UNIVERSITY activities were to have been resumed on September 25, but the reopening was postponed for two weeks on account of the epidemic of infantile paralysis in the eastern states. This action was taken at a meeting of the President, members of the Board of Trustees, and Deans of the Faculties, held in Ithaca in August. Registration of students will begin on Monday, October 9, and instruction will be resumed on October 12. Notice of the change was sent by letter to members of the Faculty and enrolled students and was published in the newspapers for the information of students intending to enter the University this fall.

THE CALENDAR of the University for this year has been revised on account of the late opening. One of the two weeks lost will be recovered for instruction by shortening the Christmas recess, omitting the holiday on Founder's Day, and curtailing the recess between the two terms. The other week will be regained by postponing Commencement, which will take place on June 27, 1917, instead of June 20.

IT WAS THE PREVALENCE of infantile paralysis in the east and especially in New York City, rather than right here in Ithaca, that persuaded the University authorities to postpone registration. There were a few cases in Ithaca during the summer, and some of them were fatal. All possible precautions were taken against a spread of the disease in this neighborhood. The health authorities of Ithaca have heard of no new case for a month past.

FIRE in the Alpha Tau Omega chapter house on the night of September 21 caused damage estimated at $8,000. The blaze started in a bedroom in the northwestern part of the basement and was discovered just before midnight, when it had spread to the first floor and smoke was pouring out of the windows. There was nobody in the house at the time. The alarm was given by Charles E. Treman '89, who lives nearby. The firemen came promptly and prevented the flames from reaching the second floor, although the intense heat caused damage throughout the house by blistering paint and varnish. The loss has been adjusted, and repairs will be made so that members of the chapter can live in the house when the University reopens.

THE PAGEANT which the women students had prepared for presentation this month has been postponed on account of the late opening of the University. It will probably be given in the spring. This is the second postponement. A day had been set for the play last spring, but conflict with other University events caused it to be put off till this fall. Members of the committee remained in Ithaca during the summer to complete preparations, and posters had been displayed announcing that the pageant would take place on October 16. Plans had been made to use the women's playground in the Cascadilla ravine for the play.

GOOD PROGRESS has been made on the drill hall in the last six weeks. The roof over the drill floor is practically complete, and so is the larger of the two towers, the one at the southwest corner of the building. This tower, being about fifty feet square and more than a hundred feet high, is an imposing piece of masonry. Despite its massiveness it has graceful lines and is a handsome addition to Campus architecture. It will contain in its five stories offices for various departments of the cadet corps. The other tower, which will be almost as large, is about half done. Captain Thompson, professor of military science and tactics, is hoping that the drill hall will be ready for use by the time snow flies, and is encouraged by the progress which the contractor is now making. The University's rule requiring sophomores as well as freshmen to receive military instruction takes effect this fall and doubles the difficulty of finding room for the drill. For the present the corps will retain its headquarters in the old armory. The cadets will drill in sections on five afternoons a week until the new quarters are ready.

A MAP of about twelve square miles of country about Ithaca has been published by the department of military science for the use of the cadet corps in maneuvers. It was prepared, from surveys made by the College of Civil Engineering, by W. S. Graham, C.E., '16. The section mapped extends from Cayuga Street on the west to Turkey Hill on the east and a little further than that north and south. Contours are shown, and roads, streams and houses, and even fences are indicated. The scale is six inches to the mile. The map is on sale at the Co-op for twenty-five cents a copy.

THE WILL of the late Charles E. Green, of Schuylerville, N. Y., which was admitted to probate at Saratoga on August 18, leaves about $22,000 to Cornell University, subject to a life interest of his widow. His bequest is to be administered by the University in providing aid for Cornell students from Saratoga County. Mr. Green died on June 26. This bequest is similar to several others which have been made in recent years. The University has received from Edwin G. Vail of Dutchess County $10,000, the income of which is to be used to help holders of state scholarships from that county. One-half the estate of the late Bernice Haviland Guernsey, of Montclair, N. J., was bequeathed to the University to provide scholarships for girls residing in Warren County, N. Y. Horace I. Smith, who was superintendent of buildings and grounds of the University at the time of his death in 1894, left his estate to the University, directing that it be allowed to accumulate until it should amount to $20,000, when it is to be used to assist any blood relative of himself or his wife, or for lack of any such relative, any resident of Tompkins County, to study at Cornell.

THE TWELFTH ANNUAL CONFERENCE of the Chinese Students' Alliance was held at Andover, Mass., in August. Cornell students won the track and field meet. The score was: Cornell, 52; M. I. T., 28; Yale, 13; Harvard, 9; Pennsylvania, 6.

