BARNES HALL, since 1889 the home of the Cornell University Christian Association, took on new importance as a center of student life on Saturday, after the St. Bonaventure game, when it opened up its new Coffee House on the ground floor. The building has been thoroughly remodeled during the summer, the small basement dormitory rooms being ripped out and the whole basement thrown into three large rooms, for coffee room, pool room, and reception hall, respectively. There are also several small rooms for private dining rooms and meeting rooms. An airy kitchen is provided, not only for the preparation of coffee, but as well for serving light lunches, and, by arrangement, special meals. The renovated basement has concrete floors, attractive walls, comfortable furniture and, what was peculiarly important, is protected from seepage by a good new system of drainage of the grounds near the house. The Coffee House, which is for the men of the University only, is likely to prove the most valuable social acquisition Cornell has made in years. It is expected to adequately fill the void left by the enforced closing of the downtown resorts. When the plan is complete it will include a pool room with three tables, the use of which is free, the remuneration being through increased usefulness and perhaps additional sales of refreshments. Another projected feature is a tobacco shop, permission for the installation of which is expected soon from the University authorities, and without which considerable of the effectiveness of the project will be lost. The Coffee House is in general charge of Miss May Peabody, of the C. U. C. A. organization, who is assisted by Miss Mary Castle. It is open from 10.30 a. m. to 11 p. m. on week days and from 5.30 to 7.30 p. m. on Sundays. Comprehensive plans for social and intellectual entertainment are in course of preparation, including the regular Current Events Forum. The new facilities should offer opportunity for better understanding between Faculty and students as well as among the students themselves.

THE CASES of fraud reported in our July number as under trial by the Committee on Student Affairs have been almost entirely disposed of. Only eight students remain to be examined. These frauds resulted from the theft of a question paper in mathematics in June, the information thus secured by a few students being passed on to others about to take the examination. More than a hundred were implicated. Sixty-six in Sibley College, twenty-four in Arts and Sciences, eleven in Civil Engineering, four in Agriculture, and one in Architecture have been found guilty. The penalties imposed on the guilty ones varied according to the measure of their offense: one man was dismissed permanently, three for a year; one was paroled for a year without cancelation of credit; the degree of one was withheld until after September; one hundred and one had their credit canceled in the course and were dismissed for a year, but the sentence of dismissal was suspended during good behavior. Nine students were exonerated. Never before has the committee had to deal with fraud on so large a scale. Never before, apparently, has the moral tone of the students been so low.

THE DEPARTMENT of Military Science and Tactics reports that 722 freshmen and 429 sophomores have registered for infantry drill; and that 305 freshmen and 215 sophomores have registered in the four batteries of artillery. In addition about eighty men have joined the Signal Corps and about thirty have elected the advanced course in artillery.

CHI PHI has joined the New Rushing Association. This fraternity observed the association's rules through the summer and has not rushed freshmen since the University opened; it has accordingly been admitted on equal terms with the other fraternities and will henceforth be governed by the compact among all in the association.

WALTER G. KRUM has returned to the position which he formerly held in the Poultry Department in the College of Agriculture. During the past year he has been in charge of the Westwood Farms at Mount Kisko, N. Y.

THE DEPARTMENT of Home Economics has lately opened a costume shop as a laboratory for students who intend to teach clothing and textiles in vocational schools. Such students will thus have the same opportunities for shop work and practice as are provided by the cafeteria for students in dietetics and institutional management. Serving the purpose of a laboratory, the shop will be furnished and conducted in conformity with trade demands and practices; but it will not be in any sense a commercial enterprise. The work in clothing is under the direction of Miss Beulah Blackmore, assisted by Mrs. Carolyn McLroy and Miss Frances Brookins, both experienced shopkeepers.

JACK MOAKLEY was the guest of honor at a complimentary luncheon at the Ithaca Hotel on October 6. More than two hundred persons, representing both city and University, there showed the famous track coach precisely where he stands in the esteem and good will of his fellow citizens. Mayor Stewart and Acting President Smith paid tribute in brief, effective speeches to the skill and success of Mr. Moakley, who modestly replied with an interesting speech of narrative and comment on the games abroad. President Smith presented to Mr. Moakley a purse of $575, with this letter of explanation: "Your fellow citizens of the city and University present you with this purse in token of their sincere appreciation of your athletic achievements and your character and personality, and, most of all, your influence for good on the hundreds of young men who come to you for training."

