H. L. TAYLOR RENOMINATED.

His Name Added to the List of Candidates for Alumni Trustee.

(Contributed.)

Harry Leonard Taylor, of Buffalo, county judge of Erie county, has been nominated to succeed himself as an alumni member of the Board of Trustees of the University. Judge Taylor is the unanimous nominee of the 260 members of the Cornell Alumni Association of Buffalo. His certificate of nomination, filed with the Treasurer of the University, shows as his nominators from the Buffalo Association the following alumni: William B. Hoyt, '81; Charles Sumner Jones, '84; William C. Krauss, '84; George C. Miller, '87; Daniel Upton, '90; Frank A. Abbott, '90; Daniel V. Murphy, '90; Walter P. Cooke, '91; Fred C. Busch, '95; John L. Tiernon, '95; Clinton R. Wyckoff, '96; Lee Masten Francis, '98; Marcus M. Drake, '99; Alfred H. Clark, '99; Clifford D. Coyle, '99; Charles A. Stevens, '00; George D. Crofts, '01; Nelson O. Tiffany, jr., '01; Ralph S. Kent, '02; William J. Warner, '03; Porter R. Lee, '03, and J. H. Whitehead, '06.

"In presenting Harry Taylor's name to the alumni of the country," writes a committee of Judge Taylor's nominators, "the Alumni Association of Buffalo feels that it is nominating the man who, because of the diversity of his undergraduate activities, because of the ever active interest he has taken in alumni and undergraduate affairs of the University since his graduation, and because of his temperament, is best fitted to represent it and to represent the generations of Cornellians who have been graduated in the last decade and a half.

"Harry Taylor was a credit to his University as an undergraduate and today in the community in which he lives he is one of his University's best assets. As an undergraduate, he was one of that extraordinary sort who could play for four years on a 'varsity team, captaining the team for three years, and yet rank among the best students of his class and win a coveted Phi Beta Kappa key.

"To the younger generations of Cornellians Harry Taylor probably is better known than any other graduate of the University. He has kept close to the University and has known scores and scores of men in each succeeding class that has gone out from Ithaca. He has been a busy man since he came to Buffalo to begin the practice of law on graduating from the Law School in '93; but busy as he has been he never has been able to grow to feel that he can be in any other place than Ithaca on a Commencement Day, or on an Alumni Day, or when Princeton is playing on Percy Field, or when a Cornell crew is walloping someone on Cayuga Lake. And never has he been able to grow to feel that there are too few days in the year to run down to Ithaca in the springtime when the word comes up that the pitchers and catchers need a little going over and he is wanted. We want him on the Board of Trustees because we know he can think and feel on questions of University policy—undergraduate and alumni—as do we of the later generations of Cornellians.

"Harry Taylor has already risen to a high place in the community in which he lives and better things are yet before him. He is county judge of a county that has a population of over half a million, and with such distinguished ability has he presided over this court that within a year it has become, with the men who practice before him, the most popular court in Erie county. Judge Taylor was appointed to the county court bench in December, 1906, and from the very beginning he had the esteem and the confidence of the Erie county bar. He showed himself at once a tireless student of law and a fair and impartial presiding justice. Practitioners like his court because business moves rapidly and because the man on the bench is always considerate of the counsel before him, the witness on the stand, and the men in the jury box. Maybe that's why, when he ran for a six-year term last November, Republicans and Democrats alike got out and worked and rolled up for him a plurality of over 14,000, the second largest plurality ever given a candidate for a county office in the history of Erie county. To-day he is one of the best known and most highly regarded men in Buffalo, and not half a dozen years, it is whispered, will go by before he fills a higher judicial position than that which he now occupies."

Judge Taylor was born in Spencer, Tioga county, N. Y., in 1866, and was prepared for college in the union school of his native town and in the Ithaca High School. He entered Cornell in the fall of 1884 and obtained the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1888. After a few years' absence he returned to Ithaca and graduated from the Law School in 1893. While he was an undergraduate he was interested in many things, but found time to make a high record in scholarship. He played on the varsity nine throughout his course and was several times elected captain of the team. He was a contestant for the '86 memorial prize in declamation and for the Woodford prize in oratory. Although successful in neither contest, he received honorable mention for his Woodford oration. Both his graduation theses also received honorable mention, and he won an election to Phi Beta Kappa. He was '88's senior class president. From 1890 to 1893 he played professional baseball, spending each winter in work in the law school. In November, 1893, Mr. Taylor became a resident of Buffalo. In the following January he was admitted to the bar and he has practiced law in Buffalo ever since. He is just completing a term of office as one of the alumni members of the University Board of Trustees, having been elected in 1903.

