CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS

Vol. XXIII, No. 20

Ithaca, N. Y., February 17, 1921

Price 12 Cents

ABOUT a hundred and sixty new students matriculated in the first two days of registration for the second term. This means nothing except that probably a few more students entered this February than last year. No signs of the deductions for busting, graduation, and leaves are in sight yet. It is rumored that the basketball team is safe and that some members of the squad received exceptionally high grades.

ERIC DUDLEY has been chosen leader of the Glee Club to succeed Professor Hollis Dann.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made that R. O. T. C. summer training camps will open about June 15. Members of the Cornell infantry unit will go to Plattsburg, while artillerymen will meet at Camp Knox, Louisville, Kentucky.

A ROUND OF LECTURES, demonstrations, and conferences, and many eager visitors, characterize the Fourteenth Annual Farmers' Week now in full swing at the College of Agriculture.

A BOOK containing chapters on "home brewing" is announced as among those missing from the University Library.

W. KEITH SCHNEIDAU, Sp., of New Orleans, broke his thigh recently in an automobile accident when a Locomobile belonging to Reece D. Allen '23, of Dallas, Texas, skidded and smashed into a tree on the Newfield hill. The other five passengers were uninjured.

THE CITY LIMITS of Ithaca may be extended to and across the entire Lake front if the project for a municipal park there is approved, according to plans being made by Mayor Stewart.

ACCORDING to the Journal-News, "just as many Cornell women have been invited by just as many Cornell men to attend the Junior Week festivities as in former years," despite the recent anti-coed agitation. The statement is based on a survey of the residential halls and sorority houses.

TEN TO ONE in favor of a University honor system is the way the undergraduates expressed themselves in a questionnaire given to each when he registered. A petition asking for a definite plan is to be presented to the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs.

PROFESSOR SAMUEL P. ORTH presided at a debate on individualism versus Socialism at the Lyceum last Tuesday. The contestants were Frank Harris, editor and author, and Seymour Stedman, 1920 candidate of the Socialist party for the vice-presidency. They were brought to Ithaca by a lyceum circuit.

CHINESE STUDENTS of Cornell and other institutions took part in a benefit performance for the China Famine Fund in the ballroom of the Bellevue-Stratford in Philadelphia on February 11. Prominent Philadelphia society women, said to have been appointed by President Wilson, were in charge of the affair.

A PERFECT BOY may soon be among the students at the University, according to the New York News, which says that seventeen-year-old Thomas Diviney, lately adjudged one hundred per cent physically perfect by the Life Extension Institute, "is carefully going over the prospectus of Cornell University, which he expects to attend because they offer such splendid architectural courses."

FIRE SATURDAY MORNING caused damage amounting to between twelve and fifteen thousand dollars at the plant of the Thomas-Morse Aircraft Corporation on South Hill. A special Hispano airplane motor being built for the Government was damaged beyond repair.

THE UNIVERSITY has acquired the "Reports of the United States Senate and House of Representatives on Claims of New York State Organizations and Citizens, 1798-1825." The reports were bought at a sale of books and documents of historical interest conducted by the American Art Association in New York recently.

THE TRUSTEES have made their customary appointments of the staff for the next Summer Session. The staff consists of 35 professors, 25 assistant professors, and 109 instructors, and is headed by a committee of which Professor Robert M. Ogden '01 is chairman.

BASEBALL PRACTICE has started in the cage under the new coach, John J. Carney. He has the distinction of having trained all the Yale baseball captains for the last five years, while they were attending Exeter.

RICHARD T. WAINWRIGHT, of Rye, New York, because of his recent election as president of the State Agricultural Society, becomes a Trustee of the University, succeeding Dr. William H. Jordan, the retiring president.

A QUARTETTE from the Glee Club helped to entertain the guests at a community reception in the new Ithaca Women's Building last week.

FISHING through the ice at the end of the Lake has been especially successful this winter. It is said that many Faculty members as well as townsmen and students are availing themselves of sport with the pike.

LECTURES for the week include "The Human Side of Farming" by Dr. Charles J. Galpin, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture; "Financing the Farm" by Asbury F. Lever, of the Federal Farm Loan Board; an address by State Senator Henry M. Sage, grandson of Henry W. Sage, donor of the Library, Sage College, etc.; "Birds in Relation to Agriculture in New York State," illustrated by motion pictures, by Professor Arthur A. Allen '07; "Russia in the Far East" by Charles H. Tuck '06, who has lately returned from Siberia; and "From the Greeks to the Franks" by Professor George L. Burr '81 in the course on the history of civilization.

SEVEN CHURCHES of Ithaca have united for a series of Lenten evangelical meetings from March 7 to 25, in charge of a committee of laymen. Not only this unity of the churches, but the fact that laymen will conduct many of the meetings, is considered noteworthy. The churches are the First Presbyterian, Congregational, Episcopal, State Street and Aurora Street M. E., Unitarian, and First Baptist.

BEE-KEEPERS of the State gathered at Cornell in a pre-Farmers' Week conference, occupying the entire week and hearing a number of nationally prominent speakers. The Hon-E-B Club held a banquet.

WILLIAM F. LANDERS '23 of Indianapolis has been elected assistant manager of the Musical Clubs for next year.

THROUGH THE INABILITY of the Reverend Dr. Lynn Harold Hough of Detroit to act as Sage Chapel preacher for next Sunday, the University was able to arrange for the appearance of President Murray Bartlett of Hobart and William Smith Colleges, Geneva. President Bartlett was the organizer of the University of the Philippines. During the war he served overseas, was wounded in the Marne-Aisne offensive, and received the Croix de Guerre.

Junior Week Festivities

Many Affairs, Mostly Dances, Are Held. Masque, Musical Clubs, Basketball Team, and Heavy Snowfall Add to Occasion.

Junior Week commenced rather inauspiciously with sloppy weather conditions for Wednesday afternoon, when it was inaugurated by tea dances at the Zodiac, Chi Psi, and Alpha Sigma Phi houses. In the evening the Musical Clubs sang and played in Bailey Hall.

Thursday afternoon a heavy fall of snow began which continued well through Friday evening, covering up the mud and adding materially to the beauties of the scenery and to the difficulties of transportation.

The Masque gave a matinee of "Martini," the show it put on the road during the Christmas holidays. Delta Phi, Sigma Chi, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Zeta Psi gave tea dances during the afternoon. In the evening the Masque show was repeated, and house dances were given by Alpha Delta Phi, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Phi Kappa Sigma, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Friday noon Majura and Beth L'Amed held breakfasts, while in the afternoon tea dances were given by Beta Theta Pi, Delta Chi, Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta Sigma, Phi Kappa Psi, Pi Lambda Phi, and Psi Upsilon.

The Junior Promenade was held Friday night. For the first time the Sophomore Cotillion was missing, leaving the Junior as the outstanding big dance of the week. During the Prom, dances for freshmen were held by Delta Tau Delta and Sigma Phi Sigma.

Saturday noon the Masque and Savage Club held a joint breakfast at the Dutch. The exciting basketball game with Pennsylvania and the All-Cornell tea dance of the Independent Association made a week of it. The Aeacia Fraternity (Masonic) gave a house dance Saturday evening, the last event of a week that was mostly dancing, punctuated with excellent performances by the musical and dramatic organizations and the basketball team.