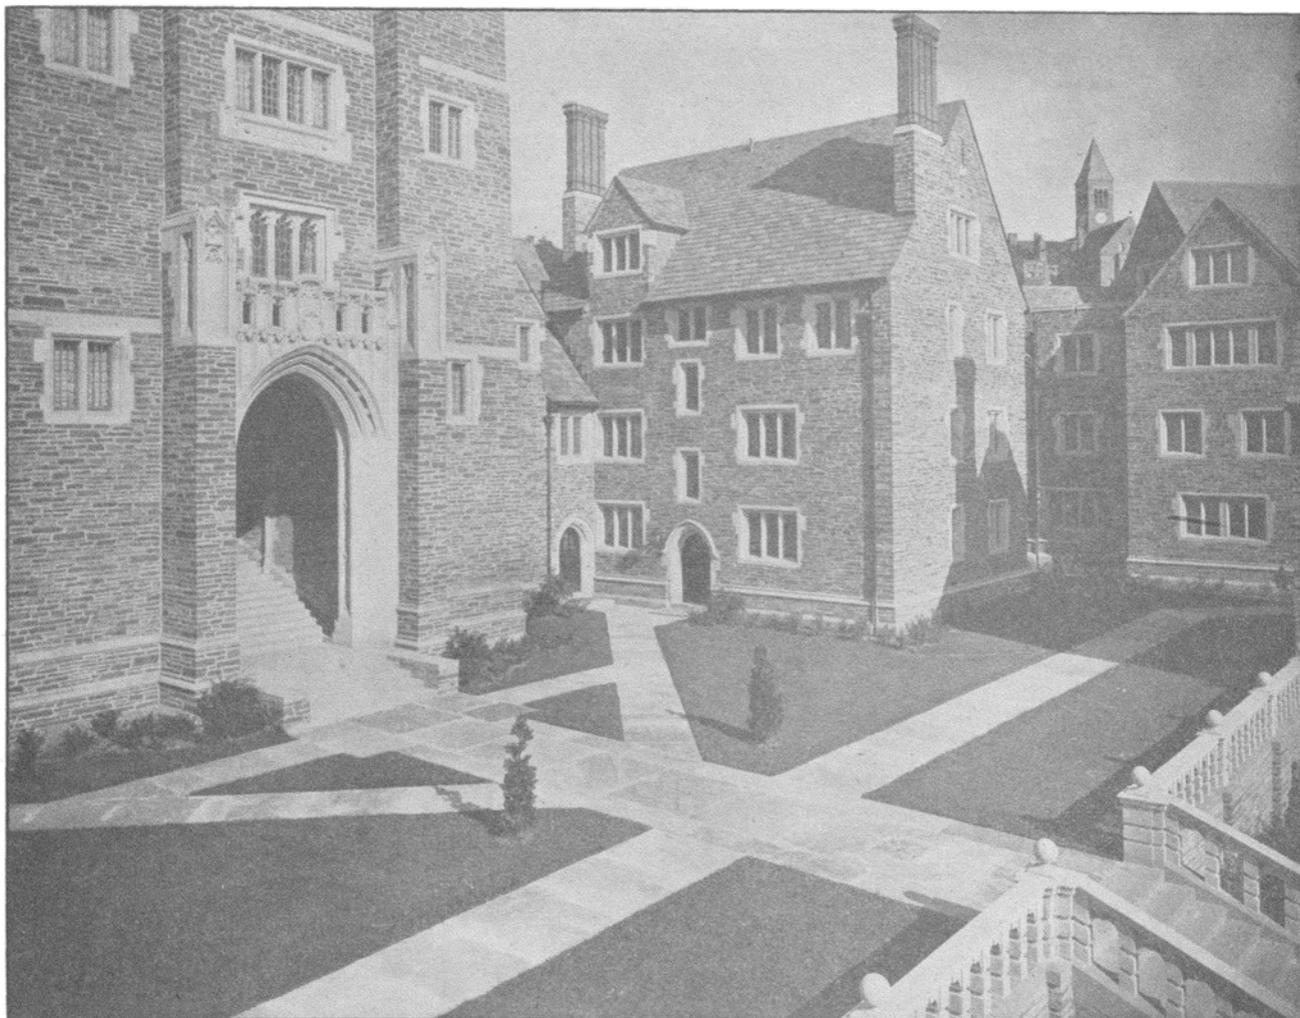

THE UNIVERSITY PLAYGROUND has been enlarged by the final grading of about two acres at its north end, in front of Roberts Hall, the main building of the College of Agriculture.

A VIEW OF BAKER COURT, COMPLETED

The Student Residence Halls

THIS SUMMER saw the completion of two residence halls, the third and fourth of the group which is to occupy the fifteen acres between Stewart and West Avenues. The two buildings just finished are North and South Baker Halls, which, with Baker Tower, comprise Baker Court, the gift of Mr. George F. Baker of New York.