ANNOUNCEMENT IS MADE of a schedule of debates during the ensuing year. This tentative arrangement, subject to the approval of the Committee on Student Affairs, provides for two contests with Dartmouth, one at Hanover and one at Ithaca; for one with Amherst at Ithaca; and for one with Colgate at Hamilton; for the annual debate between the freshmen and the sophomores; and for the annual triangular debates with Pennsylvania and Columbia. Since these meetings are without admission fees, solicitors asked a small contribution, popularly called the debate tax, of each student as he registered. The response is said to have been gratifying.

THE FACULTY OF LAW announces the award of the Boardman Senior Law Scholarship for 1920-21 to John Wallace Reavis of Washington; D. C. This scholarship is of the value of one hundred dollars and is awarded annually to the student commencing senior year who has, in the judgement of the Faculty, done the best and most satisfactory work in law subjects to the end of his junior year. Reavis is a brother of Frank Charles Reavis, jr., '18.

THE SAGE CHAPEL preacher for October 17 will be the Rev. Dr. Charles Reynolds Brown, Dean of the School of Religion of Yale University.

The Heckscher Gift

To Be Used Not for Professorships but for Research and Publication

The Committee on General Administration of the Board of Trustees, on October 2, adopted a plan for the administration of the income from the Heckscher Foundation for the Promotion of Research in Cornell. August Heckscher gave Cornell University $500,000 last summer as an endowment to promote research. The plan of administration is described in the following resolutions which the committee adopted:

"That the income shall be used only for the promotion of research, including the publication of the results thereof.

"That for the present the income shall not be used for permanent research professorships.

"That the income shall not be used to increase the emoluments of any member of the teaching staff.

"That the income shall not be used intentionally to promote investigation leading to patent rights or to the pecuniary benefit of the investigators through patent rights, or in any similar manner.

"That for the administration of the foundation there be established a council to be known as the Heckscher Research Council. This council shall consist of the President of the University, ex officio, as Chairman; two Trustees to be elected by the Board of Trustees whose respective terms as members of the council shall continue until the expiration of their then respective terms as Trustees; the Dean of the Graduate School, ex officio; four members of the University Faculty, two from each of the two groups known as the Group of Sciences and the Group of Letters; and two emeritus professors to be selected annually by the council.

"This council shall, subject to the approval of the Board of Trustees, have general supervision of research under the Heckscher Foundation, the expenditure of the income of the fund, and all other matters pertaining thereto. The council shall report its recommendations from time to time to the Board of Trustees and upon the approval of the same the expenditure of appropriations shall follow the usual practice of the University.

"The council shall call annually for requests for grants from individual investigators, or groups of investigators proposing to collaborate, but not from departments of the University as such, nor from colleges.

"The council shall have power to establish and from time to time modify the rules and regulations governing its meetings and the details of appropriations.

"Annual report of progress shall be made to the council by each investigator or group receiving a grant. An annual report to the Board of Trustees shall be made by the council and a copy thereof sent to the founder of the fund. A minimum of one hundred copies of all publications of the results of the investigations shall be delivered to the council for preservation in the University Library and distribution under the direction of the council. A bound copy of such publications shall from time to time be transmitted to the founder."

The Endowment Campaign

J. D. Barnum New York State Chairman. Meeting October 22 and 23

Following the announcement by the executive committee that the Semi-Centennial Endowment Campaign would be immediately reopened for the effort of attaining the final goal of $10,000,000 by January 1, 1921, local committees which have served the University in raising the first half of the desired total have again cleared their decks for action and will immediately begin pushing the campaign in their localities. Frequent conferences at headquarters in Morrill Hall are resulting in the outlining of the plans for the drive throughout the world.

Jerome D. Barnum, publisher of the Syracuse Post-Standard, has accepted the responsibility of being state chairman for New York. He will be assisted by Charles R. Marsh '07 as executive secretary. Mr. Barnum has offered the use of his offices for the campaign headquarters in Syracuse.

Representatives from every county in New York State will meet in Ithaca next week, on Friday and Saturday, October 22 and 23, to have outlined to them plans for the New York State campaign, which will have as its goal the raising of $2,000,000 outside of the metropolitan district. The State conference called at Ithaca has been set for the date of the Colgate football game, which is the most important game of the season in Ithaca. Two hundred seats have been reserved for the delegates, and from early indications, there is evidence of a full attendance by delegations from every county. Friday afternoon will be devoted to a general mass-meeting of representatives which will be addressed by the National chairman, the State chairman, the executive secretary, and speakers from the Faculty. A get-together dinner will be held on Friday evening, and on Saturday morning meetings will be held by local groups.

