CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS

VOL. XXIV, No. 9

ITHACA, N. Y., NOVEMBER 24, 1921

PRICE 12 CENTS

THANKSGIVING dinners are being served for undergraduates who do not go home or to Philadelphia; the Coffee House has announced a special program and menu; the returns in Bailey Hall are being eagerly attended; and many fraternities are entertaining.

THETA CHAPTER of Phi Delta Kappa, national professional education society, revived last year at Cornell, on November 17, initiated three members of the Faculty, eight graduate students, and a sophomore.

ALBERT W. SMITH '78 spoke to Regular Army and R. O. T. C. officers at a dinner given by the Cornell Officers' Club in Barnes Hall on November 18.

A. G. EMERICK '24, of Syracuse, has been elected to the art staff of the Widow board.

THE CORNELL Women's Dramatic Club presented a group of three plays in Prudence Risley recreation room on November 19. The plays given were "Hunger," by Eugene Pillot; "Six Who Pass While the Lentils Boil," by Stuart Walker; and "Shepherd in the Distance," by Holland Hudson. Their presentation was followed by dancing.

AT LAST ACCOUNTS it was somewhat doubtful whether the band would go to the Penn game. A collection taken on the Campus Saturday and Monday, however, was expected to provide the $400 lacking for the trip. Bad weather at the Springfield game cut down collections in the stands but did not daunt the musicians, many of whose bare fingers were blue with cold.

MRS. ANNA B. COMSTOCK '85, professor emeritus of nature study, has been chosen by the Cornell Women's Club of Ithaca as its nominee for alumnae trustee. Her name was presented to the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs.

THREE BROTHERS, Otto J. Spahn, Jr., '22, H. F. Spahn '23, and P. E. Spahn '25, of Pleasantville, are being supported in Cornell, according to The New York Herald, by a swarm of bees. About twenty million bees are expected to produce five tons of honey this year, and the boys and their parents sell much of it along popular automobile highways. Mr. Spahn, Sr., figures that it takes about a ton and a half to carry each boy through a college year. He is also a plumber.

A SUGGESTION that the College of Architecture make temporary use of Morse Hall when the Chemistry Department moves into its new building is being considered by the Trustees, according to Woodford Patterson '95, Secretary of the University. It is believed that eventually the remains of Morse Hall will be removed, since there has long been a feeling, expressed by President Andrew D. White in his Autobiography, that its construction on that site was a mistake. President White characterizes the site as affording one of the most beautiful views in this or any other country. Morse Hall was built in 1890, while the President was in Europe.

SUMMER WEATHER—the highest temperature for November in years—distinguished Ithaca last week. Nevertheless, the authorities have warned citizens that many cases of diphtheria have appeared.

MISS QUINTA CATTELL, Sp., of Garrison-on-Hudson, spoke before the Agassiz Club November 22 on the transcontinental auto trip which she and other Cornellians took last summer.

DARTMOUTH bowed in defeat to Cornell for the second time this fall when the debating team won the negative side of the proposition: "Resolved, That the mines of the United States be under Federal control." Professor James A. Winans, LL.B. '07, who has trained many Cornell debate teams and is now head of the department of public speaking at Dartmouth, presided; members of the Cornell team were James S. Hays '22, of New Rochelle, and Murray F. Johnson '23, of Woodside.

THIRTY-SEVEN teams have so far entered the interfraternity basketball competition, which has been divided into six leagues. Games will be played in the Old Armory and the Drill Hall, the first on November 29.

ALUMNI of Blair Academy now in the University have organized the Blair Club, one of the functions of which is to send Cornell publications to their school. Officers elected are Frank C. Baldwin '22, of Bristol, Pa., president; George B. Howell '22, of New Brunswick, N. J., vice-president; C. E. Hoar '25, of West Newton, Mass., secretary; and R. M. Curtis '23, of Paterson, N. J., treasurer.

THOMAS J. REIDY '07 has announced that he will open a law office in Ithaca at 220 East State St., the former office of the ALUMNI NEWS. Since 1910 he has practiced in the Bronx, New York, as a member of the firm of Clocke, Koch, and Reidy.

ACCORDING to the New York Evening Post, the American Hotel Association will ask the State Legislature for an appropriation of $11,000 to establish a hotel training school at Cornell, and other State legislatures for a total of $25,000 for similar schools at the University of California, in Birmingham, Alabama, and in or near Chicago. The Tribune says that the money necessary to establish a chair of hotel management at Cornell has been already oversubscribed.

