Vol. XXII, No. 12

Ithaca, N. Y., December 11, 1919

Price 12 Cents

THE Cornell Musical Clubs, making their holiday trip in the interest of the Endowment Fund, will hold their first concert in Buffalo on Friday, December 26. The following day they will perform in Akron, and beginning Monday the 29th will appear on successive evenings in Cleveland, Saint Louis, Chicago, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, and New York City. The suggestion that the proceeds of the trip be given to the Endowment Fund came originally from E. E. Sheridan '11, president of the Chicago alumni club, formerly manager of the Musical Clubs. The suggestion was favorably received by the student body. The trip is really a testimonial to the interest of the undergraduates in the welfare of the University, and the clubs will endeavor to do their share toward putting the drive across.

ABOUT A HUNDRED MEMBERS of the University Faculty, in common with many interested persons throughout the country, have forwarded to Washington a letter suggesting prompt ratification of the Treaty of Peace. The Cornell petition, addressed to Senators Calder and Wadsworth, reads as follows: "We, the undersigned professors in Cornell University, respectfully report to you our belief that the Senate should speedily ratify the Treaty of Peace without amendments, and with only such reservations as are clearly necessary for the safeguarding of American interests, and do not require acceptance by the other associated powers as a condition of our ratification."

THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF MECHANICAL ENGINEERS held its fortieth annual meeting in New York City from Tuesday until Friday of last week. The Cornell Faculty was represented by Professor Dexter S. Kimball and the student society by William E. Richmond '20, of Colorado Springs, Colo.

A WALKING RACE for the championship of the University, formerly an annual contest but in abeyance for some years, was again held on Saturday, December 6. Starting from the Old Armory, following country roads east of the campus, and returning by way of Sibley College, the pedestrians traveled about five miles. The race was won by Simon M. Abrahams, a senior in Agriculture, whose time was 52 minutes.

More than a hundred men started; forty-six finished.

THE WEEK'S LECTURES include "Jews in the Civil Service" by Professor Bristow Adams before the Cornell Menorah Society; "Helium" by Dr. R. B. Moore, chief chemist of the Bureau of Mines, before the Cornell Section of the American Chemical Society; "Engineering Problems Encountered in Europe" by Col. William G. Atwood '92, late of the 17th Army Engineers, technical adviser for the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes; and "Life in the Invaded Countries" by M. M. F. Dubreucq before Le Cercle Français.

THE UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA has elected its principal officers for the ensuing year. The president is Raymond N. Merrill '20, of Springfield, Mass.; and the concert manager, Henry J. Benisch '20, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

PROFESSORS MASON AND PUMPELLY of the department of Romance Languages were speakers at the meeting of the Finger Lakes Division of the State Modern Language Association held in Elmira last Saturday. Professor Mason's topic was "The Pedagogical Value of Phonetics in High School French"; Professor Pumpelly's, "The Situation in Eastern Europe."

PROFESSOR MARTIN W. SAMPSON last Monday began the winter series of readings from English literature for students in the colleges of engineering. The readings are given twice each week until the Easter recess; they are open to all engineering students; and those who register for the course may by regular attendance earn one hour of credit toward graduation. The course has proved so successful in former years that it may now be regarded almost as a part of the curriculum.

MISS FRANCES A. KELLOR '97, in response to an invitation from President Schurman, last week addressed a Faculty conference on "Americanization," particularly the relation of the University to the problems now pressing. A principal suggestion was the establishment of a professorship of commerce and industry, in order that American ideals may be fostered and carried out through good business rather than by culture. The proposal, whatever may come of it, follows from Miss Kellor's wide experience in conducting, for both Federal and State governments, investigations in immigration, employment, and education; that is, from full knowledge of the issues and of ways and means in meeting them. She is now executive secretary of the Inter-Racial Council.

THE CORNELL DRAMATIC CLUB opened its season on Thursday, December 4, by presenting three one-act plays: "The Playgoers" by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, "Riders to the Sea" by John M. Synge, and "The Turtle Dove" by Margaret Scott Oliver. These were selected from the plays most successfully given by the club, though not by the same cast, in former years. All three were repeated on Saturday evening. Both performances were well attended.

DEAN SMITH of Sibley College announces a winter series of piano recitals by Professor Vladimir Karapetoff, to be given in Sibley Dome every Monday from 1.15 until 2 o'clock. Though intended especially for technical students, these recitals are open to all; they may afford an opportunity to hear good music during the comparatively idle time between luncheon and the resumption of work in shop and laboratory.

