Saving

a portion of one's income or wage
Is Necessary to Success

The proper disposition of savings is as important as the act itself.

The saver should buy for cash only, in which case his success is a question of proper advice.

With proper advice he should not only secure income from investments but a gradual appreciation of principal—due first to a proper initial investment, and thereafter to the timely shifting of investments.

The question of what class of security to buy and when to buy is all important.

We have made a study of these questions and our experience is yours to take advantage of.

WITH four class reunions in addition to all the undergraduate events, the Navy Week program was crowded. Yet there seemed to be time for everything. One result of having so much to do was a quieter reunion than usual. Saturday night the freshmen burned their caps and that was about the only sign of activity that evening, even Mr. Kugler's brass band having had enough of excitement.

Professor J. W. Jenks has been appointed to represent the University at the commemoration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the University of Michigan, June 23 to 27. Professor T. F. Crane will be present at the exercises which will mark the seventy-fifth anniversary of Mount Holyoke College on October 8 and 9. Mr. George W. Harris will be in Chicago next week attending the dedication of the Harper Memorial Library of Chicago University.

Mr. H. S. Gutsell of the College of Architecture has been commissioned to prepare two bronze tablets to be placed in the vestibule of Rand Hall. One tablet will be in memory of Jasper R. Rand, Addison C. Rand and Jasper R. Rand, jr.; the other will bear a statement that Rand Hall is the gift of Mrs. Florence O. R. Lang.

Louis J. Botsford and William J. Diedrichs have been appointed instructors in machine design in Sibley College. J. D. Mackenzie has resigned as instructor in economic geology and his place has been taken by J. S. Hook, formerly instructor in dynamic geology. W. A. Verwiebe, formerly an assistant in the department of geology, has been appointed instructor and A. B. Clayton has been appointed assistant.

The faculty of Sibley College has announced the award of the Sibley

Prizes in Mechanic Arts. The prize winners are ranked in the following order: Charles Harry Berry '12, Brooklyn; Oswald David Reich '12, New Dorp; Charles Edwin Thomas '13, Brooklyn; Ambrose Ryder '13, Carmel; Nathaniel Shapiro '12, Philadelphia, Pa.

A fund of $500 has been provided by the class of 1912 for class expenses after graduation. The principal sum will be put at interest and the income will be drawn by the life secretary of the class to meet expenses such as postage and stationery. The Treasurer of the University has been made custodian of the fund. The class has decreed that as long as there shall be an organization of the class of 1912 the income shall be at the secretary's disposal, and that when the organization ceases the fund shall go to the University through the Cornellian Council.

Another moving picture man has been in Ithaca, this time for the Kinemacolor Company of America. Last Friday he obtained views on the campus, and Saturday he took the Spring Day parade, the ball game and the regatta. These "flickers" come out on the screen in colors. They are the only kind that show the senior blazer as it really is.

On Beebe Lake, as well as on Cayuga, Navy Day was observed. The annual Sage College interclass boat race was held there Saturday morning, and in the final heat over the quarter mile course, the junior crew defeated the sophomore crew by a length. Time, 1 minute 51 seconds.

The friends of the late Dr. Leonard Pearson of the School of Veterinary Medicine, University of Pennsylvania, have recently issued a memorial to him in the form of a volume of tributes from his personal friends and official associates. It contains a biographical sketch by Clarence J. Marshall, who succeeded Dr. Pearson as State Veterinarian of Pennsylvania. Among the contributors are Professors I. P. Roberts and S. H. Gage, under whom Dr. Pearson did considerable work, and Dr. V. A. Moore, who was a student with Dr. Pearson at Cornell and who was afterward associated with him in various investigations and educational work.

Miss Jane K. Dutcher, of Owego, a pupil of Mr. Johnston, gave an organ recital in Sage Chapel one afternoon last week. She is a sister of George M. Dutcher '97 and Elsie M. Dutcher 1900.

Address by Dean Bailey

"The Challenge of the Cosmopolitan Clubs"

Director Bailey was the principal speaker at the annual farewell banquet to seniors, held May 18 at the Cosmopolitan Club, and the seventy-five members present enjoyed a rare treat in his thought-inspiring address. Responses to toasts were also given by several seniors from the ten different nations represented in the graduating class, by the Rev. C. W. Heizer and by Messrs. Fred Robinson and M. D. de Almeida '09, who presented to the club, on behalf of S. S. Chryssides '09, A. C. Towers '11 and R. H. Andrews '11, a collection of flags of thirty-four different nations.

Director Bailey took for his subject "The Challenge of the Cosmopolitan Clubs." Introducing his address by the alleged remark of an oriental Cosmopolitan that he wanted to get home again to see a good-looking woman, the speaker explained the challenge and the new points of view that a club of many nationalities introduces into a student body. "Challenge of speech, of political philosophy, of religion, of ideals, of education, of standards, of personal judgment—these are the necessary results," he said, "of such an organization as this, whether the membership intends any challenge or not. You come together to discuss, to agree, to disagree, and the result is the rubbing off of the corners of personal eccentricity and national bias. A Cosmopolitan Club necessarily stands for openness of mind and appreciation of the other's point of view.