STOPOVER privileges at Ithaca are again granted by the Lehigh Valley Railroad for the first time since the war. Not more than ten days are allowed upon application to the conductor and by depositing tickets with the agent upon arrival.

AN EDITORIAL in the Binghamton Sun on the occasion of the Colgate-New York University football game in that city recalls that Binghamton "had an even chance with Ithaca as the probable site for Cornell University." It ends, "perhaps their (the two teams') presence will cause us to regret Ithaca's ancient victory."

AS MANY Cornell athletic events have been, the varsity-Columbia game on the Polo Grounds was insured against loss from rain and weather. The amount was $10,000.

THE MEMORIAL HOSPITAL in New York, affiliated with the Medical College, published a full page advertisement in the New York Times of November 4, asking for subscriptions to help in its work of cancer treatment. Dean Walter L. Niles and Dr. James Ewing, of the Medical College, are members of its Board of Managers.

ARTICLES on the Washington conference were contributed to the Sun last week by Professor Othon Guerlac and Mrs. Albert W. Smith on Monday and by Professor Martin Sampson on Tuesday. Carrying the idea of a forum on the subject a step further, the Sun has announced that it will print "articles contributed by students giving their points of view on the questions before the international conference."

SWIMMING MEETS are being held by volunteers in the Old Armory pool on Monday and Thursday nights. A Cornell Swimming Club is being organized.

TEN sophomores and nine freshmen were awarded numerals as the result of the recent underclass track meet.

VACHEL LINDSAY, the "Hobo Poet," read a number of his poems before an audience of about fifteen hundred in Bailey Hall on November 14. He was introduced by Professor Martin W. Sampson; the most popular of his selections proved to be "Daniel Jazz," in which the audience took part, and "General William Booth Enters Into Heaven."

President's Annual Report

Albert W. Smith '78 Discusses Limitation of Numbers and Other Problems

The report of Acting President Smith to the Trustees is a document filling twenty-one pages. It records, as usual, the various changes that have taken place during the year. Of the new president Mr. Smith says:

"Dr. Farrand will come to Cornell with an extended record of successful accomplishment in the fields of scholarship and administration. He will become the chief executive of an institution which began with radical differences from outworn educational methods, and which has been justified by more than fifty years of effective work; an institution which should face the future with power to meet adequately the increasing and changing intellectual and spiritual needs of the world. His success in this great work seem assured."

Mr. Smith discusses the problem of limitation of numbers:

"The effect of large increase in numbers with unchanged endowment is to reduce efficiency of teaching; for since in practically all cases tuition fails to pay full cost of instruction, the required additions to the teaching force must be made in the lower grades and therefore by persons of less ability or less experience.

"Of course the ideal would be to limit the number to that corresponding to maximum efficiency, selecting the fittest of the applicants. The accomplishing of this result, however, involves great and at present almost insuperable difficulties, since it involves judgment not only of mental and physical ability—which is relatively easy—but also judgment of character—which is extremely difficult. One method of limitation seems feasible, as follows: Fix the number of maximum efficiency; receive applicants with full preparation in the order of application until the limit is reached; stop. This of course is not as simple as might appear; there are many puzzling details; yet it is probable that a working plan could be evolved. . . . This brings up a broader question: How shall the opportunity be afforded to the increasing number of those worthy of higher education? There must be more colleges and universities, and private endowments cannot be relied on to provide them. Funds, as in the case of secondary schools, must come from taxation and the foundations must therefore be by federal, state, or municipal endowment. It would seem that Cincinnati and Buffalo have set examples worthy of extended following in their city-supported universities."

After narrating the introduction of the honor system, Mr. Smith concludes as follows:

"To insure permanent success will require the cultivation in the student body of a spirit of loyalty, an understanding of justice, and a realization of responsibility for the maintenance of the good name of the University. This has been done at the University of Virginia, where an honor system has been successful for nearly eighty years. It can be done at Cornell; but only by hard and persistent effort by successive bands of students devoted to the highest ideals and to the welfare of the University."

Finally, the Acting President expresses the hope that "eventually all professional colleges at Cornell will demand as a minimum for entrance a bachelor's degree from the College of Arts and Sciences or from some other college of equal standing."