Wilbur Cortez Abbott, professor of European history at the University of Kansas since 1902, has been appointed professor of history in the Sheffield Scientific School at Yale. Professor Abbott was a graduate student and an assistant in English at Cornell from 1892 to 1895 and in 1895-96 he held a traveling fellowship from Cornell. He is a graduate of Wabash College.

Green and orange bunting in equal parts decorated the front of White hall on St. Patrick's Day. This is an annual custom of the architects who inhabit the building. Over the main entrance was a flag showing a green harp on an orange ground.

JOHN DE WITT WARNER.

Outline of the Life of One of the Candidates for Alumni Trustee.

(Contributed.)

John De Witt Warner, lawyer, congressman, publicist, was born near Watkins, Schuyler county, N. Y., on October 30, 1851, son of Daniel De Witt and Charlotte Gordon (Coon) Warner, the former born in the town of Starkey, Yates (then Steuben) county, N. Y., the latter of Salem, Washington county, N. Y. He is descended from Andrew, son of John Warner, of Hatfield, Gloucestershire, England, who emigrated to New England in 1630 and became one of the proprietors of Cambridge, Mass. Dr. John Warner, grandfather of John De Witt, removed from Vermont to New York state in 1808, and there married Mary De Witt, whose ancestors came to this country from Holland prior to 1665. John De Witt Warner was fitted for college at Starkey Seminary, at Eddytown, N. Y., in 1868, won a Cornell scholarship, and was a member of the first class to enter that institution. He graduated in 1872, edited the Ithaca Daily Leader for three months, and then became teacher of Latin, German and elocution at the Ithaca Academy, where he remained for two years. Afterward he was teacher of the same branches (1874-76) at the Albany Academy; a member of the Greek Club and Albany Institute, which published his "Solar Theory of Myths;" and studied law at the Albany Law School. In 1876 he was admitted to the bar; established himself in New York city as junior member of the firm of Iselin & Warner; in 1883 formed the firm of Warner & Frayer, and from 1893 to 1904 was a member of the firm of Peckham, Warner & Strong; and has since then been the head of the firm of Warner, Wells & Korb.

In the 1888 campaign for the election of Grover Cleveland to the Presidency, Mr. Warner became known as an advocate of free trade—pamphlets prepared by him with such titles as "Wool and Tariffs," "Labor, Wages and Tariffs," having a wide circulation. In 1887 he had aided in founding the Reform Club; in 1889-91 he was chairman of its tariff reform committee, in 1895-96 chairman of its sound currency committee; in 1897, president of the club and chairman of its committee on municipal administration. During the presidential campaign of

JOHN DE WITT WARNER.

1892 he was tariff reform editor of the New York Weekly World.

In 1890 Mr. Warner was elected to the 52nd Congress from the Eleventh New York district—the greatest manufacturing district in the United States—and in 1892 was returned, this time to represent the new Thirteenth New York district, including a part of his old one and constituting the wealthiest parliamentary district in the world. In the 52d Congress he was chairman of the House sub-committee that investigated the sweating system; was active in securing the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman Act and of Federal election laws and in the passage by the House of the Wilson tariff bill—to which he secured the free sugar amendment. He advocated the Torrey bankruptcy act; opposed the Bland seigniorage bill; the anti-option bill, and pension frauds, and secured investigation of Federal building matters in New York city which resulted in important reforms and large appropriations for construction and repairs. In the 53d Congress he was the sole representative for New York state and city on the House committee on banking and currency, and, as one of the sub-committee on the subject, in debate on the Brawley bill, made the principal speech on the question of state bank currency. Serving as a member of the special committee that prepared the Reform Club's proposed tariff bill, he introduced that bill, made the principal argument in its favor, and also spoke on the subjects of reciprocity, export discounts, woolen schedule dates, and barley duties. He was prominent in leading the fight for free sugar.