The activities in New York State is indicative of the state of mind of the Cornellians throughout the United States and its territories. Several class presidents have suggested the advisability of canvassing their classes to obtain subscriptions from the many Cornellians who live out of the reach of an active canvassing committee. It is the plan of the central committee to suit the campaigns in the various localities throughout the country to the local conditions. Wherever possible, University representatives will be sent to take the Endowment message to bodies of the alumni who are anxious to have a personal visit from some one at Ithaca. Whenever a request for a University speaker is received at Endowment headquarters, every effort will be made to furnish one for the occasion.

DESCRIPTION OF R. L. DENNY

Last week we told of the alleged operations of a man giving the name of R. L. Denny, wearing a "Cornell graduate pin," and cashing worthless checks drawn on the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company of New York. His operations are reported in Hudson, New York, and Cincinnati.

We are able to give the following description of Denny, furnished by one of his victims in the hope that he will be apprehended and put to more useful work:

"I appreciate your letter of October 2 regarding Mr. R. L. Denny, and I wish to inform you that he was dark complected, smooth shaven, about five feet nine and a half inches in height, and weighed about 145 pounds, with dark eyes and a somewhat slim face. He was intelligent and talked the American language fluently, giving one the impression that he was a college man."

The Senior Societies

Each Publishes Resolution Condemning Probation Prior to Fall Election

At the fall election on Tuesday of the two senior societies, Sphinx Head and Quill and Dagger, twelve out of fifteen seniors accepted the bids of the former and four out of seven of those of the latter.

As a preliminary to the elections the two societies passed resolutions regarding their requirements for membership in which they agreed to consider only those who are scholastic seniors. This is a condition resulting from the war, which leaves Cornell with a number of men who are socially of one class and scholastically of one or two classes lower.

The societies disagreed, in their resolutions, on the subject of probation. Sphinx Head declared that it would not deem a man ineligible because he was on probation. Quill and Dagger, following its precedent of last spring, stated that it would not consider as eligible to membership anyone who was on probation. Each society recorded, however, its disapproval of probation "as at present administered." The question was academic as far as the actual results are concerned since none of those elected, as far as can be learned, is on probation.

The list, with the principal activities of each man, follows:

CLEVELAND CLUB STARTS

During the last few years Cornellians generally have come to know Cleveland as one of the two or three liveliest spots on the Cornell map. Whether it be to bring such a large delegation from Cleveland to Ithaca at the time of the Semi-Centennial celebration in June, 1919, as to win the big cup for which all the clubs and associations competed, or whether it be to show so much interest in Cornell affairs as to stage a special Spring Day show last May, the Cornell Club of Cleveland seems constitutionally unable to let other Cornell clubs get ahead of them. The news is not surprising, therefore, that the Clevelanders have already held their annual meeting and election of officers, and cleared the decks for another big year.

The annual meeting and smoker was held at the University Club in Cleveland on Saturday, October 2. W. H. Forbes '06, as the retiring president, reviewed the work of the past year, and R. L. Rathbone '98 read his report as treasurer, showing that 191 members had paid dues during the year, and that there was a balance of $291 in the treasury. Inasmuch as this number was about fifty more than had ever paid dues before, Mr. Rathbone ran alone when it came to considering who should be treasurer for next year.

The matter of luncheon meetings was freely discussed, and all who spoke were unanimously in favor of continuing the weekly luncheon. H. N. Putnam '12 and K. B. Britton '06 were appointed a committee to investigate as to a suitable place for holding the luncheon meetings.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, H. B. Bole '11; vice-president, J. C. Barker '12; treasurer, R. L. Rathbone '98; secretary, Dr. I. J. Kerr '91; assistant secretary, E. S. Baker '15. W. H. Forbes '06 and H. N. Putnam '12 were elected directors to fill the places of William Beahan '78 and J. P. Harris '01, whose terms had expired. The other four directors of the club are: J. C. Sanderson '04, L.

CIVIL ENGINEERS MEET OCT. 19

The annual meeting of the Cornell Society of Civil Engineers will be held at the Cornell Club of New York, 30 West 44th Street, New York, on Tuesday, October 19, 1920, at 8 p. m.