MR. H. A. GROESBECK, deputy field commissioner, spent the greater part of last week in Ithaca working in behalf of the Boy Scouts. Besides more general addresses at the High School, in some of the churches and Sunday schools, and before the Rotary Club and the Campus Club, he talked to students in Barnes Hall and spoke at several fraternity houses. His specific aim is the arousing of interest in boys' work and the securing of scout masters, service for which students are in his opinion well qualified and in which they should prove enthusiastic and successful.

REGISTRAR DAVID F. HOY '91 has been reelected captain for another year of the Protective Police, otherwise Company Number Eight of the Ithaca Fire Department. Edwin Gillette '73 is first lieutenant.

THE SAGE CHAPEL PREACHER for Sunday, December 14, is the Rev. Charles W. Gilkey, of the Hyde Park Baptist Church, Chicago, Illinois.

The Endowment Campaign The Week at Headquarters in Ithaca and Throughout the Country.

J. DuPratt White '90, chairman of the Semi-Centennial Endowment Committee, is sending out a letter this week to the local chairmen throughout the country, announcing that the campaign will be continued until the goal is reached. Although it was originally planned to make this drive intensive in its nature, experience has proved both at Cornell and at every other university and college in America where financial campaigns have been organized, that it is impossible to raise large sums of money for educational institutions in a very short time.

Letters from the local chairmen in nearly every large Cornell center in America have said, "We have not nearly finished our canvas, nor have we exhausted our prospect list. It takes time to get organized and to get alumni and other friends of the University thinking in terms of large gifts." Accordingly, a revised plan of organization is being prepared and the campaign will be continued until the goal is reached.

The committee in Duluth under the Chairmanship of A. T. Banning, jr., has already reported a total of $70,000 and the committee has not yet finished its work. As there are only 20 Cornell men in Duluth, this makes an average of $3,500 for every Cornellian in Duluth. "Joe" Harris writes from Cleveland that they are going to raise an average of $1,000 for every Cornellian in Cleveland. Cincinnati has raised nearly an average of $1,000 for every Cornell man in Cincinnati. New York has adopted a goal of $4,000,000, which is an average of $1,000 for every Cornell man in the metropolitan district. Chicago's goal of $2,000,000 is an average of over $2,000 for every Cornellian in the Chicago district.

One local chairman has reported over half a million dollars and two others have reported almost a quarter of a million each. Several others have reported subscriptions totaling between fifty and one hundred thousand dollars for their districts.

The latest report from the New York headquarters includes one gift of $125,000 from a non-Cornellian, and several subscriptions have just been received from Cornell professors in the faculty at the University of Wisconsin.

Cornell luncheons, dinners, and other meetings in the interests of the campaign have been held daily in various parts of the country. Professor Durham has been in Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Eau Claire, Wis., and Boston during the last week. He will be in New York City, Newark, N. J., and Philadelphia the latter part of the present week.

Major H. E. Bullis '09 has been in Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Akron, Toledo, Detroit, Indianapolis, and Louisville, Ky., during the last week and will visit additional cities in the Middle West during the balance of the week.

Charles R. Marsh '07 has visited Utica, Amsterdam, Schenectady, Albany, Troy, and Glens Falls, N. Y., and will visit the principal cities of New England this week.

Andrew J. Whinery '10 is still in Cuba, where he is endeavoring to interest the Cuban Cornellians in the establishment of a "Republic of Cuba Professorship" at Cornell.

Hon. Daniel A. Reed '98 will address a Cornell luncheon in Baltimore on December 15.

Miss Evelyn M. Alspach '16, secretary of the Committee, addressed a meeting of the Philadelphia committee on Saturday afternoon, December 6.

Mr. George A. Fonken has made special visits in the interests of the drive to Newark, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Wilmington, and Washington.

Professor Kimball will take a trip to the far West in the interests of the campaign and the new combined engineering college, in January, and will visit St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth, Spokane, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Denver, and Salt Lake City.

J. C. Gardiner '17, head of the Speakers' Bureau, has just returned from a trip to Elmira, Binghamton, and Wilkes-Barre.

The Ithaca Committee, under the chairmanship of Mynderse Van Cleef '74, has its work well under way and he has already reported several substantial contributions. The goal of the Ithaca Committee is the endowment of a full professorship, $125,000.

The Committee desires to emphasize especially that gifts may be made in five instalments payable over a period of five years. Many contributors are able to subscribe for larger amounts with these terms than they could if it were necessary to pay the entire amount this year.

PITTSBURGH AIDS ENDOWMENT

Cornell alumni in Pittsburgh have just assured the Musical Clubs that all expenses in that city will be guaranteed and paid by the Cornellians residing there. This is a direct outgrowth of the proposal made by the Musical Clubs that all the profits of the Christmas trip would be turned over to the Endowment Fund.

