CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS

VOL. XVIII., No. 18

ITHACA, N. Y., FEBRUARY 3, 1916

PRICE 10 CENTS

PRESIDENT SCHURMAN addressed the Cornell alumni of Syracuse on January 29, and he is planning to visit several alumni associations in the course of the present month. He expects to address the alumni of Utica on February 11, to speak at the annual banquet of the Western New York association in Buffalo on the 19th, to attend an alumni smoker at Salamanca on the 21st, and to go to the Eastern New York banquet at Troy on the 24th. He may also speak to the Rochester alumni at a luncheon on the 22d, but that date is subject to change.

ABOUT SIXTY MEMBERS of the Faculty are getting an hour of military drill in the Armory every Thursday night. The drill is preceded by a lecture on military science, and these lectures are attended by a hundred or more members of the Faculty Military Society. About twenty members of the society are taking their military schooling in the form of rifle practice.

A DRILL SQUAD for seniors has been projected by several members of the senior class. These men are trying to interest a group in their class, feeling that the scope of the military instruction at Cornell has been enlarged so much since their freshman year that a course is needed now to bring their knowledge of tactics up to date. No definite plans have yet been made, but it is probable that an effort will be made after Junior Week to organize a company and ask for instruction from the military department.

CONTINUED WARM WEATHER caused the postponement of another hockey game last week. The University of Rochester seven was scheduled to play on Beebe Lake but there was no ice.

A MEMBER of the senior class in forestry, Edward I. Tinkham, of Montclair, N. J., has been accepted as a volunteer ambulance driver for the American Hospital in France, and will sail from New York this month. There is a steady call for volunteers for that service, especially men who can pay their own way. Roughly it costs about $300 to remain in the service six months. The items of expense include transportation from New York to Paris and return, uniform and equipment, and incidental expenses. Board and lodging are furnished free of charge. There are between 150 and 200 Americans, most of them young college men, in the service now. In some cases men who could not go themselves have contributed enough money to cover the expenses of a volunteer. The man in charge at the American headquarters of the ambulance service is William R. Hereford, 14 Wall Street, New York. Another member of the senior class at Cornell, Ernest N. Stanton, of Detroit, is a volunteer in the ambulance service. He has been in France for several months. He is a member of the Chi Phi fraternity. Tinkham is a member of the Seal and Serpent fraternity, and has been on the university cross-country team for three years.

PROFESSOR O. G. GUERLAC, who was recalled last summer for service in the French army, was recently on duty at Arras, near the front in northern France.

A PORTRAIT of President White has been painted by Miss Anna Milo Upjohn. It is designed for the large dining room of Risley Hall, and is, like Risley Hall itself, Mrs. Russell Sage's gift to the University. Mrs. Sage made provision for the painting of the portrait two years ago. Provision for a portrait of Mrs. Sage had already been made by the Trustees of the University. Miss Upjohn is a niece of the late Professor Charles Babcock. She painted the portrait of Professor Babcock which was given to the College of Architecture by its alumni, and the portrait of the late Professor E. A. Fuertes which was a gift to that college from its own alumni. Both are admirable pieces of work; she has been quite successful in her portrayal of Mr. White.

AN ORDER for about two hundred prizes has been placed by the I. C. A. A. A., the trophies to be awarded at the indoor intercollegiate games, which will be held in Madison Square Garden, New York, on Saturday night, March 4. The prizes are all alike, being bronze reproductions of the Borghese gladiator. They will be distributed to all point winners in both team and individual events. In many of the contests twelve or fifteen trophies will be awarded in each competition, since the events will be team affairs with each college represented by four or five athletes. The prizes are similar in every way to those given at the initial indoor games of the association a year ago. They will be ready for distribution immediately after the competition of each event, but the plates, which bear the name of the winner, event, and date of the meet and are to be affixed to the statue, will be forwarded to the winning athletes as fast as they are received from the engraver.

THE TITLE of Dr. E. M. Chamot has been changed from professor of sanitary chemistry and toxicology to professor of chemical microscopy and sanitary chemistry.

JUNIOR WEEK will begin on February 9 and will end on February 12. Advance reports point to a less festive occasion than usual. The number of fraternity houses having house parties has been falling off for several years. This year only eighteen have decided to invite guests. The cotillion and the promenade will be held as usual, but fear of financial failure has led to the cutting down of some unnecessary expenses. The same decorations will be made to do for both dances. Conway's band and Noble's orchestra have been engaged again. Fewer fraternities than usual will give dances, but enough will be given to provide entertainment for all. The attractions, aside from dancing, will be a concert by the University Orchestra, another by the musical clubs, the Masque's presentation of "The Amazons," a hockey game with Columbia, and a basketball game with Oberlin.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB is planning to present a play at the Lyceum Theatre soon after the beginning of the second term.

A MEETING of the Trustees' committee on general administration will be held in Ithaca on February 5.

THE REV. WILLIAM ELLIOT GRIFFIS, of Ithaca, will preach in Sage Chapel on February 6.

