, made of mud and grass. He had grown corn. After two or three years he had built a better house. It was made of wood. Now the family had many fields and a wind pump for water. But Hetty was often lonely. There was no school, and no children lived near.

One day Hetty's mother pulled a box outside. It was the box for carrying their things from England. Hetty's mother cleaned it and left it in the sun. It was very hot. Hetty looked. She could see a black cloud. She could see her father on a horse. He was galloping towards the house.
The cloud became bigger. It was spinning. It was coming quickly towards the house.

"Quickly, help me! It's a whirlwind", shouted Hetty's mother. She had come out of the house. Hetty and her mother pulled the box into the house. "Get in there and stay there", said Hetty's mother and pushed Hetty into the box and put on the lid.

What will happen to everyone?

The whirlwind came ....
Everything went flying up into the air, the hens, the dog, the cart. It was black. There was a roaring and then the whole house went up into the air higher than a tree. It began to spin round and round. And then it exploded. Everything broke, windows, door, furniture. They fell down and down.

CRASH.
The box rolled over and over. It stopped. The lid was on top. Hetty lifted the lid. Her mother was lying nearby. They were in the middle of broken corn and broken pieces of the house.

Hetty climbed out of the box. Her mother lay still.
“I must find Father,” thought Hetty.
Hetty’s dog was called Grip. He came towards Hetty. He was tied to a broken stick. “Oh Grip, Grip” cried Hetty. But Grip turned and limped away.
And where was Hetty’s father? He had tried to gallop away from the whirlwind. He had seen the house fly into the air. The wind had blown him off his horse, and the ladder in front of the house had fallen onto him. He couldn’t move.
Just then Grip arrived. Mr Jarvis saw the stick at the end of Grip’s rope.

What did he do?
He used it to dig and dig. At last he escaped.

"I must find Hetty and her mother," he thought. Grip barked, "Follow me", he seemed to say.
Mr Jarvis followed Grip through the corn.
Grip took him to Hetty.
How happy they all were!

Now neighbours had arrived to help. They carried Hetty's mother to their house. Her leg was broken, but not badly.
And Hetty? She must be the first girl to fly in the sky in a box!

</tbody>
</table>

The two boys walked slowly across the valley. Then suddenly Bishwa stopped and sat down on a large stone.

"It's no use," he said. "I can't go any further. I'm exhausted." Sundar looked at him for a minute.

"Oh, come on!" he said. "It's not very far. Only two hours perhaps".

"Yes, but uphill all the way", Bishwa said.
He pointed to the path in front of them. It went straight up the hill in front of them. Sundar sat down too. They said nothing. Then Bishwa pointed to some trees about one kilometre ahead.

"There's a buffalo shed there," he said. "Why don't we sleep there?"

Sundar ran down the path to the trees. Bishwa followed more slowly.

"What's it like inside?" he asked when he reached the hut.

"Not bad", replied Sundar. "And there's plenty of wood. I've got some matches."

The two boys cleaned out the hut and lit a fire. Then they cooked their rice. They were both tired and didn't talk much. They put a lot of wood on the fire. Sundar fell asleep quickly, but Bishwa lay awake for a long time, watching the flames. Then he fell asleep.

Suddenly he was awake again. The fire was out. He could hear noises outside. It sounded like voices. He woke up Sundar.

"It's only the wind", Sundar said, "Go to sleep." But it wasn't the wind. The voices came nearer. The door opened and a light shone on their faces. "They're here", shouted a voice. A policeman was standing in the doorway. He addressed the two boys. "You've given us a lot of trouble. We've looked everywhere for you."

   f) Complete this sentence;

Verbs

When we use verbs we have to make clear the time about which we are talking. We do this in two different ways according to the kind of verb.

The First Kind

With the first kind of verbs we add -ed or -d to the verb, thus:

I cook the dinner every day.
I cooked it yesterday.
I have cooked it already.
(Mother has cooked it already.)

You will see that the “yesterday” form (cooked) and the “already” form (have/has cooked) are the same but we put have or has in the “already” form.