"This occasion is a farewell testimonial to the seniors. We are sorry to have you go, but we are glad to have had you with us. You have done us good. You have given us a glimpse of other things. You have challenged our consuming Americanism.

"Many of you will soon be sailing out to sea. You will sail away from the old into the new, from the known to the unknown. You will be glad to see your own roof-tree again. Like Browning in Italy, you will be thinking of home at the change of the year:

"Oh, to be in England
Now that April's there,
And whoever wakes in England
Sees, some morning, unaware,
That the lowest boughs and the brush-wood sheaf
Round the elm-tree bole are in tiny leaf,
While the chaffinch sings on the orchard bough
In England—now.

"But your homes will have new significance to you. Kipling's 'Four Winds' will blow in your faces, the winds that bring the four ways of the earth and carry old memories in the smoke. The hearth fires will burn for every college man that comes by your door, and for every other man with a new look in his eyes and a new grasp on life. You will be cosmopolitans. You will never be the same man again. You will challenge your family and your community when you go home.

"I look for less of result in the lessening of war from the organized agitation than from the quiet spread of the ideas of brotherhood by such men as you, going into all the places of the world. You will necessarily stand for human rights. There are two kinds of war—the war of conquest and aggrandizement, and may there be no more of it; and the war of revolution from oppression, may this be bloodless but may it spread, nevertheless.

"This is a day when we emphasize nationalism at the same time that we break down the rigid lines of national isolation. Nationalism is a condition of progress—Asia to develop in an Asiatic way, America in an American way, China in a Chinese way, Ireland in an Irish way. Whether formal political establishments are essential to this is a question of circumstances, but racial lines are the lines of least resistance and of evolution, and we must recognize the races in the spirit of human brotherhood.

"The challenge of brotherhood is now a tremendous force in the world. It has come to be a real and active power. No longer is it merely the dream of the poet. There is no more significant common word than this in our modern speech. Consider each one of you, that you hold the world in your hand. Turn it slowly. Trace its Africa, its Asia, its Americas, its Europe, the islands of the sea. You can compass them all in your affection for your kind and in your appreciation of the problems that are common to them all. Your own problems, however local they may be, mean more to you when you know their relations.

"We shall strengthen our religious convictions and vastly widen our religious experiences. The narrowness will vanish here as in other ranges of thought. I suspect that we are yet far from having attained the highest religious grasp.

"The best result of education is not merely personal attainment, nor what we lightly call 'culture;' nor is it the propagation of a cult spirit or a group spirit; nor is it the perfecting of professionalism or even of industrial development: the best result is cosmopolitanism, the sensitiveness to human needs and the desire of human welfare. This result you will carry with you to every place in the world."

The Cosmopolitan Club has found it necessary to hold a special election to fill the office of president of the club for next year. Soon after his election to the presidency on May 7, C. L. Locsin, of the Philippine Islands, was notified by the Faculty that he could receive his degree this year, although he had been enrolled in the junior class, and he tendered his resignation. A special meeting was called and M. A. Gonzalez '14, also of the Philippines, has been elected to fill the vacancy. H. B. Murray '15 (U. S.) was elected assistant treasurer in place of Mr. Gonzalez. Mr. Locsin expects to spend a year in studying the manufacture of sugar in Cuba, Louisiana and Hawaii before returning home.

From Goldwin Smith University Has Received about $670,- 000 from the Estate

The executors of the will of Professor Goldwin Smith have completed an appraisal of the estate, which he left. The total inventory is $826,551.66. To Cornell University, the residuary legatee under the will, the executors have paid already $669,650.40. No further payment of any great sum is expected by the University authorities. It is said that there may be a few thousand dollars more coming to the University when the final accounting is made, but that the payment of the University's share under the will has been virtually completed.

Professor Duggar to Go

Professor Benjamin M. Duggar is to leave the University at the end of this year to accept the professorship of plant physiology and applied botany in Washington University, St. Louis, Mo. That chair was recently vacated by Dr. George T. Moore, who became director of the Missouri Botanical Garden, succeeding Dr. William Trelease '80. Professor Duggar's work in St. Louis will be mostly investigation and research at the botanical garden. Professor Duggar came to Cornell from Harvard and took the degree of doctor of philosophy here in 1898. He was assistant professor of plant physiology in 1900-01 and then went into the service of the United States Department of Agriculture. Later he was professor of botany at the University of Missouri and head of the department. He has been professor of plant physiology at Cornell since 1908.

Advice for Freshmen

An advisory system is to be tried next fall for the benefit of the class of 1916. It has long been recognized that many of the freshmen every year suffer for lack of a little friendly advice. Some of the "busts" in midyear examinations might be avoided by a better adjustment of schedules or by instructing the unsophisticated first-year man in what is expected of him. Very many freshmen have no member of the University particularly interested in them during their first few weeks in Ithaca.

The class of 1913 has been working out a plan this year and it will inaugurate that plan in the fall, with a committee of eighteen members of the class to carry it out. President Schurman is interested and he is to act as chairman of an advisory council composed of Professor Tuck, Secretary Dugan, A. P. Evans, secretary of the Christian Association, and M. B. Goff, L. H. Groser, J. W. Little, G. M. Schurman, J. C. J. Strahan and A. F. Zang, members of the senior class.