It is said that there is a possibility that other cities to be visited on the Christmas tour will follow the example of Pittsburgh, at least in some measure. The alumni of the Steel City were impressed with the fact that the students were willing to make a strenuous trip and give up their holidays for the benefit of the Endowment Fund; as a counter contribution the local committee voted to stand all the local expense of advance advertising, the hiring of the auditorium in which the concert is to be given, and the meals and lodging of the members of the clubs while in Pittsburgh. In other words, as far as the Pittsburgh engagement is concerned, the only cost to the clubs will be that of travel, and the proceeds will be both gross and net. In this way, what promised to be a merely sentimental contribution to the Endowment Fund, will become a substantial sum, especially if Pittsburgh's action is followed, even in part, by the other cities to be visited by the clubs, in none of which is the Cornell spirit any less active and enthusiastic.

Curtis M. Yohe is chairman of the Pittsburgh committee, and the other members are Paul S. Hardy, J. Harry Letsche, jr., J. Hanson Rose, and W. T. Todd, jr.

NEW CLUB IN MT. VERNON

A Cornell club has recently been organized in Mount Vernon with nineteen charter members. Officers were elected as follows: president, Dr. Walter H. McNeill, jr., '05; vice-president, H. W. Watt '07; secretary, A. H. White '12; and treasurer, P. A. Winchell '17. All Cornell men residing in Mount Vernon, the Pelhams, Bronxville, Tuckahoe, or Sherwood Park are requested, if interested, to send their names to the secretary together with names of other Cornell men in the vicinity. The secretary may be addressed at 115 Crary Avenue, Mount Vernon.

The next meeting will be held on December 11 and will be a social affair in order to promote acquaintance and good fellowship among the members. There are at present over eighty names listed of Cornell men living in Mount Vernon, and the charter members believe that in the vicinity are more than three hundred.

The other charter members are as follows: E. S. Boeghold '08, H. H. Bowman '15, L. B. Guster '07, C. H. Chase '08, H. Hillemeier '18, S. T. Hubbard '18, S. G. Kircher '18, A. P. McClintock '06, W. A. Miller '05, N. Perkins '12, H. A. Schuler '16, Dr. J. H. Tallman '02, W. J. Wedlake '17, B. Wiseltier '14, and H. E. Weatherlow '06.

NEW CLUB IN STEUBEN COUNTY

On December 1 an enthusiastic meeting of Steuben County Cornellians was held in the Episcopal Parish House in Bath. Twenty-two sat down to a substantial dinner, after which James McCall '85, acting as toastmaster, called upon the following for speeches: Professor C. S. Northup '93, who came from Ithaca to speak on the Endowment Fund, Clarence W. Stanton '72, of Cohocton, Hon. Henry V. Pratt '90, of Wayland, Hon. William H. Chamberlain '89, of Kanona, Fred D. Smith '92, Mrs. J. Carter Robie '80, and Hon. Thomas Shannon '88, of Bath. Others present were Theodore J. Capron '18 and George E. Peabody '18 of Wayland; Professor Lewis R. Hart '16, John J. Frey '21, and Fred Fawcett, of Hammondport; Mrs. John H. Bowlby '89, Miss Helen Bool '19, Miss Grace M. Gifford '18, Miss Amy E. Van Wagenen '18, Miss Hazel B. Scofield '19, Ernest E. Cole '95, Dr. Carter R. Kingsley '96, Henry M. Noble '91, and Professor Smith G. Beilby '14, of Bath. A permanent organization was effected with C. W. Stanton as temporary president and James McCall as temporary secretary.

SMOKER IN DETROIT

At the usual luncheon of the Cornell University Association of Michigan, held in Detroit on December 4, Major Edwin Denby talked on "The Marine Corps." Major Denby was formerly Congressman from Michigan, and was president of the Detroit Board of Commerce. Shortly after the war broke out he enlisted in the Marine Corps as a private, and was gradually promoted to the rank of major.

In addition to the weekly luncheons a smoker is being arranged for the evening of December 13 to be held at the University Club. These evening smokers are primarily for members of the association who cannot attend the weekly luncheons.

Tolstoy on Russia

A Dark Picture—Bolshevism Worse Than A Failure

Count Ilya Tolstoy addressed a large audience in Bailey Hall on December 5 on "The Truth About Russia." Believing as he does that all war is wrong, Count Tolstoy can see no good in the Russian revolution, which was the outcome of the Great War. Some individual Bolsheviki, he thinks, may have worthy ideals, but the methods of the movement are radically wrong, since it amounts to government by slaves, the most ignorant element of the community. The Bolshevik uprising he compares to the revolt of the slaves which brought about the downfall of the Roman Empire. Under the old régime slavery still existed in Russia—the slavery of the people to the Czar, of the poor to the rich. The Russian army was poorly supported by the government and this in part explains its 7,000,000 casualties. Transportation facilities were such that for a large part of the two and one-half years that Russia staid in the war the soldiers did not know from one day to another whether they were to be fed or not. They could get bread on one day and ammunition on another but not both on the same day. It became a question of how much they could endure. When the revolt came, it was natural that they should turn not only against the Czar but also against the capitalists and all of the intellectuals. The first revolutionary government, that of Lvoff, was presently undermined by the soviets. Kerensky was a sort of Billy Sunday—a great talker; there was reason to believe that he yielded up his power voluntarily to the Bolsheviki, since he remained in Petrograd for months without being disturbed by them.

