THE Mourning Male, with shafts of humor, pricked the bubble of contention that had spouted from the tempestuous tea-pot. Things were boiling hot the day before it appeared; they merely simmered the day after, and now the issue is cold. Those who know, say that Sigma Delta Chi, actuated by a desire to defray the expenses of its delegate to a national convention in Oklahoma, injected the saving sense of humor, reduced the whole anti-co-ed discussion to an absurdity, and incidentally produced the funniest piece of journalism that has appeared on the campus for a long time. Nothing can be far wrong when a body of undergraduates can publish sixteen columns on a sex question without once becoming spiteful or causing a blush.

SPATTERED, bedraggled, bandaged, steaming, panting, almost gasping, but running swiftly, evenly, and with power, the cross country men have had stirring finishes in recent trials to determine the personnel of the team that will carry the red of Cornell against the light and the dark blues of England. No one who has seen the training of these men has any misgivings about the spirit of Cornell athletes.

ITHACA WEATHER still shares its record with a small portion of Puget Sound as having fewest hours of sunshine. Even with the pleasantest fall in years, the month of November showed only one clear day, three days partly cloudy, and twenty-six without any sunshine.

VETERINARY MEETINGS in Chicago recently brought together many Cornell graduates. Dean V. A. Moore '87 attended the conferences of experiment station workers in animal diseases, and of the United States Livestock Sanitary Commission, where he presented papers. Among those who took part in the discussions were Ward Giltner '06, of East Lansing, Michigan; C. W. Fitch '06, of St. Paul, Minnesota; W. W. Dimock '05; and R. R. Birch of the Veterinary College at Cornell.

PUBLICATIONS other than the Era seem to be in difficulties this year. The Cornellian has found it necessary to reopen its sale to attempt to raise eight hundred more subscribers. Whether the deficit is due to its attitude in the recording of women's activities is not known.

ENDOWMENT DRIVES in other localities, similar to that now on in New York, promise good results. The example of the alumni in the Empire State has already had an effect elsewhere. C. R. Marsh '07 has gone to Philadelphia to organize the work there.

NON-FRATERNITY MEN are organizing in an effort to have their interests represented in student government circles at Cornell. In the call for the meeting which was held in Bailey Hall last Tuesday, and was addressed by President Albert W. Smith '78, it was stated that the independents felt the need of guarding against erroneous reports by non-representative groups,—an evident reference to the repudiated document on co-education that emanated from committees of the Student Council and the two senior honorary societies, before it had been submitted to the parent organizations.

THE ERA has obtained nine hundred of its required two thousand subscriptions; now the R. O. T. C., working through the Officers' Club, volunteers to come to the rescue, with competitions between various units to raise the remaining one thousand one hundred needed subscribers. F. C. Lane '21, managing editor of the Era, has resigned from the board as the result of a vote of censure passed by his colleagues, who resented his part in the "slightly red," or pink-sheet issue of The Critic, resurrected from last year's defunct sheet, to champion, perhaps over-fervidly, the cause of the women.

EASTMAN STAGE TRIALS left twenty students from more than sixty who entered the first contest. Of those who now have a chance before the final elimination contests, three are women.

HEBS-SA AND HELIOS, senior societies in the College of Agriculture, pledge themselves to the support of the honor system in that College, even to the extent of reporting obvious cases of fraud.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL has appointed undergraduate committees for the remainder of the academic year. About four committees for each class, to take care of the principal events, such as banquets, dances, smokers, Spring Day, and other celebrations, are included.

DEAN ALBERT R. MANN '04, in a recent address at the Joseph Slocum College of Agriculture at Syracuse University, said he hoped for an early resumption of contests in all forms of intercollegiate athletics between Cornell and Syracuse.

AWARDS IN RECENT COMPETITIONS participated in by the College of Architecture include first, second, and fifth places in the Warren Prize contest for the best solution of a problem in planning, under the auspices of the Beaux-Arts Institute of Design of New York City. These places were won, respectively by V. S. Swan '21, of Sherburne, George Fraser, Grad., of St. Paul, Minnesota, and F. H. Robinson '21, of Albany. An alumnus, E. L. Howard '19, won third place. The problem this year was for a set of buildings for a country fair. Fraser won the prize for the best poster to advertise the Cornell Masque, "Martini," and R. D. McPherson '21, of Palmyra, made the design selected for the cover of the program.

WINTER SPORTS will have special attention this year, and Coach Nicholas Bawlf will look after the interests of hockey as well as lacrosse. Besides hockey rinks on Beebe Lake, there are possibilities of additional ones on the Old Armory green and on lower Alumni Field. It is said that the Department of Animal Husbandry of the College of Agriculture will be called on to lend a flock of sheep thoroughly to puddle the clay basins of the latter rinks, so they will hold water.

LECTURES for the week include "The Crisis of Poverty on New York's Lower West Side," by the Rev. A. Ray Petty in the Current Events Forum of the C. U. C. A.; "Islam and the Secret Cults in Syria," by Dr. Frederick J. Bliss, the eminent archeologist; Dr. Silberstein's final lecture on "The Theory of Relativity"; "The Oldest Annals of the World" (the glacial deposits of Sweden) by Baron Gerard de Geer, professor of geology in the University of Upsala; "Athenian Democracy" by Professor Nathaniel Schmidt in the course on the history of civilization; and "Venizelos at the Peace Conference" by Professor W. L. Westermann before the Association of Collegiate Alumnae.

AT THE CENTENARY CELEBRATION of the Medical College of the University of Cincinnati on November 6, Professor Charles R. Stockard, of the Department of Anatomy in the Medical College, received the honorary degree of Sc. D.

DR. JOHN C. A. GERSTER, assistant professor of clinical surgery at the Medical College in New York, lectured before the Surgical Division of the New York Academy of Medicine December 2 on "The Economic Value of Preventative Surgery in Business."

