HISTORIANS AT DINNER.

Sixth Annual Meeting of Cornell Men at the Richmond Convocation.

The custom of holding a Cornell dinner in connection with the annual meetings of the historical associations was continued this year. Seventeen men, present and former students and teachers in the President White School, dined together at the Commercial Club in Richmond December 31. They had been in attendance at the meetings of the American Historical Association and the American Political Science Association. It was their sixth annual dinner. The idea was copied this year by the men from Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Kansas and Yale who were at the meetings.

At least thirty-one Cornellians, of whom eight were women, were present at the sessions in Washington and Richmond. Professors Hull and Catterall took part in the discussions, as did Professor H. Morse Stephens, who was a member of the Cornell faculty from 1894 till 1902.

Thirteen of those who were at the Cornell dinner are now connected with college faculties, the colleges so represented being Cornell, California, Columbia, Kansas, Pennsylvania State, Syracuse, Wesleyan and Yale. Professor Burr, the president of this organization of Cornellites, presided and gave an account of the early history of the Historical Association, and brief speeches were made by Professors Stephens, Hull and others. Professor G. M. Dutcher, '97, of Wesleyan University, the secretary-treasurer, had charge of the arrangements. A telegram of greeting was sent to President White, who was the first president of the American Historical Association and for whom the school of history and political science at Cornell is named.

Other Cornell men who attended the sessions were A. V. Babine '92, A. C. Howland '93, W. L. Whittlesey, W. H. Glasson '96, T. B. Little '02 and W. J. Norton '02. Women who attended the sessions were Mrs. F. H. Severance '79, Miss B. Polnam '78, Miss C. C. Jackson '79, Miss L. W. Johnson '02, Miss H. G Preston '98, Miss L. F. Brown '03, Miss A. H. Abel and Miss E. Singmaster '02.

University Preachers.

President Schurman announces the following list of University preachers up to the Easter recess:

Students of the department of oratory will present, some time in February, Ibsen’s play, “An Enemy of the People.”

UNIVERSITY CONFERENCE.

Eminent Educators Gather at Cornell—Celebrate President Angell’s 80th Birthday.

Seventeen universities were represented at the tenth annual convention of the Association of American Universities, held at Cornell on Thursday and Friday of last week. Only one member of the association, Clark University, was not represented. The presidents of nine—Chicago, Cornell, Harvard, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Wisconsin and Yale—were present, and the eight others were represented as follows: California, Professor George M. Stratton; Catholic University of America, the Rev. Edward Aloysius Pace and Professor George Melville Bolling; Columbia, Professors Munroe Smith and William Henry Carpenter; Johns Hopkins, Professor J. Mark Baldwin; Stanford, Professor Oliver Peckles Jenkins and Mr. George Edward Crothers; Pennsylvania, Professor Herman V. Ames; Princeton, Professors Andrew F. West, Harry B. Fine and William F. Magie; Virginia, Professor James Morris Page. Additional delegates were Mr. Joseph Warren of Harvard, Professor David Kinley of Illinois, Professor Victor C. Vaughan of Michigan, and Professor Walter F. Wilcox of Cornell.

TRIBUTE TO DR. ANGELL.

One of the most interesting events of the convention was the formal observance of the eightieth anniversary of the birth of President James B. Angell of the University of Michigan, on Thursday, January 7. A scroll of vellum, bearing a memorial address, had been prepared and signed by the presidents of the universities belonging to the association for presentation to President Angell. The ceremony of presentation brought together in one group for a few minutes the three most venerable of living American educators—James B. Angell, Charles W. Eliot and Andrew D. White. The Thursday afternoon session in Boardman Hall
Some of the delegates to the Tenth Annual Convention of the Association of American Universities, held at Cornell last week. The photograph was taken as they were leaving one of the sessions in Boardman Hall. In the front row, left to right, are President Hill, Missouri; President Schurman, Cornell; President Northrop, Minnesota; President Angell, Michigan; President Eliot, Harvard, and Professor J. Mark Baldwin, of Johns Hopkins. Between Presidents Northrop and Angell is Professor Munroe Smith, of Columbia. Between President Angell and President Eliot is Professor William Henry Carpenter, of Columbia. At President Eliot's left shoulder is Dean Victor C. Vaughan, of Michigan. The others in the group, from left to right, are Professor Herman V. Ames, Pennsylvania; Professor William Francis Magie, Princeton; Professor George M. Stratton, California; Professor Harry B. Fine, Princeton; Professor Walter F. Wilcox, Cornell; Professor James Morris Page, Virginia; Mr. Joseph Warren, Harvard; Mr. George Edward Crothers, Stanford; Professor David Kinley, Illinois, and Professor George Melville Bolling, Catholic University of America.