PHILIPPINES RACE HAWAII

Following the lead of their fellow Pacific islanders in Hawaii, Cornellians in the Philippine Islands have just made a substantial contribution to Cornell's Endowment. Eight subscriptions, totaling $2,425, were received from Manila this week, bringing the total subscribed in the Philippines up to $3,275, representing gifts of fifteen Cornellians. The Hawaiian Islands are still a trifle ahead, with $3,450 subscribed by twenty-four alumni and friends of Cornell. Both in percentage of alumni subscribing and the amount subscribed, Cornellians in these farthest outposts of America have made better records than many districts which are within a day's train ride of Ithaca.

NORTHERN N. J. IN ACTION

Besides food and a declaration by all present that they would attend the local smoker February 18, a talk by Frederick S. Crum '93 featured the monthly luncheon of the Cornell Club of Northern New Jersey last Wednesday noon. Crum, who is assistant statistician of the Prudential Insurance Company, talked about accidents and made it interesting without including the horrible details. Crum has traveled all over the world looking for accidents and also knows the size, shape, weight, and specific gravity of the Rock of Gibraltar.

The smoker to be held here on February 18 at the Robert Treat Hotel should bring out every New Jersey Cornellian. As bait the entertainment committee has arranged to have present Dean Kimball, Rym Berry, graduate manager of athletics, Foster M. Coffin, Alumni Representative, and John T., better known as Terry, McGovern, who went with the cross country team to England. All four will talk, McGovern to the accompaniment of movies.

NEW BRUNSWICK SMOKER

Plans for the Cornell smoker to be held in New Brunswick, N. J., on February 26, the night of the Cornell-Rutgers basketball game, will make it the preliminary meeting for a more extended alumni organization to follow. The alumni of Trenton are joining with the New Brunswick men and personal invitations are going to all Cornellians in the vicinity.

The Cornellians will have the use of the alumni house on the Rutgers campus for the evening, and expect to have present the members of the Cornell team. A cordial invitation is extended to all Cornell men to meet at the alumni house immediately after the game.

SYRACUSE STARTS LUNCHEONS

The weekly luncheons of the Cornell Club of Syracuse will start Thursday of this week. The club is planning to have several men come from Ithaca during the season, to speak on University affairs and to lead discussions on timely topics. Foster M. Coffin '12 will attend the opening luncheon to discuss subjects touching on the office of the Alumni Representative.

LUNCHEON OF N. Y. WOMEN

Cornell women in New York City and vicinity will gather in force at the Hotel Pennsylvania on February 19, at the annual luncheon of the Cornell Women's Club of New York. Dr. Helen L. Young '00 will be toastmistress and the speakers will be Dr. Talcott Williams, formerly director of the Pulitzer School of Journalism at Columbia University, and famous as an editor and publisher, and Foster M. Coffin '12, Alumni Representative.

All Cornell women are cordially invited to attend. Reservations may be made through Miss Amy L. Luce '17, 523 West 121st Street, New York. The luncheon will be held at 1.30 p. m.

MOTT SPEAKS IN PITTSBURGH

At the weekly luncheon of Cornell alumni in Pittsburgh on Friday, February 11, Dean William Elton Mott, '95-6 Grad., of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, spoke most entertainingly of "My Old Days at Cornell." Dean Mott was well qualified for his subject, having been instructor and assistant professor of water supply engineering at Cornell from 1892 to 1905.

TRACK DINNER IN BOSTON

The Cornell Club of New England will take advantage of the presence of the Cornell track team in Boston on February 26 to hold an informal dinner and get-together. The party will be held at six o'clock, following the triangular meet with Harvard and Dartmouth. Cornell men wishing to attend should make reservations not later than February 21, with Rudolph L. Sittinger '15, athletic director of the club, 1046 Oliver Building, 141 Milk Street, Boston, Mass.

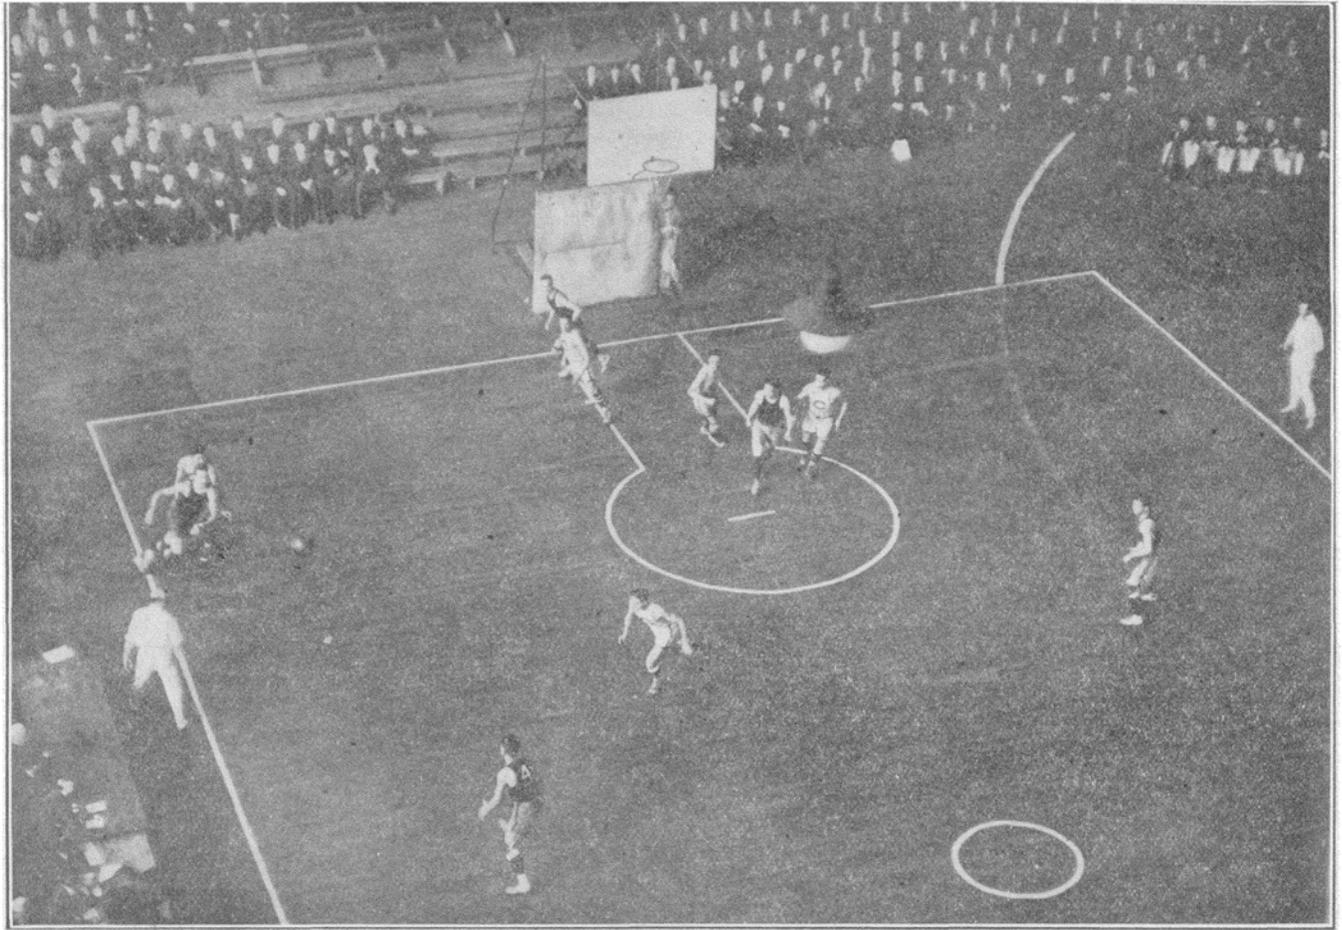

TRENTON TO HOLD BANQUET

The Cornell Alumni Association of Trenton and vicinity will hold its second annual banquet on Tuesday, March 1, at Hotel Sterling. Dean A. R. Mann '04 and J. T. McGovern '00 are to speak. Cornell movies will be shown. Cornellians who can be present should address the chairman of the banquet committee, Carlman F. Ribsam '11 of Trenton, N. J.