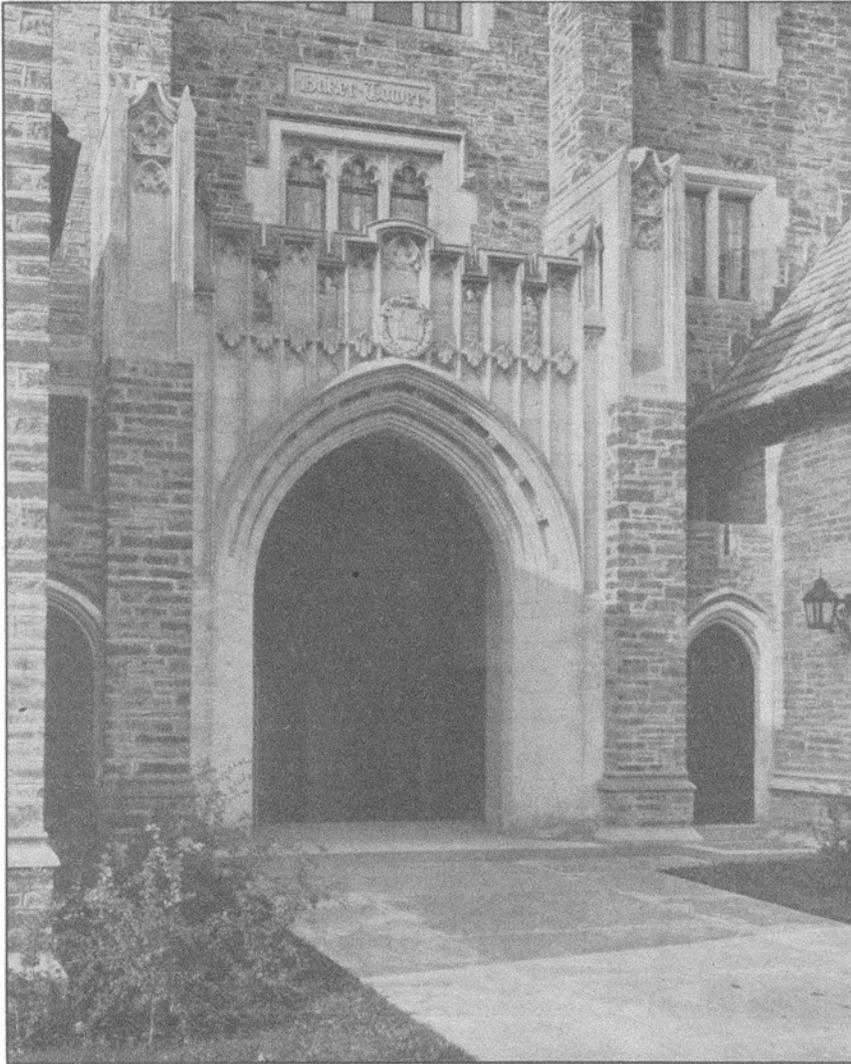

The photographs reproduced herewith give some idea of the beauty of this group. They cannot give a complete idea of it because photographs do not portray color. The soft tints of the native stone which the architects chose for these buildings are set off by the bright green of the lawns, the dull green of the slate roofs, and the dark red of the bricks in the chimneys. The photographs suggest the harmony that has been attained by similarity of design and by the retaining walls and balustrades which tie the buildings together.

At present the University has no funds for the building of further residence halls. But there is a fund of about $105,000 toward the erection of a dining hall. This consists of a number of gifts which have been made through Mr. George C. Boldt, of the Board of Trustees. It is about one-third of the sum which the architects estimate will be the cost of that hall. Of course no sure prediction can be made as to when there will be money enough to begin work on the dining hall. But at every meeting of the Board of Trustees last year Mr. Boldt announced gifts toward the fund, and it is a safe guess that the fund is growing.

The four residence halls now erected house this year about two hundred and fifty students. Needless to say, there is a demand for rooms in them, on account of their convenient situation and their attractive design. Furthermore, the rents are a little lower than would be demanded for equally good quarters in private houses. Months ago all the rooms were leased for this year and notice was given that no further applications would be received.

There is only one drawback to residence in these dormitories at present, and that is the lack of a common dining hall. The students who live there go various distances for their meals. Some of them are fraternity men and dine at their chapter houses. As soon as the proposed dining hall is ready for use the University will no doubt adopt a rule requiring students who live in the halls to get their meals there. It would be difficult to run the dining hall economically otherwise. An incidental effect of such a rule probably would be to keep fraternity men from living in the halls. Most chapters here overflow their houses, but as a rule all members are expected to eat at the chapter table, for reasons both social and economical. The University authorities believe, considering the advantages which the fraternity houses enjoy, that no injustice would be done by a rule which tended to reserve the public residence halls for non-fraternity men. No such distinction has been made heretofore in renting the rooms, and a considerable proportion of the residents have been fraternity men. This fact gave rise to a rumor on the hill last year that some fraternities whose houses are near the halls were "colonizing the dorms."

Already the University has found it necessary to organize a staff for the management of residence and dining halls. For it has to administer, besides the new buildings on West Avenue, Cascadilla Hall for men, Sage and Risley for women, and Sage Cottage, where quarters are leased to the University Club and to individuals; and it conducts four dining rooms—at Sage, Risley, Sibley, and Cascadilla. A single organization takes care of all these enterprises, and for economy's sake the catering and preparation of food for all the dining rooms is concentrated. The head of the staff is the manager of residence halls, Mr. Thomas Tree, whose office is in the south wing of Sage College, where Professor Moses Coit Tyler used to give his lectures on American History at 3, M W F. Mr. Tree's organization is in three departments—general administration, residence halls, and dining halls. His lieutenant on the residence hall side is Mrs. E. C. Grider, who is known as the director of rooms. She commands the housekeepers, who in turn direct the servants, in all the student residences. The director of dining rooms is Miss M. C. Little, who has under her direction a superintendent for each of the four establishments. Miss Little supervises the marketing, the preparation of food, and the service. The University has a butcher shop and an ice cream factory in Sage College, a laundry in the same building, a large storeroom in Cascadilla for canned goods, and a bakery in Risley Hall.

CADETS TAKE A LONG HIKE

About seventy members of the cadet corps assembled in Ithaca and entrained on August 16 for Plattsburg, where they spent three weeks in the training camp. On September 7 they set out on foot for their return. In ten days they marched 110 miles. The hike was continued a little beyond Lake George, where the cadets entrained for the rest of the journey.

ROBERT M. CAMPBELL, a lecturer on economics at this University, was elected permanent secretary of the National Tax Association at the tenth annual conference on taxation, held at Indianapolis late in August. The purpose of the association is to produce an authoritative volume of proceedings which will aid state legislatures in solving tax problems. Representatives from thirty-three states and Alaska attended the conference.

PROFESSOR DONALD REDDICK has sabbatic leave and will spend this year in special work at Johns Hopkins.

For Adviser of Women

A Committee of Women Graduates
Makes a Recommendation to the President

During the summer months a committee of Cornell women composed of Mrs. Harriet C. Moody of Chicago, Miss Alice H. Bruère of New York, Mrs. George D. Crofts of Buffalo, Mrs. Charles M. Thorp of Pittsburg and Mrs. George Ashley of Washington, has been at work with President Schurman on the matter of finding the best person available for appointment to the office of Adviser of Women at Cornell.