The chief item in the program of the Bolsheviki is the nationalization of all industry and of all the land and its products. In consequence of the demand for high wages, for every million rubles' worth of goods about two million rubles is paid in wages. The only way to get the money is to print it. At present the chief difficulty in the making of money is the shortage of paper, in consequence of which the smallest denomination which the government allows to be printed is the 500-ruble bill. Bread is $50 a pound, meat $60 a pound, sugar $140, shoes are several hundred dollars a pair, and there is no fuel to be had. Thousands are starving and freezing. There is no safety from arrest. One is liable at any time, even in the middle of the night, to be taken out and shot as a bourgeois. Many of the leading Bolsheviki are thieves and robbers, some from the New York East Side; some soviets are wholly made up of such persons.

So much for the cities. In the country the situation is not much better. Eighty-five per cent of the people are peasants, whose only thought has been to gain possession of the land. This they now have; but no crops are sown, as when harvested they would be "nationalized," and therefore no one feels any incentive to do more than feed himself and his own family.

The Allies are not helping as they should be. Either the blockade should be raised or active assistance should be given to the anti-Bolshevik armies.

Count Tolstoy concluded his address with some discussion of the doctrines of his illustrious father and with an answer to the question what the elder Tolstoy would have had to say about the present situation. After long search Tolstoy found the true God to be the God of the humble peasants, and the will of God to be embodied in the teachings of Jesus—love, non-resistance by means of violence, cooperation, obedience to one's own conscience. The count believes his father would have strongly condemned Bolshevism, and would continue to advocate cooperation. He believes that there is no chance for Bolshevism in America, since too many laborers own Liberty Bonds, and have therefore a stake in the Government. Likewise he is hopeful of the restoration of Russia, for he knows the potential wealth of the land, and he believes in the peasant.

G. E. KENT CLUB SECRETARY

G. Ervin Kent '10, former graduate manager of athletics, has been elected secretary of the Cornell Club of Washington, D. C. The club is working on the District of Columbia professorship endowment.

LITERARY REVIEW

A Useful War History

The Literary Digest History of the World War. Compiled from Original and Contemporary Sources: American, British, French, German, and Others, by Francis Whiting Halsey '73. To be completed in ten volumes, illustrated. Volumes i-ix. New York. Funk & Wagnalls Company. 1919. 8vo.

As to the possibility of writing a good history of the World War at the present time, opinions will probably be divided. Some will say that it is not to be thought of; that we have not yet all the facts; that the censorship of the first years of the war was so strict that few really know all that happened in those early months, even the correspondents themselves working under a great handicap; that it will take a long time to get all the facts together, sift and weigh them, and come to a just conclusion; and to a large degree this is true. On the other hand it may be urged that already the facts about this war have come out as has been true of no other war in the world's history; that the correspondence service soon came to surpass anything ever known in previous wars; that we know enough about the struggle to form at least some intelligent if not final conclusions; and that a history compiled now will at least have what may be termed the virtue of contemporaneity, since it was written and compiled by men who have lived through the struggle and written while they were still swayed by the surging passions of the great contest; that already the historian is embarrassed by the wealth of valuable material at hand, and that his judgment on many matters is not likely to be greatly altered by future revelations or publications.

However this may be, it must be conceded that here is no shoddy piece of work, no attempt merely to make a book that will sell. Mr. Halsey has evidently spared no pains to compile an authentic and trustworthy chronicle. We gather from his introductory note that the plan was conceived early in the war and that the narrative was many times revised. The author makes little pretense to originality. The language, he tells us frankly, "is sometimes his; on occasions it may be entirely his, and usually it is his in some degree, but, in essence, it is more strictly that of others, as condensed, re-arranged, re-written, and, by a sort of melting-pot process, adapted to the processes of a comprehensive and co-ordinated narrative." He gives full and frank credit to the correspondents who worked in the field and at or near the front, and some of whom, "working under great difficulties, in the midst of the events they described, produced, not alone journalistic 'stories' but literature." He has consulted the London Times History of the War, Nelson's History by John Buchan, the Fortnightly History by Colonel Murray, the New York Times collections in Current History, and numerous books and magazines.