REAL COMPLIMENTS

The following extract from a summary of the Dartmouth football season contributed to The Daily Dartmouth by William Cunningham, center, has been sent to the ALUMNI NEWS by Charles Leach Beckwith '16, who says that Cunningham has always felt very kindly toward Cornell because of the fact that at one time he coached the Chicago University School football team, when it contained such players as Frank Foss, Fred Gillies, and Toby Shiverick.

There are two things that will always remain in my memory concerning that Cornell game, and both of them are real examples of the truest exposition of clean sportsmanship that I ever saw given on a football field. One was the Cornell team's treatment of Jim Robertson. It was no secret that Jim's right shoulder had been broken a few weeks before and that it had scarcely had time to heal. Every sport sheet in the East had the dope and had gone into detail about it. Furthermore, no effort was made to conceal the fact by the Dartmouth trainers, and Jim went into the game with a big pile of padding over the broken shoulder that could easily be seen even from the stands. The game meant much to Cornell, more perhaps than any other, and Robertson was beyond any question one of the most powerful factors in the Green attack. Yet, never, at any time during the time he was in the game, did any Cornell man make any effort to "get" him—a policy that is often resorted to in games where the rivalry is bitter. There were times, naturally enough, when such an effort would have had the perfect cloak of legitimacy, but the Cornell players, to the man, showed the Green captain every consideration permissible in hard straight football. There was no piling on, no unnecessary pushing, no roughing of the kicker, nor anything of the kind. Several times a Cornell player helped him to his feet, and there was one occasion where a Cornell man lay on his back in a pile-up and for a real period of time, supported the full weight of a Dartmouth player with his arms to keep the Dartmouth man from dropping on Jim's shoulder which was protruding from the pile immediately below him.

An action picture of a basketball game is a rarity because the contests are usually held at night. The game Saturday afternoon was played by daylight, giving Mr. Troy an opportunity to show Penn starting an attack.

The other was an incident that happened after the game was ended. The players had dressed and were leaving the Polo Grounds. As several of us passed the Cornell bunk house, some of the men who had been in the game came out. They walked over to us and held out their hands. I remember, in particular, Carey, the Cornell fullback. He offered his congratulations and complimented our playing, and he was the one man of the Red and White who had every cause to be bitter, for our line had been smashing through on him all the afternoon, and rushing his kicks to the point where he could not do himself justice. Opposing players usually exchange perfunctory handshakes when the final whistle blows, even though they may have been questioning the legitimacy of each other's lineal descent all the afternoon, for it is the freemasonry of the football field to bury all grievances of the game upon leaving the gridiron, but this hearty and sincere congratulation after the game was over and a thing of the past left a pleasant taste in the mouth that will never be forgotten by those of us who were lucky enough to be there to return the handshakes of those true gentlemen of the gridiron.

REV. ALLEN E. ATWATER, former minister of the State Street Methodist Episcopal Church, died of pneumonia on February 7 at his home in Homer.

SPORT STUFF

Junior Week was a great success in every particular save in the operation of the checking system for hats, overcoats, and gooloshes at the house dances. The check rooms at the houses are handled by groups of freshmen on hour shifts. This is a very fair way of dividing the labor. Pink and Snoopy can be toddling while Fat and Ed are receiving and piling up the stuff and then Fat and Ed can have their opportunity to dance while Pink and Snoopy are wrestling with about two car loads of mixed gents' furnishings. While this sounds fair enough the system is regarded as a total failure by those gentlemen who arrived in fur coats and departed in pea jackets valuable only as souvenirs of the Great War.

At one point a departing professor who had retrieved his hat and coat after personally burrowing in the pile for forty minutes pointed out to the amiable but futile freshman in attendance that the academic gooloshes were still palpably lacking. The frosh rose to the occasion—"I'm sorry, Professor, but we are all out of gooloshes right now. But another crowd is just arriving and if you'll wait about ten minutes we'll fit you out complete." R. B.

HOW CLEVELAND DOES IT

Following the letter from Jimmy Winslow to Foster Coffin about the New York Cornell Club's activities, the latter wrote to Dr. Kerr, the secretary of what is universally conceded to be the most active Cornell club of its type in the country. Cleveland differs from New York in that the latter has a club house, while the former is an association that meets on call of its officers, a type of organization that is almost universal outside of New York City in the alumni work of all colleges. Little but modesty comes from Dr. Kerr:

My dear Coffin:

In response to your request, I will try to tell you something of the Cornell Club of Cleveland, its activities and aims, and how they are being carried on.

The club was organized in 1906, and up to 1914 it held a few luncheons each year attended by ten to twenty men; with no program and not a great amount of interest; and an annual banquet. There were a number of loyal Cornellians in Cleveland, and they had worked hard, but had not been able to keep up enthusiasm among a large number of the alumni.

At the annual meeting in September, 1914, the matter of holding luncheons was discussed, and it was felt that some means should be found to bring out more men, keep alive the Cornell spirit, and thereby work toward some definite benefit for the University. A luncheon committee was appointed, and it was decided that to get men to come to the luncheon, they must be got to take part in singing and fun, but also that they must be given something of real value to listen to.

That winter we met in the beefsteak room at the Hollenden Hotel. That room was supposed to seat thirty to forty, but after three or four luncheons we were packing in seventy to eighty; everyone was singing his head off; there was a lot of fun and always a speaker who had a message. In two years we outgrew that room and had to adjourn to Hotel Statler Lounge, which seats one hundred and fifty, and we soon had it packed more than once, with an average attendance of about eighty-five. Men from every religion, every profession, and every kind of business have been asked to speak and they have come gladly and given us wonderful talks. Each year we have worked up to the annual banquet as a climax, and those banquets have been notably successful.

The result of all this has been that we have been able to do some real constructive things for the University, such as raising funds for this or that deficit; taking back the largest percentage of members to the Semi-Centennial; putting on our own show at Spring Day; conducting an Endowment Fund campaign which netted the University $300,000, besides many smaller but very necessary things.

This has all meant a lot of work by many men. Each man when called upon to do something has done it gladly. Some have done more than others, because of time or ability in that particular line, but all have done well. We are known as the most enthusiastic and best organized of all college clubs in Cleveland.

A prominent ex-judge in speaking at one of our luncheons this winter, stated that it was publicly recognized in Cleveland that the Cornell Club could be got behind any worthy movement, and its support went a long way toward assuring the success of such a movement.

A Cornellian who recently came to Cleveland told me that when he applied for a position with a prominent firm here, the manager told him that to be a member of the Cornell Club was a valuable asset to any man in Cleveland.

We have no supermen here, and we do not feel that we have done more than any other group of Cornellians can do if they really wish to.

I trust that this letter will not sound egotistical. It is meant to be only a recital of facts.

Very sincerely yours,
(Signed) I. J. KERR, Secretary.

OBITUARY

Albert L. Jones '72

Albert L. Jones, another Cornell pioneer, died in Tucson, Ariz., on July 29, 1920, of heart disease.