Dean Dexter S. Kimball of the College of Engineering will address the meeting and a lecture will be given by Clifford M. Holland, Chief Engineer of the New York State Bridge & Tunnel Commission.

The annual election of officers will take place. There will also be considered the amendments to the constitution which would make Sibley men eligible for membership in the society, and by which the name of the society would be changed so as to cover the scope of the new membership.

For those Cornell men who wish to dine with other Cornell men before the meeting, arrangements can be made for dinner at the Cornell Club if the committee chairman is notified in advance. The chairman is C. M. Chuckrow, care Fred T. Ley & Co., Inc., 19 West 44th Street, New York.

There will be no charge in connection with the meeting, and all Cornell engineers are cordially invited to attend.

A FRENCHMAN ON FOSS

In L' Illustration for September 18, L. de Fleurac fills an entire page with an illustrated article on the vaulting of Frank K. Foss '17 at Antwerp. There are several drawings from photographs of the successive stages of Foss's performance, together with an explanation of which the following is a translation:

"Among the performances accomplished at the Olympic games at Antwerp there is one which has particularly drawn the attention of the public.

"The American, Foss, vaulted over a bar 4.09 meters high.

"To a layman who measures with his eye the distance which separates the earth from the bar to be cleared, the undertaking seems impossible. It is, however, almost easy if one considers the quite novel method employed by the American athlete.

"Having carefully determined at the starting mark the manner in which he ought to modify his stride in order to arrive with the correct foot at the exact moment when he plants the pole in the cavity hollowed out at the base of the standards, Foss starts out at a pace which increases up to the moment when he begins to rise, his pole, the point of which 'menaced the sky,' being gradually lowered.

right, he raises himself by the speed acquired and follows the pole, which tends to acquire a vertical position. It is at this point that the method of which he is the inventor is applied. Instead of continuing to face the bar in order to clear it by grazing it with his back or side, 'en drapeau,' as the gymnasts say, Foss gives his pole a half turn which causes him to turn his back to the standards, and pushing on his hands at the same time that he draws himself entirely over the fulcrum formed by them, he passes the bar with stomach flat and feet first. His body then takes the form of a circumflex accent. His breast, his head, and his arms are still on this side of the bar and well under it. A forward thrust with the small of his back, accompanied by a see-saw movement of the legs, brings them easily over the bar, and Foss, terminating his trajectory, falls naturally on the other side.

"The natural facility with which he has cleared 4.09 meters permits the hope that before long he will do still better."

TWO NEW COURSES in agricultural journalism are offered this year in the College of Agriculture. One, dealing with the country weekly, will be given by Assistant Professor Millard V. Atwood '10, assistant chief of publications in the college; the other, by Professor Bristow Adams, is entitled Agricultural Information. Both men are well prepared by their experience in newspaper and publicity work to give sound training in these topics. A new course in magazine illustration is offered by Walter King Stone, acting assistant professor of architecture, whose work is appearing in current periodicals, especially Harper's.

WHAT IS PROBATION?

Inquiries from individuals and from several active alumni associations have come to us requesting information about probation, which we considered editorially in our August issue. The queries indicate surprise that probation, which seemed unimpeachable as practiced in the early part of the century, should now be a by-word and a thing that incites students to profanity. The inquirers wish to know in what way the concept has been changed in principle and practice.

For convenience let us limit the historical research to the period of change. As defined and practised by the University Faculty some twenty-one years ago, probation was logical, simple, and direct. None said that there was more than ordinary complaint of unfairness. The community expressed regret when an interesting performer was put on probation and was pleased when he succeeded in removing the ban. A known or computable degree of failure resulted in probation, and a definite performance worked it off. The emotion was directed at the student, rather than the Faculty, because probation like busting was something that the student brought on himself and got off himself, and not something that was inflicted on him and by special dispensation removed.

Probation was understood to be an act of executive clemency by which a stay of execution was granted to a student whose record brought him the penalty of exclusion from the University but whose work gave indications of ability which might make him worth saving. For illustration, a student might have passed fewer hours than the minimum that entitled him to continue his work, but might have made an excellent record in ten or eleven hours, a record that would indicate that he was worth giving one more chance.