The Coeducational Question

"Tea-Pot Tempest" Breaks into Country-Wide Publicity—Question Not so Serious as Its Consequences

The discussion of the question of coeducation and the status of women students, which a week ago seemed of slight importance, has developed into something different through its discovery by the metropolitan press. Comment somewhat joecular but usually with a sting in its tail has come back from as far west as Indianapolis and as far east as Boston. Certain phrases have become famous—"a he-man's institution" and "the musical ferry boat" are likely to persist whenever an editor desires to ridicule Cornell.

The underlying causes are not educational at all. Yale, one of the "he-man's institutions," referred to in the dispatches, suffers from "too much girl" much as does Cornell, except that the Yale problem is from town girls and from those brought in. Dancing and sentimentality have replaced prize fights, sucker fishing, cock, dog, or booze fights—and are resented by certain groups as less manly, or at least less masculine. They are undoubtedly part of the aftermath of the war and the Eighteenth Amendment.

We feel that several thousand letters, said to have come to Ithaca inquiring into the facts, warrant us in giving the full story of the row, and that no comment is necessary.

The precipitating cause was the accepting by some of the women of the invitation to join in the parade to see the team off to play Dartmouth. Through inadvertence they were ushered into the lead of the parade just behind the band. Other feminist symptoms were quickly recalled—there are women on the editorial staff of the Sun, the Era, and The Cornellian. An absurd and unfounded rumor was current that women had demanded a right to try for athletic managerships, for the Musical Clubs, and for the Masque.

The first action came from the fraternities, under the leadership of the Rushing Association, which responded by the perfectly plutocratic dictum that the women must be left out of the 1922 and all future Cornellians or all fraternity support—payment for inserts as well as subscriptions for the books—would be withdrawn.

The women, in some cases accompanied by relatives, heard themselves hissed at Bailey Hall on Thanksgiving Day while listening to the returns from Philadelphia (as if listening to those returns were not punishment enough).

President Smith published in the Sun a letter reminding the hissers of their obligations as Cornellians and as gentlemen and pointing out the fact that Cornell is eternally committed to coeducation. At this period it began to look as if the disturbance would subside.

The step that has made Cornell the week's best joke in the metropolitan press was the publication in the Sun of a terrific indictment of Cornell, coeducation, the founders, the alumni, the Faculty, and the Trustees. This pleaded for segregation, reduction of numbers, and ultimate elimination of the women students. Certain phrases, particularly the "he-man," made excellent catchwords for the newspapers. The item has been taken up all over the country, and editorial comment has been of the kind that Cornell has managed to escape in recent years.

The publication was in the form of a report from a committee of three men each from the Student Council, Sphinx Head, and Quill and Dagger. It is said that at least five of the nine signed the document without reading it. The senior societies have rejected the report and have voted censure on their committees for publishing the report as coming from official sources.

Almost immediately after the report was published and accepted by the metropolitan press two publications appeared on the campus. The one, a pink, or as the Sun called it, a slightly red issue of The Critic condemned the whole business, and demanded by what right the senior societies, Student Council, fraternities, or any other group, dared to speak as representative of the University when the non-fraternity element was on the whole ignored in the representation.

Another, The Cornell Mourning Male, an ephemeral issued by the journalistic fraternity, Sigma Delta Chi, stated the whole matter in so absurd a way as to lighten the situation materially and to give opportunity for those who felt their holdings were getting hot to start to take it less seriously.

At present the non-fraternity men are organizing, as a direct outcome of the strife, to claim a proportionate share in the councils of state. Whether the move means any more than just that, as, for example, an anti-fraternity movement, remains to be seen.

Assuming that the bitterness will soon die down and the student attention will turn to new forms of mental diversion, Cornell will still be heir to two important legacies from the affair in addition to the general publicity she has had; first, the problem of getting the fraternities to continue to support The Cornellian with the women in it as they have been for fifty years; and, second, the threat of a fraternity-independent squabble such as we have not had for thirty or forty years. These are stirring times in Tompkins County.

Endowment Passes $6,000,000

More Classes Show Increases Than Ever Before in Campaign

Following the intensive Endowment effort in New York State and individual campaigns being conducted by the presidents of several classes, the Semi-Centennial Endowment Committee has been enabled to announce the passage of the $6,000,000 mark in the Endowment drive. The grand total on December 4 was approximately $6,140,000, of which more than $140,000 had been raised during the week ending on that day.

For the first time in the campaign practically every graduating class showed an increase in the number of subscribers over the preceding week, the greatest jump having been made by the class of 1912 which increased its percentage of members subscribing from fourteen to seventeen. Twenty-eight members of the class have signed on the dotted line since the last class report. Several other classes were tied for second place in percentage increase, a number of them having gone up two points.

1897 Leads in Total

The class of 1897 still leads all others in the total subscribed to the Endowment Fund, with $241,661. The four undergraduate classes rank next in order. The undergraduates have also set new records in the payment of interest on their pledged subscriptions. Within less than five weeks after the interest notices were sent out, approximately seventy per cent had been paid in. The Endowment Committee is still urging the prompt payment of interest and principal installments with the view of assisting the Trustees in raising professorial salaries as promptly as possible.

Charles R. Marsh '07, who has been active as executive secretary in New York State, has gone to Philadelphia for a two weeks' intensive drive. He will work with the Philadelphia committee, of which Howard M. Rogers '07 is acting chairman. Among the other local districts which are carrying on intensive efforts are Detroit and Georgia. In Detroit approximately $10,000 has been raised in the last two weeks and it is expected that a large sum in addition will be sent in from that city before the close of the campaign. L. C. Boochever '12 has undertaken to cover the state of Georgia for the Endowment Committee in an effort to increase the quota of that State before the end of the drive.

as a result of the publishing of the picture of the cover design which will be used on the book of subscribers to the Endowment Fund. The design, which was adopted by the Endowment Committee recently, was drawn by Humphrey Nolan, a senior in Architecture. It was chosen after a competition conducted among members of the graduating class in that college.