Civic and Social Committee

Course of Lectures—Psychological Clinic Proposed for Cornell

The presence of fifteen members of the widely scattered Cornell Civic and Social Committee at its annual meeting in New York on December 28 was evidence of the interest they are taking in its work, the most important feature of which has been the organization of the Course on Citizenship that has been a part of the University's regular curriculum for the last three years. The chairman and the secretary of the committee presented the list of speakers they had secured for 1916. The course, which earns two hours credit, is under the direction of Professor Walter F. Willcox, who has one recitation period each week. The other hour is filled by a non-resident lecturer who is actively engaged in that phase of civic or social work upon which he speaks. These speakers are the guests of the University during the day or two they are in Ithaca and in addition to delivering their lectures are available for conference with any students who are especially interested.

The speakers for the coming semester and their topics were announced in the News of November 18, 1915, all except the lecturer of March 6. He will be John Martin, chairman of the committee on vocational schools of the New York City board of education, who will speak on "The citizen and the schools." The topic of the first lecture of the series will be "The citizen and community organization." That lecture will be introductory to the course, presenting the opportunities and responsibilities of private citizens for aiding in the solution of community problems. It will be given on February 21. The speaker will be John L. Elliott '92, head worker of the Hudson Guild, New York City.

Briefly stated, the succeeding lecturers will deal with the citizen's opportunities and responsibilities in several respects, as follows:

February 28, Recreation, Rowland Haynes, field secretary of the Playground and Recreation Association of America.

March 6, Schools, John Martin.

March 13, Poverty, Eugene T. Lies '00, general superintendent of the United Charities of Chicago.

March 20, Industry, John A. Fitch, of The Survey.

March 27, Public health, Professor S. M. Gunn, secretary of the American Public Health Association, Boston.

April 3, Crime, Miss Katharine Bement Davis, Commissioner of Correction, New York City.

April 17, Homes, Elmer S. Forbes, director of the National Housing Association, Boston.

April 24, Immigration, Miss Frances A. Kellor '97, vice-chairman of the Committee for Immigrants in America, New York.

May 1, Physical development of the community (city planning), Robert S. Binkerd, secretary of the City Club, New York.

May 8, Public service, Charles A. Beard, professor of politics in Columbia University, New York.

May 15, The Church, the Rev. F. M. Crouch '01, executive secretary of the Episcopal social service commission.

May 22, The Press, Edward A. Moree '04, assistant secretary of the New York State charities aid association.

May 29, The newer ideals of citizenship, President Schurman.

Last year a special committee consisting of George J. Nelbach, Dr. Gertrude Hall and W. W. Taylor was appointed to consider the desirability of establishing a psychological clinic at Cornell. This committee secured a large amount of information from the school authorities, the courts and the social agencies within a radius of fifty miles of Ithaca which showed that such a clinic would be of great value. Its purposes, as stated by the special committee in its report at the annual meeting, would be:

1. To train psychologists thoroughly, and teachers and social workers as far as practicable, in the problems of mental defect.

2. To aid schools, courts and social workers, both public and private, in handling of puzzling cases.

3. To secure for social misfits proper readjustment, or appropriate custodial care.

After discussion of its report the special committee was requested to continue its work and to bring the facts to the attention of the University authorities.

Suggestions for extension of work were acted upon favorably. One, by Dr. John L. Elliott, was that some means be found for giving students especially interested in civic and social problems an opportunity, during their undergraduate days, of securing some laboratory or field work which would give them definite first hand knowledge of what is being done. This would be designed not so much for those who propose to enter civic or social work professionally, for whom there are now technical schools, as for men and women who will enter other professions or business but who wish as citizens to have a clear understanding of the methods now being used to solve our great social problems. Dr. Elliott was appointed chairman of a special committee to study this question with the authorities at Ithaca and present a report with recommendations.

John Ihlder was re-elected chairman of the committee and W. W. Taylor was elected secretary. Lee F. Hanmer, who has been secretary since the committee was organized, was unable to serve again because of pressure of other work.

Big Banquet in Boston

Addresses by Major General Wood and Two Members of the Board of Trustees

The eighteenth annual banquet of the Cornell Club of New England was held at the Boston City Club on January 28. It was attended by a large number of enthusiastic alumni. The banquet hall of the club was used for the occasion and was decorated with flags—the Stars and Stripes and the Carnelian and White. On the wall directly in front of the speakers' table was a large white block C, studded with numerous red electric bulbs. When the diners entered the hall in order of classes, all other lights were extinguished. Facing the illumined C, the men sang "Alma Mater" as it can be sung only on such occasions.

A. P. Bryant '00 started the ball rolling and, as retiring president of the club, introduced the new president, R. O. Walter '01, who made a few remarks appropriate to the event.

