Published for the Associate Alumni of Cornell University by the Cornell Alumni News Publishing Company, Incorporated.

Published weekly during the college year and monthly during the summer; forty issues annually. Issue No. 1 is published the last Thursday of September. Weekly publication (numbered consecutively) continues through Commencement Week. The number of monthly issues and of double numbers will depend somewhat on the University calendar, which is likely to be irregular for the period of the war. Issue No. 40 is published in August and is followed by an index of the entire volume, which will be mailed on request.

Subscription price $3.00 a year, payable in advance. Foreign postage 40 cents a year extra. Domestic rates apply to addresses in the American Expeditionary Forces. Single copies twelve cents each. Double numbers twenty-four cents a copy.

Should a subscriber desire to discontinue his subscription, notice to that effect should be sent in before its expiration. Otherwise it is assumed that a continuance of the subscription is desired.

Checks, drafts, and orders should be made payable to Cornell Alumni News.

Correspondence should be addressed—

PRESIDENT Schurman is in a hospital in New York, where on Monday he had a slight operation. Not long ago he slipped on Central Avenue and so wrenched one foot as to make advisable the attention of a surgeon. Though the injury is not serious, Dr. Schurman will be in the hospital two or three weeks.

THE EDITORS of The Cornell Civil Engineer announce the election, as the result of a recent competition of four sophomores to the managing board of the publication: to the business staff, Edwin F. Chobot, of Brooklyn, and Roy E. Pratt, Franklinville, N. Y.; to the editorial staff, Edward P. McKee, Seranton, Pa., and Earl J. Sherk, Harrisburg, Pa.

UNDER THE CAPTION "Cornell Activities" the Sun is printing a series of brief articles on the varied phases of student endeavor, what they are, what they do, and how they repay effort. Thus far interested contributors set forth the merits, functions, advantages, and expectations of the Countryman, the Dramatic Club, the Rifle Club, the Masque, and The Sibley Journal. These notices, each some half-column in length, may serve not only as advertisements but as a reflection of undergraduate ambitions and ideals.

THE FRATERNITY HOUSE known as the "old Alpha Delta house," at the corner of Buffalo Street and Schuyler Place (formerly Spring Street), is being made over into an apartment house. The exterior will remain unchanged; the interior will be so altered as to provide four five-room flats. The house was the home of Alpha Delta Phi from its erection in 1878 until the end of the century. From 1901 until 1914 it was occupied by Delta Chi, and then for a year or two by Alpha Psi. Then sold under mortgage foreclosure, it passed into the possession of the Ithaca Trust Company, by whose direction the alterations are now made. The apartments will be ready for occupancy by midsummer.

FRATERNITY HOCKEY has been given up for the remainder of the season. Eight fraternities had teams in the league, and several games were played, notwithstanding the late start. Now warm weather and poor ice have forced the abandonment of the schedule.

ALEPH SAMECH, the junior society, has elected the following new members from the class of 1920: Henry Rusling Ashton, law, Trenton, N. J.; Hosea Cushman Ballou, arts, New York; Charles William Carry, arts, Chicago; Orville Guy Daily, arts, Chicago; Robert Kenneth Felter, arts, Pearl River, N. Y.; Henry Penny Murphy, law, Pawling, N. Y.; Robert LeRoy Siering, architecture, New York.

ACCIDENTAL DROWNING saddened the close of the skating season on Beebe Lake. Esther Taylor, colored, aged twelve, while walking across the lake on Sunday, March 2, broke through the rotting ice and was drowned in about seven feet of water. The little girl was the daughter of the cook at the Phi Kappa Sigma lodge, overlooking the lake. Noticing that the danger signs had been removed and expressing fear that some one might get in the water, she left the house, possibly to find some means of replacing the signs. Though her cries, when she fell in, attracted help at once, the ice was too weak to make rescue possible. The body was recovered after it had been under water about three hours.

A GERMAN GUN may come to Ithaca as a trophy of the great war. Congressman Pratt has introduced into the House of Representatives a bill which provides "That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized in his discretion to donate and deliver to the City of Ithaca, New York, to be placed on a site selected by the city, one German cannon or field-piece and carriage and a suitable outfit of cannon balls or shells captured by the American Army from the forces of the Imperial German Government."

A BILL amending that part of the education law which deals with State scholarships in Cornell University has been introduced into the Legislature by Assemblyman Fenner. Under the present law candidates must have attended a school in the state for at least six months preceding the scholarship examinations in June. The amendment, if passed, will permit prospective students to take the examinations without the required attendance at school, provided they have been in the military or the naval service during the year preceding.

NEW SPEED RECORDS were made in February by Frank Burnside, aviator with the Thomas-Morse Aircraft Corporation. The flight, an unofficial Government test, took place in Ithaca, while the wind was blowing thirty miles an hour. It was necessary to fly down the lake about five miles against the gale. Then the aircraft was turned and headed straight for the flying course at the aviation field. It passed over the track, with the wind, at 183 miles, flying only about 75 feet above the ground. Then Burnside began to climb and rose high over the city to the south; turning, he swooped near the track again, flying over the course in the teeth of the wind, at the rate of 145 miles an hour, and continued some distance over the lake before he brought the machine about and returning to the aviation field. Four times he repeated the performance. Burnside's records are announced by General Kenly, of the aviation section of the War Department as follows: high speed, 163.68 miles an hour; climb to 6,500 feet, 2 minutes, 54 seconds; to 10,000 feet, 4 minutes, 52 seconds. Previous records show in England 145 miles an hour, in America 152 miles. The plane is the new experimental plane ordered by the Government for fighting use. It is of American construction throughout, having a single seat; driven by a Hispano-Suisa engine capable of 1,750 revolutions a minute; and equipped with two Browning machine guns. On this test flight the plane carried 170 pounds less than it is capable of carrying.

