Cornell Overwhelmed.

Team Outclassed by Penn at Philadelphia—Quakers Roll Up Score of 34-0.

Cornell's annual Thanksgiving day invasion of Penn's camp terminated this year in disaster and rout. Those who had hoped much of the Red and White team were plunged in despair by the score of 34-0 which the Quakers rolled up against Cornell during the seventy minutes of play. The defeat was so overwhelming and the Cornell eleven was so completely outclassed in every phase of the contest that very little consolation can be extracted from a review of the struggle.

Before ten minutes had elapsed in the opening half it was evident that unless something happened, Cornell would be buried under an avalanche. Nothing did happen and the avalanche arrived on schedule time. Of Penn's six touchdowns, four came in the first half, so that the score at the end of this period stood 24-0. In the second half Cornell braced up and played a stubborn, plucky game, holding her big opponents down to a pair of touchdowns. The brace may have been due to changes in the line-up, or to the lecture read to the men by the coaches during the intermission. It was too late for the players to retrieve themselves, but they put up a game fight that could not but win admiration.

CORNELL'S WEAK LINE.

Comparing the two teams man for man, there was not a single position in the whole eleven where Cornell was on a par with her rival. The visitors averaged some seven or eight pounds less in weight at the beginning of the game, and by the time Wilder and Downs had given place to lighter men the disparity was increased to more than ten pounds. Added to this disadvantage was the inexperience of several of the linemen, the result being a woefully weak line which crumbled before Penn's onslaughts. During the first half Penn's work was further aided by the high and ineffective tackling of her opponents. Once the giant Piekarski made ten yards with three Cornell men hanging on to his neck and shoulders in a vain effort to down him. The weakness of the line handicapped the Cornell backs on the few occasions when they had the ball, so that their showing appeared even poorer than it really was. The only play that made any substantial gains was the tackles back formation with Halliday carrying the ball, and this play did not always succeed.

POOR GENERALSHIP.

As if it were not enough to fight a losing battle against a team so markedly superior, Cornell laid herself open to further criticism by her wretched generalship at several vital points of the game. On two occasions, when the ball was within thirty yards of her own goal, Cornell tried to gain through the line on the third down, although she had two or even three yards to make. And this in spite of specific instructions beforehand to punt always on the third down when the ball was dangerously near her own goal.

Pennsylvania, on the other hand, played a brilliant game. With the aid of the powerful line, the interference formed quickly and crashed into Cornell with terrific force. In broken field running Reynolds showed his ability time after time by running back the kick-off almost to the middle of the field.

GAY ASSEMBLAGE AT THE FIELD.

An assemblage of 22,000 persons, the largest crowd of the season and the largest crowd in the history of the Thanksgiving day games, was assembled at Franklin Field when the teams trotted out. From 1:45 till 2:15 p. m. two black streams poured into the enclosure and spread and spread over the sides of the vast amphitheatre until it was one densely packed mass of humanity. When every seat was taken in the great horseshoe and thousands were standing, the gates were closed and a throng of would-be spectators turned away in disappointment.

The game was made a social event of no little importance, and the stands were resplendent with stylish gowns and hats as well as the myriads of waving flags. On the north side a big block was occupied by one of the largest delegations of Cornellians that ever went down to a Thanksgiving game, and the section was a gay picture of red and white. The students cheered and cheered with untiring spirit long after the result was a foregone conclusion, and their enthusiasm and loyalty won admiration on every hand. It was but one more manifestation of the splendid spirit that has pervaded the University throughout the season—the spirit that brought out nearly 1,500 students to escort the team to the station on its way to Philadelphia last Tuesday night, even though the team had made no very brilliant record on its previous pilgrimage two weeks before. A prominent Pennsylvania alumnus who sat opposite the Cornell section on the south side of the field remarked after the game that it was the finest exhibition of cheering ever given in Philadelphia by a visiting delegation.

STATISTICS OF THE GAME.

It took Penn 5 minutes to make her first touchdown, 10 more for the second, 10 for the third and 5 for the fourth. In the second half 20 minutes elapsed before a score was made, and 8 minutes more before the final touchdown.

The following table shows Pennsylvania's superiority in every department of the game:

Penn kicked 8 times for.....	422	yards
Cornell kicked 6 times for.....	237	"
Penn gained on rushes.....	313	"
Cornell gained on rushes.....	74	"
Penn ran back kicks.....	160	"
Cornell ran back kicks.....	75	"
Penn lost by penalties.....	70	"
Cornell was not penalized once.