Major General Leonard Wood, U.S.A., was the guest of honor and principal speaker. He was introduced by Henry F. Hurlburt '75, who proved to be an admirable toastmaster. General Wood was greeted with prolonged applause and a long yell, led by George Rockwell '13. He took as his subject "The military obligation of citizenship." He emphasized the futility of the volunteer system of enlistment in time of war, declaring that the history of the wars of this country proved that it had always been necessary to resort to drafting men. He said:

"We must have organization which will enable us to meet a first-class power if war comes. In college life you would kick off the campus a man who expected to go into an athletic contest without any sort of training, and the time has come to kick off the National Campus the man who thinks he can meet an equally good man, fully trained, without having any training himself.

"Nothing does so much for the solidarity of a nation as service in preparation for that nation's defense. This is one of the essential obligations of citizenship and you cannot sidestep or duck it. Just as soon as a nation begins to shirk this duty, its days are numbered. It isn't enough merely to be willing—you've got to be ready too. Our watchword should be: 'The smallest number of men in arms necessary for the police needs of the Nation and the largest possible number of men trained for military service.'"

"The Old Cornell and the New" was the subject of Colonel Henry W. Sackett '75, of the Board of Trustees. He pointed out by various examples the manner in which the pervading spirit of Cornell in the old days continued to manifest itself down to the present time.

One exemplification of this Colonel Sackett found in the manner in which Cornell University, better perhaps than any other university in the country, was preparing to meet the needs of the United States for preparedness for military defense. More than two thousand members of the freshman and sophomore classes would, upon the completion of the new drill hall, be drilling upon the Campus with promise of future proficiency that would fit many of the cadets to become officers in our adequate national army of the future. The Cornell spirit of sacrificing service was still more brilliantly shown by the fact that many members of the University Faculty were themselves drilling to enable them best to serve their country in case of need.

Alumni Field was also used by Colonel Sackett as an example of the manifestation of one of the best forms of the Cornell spirit. The Alumni Field Committee, in laying out and developing the field, had done far more than merely to create a fine athletic field. The crowning glory of Alumni Field was the University Playground and Students' Common for the unrestricted use of undergraduates in any outdoor sport. Physically that meant much to Cornell undergraduates; morally, it meant much more. On those fields they would meet on a common level. Social and other objectionable barriers would be broken down. There the young men of Cornell would do more to educate one another in the higher principles of a true democracy than they could be taught in any other way. Whatever the differences in their upbringing, in social position or wealth, no normal young man could stand behind the bat and entertain the feelings of a snob for the man delivering the ball to him from the box.

Cornell's semi-centennial celebration, to be held in October, 1918, would better not occur, Colonel Sackett said, if it is to be merely a glorification of what the Cornell spirit has accomplished in the past. It would fail of its greatest purpose if it did not also demonstrate the existence of that spirit in the present and its promise for the future. It must typify the best thing for which that spirit stood—the idea of service. And service in that sense meant sacrifice. Everywhere in the university world of Cornell were to be seen to-day such evidences of that purpose of sacrificing service that no one need fear that the celebration of 1918 would not disclose the fires of that old spirit still burning brightly.

Charles W. Whitehair, general secretary of the Cornell University Christian Association, gave a graphic description of his experiences with various armies of Europe and told of the work which the Christian Associations are doing in the war-stricken countries.

In an amusing way Franklin Matthews '83, Alumni Trustee, told of his relations with the other Trustees. He spoke highly of the good work which Trustees Mason and Edwards have done for the University.

It was the sense of the alumni assembled at this dinner, embodied in a motion unanimously carried, that Trustees Mason and Edwards should be re-elected to succeed themselves.

"Eddie" Savage '98 and his graduate glee club brought to a close, with the "Evening Song," a most successful and enjoyable banquet.

CLEVELAND

The speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Cornell Club of Cleveland on January 27 was Edward P. Hyde, Ph.D., director of the Nela Research Laboratory, National Lamp Works of the General Electric Company. His subject was "Modern conception of the science of illumination."

THE INDOOR GAMES

A section of seats has been reserved for Cornell at the I. C. A. A. A. indoor track meet, to be held in Madison Square Garden, New York, on Saturday evening, March 4. As long as they last, tickets for this section may be procured by any Cornellian at the Cornell University Club, 65 Park Avenue. Box seats are $2.00; arena seats, $1.50.

OBITUARY

Willie B. Leach '72

Willie Burdette Leach, B.S. '72, died on January 17 at his home in Norwich, N. Y. He had practiced law in that town for more than forty years. He had served several terms as a member of the board of supervisors of Chenango County and had been the clerk of the board for twenty-three years. His wife and four children survive him. He was a member of the Theta Delta Chi fraternity.