PUBLIC LECTURES during the week include "The Volcano Kilauea in Action," with colored views, by Dr. Arthur L. Day, under the auspices of the Sigma Xi Society; and "The Distributing and Generating System of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario," by Mr. W. P. Dobson, laboratory engineer for the Commission, under the auspices of the Ithaca Section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

COLONEL HENRY T. BULL was recently relieved of his duties as train commander of the 11th Division at Camp Meade, Md. and was ordered to command the 63d Infantry, with headquarters at Potomac Park, Washington, D. C. He lives at 1821 Kalorama Road.

The Hardly Fair

Undergraduates Hold Housewarming in Drill Hall for Benefit of Athletics.

The new Drill Hall was formally "dedicated" by the undergraduates on Saturday evening in a mammoth indoor affair that bore a family resemblance to a Spring Day with the addition of a dancing arena. The event was held under the auspices of the Student Council and the proceeds went for the benefit of athletics. The attendance was approximately 1832, and the net proceeds total $1500.

The name, The Hardly Fair, can be best explained by outlining the publicity given to the event. About ten days in advance, while the preliminary announcements were being made, a news item appeared in the Sun announcing the return to America of Colonel G. H. Hardly '69 "first of the first" Cornellians, an authority on South Africa, and Great Britain's representative at the Peace Conference. This theme developed from day to day until the Colonel was booked to lecture at Bailey Hall on Saturday. It is said on good authority that one of the Trustees denounced the University for not having a more fitting reception and the President is credited with an earnest effort to get in touch with the distinguished visitor.

At the appropriate time the "alumnus," Colonel Grand Hoax Hardly '69, consented to become sponsor for the housewarming, and to permit it to be named The Hardly Fair.

For the purpose, the Drill Hall served well, although it was apparent that the temporary floor, put in for the use of the School of Military Aeronautics, was worse than that of the Old Armory either for dancing or for walking.

The center of the floor was roped off and waxed, and with a fourteen-piece orchestra the "jitney" dance, pay-as-you-enter, proved a source of entertainment to the guests and of profit to the management.

Around the concrete edge of the floor a three-man-power sight seeing bus carried passengers, for a consideration. The space between the "speedway" and the dancing arena was filled with booths devoted to shows and to the dispensing of light refreshments, to coat rooms, and to an occasional restroom.

Among the more successful shows were "Uncle Tom's Cabin," a "War Museum," and a "movie" entitled "The Lure of the City." Shooting galleries and other games of skill helped to reduce the undivided surplus.

Souvenirs of the occasion included an issue of The Widow, a special organ, The Cornell Hardly Done, issued by the Sun, crayon portraits, done while you wait, and autographed photographs of Colonel Hardly, who arrived promptly at 9 o'clock in time to make a speech from the orchestra's platform and to sign the photographs.

Admission was a dollar, plus tax. The ticket included five coupons good for sideshows. Food, souvenirs, and service were paid for in cash. Change was not withheld.

The affair gave an excellent opportunity to the undergraduates to gain experience which will be valuable for Spring Day, May 24. The last Spring Day was held in 1916, and excepting the present senior class, then freshmen, none of the undergraduates has seen such an affair and none has had experience in conducting one.

The greatest value of the housewarming, however, was the opportunity afforded the entire community to get together with a spirit that has not been observed since before the war.

THE CHICAGO CLUB

At the luncheon held by the Chicago alumni at the City Club on February 27, William French '73, chairman of the Chicago Association of Commerce Committee on Americanization spoke on "The Americanization Movement," giving a very interesting talk on his work.

At the luncheon on March 7th David Beecroft, directing editor of The Motor Age, Automotive Industries, and The Motor World, told about his trip to England, France, and Italy, where he has been for four months investigating conditions in the automotive industries. He also gave an interesting account of a trip over the devastated areas on the western front, which he made within two weeks after the signing of the armistice. His report is that it is impossible to put in words the real condition of the country, and that while the war is over theoretically, there is a tremendous amount of work left to be done in Europe.

Lieut. J. Emery Ward '00, just back from France, was among those present. The club has had ninety-one different men at the luncheons since January 1st, and the average attendance has been over forty.

Phi Beta Kappa

Thirty-one New Members Elected, 15 of Them Juniors.

At the annual election of the Phi Beta Kappa Society held on March 7, sixteen seniors and fifteen juniors were elected to membership. Last year sixteen juniors were elected; thus the total number of members from the class of 1919 is thirty-two.

The names of the new members follow:
Class of 1919.

Helen Elizabeth Addoms, Tuckahoe.
Marian Ruth Albright, Canandaigua.
Mrs. Katherine Lindley McMurry Benson, Yonkers.
Helen Amelia Carmalt, Brookville, Pa.
Charles Wellington Elmer, Ithaca.
Elinor Mary Fish, Ithaca.
Marian Gerber, Philadelphia, Pa.
James Rufus Gordon, Chappaqua.
Edna Ruth Hotchkiss, Ithaca.
Margaret Collins Knapp, Marcellus.
Luella Irene Lackmann, Troy.
Ralph Alexander Liddle, Argyle.
Elizabeth Neely, Philadelphia, Pa.
Barnet Nover, New York.
Max Judd Wasserman, St. Louis, Mo.
Pauline Ziegelbauer, Gloversville.

Class of 1920.

Ruth Imel Aldrich, Fredonia.
Raymond Terhune Anderson, Shreveport, La.
Florence Mary Dill, Buffalo.
Samuel Feldman, Brooklyn.
Madeline Fay Gilmour, Vernon Center.
Christina Hazen, Ithaca.
Eleanor Clara McMullen, Buffalo.
Sarah Alice McNulty, Buffalo.
Naomi Nash, Ithaca.
Frances Mabel Ottley, Ithaca.
Ruth May Ratelle, Glens Falls.
Dorris Anwyl Richards, Ithaca.
Merit Scott, Glens Falls.
James Raymond Wadsworth, Hastings.
Sophie Dazian Worms, Whitestone.