For the sake of Cornell's athletic reputation she could not permit an athlete to compete in intercollegiate contests who had busted, even though a stay of execution had been granted. The student on probation was just as clearly busted as the one who was sent home for a semester. The fine distinction as to who's who in athletics, and to a certain extent among educational institutions, depends on the care with which this sort of case is handled.

In the past five years the probation idea has been re-defined and expanded until it includes not only athletes, but journalists, actors, musicians, debaters, any one whose outside activities may be construed under the term "representing the University." Representing the several colleges or departments is specifically excluded regardless of the amount of work entailed in playing an intra-mural schedule or editing a technical paper.

The idea has been injected into the concept, also, that probation is a weapon to prevent a student from slipping, and a student whose work would not result in his exclusion is put on probation to prevent him from doing poor enough work to bust him—a life-saving device that is the cause of much of the student apathy and even positive irritation toward the powers that be.

Another point of irritation is the student's inability to get himself off probation even when he has, by summer work or make-up examinations, proved that he can make good, and has actually performed all of his duties as demanded by his Faculty. Probation is for at least a term. The old rule, "Probation terminates at the end of the term for which notification is given unless it be terminated earlier by vote of the Faculty concerned," is now a dead letter.

It is but fair to state here that in the smaller, more homogeneous, or more closely knit technical schools comparatively little complaint arises. In the College of Arts and Sciences, with many of the departments only indirectly inter-related, with the students at liberty to make their own selections in courses, some less difficult for them than others, it is almost a necessity that marks, hours, and very little else shall or can be considered in determining a student's success or failure. No department can admit that its work is less essential than that of any other department. A technical school, on the other hand, can reasonably assert that electives in other colleges are to it less important than its own main work, and the results of a student's work are not necessarily to be summed up in figures only. On the Arts College, then, perhaps unjustly, falls the major share of the student's wrath.

In the expansion and elaboration of the probation idea, a student may now be placed on probation who has not failed in a single course, but whose work is mediocre in most of his studies; who has passed all hours with fair, not mediocre, records but who has slumped from the higher standard of a previous year; or for any results that indicate mediocrity, relaxing of standard, or the tendency to be or become an academic lame duck.

Were it not for one circumstance the idea would be a splendid one, and the several Faculties would be entitled to heartiest congratulations.

That circumstance is that probation, shorn of all camouflage, is nothing but a rule of athletic eligibility enlarged to include journalism, dramatics, and the interpretative arts, in organizations entitled to "represent the University" to the extent of tacking on to their names the word "Cornell." For persons who spend an equal amount of their leisure time on similar pursuits in "non-representing" activities, or on less important or beneficial activities, not organized, or in sedentary sloth, or what not, probation has no terrors whatever.

The University still publishes that favorite bit of fiction which reads: "PROBATION is regarded as but one step short of exclusion, and is to be distinguished from advice, warning, admonition, or censure." This was true when probation was a warning "that a repetition of failure in work" would result in exclusion from the University. But now that probation is applied to students who fail in nothing whatever, even the Faculty definition is misleading. And for the student who has no eligibility to cherish there is, among these five old heroes of the ancient tale, not the difference of the thickness of a red hair.

A penal code is successful only by the consent of the governed. When the law-abiding citizen stands shoulder to shoulder with the criminal in demanding new laws, the old laws need investigation, thorough and immediate. The citizens of the Campus are clearly irritated. Most of the Faculty agree on the injustice of the distribution of penalties, but naturally they have not yet agreed on what to do about it.

The prime need of Cornell is an increased devotion to scholastic ideals on the part of its undergraduate students. A minority of the Faculty believe in the method of leading the horse to the water and "strafing" him till he drinks. They do not know the meaning of some of the picturesque epithets with which they are daily described.

Probation, an old athletic eligibility rule, is their mainstay in penalizing academic mediocrity—their only dependable weapon except busting. Student confidence and cooperation in elevating scholastic ideals are stubbornly waiting for something in which to have confidence, and something with which to cooperate.

The symptoms of "business as usual" are waiting until either the student body submits to what it deems an injustice, or the Faculty institutes some change that will distribute penalties evenly for like faults.

OBITUARY

Sally G. Shanks '00

Miss Sally Gore Shanks died of heart trouble at Tottenville, Staten Island, on September 29, after an illness of three months. An hour after her death, her sister, Miss Amy Chamberlain Shanks, A. B. '00, attempted suicide in an effort to fulfill the final clause in a vow that they would remain spinsters and die together. At the hospital it was said she would undoubtedly keep her pledge.