He was born in Pompey Hill, Onondaga County, N. Y., on May 15, 1849, and entered Cornell at the opening of the University, in the course in agriculture, remaining during the first two trimesters.

Soon after leaving Cornell he was employed in a grocery store in Syracuse, N. Y., and was so employed in that city until 1898, when he went to Tucson, where he was employed by A. Steinfield for twenty-one years. For a year prior to his death he managed a poultry ranch there.

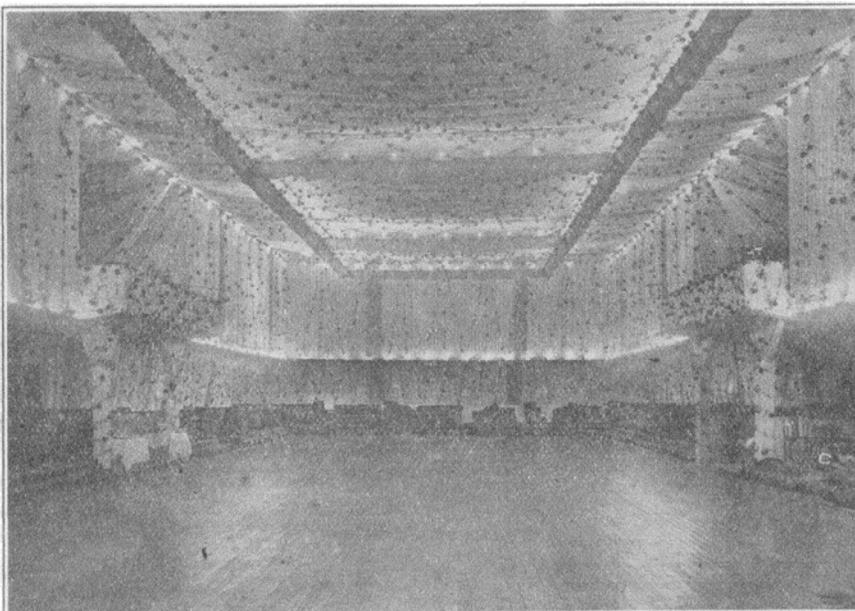

The funeral was under the direction of Mr. Steinfield, with whom he had been associated for so many years, and burial was in Evergreen Cemetery.

E. V. W. '72.

Henry Tift '74

Henry Tift, a retired real estate man, died in Chicago on May 14, 1920. The immediate cause of his death was heart trouble, from which he had been a sufferer for many years.

Mr. Tift was born at Jackson, Miss., on September 25, 1854. After the death of his parents, when he was about ten years of age, he went to live with an uncle, Hiram Tift, at Moravia, N. Y. He attended a Quaker school at Union

The Armory is shown decorated in green and white with red roses. Although the Sophomore Cotillion was omitted this year, the decorations did a really greater service at the All-Cornell Tea Dance given on Saturday afternoon by the non-fraternity men of the Independent Association.

Springs, N. Y., and entered Cornell in 1870, remaining three years.

After leaving college he began his very successful business career with the law firm of Hervey, Anthony and Galt of Chicago, ultimately devoting his entire time to real estate.

He was a member of the Cornell Club of Chicago, and a devoted Cornellian. He had attended many of the reunions of his class at Ithaca, and regretted that ill health prevented his attending the last one.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Henrietta W. Tift, and a daughter, Ella Tift Underwood (Smith College '02).

Roger A. Spencer '02

Roger Allen Spencer, principal of School No. 17 in Rochester, N. Y., died suddenly on December 27 at his home in Avon, N. Y., of heart disease.

Spencer was born in Jasper, N. Y., on July 28, 1874, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Spencer. He was graduated from Canisteo Academy in 1894, and from Cook Academy, Montour Falls, N. Y., in 1898. Then he attended Yale for two years, coming to Cornell in 1900, and receiving the degree of A. B. in 1902.

Before going to Rochester in 1909, he taught in Troupsburg, Interlaken, and Unadilla, N. Y. He was a member of the New York State Teachers' Association.

Harry J. Willcox '15

Harry J. Willcox, of Forest Home, died in a hospital in Champaign, Ill., on January 6, following an operation for appendicitis.

He was born on September 7, 1885, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Willcox, and prepared for college at the Ithaca High School, entering the University in 1911 in the course in arts. He received the degree of A. B. in February, 1915, and that of A. M. in June of the same year. He also studied at the Ithaca Conservatory of Music during the same period, and was graduated from the elocution department. He was a member of Phi Mu Alpha, a music fraternity, and of the Cornell Alliance Française and the Festival Chorus.

After his graduation he went to Champaign, where he taught for a time, later going to Kansas City, where he taught in the Country Day School, a private school for boys, until the time of his death. He became ill while visiting friends in Chicago at Christmas time, and returned to Champaign to undergo an operation.

He was a member of a Masonic lodge in Champaign, and of St. John's Episcopal Church in Ithaca; during his University career he was a lay reader in Slaterville Springs and Speedsville.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

PRINCETON had up to December 31 secured $8,262,682 of her $14,000,000 endowment; of this $3,982,248.48 had been paid in. '98, '16, '20, and '22 have each turned in a 100 per cent subscription, '23 records 99.7 per cent, and '95 has a 99.1 per cent subscription.

AT MINNESOTA, according to recently published statistics, the scholarship of fraternity men averages higher than that of non-fraternity men, while the opposite is true of the sororities.

DARTMOUTH is raising $360,000 to provide an athletic field in memory of her war heroes. The quota for the undergraduates was $16,000; they have already subscribed $22,050 with a hundred men or more yet to hear from. The new field will include two gridirons, three diamonds, three hockey rinks, eleven tennis courts, and a new concrete grand stand.

DR. WALLACE WALTER ATWOOD, formerly professor of physiography at Harvard, was on February 1 installed as president of Clark University.

HARVARD has issued a descriptive pamphlet in Spanish for distribution in South America. It makes special mention of the courses in engineering, law, business administration, economics, government, and drama.

THE REGISTRATION LINE

The heavy snow storm of last Thursday and Friday gave a spectacular finish to a Junior Week that started with rain and mud. As usual, many of those registering for the second semester on Friday and Saturday mornings appeared in evening clothes. The line entering Goldwin Smith is shown trailing off between Boardman and Stimson Halls in the direction of the Chapel. Over the line in front of the entrance to Goldwin Smith is shown the winter shed erected for the protection of the Sheldon Memorial Exedra.

SOME JUNIOR WEEK COMMENT

There are several features of Junior Week this year that deserve commendation. The energetic action on the part of seniors in the fraternity houses, cooperating with President Smith, held down intoxication to what seems almost a negligible amount. This in itself was an achievement of first rank. The life of the annual affair was threatened by those who held that it would be better to do away with the mid-year holidays, and refuse the use of the Armory, than to permit the degeneration of this interesting social event into an annual riot. Those who unselfishly risked unpopularity for a principle and for the future deserve the praise that is theirs.

It is true that Junior Week now consists of little but dancing, and that there is little variety in the dancing. In the intervals between snatches of sleep there are more dances. No novel features have been added for years, and some have been lost in the period of the world-wide shuffle. Drag rides, fraternity theatricals, and such other variants from the endless dancing as have been instituted from time to time by ingenious fraternities, these are all off. Skill in carrying out a house dance alone draws applause. One courageous fraternity substituted pork sausage and scrambled eggs for the now standardized pabulum with crashing effect. Still, none of the participants demands novelty.