The following were elected last year as juniors: Leonard Acker, Louise F. Belden James F. Eppenstein, Leo Gershoy, Gladys F. Gilkey, Harry Gold, Chauncey J. Gordon, Morris Gottsdanke, Louis Gottschalk, Jeanette Heertje, William P. Herman, Franklin P. O'Brien, Malcolm F. Orton, Virginia W. Switzer, Louis A. Turner, Helene G. Van Ness.

BY RECENT ACTION of the Committee on General Administration, the present term will close one day before the day set in the calendar adopted early last fall. The last day of instruction is accordingly Friday, March 21, and instruction is resumed on Tuesday, April 1.

3,031 Cornell Commissions
Of These 2,491 Were Held by Alumni—
2,680 of them in the Army.

Three thousand thirty-one Cornellians held commissions in the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps during the war, according to figures compiled by Secretary Woodford Patterson '95, and sent to the Committee on Education and Special Training at Washington by Col. F. A. Barton '91.

The figures are part of a series of records to be obtained from colleges throughout the country in an effort to collect complete data on the numbers of college men who took part in the war.

The figures as given out include 540 men who were attending the University at the time they went into service, and 2,491 graduates.

Every man of the total number of Cornellians to hold commissions was a member of the R. O. T. C. while in the University. The letter from Colonel Barton follows:

March 27, 1919.

From: Professor of Military Science and Tactics, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.

To: Committee on Education and Special Training, 2d Floor, Mills Building, Washington, D. C.

Attention Colonel Hunt
(Through District Headquarters Dist. No. 2, R. O. T. C.)

2. Although the figures given above are approximate in some instances, they are substantially correct, being based on careful records, which have been under compilation since the United States entered the war, in the office of the Secretary of the University.

FRANK A. BARTON,
Lieut. Col., U. S. Army.

THE CLEVELAND CLUB

At the luncheon of the Cornell Club of Cleveland on March 6 fifty men were present to hear Judge George S. Addams, Oberlin '90, of the Juvenile Court. Judge Addams spoke very impressively on bolshevism, unemployment, and the dangers threatening America unless capital recognizes the just demands of labor. He pleaded earnestly for a just treatment of the workingman.

Captain S. W. Webb '06, Third Engineers, U. S. A., was present, having just returned from eighteen months' service in Hawaii. Also Captain Harold E. Bullis '09, just back from service with the artillery in France, and whose home is in Syracuse, N. Y.

THE SAGE CHAPEL Preacher for Sunday, March 16, is the Rev. William Horace Day, of the United Congregational Church, Bridgeport, Conn.

ARMY AND NAVY

Bushnell '07 Cited

Mr. George A. Bushnell, of Denver, Colorado, has been notified that his son, Second Lieutenant Theodore K. Bushnell '07, who died in France on October 9, has been cited for distinguished service. The citation follows.

“Second Lieutenant Theodore K. Bushnell, Second Battalion. For extraordinary heroism in action near Fléville, France, October 5, 1918. Lieutenant Bushnell showed exceptional bravery by remaining with his platoon after being wounded. He refused evacuation until he received a second wound, the nature of which demanded his immediate return to the rear.”

A number of extensive wounds on the left side of his body, in the region of the left shoulder, were caused by shrapnel, and when removed to the hospital he was in a state of shock. He died on October 9, in Evacuation Hospital No. 114, at Fleury-sur-Aire, and was buried in the American section of the cemetery there.

A notice of the death of Lieutenant Bushnell was printed in the ALUMNI NEWS of January 2, page 160.

Reunion News on Rio Grande

Captain Herbert D. Kneeland '10 writes to the ALUMNI NEWS as follows:

“It's a long, long way from the hills above Cayuga's waves of blue to this land of sand and cactus, but once in a while I see a copy of the ALUMNI NEWS which is forwarded from home, and I am hoping to return this June to the reunion, although if I ever get out of the Army, I may have to work to make up for lost time.

“To get to the meat of this letter, I met a Cornell man the other night who did not know that there was such a thing as a reunion planned for June. Of course, he does not subscribe to the ALUMNI NEWS, and I should have boned him for a subscription immediately, but then it was not in office hours, and I couldn't do it. I had a copy of the recent issue which gave the plans as developed to date, but unfortunately had destroyed it, and I am hoping that you will have an extra copy to send to him, and maybe we can start a lone pilgrim on his way north next June when the weather is at its hottest here. Besides, he comes from Cortland, and it's time that he held an old home week. Personally, I shall need no urging, and here's to a real reunion in June, even if the Dutch is a bunk-house now."

Kneeland is a captain in the Field Artillery Reserve Corps, and is on duty with the 82d Field Artillery at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas.

Mosser Back in Service

Philip D. Mosser, who it was first feared had been fatally injured when a hydroplane in which he was flying with Ensign Spencer T. Alden '18 got beyond control and fell into the water at Great South Bay, L. I., has now almost completely recovered from his injuries and is a ground officer in Naval aviation, stationed at Pensacola, Florida.

The accident occurred on May 4, 1918. Alden, who was the instructor, had given over the wheel to Mosser, the student, and they were endeavoring to spiral down from a great height, when the machine side-slipped, and fell almost perpendicularly. Alden was killed, and Mosser was unconscious and apparently drowned.

When the bodies were extricated, Mosser was resuscitated with a pulmotor, but little hope was entertained for his recovery, for his injuries were said to include a compound fracture of the skull.

Harris '15 Cited

Lieutenant Morgan King Harris '15 has had numerous narrow escapes during the fighting in France. He led his company of one hundred and forty-five men over the top six times, until the number was reduced to eleven; then he was given another command. He was twice visited and congratulated by the general in command, and was cited and recommended for a captaincy. He was confined to a hospital for three months, after being gassed, but has now rejoined his regiment, and is with the Army of Occupation. His division was one of the first to be decorated.