Joel W. Shackelford [74]

Joel Walker Shackelford, who was a student at Cornell in 1870-72, died at his home in Denver on January 22 after a long illness of heart disease. He was born at Richmond, Ky., on June 2, 1851. When he was thirteen years old he ran away from home and joined the troop of Colonel John Morgan, the Confederate raider, but Morgan found out the boy's age and sent him back home. Young Shackelford attended military schools in the East, and after a year at Washington University, St. Louis, he entered Cornell. He was one of the founders of the Cornell Navy, gave the Navy a shell, and was president of the Neptune, one of the clubs within the Navy. In 1874 he settled in Denver, where he started a banking and real estate business, and prospered. He was elected to the state legislature in 1882, and served afterward in various public offices, including the presidency of the Denver board of public works. His wife and seven children survive him. ## Faculty Councils for Conference with Trustees

THE Board of Trustees has approved in principle a recommendation that the faculties of the several colleges of the University be represented by councils or committees of their members which are to meet with the General Administration Committee of the Trustees for the consideration of questions affecting the welfare of the respective colleges. That action was taken at the Board's January meeting after consideration of the report of a special committee, appointed in January, 1913, to consider and report upon the recommendations which President Schurman, in his annual report for the year 1911-12, made to the effect that the Faculty of the University should have a larger measure of participation in its government. This special committee, after conference with a special committee elected by the Faculty, submitted an exhaustive report to the Board last November, and made two recommendations, namely, (1) that the University Faculty be invited to select three representatives who should sit at meetings of the Board and of the General Administration Committee and have all the powers of Trustees except the power of voting, and (2) that there should be councils representing the several faculties for conference with the Trustees. The Board approved in principle the second recommendation and referred the whole question back to its committee for further conference with the University Faculty committee.

Conferred with the Faculty

President Schurman had suggested two methods of Faculty participation in the University's government—direct representation in the Board of Trustees and representation through college councils—and had strongly recommended that the second of these measures, at least, be adopted. The Board's consideration of the subject was delayed, first by President Schurman's absence from the country and afterward by the necessity of solving a problem of organization within the Board itself. It had appointed, in January, 1913, a committee consisting of Trustees Hiscock, Place, Wilson, Van Cleef and Carnegie to consider the President's recommendations and report their views thereon to the Board. Mr. Carnegie has been unable to meet with the committee largely because of sickness.

Early last year, in accordance with a request made by the chairman in behalf of the Trustees' committee, the University Faculty elected a committee for conference, consisting of Professor Kimball as chairman, and Professor Burr, Deans Moore and Nichols, and Professors Thilly and Willcox. The report says:

"Two formal conferences took place between that committee and your committee, and we deem it appropriate to say that these conferences were of a most pleasant and helpful character. We found the Faculty representatives at all times recognizing that there were uncertainties and difficulties in the formulation of any plan for Faculty representation, as well as advantages to be derived therefrom if it was successfully put in operation, and at all times we found the most cordial desire to co-operate with us in accomplishing that which would be for the benefit and advantage of the University at large."

Views of the Several Colleges

In order to give the committee more specific information, a special meeting of the Faculty was held at which various questions involved in the subject were submitted for definite vote and decision. On the question "Does the Faculty desire to be represented on the Board of Trustees?" the vote was 76 ayes and 5 noes. On the question "Does the Faculty desire that its representatives have a vote?" the vote was 74 ayes, 2 noes. On the question "Does the Faculty desire that its representation be limited to active members of the Faculty?" the vote was 31 ayes, 41 noes. On the question whether the Faculty desired that there be a council for each college or one general council and how these councils should be organized, it was voted to refer to the conference committee for consideration and report.

Subsequently the conference committee obtained the views of the different colleges at Ithaca on this question of councils, with the result that each college favored the formation of a council for each several college, with the exception of the College of Arts and Sciences, which voted "That it is desirable to gain experience with direct Faculty representation in the Board of Trustees before forming college councils, and further that it is desirable that the President's policy of consulting those most interested before making appointments be given some guarantee of permanence." The two state colleges voted that their present councils were satisfactory. On the question whether there should be one general council or both forms of council and how these councils should be formed there was a varied and indecisive expression of opinion.

Question of Board Membership

After a review of these investigations, the report goes on to a consideration of the question of Faculty representation in the Board of Trustees, as the one which the Faculty seemed to prefer of the two proposed methods. The report says:

"The feeling in favor of such method of representation is not at all unnatural, and it is urged as we understand it that this would more thoroughly than any other method establish a direct and comprehensive relationship between the Board of Trustees and the Faculty and give the latter a direct and unquestioned voice in the decision of questions pertaining to University management. In our conferences, it has been realized, however, that there might be difficulty in selecting representatives of the Faculty who at all times would be able satisfactorily to represent the diverse interests and requirements of that body and that the election of these representatives might be accompanied by difficulty and even by friction and unsatisfactory results. There is of course no way in which it can be foreseen just what the results of such an experiment will be. These will depend, if the plan is adopted, largely upon the wisdom of the Faculty in selecting its representatives.

"The proposition that these representatives shall sit with the Board of Trustees in more than an advisory capacity and shall be voting members is surrounded by some peculiar difficulties. Such a result in our opinion can only be secured through a modification of the Charter of the University permitting the Faculty to select certain Trustees.