In his effort to produce a homogeneous and readable narrative, Mr. Halsey has succeeded to a high degree. We have read a considerable part of the first volume and have tested the work at many other points. The compiler has shown great ability in the assembling and organization of materials, and the proportions of his discussion seem to be good. The first six volumes give in detail the causes of the war and the operations on the western front; the seventh volume is devoted to the operations in Russia; the eighth, to Turkey and the Balkans; the ninth, to the Italian operations, the German colonies, and the submarine warfare. A tenth volume will contain four chapters on naval battles and commerce raiding, fifty sketches of military, naval, and political leaders, a chronology of forty pages, an index of the whole work, and seven chapters devoted to the Peace Conference and the Treaty of Peace. This volume will be issued after final action on the treaty.

All phases of the great struggle are considered: not only the operations at the front but the preparations at home, the personnel of the Army and Navy and of the war work associations, the resources of the contending nations, the war finances, statistics of losses, the visits of Allied commissions to America, the Hun atrocities, and so on. There is a profusion of maps and illustrations. In volume eight, for example, there are 32 full-page illustrations, 71 illustrations in the text, and 15 maps. Some of the half-tone illustrations are very fine.

Misprints, we believe, are not numerous. Liège has the wrong accent throughout, and we have noted two others, Cyrenaica, i. 135, l. 23, and stept, i. 174 l. 10 f.b. Occasionally a plate has been injured. It is to be regretted that the author has usually refrained from giving dates in his references. They would have added much to the value of the work as a secondary source book.

The positive merits of the work, however, are considerable, and as a useful and convenient compendium of information about the war it will take high rank. It is a great pity that Mr. Halsey could not have lived to see the completion of a work which cost him so much hard work and which reflects great credit upon him.

Books and Magazine Articles

Claude W. Leister '17 writes in Bird-Lore for September-October on "The Spotted Sandpiper." There are three illustrations.

Professor J. Q. Adams's edition of "The Dramatic Records of Sir Henry Herbert" is reviewed at length in the London Times Literary Supplement for October 16.

In The Cornell Law Quarterly for November Professor George G. Bogert '06, lately lieutenant colonel and judge advocate, 78th Division, A. E. F., writes on "Courts-Martial Criticisms and Proposed Reforms," and Charles E. Kelley '04, of the New York Bar, discusses "Rights and Authors and Artists Outside the Copyright Law." Professor Charles K. Burdick contributes a review of Professor Harry K. Bigelow's "Cases on the Law of Property, volume ii, Introduction to the Law of Real Property and Cases on Rights in Land" (St. Paul, West Publishing Company).

Arthur H. Hahlo and Co., 569 Fifth Avenue, New York, announce for early publication a book of drawings by Captain J. André Smith '02, entitled "In France with the American Expeditionary Forces." The one hundred drawings have been selected for the most part from his drawings now in the National Museum, and form a part of the Government's official record of the war. They are accompanied by an introduction and notes by the artist. There will be a de-luxe edition of five hundred copies printed on art mat paper and bound in boards, the volume measuring nine by twelve inches. The frontispiece will consist of an etching on Japanese vellum, signed by the artist, and made especially and exclusively for this volume. The book will sell for $18 net.

The University of Virginia Alumni News for October reprints entire the leading editorial article in our issue of September 25.

OBITUARY

Francis W. Halsey '73

Francis Whiting Halsey died on November 24 at the Park Hospital, New York, after an illness of about a month. Overwork on his ten-volume history of the World War is said to have contributed to the illness which caused his death.

Mr. Halsey was born at Unadilla, Otsego County, N. Y., on October 15, 1851, the son of Dr. Ganis Leonard Halsey, a prominent physician, and Mrs. Juliet E. Carrington Halsey. He was a brother of Frederick Arthur Halsey '78. Entering Cornell with the second regular freshman class, he graduated in 1873 in the course in science.

After graduation Mr. Halsey edited the Binghamton, N. Y., Times for two years, then became a writer and reviewer for The New York Tribune, remaining here until 1880. He then became a member of the staff of The New York Times, where he remained for twenty-two years, acting as foreign editor, literary editor, and editor from 1896 to 1902 of the Times Saturday Review. Then for three years he was literary adviser for D. Appleton & Company. In 1905 he became connected with the Funk & Wagnalls Company in a similar capacity and continued this connection until his death.

Mr. Halsey was well known as a lecturer, having lectured before the New York and New Jersey Historical Societies, the students of Columbia and Princeton, on the Chautauqua platform, and before many other bodies.