Nevertheless, this year's Junior Week is marked down in red. While there was no great ingenuity exhibited, there was the earnest effort made to save the event for future Cornellians from the curse of mixing drinking and dancing. If nothing else had been accomplished the week would have been an eminent success.

An important departure was made on Saturday afternoon, when the new Independent Association, consisting, in principle at least, of all non-fraternity men, gave a tea dance in the Armory after the basketball game. The dance was said to have been one of the pleasantest of all held during the week. Fraternity house parties were generous in their acceptance of it as a regular function of the week. It was a pronounced success.

The noteworthy feature of this independent dance was not that it was a successful dance. It established the new organization as non-fraternity rather than anti-fraternity. It indicated that the non-fraternity men were ready to take a part that is social as well as political in the affairs of the University. Our non-fraternity alumni will view the progress of the Independent Association with pleasure, and may well be justified in looking forward ultimately to a more tangible Cornell to which they can return without feeling that a choice made in the freshman year must forever keep them from acquaintance with recognized student organizations.

LITERARY REVIEW

The Eddas

Bibliography of the Eddas. By Hall-dor Hermannsson. Ithaca, N. Y. Cornell University Library. 1920. 8vo, pp. viii, 95. Islandica xiii. Price, $1.

The Eddic poems are the precious relics of the most ancient thoughts and ideas of our Teutonic ancestors of which we have any record. There are some thirty-three poems, surviving partly in the famous Codex Regius, discovered in 1642, and partly in the Codex Arna-Magnæus 748, both mss. dating from around 1400; the poems themselves probably go back to the tenth century or thereabouts. This collection of poetry used to be called Saemund's Edda, but is now more generally known as the Elder Edda. A prose paraphrase of these poems, with a commentary, written by Snorri Sturlason about 1220-5 is often called the Younger Edda.

About these ancient poems and the prose paraphrase there has grown up a very considerable critical and exegetical literature, involving many fundamental problems relating to the religious thought of our Northern ancestors. Exciting, moreover, the interest of literary men of the last two centuries all over Europe, they have been many times translated and have furnished the sources for much that is priceless in our modern literature—for example Arnold's "Balder Dead" and Morris's "Sigurd the Volsung." Any one interested on this side should consult Professor Frank E. Farley's "Scandinavian Influences in the English Romantic Movement."

It is therefore a real service to literary and linguistic scholarship that Professor Hermannsson has rendered in compiling this orderly list of editions, translations, paraphrases, and critical and explanatory works dealing with the collections as a whole and also with individual poems. Fifteen pages, for example, are devoted to the list of translations of the Elder Edda as a whole into twelve languages; while the list of translations of and articles on individual poems fills thirty pages.

The present work will satisfy the most fastidious of bibliographers. It forms a sort of complement to the "Bibliography of the Mythical-Heroic Sagas" which Professor Hermannsson issued in 1912 as no. v of Islandica; and it is gratifying to note that he has in mind, as a further contribution to scholarship in this field, a bibliography of Norse mythology. The series has already brought great credit to Cornell and to its industrious and efficient author. We hope there will be many more volumes.

Books and Magazine Articles

Professor Joseph E. Trevor '92 contributes to the Annals of Mathematics for December an article "On Certain Determinants Associated with Transformations Employed in Thermodynamics."

Professor William C. Bagley, Ph.D. '00, in The Educational Review for January discusses the question "Are the Older 'School Virtues' Obsolete?"

Dr. William Elliot Griffis tells in The North American Review for January "What the Pilgrim Fathers Accomplished."

The frontispiece to the February number of The Cornell Countryman is a picture of Former Dean Isaac P. Roberts, now in his eighty-eighth year. Professor Millard V. Atwood '10 tells of "Teaching Type How to Till: the College and Uncle Sam's Mail Work Together for the Farmer." Professor Herbert H. Whetzel, '02-4 Grad., writes on "Get Up and Dust," which, he says, as a slogan for fruit-growers fighting the enemies of the orchard is likely to supplant "Let us spray." Professor Glenn W. Herrick '96 writes on "Getting Rid of That Apple Maggot." Andrew J. Lamoureux '74, under the heading "Let There Be Grass," gives some interesting reminiscences of early days. Miss Elizabeth T. Cooper '21 reviews "The American Home Diet" by Professor E. V. McCollum and Nina Simmonds, and Frederick R. Undritz '21 reviews "The Rabbit Book" by Professor F. L. Washburn. Under the head of "Former Student Notes" there is a good sketch of Dr. Leland O. Howard '77, with a portrait.

"The Faults of Childhood and Youth" by Professor Michael V. O'Shea '92 is reviewed in The Wisconsin Alumni Magazine for February.

Arthur Keith's "Engines of the Human Body" is reviewed in The Evening Post Literary Review for December 24 by Vernon Kellogg, '91-2 Grad.

In The American Journal of Science for February "The Ore Deposits of Utah" by Bert S. Baker '05 and others is reviewed by W. E. F.

In Bird-Lore for January-February Professor Arthur A. Allen '07 writes on "A Bird in the Schoolroom" and "The Bird as a Flying-Machine." Both articles are illustrated.

In the Bulletin of the Torrey Botanical Club Professor Joseph C. Arthur. D. Sc. '86, of Purdue, continues his serial entitled "New Species of Uredineae."

In Rhodora for November Professor Karl M. Wiegand '94 collaborates with M. L. Fernald in "Studies of Some Boreal American Cerastiums of the Section Orthodon."

Torrey for November-December includes "An Excursion to Mountain Lake, Virginia," by Dr. William A. Murrill, Ph. D. '00, of the New York Botanical Garden.

Horace Kephart, '81-4 Grad., is contributing to All Outdoors a serial entitled "Is Man-Hunting the Finest Sport in the World?" The instalments bear the following titles: "The Snake-Stick Man," January; "A Raid into the Sugarlands," February; "The Killing of Hol. Rose," March. It has to do with the moonshiners in the Southern mountains.

In the Journal of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae for November, lately received, Mrs. Harriet Connor Brown '94 writes, under the title "Women to the Rescue," on the madness of increasing our military and naval armament. On the same subject Mrs. Brown recently contributed an article entitled "America Menaced by Militarism" to The Searchlight, and this has been reprinted in a pamphlet of thirty-one pages which is sold by the Searchlight Publishing Company of Washington at ten cents.

The frontispiece of The Chinese Students' Monthly is a portrait of H. E. Sao-ke Alfred Sze '01, the new Chinese minister to Washington, and there is a sketch of his life including a long quotation from The North China Herald.

The Cornell Civil Engineer for January contains articles on "The Langley Field, Va., Sewerage System" by Ford Kurtz '07 and "Practical Drainage Observations" by Carl A. Gould '07. There are interesting letters from James W. Beardsley '91, Robert J. Harding '03, Juan Aguilar '08, and Marcel K. Sessler '13. Professor Henry N. Ogden '89 reviews "Financial Engineering" by O. B. Goldman. There are In Memoriam notices of Archibald B. Lueder '99 and Charles A. Kain '95.

Professor Homer A. Watt '06, of New York University, contributes to The Mining and Scientific Press for February 5 a paper on "Teaching Engineering Students to Write," read before the National Conference of Business Paper Editors in New York on October 21.

In The Journal of Philosophy for January 20 Professor James E. Creighton, Ph. D. '92, reviews Bernard Bosanquet's "Implication and Linear Inference."

