Eleven Outgeneralled by the Tigers—
20,000 Persons See Contest on the Polo Grounds in New York.

Princeton defeated Cornell by 14 points to 5 in the annual football game of the two universities last Saturday. The game was played on the Polo Grounds in New York city, and was seen by about 20,000 persons. In pluck and determination, as in weight, the teams were well matched, and it was a slight preponderance of skill and wit that turned the scale in Princeton's favor. Cornell scored a touchdown within the first five minutes of play. Princeton obtained a touchdown and goal in the first half and a second touchdown and goal, together with a safety, in the second half.

There was a large attendance of Cornellians, including about a thousand undergraduates. The northern half of the big, semi-circular, double-decked stand on the west side of the field was reserved for the Carmelian and White, and the Orange and Black had the southern half. The bleachers flanking either goal were filled with spectators, and the amphitheater formed by grandstand and bleachers was brilliant with red and orange flags. Although they were somewhat too scattered for the most effective cheering, the undergraduates on both sides made themselves heard throughout the game. Cornell interspersed long and short yells with "The Big Red Team" and "Alma Mater."

The wind blew across the field from the east. Cornell elected to defend the south goal, with the sun at her back. Harlan kicked off to Cornell's 5-yard line. Walder was under the ball, and ran it back fifteen yards before he was upset. The first scrimmage did not yield much gain for Cornell, and on the second down Walder punted to Princeton's 35-yard line. Quarterback Dillon muffed the ball, and Babcock's quickness in falling on it bore fruit a few minutes later in a touchdown for Cornell.

Earle made successive gains of two and four yards and on a long pass out to the end Babcock added two more. A hole was made through Stannard, and Walder ploughed through the gap and annexed eight yards. Two short gains were followed by a seven yard plunge, and the Tigers were thrown back to their 1-yard line. Into the right wing went Walder once more, and when the heap was uncoiled Walder was over the goal line. Cornell had advanced the ball thirty-five uninterrupted yards by rushing. Cook missed an easy goal. Score: Cornell, 5; Princeton, 0.

TOUCHDOWN FOR PRINCETON.

Harlan kicked off again, and Jamieson got the ball. An end run by Gibson was repulsed, and on a fake kick Gibson was able to gain only four yards. Walder then punted to Harlan on Princeton's 50-yard line. A forward pass netted Princeton twenty yards. Thompson broke through and stopped McCormick for a loss, and Princeton again resorted to a trick play.

A punt close to the line by Harlan lifted the ball over Cornell's right end and clear of everybody except Jamieson, who saw the play coming, but stood too far back and tried to take the ball on the bound. He missed it. Wister rushed by him, picked up the ball and in a few steps was over for a touchdown. A kicked goal by Cooney made the score 6 to 5 in favor of Princeton.

Neither side was able to score further in the first half. Cornell kept the ball in Princeton's territory most of the time by effective use of the forward pass and the short on-side kick and by line bucking. The forward pass failed at critical points, however, and Princeton profited by Cornell's fumbles to boot the ball down the field every time her goal was threatened. The nearest approach to another score by Cornell was an attempt by Walder to kick a goal from placement. He missed it by a foot.

THE SECOND HALF.

McCutcheon was in Walder's place when the second half began. Capt. Cook kicked off. After two exchanges of punts Princeton got the ball on Cornell's 33-yard line. A forward pass to Wister took the ball to the 12-yard line, and there the Tigers put all their strength into an attack on Cornell's right, which was good for eight yards. On the next scrimmage McCormick was rammed through the same place for a touchdown. Cooney kicked the goal. Score: Princeton, 12; Cornell, 5.

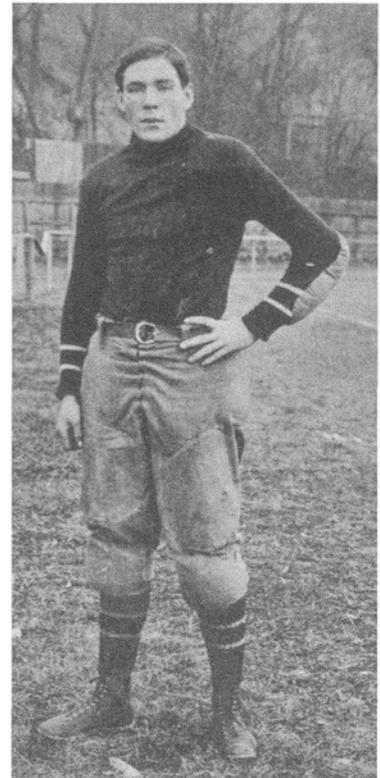

Cornell kicked off again, and Princeton, failing to gain by rushing, punted to McCutcheon on her 50-yard line. Cooney dropped him before he could get under way. The Tigers' defence was strong, and McCutcheon punted to E. Dillon. Dillon caught the ball on the run, and almost got a clear field to the goal, but was downed by Newman. McCormick went through the Cornell line for forty yards. Harlan went around right tackle for eight yards, McCormick annexed four more, and five more were gained by a forward pass.