In subsequent issues, in accordance with our custom, we shall summarize the reports of the Deans and other officers of administration.

CORNELLIAN COUNCIL'S PLANS

The first steps toward effecting a permanent organization to carry forward the work of the Cornelian Council in New York City and vicinity were taken at an informal dinner of the New York Members of the Council held at the Cornell Club of New York on Tuesday evening November 22. The members present had the good fortune for the first time to meet Dr. Farrand, who was the Council's guest, on this occasion.

The dinner was presided over by President Walter P. Cooke '91, who outlined the Council's work for the coming year. Mr. Cooke said he thought the Council should aim at three objects, first, to carry on a quiet, persistent systematic effort to obtain annual subscriptions to the Alumni Fund without a campaign or a drive, to the end that every Cornelian shall be yearly contributing something, no matter how little, to the University; second, to set up an informal nationwide organization with the United States divided up into geographical districts with an adviser representing the Cornelian Council in each district; third, through this informal organization to assemble information concerning possible givers to Cornell and the best method of approaching them.

Mr. Cooke announced that the plan decided upon for New York City and vicinity contemplated having a class adviser carry on the work in each class in the Metropolitan District; that the work would be directed by an advisory Committee with Raymond P. Morse '03 as chairman and that an additional committee on larger gifts would carry on its work coordinately with this class organization, soliciting gifts largely from non-Cornellians.

The following committees were appointed by President Cooke at this meeting:

Advisory Committee: Raymond P. Morse '03, chairman; Hosea C. Ballou

'20, secretary; Hosea Webster '80; Robert J. Eidlitz '85; Ernest M. Bull '98; Maurice Whinery '02; Neal D. Becker '05; Robert E. Coulson '09; Oscar S. Tyson '11; Weyland Pfeiffer '16.

Committee on Larger Gifts: E. Vail Stebbins '93, Chairman; Ira A. Place '81; Elias A. de Lima '86; Edwin N. Sanderson '87; J. DuPratt White '90; A. R. Horr '95; Walter C. Teagle '00.

PRESIDENT FARRAND IN CLEVELAND

The Cornellians of Cleveland took advantage of the presence of President Farrand in their city on November 17 to tender him the first official honors of an alumni club since his inauguration. The men turned out two hundred strong for the dinner at the University Club, the women entertaining the President at a reception at the Union Club in the afternoon. On both occasions he spoke quite informally and intimately, and reports which the Cleveland alumni have sent back to Ithaca indicate that they have voted to make it unanimous.

Speaking at the dinner, President Farrand touched upon the problems of the University as he sees them after a month in office. He made a plea for higher salaries for teachers, from the grade schools to the colleges. "If America is to emerge from the world's social confusion," he said, "it must be by education and the production of community leaders. The teachers having in charge the minds of these leaders are of lowered standard, due to our economic conditions, and our duty is to turn the trend the other way. I am trying to impress you with the need for devotion to finish the job of bringing the standard of teaching thought back to where it was twenty years ago."

CREW candidates, most of them freshmen, continued to row on Courtney Inlet most of last week. Last year out-door practice started a week later than this fall and ended on November 16.

SAVAGE CLUB members will participate in the annual minstrel show of Ithaca Elks, to be given November 29 and 30. The show is directed by George L. Coleman '95.

THE RECENT vaudeville performances for the benefit of the Infantile Paralysis Reconstruction Home, in which many undergraduates took part, netted more than $1,132.

LECTURES for the week include "The Present World Crisis" by Dr. George Sherwood Eddy, before the Current Events Forum at Barnes Hall; "Les Universités et la Renaissance Provinciale en France" by Professor Jacques Cavalier, rector of the University of Toulouse and exchange professor here; and "The Rise of Feudalism" by Professor Burr in the course on the history of civilization.

Cornell Defeats Pennsylvania, 41-0

THE best football team that has gone out of Cornell in years crushed Pennsylvania on Franklin Field Thanksgiving Day by the score of 41 to 0. This is the greatest victory Cornell has ever won over its traditional rival; in fact, by the end of the first half, the Dobie-coached machine had scored 27 points, a larger score than any Cornell team had ever rolled up against the Quakers in a whole game.