In the month of July the committee, which was appointed at President Schurman's request in June, made a careful survey of those who might be available for the place and on August 8 the full committee met with the President in New York City. It was agreed by all present that it would be necessary to make a temporary appointment for the year 1916-17, as the person finally to be chosen for the permanent appointment would no doubt be under contract elsewhere for this year.

The committee held a second meeting in Chicago on September 16 and at that time recommended to the President, for the permanent appointment, a woman who is said to be generally regarded among educators as the ablest Dean of Women in any of the American universities.

Changes in the Library

The Large Reading Room an Open Shelf Collection for General Student Use

Important changes in the arrangement of books in the reading room of the University Library have been made during the summer, in accordance with action taken by the Library Council. The former periodical room, at the left of the main entrance of the building, is now devoted to books of reference. The periodicals have been removed to a larger room in the basement. The space formerly occupied by reference books in the alcove off the large reading room will be devoted to works suitable for more general reading. All the books in the large reading room have been reclassified.

The main purpose of the changes is to give undergraduates access to a larger number of books. To admit undergraduates generally to the stacks would be impracticable, for the reason that much of the material there is of use only to the specialist. The large reading room therefore has been made an open shelf library. Here are shelved most of the books of a non-reference character that were there before. To this collection have been added, from the former circulating library, such books as are desirable for general reading. There will also be added other standard reading books, and new publications of general interest as they come into the Library. Any book on the open shelves may be borrowed by a student for home use. This change in the character of the collection in the large reading room will provide a library of about ten thousand volumes, books suitable for general reading, accessible both for local and home use to any student. The Librarian hopes the new arrangement will be a stimulus to good reading on the part of undergraduates.

In the rearrangement the books on the shelves of the large reading room have been reclassified after the Library of Congress system. Beginning on the north side of the room, at the entrance, the grouping is as follows: History, American history, geography and subjects auxiliary to history, social sciences, political science, law, philosophy and religion, education, fine arts, language and literature, science, medicine, agriculture, technology, military science, naval science, bibliography.

The periodicals have been placed in the room formerly occupied by the circulating library. Here is space, not only for the handy disposition of a large number of current periodicals, but also for sets of bound periodicals that are wanted frequently, and newspapers, with special provision for consulting these materials.

All the books from the reference alcove, together with those of a purely reference character that were on the shelves around the large reading room, have been brought together, to make a reference library, in what was formerly the periodical room, and here are now found the cyclopedias, bibliographies, dictionaries, atlases, etc., of special character, as well as the general works of this sort. This room affords a much increased capacity for books and more table space for using them. Persons wishing to consult a reference book will now find it in a room near the library entrance and will not have to cross the large reading room or go about the shelves of that room in their search.

THE NEW OBSERVATORY is almost completed. It is a brick building about eighty feet long, with a twenty-foot dome.

Meeting of Associate Alumni

General Gathering of the Association in Boston on October 28

The general alumni association of Cornell University—otherwise known as the Associate Alumni—will hold a meeting in Boston on Saturday morning, October 28, the day of the Harvard-Cornell football game. Details of the plan for the meeting will be available soon, perhaps in time for publication in the NEWS next week. Many alumni are expected to be in Boston on the 28th, drawn there by the game and the smoker which the Cornell Club of New England will give on the night before.

Changes in the constitution of the association are to be proposed for action at this meeting of the association. None of these changes is radical. They are merely an attempt to put some of the sections into words readily comprehensible by other persons than the officers and directors.

The more important changes to be proposed at this time are:

(1) The omission of class representation by delegates in association meetings. It is so manifestly impossible for any class delegate to undertake to represent the opinion of his class on any subject that this provision of the constitution has been the subject of bitter criticism.

(2) The change of the word "forum" to "convention." This change is suggested to accord with certain proposed changes looking to the brightening up of these alumni meetings.

(3) The holding of the convention in Ithaca not oftener than once in three years.

(4) The holding of the convention in May instead of March in order to have better weather and to include outdoor recreation.

(5) Changing the date of the present November meeting of the Board of Directors to permit its being held in either October or November, so that a meeting of the general association, if held at the same time, can be held in conjunction with some attractive Cornell event that will insure a good attendance.

1916 CLASS NOTICE

The address of Weyland Pfeiffer, life secretary of the Class of 1916, was wrongly given in the NEWS for August as Scarsdale-on-Hudson. Pfeiffer's address is simply Scarsdale, N. Y.

CROSS-COUNTRY practice began October 2, but only about a dozen men turned out.

ITHACA, NEW YORK, OCTOBER 5, 1916

ON ACCOUNT of the late opening of the University, the publication of this first number of the NEWS for 1916-17 was postponed a week. Weekly publication will be continued through the year till June, with the exception of the week of January 1-6, when publication will be omitted on account of the University recess.

ATTENTION is called to the advertisement of a binder for the NEWS on another page of this issue. This binder is adapted to preserving in handy form the current file of the paper. At the end of the year it can be emptied and used for the next volume. Subscribers who are binding in permanent form their volume for 1915-16 should not do so without including a copy of the title page and index, which we will send free of charge on request. If any subscriber wishes to obtain extra copies of some numbers to complete his file of the last volume, we can supply them for a short time and will gladly do so without charge as long as our supply lasts.