There are many verbs like this:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Every day</th>
<th>Yesterday</th>
<th>Already</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I act</td>
<td>I acted</td>
<td>I have acted</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>climb</td>
<td>climbed</td>
<td>climbed</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>fasten</td>
<td>fastened</td>
<td>fastened</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>kick</td>
<td>kicked</td>
<td>kicked</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>listen</td>
<td>listened</td>
<td>listened</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>offer</td>
<td>offered</td>
<td>offered</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>shout</td>
<td>shouted</td>
<td>shouted</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>talk</td>
<td>talked</td>
<td>talked</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

When the “every day” forms of verbs of this kind end in -e, we add only -d, in this way:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>believe</th>
<th>believed</th>
<th>believed</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>invite</td>
<td>invited</td>
<td>invited</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>praise</td>
<td>praised</td>
<td>praised</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>use</td>
<td>used</td>
<td>used</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
When verbs of this kind end with -y, we change the -y into -i and add -ed, thus:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>verb</th>
<th>carried</th>
<th>copied</th>
<th>cried</th>
<th>emptied</th>
<th>studied</th>
<th>tied</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>carry</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>copy</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>cry</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>empty</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>study</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>tie</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Sometimes we add another letter before we add the -ed, thus:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>verb</th>
<th>dropped</th>
<th>fitted</th>
<th>planned</th>
<th>stopped</th>
<th>travelled</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>drop</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>fit</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>plan</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>stop</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>travel</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The Second Kind

To make the "yesterday" and "already" forms of a good many other verbs we change the sound and spelling in various ways. There are several verbs that do not change in any way.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>verb (am, is, are)</th>
<th>was (were)</th>
<th>been</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>be (am, is, are)</td>
<td></td>

<tr>

   Dear Auntie and Uncle, Thank you very much for a wonderful holiday. You were both very thoughtful and gave us a very happy time. We enjoyed everything but we especially enjoyed going to the airport and visiting the botanical gardens. We liked talking to all the tourists and using our English. And Auntie's cooking is delicious. We had a very good journey home. We both slept on the bus. It rained in the night so that it was quite cool and it was easy to walk. Now we are back at school. Chankhay the monkey was very glad to see us. I think he likes us.

   With greetings from us both,
   Sabitri and Shanti

   And that's the bell for the last lap, and number 39 is in the lead, followed by 15. Ethiopia, Great Britain and Nepal are all close together. Now No. 27 is really moving. He's leaving the other two behind and he's nearly level with No. 15, that's N'kovo of Kenya. They are round the last bend, and starting the straight. And now it's a fight between No. 27 and No. 15. They've both passed the American. Its 15 and 27, they are neck and neck, only 10 metres to go, and as they reach the tape its No. 27 first, number 15 next, then no. 39, no. 7 and number 102. A great victory for Nepal in this 10,000 meter race.

Ms. In a village in the far east. I used to live in a very small mud and stone house. It had only one room. Now of course, I have a 12-room house in Kathmandu.
I. And did you go to school?
Ms. Yes, that was the best thing. I used to go everyday. Of course, I didn't use to wear shoes or good clothes, and I often used to stay at home to work.
I. But now you always wear such beautiful clothes. All different styles. But have you always acted and sung?
Ms. Oh yes! I used to fail exams, but I always used to sing and dance and act. We used to have cultural programmes and I always did lots of things. Of course, I didn't use to travel anywhere. I used to stay in the village. Now I sing, and dance and act in films and travel all over the world. You'll remember last year I went to Australia and Fiji for my film 'Pacific Heart-Break.' It is interesting to make a hot air balloon. Of course, you can use plastic bags as small balloons. Carefully hold them over a small fire or stove. Don't burn them. Away they will go! But it is much more exciting to make a big paper balloon. Everyone in the class can help. You need 18 sheets of tissue paper. Glue them together in threes. You will have 6 long pieces of paper. Fold each piece in half, and draw the shape. Cut along the line. Keep the pieces folded. Put one piece on the floor, and put gum all along the edge. Put another piece on top, and make sure it is stuck all the way long. In this way, fasten all the edges together. You must open out the balloon to fasten the last two edges. Cut a circle of paper and stick it on the top. Make a circle of very thin wire. Glue it at the bottom. Look very carefully. There must be no holes anywhere. You can stick small pieces of tissue paper over the holes.
Choose a still cold day.
Make a fire. Be careful, you may burn your balloon. Hold the balloon over the fire. The hot air will go into the bag. It will become fat and light, and then it will fly.