Dann took Cook's place and broke through and stopped a play, and Cornell braced. Harlan tried a drop kick, which was partly blocked and missed the goal by ten feet. There was a scramble for the ball, and Jamieson fell on it. Under a ground rule, adopted because the bleachers were only a few feet from either goal line, this counted as a safety. Score: Princeton, 14; Cornell, 5.

Cornell kicked off from the 20-yard line to midfield. In a series of rushes Harlan, McCormick and Rulon-Miller gained the 15-yard line, where Cornell made another fine brace and recovered the ball on downs. McCutcheon punted to E. Dillon, who ran into Thompson and was stopped suddenly.

Dillon lost his temper and was sent to the sideline. Tenney took his place. The officials did not inflict the full penalty for slugging, which would have given Cornell half the distance to the goal line.

McCutcheon was injured and Sailor took his place. Watson replaced Babcock. After several exchanges of punts, in which Sailor had a decided advantage over Harlan, a case of tripping by Princeton gave Cornell the ball on the Tigers' 25-yard line. Gibson rammed Princeton's right for eight yards. On the next play the Tigers held. It was third down, and Pollak took Jamieson's place with instructions to try a forward pass. The ball fell into the arms of Herring, and the game ended a few minutes later with the ball in Princeton's possession in midfield.

WALDER, FULLBACK.

The following comments on the game are taken from the New York Sun:

The score was 6 to 5 at the end of the first half and with Cornell playing the better game in that period, despite the margin of one point in the Jersey men's favor. The generalship of the Tigers in the first half in not hitting up the pace, while Cornell was doing that very thing, told in the second installment of the strife, in which it was Cornell's turn to be outplayed. Princeton, scoring in the first half by quick seizure of an opportunity, was outplayed in the first half, Cornell in the second.

Even before the first half was ended Princeton was beginning to put on more steam and presaging a more aggressive game later on. However, Old Nassau crossed Cornell's goal line but once in the second period—two of her points coming from a safety—and met with such spirited resistance from the brawny boys up the State that she did not realize in points in proportion to yards gained. Cornell made a splendid stand in the shadow of her goal post, which forced a drop kick that missed fire. This was repeated, and in the ensuing scramble for the ball the safety by Cornell was made.

The 20,000 persons who hemmed in the gridiron saw the first real big game under the new rules, and to them it was clearly demonstrated that the fear was groundless that the new rules with strong, evenly matched elevens battling would reduce scoring to a minimum. Not only was the scoring up to the average, but the changing phases of football as encouraged by the 1906 code dovetailed the old and the new smoothly in good ratio and with sharply defined distinctions, keeping interest always on edge, shifting the battle hither and thither and yet not making science and well defined policy subservient to luck and chance.

A premium was put on vigilance and resourcefulness, yet team work and unity of action did not go unrewarded. In short there was greater variety than in big games of previous years, the ball was exposed to the stands a great deal by the open play and the better team won by a natural margin. This test the new rules survived. "Why," was the comment of a close observer, "this game is like baseball, they throw the ball around so much."

Ethically the game was not without its faults. The Cornellians played the cleaner game. Princeton was penalized for holding, but on the whole the penalties were few. Princeton also was penalized once for tripping—an offence rare in football—and E. Dillon, the Princeton quarterback, was ruled out in the second half for slugging. There have been cases of roughing this year where the new penalty of giving the other side one-half the distance to the goal line was inflicted. The officials did not elect to inflict this penalty, merely sending Dillon to the side lines. Roughness, however, was at a discount in the game and injuries were of little moment.

The morale of both teams was splendid. There was no demoralization, no disintegration due to drooping spirits. When one side or the other broke ground it was the flesh alone that was responsible. The Tigers were the better strategists of the day, however. Cornell startled them for a while with the vigor of her onslaught, and although Cornell was the first to score, the Jersey men never relaxed in their steadfastness of purpose and did not lost their heads.

LECTURES ON HISTORY.