Detailed Story of the Game.

Cornell appeared first on the gridiron closely followed by Penn. Halliday was designated acting captain of the Ithacans. Cornell won the toss and chose the goal with the wind in its favor. Penn kicked off. The ball went out of bounds and Reynolds kicked off again.

Rice caught the ball on the 1-yard line and ran it back to the 15-yard line before he was downed. Costello made six yards on two trials and Gibson carried the ball on to the 28-yard line where it was lost on downs.

Smith, Reynolds and Ziegler in turn ploughed through the Cornell line for big gains. Cornell took a heroic brace on its 2-yard line but on the last trial Piekarski was pushed over for a touchdown. Reynolds kicked goal.

Score, Penn. 6, Cornell 0.

Furman kicked off to Reynolds on the 5-yard line. Penn's heavy backs pounded the line for steady gains. Stevenson made a long dash around end to Cornell's 45-yard line. Penn was penalized for holding. With 25 yards to gain on the third down Stevenson tried a fake kick but failed and the ball went to Cornell on downs. The Ithacans were unable to gain and Bird punted to his own 47-yard line.

PENN SCORES AGAIN.

A Penn man heeled the catch and Reynolds tried for a goal from the field but failed. Rice caught the ball and carried it out to his 10-yard line. Cornell failed to gain its distance and the ball went to Penn on downs.

Cornell again made a determined stand when Penn had reached its 1-yard line but again Piekarski was pushed over for a second touchdown. Reynolds kicked goal, making the score 12 to 0 in Penn's favor.

Furman again kicked off and Penn carried the ball rapidly up the field. Smith was laid out and Folwell took his place. Stevenson got in another long run, carrying the ball to Cornell's 8-yard line. Piekarski again scored a touchdown and Reynolds kicked goal, making the score 18 to 0 in Penn's favor.

After an exchange of punts, in which the ball got no nearer to Penn's goal than midfield, Stevenson scored another touchdown and Reynolds kicked goal. The half ended soon after the next kick-off with the score, Penn 24, Cornell 0.

TEAM BRACES IN SECOND HALF.

Cornell started the second half with Davis at fullback, Oderkirk at left guard in place of Downs and Dewey at right half. Halliday moved up to tackle in place of Costello.

The Ithacans took a decided brace at the opening of the half and kept the ball well in Penn's territory. In fact, it looked at one time like a touchdown for the Red and White, but it was not to be. By fierce line bucks, helped by penalties for Penn's foul plays, the ball was carried to the Quakers' 18-yard line where Halliday tried a place kick from the field but failed. After that Penn's goal was never in danger and it was only a question of how big a score they would roll up.

Davis was badly hurt but resumed play. Stevenson was ruled out for foul play. Sheble, who played at Cornell two years ago, took Green's place. Newhall went into Bird's place and Case replaced Ziegler. Goodspeed replaced Hackstaff. These changes were made during the course of play and once more Penn settled down to its line hammering tactics and soon shoved Corson over for a touchdown but failed to kick the goal, making the score 29 to 0 in favor of Penn.

Cornell again kicked off. The ball soon was rushed back by the Quakers. And once more they scored, this time on a quarterback kick. The attempt at goal failed.

The game ended a few moments later with the ball in Cornell's possession on her own 35-yard line.

The line-up was as follows:

PENN (34).		CORNELL (0).
Drake (Weede)	l. e.	Hackstaff (Goodspeed)
Butkiewivz	l. t.	Smith
Piekarski	l. g.	Down (Oderkirk)
Torrey (Taylor)	c.	Chapman (Wilder)
Ziegler (Kase)	r. g.	Furman
Lamson	r. t.	Costello (Halliday)
Sinkler (Weede)	r. e.	Van Orman (J. Hollenbeck)
Stevenson	q. b.	Bird
(Reynolds) (Corson)		(Newhall)
Reynolds (Bennis)	l. h. b.	Rice
Greene (Sheble)	r. h. b.	Gibson (Dewey) (McDonald)
Smith (Folwell)	f. b.	(Davis) Halliday

Touchdowns—Piekarski, 3; Stevenson, Reynolds, Corson. Goals from touchdowns—Reynolds, 4. Referee—Corbin, Yale. Umpire—Edwards, Princeton. Linesman and timekeeper—Hogan, Yale. Time of halves—35 minutes.

Coach Warner's Statement.