Lieutenant Harris is a son of the Rev. Theodore W. Harris, of Oxford, N. Y. He received his degree in law at Cornell in 1915, and is a member of Kappa Delta Rho and Delta Theta Phi.

"Putting One Over" on the Hun

It has remained for Captain O. H. Fernbach '94, now with the American Army of Occupation, to give the Germans a synopsis of "Carmen" with a Yankee punch thrown in. The Chicago Tribune's Foreign News Service prints the following under date of February 22:

Coblenz, Feb. 22, via Paris, Feb. 23.—In an unwary movement the management of the Coblenz opera house asked an American soldier to prepare in English a brief synopsis of the story of "Carmen" and the other operas with which the doughboy is regaled while awaiting his westward passage.

It was wanted for the program that the doughboy might better understand what it was all about. The guileless boche took the copy supplied and printed it in full, much to the delight of the first audience and the entire army. Here's the introduction of the three principal characters:

Carmen, an overscribed flirt.

Don José, N. C. O. in M. P., to whom she's about to send an S. O. S.

Escamillo, an expert bull thrower.

Act one: "A square in Seville with a crowd of people off duty. A fag factory on the right, the guard house on the left. Micaela, a cute little contrivance with an awful crush on José, comes hunting him. A bugle on the pill emporium sounds the first call for fresh air and a bewitching bevy gushes out. Carmen trips in, courted by all except Don José, although he's the very guy she's looking for. He acts a little buggy, but is really a little sulky."

The second act recites that Don José went A. W. O. L., and here is the narrative of the third act:

"It's a large day. Escamillo has been prominently advertised as the big excitement. Single handed he's billed to slaughter the monthly beef ration for the governor's mess. He's also promised to take advantage of all the bulls José will make. As he starts for the arena Carmen announces she's his if he gets away with the job. Then she heads for the box office to tap the free list, but Don José shows up for an interview. He hands her an earful of highly seasoned remarks and admits that he could be arrested for what else he thinks about her. Here Carmen makes her last fox-pass. She stabs him to the quick with a jeer. He stabs her with a toadsticker. Moral—Never fool with an M. P."

THE THREE RAILROADS entering Ithaca, the Lehigh Valley, the Lackawanna, and the Central New York Southern, will have temporary ticket offices in Sibley Dome during the four days immediately preceding the spring vacation, from Tuesday to Friday, March 18 to 21. Since the closing of the city offices of the Lehigh and Lackawanna, travelers have been obliged to go to the stations to buy tickets and make Pullman reservations. The office is a great accommodation to students.

DIED IN THE SERVICE

Joseph W. Stevenson '01

Joseph Welch Stevenson died of pneumonia, following influenza, on October 8 at Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky.

Stevenson was born on November 14, 1879, a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Stevenson of Burnham, Pa. He prepared for college at the Sedgwick Institute, Great Barrington, Mass., and entered Sibley College in 1897, receiving the degree of M. E. in 1901.

After his graduation he was employed by the McClintic-Marshall Company, of Pittsburgh. Last August he was appointed to the Field Artillery Officers' Training Camp at Camp Zachary Taylor. Early in October he was taken ill with influenza; pneumonia developed, and he died a few days later.

His widow is now on her way to Armenia, having enlisted as a nurse in the Armenian Relief Commission to the Near East. He leaves also a brother, Robert Alston Stevenson, of Yonkers, N. Y.

George W. Bonney '16

George W. Bonney died in a base hospital in Coblenz on January 29, of an internal hemorrhage.

Bonney was born on January 15, 1891, and prepared for college at the Potsdam Normal School, Potsdam, N. Y. He entered the College of Agriculture in 1912, receiving the degree of B. S. in 1916. He was a member of Zodiac, and rowed on the 1916 junior varsity crew.

In the fall of 1917 he was sent to Camp Devens, Mass., and assigned to the 3d Company, 1st Battalion, Depot Brigade. In November of that year he was appointed a sergeant, and later was transferred, with the same rank, to Company E, 58th Infantry, which went to France last May. This regiment participated in the great offensive of July 18, and also in the fighting of the Argonne and Vesle; after the signing of the armistice, it became a part of the Army of Occupation.

Emanuel Abel '18

Corporal Emanuel Abel was killed in action on September 30.

Abel was born on November 14, 1895, and received his preliminary education at Public School No. 23, Bronx, New York. He prepared for college at the Morris High School, graduating in 1914. In the fall of that year, he entered Sibley College, but left during his sophomore year. The next year he re-entered, but left after a short time, to accept a position with the Winchester Company.

Soon after America's entry into the war he enlisted in Company A, 35th Infantry, and had seen much active service.

He leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Senior Abel, one sister, and one brother, all of New York.

LITERARY REVIEW

Jordan on Democracy

Democracy and World Relations. By David Starr Jordan '72. Yonkers-on-Hudson. World Book Company. 1918. 8vo, pp. viii, 158. Price, $1.20, net.

The aim of this volume is to present "an elementary exposition of democracy, as related to the community of nations and to the problems of war and peace," a book which can be used for study in schools. It will be found a satisfactory text-book.

The author begins with a discussion of nationalism, showing how in itself it is good, but how the perversion of it makes for war and anarchy. Among the most perplexing problems of a reasonable nationalism is the proper treatment of subject nationalities like Ukraina, Finland, Montenegro, and Bohemia. Shall they be liberated? Or shall they be helped to govern themselves within the imperial family in which they find themselves, receiving freedom of language and religion? The answer must be given with reference to the good of the world as a whole. Where the peace of the world would be imperiled by the too rapid liberation of subject countries, indirect means of providing virtual independence must be sought. Of Ireland, torn within by religious discords, one may say, without excusing the blunders committed by the government in power, that she will be best off as an integral and self-governing part of the British Empire.