President White School Seeks to Interest Technical Students.

The President White School of History and Political Science has arranged for a series of lectures on general topics which will appeal to a large number of the undergraduates and faculty as one of the features of the year. The subjects will be principally in the fields of history and political science.

There was evidence last year that the undergraduates welcomed an opportunity to attend such courses as those given by the President White School. This course has been arranged this year with the special purpose of attracting undergraduates in technical and professional courses.

In addition to the professors in the President White School, other members of the faculty have consented to lecture in this course. Two lectures will be given each week, one on each Tuesday and Thursday at 12 m. in the new amphitheater of Goldwin Smith hall.

The outline of lectures, dates, and speakers for the first month is as follows: The opening lecture will be given by President Schurman on Tuesday, Dec. 4. He will speak on "Individualism and Socialism." Following him, Dean Huffcut, of the College of Law, will give an address on "The Results of the Hague Conference."

Dean Willcox, of the College of Arts and Sciences, will speak on the following Tuesday, Dec. 11, on "The Expansion of Europe." On Thursday, Dec. 13, Professor Schmidt will lecture on "The Code of Hammurabi." This book, which was recently discovered, is the oldest code of laws known.

Director Bailey, of the Agricultural College, is to give an address on Tuesday, Dec. 18, on "The State and the Farmer." Professor Catterall will again lecture in this course this year and will take as his topic on Thursday, Dec. 20, "Voltaire and his Teachings in their Connection with the French Revolution."

Other lecturers in this course will be Dr. A. D. White; Director Smith of Sibley College; Dr. Law of the Veterinary College; Dean Haskell of the College of Civil Engineering; and Professors Jenks, Fetter, Kemmerer, Burr, Howe, Catterall and Sill.

FIVE NEW SCHOLARSHIPS.

Gift of Dr. Charles H. Roberts to the College of Agriculture.

The sum of $30,000, to be used for the endowment of five scholarships in the College of Agriculture, has been given to the University by Dr. Charles H. Roberts, of Oakes, Ulster county, N. Y. Dr. Roberts is an enthusiast on the subject of instruction in agriculture, particularly the work done at Cornell. He is 86 years old. His deed of gift reads as follows:

"I, Charles H. Roberts of Oakes, Ulster county, N. Y., do hereby give, set over and assign to Cornell University of Ithaca, N. Y., a fund represented by six hundred shares of Reading Company's first preferred stock, of par value of fifty dollars each, in trust nevertheless to hold, invest and re-invest said fund, and to use the income derived therefrom in the payment of five equal annual scholarships in the College of Agriculture, to be known as the Charles H. Roberts Scholarships Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5; said scholarships to be awarded by the faculty of the College of Agriculture at Cornell University, under such rules as the faculty of said college shall determine, and to be open to all races of mankind, regardless of color, politics or religious creeds, of good moral character and required qualifications, preference to be given to intelligence and financial inability. This gift is made upon the condition that if the income from said fund shall be used for other than the purposes or objects designated, then the said principal sum shall revert to my lawful heirs."

Director Liberty H. Bailey of the College of Agriculture said that this was the first instance in his knowledge of the private establishment of a scholarship in an agricultural college. He expressed great pleasure over Dr. Roberts's gift, and said that the donor had imposed no condition which was not agreeable to the faculty.

Dr. Roberts is deeply interested in farming, particularly in its most advanced form, and he is a great believer in the technical education of young agriculturists. He believes that the best farming interests of the country will in the future be in the hands of educated men.

Dr. Roberts was a dentist in Poughkeepsie in early life. He developed a shrewd judgment as an investor, particularly in railroad securities, and augmented his wealth largely through the increase in their value. For the past thirty years he has lived in retirement at Oakes, across the Hudson from Poughkeepsie, dividing his interest in farming with investigations of various railroad properties of the country. He has traveled extensively, his method being to go to a railroad and find out by personal observation what its financial and material condition may be before investing in its stock. He is said to be one of the keenest railroad investors of the country.

One of Dr. Roberts's daughters conducts a dairy farm which is said to be a model in economy and sanitation. He takes a deep interest in this farm, and through it in technical agriculture such as is taught at Cornell.

It is expected that the five scholarships will be worth between $200 and $250 each annually.

Greetings Sent to Goldwin Smith.

At a meeting of the faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences held a few days ago, the following resolution was adopted and sent to Professor Goldwin Smith:

"The members of the faculty, now domiciled in Goldwin Smith Hall, assembled this afternoon for the first conference in that building, send affectionate greetings to the revered scholar in whose name and under whose inspiration they are beginning their work."