Returning to law practice, Mr. Warner continued political work, and organized and led the successful campaigns against ship subsidy legislation by the 55th, 56th and 57th Congresses.

He also became prominent in connection with local reform movements; served on the Committee of One Hundred in 1901; was one of those prominently mentioned as Reform candidates for the mayoralty in that year. Active in the campaign that elected Mayor Low, and one of the three laymen nominated by the Federated Art Societies of the city for membership of the Art Commission, to which new charter amendments gave wide jurisdiction, he was named by the Mayor, elected by the commission as its president, and served his full term of three years in that capacity.

For a number of years he has been prominently concerned with municipal development, including the embellishment of the city of New York. He was one of the founders and is a director of the National Arts Club; is a director of the National Sculpture Society; is a director and has been President of the Municipal Art Society of New York. He was one of the founders, is a director and has been president of the Shakespeare Club of New York; and is the author of "Sound Sequence in Shakespeare," and many other papers on Shakespearean subjects.

He was one of the incorporators and is a vice-president and governor of the American Playgoers; and President of the American Free Trade League; was counsel in the late insurance investigation for the Mutual Life Policy Holders' Association; speaker on civic art at the Clarke Exposition, Portland, Oregon, 1905; and on legislative restriction of wealth, Church Congress, New Orleans, 1907.

Mr. Warner has always been active as a public speaker on subjects of finance, social and political economy. In December and January last he delivered at Boston, Portland and Providence addresses on business depressions and the essentials of bank currency reform that might make these depressions less severe; these addresses have been widely published. In University matters his most characteristic and important late publication was his plea for "Simplicity and Economy in Student Life," published in the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS of November 23, 1904. He has been identified with the development of Cornell University, having entered the University the first day it opened; and serving as Trustee 1882-87, 1894-99, and a third term just closing 1903-08.

In addition to other organizations noted, Mr. Warner is a member of the Bar Association and of many other social, literary and political clubs. He has also been a contributor to Die Zeit of Vienna; the Law Times of London; the Century Magazine, Forum, Engineering Magazine, Independent, Review of Reviews, Municipal Affairs and many other periodicals. He is Ph. B. (Cornell University 1872) and LL. B. (Union University 1876). He was married at Ithaca, N. Y., on June 14, 1877, to Lillian A., daughter of Joseph and Harriet C. (Phelps) Hudson. They have a son and a daughter—the former a Cornell alumnus, Joseph De Witt Warner, '03.

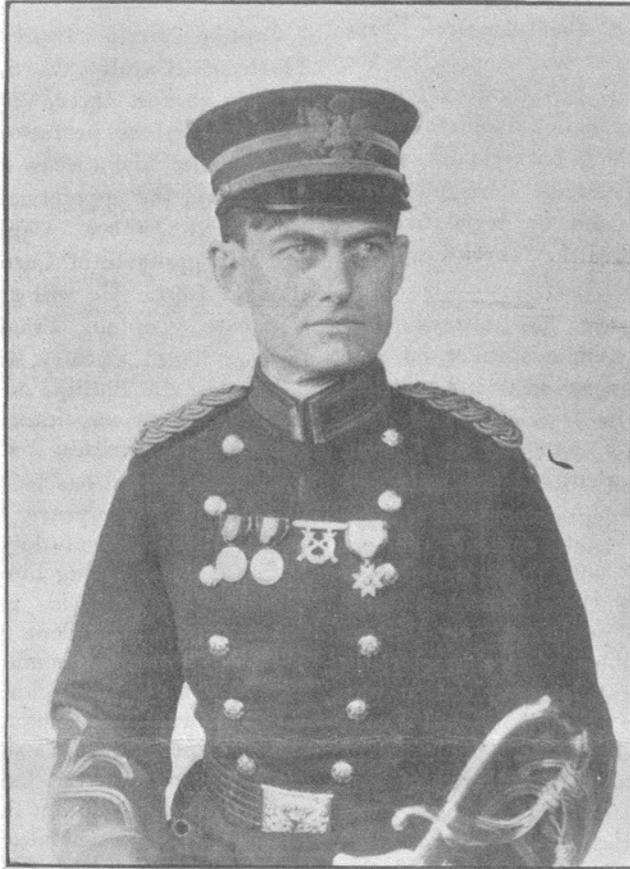

CAPT. E. L. PHILLIPS DETAILED.