The following men will be on the senior committee next fall: A. F. Zang, chairman; Clyde Bame, D. P. Beardsley, E. W. Butler, L. D. Clute, E. T. Jackman, J. P. Jones, J. W. Little, J. W. Myers, G. M. Schurman, J. H. O'Connell, H. V. Welles, H. J. Carey, R. L. Shultz, J. C. J. Strahan, P. F. Titchener, T. C. Wurts and J. E. Whinery. This committee will do a large share of its work through sub-committees from the 1914 class. Each member of the senior committee will have in his charge about 60 freshmen. He will divide these among the juniors working under him. Each freshman is to be seen by a member of the committee or of a sub-committee, and advice and assistance are to be given him.

Spring Day

Ever since Spring Day the whole force of the Athletic Office has been counting nickels and dimes and quarters, and it is now announced that the gross receipts from the 1912 undergraduate circus for the benefit of athletics amounted to $3,319.09. This is about $500 less than was garnered last year, but the Spring Day of 1911 was an unusually successful one on account of the magnitude of the attractions that brought an enormous crowd to Ithaca. Even the alumni reunions of this year did not bring a crowd like that of 1911. The gross receipts in 1910 were $2,481.10. The graduate manager thinks that the athletic association's profit from the Spring Day show will be between $1,000 and $1,400.

Before 9 o'clock Saturday morning State Street began to glitter with outlandish garb of all sorts, and soon after the hour the big parade started up the hill, headed by the law school police force. The Playground on Alumni Field was almost filled with tents, and there was hardly enough room among them to hold the crowd. Shows were given by the following organizations: Minor Sports, Sibley, sophomore class, Southerners, civil engineers, junior class, architects, Cosmopolitan Club, agriculturists, freshman class, Civic Club, Aero Club, Arts and Sciences, cadet corps, chemists and lawyers. There was a large sale of copies of the Cornell Daily Shine, at ten cents a copy.

Professor Babcock

Portrait Presented by Former Students in Architecture

Last Friday afternoon, in Goldwin Smith Hall, the alumni and former students of the College of Architecture presented a portrait of Professor Babcock to the University. Director Martin made the presentation address and the portrait was received by President Schurman in behalf of the University. The painting is the work of Miss A. M. Upjohn, a niece of Professor Babcock.

Professor Martin began his address with a brief review of the development of architecture in America, down to the middle of the nineteenth century, when the profession in this country began to rise from the period of its greatest debasement. He quoted the following historical note:

"Appreciating the state into which their beloved art had fallen, a number of young men in New York City, after many consultations, determined to organize an association for the advancement of architecture. Their ideals were high. They were zealous and enthusiastic and in love with their art.

"The following architects—Richard Upjohn, Edward Gardiner, H. W. Cleveland, Wray Mould, Leopold Eidlitz, Henry Dudley, Fred A. Peterson, CHARLES BABCOCK, Joseph C. Wells, Richard M. Hunt, John Welch, J. W. Priest—met to consider the propriety of organizing a society of architects on Monday, February 23, 1857."

There were twelve of the original group, Professor Martin went on to say, and as a result of their conference eighteen others were invited in and the organization of the American Institute of Architects was effected on April 5th, of the same year, 1857. He added that Professor Babcock was the sole survivor of that distinguished group that founded the Institute in 1857.

Professor Martin reviewed the establishment of a course in architecture at Cornell upon President White's recommendation, and the great services rendered by Mr. Babcock as the first professor of architecture.

Alumni Field

Plans for Baseball House

At a meeting of the Alumni Field Committee held in Ithaca Saturday John V. VanPelt, the architect, submitted the plans for the baseball cage. After discussion some changes were made in the plans and specifications and they were approved. The committee is anxious to have the contract signed by July 1 so that work may be commenced this fall. At the meeting were George W. Bacon, C. H. Blood, R. H. Treman, Professor W. W. Rowlee, Dr. A. H. Sharpe and Mr. VanPelt.

The plans call for a one-story building about thirty-five feet high in the center, constructed of brick, iron and steel, with the roof mostly of glass. The shell of the building will support truss beams giving a clear playing space of about 16,000 square feet. Screens will be arranged so that the direct rays of the sun will not penetrate the roof, while at the same time the effect will be that of an open field. The building will be brilliantly lighted by artificial light so that it may be used for football practice in the evening. It will be located on the shelf between the football field and the baseball diamond. It will be near the west end of the training house. Its cost will be $35,000.

It is the intention of the Alumni Field Committee to have the various fields leveled and planted this summer and if present plans materialize the football field will be ready by September, 1913. The rough grading has been nearly all completed but there is much finishing to do before the ground is ready for its covering.

Plans for the clubhouse which will house the varsity athletes were submitted at the meeting Saturday. Funds are not available for the erection of this building and the committee is waiting for some interested alumnus to make a donation sufficient to construct the building. The work on Alumni Field this summer will be under the direction of Professor W. W. Rowlee.

Class Reunions 1892

The class of 1892 held its Twenty Year Reunion on Saturday, June 1. Headquarters were made at the large residence of Mrs. F. M. Rites, 516 University Avenue. As the weather was perfect the grounds and piazzas were enjoyed to the utmost.