"It has been suggested that members of the Faculty could be selected through an appeal to the Alumni to nominate and elect such men as Alumni Trustees, but we think that this plan would prove precarious and unsatisfactory. It has also been suggested that on the death or resignation of members of this Board, selected by the Board itself, members nominated by the Faculty might be selected, but we believe that this plan would be too slow of operation and fulfillment to prove satisfactory and therefore, as stated, voting power could be secured only by an amendment to the Charter. This could not be effected until next winter and then would be dependent on the Legislature and not on the mere wish of this Board. But further than this all of the members of the Board are fully aware that questions are settled by it by discussion and debate rather than by force of voting power. We believe that it will be difficult for any Trustee to recall any question of importance in recent years which has been decided by a vote which approximated a close division. It has been our experience that questions which even seemed to be debatable have been solved by thorough discussion rather than decided by a superior number of votes.

"Under all of these circumstances your Committee feels that it would be wise in the first instance to provide for representation of the Faculty in the Board of Trustees by representatives who would have all the powers of ordinary trustees except the sole one of voting and to leave in abeyance for the present the decision of the question whether it is desirable to seek an amendment of our Charter for the purpose of securing that power.

A Strong Faculty Minority

"While, as stated, the present predominant sentiment as expressed by the Faculty considers membership in the Board of Trustees by Faculty representatives as the more important and desirable method of effecting participation by that body in the government of the University, there is still a strong minority sentiment that this latter result will be more effectively and beneficially accomplished by conference and co-operation secured through comparatively small bodies or committees respectively representing the Trustees and the Faculty. Amongst others Dean Moore is an advocate of this idea, and Professor Woodruff has submitted to your Committee a forcible argument which questions the extent of affirmative sentiment on the part of the entire Faculty in favor of membership in the Board of Trustees, and also the beneficial results to be derived by such membership and advocates some sort of small body composed of representatives of the Trustees and Faculty which might serve as a medium of joint consideration and co-operation. Of course the idea thus suggested is the fundamental one upon which rests the proposition for Councils for different Colleges composed in part of Trustees and in part of members of the Faculty. The thought is that at these Councils composed of a comparatively small number of men there might be a perfectly frank and full discussion of the problems affecting the different colleges and that then the Trustees who were members of such Councils, having a more intimate knowledge of the needs of the various Colleges, might the more forcibly impress the latter upon the attention of the full body of Trustees.

"Your Committee thinks that expression in some form should be given to this method of bringing together more closely Trustees and members of the Faculty. The immediate practical difficulty which seemed to confront the proposition has been that the formation of councils for the different colleges would add a considerable burden to the duties of Trustees in addition to those now being discharged through membership on various committees of the Board, and that there might be difficulty in finding Trustees, especially amongst those living outside of Ithaca, who would be able to attend frequent meetings of these Councils. Under these circumstances the best solution of the entire problem, for the present at least, has seemed to be that the General Administration Committee should represent the Trustees for purposes of consultation with the Faculty, and that the Faculty of each College located in Ithaca, except the State Colleges and the College of Arts and Sciences, should select a small committee which whenever desired might confer, concerning problems affecting the college represented by it, with the General Administration Committee. In the case of the College of Arts and Sciences there is a feeling on the part of the Faculty that its interests are so extensive and so varied that no one committee could properly represent them all, but that there should be as many committees as may be necessary to represent adequately the distinct departments or groups included within that college.

"In this manner it would be brought about that without the appointment of any additional committees there would be in session in Ithaca practically each month of the academic year a committee of Trustees, with which committees of the different Colleges might meet for conference.

The Committee's Recommendations

"In accordance with these views your committee recommends that resolutions be adopted by this Board providing:

"(1) That the Faculty of the University be invited to select three representatives who shall sit at meetings of the Board and of the General Administration Committee and have full powers of Trustees except that of voting; that these members shall be selected by ballot and for a term of three years after the first election and at which first election said members shall be selected for terms respectively of one, two and three years.

"(2) That the Faculty of each College located at Ithaca except of the State Colleges and of the College of Arts and Sciences, be invited to select a committee of three which as often as desired shall meet with the General Administration Committee for consideration of questions affecting the welfare of the College; that the Faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences be invited to select so many similar committees as will adequately represent the different groups or departments of such College and which committees shall meet with the General Administration Committee in the same manner as above provided for committees representing other Colleges; that these committees shall be selected by ballot and for such terms and under such conditions as may be provided by the Faculty selecting them.

"FRANK H. HISCOCK,
"IRA A. PLACE,

A COLLEGE'S RELATIONS

DEAN GALLOWAY of the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell spoke at a luncheon given by the Cornell alumni of Syracuse recently. The title of his talk was "The work of the college of agriculture: its relation to Cornell University, the state, and the nation." He told of the work the college is trying to do in all those things which will uphold the ideals and traditions of the University, and of the advantage of the college of agriculture in being a part of Cornell. Conversely, he treated of the advantages to the University as a whole in having as a part of it a college whose ideals are high and whose motto is service. In regard to the college and the state, he spoke particularly of the efforts which are being made to reach all the people in the open country, and of its efforts to understand and aid in the solution of their problems. In reference to the college and the nation, he spoke of the work which is being done by the college in making its influence felt as part of a great national movement for universal education. It was possible, he said, to achieve tangible results in this direction largely through co-operation with the federal department of agriculture and with other similar institutions elsewhere.