Chess Club in Training.

The Cornell Chess Club is now holding weekly meetings in Barnes Hall, and a tournament in which every member of the club is entered is in progress. By means of this tournament the men who are to represent Cornell on the two board and six board teams will be selected.

The two board team will engage in the triangular tournament between Cornell, Pennsylvania and Brown, which is to be held during Christmas week. For several years Cornell held the championship, but for the last two years it has gone to Pennsylvania. It is only necessary for Pennsylvania to win the coming tournament to get possession of the league cup. The club is now trying to arrange for a six board match to take place before Christmas. The opponents have not been definitely decided upon but it is probable that the match will be with either Columbia or Syracuse.

The Rev. Dr. O. P. Gifford, pastor of the Delaware Avenue Baptist church, of Buffalo, was the University preacher last Sunday.

CORNELL DEBATERS BUSY.

Good Material on Hand for 'Varsity Teams This Year.

The material on hand for debate teams promises to make strong aggregations this year. Five of the six men who represented Cornell in intercollegiate contests last year are still in the University. They are H. G. Stutz, '07, of Albany; H. J. Roig, '07, of Poughkeepsie; G. W. Roesch, '07, of Brooklyn; J. C. Kennedy, '07, of Buffalo, and L. R. Goodrich, '08, of Buffalo. The only man lost is G. G. Bogert, '06, and W. W. Taylor, '07, of Brooklyn, last year's alternate, will probably take his place. There are a good many other men in the University who have had much experience in debating.

Debating will begin this year with the interclass series. As soon as the different class clubs become organized, competitions for the teams to represent each will be announced and the task of developing good candidates for the Triangular League debates will have begun.

The Robert Henry Thurston senior debate club will hold its first meeting in a few days. At this meeting officers for the year, as well as a representative to the Debate Council, will be elected.

The Andrew D. White junior debate club has held its first meeting and has elected the following officers: President, R. E. Samuels, Brooklyn; vice-president, C. E. Baer, New Castle, Pa.; secretary, E. G. Boring, Philadelphia, Pa.; treasurer, R. Y. Thatcher, Buffalo; representative on the debate council, H. T. Kent, jr., Clifton Heights, Pa.

The Francis Miles Finch sophomore debate club has elected officers for the coming year. The president of the club is R. C. Edlund, of Brooklyn. The freshman club met early this week and chose a team of four men to represent the class in the first debate with the sophomores. The sophomores have submitted this question: "Resolved, that Cuba should be annexed to the United States." The freshman team has a week in which to choose its side.

At a recent meeting of the Debate Union, the interclass debate championship, which was in dispute between the class of 1906 and the class of 1908, was awarded to the class of 1908.

PLANS FOR THE GORGE.

Dr. de Forest Comes to Ithaca for a Personal Inspection.

Dr. Henry P. de Forest, '84, who originated the project to restore to Fall Creek gorge some of its natural beauty and who is the chairman of the Brooklyn alumni committee in charge of the undertaking, was in Ithaca on Monday of this week. He came here to look over the gorge with the purpose of making a final report on the plans before the Brooklyn alumni at their monthly meeting on Tuesday evening.

President Schurman and Professor Rowlee accompanied Dr. de Forest in a trip down the gorge. The three men went as far as they could without running the risk of breaking their necks. They came finally to a jumping-off place, where Dr. de Forest exclaimed: "By thunder! I don't wonder people have stopped visiting the gorge."

Dr. de Forest said that after he read his report steps would be immediately taken toward an active canvass for the first installment of $5,000, the estimated cost of the improvements. He is inclined to favor Professor Rowlee's suggestion that $1,000 be raised each year for five years. If the necessary funds are at hand, the work will probably begin next spring.

The plans for this work were reviewed extensively in the ALUMNI NEWS last year. They contemplate the restoration of the gorge as nearly as possible to a state of nature, and provide for pathways and bridges.

New York Club's Smoker.

The Cornell University Club of New York gave a smoker on Friday, Oct. 26, the evening before the Princeton game, at the clubhouse, 58 West Forty-fifth street. It was one of the most largely attended and most successful assemblies ever held by the club. No count was made of those present, but it was estimated that more than 200 Cornellians visited the house in the course of the evening. The first floor rooms were crowded for several hours.