THE COSTS OF PUBLISHING have increased enormously on account of the war. The ALUMNI NEWS, in common with all other periodicals in this country, has to pay much higher prices for paper, ink, etc. The total cost of production is much larger than it was a year ago, and the income of the publication, with the subscription price stationary, naturally does not increase in the same proportion. In view of this serious situation, the NEWS ventures to remind its subscribers that prompt payment of their subscriptions will help materially to cut down the paper's expenses. The cost of sending out several statements to a subscriber in the course of a year eats up a considerable part of the three dollars which is due from him. Subscriptions are payable in advance, and this year prompt remittances will be more than ever appreciated.

ALUMNI who intend to see the Harvard-Cornell football game in Cambridge on October 28 are requested to note the announcement, elsewhere in this issue, of the smoker to be given by the Cornell Club of New England on the night before the game at the Copley-Plaza Hotel. Their attention is called also to the announcement of the meeting of the general alumni association of Cornell University, to be held in Boston on the morning of October 28.

BOSTON FOOTBALL SMOKER Cornell Club of New England to Give a Big Party Before the Harvard Game

The Cornell Club of New England will act as host to all visiting alumni and undergraduates at a big Football Smoker to be held at the Copley-Plaza Hotel in Boston on Friday, October 27, the evening before the Harvard game.

Groups of alumni representing all the New England colleges will also be the club's guests.

Seating accommodations and refreshments will be furnished for at least six hundred. The club hopes to make this smoker a memorable event among Cornell alumni gatherings.

Before the smoker it is planned to hold an informal dinner at the Hotel Lenox, Cornell headquarters.

A NEW OUTDOOR RIFLE RANGE for the use of the cadet corps was laid out this summer on the north bank of Fall Creek just east of Forest Home.

Organizing in Springfield, Mass. Meeting of Cornell Men Addressed by Professor Karapetoff

About thirty Cornell men from Springfield, Mass., and vicinity attended a meeting August 17 to formulate plans for a Cornell club of Springfield. Considering the season of the year, the number which turned out was most favorable, and a scheme for the establishment of the club is at present under the consideration of a committee. The men were addressed by Prof. Vladimir Karapetoff, who spoke on "A man and his world, or the problem of righteous living while engaged in business." Professor Karapetoff is spending the summer with the New England Westinghouse company as consulting engineer.

The Professor's talk was on the difference between theoretical and practical living. He pointed out that while a man may feel high-mindedly about certain principles, what he actually does is of vastly more importance. "The greatest problem of all," Professor Karapetoff said, "is practical ethics, which means to be good during the office hours, to starve the wild beast within you, to wish for a shining angel to take its place, and to see the symbolic meaning of your words and acts."

Throughout the informal address the speaker evolved aphorisms, which rose nearly to the level of epigrams charged with the fresh spirit of discovery and informing enthusiasm. "It is easy to be righteous on a desert island," he said, "for there is nobody there to be hurt. It will be easy to be upright under socialism, because there will be no want or uncertainty. It is easy to pity and to understand suffering Belgians and Poles because they are so far away. It is easy to be polite and unselfish at a social gathering of your friends. It is even easy to love God and his angels, for they are so high above. But can you love the naughty boy who puts a tack in the path of your Pierce Arrow? Can you sympathize with a selfish grouch who has the push button to the buzzer on your desk? Can you love the defendant and his lawyers when you are the plaintiff? Can you bless the competitor who undersells you by unfair means and puts you out of business? Can you love the man who puts the final 'no' to your life-long dream which would make you famous and rich?"

"In one case you 'don't do nothing;' in the other case, you climb a hill. In one case, you select your bites; in the other, you chew it whole with the core.

In one case it is a beautiful picture; in the other, it may be a photograph of the slums. In one case, it is putting up more fences; in the other, it is converting the earth into one beautiful garden. In one case, it is singing hallelujahs; in the other, it is actually bringing the millennium nearer.

"For words and acts are but humble symbols of what you really mean, and the true meaning of our lives is comprised in the words 'Divine Love.' We live in a real life only in proportion as we realize this ideal. Each kind and helpful word is a mite into the treasury of love. Each honest and unselfish act is a tithe to help God's work."

OBITUARY

Charles S. Prosser '83

Charles Smith Prosser, head of the department of geology of Ohio State University, died September 11 at Columbus, Ohio. [A further notice will be published.]

J. M. Davidge '96

John Miller Davidge, LL.B., '96, of Binghamton, N. Y., died on August 13 at Eastern Point, Conn. The cause of death was pneumonia. Mr. Davidge had been engaged in business in Binghamton ever since his graduation from the law school. He leaves a widow and three children. He was a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity.

Mrs. A. P. Evans '10

Mrs. Austin Patterson Evans (Laura Turner Cooper), A.B., '10, died September 11 at her home, 106 Northern Avenue, New York.

F. M. A. Webster '17

Frederick Montrose August Webster, of Ithaca, a member of the class of 1917 in the College of Agriculture, was drowned in Lake Champlain September 10. Webster had attended the training camp at Plattsburg as a member of the Cornell undergraduate contingent. He was on the march back to Ithaca with the Cornell party. At Westport several of the men went in swimming. Webster disappeared where the water was just over his head. His body was found half an hour later and his companions worked for three hours trying to revive him. Webster was twenty years old. He was to have been a captain and adjutant in the cadet corps this fall. The funeral was held at Oneonta.

Frank Thilly, junior

Frank, the only son of Professor and Mrs. Frank Thilly, died September 1st of infantile paralysis. He was twelve years old.