Was adjourned at a quarter before five and the delegates went to Sage Chapel, where they heard the Chapel Chorus, assisted by the University Orchestra, render John Stainer's sacred cantata, "The Daughter of Jairus." After the cantata was ended President Eliot arose, briefly told the purpose of the association to observe President Angell's birthday anniversary, and asked Dr. White to read the memorial which had been drawn up. Dr. White read it as follows:

"To James Burtill Angell, president of the Association of American Universities, assembled for its tenth session at Cornell University, his colleagues, the presidents of the universities represented in the association, tender hearty congratulations on this his eightieth birthday.

"It is now more than two and forty years since, laying aside the pen of the journalist, with which during our country's darkest hour you had so nobly served her public interests, you returned to academic life as president of the University of Vermont. It is almost two score since you began your great career at the University of Michigan. Through the soundness of your judgment and the serenity of your temper, the persuasiveness of your eloquence and the delicacy of your tact, the breadth of your culture and the wealth of your experience, you have laid not only these institutions, but American education as a whole and the nation as well, which in her diplomatic emergencies has again and again had recourse to your aid, under a debt beyond all reckoning. Your long life has been devoted to the highest objects, alike in the realm of scholarship and in that of practical affairs. As scholar, editor, teacher, orator, administrator, diplomat, most noble achievements and distinctions have been yours. On this life of service and of honor we congratulate you. May it still be spared to us and to the world!"

"President Angell replied in part: "I had supposed that I had kept the knowledge of this unimportant fact—that of my eightieth birthday—away from Ithaca. Having reached my present year many may think I ought to stand here and quote the words of scripture which say that 'All their years are labor and sorrow' when fourscore has been reached. But nothing is farther from my mind than sorrow. I wish to express my gratitude to my associates. There is no nobler profession of men in the world than that of teaching. It keeps us forever in the society of you students. We do not grow old because we live for you." President Angell went on to thank his colleagues for the kindness which prompted the memorial.

President Hadley of Yale then arose and made a brief address in which, in the name of the association, he bade farewell to President Eliot, whose resignation of the presidency of Harvard University will cause his withdrawal from the association. President Eliot, in his reply, said that the only thing he could say was, "My cup runneth over."

Four new members were elected to the association—the Universities of Indiana, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska. Princeton University was elected president of the association, succeeding Michigan; the University of Virginia was chosen vice-president, and Harvard was re-elected secretary. Cornell and Columbia... were elected members at large of the executive committee. The next convention will be held at the University of Wisconsin.

President Angell presided over the sessions of the convention, which were held in the reading room of the library in Boardman Hall. The morning session of Thursday was taken up with reports of committees, and at noon the delegates were entertained by the Board of Trustees at luncheon in Sage College. In the afternoon a paper prepared, on behalf of the University of California, by Professors Irving Stringham and Alexis F. Lange, was read by Professor George M. Stratton. Its subject was "The reorganization of school systems with incidental reference to preparation for the professional school." In the evening a paper on "The College in the University" was presented on behalf of Cornell University by Professor Wilcox. On Friday morning Professor Kinley, for the University of Illinois, contributed a paper on the question, "Should the institutions doing graduate work standardize the requirements for entrance upon such work in the different departments of study?" The reading of each paper was followed by a discussion.

The delegates were guests of members of the faculty and Board of Trustees during their stay in Ithaca.

Professor Ogden to Lecture.

Professor H. N. Ogden, '89, of the College of Civil Engineering, has accepted an invitation from the New York Homeopathic Medical College to deliver one of a series of lectures on "Public Health and Sanitation" before the students of the college and the physicians of Greater New York. Professor Ogden's lecture will be delivered on Monday, March 1, and will be devoted to "Problems Relating to Public Water Supplies." The opening lectures of the series on January 11 and 18, on "Public Health Administration," are by State Health Commissioner Eugene H. Porter, Cornell, '80.

President Charles R. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin lectured before the Cornell Society of Sigma Xi in Rockefeller Hall last Wednesday evening on "The Conservation of Our Natural Resources."

NEW CLUBS ORGANIZED.

Alumni Association of Portland, Oregon, and Cornell Club of Louisiana.

The Cornell Alumni Association of Portland, Oregon, was formed on November 25 at a meeting held at the University Club, and the following were elected officers: John L. Henderson, '70, Hood River, Oregon, president; Dr. F. B. Eaton, '74, vice-president, and Wells Gilbert, '93, secretary and treasurer. The new association starts with about fifty members, and new names are being added daily, as the association is intended to include all those living in Oregon and those parts of the neighboring States of Washington and Idaho lying in the Columbia River valley and therefore tributary to the city of Portland.

Cornell Club of Louisiana.