The following statement, given by Coach Glenn S. Warner to the Philadelphia press, summarizes well the main features of the game:

Pennsylvania has a great team this year, much better than I had given her credit for having, and Cornell was clearly outclassed, although not so badly as the score would indicate. If Cornell had used good judgment and had made no serious blunders the score would have been about 18 to 0. But as it was, Cornell presented Penn with opportunities to score four touchdowns when the ball was surrendered to the latter team at from twenty to thirty yards from the Cornell goal. Each time the ball should have been punted down the field, and if this had been done the score would have been much lower.

The Pennsylvania team, man for man, outclassed Cornell in weight, age and experience, and as the men all appeared to be in excellent physical condition the handicap was too much for Cornell to overcome, and, while I am disappointed in the size of the score, I am convinced that it was a physical impossibility for Cornell to win against the fine team which Penn has this year.

The Penn line outcharged the Cornell line and Penn's plays were able to form and gather momentum before meeting opposition, while Cornell's plays were pretty well broken up before they hit the line. In other words, the Penn backs struck a receding line, while Cornell's plays were always met by an advancing line.

The Cornell team played much better in the second half, charging faster and lower, and putting much more aggressiveness and dash into their play, and the showing made by the substitutes who went in in this half was in some instances better than that of the regulars.

The Penn team played much better than any Penn team I have seen in several years. Their plays had great power in them, the men worked together well and tackled fiercely and the players appear to be seasoned, powerful men. I congratulate Pennsylvania on her grand victory, although disappointed that we were not able to put up a better fight. Our feeling is that Cornell has at least laid the foundation this year for teams which in future years will be able to at least hold their own with those of Penn.

The Cornell team deserves credit for playing a clean game entirely within the rules, without being penalized once during the game, and this was due in no way to the leniency of the officials, who handled the game in excellent fashion.

Progress of Alumni Field.

Financial Statement—Construction Work Ceases for the Winter—Playground Almost Finished.

The report of the Alumni Field finance committee to November 1 is given below with comparative data showing the results of the committee's work during the past three months:

	Aug. 1, '04	Nov. 1, '04
Total number of subscribers	1,071	1,443
Total amount subscribed	$41,888.70	$49,433.71
Average amount of subscription	39.11	34.18
Total amount collected	19,596.04	25,061.60
Total amt. paid to trustee com.	10,000.00	20,000.00
Total amt. remain'g to be collected		24,372.11

From the above statement it is evident that the finance committee, of which Robert J. Thorne, '97, 120 Michigan avenue, Chicago, is treasurer, has been making encouraging progress in the task of soliciting and collecting funds to carry on the work with the field. Of the remaining $24,372.11 to be collected, about $3,500 is now due and the committee is bending its energies toward the collection of this sum. In the spring, when the work on the field will be renewed with vigor, the trustee committee will require all of the money so far subscribed to continue the work without interruption and it is earnestly hoped that all delinquent subscribers will pay up before then.

That the committee is working actively among alumni is evidenced by the paragraphs quoted below from a circular letter recently sent by Mr. Thorne to all those who have not as yet contributed to the movement:

"Dear Sir:—My last letter had a very marked effect upon the 'Stonewall Brigade,' by which I mean all those who have not subscribed towards the field to date. Every letter I write pulls a few stones out but I am getting to feel that there is hardly anything left but a few hard flinted boulders. I have had charge of the soliciting for this Alumni Field and have done everything in my power to raise all the money I could and if you do not subscribe pretty soon I am afraid the committee will instruct me to stop writing to you, in which case you would be classed as one of the 'Hard Flinted Boulders' and I am sure that your recollection of Cornell and belief in their need of this field are so strong that you will want to do something, even if a very little. We are not asking for large subscriptions; I have them as low as $1 and as high as $1,000 with a large number of $5, $10, $15, $20 and $25."

WORK ON THE FIELD.

The finance committee has not been alone in its activity. In Ithaca the trustee committee has been pushing the construction with the utmost vigor. Work was begun early in June by the Albany Construction company. The necessary $40,000 to be subscribed before the land would be granted by the University Board of Trustees having been raised, the plot of ground on the Campus, consisting of approximately fifty acres, was surveyed and grading begun. Professor H. N. Ogden is the engineer in charge of the work. In laying out the section to be known as the playground, which is to be finished first of all, the ground, for the purpose of drainage, was sloped towards the valley with a drop of one foot in every hundred.

An immense grading machine drawn by fourteen horses and designed to load a wagon full of earth every minute was put in operation. Accordingly the work progressed rapidly during the greater portion of the summer save for unavoidable delay caused by meeting a stratum of hard pan rock which it was necessary to blast.