To Succeed His Classmate, Capt. Barton, in the Chair of Military Science.

Captain Ervin Louis Phillips, Thirteenth Cavalry, U. S. A., now on duty at Fort Myer, Virginia, has been detailed as professor of military science and tactics at Cornell University, the appointment to take effect next October. Captain Phillips is a graduate of Cornell in the class of 1891. He will succeed his classmate, Captain Frank Arthur Barton, Third Cavalry, in the detail. Captain Phillips was recommended for the appointment by the University authorities.

Captain Barton has held the professorship for four years. The usual life of such tours of duty is three years, and last spring the War Department suggested his recall. At the request of President Schurman, who was warmly seconded by the Trustees, the Faculty and the undergraduates, the Department extended Captain Barton's stay. Four years, however, is the limit of the assignment, and Captain Barton will return to his regiment next fall. As commandant of cadets at Cornell, he has greatly increased the efficiency of the corps and he has at the same time made the work interesting to the students. More than a hundred men above the grade of freshman have been yearly electing work in the department.

Captain Phillips took the examinations for appointment to the army from civil life soon after his graduation in 1891 and passed with very high standing. He was appointed second lieutenant in the Sixth Cavalry. He served in the Porto Rico campaign in the war with Spain and has done a tour of duty in the Philippine Islands. He is a graduate of the infantry and cavalry school. His present rank dates from February 2, 1901. As a student in the University he was distinguished for scholarship, special mention being accorded his work in history in the junior and senior years. He was a contestant for the Woodford prize in oratory and won an election to Phi Beta Kappa. He was a member of the editorial boards of the Cornellian and the Magazine, and assisted in the publication for the class of '91 of what was called the "photogravure book"—a predecessor of the class book of to-day. He attained the rank of major in the cadet corps.

Captain Phillips will find a large colony of '91 men in the University and in Ithaca. It includes Professor E. W. Olmsted, Professor J. H. Tanner, Professor T. L. Lyon, Professor H. W. Hibbard, Professor E. M. Chamot, Registrar D. F. Hoy, W. H. Austen, G. R. Chamberlain, C.

A. Stiles, G. S. Tarbell and H. G. Carpenter.

Following is a list of the successive professors of military science and tactics at Cornell, with the dates of appointment: Major Joseph Hotchkiss Whittlesey, 1868; Major Junius Wilson MacMurray, 1873; Lieutenant William Percy Van Ness, 1875; Captain James Brattle Burbank, 1877; Lieutenant Walter Scribner Schuyler, 1883; Lieutenant William Percy Van Ness, 1886; Lieutenant Herbert Everett Tutherly, 1889; Lieutenant George Bell, jr., 1892; Captain Walter Scribner Schuyler, 1896; Major William Percy Van Ness, 1900; Captain Frank Arthur Barton, 1904.

BIG FRESHMAN PARADE.

Many Captured in Organized Rushes Preceding Their Banquet.

The class of 1911 held its freshman banquet in the Armory on Saturday evening. The banquet was preceded by a series of organized rushes between the freshmen and sophomores on the Armory green. These rushes were conducted on the plan adopted last year, when they were introduced, with the approval of the faculty, as incidental to the freshman banquet. The faculty had forbidden the banquet in the preceding year on account of the disorder and danger attending the sophomore custom of capturing freshmen and keeping them prisoners. The rushing began about two o'clock in the afternoon and continued for two hours. Parties of fifty freshmen were lined up successively on the north side of the field, an equal number of sophomores facing them on the south side. At a signal the freshmen ran for a goal line on the opposite side of the field. All who failed to reach it and were captured and held by the sophomores were taken to Barnes hall and "decorated" by their captors. They were paraded about the campus after the rushing was over. About a hundred and fifty of the first year men took part in the parade. Upperclass marshals saw that the rules of the contest were observed. The field was ankle deep in mud and the old clothes which the contestants wore were well smeared. Several hundred spectators watched the scrambling underclassmen. Thirty or forty unlucky sophomores were captured by the freshmen and were paraded in the Armory.