Physically at top form, with admirable poise and self-possession, thoroughly equipped with a superb line, a powerful, smooth running attack and such interference as is seldom seen on any football field, the Cornell machine rode rough shod over the Quakers on the muddy field. And in the midst of a drizzling rain, Cornell scored two touchdowns in both the first and second periods, and one each in the third and fourth. Hanson kicked four out of five goals from touchdown, Dodge kicked one. "Eddie" Kaw, who never played more brilliantly, scored five touchdowns. George Lechler was the other point scorer.

The victory was a team victory, due to perfect coordination between line and backs and an indomitable fighting spirit that would not be denied. The team not only outplayed, it outclassed Penn. It was a great triumph and the ghost of a "jinx" was laid away, let us hope for good.

PHILADELPHIA CELEBRATES

Philadelphia this week is a busy Cornell city. The exercises on Franklin Field Thursday afternoon were properly introduced by a smoker at the Cornell Club, 1223 Locust Street, on Tuesday evening, and the joint Pennsylvania-Cornell Musical Club concert at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel on Wednesday.

The smoker was preceded by a dinner, following which Romeyn Berry '04 and Robert W. Maxwell, well-known as a sporting editor and writer, were scheduled to have something to say.

WESTERN PA. BUSY

At the weekly luncheon of Pittsburgh Cornell men, held on November 18 at the William Penn Hotel, Dr. J. T. Holdsworth, vice-president of the Bank of Pittsburgh, spoke on "Economic Disarmament." Piano players, songsters, and a glad-hand committee are doing much to lift the attendance of the Western Pennsylvania alumni.

ROCHESTER WOMEN MEET

The Rochester Cornell Women's Club held its first luncheon meeting of the year on Saturday, November 12. The attendance was gratifying and considerable interest was shown in plans for the winter. Regular Saturday luncheons are held at the Powers Hotel at one o'clock.

The officers for the ensuing year are: president, Miss Ina W. Hall '18, 50 Brighton Street; secretary-treasurer, Miss Marion Pharo '19, 39 Vick Park B; publicity chairman, Miss Effey L. Riley '18, 499 Monroe Avenue. Two members of the Rochester Club are officers in the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs: Mrs. Charles W. Curtis '88 is president, and Miss Alice J. Street '19 is secretary-treasurer.

Regular monthly meetings are held the first Saturday of each month at three o'clock at the homes of members. The December meeting will be held on December 3 at the home of Mrs. Henry A. Mattill '06, 63 Selye Terrace.

All Cornell women in and around Rochester are cordially invited to attend both the regular monthly meeting and the Saturday luncheons. Cornell women passing through Rochester are urged to communicate with any of the officers.

KIMBALL IN TOLEDO

In connection with a visit to Toledo, Ohio, on November 21, Dean Dexter S. Kimball of the College of Engineering was the guest of honor at a special luncheon of the Cornell Club of Toledo. Dean Kimball made the trip as the guest of the University of Toledo to speak on "Industrial Organization" before an extension course for executives. Preceding the meeting at the university he spoke at a dinner meeting of the Toledo branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. The dean is the president of that society.

TRENTON ANNUAL BANQUET

The annual banquet of the Cornell Club of Trenton, N. J., was held at the Hotel Stacy-Trent on Tuesday, November 15, attended by more than sixty Cornellians and their guests. Douglas S. Dilts '17 presided as the retiring president of the club, introducing as toastmaster Gerow D. Brill '88.

Talks were given by Andrew J. Whinery '10, president of the Association of Class Secretaries, and of the Cornell Club of Northern New Jersey, and by Foster M. Coffin '12, Alumni Representative. Miss Sarah A. Dynes '94 made a graceful extemporaneous response for the Cornell women present.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: president, Carlman F. Ribsam '11; vice-president, Donald B. Rice, '14; secretary-treasurer, I. R. Riker '15.

COACH FALLON has issued a call for more boxing candidates.

J. DU PRATT WHITE TRAVELS

According to the best information available in this country, J. Du Pratt White '90 and Mrs. White will arrive in Yokohama, Japan, about the hour of the kickoff in Philadelphia on Thanksgiving Day. Mr. and Mrs. White left New York the latter part of August but did not sail from San Francisco until October. The intervening time was consumed with three weeks on a ranch in Wyoming, a few days in Denver, and two weeks in Los Angeles. They sailed from San Francisco on the steamer "Hoosier State" on October 17, remaining in Honolulu until November 11. They will remain some time in Japan.