BOUNDARIES CHANGED.

The decision of the University to change the course of Garden avenue, the thoroughfare running directly west of the playground, necessitated some changes in the original plans for the field as outlined in the October, 1903, issue of the ALUMNI NEWS, but the change resulted in making the field better adapted to its purposes. It will be remembered that a long strip of land to be used for baseball diamonds extended toward the extreme east of the field. By the alterations in the plans this strip was widened more in the form of a square, leaving ample room for three diamonds.

PLAYGROUND ALMOST READY.

The strip on which the graders worked all summer and until last week, is about 400 by 500 feet in extent and ultimately will be devoted exclusively to the uses of a playground. It will be completed and ready for use by July 1 of next year. Save for a section in the extreme southeast corner, the playground has been graded and is ready for the under tiling. While the grading was in progress the earth removed was taken east to the section to be devoted to the track teams and this section will also be completed according to contract by July 1 of next year. A portion of the playground on the north side was set apart for tennis courts and these have been constructed in two grades, eight courts being placed in each grade.

ARCHITECTURAL PLANS UNDER WAY.

Although a very considerable portion of the field will have been completed by next July, much will still remain to be done before the field can be used for the same purpose as is Percy Field at present. Former Professor J. V. Van Pelt of the College of Architecture, who has begun the general practice of his profession in New York city, has been at work for some time preparing plans for the landscape features of the field, such as approaches, entrances, methods of seating and location of the club house. Inasmuch as the playground and track sections, when finished next year will be used for all athletics until the entire field is completed, some perplexing problems have arisen. Professor Van Pelt will submit his plans to the members of the trustee committee in about a week.

It is considered doubtful if the grounds will be used by the athletic teams at the games next fall and Percy Field will accordingly be retained for that purpose. It is understood that the Ithaca Street railway will construct a line branching from the present track in South avenue and running directly to the main entrance to the new field, to be located probably on Garden avenue.

HISTORY OF THE MOVEMENT.

For the benefit of the host of alumni who have joined the ranks since the movement was started in the winter of 1902 and are not familiar with its early history, a brief outline is given below. At the meeting of the Cornell Alumni Association held during Commencement week in 1901, a resolution was passed appointing a committee of five to solicit subscriptions for constructing and equipping an athletic field on the Campus. This committee reported in October, 1902, that over $30,000 had already been subscribed and that the University Board of Trustees had promised to give the necessary land if $40,000 should be subscribed; also that the committee was convinced that this money could be readily obtained if the grant were made. The board considered the proposition at its next regular meeting, and decided to turn over the land upon condition that within ninety days from the date of the grant $10,000 should be paid to the trustees and $15,000 additional within one year from that date. The grant was made in June, 1903. At the present time $20,000 has been paid over to the board and an extension of time has been granted for the payment of the remaining $5,000.

Victory in Cross Country.

"Jack's" Pupils Capture Four Out of First Five Places in Intercollegiate Meet--Newman First.

One more triumph was added last Wednesday to the long list of victories credited to the Cornell cross country team and its clever trainer, "Jack" Moakley. The team captured for the fifth time, the intercollegiate cross country championship in the run over the Travers Island course from Pelham Manor station to the home of the New York Athletic club on Long Island sound.

Not only did Cornell win, as it was generally expected to do, but it won in such a thoroughgoing way as to be disheartening to those who "also ran." Five teams, made up of thirty-four runners representing Cornell, Columbia, Harvard, Yale and the University of Pennsylvania, took part in the contest, and of the seven men who carried the Ithaca colors four finished in the first five places, winning the honor with a total of 12 points.

E. T. Newman of Cornell led the big field during the greater part of the journey, and finished fully 50 yards in front of his team mate, C. F. Magoffin, who in turn was a little distance ahead of W. J. Hall of Yale. Nearly 100 yards back of these three leaders were D. C. Munson and A. Starr, both of Cornell. The sixth place was won by C. D. Macdonald of Columbia, while W. G. Howard of Harvard was seventh, and C. R. Major of the University of Pennsylvania was eighth.

Newman's time—32:52—is 23 seconds faster than Schutt's time made on the same course, a little over six miles, a year ago.

Had not Munson fallen at the first obstacle and lost considerable time in finding his glasses, during which delay fourteen men passed him, Cornell probably would have won the first four places.