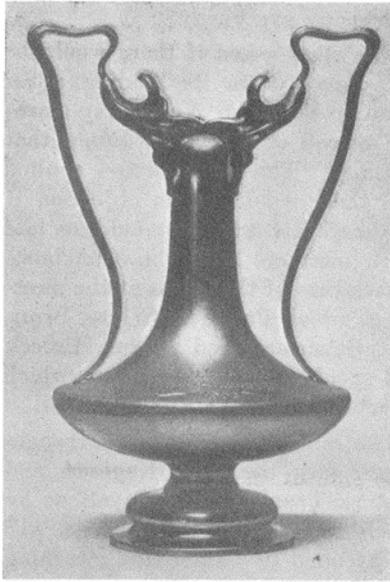

About six hundred and fifty freshmen attended the banquet in the evening. The toast list included, besides members of the class, Professor Catterall, Dr. Lane Cooper and Coach Moakley.

The freshman debating clubs of Columbia, Princeton and Cornell have formed a triangular league.

AMSLER, '95, GIVES A CUP.

Trophy to Be Awarded to the University Champion in Fencing.

W. O. Amsler, '95, of Pittsburg, has given a silver cup to be awarded to the winner of the University championship fencing meet. Mr. Amsler is president of the Amsler Engineering Company of Pittsburg. While he was in the University he was one of the founders of the Fencers' Club and took part in several intercollegiate tournaments. He was also a member of the track team. He is the donor of the Amsler medals, which have been awarded since 1898 to the fencing champion of the year, chosen in an annual handicap tournament.

The trophy is a handsome cup about twelve inches high. It will be awarded outright to the winner of the championship contests. These contests will consist of two bouts held in the course of the annual University wrestling and fencing championship meet, which takes place on Wednesday of this week in the Armory. The four best fencers, chosen in preliminary bouts on Monday and Tuesday, will compete. The other events of the meet are bouts with broadswords, singlesticks, and dueling swords; and seven final bouts in wrestling. Ten silver mugs will be given to the winners of these ten events. Dr. Meylan, physical director at Columbia University, will judge the fencing bouts, and E. J. O'Connell, wrestling instructor at Cornell, will judge the wrestling contests.

Three of Us in China.

Writing to a friend in Ithaca under date of February 16, Willard D. Straight, '01, United States Consul-General at Mukden, Manchuria, sends some news about two other Cornell men, Lewis S. Palen, '00, of the Chinese Imperial Customs at Antung, and Sao-Ke Alfred Sze, '01. He says:

"Here all is quiet. Palen expected in a few days and Sao-Ke Sze likely to come along at almost any time. The former has made a splendid reputation by the manner in which he has conducted a most difficult undertaking—the establishment of a customs house at Antung. The latter has just been appointed Taotai—a sort of Mayor, County Judge, Board of Trade, Commander-in-Chief of Military and Naval Forces, Business Men's Association and Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary rolled in one—of Harbin, the town that the Russians built and want to administer and which the Chinese have declared open to international residence and trade. Hence the pyramids, and Alfred has his work cut out for him. It's about as difficult a billet as there is in all China, save possibly the Taotaiship at Antung."

Ornithologists in Florida.

Two Cornell men are members of an ornithological expedition that has just left New York on a six weeks' tour of the southern coast of Florida. They are George Shiras III, '81, of Pittsburg, and Louis Agassiz Fuertes, '97, of Ithaca. The expedition was organized by the American Museum of Natural History and is led by Frank M. Chapman, ornithologist of the museum. Mr.

Fuertes is well known as a ornithologist and is one of the foremost illustrators of birds. Mr. Shiras's hobby is hunting with a camera. The purpose of the expedition is to obtain material for a group illustrating the birds peculiar to the Florida swamps. This group will be added to the lifelike series now displayed in the museum near Central Park. The background of one of the most striking of these groups—the large picture of flamingoes on their breeding ground—was painted by Mr. Fuertes. While the party is in Florida he will busy himself in making sketches of birds and scenery to be used in the composition of the new group. The party will begin its tour at Sebastian and will work around the southern coast of the peninsula.