While in Honolulu Mr. and Mrs. White were the guests of honor at a banquet tendered them by the Cornell Club of Hawaii.

A CORNELL PRODUCER

John Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln" which recently completed a year's run in United States, is now being produced in the Scala Theater, London, under the management of Paul Kay, who will be remembered by undergraduates as Samuel Karrakis '18.

Karrakis, who was prominent in Cornell dramatics, and who played under the name of Paul Kay in "The Crimson Alibi" in a Broadway appearance, attended "Abraham Lincoln" at the Lyceum Theater in London, and learning that it was "coming off," he arranged to take it over and present it at the Scala Theater. Although never having been in management before, Karrakis made the necessary arrangements, and the play which has probably been the subject of more widespread comment than any other in the last two seasons, is being continued for the London public.

The management of the Scala Theater extends an invitation through the ALUMNI NEWS to Cornell alumni to attend any performance of Abraham Lincoln as guests of the management.

PHI KAPPA PHI ELECTIONS

Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary society, on November 17 elected ten members of the Faculty and forty-eight students to membership. Among the students chosen, Rippe has played basket ball, Willcox is an editor of the Sun, Foster is a member of the Widow staff; O'Keefe, a blind student, is on the Law Quarterly, and Cisler has been prominent in track work. The list follows:

SPORT STUFF

One great trouble is the marked decrease in the number of tenors. There are, of course, many boys with excellent voices, but too large a proportion of them—mentally at least—gargle and wear rubbers. They take their singing too seriously to be useful to the community.

The old-fashioned practical tenors who stood ready to harmonize while waiting for a car in a blizzard, who were ignorant of tonsils, who put a brand new swipe into "Down Mobile" every time they rendered it on the Stewart Avenue bridge—these valuable citizens seem to have departed. No longer can you start "Honey" any time or any place with the positive assurance that the next man will immediately take the tenor or at least give it a battle.

The result is that casual singing is in unison and that in consequence there is little casual singing.

Louis Bement says it isn't as bad as I think it is. He says that what we used to think was tenor was generally beer.

But Louis is inclined to blame everything on prohibition. I notice that every time you get six citizens together who were in college more than ten years ago, at least three of them can sing tenor—and do—without the aid of anything more stimulating than the memory of purple evenings long past.

TWO NEW BUILDINGS

The Fred T. Ley Company of Springfield, Massachusetts, general contractors for the construction work on the new Chemistry Laboratory, has submitted the lowest bids for the construction of a new insectary and a packing and cold storage plant for the College of Agriculture. Only two bids for the construction of each building were received.

The bid of the Ley Company for the construction of the insectary, which will replace the one now being demolished to make room for the Chemistry Laboratory, was $10,500; for the packing and cold storage plant the low bid, including electrical work, was $17,000. Low bids for other work on the insectary were for heating, Globe Auto Sprinkler Company, Philadelphia, $4,850; sanitary work, George H. Drake, Inc., Buffalo, $865; electrical, Fred T. Ley Construction Company, $490.

Coffin Reports for YearAlumni Representative Outlines Accomplishments and Recommends War Memorial

A record of what the newly created alumni office has been able to accomplish in a year is set forth in the first annual report of the alumni representative. The Board of Trustees created the office on June 22, 1920, and Foster M. Coffin '12, the first incumbent, established headquarters in Ithaca on September 1. Under the scheme of organization of the office, the alumni representative, although an officer of the University, is primarily responsible to the alumni, and reports directly to a committee of five alumni: Romeyn Berry '04, for the Associate Alumni; John H. Comstock '74, for the Association of Class Secretaries; Walter P. Cooke '91, for the Cornellian Council; Ira A. Place '81 and J. DuPratt White '90, for the Board of Trustees.

The report points out that the work of the office has fallen logically under certain general groups; maintenance of address lists, filing of biographical information, the development of alumni clubs throughout the world, and the stimulation of alumni visits to Ithaca. Not the least attractive feature of the work has been the general correspondence, growing larger each month as alumni generally are coming to realize that there exists at the University an officer whose time and attention are devoted solely to their needs, their wishes, and their interests.

When the office was opened a year ago an outstanding need was the correction of address lists which, largely as a result of the war, were anything but up to date. Through the enlistment of the cooperation of all available agencies, corrections have been made through the year in more than sixteen thousand of the thirty thousand alumni mailing stencils.