Cornell's colors were always in the van, and while every one expected that the Ithaca men would win, very few thought that they would be so well to the fore at the finish. Wednesday's contest was the sixth event of its kind which has taken place under the auspices of the Intercollegiate Cross Country Association of Amateur Athletes of America, and Cornell has won five times.

The weather conditions could not have been improved on, and the race was well contested throughout.

RESULT BY POINTS.

Following is the result by points: Cornell first, with 12; Pennsylvania second, with 41; Yale third, with 51; Harvard fourth, with 52, and Columbia last, with 73.

The first twenty men finished as follows:

RUNNER	POSITION	TIME
Newman, Cornell.....	1	32:52
Magoffin, Cornell.....	2	33:01
Hall, Yale.....	3	33:17
Munson, Cornell.....	4	34:06
Starr, Cornell.....	5	34:15
Macdonald, Columbia.....	6	34:16
Howard, Harvard.....	7	35:34
Major, Pennsylvania.....	8	34:46
Hoskins, Penn.....	9	34:51
McCurdy, Penn.....	10	34:52
Trube, Cornell.....	11	34:54
Whitaker, Harvard.....	12	34:55
Lamson, Penn.....	13	35:06
Samans, Penn.....	14	35:16
Alcott, Yale.....	15	35:33
Armstrong, Yale.....	16	35:34
Beardsley, Yale.....	17	35:45
Dussel, Columbia.....	18	35:47
Hemingway, Cornell.....	19	35:58
Grosby, Harvard.....	20	36:01

The New York World, in its account of the race, said:

"The success of the Cornell team stamps 'Jack' Moakley as one of the best track team coaches in the country. With six of last year's team lost through graduation, he has for the fifth time developed a championship team out of raw material."

Rousing Smoker at Phila.

Alumni Entertain Delegation of Undergraduates--More Than 150 Cornellians Present.

The smoker given by the Cornell club of Philadelphia on the eve of the Pennsylvania game was a great success, the crowd being even larger than the committee had hoped for. During the evening more than 150 Cornellians, alumni and graduates, assembled in Walnut street in the cosy quarters of the University club. Of this number, some seventy-five were members of the Cornell Alumni Association, fifty or sixty were students who had come down to attend the Pennsylvania game and the remainder were alumni from New York and other neighboring cities. The oldest class represented was that of 1871, and from this date down to Naughty-four the classes were pretty generally in evidence.

The first delegation of undergraduates arrived in Philadelphia with the team Wednesday morning, and the others reached town in the evening on the Black Diamond or by way of the Lackawanna and Pennsylvania. Stray groups of them kept drifting in at intervals throughout the evening, until the room was packed.

No set program was attempted, the occasion being essentially informal. Its object was to welcome the visiting students and these were gathered around the tables with their fellow Cornellians of earlier classes. Refreshments were served about ten o'clock. The members of the Glee club who were present gathered at one table and led in Cornell songs and popular airs so that things did not flag for a moment.

One or two of the older alumni present were introduced to the audience and made a few remarks, and then Coach C. A. Lueder, '01, spoke briefly on crew prospects. Coach R. S. Kent, '02, told of the football work this season, emphasizing the fact that foundations were being laid for a strong team next year, when the material will be seasoned and will start the year with a thorough knowledge of the rudiments of football.

The arrangements for the smoker were in charge of a standing committee consisting of R. T. Mickel, '92; Alfred M. Roedelheim, '96; E. J. Hedden, '92, and E. B. Carter, '99. Mr. Hedden is secretary and treasurer of the Philadelphia Alumni Association, and was especially active in planning this entertainment.

A vigorous effort is being made to boom the association this year and the smoker was apparently a successful step in this direction. From now on till Christmas the Philadelphia alumni will prepare to receive the Musical clubs on the occasion of their concert in that city December 27th. Indications point to a successful concert and a most enjoyable time for the musicians.

The University basketball team was defeated in the first game of the season Thursday evening by the Dunkirk Y. M. C. A. team in the latter's gymnasium by the score of 29 to 27. While Dunkirk has always had a strong team a defeat was entirely unexpected.

Gen. A. C. Barnes Dies.

Third Death in Board of Trustees Within Two Months--His Active Career.

The third death in the Cornell Board of Trustees within two months occurred Monday, November 28, when General Alfred Cutler Barnes died of pneumonia at his home in Brooklyn at 4 a. m. He was the son of the Hon. A. S. Barnes who presented Barnes Hall to Cornell University. General Barnes was elected a trustee of the University at the death of his father in 1888 and had served ever since.