Some of the class reached town on Thursday, and few left before Sunday night. On Saturday morning the class assembled at headquarters, soon after 9 o'clock, and some fifty strong marched across the campus and took in the Spring Day fun. After luncheon together at headquarters, headed by the Ithaca band, and uniformed in picturesque hats, with class badges and canes, the class moved to Percy Field, and after marching around the field singing the special reunion song, written by A. J. Baldwin, took seats together in the steel stand and enjoyed the game. Then, still accompanied by the band, they marched to the observation train where they occupied a special car. After the races, by special trolley they were taken to headquarters, where the class dinner was served; and the remainder of the evening was spent with an enjoyable program of toasts, impromptu speeches and reminiscences. George W. Bacon acted as toastmaster, and every member responded. The old and new stories were told and the old songs were sung. Some twenty of the class were accompanied by their wives.

On Sunday afternoon, after vesper service, Dr. John L. Elliott, who was president of the class in its senior year, made a public address in Barnes Hall on "Social Changes of Twenty Years." Dr. Elliott has devoted his life since he left the University to the work of social uplift in New York City, and his lecture was appreciated by a large audience. Ex-President White was present and spoke a few words to the members of the class, who rejoiced at the opportunity to shake hands with him.

The members present at the reunion were: W. G. Atwood, G. W. Bacon, A. J. Baldwin, L. D. Baldwin, S. G. Barnes, R. C. Beebe, F. A. Bell, C. D. Bostwick, F. E. Brewer, S. H. Burnett, W. G. Carlton, E. A. Carolan, H. R. Conklin, J. L. Elliott, W. C. Ellis, G. K. Fullager, F. M. Gilbert, J. T. Gridley, J. A. Hamilton, F. B. Haring, E. J. Hedden, H. Hicks, G. T. Hogg, D. L. Holbrook, G. L. Hoxie, C. C. Johnson, W. G. King, T. B. Kolb, J. P. Lathrop, R. J. Le Boeuf, L. L. Lewis, P. F. McAllister, Julia L. Melotte, E. G. Merritt, R. T. Mickle, S. Moreland, E. L. Morley, W. Mosher, G. W. Noyes, F. J. Platt, A. B. Quencer, L. A. Shepard, J. G. Shillinger, W. G. Smith, J. Southworth, W. G. Starkweather, E. E. Studley, F. W. Throop, J. W. Tourtellot, G. R. Townsend, G. M. Tuttle, H. V. Wille, R. C. Williams, E. H. Wood.

The class of 1902 had its reunion headquarters at the Delta Upsilon house. A class costume was worn, consisting of red military uniform and small cap. Members of the class occupied a box at the Masque show Friday night and took part in the Spring Day parade and the parade to Percy Field Saturday. Among those present were A. F. Brinckerhoff, W. B. Kugler, W. J. Norton, Guernsey Price, J. K. Quigley, Henry Schoellkopf, R. H. Shreve, J. André Smith, C. A. Taussig and Richardson Webster.

1907

The class of 1907 revived the "red devil" costume of two years ago for this reunion. There were enough of them in the parade to the field Saturday to make a brilliant display. Several of the 1907 men arrived Thursday morning and spent four days in Ithaca. Among those at the reunion were Robert Burns, L. J. Conger, R. A. Curry, Everett Drennen, W. J. Dugan, T. R. Henderson, A. Lazo, F. A. Peek, J. A. Pollak, W. W. Taylor and S. W. Treat.

More than fifty members of the class of 1909 returned for the Three Year Reunion. There were two perfect days and everybody had a good time. The bunch began coming back on Thursday, but the first real opening was on Friday. From a booth erected on the corner of Tioga and State Streets, the suits and tickets were given out by Fay Battey and Werner Goetz. This booth, an innovation of 1909, proved to be a fine feature, simplifying matters and making a good hangout for the crowd.

Friday night more than forty sat down to a banquet in the Senate. There were no speeches, but Connie Roland did a stunt and a telegram was read from Earl Coulson, regretting his inability to attend. After the banquet there was a parade to the Masque show at the Lyceum, entrance being made via the fire escapes.

Saturday morning came the big Spring Day parade and circus, equaling but not surpassing those of three and four years ago. But the afternoon brought the best part of the reunion—a Peerless 5-ton truck with 1909 on each side took the whole fifty to the game, around the diamond, from the field to the train and back up town again, when, with three short ones for 1909, the reunion became history.

Those who came back were Fay Battey, Lew Henry, Connie Roland, Vail Hartwell, R. W. Clark, Bob Caldwell, Ward Kramer, Dorr Price, Butch Evans, Lindsay, Willson, Latimer, Ralph Chace, Van Lindsley, Bunk Hill, Robinson, Tede Rockwell, Urquhart, Van Houten, Peterson, Morgan, Dick Bishop, Bob Tift, Hart Seely, Morris Tracy, Bill Moore, Cornell, Charlie Montague, Argue, Jig Higgins, Cupe Daumont, Andrews, Lawrence, Leonard, Rothschild, Cunningham, Kruse, Doc. Shearer, Jay Harris, Gus Hallberg, Jim Cox, Haswell, Gus Requardt, Hank Seaman, Spelman, Ed. Bayer, Turk Clark, Kid Kelly, Tolins and Carson.