 November 18—Mass. Ag. College at Ithaca.
 November 30—Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

A Strong Line, and Plenty of Material for the Backfield

All the comment on Cornell's football prospects this fall has dealt with the loss of several "stars" of last year's team—Barrett, Cool, Shelton, Collins, and Jameson. But a visitor to the practice on the upper field these crisp October afternoons finds nobody mourning for the departed. It is evident that, whatever those players took away, they did not take away the fighting spirit which characterized Cornell football in 1915. And there is left, too, the evidence of football lessons learned and made into tradition. In other words, the 1916 squad is building on last year's accomplishments and not on new ground. The squad has good material and the best of coaching, and it has inherited traditions of hard work and success. Those elements ought to produce a team, and all the indications are that a real team is in process of production.

The postponement of the University's opening day deranged the football plans. Practice was to have begun on September 18. It was put off a week. The Oberlin game, scheduled for September 30, was canceled, and the second game on the schedule, the one with Gettysburg, was postponed from Saturday to Monday.

Between fifty and sixty men reported for the first day of practice. A few have come since then and a few have dropped out. There is still an active squad of about fifty men. The coaches are not crying for more, so they must be satisfied with the number and quality of what they have to work with. In physical qualities the whole squad is remarkably uniform. It is what one would call a husky bunch of men. If one misses the men lost with the class of 1916, one is cheered by observing that the class of 1919 produced some excellent players.

From the first day of practice, almost, the program has begun with a half-hour or more of formation and signal work in the baseball cage, and almost from the start this has been followed by scrimmaging, short at first and gradually increasing. For the scrimmages the squad has been divided into four elevens.

For a review of the material we may take these elevens one by one as they played on a certain day, say last Saturday. On that day, then, the first team's backfield consisted of Captain Mueller at fullback, Shiverick at quarter, and Benedict and Hoffman as halfbacks. The first two are veterans. Mueller has not fully recovered from a minor surgical operation in his throat, but is getting into his stride. Shiverick has gained in weight during the last year and seems also to have gained in agility at the same time. Benedict and Hoffman are both juniors and were second-string backs last year. In the line the first team retains from last year Eckley and Ryerson, ends; Jewett and Gillies, tackles, and Miller, guard. We have omitted Anderson, guard, and Zander, end, who were out of the play on this particular Saturday afternoon on account of slight injuries, but they will doubtless get into the first game. Tilley also is missed. He has not returned to Ithaca yet and may not come at all. He had played tackle last year and was considered a likely successor to Cool at center. Wiser Brown has that place now. Anderson's place is filled by Taylor, a scrub last year.

On the second eleven are several men who will be heard from before this season is over. Speed, at quarter, was a substitute last year. Bretz, halfback, was the captain of the 1919 freshman team, and all he lacks is experience to make him a regular first-string man. The other halfback is Haucke, who came here from the University of Nebraska and has had a year of ineligibility in consequence. The fullback is Hopper, '19. At center on the second team is Carry, captain of the 1918 freshman eleven, who may give Brown a hard contest for the honor of succeeding Cool. The ends are Hoff and Ensworth, both freshman ends last year. Dixon, of the scrub last year, is at tackle, and on the other wing is Sutton, a new player. The guards are Fischer, who scrubbed last fall, and Nelson, who was a freshman.

On the third and fourth teams Coach Van Orman's pupils at end are Schaaf, scrub last year; McCormick, the hammer thrower; Franzheim, Eilenberger, and Modjeski. Reed's pupils in the line include Masson, of last year's scrub; Scott, the 1919 center; and Flint and Tyler, 1919 line men. The class of '19 has furnished also a large number of backfield men for Dr. Sharpe to develop. They are Mayer, Zepp, Craig, Caminez, and O'Connor. The last named is a young brother of Fin O'Connor '13.

To sum up, the line is husky and strong, and there is plenty of material from which to develop a good backfield.

Thirty Men Compete for Five Trophies in the Annual Tournament

The annual golf tournament of the Cornell Club of New York took place on July 19 at the Essex Country Club, West Orange, N. J. The committee in charge of the tournament this year was composed of W. W. Ricker '96, chairman; W. W. Pellet '01, and J. F. Taylor '96.

Five trophies were offered for competition. Edwin N. Sanderson '87, the president of the club, gave a new President's Cup. This prize is a beauty. One of the ornaments is the seal of Cornell University, in enamel, on the side of the cup. It is the first typically Cornell trophy the club has been able to offer. There is space on the cup for engraving the names of winners of the annual tournament, and permanent possession of the trophy will go to the member who wins the prize three times. John L. Given '96 gave a first prize cup to be awarded for the best net score of the day. Second and third prize cups were offered by the club. A special prize for the best net score in the afternoon was given by the Cornell members of the Essex Club—L. D. Baldwin '92, A. J. Baldwin '92, and J. F. Taylor '96.

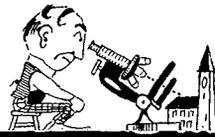

The President's Cup was won by J. F. Taylor '96. He and Neal D. Becker '05 had the best scores for the day, as in former years. They played off thirty-six holes at match play for the chief trophy on August 30, at the Piping Rock Golf Club. Taylor won this match 4 up and 2 to play.

Becker had had the best net score of the day in the tournament, and the Given Cup went to him. The second and third prizes were won respectively by L. D. Childs '06 and Louis D. Root '08. The special prize offered by the Essex Club men was won by J. F. Taylor '96.

About thirty men took part in the tournament. They all had a good time, and all congratulated the committee on the success of the tournament—the best in the history of the club.

GOLF

The intercollegiate golf tournament was held in September at the Oakmont Country Club, near Pittsburgh. In the first round Yale, Harvard and Cornell respectively defeated Pennsylvania, Williams and Illinois. The Illinois team had been the favorite for the tournament. In the second round Princeton, which had drawn a bye in the preliminary, defeated Yale, 5 to 4, and Harvard defeated Cornell, 8 to 1. Princeton won the final round.