An addition to the equipment of the alumni office has been the establishment of a file in which a folder is assigned to every former student and member of the Faculty. To quote from the report: "We look upon the development of this file as as one of the most far-reaching as well as the most interesting functions of the work. Over a period of time there should be built up a veritable 'morgue' as it would be called in a newspaper office, a storehouse of facts regarding all Cornellians. The principal obstacle to its growth is not only the inertia, but the misplaced modesty which prevents alumni from notifying the University of biographical facts."

Cornell alumni clubs throughout the world have increased in number during the year from seventy-one to eighty-three. It is the aim of the alumni representative to cover the world with alumni clubs, to be in a position to tell every alumnus, no matter where he may be located, that he is automatically a potential member of an active alumni club. A start toward this ideal has been made by sending a letter to each of those Cornellians who left the University last June and who according to the records is now living within the jurisdiction of an alumni club. The alumni clubs in turn have received lists of these new members who are now available to them.

Most of the alumni meetings during the year have been arranged with the cooperation of the alumni office, which is equipped to furnish speakers, moving pictures, lantern slides, lists of alumni, and clerical assistance of all kinds, including the printing and distribution of notices. During the year Cornell moving pictures and lantern slides have traveled nearly sixteen thousand miles.

If the plans and hopes of the alumni representative materialize, Cornell reunions, which have long been weak and ineffective when compared with those of other universities, will show a distinct improvement. The Dix Plan of class reunions, adopted last year at the suggestion of the alumni representative, will become operative next spring. Under this plan groups of classes which were undergraduates together will return at one time. In addition, eight other classes will hold their reunions next June as originally scheduled before the Dix Plan was adopted.

As a logical result of the creation of the office, the alumni representative has been elected secretary of both the Associate Alumni and of the Association of Class Secretaries.

During the year the alumni office has made its facilities available to classes, alumni clubs, the Cornellian Council, fraternities, colleges of the University, the athletic office, and many other agencies which could appropriately use Cornell material. It has published class directories, prepared class letters and alumni club literature, in addition to literally hundreds of miscellaneous lists and the handling of such jobs as the mailing of material to all alumni regarding the convention in Cleveland last May. The report shows that this work represented eighty-five jobs during the year, the costs amounting to $1645.63. The arrangement under which this work is done calls for remuneration of the actual cost.

The report concludes with certain recommendations, including the maintenance in the Baker group of dormitories of three or four rooms available for transient alumni, and a visit from a representative of the University at least once every other year to Cornell centers in all parts of the country where any considerable number of Cornellians reside. Perhaps the most important recommendation has to do with the war records, concerning which the report says:

"During the war, and for a period following the signing of the armistice, the secretary of the University, Mr. Patterson, energetically gathered all available data as to the part played by Cornellians in the war. This material in the form in which he secured it, is now in the custody of the alumni representative along with other alumni records, a file comprising a mass of correspondence concerning the men who were in service, with a file of several hundred cards on which an abstract of available data was entered. Although the complete list of Cornellians was never circularized, it is reasonable to assume that a large majority of names are included in the war records and that they are substantially correct as of a date shortly after the armistice. It is my belief that the University will be remiss in her duty to her sons who have served if a determined effort is not made at this time to make these records complete and up to date.

"I believe there should be published a record of Cornell's part in the war. The demand for such a book would not be sufficient to warrant a large edition, but it should be published in a form worthy of the University, to be placed in libraries and other depositories and to be made available to Cornellians who may wish copies. Five dollars is perhaps the highest price that could be placed on such a book; I believe the expense over and above what could reasonably be expected from its sale might be met by an underwriting.

"While on the subject of records and publications, may I also express the hope that the University will in the near future take steps looking to a permanent memorial to those men whose lost their lives in the war. There stands at present in the entrance of the University library a printed list of the names of these men, on a neat standard which serves the temporary purpose. Cornell can surely do no less than have Yale and Princeton, for instance, which have carved in stone in two of their principal buildings complete records of their sons who gave their lives."

FIFTY claims against the Government were handled by the "clean up squad" of the Veterans' Bureau during its three-day stay in Ithaca.

CORNELL is to continue its membership in the American University Union, by vote of the Committee on General Administration of the Board of Trustees. President Farrand is Cornell's representative on the board of governors of the Union.