He was the author of a number of books. "Two Months Abroad" appeared in 1878. In 1895 he wrote an extended introduction for a volume of family history, entitled "Thomas Halsey of Hertfordshire, England, and Southampton, Long Island." He later wrote "An Old New York Frontier; Its Indian Wars, Pioneers and Land Titles," 1901, being an account of the early history of the headwaters of the Susquehanna from Otsego Lake to the Pennsylvania line. Other works included "Our Literary Deluge," 1902, "The Pioneers of Unadilla Village," 1902, also a historical and biographical introduction to Mrs. Rowson's "Charlotte Temple," 1905, and a historical introduction and foot notes to Richard Smith's "Tour of Four Great Rivers," 1906. In 1900 he wrote a memoir of his wife, under the title of her maiden name, "Virginia Isabel Forbes." Mr. Halsey was married in 1883, his wife being a daughter of Alexander S. Forbes of New York; she died in January, 1899.

As editor, Mr. Halsey's work included "American Authors and Their Homes," 1901, "Authors of Our Day in Their Homes," 1902, "Women Authors of Our Day in Their Homes," "Of the Making of a Book," 1904, "Great Epochs in American History Described by Famous Writers," ten volumes, 1912, "Seeing Europe With Famous Authors," ten volumes, 1914, "Balfour, Viviani, and Joffre, Their Speeches in America," 1917. He was associated with William Jennings Bryan in editing "The World's Famous Orations," in ten volumes, in 1906, and in 1907 he was associated with Senator Henry Cabot Lodge in editing "The Best of the World's Classics," in ten volumes. In 1912 he wrote the introduction and bibliographies for Pryde's "What Books to Read and How to Read Them."

Mr. Halsey was a trustee of the New York State Historical Association and American Scenic Society and a member of the American Historical Association, the New York State Library Association, the Century, Authors, National Arts, and Cornell University Clubs, being president of the last named in 1882.

Mrs. George W. Jones

Mrs. George W. Jones, widow of the late Professor George W. Jones, of the Department of Mathematics, died at her home at 113 Stewart Avenue, Ithaca, on November 29 at the age of ninety years. She had lived in Ithaca for about forty years.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS has an enrolment at the main institution of 3,665 and a total enrolment, including the medical department and the School of Mines, of over 4,000.

THE UNIVERSITY OF VERMONT reports a registration of 848, of whom 587 are men and 261, women. In arts there are 458; in medicine, 102; in engineering, 155; in agriculture, 126; in the Graduate School, 2; and 5 are unclassified. There are 100 seniors, 116 juniors, 205 sophomores, and 318 freshmen. Last year there were only 658 students.

WISCONSIN has enrolled 6,872 students this semester. This is an increase of 37 per cent over the 5,020 enrolled in the fall of 1916, which was the maximum total attained until the present year. Of the total 4,497 are men and 2,375 are women, as compared with 3,330 men and 1,690 women in 1916. By classes, the totals are as follows: freshmen, 2,316; sophomores, 1,570; juniors, 1,353; seniors, 991; graduate students, 439; special students, 173.

MISSOURI professors to the number of more than twenty have organized a union and applied for a charter from the American Federation of Teachers, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

YALE has adopted the following scale of salaries, retroactive from July 1: instructors, $1,250-$2,000; assistant and associate professors, $2,500-$4,500; professors, part time, $3,000-$6,000, full time, $5,000-$8,000; deans, $6,000-$8,000. It is believed that this action places the average salary scale at Yale above that of any other university in America. The increase will require an addition to the annual budget of more than $300,000.

OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY teachers have organized a Teachers' League to secure an increase of salaries and an increased faculty influence in determining educational policies. Last year the average salary of the 125 professors there was $3,032 as compared with $3,105 at Indiana, $3,290 at Iowa, $3,412 at Michigan, $3,667 at Wisconsin, $3,701 at Minnesota, and $3,724 at Illinois. The average for associate professors was $2,237; for assistant professors, $1,991; for instructors, $1,453. The university's request for salary allowances, totaling $1,094,000, was cut by the Legislature to a million, and all efforts to have the cut restored have thus far failed.

AN EFFICIENT FACULTY

An alumnus said recently, in connection with the Endowment Fund Campaign, "It was Professor Blank who got hold of me and gave me my start in a serious direction; but whom have they now at Ithaca that is in the class with him? Who is there to get hold of my boy?"