Cornell's players were John DeWitt '17, Parshall, Col.; G. W. Cole '18, Corning; E. B. Cooke '17, New York; J. P. MacBean, jr., '20, Philadelphia; H. J. Bradley '19, Chicago, and M. J. Loeb '18, Chicago.

Although the total score in the Harvard-Cornell contest was one-sided, most of the matches were close. In the four-ball matches Canon and Amory, Harvard, defeated Cooke and Mac Bean, Cornell, 3 and 2; Lombard and Wylde, Harvard, defeated DeWitt and Cole, Cornell, in 19 holes; Hubbell and Flagg, Harvard, defeated Bradley and Loeb, Cornell, in 23 holes. In the singles only Bradley of Cornell won his match; DeWitt, Cooke, and MacBean were 2 down at the seventeenth in their matches, and Loeb was beaten on the home hole. Cole lost 6 and 5.

TENNIS

The intercollegiate tennis tournament was held at the Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia, in September, and Harvard won the championship in both singles and doubles. G. C. Caner won the singles championship. Of three Cornell men who entered the tournament, W. M. Blair '18, of Chicago, was the only one who lasted to the third round.

CINDER PATH IMPROVED

THE CINDER TRACK on Schoellkopf Field has been improved during the summer. Two alterations have been made. One of them is a slight reduction in the circumference of the quarter-mile oval to accord with I. C. A. A. rules. This track was constructed according to the rule then existing so as to measure 440 yards twelve inches from the curb. About that time the intercollegiate association set the line of measurement at eighteen inches from the curb. Since then different races have been started at various points on this oval, but now there will be one starting point for all. The other and perhaps the more important change is the widening of the straightaway track on the west side of the field from eighteen to twenty-seven feet. This gives plenty of room for the starting of the half-mile and quarter-mile events on that straightaway so as to have them finish on the opposite straightaway in front of the stand.

THE WINTER COURSES will begin on November 8 and will run to February 17.

ALUMNI NOTES

'85, Ph.D.—J. G. White, president of J. G. White & Co., of New York, is a member of the invitation committee of the National Marine League. The league is working to create sentiment throughout the country in favor of the upbuilding of an American merchant marine.

'88, A.B.—Dr. John R. Mott has been serving since the latter part of August as one of the members of a joint commission authorized to undertake a settlement of differences between the United States and Mexico. The American members were appointed by the President. They are Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior; Judge George Gray, of Delaware, and Dr. Mott. The joint commission has been meeting at Portsmouth, N. H.

'88-'90—W. A. Withers is vice-president of the North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, West Raleigh, N. C., and head of the department of chemistry. He is also a director of the chamber of commerce of Raleigh, vice-president of the Rotary Club, a member of the steering committee for locating in Raleigh a Federal Land Bank, superintendent of a Sunday School, vice-president of the County Farmers' Union, vice-president of the North Carolina Cornell Alumni Association, and a member of the governing committee of the Capital Club.

'91, M.E.—Captain Frank A. Barton, 15th Cavalry, U. S. A., has received his promotion to the rank of major, dating from June 4. He expects to return to the United States from service in the Philippines in April, 1917. Major Barton was professor of military science and tactics in Cornell University in 1904-8.

'93, M.M.E.—William H. Boehm has been appointed vice-president of the Fidelity & Casualty Company, New York. He has been identified with the steam boiler and fly wheel insurance division of that company for some years and still retains the superintendency of those departments.

'97, M.C.E.—Professor E. J. McCaustland, of the University of Missouri, has been elected a member of the council of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education.

'97, M.E.—John J. Swan is a member of the American Arms Corporation, 111 Broadway, New York.

'00—I. Brooks Clarke, who has been made president and general manager of the Inter Ocean Steel Products Corporation, 165 Broadway, New York, has with him as directors, among others, William T. Morris '73, H. H. Alcock '96, Daniel A. Reed '98, Frank S. Tracy '00, and William W. Snow (Harvard '06). The company controls the M. F. P. aeroplane and a self-propelled car for steam railroad service, and is handling screw machine work which is made up to a large extent of spark-plug parts.

'01, A.B.—The Journal of Geography mentions the fact that Professor R. H. Whitbeck, of the University of Wisconsin, was one of the speakers at a meeting held during the summer session of the University of Chicago, in the interests of the national and Illinois Councils of Geography Teachers. Teachers from about twenty different states were present. The meeting was held in Rosenwald Hall, the fine new home of the departments of geography and geology of the University of Chicago.

'04, A.B.—The address of Mrs. Bryant White (Elizabeth Cassidy) is changed from Minneapolis to 2 Stratford Place, Newark, N. J.

'04, A.B.—Science says that Professor Lawrence Martin, of the University of Wisconsin, had a class of twenty-two men doing field work in geology and geography in the Devil's Lake region (Wis.) during the month of August.