As a result of renewed efforts in Ithaca to establish an Ithaca professorship, more than $6,000 has been raised during the past week. The greatest part of this has been subscribed by Cornellians who are members of the University Faculty. Seventeen per cent of the Cornell graduates on the Faculty have subscribed to the Endowment Fund. Eighteen per cent of the Ithaca Cornellians have made subscriptions.

THE SAGE CHAPEL preacher for December 12 is the Right Rev. Dr. Charles H. Brent, Episcopal Bishop of Western New York.

PROFESSORIAL COUNCILORS

The nominating committee of the American Association of University Professors has included among the persons proposed as members of the Council, to serve for four years, the names of Professors Vladimir Karapetoff of Cornell and Henry L. Rietz, Ph. D. '02, head of the department of mathematics in the University of Iowa. The meeting of the association is to be held in Chicago on December 27-8.

Professor Margaret F. Washburn, Ph. D. '94, has been appointed one of the three representatives of the association on the American Council of Education.

A CHALET on the banks of Beebe Lake for the adequate accommodation of skaters, tobogganists, and others who indulge in winter sports is one of the problems of classes in the College of Architecture. It will eventually take the place of the small temporary shelter.

CORNELL ACADEMICIANS

At the Princeton meeting of the National Academy of Sciences on November 16 Dr. Leland O. Howard '77 read a paper on "A Post-War Use of War Material." Professor Edward L. Nichols '75 discussed "Luminescence at High Temperatures." Dr. Theobald Smith '81 spoke on "Biological Aspects of the Process of Infection."

KIMBALL AT DETROIT

Michiganders have again proved the truth of the statement that you have only to mention the fact of Dean D. S. Kimball's expected presence to bring out a crowd of Cornellians. The Detroit Cornellians held their weekly luncheon on Friday, December 3, when Dean Kimball was in town to address the Detroit Engineering Society at its evening meeting. Over fifty Cornellians turned out to greet him. Dean Kimball gave the club an intensely interesting account of current events at the University, including much of "inside information" on past, present, and even future policies.

He also stressed the present tendency to judge men by their service rather than by their wealth, mentioning that we think of Hoover, for example, as a successful man, not at all because of his wealth but because of the services he has rendered.

In the evening Dean Kimball spoke on "A Broader Field for the Engineer." He believes that the engineer is coming into management of all kinds—industrial, city, State, and Federal—and he showed where the engineer is now beginning to get away from "cutting keyways" and into broader work.

CLEVELAND BOUQUETS

More than a hundred Cornellians attended the luncheon at the Hotel Statler in Cleveland, on December 2. A special feature was the singing led by such artists as Bub North, Joe Harris, and Charley Clark. This part of the program was seriously interrupted for a time by an animated discussion between the beef eaters and the vegetarians as to whether the dairy lunch should be continued at $1.00 a plate or a "heavy meal" at $1.25. The vegetarians, with brains more active because of their diet, won a signal victory.

Honorable William L. Day, Michigan '00, ex-judge of the U. S. District Court, recounted the pleasant relations that existed between Michigan and Cornell in athletics, and expressed the wish that they might be resumed. He paid high tribute to the members of the Cornell Club of Cleveland and their loyalty to their Alma Mater, and stated that as a result of their organization and enthusiasm they have become recognized as a power in the activities of their city. He closed with an appeal to everyone to continue loyal to his college, saying that it was one of the finest and noblest things in any man's life.

CONNECTICUT GATHERS

Cornellians from every nook and corner of the Nutmeg State will come together at Waterbury on Saturday evening, December 11, on the occasion of the All-Connecticut Cornell Alumni banquet. The banquet will be held at the Waterbury Club.

The Cornell Club of Waterbury, which, despite its relatively small size, is one of the most enthusiastic and energetic of all alumni clubs, will play the host. Advance reports from other sections, notably Hartford and Bridgeport, indicate that attendance records of other years are likely to go by the board.

The program calls for a discussion of plans for reawakening Cornell activity throughout Connecticut, with a generous sprinkling of speeches, stunts, and pictures. In addition to the local speakers, Charles E. Treman '89, of the University Board of Trustees, and Foster M. Coffin '12, Alumni Representative, will be present from Ithaca.

The officers of the Cornell Club of Waterbury are Irvin W. Day '06, president, and A. V. S. Lindsley '09, secretary and treasurer.

CORNELL IN MOUNT VERNON

That the Cornell Club of Mount Vernon has permanently established itself in the community life of the city and is adequately taking care of Cornell interests in a large part of Westchester County, is evidenced by a half-page illustrated story which the Mount Vernon Daily Argus of November 20 devoted to the organization. The club was organized less than a year ago, but has already so firmly established itself as to be in position to play the host to the Cornell Musical Clubs on December 28. The officers of the club are: president, Walter H. McNeill, jr., '09; vice-president, Arthur Hillemeier '09; secretary, Edwin S. Boegehold '08; treasurer, Paul Winchell '17.

BUFFALO ACTIVE

The second of a series of weekly luncheons was held at the Iroquois Hotel in Buffalo on Monday, November 29. About fifty Cornellians were present.

A. L. Jones '06, the new president of the Alumni Association of Western New York, presided and introduced Harold Flaack '12, campaign director of the Semi-Centennial Endowment Campaign, who gave a summary of the latest news and gossip direct from the Campus.

Under the leadership of "Artie" Jones, the Buffalo Cornellians are planning on an active season. They have already scheduled weekly luncheons for the entire winter and are arranging now for the annual banquet in January or February.

BALTIMORE ENTERTAINS

The following notice from Maryland indicates that the Baltimore Cornellians are rapidly returning to the map, if indeed, they are not already there:

"A smoker and big feed will be given the Cornell Musical Clubs following the concert on Saturday, January 1, at the Baltimore Club. It will be a real party (all except the big P-grade and the stunts promise to rival those of the Glee Club. There are sixty members of the Glee Club. We want seventy-five Baltimoreans to join in the fun and receive the blessings of Martin Gibbon, Jack Herson, and Theodore Zinck in their old capacities.