John A. Bensel, State Engineer, gave a lecture on the subject of the New York State Barge Canal in Sibley Dome last Friday noon.

THE 1909 REUNION BOOTH. IT STOOD ON THE CURB, BUT MEMBERS OF THE CLASS MOVED IT OUT INTO THE SUNLIGHT SO THAT THIS PICTURE MIGHT BE TAKEN.

Undergraduate Affairs

Four hundred votes were cast by the upper classes at the cheer leader election held at the Library Arch Friday. The following juniors were elected: G. H. Rockwell, Ithaca; F. E. Norton, Syracuse; P. F. Titchener, Binghamton; H. J. Carey, Hutchinson, Tex.; C. H. Bowen, Ithaca; B. B. Elmer, Ithaca; H. G. Sidebottom, Philadelphia, Pa.; B. H. Snow, Portland, Ore.

Owing to lack of support the class of 1912 did not hold the senior banquet planned for Tuesday evening in the Dutch Kitchen. Not enough tickets were sold in advance to warrant holding the affair. The seniors held their last "get-together" meeting of the year at the Dutch that evening.

A committee of the class of 1913 has been appointed by the president of the class to arrange for a crew celebration which will be held early in the fall. The celebration of this year was held in January. It is planned to have the next one early in October, before the football mass meetings are commenced.

A local fraternity, Eleusis, has been incorporated. The directors are Albert H. White '12, Mount Vernon; Harry Embleton '12, Westfield, N. J.; Louis A. Rodenhiser '14, Warner; Leo P. Howard '14, Findley, O.;

and Ernest L. Pollard '15, Fulton. The fraternity has purchased property on Cornell Heights.

V. A. Albert, of LaSalle, a sophomore in the College of Law, has been elected assistant manager of the Dramatic Club. W. M. Reck, of Brooklyn, has been elected assistant stage manager, and F. W. Heisley, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., assistant property manager.

At a meeting Monday night the Minor Sports Council elected the following sophomores to assistant managerships for the coming year: Hockey, H. W. Peters, Phi Delta Theta; basketball, A. S. Ainsworth, Beta Theta Pi; wrestling, R. M. Johnson, Delta Chi; association football, A. S. Hart, Sigma Chi; lacrosse, A. P. Dippold, Theta Lambda Phi; tennis, Benjamin Patterson, jr., Alpha Delta Phi; swimming, E. S. Greer; fencing, W. R. Scott, Kappa Sigma; golf, S. J. Hiatt; cricket, T. F. Danforth, Sigma Phi.

The Masque Council has announced the following elections from the sophomore class: Assistant Business Manager, C. H. Matson, Ogden, Utah, Delta Chi; assistant stage manager, E. J. Daly, Hartford, Conn.; assistant property manager, C. F. Blaklee, Franklin, Pa., Sigma Nu.

Final examinations are in progress this week.

Four classes have held their reunions on Navy Day. It is too early yet to form a fair opinion of the success of the innovation. We can tell more about it after the rest of the classes meet next week. Probably nobody wants to see the reunion split again as it is split this year. The reunion classes ought all to come back together, if only to assure the success of the general meetings, such as those of the Cornellian Council, the Associate Alumni, etc. Probably everybody is agreed now that Friday and Saturday are better for a class reunion than are Tuesday and Wednesday. Whether Navy Day is a good time for the alumni to come back in force is not yet proved, but it is not certain that a more convenient Saturday can be found. It is a knotty question, but perhaps we shall have some new light on it after this year's experiment is complete.

The class of 1912 gave up its senior banquet because there were not enough seniors who wanted to go to it. We can imagine that if that had happened to a senior class a few years ago the class would have been accused of lack of spirit. In some such respects as this the times seem to be changing. If the class of 1912 has dropped the senior banquet without any regrets it has done so simply because the custom did not seem to be worth keeping up. Since the classes became so large as they are now the senior banquet has lost its meaning. It has pretty nearly ceased to be a class affair. To be spared the annual debate between the advocates of wet and of dry senior banquets is a great boon. Nineteen-Twelve has had a way of doing things efficiently and thoroughly. Its contribution to the Alumni Fund promises to be far the largest of any recent class and it has provided a separate fund to relieve its life secretary from the necessity of writing begging letters for money to buy postage stamps with. In providing for the ultimate disposition of this fund the class has combined loyalty and foresight. When the last 1912 man has departed this life the secretary's fund is to go to the University. Nos morituri te salutamus.

Athletics

Baseball

A shift was made in the baseball team last week because Keller had to leave the team. Butler was moved to third base, Halsted went to left field, and Kobusch took the right field position, with Grossman as his alternate. The change worked well, Butler being as much at home in the infield as on the outskirts.

The schedule is bare this week on account of final examinations. After the alumni game next Tuesday the team will start on an eastern trip in the course of which they will play a return game with Yale at New Haven. Two games with Pennsylvania will end the season, one of them at Buffalo June 17 and the other at Philadelphia June 19.