We shall not here undertake to argue that the present Faculty is either better or worse than the one of twenty years ago; there is no man living who is competent to judge. We will only say that if it is better than or as good as the one of 1899, it has been only by a miracle that this has come about while if it is not so good as formerly, the fact simply helps to demonstrate the pressing need of immediate financial help in order that the Faculty may not become worse and may be made better. Those who are familiar with the situation in New York and at Ithaca have agreed that ten millions is the "irreducible minimum" which Cornell must have if she is to compete on equal terms with the other great universities with which she has long been classed. If there are thirty thousand living alumni and former students, then they have got to put up $333.33 each on the average or get someone else to do this for them. There is no other way to do away with the tremendous handicap which the lack of funds entails. And when you think of the numbers of professional and other persons who cannot now give even one hundred dollars each, the duty of the wealthy alumni and friends of the University to assume their due share of the burden becomes evident. Some must give by tens and hundreds of thousands, and in fact can do so with greater ease than others can give by tens of dollars. But the larger donors will have their reward not only in the satisfaction of greater usefulness, but also in the privilege which will be theirs of attaching their names, if they so elect, to the chairs or other foundations which they shall endow. Hundreds of professorships and assistant professorships are yet to be named; why should some of them not bear perpetually the names of one-hundred-per-cent Cornellians?

ENDOWMENT PUBLICITY

The Cornell Daily Sun, in an editorial on December 9, complained that the Endowment Fund Campaign Committee is not giving out enough figures. It is quite true, as the Sun points out, that the Fund needs publicity and plenty of it; but do we need to have figures constantly reported to us? Figures of the sort reported in another column are always in order; but apparently no city or alumni association is yet in a position to report final results; and incomplete reports do more harm than good as they are constantly misleading.

Curiosity regarding the "total to date" is natural in student and alumnus alike. We have not received the confidence of the committee, but we feel sure of our ground when we say that to date, before most of the local committees have really started to solicit, we have heard of enough individual items to assure us, to our complete satisfaction, that the drive will be a success within a reasonable time.

Now that it has been decided to continue the campaign until the goal is reached, nobody need feel anxious lest the quota may not be attained by a certain time. The only figures to be kept in mind are these:

A minimum of ten millions.

AN APPRECIATED COURTESY

Under the title, "Cornell's Manful Resistance," The Pennsylvania Gazette for December 5 publishes the following editorial article:

"Although our football team won, 24-0, on Thanksgiving Day, Cornell deserves sincere congratulation for a plucky 'fight against' great odds. Pennsylvania presented a team of seasoned men, most of whom were playing their last year for the Red and Blue. Cornell had a green team, developed by a new coach. That this eleven should twice have held Pennsylvania for downs inside the 1-yard line was a most meritorious performance. It was an honor to have won from such an opponent. It was a game from which Cornell emerged with quite as much credit as Pennsylvania."

These are kind and gracious words from a manly opponent, and the ALUMNI NEWS desires to express Cornell's sincere appreciation of the courtesy of the Gazette.

DURHAM SPEAKS IN BOSTON

The Cornell Club of New England held a luncheon on Monday at which Professor Charles L. Durham, who is on leave of absence from the University during the Endowment Fund Campaign, was the principal speaker. His subject was "Campus Topics."

ROCHESTER MEETS SATURDAY

The annual meeting of the Cornell Club of Rochester will be held on Saturday, December 13, at the home of the Rochester Medical Association, 33 Chestnut Street. Professor Samuel P. Orth will speak, and a member of the committee will tell of the Endowment Campaign.

THE CHICAGO LUNCHEON

Judge John S. Goodwin, De Pauw '77, was the principal speaker at the regular luncheon of the Cornell Club of Chicago held last Thursday at the City Club. His subject was "Livestock and the Stock Show."

CLEVELAND'S "DOUBLE LUNCH"

The Cleveland club held a "Double Lunch" on December 4, with "double everything—laughs, songs, eats, and stories" to make up for the luncheon omitted on Thanksgiving Day. The price of admission alone was single. Dudley S. Blossom, Yale '01, Director of Public Welfare, City of Cleveland, spoke on his welfare work, and Major H. E. Bullis '09 spoke on the Endowment Fund. Eighty-five were present.

THE TROY CALENDARS

The art calendars which John P. Troy has been issuing for years had reached a point at the end of 1916, where from a mechanical point of view Mr. Troy would have had difficulty in improving them. From the artistic side and as pictures of the military life at Cornell the last two calendars had not fallen from the usual high plane, but war-time necessity compelled the publisher to make some concessions of a mechanical nature. This year the appearance of the calendar is fully equal to that of any previous effort.

Thirty-six new views of the Campus show the present appearance of Cornell University from almost every angle. The theme of the work is the illustrating of lines from Professor Sampson's "Ode to Cornell," from which plan the publisher deviates to include only three or four verses from other authors. An occasional view of purely human interest, such as the "bread line" at the cafeteria, and the selection of views which show considerable action, take the calendar out of the class of books of views and make it a record of a year of Cornell life.

REUNIONS AND CONVENTIONS

The Board of Directors of the Associate Alumni held its regular fall meeting, postponed from November 27, at the Cornell Club of New York on December 6.