IT is requested by the NEWS that announcements intended for publication in the paper be sent so as to reach the editor's desk not later than Monday of the week in which they are to be published.

ATTENTION is called to several important announcements of general interest which are printed on page 216 of this number.

ACTION taken recently by several alumni associations is significant of the growth of the already great body of Cornell alumni and especially of the development of new centers of Cornell population. The Cornell Club of New England has adopted a plan of organization which contemplates the formation of several strong local organizations in its territory. In towns such as Worcester, Providence and Fall River the Cornell men are to be encouraged to organize separate groups, all of which are to retain their connection with the central club and are perhaps to get together once a year for a general reunion. A similar plan has been adopted in Northeastern Ohio, where the Cornell Club of Cleveland is the central organization. That club has adopted a new scheme which recognizes the probability of the formation of new Cornell groups in its own section of the state and which provides for their close association with the Cleveland club. One such separate club has already been established at Akron and it retains its connection with the club at Cleveland. Another state in which the Cornell men have adopted this plan of organization is Minnesota. The Duluth, Minneapolis, and St. Paul Cornell Clubs have each a separate organization but they are all merged in the Minnesota Cornell Alumni Association.

THE WORK of the Cornell Civic and Social Committee affords a good example of the possibilities of alumni co-operation in the work of the University. This committee is composed of Cornellians who are engaged in organized charitable or philanthropic enterprise. With respect to the University its chief accomplishment thus far has been the arrangement of courses of lectures for undergraduates on the duties of citizenship. These talks are given by men and women who are among the leaders of thought and action in their several fields. The committee is finding other ways in which it believes the University can increase its usefulness, as the committee's report, printed on another page of this paper, shows.

OPINION AND COMMENT

The Question of Defense

Editor, Cornell Alumni News:

I wish to protest against the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS being used as a mouthpiece of the munition makers to scare this country into militarism. It grieved me sorely to learn that your last issue had given space for the address of any man who advocated a larger Army and Navy for the "extension of the Republic." This tears the mask off the plan of a larger Army and Navy for "defense only." It is moreover treading on very dangerous ground and I am very much disappointed to see my Alma Mater attempting to help it along.

B. B. MCGINNIS '05.

Pittsburgh, January 26, 1916.

[The NEWS reported the Founder's Day address of General Wood, not "as a mouthpiece of the munition makers" or anybody else, but as a newspaper. The sentence of General Wood's address from which Mr. McGinnis quotes was: "We are generally told only of our successes in war and told little or nothing of those failures which have jeopardized an extension of the Republic and have rendered the conduct of her wars hideously costly in life and treasure, prolonged them longer than need be, and prevented, in some instances, the attainment of desired results."—EDITOR.]

ALUMNI TRUSTEESHIPS CLYDE POTTS NOMINATED

A petition nominating Clyde Potts, C.E., '01, for the office of Alumni Trustee of the University was filed at the office of the Treasurer on January 26. Mr. Potts is a consulting engineer in New York City and lives in Morristown, N. J.

RENOMINATION OF JAMES H. EDWARDS AND HERBERT D. MASON

(Contributed)

Petitions are in circulation among the various alumni associations and individual alumni throughout the country for the renomination and re-election of James H. Edwards, C.E., '88, of New York, and Herbert D. Mason, LL.B., '00, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, as Alumni members of the Board of Trustees of the University, and several of the organizations of Cornell alumni have already taken steps looking to the re-election of both these Trustees, whose terms expire this year and the balloting for whose successors will begin in April. It is understood that many more than the required number of signers have already been procured for the renomination of each Mr. Mason and Mr. Edwards, but the petitions have not yet been filed and the marshaling of representative alumni as sponsors for their renomination is being continued, as the two Trustees have taken the position that they will seek re-election only if it appears clearly that the sentiment of the alumni desires their continuance as champion of alumni interests in the Board.

The action of the alumni who are urging the retention of Messrs. Edwards and Mason in membership is based upon a belief that both have been able and effective spokesmen of alumni sentiment, that Mr. Edwards has in particular performed an invaluable service as Chairman of the standing committee on Buildings and Grounds, and that Mr. Mason has been notably diligent in attendance and in making alumni sentiment effective in Board matters. Although residing at considerable distance, he has made an unusual record for regularity of attendance. The fact that one of the two Trustees is a resident of New York City and the other of the West, although professional activities bring each frequently into many of the alumni centers, and the fact that one is a lawyer and the other an engineer, though each has had extensive business and administrative experience, are cited as additional reasons why this wholesome representation of diversified territorial and occupational interests should be continued, and Trustees who have rendered faithful service accorded a re-election.