"Tickets will not exceed $5.00. This covers the cost of your plate and of one member of the Glee Club. Let the committee know promptly. The chairman is W. F. Peterson, 103 Edgvale Road, Roland Park, Baltimore, Maryland."

ROCHESTER CONCERT

Cornell alumni in Rochester are enthusiastic over the announcement that the Cornell Musical Clubs will give a concert there on January 5 in the ballroom of the Powers Hotel. Arthur J. Messner '12, who with his father manages the hotel, has donated the use of the ballroom for the occasion and is helping to make it a success. Arthur W. Beale '13 is chairman of the committee in charge of the concert.

SPORT STUFF

Rain, snow, mud, more rain, and general cussedness pretty well describes the situation of the moment in the beautiful Finger Lakes Region of Central New York.

The chief activity of the Athletic Office is buying transportation and figuring how to pay for it. (Boy, another pint of oil for the adding machine. Its bearings are hot!) Ten conscientious distance runners are going to England. Sixty musicians with no conscience whatever are touring the Middle Atlantic Seaboard and what used to be the automobile cities. The Masque—65 of 'em—is making another Little Journey into Insolvency with stops at Cleveland, Akron, and Pittsburgh.

And finally the basketball team is making a visit to Ohio State, Pittsburgh, and Buffalo and devoting an evening to a game with Yale at Pittsburgh.

Cornell University modestly claims that it is doing its bit toward the rehabilitation of the great common carriers of our country.

Beebe Lake now has everything to make it a complete and attractive center for winter sports except ice.

The annual banquet of the Cross Country Club was held on the evening of December 4 in the First Methodist Church of Varna. The congregation occupied the gallery and slightly cramped the style of some of the speakers. Varna is three miles out and six miles back.

The construction of the new baseball field and the dissolution of the old board track (where it stood is now left field) occurred about the same time. A new board track with "Boston Corners" has been built in the north end of Schoellkopf Field among the jumping pits. A hundred-yard board straight ending at the track room door has been constructed on the cinder track. It's all in sections and will come up in the spring. (No. I don't know where we can put it.)

OBITUARY

Colin K. Urquhart '76

Colin Keith Urquhart died on November 23 at his home, 1120 Fulton Street, Brooklyn. He was sixty-five years old.

Mr. Urquhart was born in New York, and had lived in Brooklyn for the past fifty-five years. He came to Cornell in 1872, remaining two years. He was a member of the Tom Hughes Boat Club and the Philidor Chess Club. For many years he was editor of The Paper Trade Journal, and at the time of his death was a dealer in decorative chinaware.

He is survived by his widow, Annie Gillender Urquhart, and a son, Colin K. Urquhart, jr.

John G. Shillinger '92

John George Shillinger, a prominent railroad man, died at a hotel in Burlington, Vt., on November 12, after a short illness. He was graduated from the College of Civil Engineering in 1892, and had served as engineer for the C. C. & St. L. Railroad, and as division engineer with the New York Central Railroad. At the time of his death he was chief engineer of the Rutland Railroad.

Joseph J. Mason '13

The body of Lieutenant Joseph John Mason, who was killed in an airplane accident in France on July 19, 1918, arrived in Pittsburgh on November 3, and was laid to rest in Homewood Cemetery on November 5. The military funeral was in charge of East Liberty Post No. 5, American Legion, and was held from the home of Lieutenant Mason's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. L. Walter Mason, 5554 Avondale Place, East End, Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Charles W. Honess '16

Mrs. Charles W. Honess, who was formerly Miss Juliette MacMonnies Courant, died of typhoid fever on November 29 at Norman, Okla.

She was born on January 12, 1893, the daughter of Margaret MacMonnies Courant and a niece of Frederick MacMonnies, the famous sculptor, and the late Jules Courant. She prepared at Adelphi Academy, Brooklyn, and entered Cornell in 1912, in the course in arts, receiving the degree of A. B. in 1916. After leaving college she went to St. Anne's School, Charlottesville, Va., and later taught French at the Buckingham High School, Springfield, Mass.

THE TEA-POT TEMPEST

The first thought of many Cornellians who have the real interest of Cornell at heart was that the recent lamented public airing of the "he-man" committee's report on co-eds would have a serious depressing influence on the Endowment Campaign.

That this is a possibility reflects on the ability of alumni to think straight on the issue. The issue was raised by not more than four quite young men, in whom at least five others had sufficient confidence to sign a document without reading it. A news-editor, seasoned by not more than a year of experience, published the unsanctioned committee report, and the fat was in the fire. There is nothing more alarming and nothing more serious in the whole discussion, except the disrepute into which Cornell has temporarily been brought.

It is probable that a few subscriptions will be held up indefinitely, or that a few subscribers will renig. It is more likely that some of the prospects will use the occurrence as a pretext for not subscribing at all. It is the duty, then, of every Endowment worker to know the facts in the case, published elsewhere in this issue, and to combat the idea that Cornell is going to the dogs, or that something is undermining her vitality or her common sense. Cornell was firmly on her feet with her principles established when those boys' fathers were still in high school, and will continue much as she now is when their grandchildren see them to their graves. Any similar group could start a riot on any subject as long as freedom of speech is an inherent right.

The Sun under the caption "Five Little Lessons" offers advice to students, some of which might be considered by all.

1. It is wiser to understate a proposition for the sake of accuracy than to overstate it for the sake of emphasis.
2. Nothing is more fruitless than an argument upon an undefined issue.
3. The metropolitan press is always glad to accept a committee report as a University pronouncement.
4. Constructive criticism on white paper goes further than destructive criticism on pink paper.
5. A sense of humor goes further still.

New York Alumni Clubs

Many New Organizations Forming as a Result of the Endowment Campaign

One of the by-products of the recent Endowment drive in New York State that cannot but prove of great importance to Cornell's future development, is the growing up in many sections of the State of new alumni clubs and associations. In other sections, where starts had already been undertaken, rapid strides have recently been made toward greater usefulness. The Empire State, until recently well down the list in effectiveness of alumni organization, has taken its place with the leaders.