Miss Sally was born on March 14, 1879, and Miss Amy on November 26, 1877. They prepared at St. Agnes School, Albany, N. Y., and Round Lake Institute, Round Lake, N. Y., and received their A. B. degrees at Cornell in 1900. They were members of Kappa Kappa Gamma, and were prominent in basketball and tennis.

The two sisters were teachers at the Tottenville High School and lived with a third sister, Mary. They had taught in the same school for a number of years, and their unusual devotion to each other was well known to their friends and neighbors.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

VIRGINIA has so far a record enrollment of 1,577, which is 175 more than the corresponding figure for last year.

MISSOURI'S enrollment, about 3,000, has increased about fourteen per cent over that of last year.

HARVARD now has $12,354,432.28 of the $15,250,000 additional endowment. 52 per cent of the alumni have subscribed.

AT YALE the tuition for the college, the Sheffield Scientific School, and the common freshman year has been increased to $300.

"SPORT STUFF"

The eleven looked a little better against St. Bonaventure. There was more speed in the backfield. The State Street Athletic Council has decided that this team is going to be pretty good. That decision is entirely premature—the team hasn't been tested yet—but it is announced here as a bit of local gossip.

The advance sale for the Colgate game on October 23 is breaking records. It looks like a capacity house.

The Dartmouth game sale will begin October 25. Cornell has the south side of the field again. Tickets are $2.50.

The Cross Country Team will sail for England by the Aquitania on December 14. They will return on the Emperor, due to arrive at New York on January 6.

I was in New York and Boston last week arguing with Old Grads about things at Ithaca. It seems to be the chief indoor sport of alumni when gathered together around a fire and futilely pressing a button through force of habit to build up arguments about the University, which same arguments would be perfectly good if the facts weren't perfectly bad. It doesn't make any difference whether a man graduated in '69 or busted out in 1919—he refuses to be told that anything has changed since he left.

You see most men, when they come back, come back for a game or a meeting or a race or a reunion, and one doesn't see anything of the place at such times. There is really a grand chance for an adventure in coming up here in an eventless, midterm week when the old ship is running along on an even keel. You could get into an old pair of pants, sleep at the house, go to a lecture, play a round of golf, talk with the boys on the Quadrangle, pass the time of day with Jack Moakley, Davy Hoy, Frank Sheehan, Uncle Pete, Looie Bement, and Martin Gibbon, see a practice at the field, take a look at the Library and the Ag. College, and sit on the slope and invite your soul. You'd have a bully good time if you didn't come up determined to crab, and you'd go away knowing something about the place and the tempora and also the mores.

Now that the mills are slowing down a bit, why don't you take that dare?

The crews are rowing on the Inlet again. They'll stay there until it gets too cold. R. B.

MEMORIAL SERVICES are to be held in Sage Chapel this Thursday afternoon for the late Dr. George W. Nasmyth '07.

Cornell Defeats St. Bonaventure

In defeating St. Bonaventure last Saturday by the score of 55 to 7 the football team showed encouraging possibilities of future scoring power and on the whole gave evidence of gratifying improvement in the week that had elapsed since the opening game with Rochester. St. Bonaventure admittedly was weak, a team of heavy men, but poorly coached and conditioned with a line that played far too high; and the size of the Cornell score ought not to be over-emphasized.

Nevertheless the fact remains that the team opened up a sharp, hard hitting sustained running attack which rolled up eight touchdowns, two in the first period, one in the second, two in the third, and three in the fourth. More points were scored in the last period than any other; this testified to the superior condition of the Cornell squad, and to the fact that Dobie has developed more than one set of dependable backs.

The team as a whole showed good spirit, and plenty of fight. On the whole, in spite of the weather, it lined up quickly and got into its plays with a fair amount of snap. The backs were quick to spring forward with the ball, they kept their feet well, they had at times fairly effective interference, quite frequently they found and got through their holes, and all of them kept fighting along until pulled or thrown to earth.

The offense for the most part consisted of drives off tackle, although quite frequently a line plunge was employed, and occasionally a dash about ends. The forward pass also proved a fairly successful ground gainer, five of them being successfully executed, one a toss from Carey to Munns that netted some thirty yards.

Tackling was ragged and uncertain for the most part but line play was more aggressive than on the preceding Saturday and the forwards at times opened up good holes. The team as a whole was more finished.