Penn 6, Cornell 2

The score of 6 to 2 by which the Pennsylvania nine was victorious at Percy Field Saturday fairly represents the difference in the batting of the teams. Whether Hightower had an off day or not, his delivery was certainly easy for the Penn batsmen. Only twice did Cornell get a hit when a hit meant a run, but the visitors slammed the ball over the lot for a total of sixteen bases. This difference did not make itself evident until almost the end of the game, however, for the hits and runs were even until the eighth inning, each team having six hits and two runs at that point. In that inning four hits, one of them for three bases, gave Penn a lead of three runs. It was not until the last Penn man came up in the ninth inning that Hightower was able to stop the batting rally. Nisbet has been out of the game for several weeks because his pitching arm has been out of order.

Cornell's first hit was in the third inning, when Hightower singled over shortstop. Clute hit safely to right, but Hightower was forced out at third on Schirick's grounder to Pitcher Marshall. In the next inning O'Connell was caught trying to steal third, after hitting and stealing second. In the fourth Bills drove a clean single over second base, went to second on Isett's sacrifice, and scored on Clute's rap to right. Bills scored Cornell's other run in the seventh, after reaching second on Donovan's wild throw into the crowd, Hightower furnishing the hit needed to bring him home. The only hit that Cornell got after that was a two-bagger by Kobusch in the ninth, but it came to naught because Kobusch allowed himself to be doubled off second on Bills's fly to center field.

The story of Pennsylvania's run-getting is a chapter of more incidents. Opening the sixth inning, Smith and Thayer both hit safely. Smith was forced out at third on Minds's grounder to Hightower, and Donovan flied out to Isett, but Hawk drew a pass and the bases were filled. Then Coryell sent a liner to left field and two runs came in. McNabb struck out. In the eighth, with Donovan and Hawk on bases, Coryell again provided a timely hit, this time a three-bagger, and he scored the third run of the inning on a wild pitch. In the ninth Smith tallied another run after hitting to the clubhouse for two bases.

O'Connell made a remarkable play in the eighth inning when he caught Minds's liner to center field on the bound and threw to first base, the ball and the runner arriving there almost at the same instant.

Columbia 1, Cornell 3

The midweek game at Percy Field was played with Columbia, and it was a curious specimen of baseball. The visitors got ten hits to Cornell's two, but only one run to Cornell's three. The reason was that their ten hits were distributed through eight innings, and that although they had thirteen men on bases in the course of those eight innings they could bring only one of them home. O'Connor, who was pitching the second varsity game of his career, tightened up at critical times. Hightower was sent to the mound in the ninth, and he allowed the visitors to get a man on third base, but the run which seemed inevitable did not come. Cornell did all her scoring in the first two innings without getting a hit. The occurrences that made this possible were Ulrich's giving two bases on ball and hitting two batters with pitched balls, and two errors by Roseff. The score:

Rowing

The Cornell junior varsity crew defeated the junior eight from the University of Pennsylvania over the two-mile course on Cayuga Lake Saturday afternoon by three lengths. The race was rowed under remarkably favorable weather conditions, but the time, 11 minutes 5 seconds, was quite slow.

Referee Ingram started the crews at 6:02 o'clock. The eights got away about together, although Cornell had a little the best of it for the first few strokes. Cornell was rowing 37 strokes and the Pennsylvania beat was even faster. At the quarter mile mark the crews were about even. Cornell had slowed the stroke and was pulling very strongly. There seemed to be a little check in the Pennsylvania boat. The drive at the end of the Cornell stroke soon decided the race and at the half mile mark, with the beat down to 33, Pennsylvania had lost half a length. There was open water at the mile mark. In the last quarter mile Cornell spurted and increased the lead to three boat lengths. Pennsylvania's time was 11 minutes 18 seconds.

The Pennsylvania crew was as follows: Bow, R. Howard; 2, B. G. Wallace; 3, L. R. Hepburn; 4, A. R. Crane; 5, W. C. Griffith; 6, E. L. DeLong; 7, E. A. Stifel; stroke, L. E. Brion; coxswain, W. D. Supplee.

The Cornell oarsmen were: Bow, J. H. Munn; 2, L. W. Murfey; 3, Lawrence Eddy; 4, H. D. Hyland; 5, C. B. Johnson; 6, Fraser Sullivan; 7, W. F. Thatcher; stroke, Walter Johnston; coxswain, Ward Kremer.

Lawyers Win Intercollege Race

The College of Law won the intercollege boat race, which followed the junior varsity event, by finishing half a length ahead of Agriculture. Sibley College was third and Civil Engineering last. The race was for one mile. Law had the inside course. Agriculture and Civil Engineering, in courses 2 and 3, got away best. Sibley had trouble at the start, which cost the crew one boat length. Civil Engineering lost a length in the first half of the race. The Sibley College crew fought hard to get back the lost length and did manage to get by the C. E. crew. Law made several spurts and between them pulled a steady, strong stroke. The race was well rowed and was really more interesting from the spectator's point of view than was the junior varsity event. The College of Law will have possession of the Barr trophy for one year.