THE ORCHESTRA, under the direction of George L. Coleman '95, opened its season in Trumansburg on November 19 for the benefit of the local war memorial. Mrs. Eric Dudley, soloist, was accompanied on the harp by Mrs. Robert H. Treman.

OBITUARY

Frederick D. Ford '74

Frederick David Ford died at his home in La Grange, Ill., on October 29, of neuritis. He had been ill for the past year, and had suffered a great deal.

He was born in Kingston, Ontario, in 1853, and entered the College of Agriculture in 1870, remaining three years. He was located for some time in Kingston, Canada, but for a number of years past he had been manager of the Eagle Lock Company of Chicago.

He leaves his widow, Marcia A. Ford, a son, Theodore E. Ford (University of Chicago '13) of St. Louis, and a daughter, Mrs. Edward McConoughy (University of Chicago '13) of Minneapolis.

He was buried at Kingston, Canada.

Charles Christopher Kelley '93

The secretary of the Class of '93 has lately received word that Charles Christopher Kelly died at his home in Jersey City on September 18, 1919, of tuberculosis resulting from a neglected cold.

Kelly was born in Jersey City on May 31, 1872, the son of John F. and Elizabeth J. Scully Kelly. After completing his course in the Jersey City High School, he entered the College of Law in 1891, graduating in 1893. He was a member of Delta Chi. After graduation he practiced law continuously in Jersey City, and at the time of his death was also engaged in doing research work.

He married Mabel Tice Wilson; they had no children. He is survived by his wife, his mother, three sisters, Margaret, Elizabeth, and Mary, and three brothers, Hugh, William, and John F., Jr.

George Parker Symonds '93

George Parker Symonds died in New York on February 2 of this year of influenza-pneumonia, after an illness of only three days.

Symonds was the son of Rear Admiral Frederick Martin Symonds and Annie Campbelle Symonds, and was born in Ogdensburg March 26, 1872. Having prepared at the Ogdensburg High School, he entered Cornell in 1889 with a State scholarship. He was a member of Phi Kappa Psi and of his freshman class crew, and in his senior year was class marshall.

Leaving Cornell in 1893 without taking his degree, he was connected until 1901 with Worthington Pump Works, rising to the post of chief engineer. Then he became connected with the Alberger Pump and Condenser Company, being at the time of his death consulting engineer. He never married. He was a member of the American Society of mechanical engineers.

His mother died on May 19. His father, now retired from the service, lives at Galesville, Wisconsin.

MOAKLEY'S TRIUMPH

Even in the happy days before the war the records of cross country running may be scanned in vain to find a parallel to the Intercollegiate cross country victory on Monday. Against a field of eighty runners from thirteen colleges, to have a team of five men cross the line within the first seven is a record that is likely to stand for many a day.

It is the current belief that none of the men on the team are Joneses or Bernas, except that they are almost wholly the product of the master mind of Coach Moakley. If teams can be compared, however, which are separated by so many years, it seems as if the team work of this team were superior to that of any of its predecessors.

It is worth noting that the team score of eighteen is lower by four points than that of the best record of any cross country team since the intercollegiate were organized in their present form in 1908. But the really significant fact is that Cornell is once more the undisputed master in hill and dale running, a claim that the slim one-point margin over Princeton last year did not definitely re-establish. The victory, depending as it did on the superior performance of a pack, rather on the individual excellence of half of the pack, gives reason for hope that Cornell will soon be master of the longer distances in the Intercollegiate track meets in the spring.

The satisfaction which Mr. Moakley has a right to feel is shared by his thousands of friends and admirers, many of whom will rejoice over his personal triumph as heartily as over Cornell's. That his performance is ever better as he ripens and the hairs grow grey marks him as a genius and a teacher of first rank in an art that flourishes in spite of its inherent lack of inspirational attributes.

CALDWELL IN CHICAGO

Louis G. Caldwell, an associate of Senator Medill McCormick, was the speaker of the day at the Cornell luncheon in Chicago on November 17.

CROWD AT ROCHESTER

Colonel Burne Schoeffel, U. S. A., was the guest of honor at the weekly luncheon of the Cornell Club of Rochester on November 16. Records are being broken in the Kodak City: seventy-five members last week all but crowded the waiters out of the room.