Endorsed in New England

At the annual dinner of the Cornell Club of New England, in Boston on January 28, resolutions were unanimously adopted urging the unopposed re-election of both Mason and Edwards as Alumni Trustees this year.

The Endorsement of St. Louis

The Cornell Club of St. Louis, at its annual dinner on January 31, endorsed Herbert D. Mason for re-election to the Board of Trustees.

THE ASSOCIATE ALUMNI NOMINATING COMMITTEE

Letters are going out from the office of the Alumni Recorder to all the local alumni associations, inviting suggestions as to nominees for next year's officers and Board of Directors of the Associate Alumni. In these letters the request is made that all such suggestions be sent to J. P. Harris, Cuyahoga Building, Cleveland, Ohio, the chairman of the committee on nominations, as soon as possible.

NOTICE OF FORUM

The second annual Forum of the Associate Alumni of Cornell University will be held on Friday, March 31, in Detroit, Michigan. Any questions which are to be submitted for discussion at the Forum should be sent as soon as possible to W. J. Dugan, 87 Erie County Bank Building, Buffalo, N. Y., the secretary of the association.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATIONS CORNELL CLUB OF CLEVELAND

A virtual reorganization of the Northeastern Ohio Cornell Association has given the association a new name and a new constitution. The new name is "The Cornell Club of Cleveland." The new constitution was reported by a committee of which J. P. Harris was chairman and was adopted unanimously and without debate at a business meeting of the club on January 20.

In view of the increased financial burdens resulting from the club's enlarged activities, a new scheme of financing was worked out by a committee of which L. C. Welch was chairman. The annual dues of resident members are $4, except of members who have not yet been out of college three years, when they are $2. The former dues of $5 covered admission to the annual banquet; the present dues cover all activities of the club except that. The annual dues of non-resident members are $1, provided that active membership in any regularly organized local Cornell association in any other city of northeastern Ohio than Cleveland shall carry with it membership in the Cornell Club of Cleveland without the payment of additional dues; these dues are to cover the cost of enrollment, etc., but all non-resident members, when attending meetings or banquets of the club, are to be required to pay the amount that is charged to non-members for such attendance.

This latter action with respect to membership in other local associations outside of Cleveland was taken with particular reference to the newly formed Akron association, which still wishes to affiliate with the Cleveland club and take part in all its functions.

These are the most important changes in the constitution, the others being calculated merely to do away with red tape and to facilitate the operations of the club in the light of past experience.

ALBANY

Cornell men of Albany meet for luncheon at the University Club on every other Thursday. There were thirty-three men present at the luncheon on January 27.

PORTO RICO

The Cornellians of Mayaguez, Porto Rico, met at the home of Professor and Mrs. Chester J. Hunn '08, on the evening of Founder's Day. The evening was spent in reminiscences and song. This was probably the earliest meeting held by any group of alumni on All Cornell Night, since Porto Rico is one hour earlier than New York.

HAWAII

The Cornell Club of Hawaii held its annual banquet and celebration of All Cornell Night at the University Club in Honolulu on Founder's Day. Dr. A. L. Andrews '93 was the toastmaster; the speakers were J. E. Higgins '98, Captain F. W. Phisterer '95, Miss A. M. Dieckmann '09, and J. B. S. Pratt, jr., '15, all members of the club. "Bung" Lawrence '04, a visitor, told about the activities of the Cornell Club of Chivago. A letter from Dr. A. H. Sharpe, giving some of the interesting incidents of the last three football seasons at Cornell, was enthusiastically received. Thirty members and guests were present. The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Captain F. W. Phisterer '95; vice-president, W. J. MacNeil '93; secretary-treasurer, H. A. R. Austin.

ATHLETICS

Basketball

Cornell 34, Rochester 23

The team defeated the University of Rochester in a return game played in Rochester last Saturday by the score of 34 to 23. The game was almost a repetition of the one in Ithaca the week before. The speed of the Rochester players enabled them to keep in the running during the first half, but the strength and endurance of the Cornell five proved too much for them in the second half. The score at the intermission was 18 to 14 in Cornell's favor, but the home team could score only 9 points to Cornell's 16 during the remainder of the game. Captain Brown scored 16 of Cornell's points, five field goals and six foul goals.

Shelton's basket in the first minute of play put Cornell in the lead, but Rochester soon went ahead. The play was fairly even for a time, and then a basket by Lunden, thrown more than half the length of the court, put Cornell in the lead. That lead was never lost. The scoring for Cornell was made as follows: Field goals—Brown 5, Lunden 3, Sutterby 3, Shelton 2, Ashmead 1. Foul goals—Brown 6 out of 10.

Baseball

Classroom Instruction and Tests in the Tactics of the Game

Dr. Sharpe has begun already to train the baseball candidates in quick thinking. Every Wednesday afternoon a squad of about ninety men attends a baseball lecture by the coach. After interpreting and explaining some of the rules of the game he gives a written examination. The questions are composed largely of theoretical situations in a baseball game, and the student is asked to state what he would do under the circumstances. Attendance at these lectures is compulsory and the papers are all graded. The work is intended to help in eliminating "bonehead" plays next spring.