In the majority of cases the associations are being formed along county lines, the natural division in most parts of the State. There is no iron-clad rule in this regard; in some instances the organizations comprise merely the Cornellians in one city, and in others they embrace parts of two or more adjoining counties.

Taking up the recent developments by counties, in alphabetical order, we find Cortland County organized with County Judge George M. Champlin '04, of Cortland, as president. In Delaware County the organization meeting was held at Walton, when the following officers were elected: H. J. Metzger '18, president; A. G. Patterson '92, vice-president; Kate G. Eels '03, secretary.

The Fulton County Cornell Club was formed at Gloversville, where Wesley H. Maider '01, was elected president; James Evans '97, vice-president; and Holbert W. Fear '13, secretary-treasurer.

The Cornellians in Amsterdam and vicinity have organized the Cornell Alumni Association of Montgomery County. The officers are W. Arthur Kline '02, president; Bert Brower '08, vice-president; George V. Green '95, secretary; and E. T. Kennedy '15, treasurer.

In Niagara County, at Lockport, L. C. Hickey '14 has been appointed chairman of a committee of four to proceed with organization plans, and in Ontario County, Arthur H. Smith '03, of Shortsville, was delegated at the Canandaigua meeting to consult with the Geneva Cornellians regarding a county organization. Otsego County is planning on a meeting this month.

At the Cornell dinner held in Oneida a new Cornell Club was organized to embrace those parts of Madison and Oneida Counties which lie between Syracuse on the west, Utica on the east, Rome on the north, and Norwich on the south, and which by transportation facilities are naturally affiliated. The officers of the club are George Wallingford Noyes '92, of Kenwood, president; J. H. Hewitt '09, of Morrisville, vice-president; Wheeler Milmoie '17, of Canastota, secretary-treasurer.

The St. Lawrence County alumni organized at Ogdensburg. The following officers were elected: S. W. Smith '17, of Ogdensburg, president; S. R. Farley '18, of Canton, secretary; C. L. Dunham '12, of Massena, treasurer. A well-distributed executive committee has also been appointed: L. G. Crary '99, of Canton; Clyde Bame '13, of Gouverneur; C. S. Thayer '13, of Massena; C. H. Lord '11, of Ogdensburg; R. O. Stearns '16, of Winthrop.

Seneca County organized at Romulus with John S. Gay '01, of Seneca Falls, as president, and George T. Franklin '17, of Ovid, secretary. The organization at Glens Falls, Warren County, elected Charles B. Dix '88 president, and Maurice Hoopes '91 secretary. In Ulster County the officers have not yet been elected, but at a meeting held in Kingston Judge Joseph M. Fowler '95 was empowered to start the necessary machinery.

The western end of the State falls largely within the scope of the Cornell University Alumni Association of Western New York, with headquarters at Buffalo. This club became moribund during the war, and failed to show many signs of life last year. This fall has opened energetically, with new officers and a definite program of accomplishment. Arthur L. Jones '06 is the new president, and Ralph McCarty '96, secretary. A board of six directors is to be appointed, with provision for annual election of two directors and the officers.

The alumni representative, Foster M. Coffin '12, is working in close cooperation with all of these clubs and associations, aiming to realize his goal of a Cornell alumni association for every point in the country, if not the world, to which every Cornellian will automatically be elected to membership as he leaves the University and becomes an alumnus.

TROY'S CALENDAR OUT

Portraying with characteristic views the again normal life of the University, the 1921 edition of John P. Troy's calendar has some remarkable illustrations of student activities in addition to some new views of Cornell's scenic setting. The return to peace-time affairs during 1920 with, however, innovations of various sorts such as the searchlights for football practice, gives Mr. Troy opportunity to exhibit his art in some particularly attractive views.

The mechanical work is excellent. The calendar is printed in a duotone process that is especially effective on the cover design, a view of the Tower from Sage Chapel, in which the colorings and cloud effects are quite true to nature.

LITERARY REVIEW

A Theory of Poetry

Poetry and Dreams. By Frederick C. Prescott, Professor of English, Cornell University. Boston. The Four Seas Co. 1919. 8vo, pp. 72. Price, $1.50, net.

This is a reprint of a work issued by Professor Prescott through Mr. Badger's Gotham Press in 1912. In it Prescott attempts to apply some part of Dr. Sigmund Freud's theory of dreams to the problem of poetic origins. Freud, it will be remembered, conceives of the dream as always representing "the imaginary fulfilment of some ungratified wish." The great writers—Goethe, Lamb, Bunyan, Stevenson, Chatterton, Blake, Bunyan, Skelley—have been great dreamers. "The function of poetry also seems to be to represent the imaginary fulfilment of our ungratified wishes or desires." This, by the way, is strikingly illustrated, though not demonstrated, by the story of Arthur, the warrior defending a lost cause, who nevertheless is presently elevated to the position of emperor and world-conqueror. There is also to be noted the connection between poetry and prophecy. It is no accident that Apollo was the god of song and of the oracles as well. For prophecy is only a projection into the future of what the prophet desires for the present or future.

Further, Freud holds that dreams are, for adults, inspired not by conscious but by unconscious repressed desires. Likewise poetry is "not a conscious product of the intellect, but the manifestation or symptom of an inner uncontrolled activity." Poetry, then, like the dream, forms a sort of safety-valve, both for the writer and for the reader; it "cleanses the sick soul."

Again, poetry, like dreams, presents the concrete rather than the abstract. This is one reason why mythology has always bulked so large in poetry, since it is the concrete pictorial language of the early world.

Lastly comes the connection of dreams and of poetry with love. In the "Phaedrus" Socrates divides madness into four kinds, of which the first and the fourth are those of the prophet and the lover. If we think of poetry as fundamentally the expression of repressed love, it will at least throw some light on the nature of poetic inspiration. Thus when the poet was "inspired," what the ancients thought to be the informing, possessing deity, or "theos," that is, enthousiasmos, was but the volcanic outburst of subconscious desire.