The Cornell Club of Louisiana was formally organized in New Orleans on the night of December 8. As outlined in its constitution, "the objects of the club are to promote the interests and to encourage the development of Cornell University, and to foster a feeling of good fellowship among all former Cornell students in Louisiana."

To reach those Cornell men temporarily located in New Orleans, and Cornell men living in other Southern States than Louisiana, non-resident membership has been provided. This arrangement will insure a large attendance of Cornell men at the annual dinners, and will keep many men in touch with the University who otherwise would have no Cornell affiliations. Besides holding formal annual dinners and impromptu smokers to celebrate athletic victories, the club aims to meet several times a year informally, and in this way hopes to keep Cornell spirit in the South at a high water mark. The club aims to do all it can in encouraging Tulane University men to take post-graduate courses at Ithaca, and also intends to place the merits of the Cornell Summer Session before the public school and high school teachers of Louisiana in no uncertain way. When the club is strong enough it intends to help some worthy Louisianan each year to enter Cornell.

The business of the club will be managed by the following Governing Committee: Brandt V. B. Dixon, '70, president of Sophie Newcomb College of Tulane University; W. B. Gregory, '94, professor of engineering, Tulane University; Leonard B. Keiffer, '92, manager of Keiffer Brothers' shoe factory; Chester B. Dickson, '08, electrical engineer for the Consumers' Electric Company; Edward E. Soulé, '88, treasurer of Soulé College of New Orleans. The officers are: B. V. B. Dixon, president; W. B. Gregory, vice-president, and Edward E. Soulé, secretary and treasurer.

The membership at present exceeds thirty, and this number will be increased to fifty before the end of the club year. The great enthusiasm manifested by the members is a certain indication of a prosperous Cornell Club in Louisiana, and visiting Cornellians at the club's smokers and dinners will be greeted with a genuine Cornell welcome.

The Cosmopolitan Club.

At the annual convention of the Association of Cosmopolitan Clubs, which was held during the holiday week at the University of Michigan, the Cornell Cosmopolitan Club was made the executive chapter, which confers upon it the privilege of electing the officers of the national organization. It was also decided to hold next year's national convention in Ithaca. The delegates from the Cornell Cosmopolitan Club to the convention were M. B. Almeida, '09; G. W. Nasmyth, '06; and S. Chrysides, '09.

The week's lectures in the course in Sanitary Science and Public Health were "Disinfection in Its Relation to Public Health," by William Thomas Sedgwick, Ph. D., professor of biology and director of the Sanitary Research Laboratory and Sewage Experiment Station, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; and "Immunity and Epidemiology," by Herbert D. Pease, M. D., director of the state hygienic laboratory, State Department of Health. Dr. Pease delivers two lectures.

The varsity basketball team, in a slow game, defeated the five from St. Lawrence University last Friday evening by a score of 25 to 21.
How President Schurman was Entertained

—Presidents Wheeler and Jordan Speak at Cornell Club Luncheon.

President Schurman and Miss Schurman arrived in San Francisco on Wednesday evening, December 23. They were met at Oakland Pier by a dozen members of the Cornell University Club of Northern California. During the twenty-minute ferry ride across the Bay, nearly all of the important new buildings could be made out on account of the illumination which had been arranged for the last two weeks before New Year's. One of the brightest spots seemed to be Chinatown; so it was decided to stop there on the way to the Fairmont Hotel. The party boarded a Market street car and rode as far as the Flood building, which passed nearly unharmed through the fire of April, 1906. From this point a walk was taken along Grant avenue, among the new steel and concrete department stores, many of which will be ready for occupancy in about ninety days, when the move “down town” from Van Ness avenue will begin. After a short walk through Chinatown the party climbed up California street to the Fairmont.

On Thursday morning President Schurman was taken for an automobile trip to Berkeley, Oakland, the Golden Gate and about the new City of San Francisco, while Miss Schurman was entertained in a similar way by the women of the Cornell Association.

In spite of the fact that several members of the club had left town for the holidays, about forty were able to be present in the afternoon at a reception and luncheon given in honor of Dr. Schurman at the Fairmont Hotel. John M. Chase, '72, was toastmaster, and President Benjamin Ide Wheeler and President David Starr Jordan were the first speakers. Among the guests were Mr. Horace Davis, who was once a roommate of Professor James E. Oliver; Mr. Warren Olney, Professor Gayley of the University of California, and Dr. Charles R. Brown, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Oakland. President Schurman spoke of the rapid development of the University and of its aims for the future. The members of the club appreciated the fact that in order to accept an invitation from the club and spend a day in San Francisco, it was necessary for President Schurman to travel an extra thousand miles in the journey from Salt Lake City to Seattle.