The entire squad will report in the cage on February 14. The battery candidates have been doing some irregular work in the cage for some time, but regular practice will not begin until the 14th. All but one of last year's pitching staff graduated last June. As C. A. Russell '16 is the only man left who has had any experience, Dr. Sharpe will probably devote considerable time to the training of pitchers. The 1918 freshman team produced no pitcher of note, but there are several juniors who had experience in their freshman year and who did not get a chance last year because of the veteran staff already on hand. It is hoped that two of them will develop into pitchers of varsity standard.

Track.—Time trials on the board track last Saturday gave Coach Moakley the basis of selection of four men to make up the mile relay team which will race Harvard at the Boston Athletic Association games next Saturday. The four are: J. S. Lewis '16, F. H. Starr '16, Kenrick Kelly '17, and W. B. Shelton '18. Lewis and Starr were members of the mile relay team last year. In the outdoor season Lewis runs the 220 and Starr is a hurdler. Kelly, although a junior, is in his second year at Cornell. Shelton is a brother of Arthur Shelton '14 and Murray Shelton '16. A. W. Richards '17 will be entered in two field events, the high jump and the shot-put.

A SOCIAL SCIENCE FRATERNITY

On January 7, twenty-nine members of the faculty of the University of Missouri, belonging to the departments of history, sociology, anthropology, philosophy, psychology, education, economics, political science, law, etc., met and organized a new professional fraternity, Alpha Zeta Pi (Anthropos Zoön Politikon), for the promotion of the social sciences. While the present organization is a purely local one, the organizers have had in mind the possibility of similar societies in various institutions of the country getting together and forming a national organization with the same purpose. Alpha Zeta Pi will attempt to do for the social sciences what Sigma Xi is doing for the natural sciences. Students who have distinguished themselves in the university by giving special promise of future achievement in the social sciences will be stimulated by being elected student members of the fraternity, and may later be elected permanent members. Both student members and permanent members will have equal rights in the fraternity. The fraternity will meet every month for the discussion of scientific problems. At the next meeting, in February, the first election of students (both graduate and undergraduate) to membership in the fraternity will take place. The officers for the present academic year are: President, M. F. Meyer; vice-president, C. A. Ellwood [Ph.B., Cornell, '96]; secretary-treasurer, J. E. Wrench [A.B., Cornell, '06].—Science.

Fisher, formerly professor of economics at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., had been appointed acting professor of economics at New York University to take charge of several of the courses vacated through the leave of absence granted to Professor Philip B. Kennedy, the recently appointed United States commercial attaché at Melbourne, Australia. Among the new courses announced by the university is one on labor problems, under the direction of Professor Fisher. In connection with the study of various phases of the labor question, Professor Fisher will take up the question from the standpoint of the employer and executive. Methods of solving labor problems will be studied in detail, and an exhaustive investigation will be made of such schemes as arbitration, profit sharing and conciliation, as well as trade unionism and labor legislation.

J., have been extended so that he is now manager of the rubber insulated wire and lead covered cable factories. He also has the official title of assistant secretary. On the evening of January 21, Mr. Fisher gave a talk at Yale University on the subject of electric cables. The talk was illustrated with lantern slides and various samples of cables. The lecture was attended by engineering students of the university and by members of the A. I. E. E. residing in the immediate vicinity. On the morning of January 22 Mr. Fisher gave a more theoretical talk to the members of the senior class in electrical engineering. Mrs. Fisher accompanied Mr. Fisher and they were guests of Professor and Mrs. Charles F. Scott.

It is a phase of housing work in which he has specialized for the last three years and now he proposes to give most of his time to it, although the legislative end—setting definite minimum standards for housing—necessarily remains a part of what he has to do. His address is changed

The Dalton is first of all an adding machine. For plain, straight adding and listing it has no equal, and on such work has set many a sensational record under conditions as divergent as the varying activities of commerce afford.

But the Dalton is something more than simply an adding machine. It is a calculating machine as well, capable of doing all that can be done on any other calculating machine, with the added advantage of a printed record of the work performed. Easier, in fact, than any single purpose machine performs its solitary function, the Dalton attends to its numerous duties with increased speed and efficiency.

The Dalton adds; subtracts; multiplies; divides; figures fractions as well as whole numbers; cross foots; computes interest; figures costs, pay rolls, change sheets; prorates; verifies invoices; foots trial balances; checks postings; figures percentages and discounts; makes out monthly statements. In fact, the Dalton takes care of anything that comes under the head of figure work with ease, accuracy and dispatch, rendering a physical audit slip of the work performed. Dalton versatility is unique.

Whether you buy a small capacity Dalton at $125.00 or pay several times that amount for a larger machine fully equipped with special features, you get the same high grade material and careful workmanship. Let us bring a Dalton to your office and show you how it can expedite your accounting work.