Thus the book throws much light on the origin and nature of poetic creation. The theory is modestly presented and will undoubtedly win many friends.

Books and Magazine Articles

Katharine B. Judson '04 writes in The Century for December on "The Hudson's Bay Company and the Pacific Northwest." There are five illustrations.

In the November number of Asia are continued the extracts from the diary of Willard Straight '01, with illustrations from his sketch-books. The instalment comes down to the end of the Russo-Japanese War.

In The Indiana University Alumni Quarterly for October "Old World Background to American History," by Samuel B. Harding, '90-1 Grad., and Margaret Snodgrass Harding, is favorably reviewed by Mattie B. Lacy. The book is an elementary history for the grades or junior high school, contains 398 pages, and sells for 96 cents. It is published by Scott, Foresman and Company, of Chicago.

In The Minnesota Alumni Weekly for November 11, which is a Technology Number, Dean Ora M. Leland writes on "The Outlook in Engineering Architecture, and Chemistry," describing the situation in those departments of Minnesota for the benefit of the alumni. The article is accompanied by a portrait and sketch of the author.

Aviation for September includes an article on "The Mechanical Coating of Airplane Wings" by George Hopp '12.

In The Vanderbilt Alumnus for November is printed the major part of an address on "The Challenge of the Present Hour," delivered by Professor Edwin Mims, Ph. D., '00, of Vanderbilt University, before the students of the University of Mississippi.

The November issue of The Columbia Law Review contains an appreciation and biographical sketch of the late Professor Francis M. Burdick, formerly of our College of Law, by Dean Harlan F. Stone of the Columbia Law School.

The Minute Man, organ of the Illinois Sons of the Revolution, in its October issue includes poems on "Old Glory" and "Bunker Hill" by the State president of the Society, William F. E. Gurley '77.

In The Journal of English and German Philology for July, lately received, Dr. Abbie Findlay Potts writes on "Wordsworth and the Bramble." Professor Richard R. Kirk, formerly of Cornell, now of the Georgia School of Technology, studies "A Sentence by Walter Pater," giving an admirable exposition of Pater's style. Professor Lane Cooper reviews W. A. Oldfather's "Index Verborum Quae in Senecae Fabulis Reperiuntur" and Henry Dwight Sedgwick's "Dante." Professor Clark S. Northup '93 reviews Henry Festing Jones's memoir of Samuel Butler, the author of "Erewhon."

In Modern Language Notes for December Professor George H. McKnight '92, of Ohio State University, discusses "Ballad and Dance" in opposition to Miss Louise Pound's theories, and Professor Elijah C. Hills '92 contributes additions to his bibliography of Federico Hansson, which appeared in a recent number.

In the Journal of the American Oriental Society for October, Professor Franklin Egerton of the University of Pennsylvania writes on "Evil-Wit, No-Wit, and Honest-Wit," a story in the ancient Sanskrit Panchatantra.

Dr. William A. Murrill, Ph. D. '09, contributes to The Scientific American for November 20 a study of "How Meadow Mice Destroy Trees."

In The Iron Age for December 2, Charles W. Gennet, jr., '98, a member of Robert W. Hunt & Co., engineers, of Chicago, writes on the serious situation of a "Rail Shortage Estimated at 12,000,000 Tons."

Professor Lane Cooper writes on "Cicero and Others in Things New and Old" in The Classical Weekly for November 20, and Professor Elizabeth H. Haight, Ph. D. '09, of Vassar, publishes in the same number "Notes on Summer Travel in Italy and Dalmatia."

In Science for November 26, Professor Edward B. Titchener writes on "Wilhelm Wundt, 1832-1920." In the same number "The Psychology of Nationality and Internationalism," by Professor Walter B. Pillsbury, Ph. D. '96, published by Appleton, is reviewed by H. L. Hollingsworth.

ATHLETICS

The Race in England

The cross country squad is tuning up this week for the coming match with Oxford and Cambridge. After the victory in the Intercollegiate the runners were given a respite from hard training, but in the past week or more Coach Jack Moakley has sent them through a daily practice over a steeplechase course, part of it laid out earlier in the fall for the annual interscholastic cross country race. This course is about two miles long, and includes ditches, hedges, water jumps, etc. Stiles used by the artillerymen of the R. O. T. C. have also come in handy for cross country training, and recently a jog up Kite Hill has been added to the program.

Earlier in the fall a cross country course similar to those used in England was laid out near the campus, and the pack covered it on several occasions. It is not practicable now, however, to use this course every day because of the short afternoons, but the steeplechase course and the natural and artificial handicaps and hazards to be found on and near Alumni Field have effectually met the needs of training for the sort of cross country running Cornell must expect in the race with the Britishers.

Although not originally designed as such, the race has taken on the character of an international meeting, now that Cornell has won the intercollegiate championship. The Cornell team will be truly representative of the best of American college runners. The British team will be composed of the pick of the varsity runners of Oxford and Cambridge.

The seven runners to make the trip will be Captain J. L. Dickinson, M. E. Richman, T. C. McDermott, H. V. Bonsal, C. C. Carter, N. P. Brown, and R. E. Brown. These men, in charge of Coach Moakley and accompanied by Barrett Smith '04 and John T. McGovern '00, will sail from New York on the Aquitania on December 14. The race will be run on December 27.

Carney to Coach Baseball

The Athletic Association announces the selection of John J. Carney, since 1910 baseball coach at Phillips Exeter Academy, to be coach of the varsity baseball team next season. Carney, who was in Ithaca last week, has signed a contract and will move his family here about February 1. and start winter baseball practice. He comes well recommended and has a good record as player, manager, and coach.