The dynastic state, as represented by Germany, is studied with thoroughness, and no good thing is found to come out of it. Probably not all will agree with Dr. Jordan that the Germans have perverted Nietzsche, and "have framed for their purposes a Nietzsche that never existed." Perhaps this is true; yet some parts of Nietzsche did not need much alteration of perversion for the purpose intended.

In the chapter on "Imperialism and Trade" is indicated the enormous part played by trade rivalry or friction in the fomenting of war; yet deeper than the greed of wealth is the greed of power which wealth brings.

The last four chapters deal with the nature of democracy; internationalism and federation; international law, arbitration, and conciliation; and the new world order. For the last named, five conditions are necessary: limitation of sovereignty in the common interest; denial of the right of conquest; control of backward peoples for their own good and that of civilization; open diplomacy and democratic control of foreign policy; and reduction of armaments. An appendix sets forth in its true colors the brutal ambitions of Pangermanism. No one can complain that Dr. Jordan has expressed himself otherwise than frankly and unequivocally on this menace to the world.

The rapidity of the recent march of events is indicated by the fact that this book, though fairly up to date in most respects, has nothing to say of that other deadly enemy of democracy—bolshivism. But having read it the student will draw right conclusions regarding Lenin & Trotsky's Panacea.

Books and Magazine Articles

The Literary Digest for February 22 includes an appreciative notice of Professor William H. Glasson's "Federal Military Pensions in the United States." A review of the book will appear in an early issue of the ALUMNI NEWS.

Dr. Mary Rebecca Thayer '09 writes in Modern Language Notes for March on "Keats: The Eve of St. Mark," discussing the fragment published in the London Bookman for October, 1906.

In Science for March 7 are published the resolutions adopted by the University Faculty on the death of Professor George F. Atkinson '85. Dr. Charles R. Stockard, of the Medical College, writes on "Hereditary Deficiencies in the Sense of Smell."

In Harper's for March Edmund H. Eitel '07 publishes a collection of letters of James Whitcomb Riley and Bill Nye, and Major Charles W. Furlong '02, U. S. A., contributes an illustrated article on "Hunting with the Lords of the Dezertas." These are three uninhabited islands east of Madeira. The hunting was good.

La Revue Contemporaine for January 25 includes a eulogistic article on "Une des Grandes Figures de l'Historie: le Président Wilson," by Theodore Stanton '76. He concludes with the remark that "nothing would surprise me less than that at some time in the future Woodrow Wilson, leaving the presidency of the United States of America should be called to that of these United States of the World which to-morrow the 'Society of Nations' will become."

Miss Flora M. Love, Ph.M. '96, in The Indiana University Alumni Quarterly for October, recently received, reviews "The Century Handbook of Writing," by Garland Greever and Easley D. Jones.

Two papers by Dr. William Trelease '80 have lately been reprinted: one on "The Ancient Oaks of America," from the Brooklyn Botanic Garden Memoirs, June 6, 1918, and the other a presidential address on "Producer, Distributor, Consumer," delivered before the Illinois Academy of Science and reprinted from the tenth volume of its Transactions.

634th ORGAN RECITAL

Bailey Hall, Friday, March 14

The regular organ recital will be given by Professor James T. Quarles in Bailey Hall, on Friday afternoon at five o'clock. The assisting artist will be Miss Gertrude Houston Nye, pianist, who will appear in the Nocturne, written by Ernest R. Kroeger, for the Bailey Hall organ. This work employs a piano and organ, and was played by the composer, with Professor Quarles, last summer. The program follows;

- Sonata in A minor, Opus 17, -----
-----Mark Andrews
- I. Molto Maestoso
- II. Adagio
- Caprice in B flat----- Guilmant
- Liebested, from "Tristan und Isolde"
-----Wagner
- Ariel -----Bonnet
- Nocturne -----Kroeger
- Piano and Organ
- Marche Militaire -----Schubert

A CORRECTION

We were guilty of unintentional exaggeration in our issue of March 6 when we gave the age of Emmons L. Williams, the retiring University Comptroller, as sixty-nine. Few who know Mr. Williams have suspected that he is even sixty-five, although his birth is given in "Who's Who in America" as January 10, 1854.

INITIAL PLANS are under way for a "dress-up week" from April 5 to 15. One feature already urged is an automobile show.

THE ENDOWMENT FUND

Representatives of the University Trustees' Committee on Endowment, the Cornellian Council, and the Associate Alumni recently met at the Cornell University Club of New York to formulate plans for the raising of a suitable endowment-memorial fund in honor of the soldiers and sailors from Cornell, for the purpose of placing Cornell University in its proper position in the educational world. An outline of the main facts is at this time, therefore, most important.

Cornellians everywhere should understand that the University, in plain modern English, is "up against it." This is not alarmist doctrine but sober fact. We have come to the parting of the ways.

Cornell must increase her endowment to meet the present number of students or cut down the number of students to meet the present endowment.

We cannot eat our cake and have it. We have already eaten some seventy-two thousand dollars' worth. It must stop.

For every forty dollars paid in by a student at Morrill Hall, sixty dollars must be paid for his education by some one else. The endowment we already have will pay for a certain number, which the University in its growth has long since passed.

To provide adequate equipment for the laboratories and shops and adequate salaries will require an addition of five million dollars to our productive funds. Until this is raised it is idle to talk of more buildings, for whatever purpose they may be designed.

How shall this be raised? Sixty per cent of it ought to come from the funds of the State of New York, which sends us sixty per cent of our students. Of the rest half ought to come from wealthy persons, irrespective of collegiate affiliations, who are interested in higher education, and the other half from our alumni.