Harvard to Limit Games.

The faculty of Harvard University, at a special meeting held on Friday, adopted the following resolution: "The Harvard faculty, believing that the frequency of intercollegiate games is injurious to the scholarly interests of which it has charge, urgently recommends to the committee on the regulation of athletic sports that it shall seek by means of an agreement with competing colleges or otherwise to reduce considerably in the coming year its programs of intercollegiate contests."

A team representing the sophomore debating club will meet a team of sophomores from New York University in New York city on Friday evening of this week. This is the first time Cornell men have engaged in such a contest. The question to be argued is the same as was used by the Triangular Debate League. Cornell will have the negative side of the question.

Two bronze portrait medallions by Theodore Spicer-Simson, which had been on exhibition in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, were lent to Professor Brauner for exhibition last week in the College of Architecture.

MORE ABOUT THE REUNION.

The great interest taken in the plans for the general reunion of all classes in Ithaca next June indicates that that reunion is going to be one of the most agreeable events in the history of Cornell University. It will certainly be the greatest opportunity ever yet offered for Cornellians to meet other Cornellians—not only to renew old friendships but to make new ones. In fact, the making of new acquaintances will be one of the best features of the gathering and one of the best reasons for having it. Almost identical groups of alumni return to Ithaca for the five-year reunions; this year there will be no groups—there will be just one big assemblage representing all classes. The '97 man, for instance, has met '87 and '92 and '02 men at his reunions, but he has had slight chance of meeting '89 and '94 and '01 men. They haven't been in Ithaca, as a rule, when he has. The correspondence of the reunion committee and of the ALUMNI NEWS shows an uncommon interest in the subject, and the committee estimates that the attendance will reach two thousand. The committee will not be taken by surprise if a much larger number than that appear in Ithaca on June 16. An efficient sub-committee under Professor Charles H. Tuck is in charge of the task of providing accommodations, and it will find shelter and provision for all who make application before June 1, and perhaps for a few who are not so prompt.

Here is the program, repeated:

TUESDAY, JUNE 16.

3 p. m., Meeting of Football Alumni.

4 p. m., Meeting of Association of Class Secretaries.

5-7 p. m., President's Reception.

9 p. m., Senior Ball.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 17.

9:30 a. m., Annual Business Meeting of the Associate Alumni.

11 a. m., Meeting of Alumni to be addressed by ex-President Andrew D. White, President Jacob Gould Schurman and Judge Frank H. Hiscock, '75.

2 p. m., March to Field.

2:30 p. m., Alumni-Varsity Baseball.

12 m. and 6 p. m., Hours for Class Dinners.

6 p. m., Alumnae Dinner.

8:30 p. m., Glee Club Concert.

The committee asks that one or two reminders be published. Some of the class secretaries are a little slow in reporting the outlook for attendance from their classes. They are reminded that the reunion is only twelve weeks away and that a large proportionate representation will be a credit to any class. They can do the committee a service, too, by advising it of the number of their classmates who signify an intention to attend the reunion. It is not going to be easy to plan accommodations for an indefinite number, but the committee will try to do its work so that nobody will have reason to complain. Fraternity alumni are asked to co-operate in arranging to have their houses reserved for their own use during the reunion period.

There is no intention to interfere with the house parties which are customary at Commencement time. It is expected that such parties will be held and the only thing the committee requests is that they be held outside the fraternity houses. It is felt that Commencement week this year will belong peculiarly to the alumni and that the alumni who are members of fraternities should feel free to use their own houses. This will do much to simplify the problem of housing everybody.

One class asked if there would be any objection to its holding a reunion breakfast on Wednesday morning instead of a reunion dinner that evening. The committee replied that there would be no objection if the breakfast were not held so late as to interfere with the attendance of members of that class at the meeting at which President White, President Schurman and Judge Hiscock will speak. That is one event which everybody ought to attend.