Anticipating that many alumni from out of town and undergraduates from Ithaca would be in New York to see the football game, the club had made the invitation to the smoker general, and a score or more of upper class men accepted it. Among the out-of-town alumni present were the following: Professor Frank Irvine, '80, of the faculty; W. T. Morris, '73, of Penn Yan, N. Y.; B. S. Cottrell, '97, of Newport, R. I.; E. A. Wagner, '98, of Fort Wayne, Ind.; E. H. Fitch, '97, Guy Gundaker, '96, W. F. Woodward, '03, and C. B. Kugler, '03, of Philadelphia; Lieut. J. W. Beacham, U. S. A., '97; J. G. Tracy, '98, and Robert Ryon, '03, of Syracuse; T. R. Finucane, '03, of Rochester; George S. Rose, '04, of Schenectady, and R. L. Dempster, '04.

COSMOPOLITANS TO BUILD.

Club Has Plans for Erecting a Permanent Home.

At a meeting of the Cosmopolitan club, held some time ago, it was decided to incorporate the club under the laws of the State of New York. The matter is now pending and final arrangements will have been made within a few weeks. In addition to this, the club has for some time past been working on a project for building a permanent and more commodious home, and a considerable amount of money for this purpose has already been subscribed, principally by members of the class of 1906.

The club held a well attended meeting at the club rooms last Saturday evening, the occasion being an entertainment and reception to new members. More than eighty persons attended. It was "international night," and nearly all the nations were represented on the programme. Mr. E. A. Goldenweiser, of Russia, spoke on "The Importance to a Man of Being a Cosmopolitan." Mr. L. Wang, of China, gave an interesting talk on "The Formulated Constitution of China." Mr. V. E. Siramarkian of Armenia discussed "The History and Literature of Armenia." Mr. F. Urrutia of the Argentine Republic closed the list of speakers with a timely account of the reception of Secretary Root in the Argentine Republic.

During the evening the Americans rendered "My Old Kentucky Home," and Messrs. Agcavili and Baltasar of the Philippine Islands played a violin duet. The Philippine quartette also rendered selections.

NAMED FOR OFFICE.

Two Cornell Men Renominated for Members of Congress.

George E. Waldo, '72, and Charles T. Dunwell, '73, both of Brooklyn, N. Y., have been renominated for second and third terms, respectively, as Representatives in Congress.

Francis L. Chrisman, '87, of Montclair, N. J., has been nominated for the state assembly on a citizens' independent ticket. Mr. Chrisman was secretary to Andrew D. White and to Congressman Robert R. Hitt. He was chief of the sound money press bureau of the New York Chamber of Commerce during the first McKinley campaign. He is now the owner of the Montclair Herald.

William D. Cunningham, '00, of Ellenville, N. Y., has been renominated by the Republican party for a fourth term in the Assembly from the Second district of Ulster county. He carried the district last year by the largest majority in its history.

William A. De Ford, '92, is the candidate of the (Hearst) Independence League for State Senator from the Twenty-first district of New York, comprising the Thirtieth and Thirty-second assembly districts, Manhattan and the Bronx.

Praise From Mr. Hughes.

Charles E. Hughes, the Republican candidate for Governor of New York, addressed a large audience in the Lyceum theater last Thursday evening. President Schurman, Dr. Andrew D. White, Dean Crane, Director Bailey and many other members of the faculty were present. Dean Huffcut, of the College of Law, presided. Horace White, '87, was one of the speakers. Mr. Hughes began by saying:

"The happiest days of my life were spent far above Cayuga's waters. There choice friendships were formed and there I received sound instruction from the Cornell boys. It has been my endeavor since I left Ithaca to live up to the principles which I found inculcated here, and I have noticed that wherever I met a Cornell man I have met a man of vigor, a hustler, a man who was intent upon accomplishment, and a downright good fellow. I know no pleasanter sound among all the slogans of the day than the Cornell yell."

Entered as Second-Class Matter at Ithaca, N. Y.

Ithaca, N. Y., October 31, 1906

Because the editor of this paper went to New York to see the football game last Saturday, the present issue is a day late in coming out.

Our appeal for assistance in telling our readers what the alumni of Cornell are doing has called forth a number of interesting contributions. We can find room for a great many more. Many subscribers say they consider the "Alumni Notes" the most valuable department of the paper, and some of them complain because we are printing these notes in smaller type than was formerly used. Our reply is that while the new type is two "points" smaller it is still legible, and its use enables us to get more matter in a column than we used to do. If the "Alumni Notes" are valuable, fifty of them ought to be worth more than forty.

There is no reason why any alumnus should be over-modest in letting the rest of us know of his success. It is always interesting to know what your fellows are doing, and inspiring to know that one of them is succeeding.