The second edition of "A Laboratory Manual of Testing Materials" by William Kendrick Hatt '91 and Herbert H. Scofield '05 has lately appeared. It has been thoroughly revised in accordance with current practice. It is published by the McGraw-Hill Book Company at $1.25.

In the Journal of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers for January Harold B. Vincent '04 discusses the "Operative Performance of Insulators on a 45,000-Volt System." Vincent is now management engineer for Day & Zimmermann, Inc.

In The Gas Industry for January Judge William L. Ransom '05 writes on "Regulatory Bodies."

In The Modern Language Journal for October Professor Elijah C. Hills '92, of Indiana, discusses "Our Threefold Needs." He finds these needs to be competent and enthusiastic teachers, small classes, and sufficient time. In the Journal for December Professor Ralph H. Keniston writes on "The Study of Grammar in Second-Year Spanish." "An Elementary French Reader" by Professors Everett W.

Olmsted '91 and F. P. Barton of the University of Minnesota is reviewed favorably by Florence A. Lucas.

"A First Course in Spanish" by Professor Everett W. Olmsted '91, of the University of Minnesota, has recently appeared from the press of Henry Hoyt & Company.

"A Probable Explanation of Polyembryony in the Armadillo" by Professor Charles R. Stockard, of the Medical College, is one of the articles in The American Naturalist for January-February.

Dr. Leon A. Hausman '14 contributes to The Scientific American Monthly for February an illustrated article on "The Detection of Imitation Furs: How the Microscope Enables Us to Distinguish Real Furs from Spurious."

In his article in The New York Tribune for February 6 Professor Herbert J. Davenport takes the ground that the Federal Reserve Board should stabilize prices by exercising control of credit.

ATHLETICS

A Spectacular Basketball Game

By defeating Pennsylvania by a score of 20 to 19 in the Drill Hall last Saturday the basketball team kept in the race for championship honors in the Intercollegiate League, at the same time putting forth its best exhibition of the year. This was the first Intercollegiate League defeat suffered by the Quakers in two years and it was not brought about without a hard fought and mighty close battle all the way. The game drew a crowd of more than three thousand five hundred persons, including many Junior Week guests and it proved one of the most colorful as well as spectacular battles seen here in many a year.

Except in the first few minutes of the play, when Pennsylvania had a four-point lead, the teams were never more than one field basket apart. At the end of the half the score stood 8 to 8.

Time after time in the second half it was tied again, one team going ahead for the moment with a field basket, or perhaps, two foul goals, only to have its opponent even things up. In fact the game was in doubt almost to the very end.

A long field goal by Captain Molinet, thrown within two minutes of the end of play, when the score stood at 18 all, was the decisive shot of the contest, and even then Captain McNichol of Penn cut down Cornell's two-point margin by throwing a basket from the foul line, just before time was called.

Close guarding cut down the opportunities for goal-shooting on both sides. Cornell's play in this regard was perhaps the best of the year. And the team worked together; there was a gratifying absence of a tendency toward individualism that has cropped out in previous games. In fact the game found the Cornell team at its best.

But there was little to choose between the teams. Cornell scored one more field basket than Penn, caging six to five for the Quakers, but the Red and Blue gained one more point on foul goals than the home five. Captain McNichol, one of the most accurate basket tossers in the league, caged nine foul goals out of twelve tries, but he was closely pressed by Sidman of Cornell, who made eight good out of eleven attempts. Sidman was forced to retire toward the end of the game because four personal fouls had been called on him.

Two field goals and three foul goals by McNichol gave Penn a good start in the early stages of the game, but Molinet came through with a long shot from deep center, and two fouls by Sidman brought Cornell up. Barkalew's basket and more foul goals by Sidman and McNichol made it eight all at the end of the half.

Vogelin, after a dribble down the floor, scored the first basket of the second period, but Sidman came back with a long shot from midfield, followed by three fouls while McNichol was making two. Miller, who substituted for Huntzinger, scored two field goals, but Rippe tied the score again. Cornish sent Cornell ahead, but McNichol's accurate foul shooting again tied the score. With the crowd on its feet in wild excitement Molinet stepped into the breach and threw the basket that clinched the victory for Cornell.

The line-up:

Cornell (20)	Penn (19)
Barkalew -----L.F.-----	Rosenast
Molinet -----R.F.-----	Huntzinger
Rippe -----C.-----	Grave
Cornish -----L.G.-----	McNichol
Sidman -----R.G.-----	Vogelin

Field Goals: Cornell, Molinet (2), Barkalew, Rippe, Sidman, Cornish; Penn, Vogelin, McNichol (2), Miller (2). Foul goals: Sidman, 8 out of 11; Molinet, none out of one; McNichol, 9 out of 12.

Substitutions: Cornell, Pope for Sidman; Penn, Miller for Huntzinger.

Referee: Metzdorf of Rochester. Umpire: Messer of Albany. Time of periods: 20 minutes.

Wrestlers Win

The wrestling team scored two victories in its week-end trip to Greater New York, defeating the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute Friday afternoon by a score of 25 to 4 and Columbia Saturday by a score of 21 to 9. In neither contest did Coach O'Connell's protégés have much difficulty.

Brooklyn Polytechnic offered serious opposition in but two bouts. One of them, the 145-pound class, went to the home team when Rubien won a decision over Snedeker. In the 135-pound class Grider of Cornell and Kurtz of Poly wrestled fifteen minutes to a draw. Ackerly, Captain Mackey, McBride, Wright, and Hanson of the Cornell team all won their matches by falls.

In the Columbia match Cornell won five bouts to two for the home team. Only two falls were scored in this match, Captain Mackey of Cornell throwing Hayman of Columbia in the 125-pound class and Potter of Columbia downing Wright of Cornell in the 175-pound class. Ackerly in the 115-pound class, Grider in the 135, McBride in the 158, and Hanson in the heavyweight, all of Cornell, won their matches by decisions, while a similar victory was scored for Columbia by Garst in the 145-pound class. McBride's victory over Potter, the Columbia captain, was one of the features of the day.

Hockey Players Win and Lose

The hockey team beat Colgate by a score of 2 to 0 on Beebe Lake last Friday under weather conditions anything but pleasant. Snow fell most of the time and the ice, which was pretty soft, had to be cleared several times to permit the game to proceed. Thornton and Tuttle scored goals for Cornell.

Saturday the team went to Philadelphia to meet Pennsylvania. The score at the end of the second half stood tied at three. An extra period was played which resulted in a victory by Pennsylvania, the final score being 4 to 3.

Dobie's Contract Extended to 1926

It was announced on Monday that Gilmore Dobie, the football coach, had signed a contract to coach at Cornell until 1926. Many newspaper yarns that have been current this winter are thus laid to rest for at least five years.

The announcement given out by Manager Berry is as follows:

"The Football Committee of the Cornell University Athletic Council has obtained from Mr. Gilmour Dobie a three-year extension of his existing contract as head coach of the Cornell football teams. The original contract entered into in February, 1920, ran for three years. It has now been extended to run to March, 1926."

Captain Wilson S. Dodge of the 1921 team, in a letter to the Sun, thus expresses the feelings of the football men on the subject:

"I know that I express the feelings of all of the men who played under Mr. Dobie, as well as myself, when I say that I am delighted to know that his presence here is assured for a long period. There are none that know better than the players themselves what he has done for Cornell in developing a coaching standard here which will undoubtedly bring successful football to Cornell. We all have a firm belief in his ability and with his presence here as our leader, I think that Cornell football in the future will be something that all her followers will be proud of."