Conspicuous in the offense was Kaw at left halfback who scored three touchdowns and made many substantial gains. Livingston at right half also proved a good ground gainer, while Carey, Jewett, Baugher, and Hoff, the last two playing in the second half, contributed substantially to advancing the ball.

End play was more satisfactory than last week, though neither Munns nor Gouinlock, nor for that matter Finn and Wegener, who succeeded them, had very much to do. Cornell had possession of the ball most of the time, and there was practically no punting by the home team. Carey tried drop kicks twice from about the thirty-yard line but neither attempt succeeded.

St. Bonaventure's single touchdown was scored in the third period on a forward pass. Mann tossed the ball to Martineau, who receiving it on Cornell's forty-five-yard line, managed to get clear and run for a touchdown. Aside from that the visiting team scored but four first downs. The lineup:

Cross Country Team Opens Season

The cross country team will open its season Saturday at Syracuse in an intercollegiate race under the auspices of the Syracuse University Athletic Association. Yale, Harvard, Princeton, and other colleges are also entered. The course will probably be four miles.

The Cornell team will be chosen from the following: Captain Dickinson, McDermott, Lentz, R. E. Brown, N. P. Brown, Bonsal, Carter, Cowan, Irish, Harper, Wardwell, Ward, and Spear.

The varsity squad now numbers twenty-eight men, and it is a stronger outfit than last year's. Besides the Syracuse meet, Cornell will run a dual race with Harvard in Ithaca on October 30, compete in the Intercollegiate championship race, and then send a team to England in December to run an Oxford-Cambridge team.

WANT PRINCIPAL IN GREECE

A principal is wanted for a school, mainly agricultural, now in process of building at Konitza, Epirus, Greece. The enrollment is expected to be about seventy Greek boys of keen mind and full of ambition. The Greek government and the Metropolitan of the Greek Orthodox Church are helping the school; whence the outlook is promising. The chief industry in the neighborhood is dairying. Any person interested in the position may get further information by applying to the Department of Rural Education, College of Agriculture.

THE AMERICAN AGRICULTURAL COLLEGES and Experiment Stations will hold an annual meeting next week at Springfield, Mass. The New York College at Cornell will be represented by Dean Mann, Vice-Dean Burritt, and Professor D. J. Crosby.

THE COSMOPOLITAN CLUB opened its season last Saturday with an International Night, entertaining members of the Faculty and townspeople. An address was made by Professor Frank A. Fetter, Ph. M. '92, of Princeton, who was from 1901 to 1910 a member of the Department of Economics.

THE SECOND NUMBER of The Trail-blazer keeps up to a high standard, both in typography and in the quality of its articles. Harold Ballou writes on "Eavesdropping on Ibañez." Ernst Artschwager, Grad., writes, too briefly, on "Science Advancing." C. L. Chen, Grad., offers "The Sound of Autumn," a translation from O. Yang Shio, also some original lines on "The Moon."

ALUMNI NOTES

'74—At its annual commencement in June, Nashotah House, the Episcopal theological seminary at Nashotah, Wisconsin, conferred the degree of D. D. honoris causa on Charles F. Sweet, professor of theology in Trinity Divinity School, Tokyo.

'82—State Senator Charles Lockard Saunders was on September 24 crowned 26th king of Ak-Sar-Ben, Omaha. The occasion was memorable in the annals of Omaha society. The elaborate ceremony was observed by some eight thousand spectators. The Omaha Bee for September 25 devotes some six columns to an illustrated account of the affair.

'93 LLB, '94 LLM—James P. Harrold is a member of the law firm of Lyle, Harrold, Hoover, and DeWitt, with offices at 108 South La Salle Street, Chicago, and is master in chancery of the circuit court. He attended the annual meeting of the American Bar Association in St. Louis.

'94 LLB—David F. Matchett, now a judge of the Appellate Court of Illinois, is a candidate for States attorney in Chicago.

'97 ME—Lyndon S. Tracy is assistant to the general manager of the Solvay Process Company, Syracuse, N. Y.