Carney broke into baseball in 1893 and 1894 as first and second baseman on the Manchester team of the New England League. During those two years he led the team in batting and fielding. He then joined the Washington Nationals, and played later with the Cleveland and Cincinnati teams of the National League. He went to managing in 1899 with the Toledo Club and he also directed the Kansas City and Sioux City teams. In 1910 he took up coaching, going to Exeter; he has been there ever since. Except for the first year of his service Exeter under him won its annual big game with Andover every year. Practically every Exeter player coached by Carney who has tried for a place on a college team, has succeeded. The last five Yale baseball captains were developed at Exeter under Carney.

The Basketball Team

Twenty-two men are left on the varsity basketball squad following the recent cut by Coach Howard Ortner. The situation is gradually taking shape and a varsity team will be selected in the near future. The first game of the season will be played on December 22, with Princeton as the opposing team. This league game will be the only contest for the varsity before it starts on a Christmas trip.

From last year's varsity five the following are available: J. Molinet, captain and forward, W. F. Rippe, center, and I. N. Sidman and E. H. Cornish, guards. Porter, a forward last year, and Bastian, who started as guard, are not available.

Athletic Notes

The annual banquet of the Cross Country Club was held Saturday in the parish house of the Methodist Church at Varna. About one hundred men hiked out there for the affair. Graduate Manager Berry was toastmaster. Acting President Smith, E. A. Southee of Oxford, W. E. Schutt '05, and Jack Moakley talked. Intercollegiate gold medals were given to the varsity cross country team and numerous medals and other prizes were awarded.

The sophomores defeated the freshmen in the annual interclass cross country run held last Saturday afternoon by a score of 49 to 57. K. B. Spear '23 was individual winner.

The soccer team lost to Princeton by a score of 4 to 0 last Saturday, on Alumni Field. The Cornell team more than held its own in the first half, neither team scoring, but in the second the Tiger attack broke through to victory.

ALUMNI NOTES

'74 BS—Mrs. Emma Way Thompson, the wife of Wilbray J. Thompson '74, died on October 28 at Louisville, Ky. Besides her husband, she leaves a son, Daniel, who is in Porto Rico, two sisters, and a brother.

'77 BAch—The Marshalltown State Bank, Marshalltown, Iowa, of which Albert F. Balch is president, has recently moved into and dedicated a fine new exclusive bank building said to be one of the finest in the State of Iowa. Balch lives at 106 North Second Street, Marshalltown.

'91 ME; '94—Mr. and Mrs. Horace Van Everen (Alice L. Berkfeld '94) are living at 13 Kirkland Place, Cambridge, Mass.

'92—Bert Houghton has been elected superintendent of operations of the Brooklyn Edison Company, a position second in authority only to that of the president and general manager. Mr. Houghton has been with the Brooklyn Edison Company since 1912.

'95 PhB—Mrs. P. L. Windsor (Margaret F. Boynton '95) writes that she now has a freshman daughter in the University of Illinois, and is having the joys of freshman math. through and with her. Her address is 701 Michigan Avenue, Urbana, Ill.

'96 PhD—E. Dana Durand, professor of economics in the University of Minnesota, has just received the decoration of the Order of Knight of the Italian Crown from the Italian Government in recognition of his services during the war. Mrs. Durand, with their four children, is in Geneva, Switzerland. Durand has been acting as economic adviser to the Polish Government for the last year, and his work will keep him abroad another year.

'97 AM, '00 PhD—William Tyler Miller has sold his landscape gardening business in Detroit, and with his wife, Mary F. Rogers Miller, B. S. '96, and their children, has moved to 1209 Creshaw Boulevard, South, Los Angeles, Calif.

'00 AB—Floyd P. Johnson is in the finished product section of the service department of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Wilmington, Del. He lives at 400 West Twentieth Street, Wilmington.

'00 ME—Marcus M. Drake is a marine architect and engineer, with offices at 17 Battery Place, New York. He lives at 1178 Kenmore Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

'01 PhD—Professor George W. Stewart, of the University of Iowa, is a member of the Iowa Physics Research Board, an organization allied with the Iowa Academy of Science and consisting of some twenty-five college and university physicists. Dr. Stewart is also secretary of the executive committee.

'01 AB—Joseph P. Harris, vice-president of the Citizens Savings and Trust Company, of Cleveland, has been obliged, by the pressure of business, to resign his seat in the Cleveland Board of Education.

'02 AB; '02 AB—Mr. and Mrs. Percy E. Raymond (Grace E. Goodenough '02) live at 23 Revere Street, Lexington, Mass.

'04—The firm of Wright & Lacy, of which George S. Lacy is a member, announces the removal of its offices to 41 Spear Street, San Francisco, Calif.

'04 AB—Miss Jessie G. Sibley was married on June 19 to Dr. Albert Draper Hequembourg; they are living at 18 Court Street, White Plains, N. Y.

'05 AB—Mrs. William Longley (Chloe Vosburgh '05) has a daughter, Dorothy, born last May. Her address is Gowanda, N. Y.

'05 ME—Louis L. Edmunds is chief engineer of the California and Hawaiian Sugar Refining Company, with headquarters at Crockett, Calif. This year, he says, will see the practical completion of a reconstruction of the refinery, the work having extended over a period of nearly four years, involving an expenditure of several millions of dollars. The capacity has been increased from some eight hundred to about twenty-two hundred tons of sugar per day, making the plant now one of the largest and most up-to-date refineries in the world. The birth of Edmunds' son, Louis Lake Edmunds, jr., on December 11, 1919, was followed by the death of Mrs. Edmunds in May of this year. He has a daughter, Mary, six years old.

'07 CE; '19 AB—Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Ferguson have announced the marriage of their daughter, Lucretia Hinkley Ferguson '19, to George H. ReKate '07, on October 1 at Buffalo, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. ReKate are now living at 187 Erie Street, Lancaster, N. Y.

'08 CE, '09 MCE—The offices of the Smallman-Brice Construction Company, of which Ralph A. Smallman is a member, are now located in their own building at 1109-15 Avenue E, Birmingham, Ala.