General Barnes was born in Philadelphia on October 27, 1842, and received his education in Brooklyn. He was always prominently identified with business interests in Brooklyn and New York city. He was founder of and for several years president of the Astor Place Bank, and also served as vice-president and director of the American Book company. He was a prominent member of the Tuxedo and Cornell clubs, of the Grand Army and of several historic and patriotic societies.

General Barnes held the title of brigadier-general of the New York National Guard, having served as inspector-general of rifle practice on the staff of Governor Cornell. It was under his administration that the Peekskill camp was formed.

He had an enviable war record. In 1861 Mr. Barnes accompanied the Seventh Regiment to the front and took an active part in some of the most important battles of the Civil War.

On November 2 he attended the funeral of his brother trustee, the Hon. Joseph C. Hendrix, and was also present at the meeting of the Board of Trustees that was held in Barnes Hall on the morning of October 29, before the Cornell-Princeton football game.

General Barnes leaves two children, a son and a daughter. The latter is Mrs. Newbury, of Chicago, and the former, Victor Barnes, who was in business with his father in New York City.

The second of the series of Chamber concerts under the auspices of the Department of Music this year will be given in Sibley Hall on Monday, December 5, by the celebrated Pittsburgh Orchestra under the leadership of Emil Paur, who succeeds Victor Herbert as conductor. Mrs. Emma Myers, soprano, will be soloist.

THE FOOTBALL SEASON.

The football season of 1904 is over, and few Cornellians there are who lament its passing. It was not an agreeable experience, but it was a necessary one and all we can do is to "grin and bear it." Now that it is over, we may look ahead to a brighter prospect for next season.

When Glenn Warner came to Cornell to take charge of the football team he made no promises as to this year's achievements. He said, and with reason, that he could not turn out a championship team in one year, and indeed nobody but over-sanguine enthusiasts expected him to. As we have already pointed out in these columns more than once, the material with which Coach Warner had to work was almost all new, light and inexperienced. With the exception of three or four men who had played a year ago, he found in his squad men who scarcely knew the rudiments of football, and he was obliged to build from the bottom. He did not know how the men would behave in a big game until he had tried them, and the trying-out process was a painful and hazardous ordeal.

It would have been infinitely better if the Cornell team could have removed itself for one season from the lime-light of the public gaze and devoted itself to private rehearsals behind the scenes. Such a period of preparation might have put the eleven in shape for grand performances at the opening of the season of 1905. Unfortunately, this was out of the question. The schedule had been made out and public contests were absolutely necessary to train the team.

Now that the period of preparation is past, we may expect the eleven to do things next season. Coach Warner will start the year with an unusually large squad of seasoned men, the majority of whom have played in Varsity contests. At one time this year seven full elevens were practising on Percy Field, and even on the day before the team left for Philadelphia the squad comprised three full elevens. Most of these men will be in the University next fall. They will start the year understanding the fundamentals of the game, and the coach will know their ability and weaknesses.

Moreover, this year's Freshman squad was large and promising. It received the constant attention of an experienced coach for the first time in the history of Cornell football, and the results, already apparent, will be still more noticeable next fall. The men who came out for the Freshman team were taken to a special training table and by the close of the season had put on from ten to fifteen pounds of flesh apiece. They also mastered the essentials of team work and will be ready for business next September.

Most important of all, perhaps, Coach Warner and his assistants have had the unqualified support of the undergraduates, through victory and defeat. Never, probably, has the spirit back of a Cornell team been so strong and enthusiastic as during the season just past; never, certainly, has it been so clearly manifested. The parade to the station last Tuesday evening, when the team was about to board the train for Philadelphia, was an inspiring sight. In point of numbers and enthusiasm both it was the greatest demonstration ever accorded a departing Cornell eleven.

The same spirit was shown at Franklin Field Thanksgiving afternoon, and the Philadelphians were not slow to notice and approve, as is shown by the following extract from the Evening Telegraph of that city:

"Cornell has not had a very successful season. On the contrary, the team was most unfortunate in its bigger games, going down to defeat before Princeton and Columbia. Naturally, the supporters of the Red and White became discouraged and the players grew disheartened. But notwithstanding this the team set to work to prepare for today's contest with Penn, and under the guidance of Coach Warner made themselves fit for a hard struggle. The students of Cornell, knowing that nothing so helps a team as true college spirit, determined upon giving every encouragement to the eleven in the game with Pennsylvania. Consequently an unusually large delegation came down from Ithaca to employ all their lung power in cheering the team on to victory. It is no secret that Cornell had little hope to defeat the Quakers, but prior to the game and throughout the entire contest there was evinced a keen determination not to relinquish the fight and, if possible, to at least cross Penn's goal line.