But this is too good to realize. The State may in time awaken to the needs of her colleges and universities. At present higher education is not a part of her program. The money must be raised from the other two sources; and if no wealthy donors can be found outside of the ranks of Cornell alumni, then it must come entirely from within.

True, must is an ugly word. There is, in theory at least, another way: to cut down the number of students. But just how this is to be done, equitably, wisely, and efficiently, no one has yet discovered, nor is it assured that the overhead expenses can be cut in proportion.

The growth of the University has never been factitious. The present numbers indicate a definite need here of an institution large enough to take care of these numbers—no less.

Shall Cornell be suffered to fail in her manifest duty to the country? We have no horror of the fate of becoming a small college, in itself; the small high grade college is to be greatly respected. But events have shown that Cornell was designed to become, if possible, an efficient alma mater of large numbers. It is our task, and we must perform it.

If one thousand of our alumni will give a thousand dollars each; if two thousand can be found to give five hundred each; and if the remainder will give one hundred fifty each, the amount can be raised.

It is a hard time, you say, to raise money. True, but this money must be raised, like the Victory Loan—and the two can be raised together. Let every Cornellian, if he so desires, make his subscription to the Endowment Fund in Victory Loan Bonds.

Here is a great and glorious task for the Cornellian Council, the Associate Alumni, and the Cornell clubs. There is no time to lose.

Let us resolve that when the Victory Loan Campaign closes the money shall be in sight.

Then we can celebrate the Semi-centennial with a will.

REFORM AT YALE

Some of Yale's educational problems are peculiar, while some are like those we have to solve at Cornell. A Yale alumni committee on a plan for university development has been at work for two years and on February 22 submitted a comprehensive report, the chief proposals of which may be summarized as follows:

The president should be relieved of most of the burden of educational administration; this should be entrusted to a new officer, to be known as chancellor, who should be a member of, or at least sit with, the Corporation, or Board of Trustees.

The Sheffield School trustees should interlock with the College Corporation, should submit all plans to the latter, and should have the same treasurer.

There should be new Corporation committees on educational policy and physical plan.

There should be created a student counselor with assistants for disciplinary and advisory work with students.

Associate professorships should be created.

A new university council should be formed with power to promote university educational policy.

All future faculty appointments should be made on a university basis and for a term of years, with due provisions for pensions and retirements.

The faculty should be departmentalized along the lines of subjects of study. The chancellor should appoint (subject to the approval of the committee on educational policy), for one year or a term of years, the head of each department.

Yale College should consist of the humanities and Sheffield of the sciences, with the faculties and students so assigned. Each of these two organizations should be governed by a board consisting of nine professors, associate professors, or assistant professors, to be elected by the faculty concerned. There should be certain standing joint committees of the two faculties. Candidates for A. B. should enrol in the College; candidates for B. S., in Sheffield.

While a nomination for the appointment or promotion of a person to the rank of professor, associate professor, or assistant professor may originate wherever the necessity of it seems evident, say in his department or the governing board of his college, final authority therefor should rest with the Corporation committee on educational policy.

There should be a common freshman year under its own dean and faculty.

There should be prescribed upper-class courses leading to special professional or business careers.

Entrance requirements should be made uniform, with necessary options, and with Latin not required for all candidates.

Professors' salaries should be increased, and this increase should be accompanied by increased efficiency in the arrangement and division of work and by improved methods of teaching. No tradition or rule should limit the number of teaching hours of members of the faculty.

There should be established summer sessions in the graduate schools and possibly summer sessions also for mature undergraduates of limited means to enable them to shorten the years of preparation for their life work.

The report is the work of an alumni committee of fourteen members, of which George G. Mason, Sheffield '88, of New York, was chairman.

OBITUARY

Franklin P. Nichols '08

Franklin P. Nichols, who was a special student in the College of Agriculture in 1904-05 and 1906-07, died at his home in Dayton, Ohio, on January 3, after a long illness of pleurisy. He was thought to be recovering, when he took a sudden change for the worse, and death resulted.

Nichols was born on February 11, 1883, and entered Cornell in 1904. He was a member of Gargoyles, and was art editor of the 1908 Cornellian.

After leaving college in 1907, he went to work as assistant with Schenck and Williams, architects, of Dayton, and later became an assistant with William Russ, architect, also of Dayton. For the past four years he had been city building inspector for the City of Dayton, but because of ill health, was forced to resign this position last August. He was one of a committee of five men who compiled the new building code for Dayton, which was published in the spring of 1917.

Nichols is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Nichols, two brothers, and one sister, all of Dayton. One of the brothers is Melvin Nichols '18, B. Chem.

Gilbert S. Rhodes '16

Gilbert Saxton Rhodes died in a hospital in New York on February 19, following an operation for mastoiditis.

Rhodes was born on September 22, 1890, and was a son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Rhodes, of Ithaca. He prepared at the Ithaca High School, and entered Cornell in 1910, taking a special course in agriculture, and received the degree of B. S. in 1916. He was a member of the Forestry Club.

In the fall of 1916 he went to work for the Western Electric Company, in Philadelphia. Later he became interested in the railroad business, and went to Rome, N. Y., as assistant treatment inspector of the Rome division of the New York Central Railroad. In February, 1918, he was sent to Camp Upton, but was taken ill and was discharged after a short time.

At the time of his death he was assistant superintendent of the Rome, N. Y., division of the New York Central Railroad.

He leaves his parents and four brothers, of Ithaca, and one sister, the wife of Henry C. Frey '04, of Jamaica, L. I. One of the brothers William G., is a freshman in Sibley College.

ATHLETICS

Cornell Hurdler Stars

Walker Smith, Cornell's leading hurdler, equaled the indoor A. A. U. championship record in the 70-yard high hurdles race at the national senior A. A. U. indoor championship meet in New York City last Saturday night, at the same time defeating Carl Erdman of Princeton, intercollegiate champion in both high and low hurdles.