Some excellent suggestions for special articles have been received, and these articles will be forthcoming soon.

THE FOOTBALL OUTLOOK.

Our disappointment at the failure of the football team to defeat Princeton is keen, but there are encouraging things about the contest. Several old Cornell football players who were on the sidelines at the Polo Grounds said they never saw a better or pluckier game played by a Cornell team. The charge which resulted in a touchdown was no more admirable than the energy with which the eleven, already beaten, repulsed two savage attacks near its own goal in the second half. If Princeton has a first class team, Cornell's is certainly not in the second class.

Cornell prides herself on her cleanliness in athletics, and the eleven is to be congratulated on the fact that, although it fought desperately, it was not once penalized for deliberate foul tactics.

The coaches ought to be able to draw some profitable lessons from the game. To a layman Cornell seemed to be inferior to Princeton in the rudiments of the game. Our tackling was not so certain and our men were not so clever in their handling of the ball. This suggests the need of more alumni coaches. A head coach cannot be expected to give a large part of his time to instructing candidates for the team in the elements. Eleven graduates assisted Mr. Roper of Princeton in preparing their team to meet Cornell; not more than half that number were on Percy Field during the same week.

After all, football ought to be a sport and not a business, and perhaps more Cornell students will play it for the fun of the thing when we get our new athletic field. We may be able to develop a championship eleven on Percy Field, but the hour each day which is now given up to travel on the Ithaca street railway might be more profitably employed by the big red team.

FOR THURSTON MEMORIAL.New Committee Organized to Canvass Four Classes.

An effort to bring about the immediate completion of the fund for the Thurston Memorial to be presented by the classes of 1904, 1905, 1906 and 1907 is well under way. A new committee for carrying out this work was organized last Wednesday and a plan of procedure was adopted.

A new canvass of the four classes is to be made immediately by letter and it is hoped that the necessary $1,500 can be raised before Jan. 1, 1907.

The money necessary to conduct this new canvass will not be taken from the existing funds, but will be raised by some other means from the present senior class. A meeting of the seniors of Sibley College to discuss this matter and decide on a method of procuring this appropriation will be held this week.

Following is the executive committee: H. P. DuBois, '06, chairman; W. L. Umstad, '06; W. H. Forbes, '06; R. C. Rodgers, '05; G. C. Estill, '07; J. M. Fried, '07; W. T. Wing, '07; H. B. McWhorter, '07.

The November Era.

The November number of the Era contains a number of timely articles. Dean Huffcut of the College of Law contributes an appreciation of Charles E. Hughes, and Professor Frank Thilly, who recently came to Cornell from Princeton, writes about "Old Nassau." An interesting article by E. H. Eitel, '07, who writes the editorials in the Cornell Daily Sun, tells how that enterprising daily is made up and put to press. J. A. Pollak, junior president of the class of 1907, relates some interesting experiences in class politics which are not by any means unique.

To Revive Francis Race.

It is planned to have a single scull race this year in competition for the Francis medal if enough men will take interest in the event.

The Francis medal was given by Charles S. Francis, '77, as a prize for the single sculls championship with the intention that it be competed for each year, but the races for the medal have not been held regularly during the past few years.

The conditions attached to this prize give the winner the possession of it for one year following the race at which it is won. In the fall of 1904 the last race was held and was won by E. T. Foote, '00.

It is hoped that enough men will take interest in this race to make a competition possible again this year.

Cornell Oarsmen.

The New York Sun reprints without comment the following paragraph from the Outing magazine, under the caption "Cornell Oarsmen:"

Harvard plugged, plugged away at 32 against Cambridge, as the professional coach had instructed, unable to raise it for fear of going to pieces. Harvard had no sprint; Yale had no sprint; Cornell is the only American college that puts out a crew which can sprint and stay. The tactics of Cambridge against Harvard were precisely those of Cornell at Poughkeepsie every year against the other crews of the Intercollegiate Regatta. Cornell always gets off fast for a sprint until a lead is secured, and then holds it, spurring as the occasion demands. Cornell is the only first class crew in this country that can get proportionate speed from increased stroke without losing length and without too costly effort. That is because Cornell has had the only crews rowing to perfection the so-called American stroke.

No Free Trips Home.

A recent amendment made by the State Legislature to the Corrupt Practices act relating to the conduct of elections has made it a misdemeanor for any political party to pay a student's expenses to his home town. A large number of undergraduates have been expecting free transportation from Ithaca to their homes on Election Day, but under this act they will be unable to vote unless they pay their own expenses.