The committee has made arrangements with the New England and Eastern Trunk Line Associations by which the certificate privilege will be extended to Cornellians returning to Ithaca in June. This privilege is equivalent to a special rate of one fare and a third for the round trip from any point east of Buffalo or Pittsburg and north of Washington. An effort is being made to obtain a similar privilege for persons coming from other parts of the country.

FIVE NOMINEES.

The ballots which are to be sent out from the office of the Treasurer of the University on April 1 will contain the names of at least five nominees for the two alumni trusteeships that are to be filled by election of the alumni between now and June. Not in several years have the University electors had so numerous a list from which to make two selections. For convenient reference we print here a list of the candidates. They are John De Witt Warner, '72, of New York city, a former Member of Congress, and Harry Leonard Taylor, '88, county judge of Erie county, both renominated; James Mapes Dodge, '72, president of the Link-Belt Engineering Company, of Philadelphia; Albert Henry Sewell, '71, of Walton, N. Y., a member of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, and Leland Ossian Howard, '77, chief of the bureau of entomology in the United States Department of Agriculture.

The Cornell Players.

The Cornell Players, a new alumni organization in Brooklyn, will give its first dramatic performance on Tuesday, April 21, at the Germania, No. 120 Schermerhorn street. Alumni with histrionic experience or ambition have been busy organizing and preparing for the first production ever since the call was published in the ALUMNI NEWS early in the winter, and are now able to announce the date and place selected for their first effort. Detailed statements of the play to be presented and the cast will be published in the ALUMNI NEWS in the near future. Allan O. Molatch, '04, who in his undergraduate days was a member of the Masque, will be leading man. This will be the first play ever presented in Brooklyn by an alumni dramatic association, except those of some of the local preparatory schools, and much interest is shown in the coming performance. It is the purpose of the Players to give a play and a dance each spring, the proceeds to be devoted to various Cornell objects. The greater part of the profits of this performance will go into the Fall Creek Gorge Fund, the second installment of which is now being collected by the Cornell Association of Brooklyn.

A letter received in Ithaca last week from Lausanne, Switzerland, where Professor John Craig underwent an operation on March 2, said that the operation was successful and that he was resting comfortably. He expects to be able to resume his journey with Mrs. Craig early in April.

SOUTHERN TRIP THIS WEEK.

Fourteen Baseball Players to be Taken—
Eight Games on the Schedule.

The 'varsity baseball team will leave Ithaca on Friday evening of this week for the southern trip. The men will arrive in Philadelphia on Saturday morning and will go directly from there to Annapolis, where the first game of the series will be played on Saturday afternoon with the Naval Academy.

Coach Coogan will take fourteen men on the trip. Gable, Caldwell and Barker will be taken along as pitchers, and Williams and Lally as catchers. The infield will consist of Watson, first base; Reiber, second base; Heilman, shortstop, and Matchneer, third base. Gable and Caldwell will alternately fill the left field position when they are not in the box. Fulton and Ebeling will be at center field and right field respectively. Herbold and Cornwall will be taken along as extra players, and one other member of the squad—either a pitcher or an outfielder—will make the trip. The squad has played a number of indoor games in the past few weeks and has had one game on Percy Field. All the men have showed improvement, particularly in team work and in signal plays. The weak parts of the team at present are the pitchers and the outfielders. The infield positions are well cared for.

After spending Sunday in Annapolis, the team will go to Durham, N. C., where two games will be played with Trinity College on Monday and Tuesday. On Wednesday morning the nine will go to Chapel Hill, N. C., and will meet the University of North Carolina team in the afternoon. On Thursday and Friday two games will be played at Charlottesville, Va., against the University of Virginia nine, after which the squad will go to Washington and will play Georgetown on Saturday, April 4, and Monday, April 6. The team will return to Ithaca on April 7, the last day of the Easter recess. The southern schedule includes eight games this year, and they will all be hard contests, especially those with Georgetown and the University of Virginia, both of which have exceptionally good teams. They have all had outdoor practice for several weeks, whereas the Cornell team has had hardly any. The men will not have such long trips between games as they had last year, and six of the eight games are "double headers." This will permit the squad to get considerable morning practice, instead of spending the mornings in traveling.