Smith was the only Cornellian entered in the A. A. U. meet. He paid his own expenses to the games. The modest budget of the track team this year did not permit of the University entering a team.

Smith scored a clean-cut victory over the Princeton crack, getting a splendid start and finishing ahead of Erdman by several feet. It is worth recalling that the Princeton athlete defeated Smith in the high and low hurdles at the intercollegiate meet at Franklin Field last spring. The Cornell hurdler this winter has been showing fine form and it is reasonable to expect that on the track this spring he will excel his fine performances of last year.

Penn Wins at Basketball

The basketball team was decisively defeated by Pennsylvania in the new Drill Hall last Friday night by the score of 25 to 11. Penn completely outplayed Cornell in the last half of the contest and clearly established its superiority. The first half was a very even battle, both teams guarding very closely. Cornell led 6 to 5 when the whistle blew. In the second half, however, Pennsylvania opened up a fast and smooth attack in which highly developed team play, passing of the most skilful character, and accurate basket shooting combined to break down the Cornell defense and almost to demoralize the Cornell team. The home five went to pieces before the onslaught and Penn ran up twenty points to five for the Cornellians. The Penn team in this half demonstrated that it was one of the best working combinations in the recent history of the intercollegiate league. It was superior in team play and passing to Cornell, particularly in the second half. The home five also suffered from inaccurate goal shooting, losing many golden opportunities to score by poor throwing!

At the beginning of the game Penn forced the play into Cornell's territory and Sweeney scored the first point of the game on a foul throw. McNichol followed this up with a field basket and then Ortner tallied for Cornell on a foul. Ortner scored Cornell's first field goal by poking the ball through the net on a recovery. Davis scored a basket for Penn and then Ortner tossed two more foul goals before the half ended.

Penn opened the second half with a rush, running the score up to 15 to 6 before Cornell got under way. Peck, McNichol, and Sweeney did the business. Then Stewart dropped one in the net, but Cornell's passing game grew ragged and her defense began to wilt. McNichol, Sweeney, and Stannard starred for the Penn team in this half and they had little difficulty in breaking through the Cornell defense. Within five minutes of the end of the half Ortner halted the Penn onslaught for a moment by intercepting a pass and throwing a pretty basket from the center of the floor, but this rally was short-lived and Penn soon had the upper hand again. McNichol with four goals from the field was the high scorer of the game. The summary:

PENNSYLVANIA—25.

Collyer on Rowing Needs

If Cornell is to provide adequate accommodations and training for all undergraduates interested in rowing, varsity, freshman, or intercollegiate, the plant and equipment must be enlarged and another man employed to assist in coaching. This is the view of John Collyer, associate rowing coach, who made a forty-eight-hour trip to Ithaca over the week-end to look over the oarsmen and to watch their work in the first outdoor practice of the season on the Inlet Monday afternoon.

Collyer believes firmly in the policy of encouraging greater participation in athletics by undergraduates, but he holds that the rowing plant is not adequate to meet current needs. Upwards of three hundred men have come out for rowing, Collyer points out, and most of them have sought to get a chance to practice in the last hour of the day, between five and six o'clock. With only four sets of machines available it has of course been impossible for the coaches to take care of them. If rowing is to be developed more machines are essential.

The conditions at the boathouse are similar. Not more than five crews can be accommodated, and at this time of the year no more than three combinations can be boated, because only the 1902, 1906, and 1908 gigs are available. It is not safe to send out shells in the early part of the season.

Collyer says that the varsity coaches are very willing to undertake the training of all oarsmen, but the organization will have to be increased by at least one more man to help Mr. Courtney and John Hoyle.

Compared to other universities, the rowing plant, equipment, and accommodations here are modest, he says. In Collyer's judgment an erroneous impression has gone out that rowing at Cornell is very expensive. Compared to results obtained or the budgets of other universities, Collyer says that the costs of the Cornell rowing, coaching salaries, etc., are very moderate indeed.

M. E. Wins Race

M. E. won the annual intercollegiate cross country race last Saturday. The winners scored 53 points to 115 for Agriculture and 221 for Chemistry; C. E. was fourth, Arts fifth, Architecture sixth, and Law seventh. Of the eighty men who entered the race sixty-seven finished.

J. K. Wardwell '22 was the individual winner of the race, finishing about forty yards ahead of the second man. S. M. Abrahams '20, of the College of Agriculture, was second.

C. H. King, Arts '22 came in third, W. C. Wilkes '22 Arts was fourth, and D. F. Hoy, jr., M. E. '22, son of Registrar Hoy, was fifth. The winner's time was 20:42.

Wardwell will be awarded the insignia of the Cornell Cross Country Club, for finishing in first place, while the first seven men to finish will receive medals.

ALUMNI NOTES

'90 ME—The M. A. C. Record of the Michigan Agricultural College for February 21, contains the following: "Major Paul M. Chamberlain ['88] of the Ordnance Department, who has been stationed as Army inspector of ordnance at Toledo since December, 1917, has just been transferred to Cleveland to act as special assistant to the District Claims Board. His address is Inspection Division, Cleveland District Office, Cleveland Ohio. 'Among the many contracts,' he writes, 'the most notable was the beginning and completing of thirteen hundred 75-mm. gun carriages, French model.'"

'94 ME—Percy A. Robbins is a consulting engineer, with offices at 1001 Hobart Building, San Francisco, Calif.