'04, A.B.—An appreciation of the poetry of Thomas S. Jones, jr., has been published by Salomon de la Selva, a young Nicaraguan poet and critic, simultaneously in Les Novedades of New York, El Diario del Salvador of Central America, and El Figaro of Cuba. Senor De la Selva's own translation of the article is published in the Boston Transcript. He says: "Of the poets that are now writing in the United States no one possesses in so high a degree as Thomas S. Jones, jr., the sense for words; no one has known how to dispose and ordain his words in such a manner that, simple in themselves, as the bits of glass of a kaleidoscope, taken as a whole in the reflection of one on the others, verse after verse, as in minute mirrors, they may seem in the mind marvelous mosaics of sound and sense. It is for this that his work is untranslatable in verse; and the versions of his poems that I have made retain but an echo—deformed as every echo is—of the loveliness of the original. * * * The North American poets, overmuch preoccupied with the idea, have lost, with rare exceptions, the taste for form. Rejecting the inheritance left them by Poe (which the French were clever enough to make their own), by Lanier and the pre-Raphaelites of England, they become more and more obstinate in the ignorant use of numbers they have hardly studied, of whose infinite possibilities they know little or nothing. Mr. Jones is one of the counted few in Saxon America for whom poetry is something of a plastic art; verse has to be modeled and chiseled as if it were molded in terra-cotta or marble, an object of untiring study. Each one of his books is a porcelain rose-jar admirably wrought, wherein the perfume of ephemeral roses is kept forever fresh."

'07, C.E.—Mr. and Mrs. Louis John Sieling, of Red Bank, N. J., announce the birth of a daughter, Mary Ann Sieling, on August 9, 1916.

'07, LL.B.—Mr. and Mrs. William Winthrop Taylor, of 891 Ocean Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., announce the birth of a son, Hubert Pierce Taylor, on September 9.

'07, M.E.—Fred S. Sly is identified with The American Architect, which about September 1st joined to itself two other publications, the Metal Worker and the Building Age. Mr. Sly was one of those instrumental in bringing about the change of control. The offices are situated at Fourth Avenue and Seventeenth Street, New York.

'07, A.B.—A son, James Thomas Howes, was born on August 24 to Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Howes, of 94 Wheaton Place, Rutherford, N. J. Howes is now vice-president of the Black Publishing Company, with offices at 470 Fourth Avenue, New York.

'08, LL.B.—A son, Eugene Heardt Baxter, was born July 30 to Mr. and Mrs. Roland Baxter, 110 Grove Street, Tonawanda, N. Y. Roland Baxter is a member of the law firm of Fish & Baxter, State National Bank Building, North Tonawanda.

'09, C.E.—John R. Haswell, senior drainage engineer, office of public roads and rural engineering, Washington, D. C., is engaged in making an examination of the drainage of peat and muck land in the north central states. He wrote from St. Paul, Minn., late in September.

'09, M.E.—A second daughter, Ruth Wynne Fulton, was born September 3 to Mr. and Mrs. Creed W. Fulton of Newton, Mass. Fulton is now New England manager for the Goulds Mfg. Co., with headquarters at the company's branch house, 58 Pearl Street, Boston.

'10, B.S.A.; '15, B.S.—The wedding of Henry Carleton Moore '15 and Cornelia F. Kephart '10 took place in St. Paul, Minn., on September 2. Mr. and Mrs. Moore will make their home in St. Paul.

'10, A.B.; '14, Ph.D.—Elmer Eugene Barker was married to Miss Edna Louise Snyder, daughter of the Rev. William Taylor Snyder, of Washington, D. C., on September 4. Dr. Barker is an assistant professor of plant breeding in Cornell University.

'10, A.B.—Miss Laura Katherine Johnson was married to Mr. Harry Maxwell Varrell at Auburn, N. Y., on September 6. They are making their home at 37 Concord Avenue, Cambridge, Mass.

'10, B.Arch.—Edward E. Goodwillie was married to Miss Clarissa Eleonore Macfarlane, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James William Macfarlane, of Pittsburgh, Pa., on October 3. Mr. and Mrs. Goodwillie will be at home after December 15 at 6649 Ridgeville Street, Pittsburgh.

'11, C.E.—Clarence H. Davidson was married to Miss Grace Cordelia Anthony, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram J. Anthony, at West Caroga Lake, N. Y., on August 21. Mr. and Mrs. Davidson will make their home at 84 Monmouth Street, Springfield, Mass.

'11, A.B.—A daughter, Elizabeth Sutton, was born June 18 to Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Underwood, of Binghamton, N. Y.

'12, M.E.—Sidney R. Dresser is a member of The Read-Dresser Engineering Co., Inc., newly organized, and holds the office of secretary and treasurer of the company. The company's offices are in the Singer Building, New York. Dresser was formerly power engineer of the United Electric Light & Power Company of New York. The president of the new company is Clark P. Read, formerly New York sales manager of the Power Specialty Company and secretary of the Litchfield Construction Company. The new company was incorporated for the general practice of engineering.

'12, M.E.—Charles D. Maxfield was married to Miss Florence E. Taylor, sister of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Taylor, of Oneida, on August 9, 1916; at Union Chapel, South Schroon, N. Y. They will live at Bridgeport, Conn., where Maxfield holds a position in the engineering department of the Bryant Electric Company.

of the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS in the BIG BEN BINDER

This is the simplest binder made. It has the appearance of a regular bound book. It opens flat to any page. It is so simple in construction and operation that the filing or extraction of magazines requires but a few seconds

No punching of holes is necessary—just a slight slit between the pages with a pen knife and the insertion of a metal clip. Patent clasps make it easy to put in the new issue each week.

The cover is of Art Velum, with the name stamped in gold on the back and front. Each binder will hold one volume (forty numbers) of the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS.

By making a special arrangement with the manufacturers we are able to supply these binders to our subscribers for $1.00 each, charges prepaid.

Metal slips inserted through pen-knife slit in back of magazine. The tongue slides over a binding rod.

We Are Watching For Your Orders

Good Cross Section Paper

Its certainly too bad that the price of paper has gone up so. We have felt it like everybody else. Our cross section paper is going to be the same quality as in the past.

Our New View Book

It's above the average as a view book. The views are new. The views average larger. The printing is first class. You will want to refresh your memory of the Campus. The price is eighty-five cents postage paid.