At the sophomore election held on Oct. 24, James Joseph Cosgrove, of Braddock, Pa., was elected president of the class. He is substitute guard on the varsity football team.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL MEETS.

New Training Table Regulations—Assistant Managers Elected.

The Athletic Council held a meeting on Monday evening and elected the following assistant managers, who will be managers in their respective sports next year:

Assistant manager of baseball, S. A. Cochran of Little Rock, Ark.

Assistant manager of crew, S. L. Vanderveer of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Assistant manager of track, C. G. Bamberger of Salt Lake, Utah.

The Athletic Council transacted other important business, principally in regard to training table regulations, the status of lacrosse and awarding of numerals for crew work.

The committee appointed to investigate and report on lacrosse recommended that it be considered as a minor sport and placed under the jurisdiction of the Minor Sports Council. The recommendation was adopted, together with further arrangements for the financing of this branch. An agreement was ratified between the Athletic Council and Minor Sports Council to the effect that the latter agrees to give lacrosse all its surplus over $50 at the end of the present college year, up to the amount of the requested appropriation of $250. This agreement was made for the year 1906-7 only, and with the further understanding that the Athletic Council is to make up any deficit that the Minor Sports Council is unable to pay. Under this new arrangement, the election of manager and assistant manager of lacrosse will be made by the Minor Sports Council.

In reference to the holding of inter-scholastic track meets, a motion was passed that the advisability of holding them shall be determined by the Council, and when held they shall be under the management of the track committee.

In regard to University training tables, a committee consisting of Dean A. W. Smith, W. J. Dugan, '07, H. F. Wardwell, '07, F. C. Chapman, '07, and Graduate Manager J. L. Senior, submitted a series of rules, which were adopted as follows:

1. That a faculty member of the Council be appointed by the President to decide as to the rate per week each man at any training table shall pay.

2. That no man be allowed at training table until his case has been passed upon by the faculty member in charge and his card of admission issued.

3. That a minimum charge of $3.00 per week be made and that cases for remitting this charge be investigated and decided upon by the faculty member in charge.

4. That in all cases the rate of payment shall be decided upon by the faculty member in charge after investigation by him.

5. That all payments for board at training table for any week shall be due on the Monday of the following week and payable to the manager in charge of the training table or his representative. Failure to meet this requirement shall be followed in all cases by immediate exclusion from the training table until the account is settled. The coach of each branch shall be held responsible for the enforcement of this rule at his table.

6. That managers shall be governed by the same rules as are members of teams.

Dean A. W. Smith was appointed as the faculty member in charge of the training table.

Lacrosse in Minor League.

The lacrosse management has decided to join the Minor Sports Association and so make the minor sports season ticket good for its matches. This makes four branches of sport in the association proper, namely, basketball, lacrosse, association football and fencing. The aim of the Minor Sports Association is to make all minor sports self-supporting and with this end in view the Athletic Council has consented to assist in putting the association on a paying basis.

ALUMNI ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Announcements for publication should be received not later than Monday morning.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—An informal smoker for all Cornell men will be held at the Edison Club rooms, Gazette Building, State street (top floor) on Saturday evening, Nov. 3, at 8 o'clock. Every Cornell man is cordially urged to be present at that time and to join in a good smoke, song and a few "short yells."

CORNELL UNIVERSITY CLUB OF NEW YORK.—The attention of the members of the club is called to a radical change in the manner of conducting the club restaurant. Heretofore the restaurant has closed at 8 P. M. Beginning with Nov. 1, it will be open from 7:30 A. M. until 12:30 midnight. A special feature will be made of serving a la carte orders during the entire evening.

BRIEF UNIVERSITY NEWS.

J. G. Phelps Stokes and his wife, Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes, of New York, spoke on "Socialism" at Library hall in Ithaca last Saturday evening. They had a large audience which included several members of the faculty. John C. Chase, Socialist nominee for Governor of New York state, was also a speaker. Professor Vladimir Karapetoff of the University faculty presided over the meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Stokes visited the campus on Sunday afternoon.

The English Club of the University has begun a series of weekly readings, to be held on Tuesday evenings in Goldwin Smith hall. President Schurman began the series on Oct. 23 with a reading from Ibsen's "The Enemy of the People." Director Bailey of the College of Agriculture was the reader on Oct. 30. At the first meeting of the year announcement was made of an international project to buy and preserve the house in Rome in which the poet Keats died. The English Club will receive and forward subscriptions to this fund.