'98 AB—Miss Mary Corwin Lane, who went overseas as a volunteer nurse in 1916, returned to this country on August 13, having been, since April, attached as a Red Cross nurse to the American-Polish Army. In telling of the atrocities practiced by the Russians in Poland she said: "I have witnessed instances in which cavalry officers, whose bodies were afterward recovered by soldiers, suffered the common fate of losing their eyes, ears, and hands. The Bolsheviki are so inhuman that they gouge the eyes out. In addition, strips of flesh were cut from the legs to imitate the stripes on their uniforms. Of the thousands of prisoners that fell into the hands of the Polish troops in April and May, all were fed and well treated. When we were leaving Poland the Bolshevik invasion had begun and two hundred and forty demobilized Polish-American troops were being sent home. When they saw the plight of the country by the invasion they decided to reenlist." Miss Lane said there was no panic in the country when she was departing, and that the evacuation of Eastern Poland was being conducted in an orderly manner.

'98 ME—William W. Macon, managing editor of The Iron Age, New York, was the author of an article on the iron and steel situation in the London, England, Times, which issued an American number for July 4.

'00 PhB—John Cleves Short is engaged in the development of personal real estate, coal, oil, and timber at Heidelberg, Lee County, Kentucky. He lived in England in 1914, served on the Mexican border in 1916 with Troop C, Ohio Cavalry, and during the World War was supply officer of the 5th Sanitary Train, Regulars, with the rank of captain. He lives at Dudley Park, Heidelberg.

'00 AB—Miss Irene McCrea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McCrea, of the Butler-Kittanning Road, Fenelon, Pa., and Edward Ansel McCreary, of New York, were married on August 16 at the parish house of the Church of St. Lawrence O'Toole, Brewster, N. Y. Until recently, Miss McCrea has been a teacher in the Pittsburgh schools. McCreary has spent a great deal of time in the Philippines, having served as treasurer of the Province of Occidental Negros, and of the Province of Iloilo, assistant secretary in the Executive Bureau of Manila, and manager of the Philippine National Bank. In June, 1918, he retired from Philippine Government service, and returned to New York, where he opened an office at 220 Broadway for Juan Ysmail & Company, Inc., importers, exporters, and jobbers, of Manila, of which he is vice-president.

'00 ME—Henry W. Butler has been made industries division engineer of the Super-Power Zone Engineering Staff. For seven years after his graduation, Butler was with the Interborough Rapid Transit Company; then he was engaged by J. G. White & Company, resigning in 1913 to engage in consulting work. At the outbreak of the war he entered the service, and was assigned to aircraft production; since the Armistice he has been acting as engineer for a super-heater concern.

'01 AB, '03 LLB—Manton M. Wyvell was manager for Mayor George R. Lunn of Schenectady when he was candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator.

Professor Rautenstrauch has acted as consulting engineer for a number of corporations, and has designed a large number of machines for improving manufacturing processes.

'04 BArch—Robert C. Dunbar and Miss Alma Kopriva were married on July 31 at Redding, Conn. They will be at home after November 1 at 188 Sullivan Street, New York.

'05 LLB—Walter McKeenan, assistant counsel of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company of Brooklyn, has been appointed trust officer of the Manufacturers Trust Company of Brooklyn, an office made necessary by the increase in the volume of real estate, mortgages, and securities handled by the trust department of the company. McKeenan has been with the Title Guarantee and Trust Company since 1906, and has had varied experience in all phases of real estate law, wills, trusts, and corporations. He was in charge of the company loans of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company in the law department, as well as having supervised reorganizations, bond issues, etc., for the company. He assumed his new duties on September 1.

You sent it to the files and now it can't be found. It's exasperating. Sometimes the system is wrong—right equipment lacking. The delay may be your fault—not the file clerk's.

A fact:

At nearly every hotel on the famous boardwalk at Atlantic City, Fatima is the largest-selling cigarette. And the same holds true for hundreds of other leading hotels throughout the country where, day-in and day-out, the demand is for "just enough Turkish."

Are you letting the Co-op. be of service to you?

When you need something you cannot get where you are or want something in the quality you bought while you were in college, it's time to write us. One of our customers lived within ten miles of Buffalo and yet secured quicker service from us than from Buffalo.

Better book service

Our stock of textbooks is unusually large, as you will remember. In connection with required books, we have the recommended ones. This covers several hundred titles. We believe that we can serve you to your advantage.

Souvenirs and Gift Articles

What do you need? Our souvenir booklet gives many of the articles, but frequently we get late shipments. At Christmas time we have an excellent line of greeting cards. You should have a copy of the booklet, which is usually ready on December first.