Off to Poughkeepsic This Week

The varsity crew has been taking advantage of the excellent weather during the last week and has had several long rows on the lake. The men practiced Saturday morning and then had the afternoon off so that they might watch the races. Mr. Courtney, John Hoyle, and the varsity oarsmen will leave Ithaca for the training quarters at Poughkeepsic Saturday night. The shells and the coaching launch "Cornell III" will be taken at that time. The freshman crew and substitutes will go to the training quarters Tuesday.

Track

Cornell Second to Pennsylvania in the Intercollegiates

It is evident that the track team could not have won the intercollegiate track and field meet at Franklin Field last Saturday, even with the best of luck. The Pennsylvania team was so well balanced that its victory was easy. In the other teams there were so many good men that Cornell did well to finish second to Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania scored 28 points in seven events. Cornell scored in four events for a total of 17½ points, 10 of which were won in a single event, the half-mile. The 15 points that put Michigan in third place were won in six events. Harvard won two events and took fourth place in three others, tying for fourth place with Columbia, which picked up 13 points in five events. The other scores were: Syracuse, 12; Dartmouth, 11½; Yale, 10; Wesleyan, 7; Brown, 6; Princeton, 5; Bowdoin, 2; Rutgers, 2; M. I. T., 1.

Cornell's point winners were: J. P. Jones, first place in the half-mile and tie for first place in the mile, 9 points; H. N. Putnam, second place in the half-mile, 3 points; H. H. Snyder, third place in the half-mile, 2 points; A. B. Cozzens, third place in the quarter-mile, 2 points; T. S. Berna, fourth place in the mile, 1 point; W. H. Fritz, tie for fourth place in the pole vault, ½ point; total, 17½ points. A seventh Cornell man, C. F. Cornet, qualified in the 100-yard dash, but did not get a place in the final. With Bond, of Michigan, he made a false start and was set back a yard.

No doubt Cornell's total score would have been larger but for the efforts of Jones and Berna to outdo themselves and gain every possible point for the team. Their self-sacrifice resulted in their both making a comparatively poor showing in their own events. Berna was counted on as a sure winner of the two-mile run, but he insisted on entering the mile, in which he secured fourth place after a hard race. He was so exhausted as a result of that effort that when the two-mile was run, less than a half-hour later, he was in distress and had to drop out after running a mile and a half. The two-mile was won by P. R. Withington, of Harvard, in 9 minutes 24 2-5 seconds, a new intercollegiate record, but 6 3-5 seconds slower than the record made by Berna in the Penn-Cornell dual meet this spring.

Next to Berna's inability to finish in the two-mile, the surprise of the day, for Cornellians, was the tie between Jones and Taber, of Brown, for first place in the mile. In their endeavor to save Berna for the two-mile, Jones and Finch, of Cornell, made the pace slow. The Cornell party was in close formation at the beginning of the third lap, with Jones coaching Berna and Finch. Madeira of Penn cut in among the Cornellians at the three-quarters. Going up the back stretch Madeira tried to overhaul Jones and got within two yards of him. Suddenly Taber, who had not been considered, put on steam and came along fast only a short distance from the finish. Jones, watching Madeira, had thought the race was over and had no time to get up speed. He and Taber went over the line so close together that the judges could not separate them. Madeira was four yards behind, and Berna took fourth place. The time for the second half-mile was more than five seconds faster than for the first half of the race. The winners did the mile in 4 minutes 20 3-5 seconds.

Berna was tired at the finish of the mile run, and the other contestants in the two-mile, noting his condition, set a fast pace when that race was started. Haimbaugh of Michigan and McCurdy of Penn carried the Cornell champion along as fast as the milers had gone for the first half. Berna was in eleventh place and stayed there until the end of the mile, when he dropped back to thirteenth. He fell away until he gave up just before the mile and a half. McCurdy finished second to Withington, with Haimbaugh third.

In the half-mile Cornell made a killing, the first three places being taken by Jones, Putnam and Snyder. Jones reduced his intercollegiate record to 1:53 4-5, a full second faster than he ran a year ago and within two-fifths of a second of the American record. He took the lead away from Germain, of M. I. T., and Hayes, of Princeton, in the second lap, and Putnam was right at his heels. Hayes went to pieces twenty yards from the finish. Snyder reached the tape two yards behind Putnam and only inches ahead of Germain.

Cozzens outdid himself by taking third place against a fast field in the 440. This event was won by Reidpath of Syracuse in 48 seconds, a new collegiate and intercollegiate record. Reidpath jumped into the lead and Cozzens was the first to go after him, but Haff of Michigan caught the Cornell man halfway down the stretch. Cozzens showed the effect of the fast pace near the finish, and had trouble in beating Barron of Harvard by a yard.

In the pole vault, where Fritz picked up half a point for Cornell, Gardner of Yale set a new world's record of 13 feet 1 inch. In the shot-put also a new intercollegiate mark was set when Beatty of Columbia threw the leaden ball 48 feet 10 3-4 inches.

Friday night, after the preliminaries, the Cornell men decided to take a chance and work for first place or nothing. Berna decided to enter the mile and it was with difficulty that Putnam was persuaded not to enter that event too. All the men wanted to compete in every event in which they could possibly enter. When they returned to Ithaca all the other members of the team were loud in their praise of Berna for his self-sacrifice. He had a good chance to establish a record by winning the two mile run for a third year in succession, but he gave it up in an effort to make more points for the team. Jones's work in the half-mile showed that he was in good form and that his failure to win first place cleanly in the mile must be attributed to his efforts to help Berna to finish within the points.