"In the north stand, which in the main was given over to the visitors, were many Cornell graduates and hundreds of spectators whose sympathies were with the Ithacans. Though largely outnumbered by Penn's rooters, they were by no means snowed under, and their cheers and songs were as spirited and enthusiastic as any rendered by the Red and Blue. Cornell may not have as strong a team as Pennsylvania, but there is no gainsaying that what she lacks in muscle and brawn is readily made up by grit and spirit."

The feeling today is one of relief that the season of 1904 is over and of confidence that next fall Coach Warner will turn out a team worthy of Cornell and its achievements in the past. The winning by a coach of such hearty undergraduate support is a long step toward success.

OUR CROSS COUNTRY WORK.

However disastrous an athletic season may be in other respects, Cornell is always pretty certain to have one consolation in the work of its cross country team. Last year it was practically the only branch of athletics in which the University was victorious; and this year's triumph, coming as it did on the eve of the Philadelphia disaster, was cheering in the extreme.

It is an interesting fact that Cornell's performance at Traver's Island last Wednesday was a precise duplicate of that of a year ago. In both instances the team secured first, second, fourth and fifth places at the finish. Another curious fact is that third place was won both times by Hall of Yale.

So complete a victory is only one more big notch in the stick that records "Jack" Moakley's triumphs. To turn out a winning team year after year in spite of the loss of nearly all his veterans and the necessity of working with raw material is no mean achievement for the team's trainer. Mr. Moakley deserves the acknowledgements of Cornell alumni as well as undergraduates.

Chicago Alumni Smoker.

On Saturday, December 3, at 6:30 p. m., the Cornell Alumni Association of Chicago will hold a smoker at the Union hotel and restaurant, Randolph street, Chicago. Coach Charles E. Courtney left Ithaca today to be in attendance at the smoker and tell the alumni something about crew prospects and about things in general at the University.

The members of the association are making every effort for a large attendance and a successful entertainment. John R. Bensley, of 1409 Michigan avenue, is secretary of the association and through the ALUMNI NEWS extends a special invitation to any Cornell men who chance to be traveling through the country in the vicinity of Chicago, to attend the smoker and meet the alumni of that city.

Funeral of Willard Fiske.

His Remains Interred in Vault in Sage Memorial Chapel—Impressive Services.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Professor Willard Fiske were held in Sage Chapel, Saturday afternoon, and were attended by a large number of members of the faculty and students of the University. All University exercises were suspended, and the library was closed for the afternoon out of respect for its first librarian.

The short but impressive services over the body were conducted by the Rev. Professor Charles Babcock, after the form of the Episcopal church. In the course of the services the hymns "Lead Kindly Light," "Abide With Me," and "Integer Vitae" were sung by the quartet composed of Messrs. Brown, Button, Smith and Whitcomb.

At the conclusion of the public service the casket was borne to the memorial chapel, where a brief burial service was conducted, and the body lowered into its final resting place. The casket was covered with floral tributes among them a beautiful wreath of orchids, the gift of H. H. Tyndale, '77, a pupil of Professor Fiske.

The honorary bearers were colleagues of Professor Fiske in the University in 1878,—former President Andrew D. White, Professors James Law, J. T.

Morris, T. F. Crane, and J. M. Hart, Judge Finch, Librarian G. W. Harris, and President Schurman, representing the University, Ira A. Place, representing the executors, and the Hon. S. D. Halliday, representing the board of trustees. The active bearers were the following fraternity brothers of Professor Fiske: John L. Senior, E. B. Fernow, A. N. Newberry, L. B. Fay, L. H. Paddock, and R. D. Day.

Professor Fiske's Services to Chess.

Lasker's Chess Magazine, published in London, in commenting upon the death of the late Daniel Willard Fiske, says in its current number:

"The death of Daniel Willard Fiske, which occurred at Florence, Italy, September 18, removes from the list of chess votaries one of the strongest links that bound our time with that of Paul Morphy. He was the originator and secretary of the first American Chess Congress, which was played in New York in 1857, through which Morphy received his official introduction to American and European chess players, and, were there nothing else to entitle Mr. Fiske to a prominent place among the writers on the game, his chapters on the history of chess and incidents in the history of American chess, in the book of the first American Chess Congress, would be sufficient to place him in the foremost rank."

Brief University News.