'94 LLB—Daniel W. Barmon re-enlisted in the New York Guard in May, 1918, and was commissioned a major in the Ordnance Department, being assigned to the staff of Brigadier General Louis L. Babcock, commanding the 4th Brigade. His address is 762 Auburn Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

'94 CE—John W. Towle, who had been serving in the Carolina Shipyard at Wilmington, N. C., as resident representative of the Emergency Fleet Corporation since its establishment there, resigned his position on February 15. In accepting Mr. Towle's resignation, the general manager of the Emergency Fleet Corporation said that the Carolina yard was the only shipyard in the country that did not exceed its estimated cost. Before going to Wilmington, Mr. Towle was plant engineer at Hog Island, in charge of construction work, and it was he who revealed the Hog Island inefficiency to the Government and the public. After his service there he was assigned to headquarters for a time, and was then sent to Wilmington. He is president of the Omaha Structural Steel Works, and his office address is 348 Bee Building, Omaha, Nebr.

'96—Frederick A. Bassette is president of The F. A. Bassette Company, printers, of Springfield, Mass. His office is in the Germona Building, Hillman Street.

'98 AB—Percy W. Simpson, of the American Red Cross, is on duty at the Base Hospital, Camp Meade, Md.

'99 BS—Mrs. Helen Gibbons Drake wife of Allen Norton Drake, died at her home in Buffalo, N. Y., on March

6. She leaves her husband, a three-days-old son, three sisters, two brothers, and her mother, Mrs. Ann T. Gibbons, of Ithaca.

'05 CE; '06 ME—Vincent R. Stirling has returned from Siam and may now be addressed in care of Mr. H. P. Short, Oroville, Calif. Leon C. Welch has been relieved of his duties as chief engineer of the Midwest Refining Company, Casper, Wyoming, to assume the management of the Paraffine Oil Department, this being a new departure for the company. His address is in care of the Midwest Refining Company, First National Bank Building, Denver, Colo. (Owing to a typographical error, these two notes were confused in our issue of February 27.)

'07 ME—Edmund H. Eitel, U. S. N. R. F., who has been an engineer officer in Naval aviation at Chatham, Cape Cod, Mass., has been transferred to Great Lakes, Ill., where he is chief technical editor on a series of about thirty text books for the "Annapolis of the Air," as the new training school is called. The texts will cover the work of the school, which is for officers and for enlisted men, and includes the theory of airplane engineering (both engines and planes) and of dirigibles, also coppersmithing and blacksmithing, and other lines of work of value in the Naval Air Service and allied branches, as well as submarine and sub-chaser engineering. Eitel's rank is ensign, and he may be addressed in care of W. D. Messinger, Highland Park, Ill.

'07 ME—Roy L. Stone is with the Harwood Electric Company, Hazleton, Pa.

'07 LLB—Lieut. William Winthrop Taylor has just returned from France, having spent eight months with the Air Service, and has secured his discharge from the Army. He has resumed the practice of law with Taylor, Kelley, Becker and Roberts, of which firm he is senior member, and his office address is 30 Pine Street, New York. He lives at 891 Ocean Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

'09 ME—Ellwood Diment is assistant manager of the Minetto, N. Y., plant of the Columbia Mills, Inc.

'09 AB—Captain Fritz Fernow has been discharged from the service, and has returned to his home in Buffalo, N. Y. He lives at 1141 Delaware Avenue.

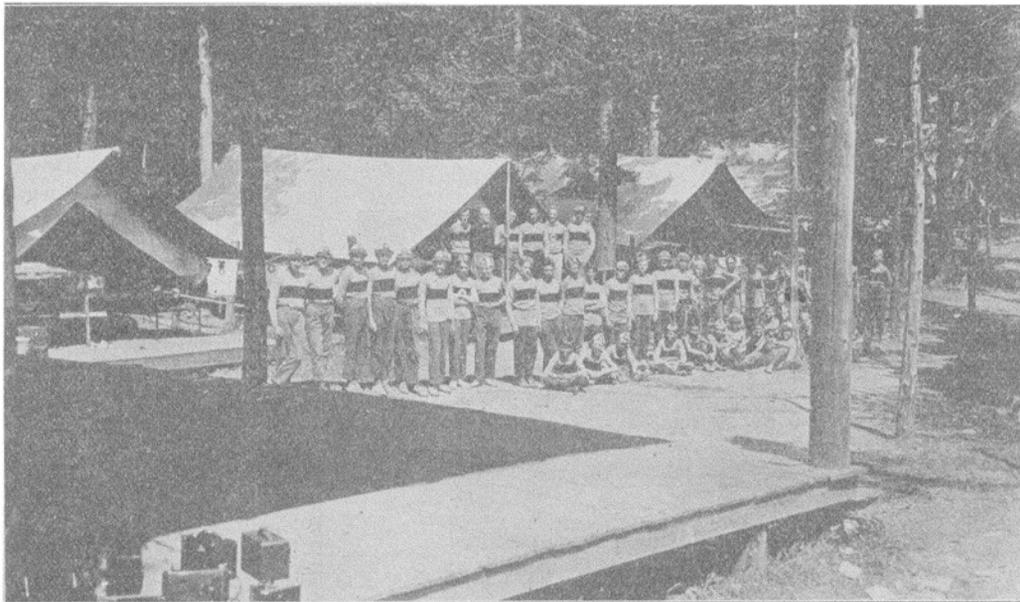

'09 CE—Robert W. Clark is with Fred T. Ley and Company, Inc., Mobile, Ala. He is general superintendent in charge of the construction of 7500-ton reinforced concrete tankers for the U. S. Shipping Board, Emergency Fleet Corporation.

'09 CE—Robert B. Stanton, jr., is with the Worthington Company, 115 Broadway, New York.

'09 CE—Joseph Gallagher is assistant engineer with the Mobile Shipbuilding Company, Mobile, Ala. On January 5, he was transferred by this company to the Terry Shipbuilding Corporation, Savannah, which is under the same management, his work there lasting about a month. He has now returned to Mobile, and may be addressed at 309 Government Street.

'11 BSA—Lieut. Waldemar H. Fries resigned his commission on January 4, and is now with the Pyramid Silks Corporation, 150 Madison Avenue, New