In addition to the infield candidates who are to be taken on the southern trip there are three men, Hill, Jones and Judson, who will probably be used as infielders during the season. All three were on last year's freshman squad. Gable and Caldwell, the pitchers, will be used as much as possible in the outfield, both being good batsmen.

Soccer Season Begins.

The Cornell association football team played two games last week. In the first game of the season, against Haverford on Percy Field last Friday, the Cornell team was defeated by a score of 4 goals to 2. This showing was considered a good one because the Haverford team has been the champion of the intercollegiate association for three seasons and had not been scored on for a long time. On Saturday the team met Columbia in New York and failed to obtain a goal. The final score was 9 to 0. Percy Field was covered with mud puddles of water on Friday and both the Haverford and Cornell teams were unable to do their best. Cornell's goals were shot by Chryssides and Retana. Tsai and Towers played well, as did also Prince Victor Narayan, of Cooch Behar, India, who has recently entered the University and who played his first game for Cornell. He showed familiarity with the fine points of the game. Prince Victor played on the team in New York on Saturday.

Other games on the soccer schedule are: March 23, Princeton at Princeton; April 4, Harvard at Cambridge; April 11, Yale at Ithaca; April 18, Pennsylvania at Ithaca. There are six colleges in the intercollegiate association—Cornell, Columbia, Harvard, Haverford, Pennsylvania and Yale. Princeton has a team, but it is not a member of the association.

Association football has been fostered at Cornell by members of the Cosmopolitan Club, and the team is almost as cosmopolitan as the club itself. The following men were in the game last Friday: T. W. Eustis, jr., '09, Hinsdale, Ill.; W. H. Richie, Sp., Moorestown, Pa.; Kuo Tsao Tsai, '09, Tientsin, China; Wilfred Cooper, '09, Bedford, Pa.; A. C. Towers, '11, Montevideo, Uruguay; A. S. Galadjikian, '09, Constantinople, Turkey; Prince Victor Narayan, Sp., Cooch Behar, India; S. S. Chryssides, '09, Constantinople, Turkey; A. O. de Retana, '11, Buenos Aires, Argentine Republic; V. E. Siramarkian, '10, Geneva, Switzerland; H. E. Worden, '09, Ithaca.

Cornell's wrestlers won third place in the intercollegiate finals, which were held in the gymnasium of the University of Pennsylvania on Friday evening. Yale won the meet with sixteen points. Pennsylvania was second with eight points. Cornell won four and Princeton three. Columbia failed to score. Cornell's points were won by Talbott, a freshman, who threw Goebel, of Yale, in the heavyweight class.

Advice and instruction will be given the 'varsity tennis players this spring by Raymond D. Thurber, who is well known as a tennis player in New York and is now a resident of Ithaca.

Fay Hemming Battey, '09, of Buffalo, N. Y., has been elected assistant manager of the navy to fill the place of F. W. McChesney, '09, who has left the University.

The oarsmen have had a good week for rowing.

Along the New Line to the Pacific Coast

Through the Dakotas, Montana, Idaho and Washington, the building of this railway opens up a country full of money-making possibilities. Rich farm lands are now selling at $10 per acre, and upwards. They are bound to increase in value within the next few years. Three new towns—Lemmon, Butte County, South Dakota; Hettinger, Adams County, North Dakota; and Bowman, Bowman County, North Dakota—have recently been established. Three months ago the sites of these towns were open prairie lands. Today at each place a well-built town, with a population of close to 500, is established; many trades and professions are represented. But there is plenty of room for more along the Pacific Coast extension of the

Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway

In the Dakotas, and in Montana, along the new line, the soil is a dark loam with a clay subsoil; good water is plentiful; rainfall is ample to raise the crops; the climate is healthful; the air is dry and invigorating; winters are mild; growing seasons are long. The deeded lands sell at $10 per acre, and upwards. Last season many farmers made enough money from their first year's crops to pay for their land. The Judith Basin, in central Montana, offers exceptional opportunities in farming, particularly in wheat and alfalfa raising. The fruit-grower will find a good field along the new line in Washington. Apples, pears, plums, cherries, apricots and small fruits grow well there. Last year hundreds of acres of bearing orchards produced crops which brought from $500 to $600 per acre.

Pamphlets describing these openings are free for the asking.