Of the Cornell point winners, Putnam and Berna will be lost this year by graduation.

This victory gives Pennsylvania three legs on the present trophy, which is to go to the university that first wins it five times. Cornell has had it four times and Yale and Harvard each once.

Various Sports

The intercollegiate cross-country run next fall will be held in Ithaca, so the I. C. A. A. A. A. decided at a meeting held in Philadelphia last week. In last fall's race, at Boston, seventy runners, representing ten colleges, competed. Thirteen races have been held, beginning in 1899, and Cornell has won twelve of them. Cornell has won four races since the present trophy was placed in competition; it is to go to the college whose team first wins it five times. At a recent meeting the Athletic Council authorized the track management to arrange for two dual cross-country meets each fall. A dual agreement with Pennsylvania has been in force for several years, under which the races are held alternately in Philadelphia and Ithaca. The new ruling will make it possible to have a dual race in Ithaca every year. Who the new competitor will be has not been announced.

The Athletic Council has awarded the varsity "C" to the following men who have won events in dual track meets this season: T. S. Berna '12, H. N. Putnam '12, W. H. Bennett '13, A. B. Cozzens '13, A. S. Elsenbast '12, L. S. Finch '12, J. P. Jones '13, H. H. Snyder '13, J. E. Whinery '13, P. J. Coffey '14 and W. H. Fritz '14. R. L. James '12, captain of the fencing team, has received the minor sports "C" in fencing.

Alumni Notes

'69, A. B.—Writing to a friend in Ithaca, John A. Rea, a member of the Board of Regents of the University of Washington, says: "We have 'some school' in our state university. I take a live interest in it. Our board is limited to seven members, and five are in Tacoma and Seattle—practically an executive committee. We devote considerable time to the business. I am fond of it. It gets a fellow out of the sordid occupation of the booster's life, and in our country we are all boosters. It may interest you to know that on the material side we are good for thirty millions, and, if Seattle is to be the city of the Pacific Coast, for fifty millions. We have ten acres in the heart of the city, out on lease, and shall soon have over three millions in business blocks and in five years twice that, and so on; seven millions in timber and farm lands. We have an estate to look after. The enrollment is 2,651, and if I have my way we shall annex the agricultural college [at Pullman] and then we shall crowd the 4,000 mark, increase our endowment a few millions and have a greater University of Washington. We have a campus like Cornell's—not its equal yet and maybe never. There is good representation in our faculty from Cornell, Princeton and Ann Arbor."

'99, C. E.—The park commissioner of Queens Borough, New York City, has appointed Abraham U. Whitson, of 307 State Street, Flushing, an assistant engineer in that department. In addition to other work the reconstruction of the golf links in Forest Park on the lines suggested in a report by Walter J. Travis to Mayor Gaynor some time ago will be under his supervision.

'00, C. E.—H. H. Bassett is an engineer with the Groton Bridge Company, Groton, N. Y.

'00, M. E.—E. Percy Smith, mining engineer, has moved to 15 William Street, New York.

'00, M. E.—Mr. and Mrs. Philip Will, of Rochester, N. Y., announce the birth of their third son, David Will, on May 13. Mr. Will has recently been elected to the position of vice-president of the Sill Stove Works.

'02, A. B.—Fred E. Emmons has accepted appointment as principal of the Hebrew Technical School for Girls, at Second Avenue and Fifteenth Street, New York City. He has been principal of the high school at Olean, N. Y., for the last seven years. The Olean Evening Times, in a two-column announcement of Mr. Emmons's resignation says: "He was a member of the Cornell football team during his college career and his influence in promoting clean athletics in the local schools since he came here has been great. He was an ardent advocate of the introduction of the manual training and domestic science courses in the public schools. Since coming to Olean he has made two extensive tours of Europe and studied the trade schools of the countries that he visited. He has always worked untiringly in all movements for the culture of the community. Under his supervision the high school has shown a steady and constant improvement. He has influenced many pupils to continue their studies at higher institutions of learning."

'05, A. B.—The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Nichols, daughter of Professor and Mrs. E. L. Nichols, to Montgomery Hunt Throop, professor of English in St. John's University, Shanghai, China, has been announced. The wedding was celebrated in St. John's Pro-cathedral, Shanghai, on May 15.

'06, A. B.—George W. Nasmyth, president of the Comité Central International of Corda Fratres, Association of Cosmopolitan Clubs, is studying physics in the University of Göttingen. Mrs. Nasmyth is also registered in the university. They devoted the Easter vacation, March 8 to April 18, to a trip in the interests of Cosmopolitanism. On this trip they visited universities or chapters in Germany, Austria, Hungary, Rumania, Turkey, Greece and Italy. A Cosmopolitan Club was founded at Robert College, Constantinople. They have been spending the Whitsuntide vacation in England, where Dr. Nasmyth has addressed meetings in London and at Cambridge University and the Oxford Cosmopolitan

Club.