The students who remained in Ithaca last Saturday received returns from the Cornell-Princeton game in the Armory. The wire of the Daily Sun, which is used to receive telegraphic news from New York each morning, was brought into service. The large score board which is used at Percy Field was placed at one end of the Armory, and the score was recorded on this. The position of the ball on the field was indicated by a small ball on a miniature gridiron. One of the cheer leaders stood on the platform and led the cheering and singing. The Armory was crowded. Owing to the fact that the seats regularly used in the Armory are in temporary use in Goldwin Smith hall, most of those present were compelled to sit on the floor.

Miss Marguerite Decker of the class of 1910 represents the second generation of the class of '84. She is the daughter of Delbert H. Decker, '84, an attorney and counsellor at patent law, of Washington, D. C.

UNDERCLASS FLAG RUSH.

Plans and Rules for the Annual Encounter Near the Armory.

The annual underclass flag rush will be held on the Armory green on Hallowe'en. This rush was instituted by the Vigilance Committee four years ago to take the place of disorganized and impromptu rushes and will decide the underclass supremacy in this line.

The following rules, adopted several years ago, will govern the rush: "Three teams of fifteen men each will meet on the green. Five men of each team will be given a grasp on the flag and the other ten will line up on the opposite sides of the field, fifty paces from the flag.

"At a given signal all will rush in to grasp the flag and at the end of five minutes, the class whose team has the most hands on the flag will be declared winner."

There will be three such rushes and the class winning two out of the three bouts will be declared the winner. The Vigilance Committee will have charge of all arrangements for the affair.

M. E.'s Elect Officers.

At a meeting of the Cornell Society of Mechanical Engineers last week, the following officers were elected for the year: President, A. D. Blake, '07; first vice-president, A. G. Kessler, '07; second vice-president, C. G. Lee, jr., '07; secretary, B. Sloan, '07; treasurer, G. Kleppish, '07; sergeant-at-arms, W. L. Wallace, jr., G.; chairman of executive committee, O. H. Bigelow, '07; finance committee, A. Snyder, '07, and O. E. Kilmer, '07; chairman program committee, W. A. Weedon, '07.

The society decided to devote more time to social purposes this year than heretofore and not to give so much time to technical discourses.

The freshman football team has two games scheduled with the freshman eleven of the University of Pennsylvania. The first one will be played in Philadelphia on Saturday, Nov. 3. The return game will be played in Ithaca on Saturday, Nov. 24.

The team is developing rapidly under Coach Kent and will be in good condition for the contests. Two years ago Pennsylvania won the freshman game 2 to 0, but was defeated last year on Percy Field by a score of 17 to 0.

“THIS IS YOUR TIME”

You are strong and well now, and business is good, and you don't really see why you should bother about Life Insurance just yet.

But others see. The little mother in black, with her three children, the family of a man you once knew, would find it very convenient just now, to have a few thousands of insurance money to tide her over until she can learn how to earn her living. He, your friend, before he left, said more than once that he would take out insurance---“some other time.” But he couldn't control the time. Nor can you.

Better write now for facts about the policy you would like. Write The Prudential to-day. It has every good kind.

Your Money's Worth

IN

LIFE INSURANCE

YOU ARE ENTITLED to your money's worth of any commodity you buy, whether it is a pound of sugar, a peck of potatoes, a ton of coal or a policy of life-insurance—full measure, too.

You GET your money's worth—and full measure—when you secure a policy in the

LIFE INSURANCE CLUB

NEW YORK

For instance, you pay other standard companies a certain annual premium in advance and you get a 20-payment life policy for $10,000. In the Club, for the same premium in monthly deposits, if you prefer, you get the same kind of policy, equally safe and even more liberal, but for $12,500 instead of $10,000. In a word, for the same money

You Get $2500 Extra Insurance

The Club can do this because it transacts business direct through advertising and correspondence and through voluntary applications by mail to its Home Office, thus cutting out the big commissions paid to life-insurance agents, and the expense of maintaining branch offices and general agencies throughout the country. The saving is yours—in extra insurance, whether your policy be large or small.

Bear in mind, also, you make your premium deposits monthly, quarterly, semi-annually or annually at your own option and convenience and without interest charges. The Club is a regular old-line institution and issues all the standard and approved forms of policies.

Let us tell you all about it by mail. You will be interested; others are, and the Club has policy holders throughout the Union. In your first letter please do not fail to answer the two following questions.

- What is your occupation?
- What is the exact date of your birth?

When writing please mention the Cornell Alumni News.