Varsity Schedules Announced

The schedules for baseball, track, rowing, and football for the coming seasons were announced last week. They are complete as given below, except that Pennsylvania has been tentatively listed for June 18, leaving the Alumni game indefinite.

Track

Feb. 26—Harvard and Dartmouth indoor meet at Boston.

March 26—Michigan indoor meet at Ann Arbor.

April 29 and 30—Penn relays at Philadelphia.

May 14—Dual meet with Penn at Ithaca.

May 27 and 28—Intercollegiates at Cambridge.

Baseball

April 7—Virginia at Charlottesville.

April 8—Virginia at Charlottesville.

April 9—Georgetown at Washington.

April 11—University of Maryland at College Park, Md.

April 12—Catholic University at Washington.

April 13—Penn at Philadelphia.

April 23—Colgate at Ithaca.

April 27—Rochester at Ithaca.

April 30—Harvard at Cambridge.

May 4—Columbia at Ithaca.

May 7—University of Detroit at Ithaca.
 May 13—Lafayette at Easton.
 May 14—Fordham at New York City.
 May 19—Colgate at Hamilton.
 May 21—Spring Day—Yale at Ithaca.
 May 25—Ohio Wesleyan at Ithaca.
 May 28—Yale at New Haven.
 June 1—Columbia at New York City.
 June 16—Washington and Lee at Ithaca.
 June 17—Alumni (conditional).
 June 18—Penn (conditional).

Rowing

May 21—Spring Day—Yale and Princeton on Lake Cayuga, varsity and freshman races.
 May 28—Harvard on Charles River Basin, varsity and freshman eights.
 June 22—Intercollegiate Regatta at Poughkeepsie.

Football

Oct. 1—St. Bonaventure at Ithaca.
 Oct. 8—Rochester at Ithaca.
 Oct. 15—Western Reserve at Ithaca.
 Oct. 22—Colgate at Ithaca.
 Oct. 29—Dartmouth at Ithaca.
 Nov. 5—Columbia at New York.
 Nov. 12—Springfield College at Ithaca.
 Nov. 24—Thanksgiving Day—Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

FACULTY NOTES

THE INSTRUCTING STAFF has been increased by the addition of the following persons: Dr. Eloise Meek, assistant medical adviser; Olan G. Bell, instructor in geology; William C. Andree, instructor in experimental engineering; and Miss Violet A. Graham, assistant in biochemistry.

FORMER PRESIDENT SCHURMAN, in opening recently the extension course on racial relations at Columbia University, advocated limitation of immigration to those persons who could be absorbed into American social and economic life.

PROFESSOR HERBERT C. ELMER '83 has been granted a sabbatic leave of absence for the second term of 1921-22.

DR. JAMES EWING, of the Medical College in New York, is one of a committee of scientists appointed by the Crocker Memorial Cancer Research Laboratory to welcome Mme. Marie Curie, the discoverer of radium, when she visits this country next May.

PROFESSOR ARTHUR A. ALLEN '07 recently lectured before the Buffalo Society of Natural Science. He described his experiments in attracting rare varieties of birds to a feeding station in Ithaca.

DEAN ORA M. LELAND of the Colleges of Engineering, Architecture, and Chemistry at the University of Minnesota, spoke last month at the banquet in Minneapolis of the Engineering Alumni Association of that institution. All engineers of the State were invited. Dean Leland's topic was, "The Education of an Engineer."

PROFESSOR WILLIAM L. WESTERMANN in an address before the Public Ledger forum in Philadelphia lately expressed the belief that important modifications would be made in the treaty of Sèvres at the proposed conference in London next month. He spoke on "The Armenian Question and the Disruption of Turkey."

705TH ORGAN RECITAL

Bailey Hall, Thursday, February 17

REGULAR CLUB MEETINGS

Baltimore.—Every Monday at 12.30, City Club, Munsey Building.
Binghamton.—Every Tuesday at 12.15, Chamber of Commerce Grill.
Boston.—Every Monday at 12.30, Hotel Essex, opposite the South Station.
Buffalo.—Every Friday at 12.30 Hotel Iroquois.
Chicago.—Every Thursday at 12.30, Hamilton Club, 20 South Dearborn Street.
Cincinnati.—Every Tuesday at 12.30, Canton Restaurant.
Cleveland.—Every Thursday noon, Hotel Statler.
Dayton.—First Saturday of each month, at noon, Engineers' Club.
Detroit.—Every Thursday at 12.30, Peacock Room, Cadillac Hotel.
Honolulu, Hawaii.—Monthly, first Tuesday at 12, the University Club.
Newark.—Monthly, second Wednesday at 12.30, Downtown Club.
New York.—Every Wednesday at 12.30, Machinery Club, 50 Church Street.
New York.—Daily, Cornell Club of New York, 30 West 44th Street.
Philadelphia.—Daily lunch and dinner, Princeton-Cornell Club, 1223 Locust Street.
Pittsburgh.—Every Friday noon at the Chamber of Commerce.
Rochester.—Every Wednesday at 12.15, Powers Hotel.

Tientsin, China.—Second and fourth Sundays of each month, at noon, New Grand Hotel, Asahi Road, Japanese Concession.

Washington, D. C.—Every Thursday at 12.30, University Club.

ALUMNI NOTES

'71 CE—The address of Smith, Ames & Chisholm, consulting engineers, designers, and builders of sugar factories and railroads, of which Miller A. Smith is a member, is changed to 507 Lonja Building, Havana, Cuba.

'77—William F. E. Gurley was one of the persons elected last year to the Chicago chapter of Sigma Xi, in recognition of his numerous papers on invertebrate paleontology.

'86 PhB—Charles H. Thurber, of Ginn and Company, Boston, is president of the board of trustees of Clark University, Worcester, Mass.

'90 AB, '91 ME—Professor Francis C. Caldwell of the department of electrical engineering of Ohio State University, is one of the two experts conducting tests and demonstrations on satisfactory school lighting at the Columbus High School of Commerce—their findings to guide the local school board in providing the equipment of future buildings.

'97 AB, '20 PhD—Dr. Florence M. Foster is professor of English at the College of Saint Teresa, Winona, Minn.

'98 LLB—Floyd Kipp Smith '93 and Mrs. Smith have announced the marriage of their daughter, Christine Elsworth, to David Percy Williams on October 30 at Buffalo, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Williams are at home at 6,103 Howe Street, Pittsburgh.

'99—Charles J. Ramsberg's residence address is Pine Road, Edgeworth, Pa. He has a son, Charles J., jr.

'00 ME—Frederick B. Hufnagel, president of the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel Company, a subsidiary of the Crucible Steel Company of America, has been elected vice-president and a director of the latter concern. For a short time after leaving college, Hufnagel was with the Newburgh works of the American Steel and Wire Company in Cleveland. Then he became a member of the engineering staff of the South Side works of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Company, advancing through the rolling mill department until he became general superintendent of the works. In 1912 he was transferred to the Aliquippa works of the company at Woodlawn, Pa., as general superintendent, holding this position until about a month ago, when he resigned after a connection of twenty years, to become president of the Pittsburgh Steel Company.

'01 AB—Alexander N. Slocum has resigned his position as district sales manager with the Johns-Mansville Company at Pittsburgh, Pa., to take charge of the Pacific Coast territory for the American Gas Accumulator Company, of Elizabeth, N. J., manufacturers of marine, railroad, and highway lighthouses, traffic beacons, and signal devices. The flashing acetylene lights made by this concern are installed in marine lighthouses, light-buoys, lightships, etc., throughout the world, including the entrance to New York Harbor, and the entire Panama Canal, and are spread from the coast of Alaska to the Straits of Magellan. The company is now making an interesting adaptation of the flashing marine light to that of a highway warning signal for dangerous curves, grades, and crossings. Slocum is making his headquarters in Los Angeles, and is living at 1,931 Morgan Place. His son, Alexander N. Slocum, jr., is remaining in Pittsburgh to complete his preparation for entrance to Cornell in September.