Mr. Hoyle is building, at the boat-house, two four-oared shells, one for the University of California and the other for Stanford University. The boats will be shipped from Ithaca about December 15.

Eight men are working for the three vacant positions on the University fencing team and the competition promises to be a close one. Meets have been arranged with West Point, Annapolis, Columbia and Harvard and it is possible that dates with Yale, Pennsylvania and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology will be arranged later. A meet for the second team will be arranged during Christmas recess.

An interesting and instructive trip was taken last week by the University section in modern philanthropy. Thirty-six students went on a tour of inspection to Buffalo under the guidance of Professor Frank A. Fetter who is in charge of the department. The class visited ten charitable institutions in the Queen City. The excursion was arranged by the Charity Organization society, the aim of which is to educate the people to voluntary, unpaid and personal service among the poor of Buffalo.

About 20 candidates have been reporting regularly at lacrosse practice this fall. Several of the new men are showing excellent form for this period in the season and on the whole the practice is considered most encouraging. The work at present consists in the development of steady stick work, which is an important attainment before any attempt at team work can be made. Captain EVELAND recently suffered a severe sprained ankle contracted while playing but is now again on the field with his men.

Several meetings of officers of the University Cadet Corps have been held for the purpose of discussing the advisability of reviving the Military hops. The plan is to hold a series of five informal functions in the Armory. The last Military hop took place three years ago and was a failure financially as was the series during the year preceding. The purpose this year is to turn the net proceeds over to the Athletic Association. Captain Barton, who has recently assumed command of the Cadet Corps, is interested in the movement and believes that greater interest in the military department will be aroused in this manner.

The formation of a Cosmopolitan club, which has been agitated at the University for some time, was successfully accomplished recently. More than one hundred students gathered at the meeting in Barnes hall, also a number of prominent members of the faculty, including Professors L. H. Bailey, G. P. Bristol, T. F. Hunt, O. G. Guerlac, E. W. Olmsted and V. Karapetoff. W. R. Reece of New Zealand was appointed temporary chairman. The principal object of this association is to encourage a wider interest in the world's affairs and to give its members the benefit of this cosmopolitan association.

When the Whitehall club was flourishing in Chicago, according to a popular magazine the members decided to nominate a full ticket at the city election one spring, and a platform was adopted, the essential points of which were negative and included "no police, no water, no firemen, no displaying of white coffins in undertakers' windows." Hobart Chatfield Taylor, '86, was selected as the candidate for mayor, and a committee was appointed to notify the nominee. Then Finley Peter Dunne, later known to fame as "Mr. Dooley," arose and moved that in case Hobart Chatfield Taylor would not allow the "Whitechapel" club to use his name as a candidate for the mayoralty, the committee be instructed to ask him to allow the use of a part of his name.

The work on Rockefeller and Goldwin Smith halls is now progressing rapidly. Considerable delay was necessitated because of the difficulty in obtaining the rough stone for the cutters. It is not expected that the structures will be ready for occupancy at the time specified in the contract. Some difficulty has been experienced by the contractor in securing masons and laborers and advertisements placed in the dailies in all of the larger cities in the state have failed to bring results.

Stone masons are now at work on Goldwin Smith hall and on the northern wing the stones have been laid to a height of six feet. The framing timbers for Rockefeller hall will be put in place next week.

A POINT TO INSIST ON.

There are endless numbers of traveling people who go regularly from New York to Chicago and vice versa several times a month, who have never gone over any other road but the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, because this road is "good enough" for them. It's good enough for anybody, the fastest, safest, most convenient and most comfortable road in America. Once you travel over the Lake Shore and you will not want to experiment with any other road. People who know the comforts and discomforts of traveling, and what they have a right to expect, always insist on their tickets reading by way of the Lake Shore. So should you.

Cornell Men in Office.

Among the Cornellians who were candidates for election to important state and national offices was Frederick H. Jackson, ex-'73, president of the Providence, R. I., Chamber of Commerce. He was elected lieutenant governor of Rhode Island on the Republican ticket by a plurality of about 500. In speaking of his nomination a well known commercial publication said: "Mr. Jackson is an upright, honest man of great ability. His standard is the highest type of manhood regardless of political affiliations. He has sacrificed business interests in the past for offices which were never sought by him although he must feel the pleasure of the distinction of being selected by his fellow citizens for any office in the gift of the state."

W. K. Pierce, '73, was a Republican elector from New York state. His home is in Syracuse. C. T. Dunwell, who attended the University from '69 to '71, was elected to Congress from the third congressional district of New York state.