'09 ME—Howard L. Seaman is assistant secretary of the Lobbell Car Wheel Company, Wilmington, Del. He lives at 2502 West Seventeenth Street.

'10 AB—Harry M. St. John is service manager for the Detroit Electric Furnace Company, in charge of installation, service, development, and engineering work. One of the men working under him is Paul V. Blackburn, B. Chem. '20. St. John has a son, Harry M. St. John, jr., born June 4.

'10 CE—Herbert D. Kneeland, 230 Breathing Avenue, Ben Avon, Pittsburgh, reports the birth of a daughter, Evelyn Marie, on May 13.

'11—Oscar S. Tyson is now associated with Rickard and Sloan, an advertising agency specializing in industrial accounts, with offices at 25 Spruce Street, New York. Tyson spent seven years as Eastern advertising manager of The Factory Magazine, and for the past two years has been Eastern sales manager of The Electrical World.

'11 CE—Howard S. Warner is with the Martin Engineering Corporation, engineers and contractors, with offices in the Gluck Building, Niagara Falls, N. Y.

'12 AB, '15 MD—Dr. Leo Edelman, who has been for the past three years associated with Dr. Leo Buerger at 1000 Park Avenue, New York, has opened an office at 930 Park Avenue, New York, and since October 1 has devoted all his time to his own private practice, which is mainly limited to general surgery and urology.

'12 CE—Charles R. Meissner is now experimental engineer with the H. Koppers Company, of Pittsburgh. He lives at 306 Kenmount Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

'12 AB (Ph. D., Columbia '16)—Gustav Egloff is a hydrocarbon engineer, with offices at Room 1284, 208 South LaSalle Street, Chicago. He is at present making an investigation of the oil fields of California.

'12 AB; '13 BS—Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Vosbury (Margaret Connor '12) have recently purchased a home and several acres of land in McLean, Virginia, near Washington, D. C. Vosbury resigned from the Department of Agriculture on March 1, and is now in the Income Tax Unit of the Treasury Department at Washington.

'12 ME—George C. Salisbury is district engineer for the sales division of the industrial transportation department of the Lakewood Engineering Company, of Cleveland, Ohio. Since August 15, he has been in the Chicago office of the company, 1215 Lumber Exchange Building. He was married on June 26 to Miss Harriet Moore, of Cleveland, and they are living at 813 Ridge Avenue, Evanston, Ill.

'12—Frederick L. Brown, jr., and Miss Jeanette Smith were married on September 25 at the home of the bride's father, W. E. Smith, in Gouverneur, N.

Y. They are now living at 119 Stewart Avenue, Ithaca. Brown is vice-president of the Jamieson-McKinney Company, of Ithaca. During the war he served for nineteen months as construction superintendent at Scott Field, Belleville, Ill.

'12 AB—An interesting letter has been received from Miss Caroline Norment, Goucher College '09, giving an account of the work which is being done by Miss Meta M. Becker, as a member of the American Friends Service Committee. She says: "Miss Becker is now working in the child-feeding operations which are being conducted on American funds by the American Friends Service Committee in cooperation with the European Children's Fund of the American Relief Administration. She is stationed at Munich, and with one other American is responsible for the feeding of fifteen thousand needy children and nursing and expectant mothers. One of the greatest problems which the world has ever had to face is this one of finding a new ground on which all the nations can work together, after the terrible dividing agony of the last six years. The conditions laid down by the Peace Treaty, whether fair or not, have not served to find this ground. Many people all over the world are seeking for solutions; many of them are turning to the age-old method of loving one's enemy as a really practical answer in this day of practicality. I have been traveling around Germany--have visited at least twenty German cities. I find no topic of conversation so productive of a friendly reaction as this one of the kindly aid which is being given to German childhood by American philanthropy. Your readers will be glad to know that through their co-alumna, Miss Becker, they have a part in such work. If any of them wishes to know more about it, information can be had at 20 South Twelfth Street, Philadelphia, the home office of the American Friends Service Committee. The German staff of this organization--only twenty-one in number, though they have fed as many as 632,000 children and mothers in a single day, and next winter will do this daily--are largely American college men and women. The staff includes graduates of Pennsylvania, Harvard, Haverford, Leland Stanford, Goucher, Swarthmore, and Earlham. The task is one which appeals both to the hearts and minds of intelligent philanthropic men and women."

The Finishing Touch

At the end of the Dynamite Line is the box packing house. Here Hercules Dynamite receives its finishing touch.

In this house three operations take place. The cartridges are dipped in melted paraffine and made thoroughly moisture proof. They are given a final inspection. They are weighed and packed, and every effort is made to see that each box contains not an ounce less than its 25 or 50 pound of dynamite.

The hands of the men who do this work are the last to touch, their eyes the last to see Hercules Dynamite before it reaches the scenes of its appointed tasks. Their care, their thoroughness, supplies the final check necessary for the successful use of over fifty million pounds of Hercules Dynamite a year.

A farmer in Minnesota is clearing a field of stumps. A miner in Pennsylvania is bringing down a breast of coal. Engineers are driving a great tunnel through the heart of the Rockies. In a great city the foundation of a skyscraper is being carved out of solid rock.

Hercules Dynamite is on the job in every case—dynamite which a few short weeks ago passed under the hands and eyes of men at the end of a Hercules Dynamite Line—dynamite which has made the name Hercules a synonym for dependability in explosives.

A new edition of Concerning Cornell

WITH Cornellians this has been the most popular gift book in years. The books by Andrew D. White do not give quite as much about Cornell. We refer to his "Autobiography." "Concerning Cornell" has been rewritten and the cover designs changed. We show here the cloth edition, which sells at $3.50, while the leather edition will be $5.00, postage paid in each case.

There are beautiful pictures in the new Troy Calendar

THOSE who have bought Troy Calendars in past years remember that Mr. Troy takes pictures especially for the calendar. The pictures are not sold elsewhere. These pictures are good enough to frame at the end of the year. The price remains $1.55, postage paid.