After the reception Dr. Schurman left immediately for the north on the Oregon Express.

Following is a list of the members who were present at the luncheon: Dr. Benjamin Ide Wheeler, John M. Chase '72, Dr. David Starr Jordan '72, Dr. N. K. Foster '73, Dr. J. C. Branner '74, Professor W. F. Durant, C. D. Marx '78, Ransom Pratt '82, R. L. Green '84, James O. Griffin '85, H. A. Carolan '86, C. B. Wing '86, Harry J. Ryan '87, Edwin Duryea, Clifton Price '89, R. O. Moody '91, G. H. Marx '93, R. B. Daggett '94, C. S. Downes '96, C. B. Cornell '97, J. H. Russell '01, H. E. Cavnish '01, H. L. Chase '02, W. C. G. Van Loben Sels '04, M. O. Evans '04, L. A. Alley '04, W. H. Lowenthal '05, H. L. Terwilliger, John Waters, W. F. Lamme, J. J. White, Jr., '05, Allan Macdonald '05, C. L. Roadhouse '06.

Officers of Scientific Societies.

Dr. David Starr Jordan, '72, president of Stanford University, has been elected president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science for the meeting to be held next year in Boston. He succeeds Professor Edward L. Nichols, '75, who presided at this year's meeting. The permanent secretary of the association is Dr. Leoland O. Howard, '78, chief of the Bureau of Entomology at Washington. Among the vice-presidents of sections, elected by the association at its recent meeting, are J. F. Hayford, '89, recently appointed dean of engineering at Northwestern University, section of mechanical science and engineering, and J. E. Russell, '87, dean of the Teachers' College, Columbia University, section of education.

Professor E. W. Olmsted '91, of the department of Romance Languages, was elected vice-president of the Modern Language Association.

JANUARY 22 AND 23.

Friday and Saturday, January 22 and 23, will be important days in New York city. On Friday evening will be held the annual dinner of the Cornell Society of Civil Engineers of New York. An announcement of the event is printed elsewhere in this number. On Saturday the University Board of Trustees will hold its regular midwinter meeting in New York. This will be the first time since the University was established that the Trustees have met outside of Ithaca. And on Saturday evening the annual dinner of the Cornell alumni of New York will take place.

Civil Engineers' Dinner, Jan. 22.

The fourth annual dinner of the Cornell Society of Civil Engineers of New York will be held at the Hotel St. Denis on January 22. The replies that have already been received from graduates who intend to be present indicate that this will be the largest and most successful of these reunions of Cornell civil engineers.

'94 Memorial Prize.

Charles Roland Hugins, of Ithaca, a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences, won the Ninety-four Memorial prize in debate at the fifteenth annual competition, held on Friday evening in Barnes Hall. The prize is the income from a fund of about five hundred dollars left as a memorial by the class of '94. There were six contestants. Mr. Hugins's competitors were Abraham Levine, '09, Elmira; Harold Montolfe Stephens, '10, Salt Lake City; Henry White Edgerton, '10, Washington, D. C.; Murey Feder, '10, Brooklyn; Heber Emilny Griffith, '11, Utica, and Harry Nathaniel Wilson, '10, Dansville. The question for debate was: "Resolved, that our legislation should be shaped toward a gradual abandonment of the protective tariff." This is the question that has been chosen for the intercollegiate debating contest a few weeks hence. Mr. Hugins was on the negative side of the question. The judges were Walter L. Couper, of Binghamton; Professor W. H. Macr, of Syracuse University, and Adna F. Weber, '94, of Albany.

Cornell Student Wins Prize.

Awards have been made by a committee of economists for the best essays submitted by college graduates and students. Four prizes in all, aggregating nearly $8,000, have been given. Essays were submitted from all over the United States. The committee which awarded the prizes consisted of Professor J. Laurence Laughlin of the University of Chicago, J. B. Clark of Columbia University, Henry C. Adams of the University of Michigan, Horace White of New York city and President Carroll D. Wright of Clark College. The donors of the prizes are Messrs. Hart, Schaffner & Marx, of Chicago.

The announcement of the awards is as follows:

CASCADILLA SCHOOL
ITHACA, N. Y.

This location of this institution commends itself to everyone familiar with the general healthfulness of the Central Lake Region of the Empire State. Added to this there is the educational atmosphere and stimulating influence of the great University under whose shadow Cascadilla lies. Here are two prerequisites of a good school: healthful environment and stimulating influence of the great University under whose shadow Cascadilla lies. The proximity of Cornell University makes it natural that fully 80 per cent of its graduates enter that institution.

Boys are prepared for all departments of Cornell in accordance with Cornell standards. The instruction is individual in its character, and each boy's course at the school is planned with reference to his particular needs.