Routine business of a very necessary sort was transacted. There had been no organization meeting in June owing to the preoccupation of the officers with the affairs of the Semi-Centennial. Action of an uneventful nature was obtained looking to getting the organization under way.

Among the more interesting business, the board determined to hold a convention in May, 1920, and will refer the question of holding general reunions at Ithaca, on the plan of the Semi-Centennial, to the convention committee as a subject which could best be decided on the floor of the convention.

A budget was adopted calling for expenditures totaling $1,200, and a per capita tax was levied on all Cornell clubs of twenty-five cents per member.

ATHLETICS

Football C Men to Meet

All former football men who are wearers of the C and whose addresses can be ascertained, will be invited to attend a meeting at the Cornell University Club of New York, 30 West 44th Street, on December 28 at 2 p. m. The invitations are being sent out by Clinton R. Wyckoff '96, representing the alumni, Francis T. Shiverick '20, representing the football team, and Romeyn Berry '04, representing the Athletic Council. It is expected that plans will be considered for the season of 1920. Football C men are asked to be present whether the formal invitation reaches them or not.

Crew Association Meets

Last Saturday the regular fall meeting of the Rowing Association was held in Ithaca. L. L. Tatum '97, of Milwaukee, and E. T. Foote '06, of Boston, were in Ithaca to confer with Mr. Courtney and to plan for the spring season.

Minor Sports

The basketball season opened this week, Hobart being the first opponent on Wednesday night and a game with Colgate being scheduled for Saturday. All basketball games this year are to be played in the Drill Hall and seats for two thousand persons will be provided when a section of five hundred new seats ordered by the Athletic Association is installed.

From a squad of over one hundred candidates Coach Howard Ortner has gradually selected the most likely players until some twenty-five men have been retained. The following team was scheduled to start in the Hobart game: left forward, Joaquim Molinet '21, captain; right forward, J. H. Porter '21; center, W. F. Rippe '22; left guard, E. H. Cornish '21; right guard, R. G. Bastian '21.

Captain Molinet, who played center last season, is the only man from last year's team now playing on the varsity, but I. Sidman '21, guard on last year's five, has been retained on the squad. Cornish was a substitute last year; Porter played in the "Ag" college team in the intercollegiate league; and Rippe was on the M. E. team. Bastian had some experience at another college before entering Cornell.

A freshmen basketball team is also being organized and for the first time a regular schedule has been arranged, most of the games to be played in Ithaca.

A campaign to finance minor sports through the sale of five-dollar season tickets has been launched. The sports included are basketball, both varsity and freshman, lacrosse, wrestling, tennis, golf, and the skating privilege on Beebe Lake.

The following schedule for the wrestling team has been announced by the Minor Sports Council:

January 31, Pennsylvania at Ithaca.

February 21, Penn State at State College.

February 28, Lehigh at Bethlehem.

March 6, Columbia at Ithaca.

March 13, Navy at Annapolis.

March 20, Princeton at Ithaca.

March 26 and 27, Intercollegiates at Philadelphia.

Undergraduates interested in hockey have formed a temporary organization and if there is enough interest in the sport a hockey team will be formed this year and a schedule arranged. J. F. Brady '21 has been chosen acting captain and R. T. Deming '23 acting manager. Candidates reported at Beebe Lake last Saturday for the first time. There was a big turn-out.

On All-Star Freshmen Team

Two members of the Cornell freshman team were selected for positions on a mythical All-Eastern freshman eleven chosen by Daniel, one of the sporting writers of The New York Sun. They are W. D. R. Carey, quarterback, and D. S. Munns, an end. Carey's punting last season ranked with the best varsity kicking in the East. Munns is a brother to James J. Munns '14, captain of the 1913 varsity.

WANT GOOD SKATING ON BEEBE

Last year skating and tobogganing on Beebe Lake were marred because the new heating plant of the College of Agriculture deposited dust and ashes on the ice. The students fear the same thing will happen again this year. The Sun devoted its leading editorial to the subject on December 3, a petition to the Trustees is being circulated, and meetings of protest are being discussed.

A fact:

At the Traymore, in the heart of things at Atlantic City, Fatima is the leading cigarette.
Certainly Fatima's moderate price has little to do with this leadership. The reason, of course, is that Fatima contains "just enough Turkish"—retaining that smooth Turkish flavor, yet lacking entirely the oily richness of the straight Turkish cigarette.

College Decorations

A college town is the only place to buy such things. The other people do not seem to get just what is wanted. A Cornell man will find the Co-op, where he used to trade, is all right for him now.

"Shield" Candy—Made by Whitman

The change in times has made it necessary for the price of the "Shield" candy to be one dollar and fifty cents per pound in order to maintain the quality which you desire.