'04—Julius C. Sanderson is with the White Sewing Machine Company, Cleveland, Ohio. He lives at 2,566 Lee Road, Cleveland Heights.

'04 AB—Science for January 14 says that Russell Sage Woglum, entomologist in charge of citrus fruit insect investigations in California for the Federal Bureau of Entomology, who for many years has been conducting researches in orchard fumigation with hydrocyanic acid, resigned on September 1 to head the newly established Bureau of Pest Control, in the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, a cooperative organization of more than ten thousand citrus fruit growers.

'05 AB—Gleeson Murphy, baseball manager in 1905, has moved from Detroit to Owensboro, Ky., in the interest of the Murphy Chair Company, of which he is general manager. The headquarters and factory of the company are in Detroit.

'05 PhD; '12 CE—According to The Sigma Xi Quarterly for September, among the original petitioners at North Carolina for a charter of Sigma Xi some years ago were two Cornell men, James M. Bell and Robert L. James. When the chapter was organized, on May 26, 1920, Dr. Bell was chosen secretary.

'06 ME—Harvey F. Johnson is a commissioned engineer officer with the U. S. Coast Guard, and is at present stationed in Washington, D. C.

'07 CE—Geoffrey W. Mayo is senior highway bridge engineer with the Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture. He has recently returned from Manila, and expects to be located for some time at Fort Worth, Texas. His office is at 501 Wheat Building.

'08 ME—Professor Clarence W. Ham, formerly of Cornell, is now connected with the department of mechanical engineering of the University of Illinois. His address is 307 Engineering Hall, Urbana, Ill.

'08 ME—David H. Goodwillie is one of the three men making up the Board of Control recently appointed by Major Cornell Schreiber, of Toledo, Ohio, to supervise the carrying out of the new service-at-cost agreement under which the city's traction service is to be operated. For the first two years after leaving college, Goodwillie was assistant sanitary engineer with the American Steel and Wire Company of Chicago. Then he went to Toledo to take charge of the construction of the city filtration plant and during a part of the year 1910 and the following year he was superintendent of filtration. Later he was made superintendent of waterworks for the city. Before opening his office as a private engineer, he was employed on a number of industrial projects in the Toledo district. On January 1, 1916, he became director of public service in the first cabinet of Mayor Schreiber, serving in this capacity until September, 1920, when he accepted a position as engineer with the Ford Plate Glass Company at Roosford, a suburb of Toledo. During his term as director of public service, he was named chairman of the committee to make a valuation of the railway property of the Toledo Railways & Light Company, and the committee's report is known as "the Goodwillie valuation."

'09 ME—Arthur C. Amsler has been promoted by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company to the position of assistant supervisor of production at the East Pittsburgh works. Except for a few months in 1909 during which he was employed by the Carnegie Steel Company, Amsler has served with the Westinghouse Company continuously since his graduation.

'10 ME—G. Ervin Kent is special representative of the Dayton Pump & Manufacturing Company, of Dayton, Ohio, with office at 472 Spitzer Building, Toledo, Ohio. His territory includes Toledo and nineteen counties in northwestern Ohio. He lives at No. 4, The Miltimore, Toledo.

'11 ME—Calvin W. Verity, president of the American Rolling Mill Company, of Middletown, Ohio, has recently been elected treasurer of the company, the appointment to go into effect on May 1. He has been in the employ of the company for the past sixteen years, during which he has been in every department of the company.

'11 LLB—William L. Dauenhauer and John T. Hazan, assistant district attorney of New York County, are partners in the law firm of Hazan and Dauenhauer, with offices at 27 Cedar Street, New York.

'12 ME—David W. Shilling is manager of the Cincinnati retail store of the Chevrolet Motor Company. He lives at 1,106 Race Street, Cincinnati.

'12 BArch—Carl V. Burger, who organized and directed the school of painting in the A. E. F. University at Beaune, France, has recently joined the Edwin Bird Wilson Advertising Agency of New York, as assistant to the art director. Burger taught drawing and painting at the University of Illinois, and for three years before the war was on the art staff of The Boston Post, drawing sport and political cartoons, and doing illustrating for the Sunday edition. Since the war he has been engaged in commercial art work. The illustrations for "The History of the Inter-Allied Games" published by the Army in Paris, were made under his direction. In his senior year at Cornell, he was art editor of The Widow and The Cornellian. The Edwin Bird Wilson Advertising Agency, with which he is now associated, specializes in financial advertising.

'13—Mr. and Mrs. Lynn E. Mueller announce the birth of a son, Peter Lynn, on January 12.

'13 BS—A daughter, Pauline Addie, was born on December 26 to Professor and Mrs. Ralph H. Denman, of Amherst, Mass. Denman is assistant professor of rural engineering at the Massachusetts Agricultural College.

'13 ME—J. Leslie Brown was married on December 31 to Miss Marion Wilcox, of Fall River, Mass. They are now at home at 364 Congress Street, Kenosha, Wis. Brown is with the Nash Motors Company.

'13 ME—John H. Sherwin is now living at 1,480 High Street, Denver, Colo. He has been in Mexico for about a year and a half, but says he had to leave the battlefield because his job worked itself out.

'13 BS—A son, Theodore Tryon, was born on December 15 to Mr. and Mrs. Francis C. Smith, formerly of Ithaca, now of Westport, N. Y. Smith is agricultural agent for Essex County with headquarters at Westport.

'13 CE—Charles T. Wanzer is resident engineer for the Southern Power Company, of which the Wateree Power Company is a subsidiary. He is now working on the final details of the construction of a 100,000 H. P. hydro-electric power plant near Camden, S. C. His present address is in care of the Waterec Power Company, R. F. D., Longtown, S. C.

'13 ME—Henry W. Struck is in the Boston office of Stone & Webster, Inc., 147 Milk Street.

'13 AB—A daughter, Mary Storer, was born on September 2 to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Shiverick, 1,112 Pratt Boulevard, Chicago.

'13 ME—Harry B. Hull is research engineer with the General Motors Research Corporation, Dayton, Ohio. He was married last July to Mlle. Andrée Rondel, of Paris, France, and they are living at 465 Riverside Apartments, Dayton.

'13 ME—Owing to the renumbering of Detroit streets, the residence address of John H. Brodt is changed to 2,703 East Atwater Street. He is sales manager for the Crittall Casement Window Company.

Ask us about personal Christmas Greeting Cards.

There is great satisfaction in trading with a firm which takes care in filling your orders.

FREQUENTLY our customers write letters to thank us for prompt service. We are sorry that all orders cannot be shipped at once. We are working for you if you send us an order. We will gladly obtain information for you even if you do not place an order.

Books in making your garden

YOU and I may be making only a small garden, but we can well afford to make that garden a good one. Our Agriculture booklist contains some good books for small garden making. Write for the booklet.

Improve the grounds about your home

RECENTLY a new book came to our attention which should interest many of our friends. The book, "Cridland, Practical Landscape Gardening," is practical. There are suggestions as to flowers, shrubs, and trees. It will help you to make your house a home. The price is two dollars and sixty cents.