ALUMNI COMMITTEE MEET

Postponement of the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Associate Alumni called for November 19 in Cleveland, has resulted in a joint meeting of two alumni organizations. The Associate Alumni directors will meet in Buffalo on Saturday, November 26, at 10 a. m., in the directors' room of the Marine Trust Company. The executive committee of the Cornellian Council will meet at three o'clock in the afternoon, in the same building, at the office of Walter P. Cooke '91, president of the council. The two bodies will lunch together at the Hotel Iroquois.

YONKERS CLUB ORGANIZES

Not to be outdone by their neighbors in Mount Vernon, where the Cornell club is one of the strongest, Cornellians in Yonkers, N. Y., met on November 14 and organized the Cornell Club of Yonkers. Despite the fact that the evening of the meeting was rainy, thirty Cornellians met at the Amackassin Club.

The meeting opened with Frederick R. Slater '94 acting as temporary chairman and as the opinion was unanimous that a Cornell club should be organized, the election of officers was the first business. The chairman appointed the following nominating committee: Dr. Edwin B. Jenks '98, Daniel F. Fulton '03, and Henry L. Rossire '08. This committee selected the following men who were elected unanimously: president, Frederick R. Slater '94; vice-president, Fraser Brown '99; secretary-treasurer, Coleman H. Sherwood '20; board of governors, to serve one year: Frederick V. Longacre '98, Percival S. Peck '08 and George S. Rose

'04; to serve two years: Walter B. J. Mitchell '14, Irving B. Easton '91, and Egbert J. Moore '99.

The board of governors will meet in the near future and draw up a definite plan of procedure.

Fellowships and Scholarships

Thirty-four Graduates Study Under Various Endowments—Few Vacancies

Following is a list of holders of University fellowships and graduate scholarships for the current year:

Fellowships in English: (combined with the Scholarship for 1921-2 into two fellowships): Thomas Perrin Harrison, Jr., A.B., University of North Carolina '18; Albert Walker Liddle, A.B. '20.

The McGraw Fellowship in Civil Engineering: Prudencio F. Esquivel, B.S.C. E., University of the Philippines '19, M. S.I., University of California '20.

The Sage Fellowship in Chemistry: Lowell Haines Milligan, B. Chem. Eng., Ohio State University 1918, M. Sc., Ohio State University 1917.

The Schuyler Fellowship in Physiology; Vertebrate Zoology, including Anatomy and Histology and Embryology; or Invertebrate Zoology and Entomology: Christianna Smith, A.B., Mt. Holyoke '15.

The Sibley Fellowship in Mechanical and Electrical Engineering (combined with the Charles Bull Earle Memorial Fellowship in Mechanical and Electrical Engineering, and with the Edgar J. Meyer Memorial Fellowship in Engineering Research for the academic year 1921-2): James Harry Scofield, B.S. in M.E., Lewis Institute '19, M.E. '21.

The Goldwin Smith Fellowship in Botany, Geology, or Physical Geography: Silence M. Rowlee, A.B. '20.

The President White Fellowship in Physics: vacant.

The Erastus Brooks Fellowship in Mathematics (combined with the Scholarship for 1921-2): William Whitfield Elliott, B.A., Hampden-Sidney College '18, M.A., University of Kentucky '19.

The University Fellowship in Architecture: Charles Morse Stotz; B.Arch. '21.

The University Fellowship in Romance Languages: vacant.

The University Fellowship in German: vacant.

The University Fellowship in Agriculture: Chenfu Francis Wu, B.S., Soochow University '17, M.A., same '19.

The President White Fellowship in Modern History (combined with the Scholarship for 1921-2): Ernest William Nelson, A.B., Clark University '16, A.M., same '21.

The President White Fellowship in Political and Social Science: Harwood D. Dolbeare, B.A., Wesleyan '21.

The Susan Linn Sage Fellowships in Philosophy: Lucy Shepard Crawford, A.

B. '13; Edgar H. Henderson, B.A., Furman '16.

The Susan Linn Sage Fellowship in Psychology: Catherine C. Braddock, B. A., New Zealand University '16, M.A., same '17.

The Fellowships in Political Economy: Bernard Sobol, A.B. '21; Dexter Merriam Koeser, B.A., Amherst '20.

The Fellowships in Greek and Latin (combined for 1921-2): Homer Franklin Rebert, A.B., Franklin and Marshall '12.

The Fellowship in American History: vacant.

Special Fellowships

The DuPont Fellowship in Chemistry: Arthur Walker Bull, B.Chem. '19.

The Grasselli Fellowship in Chemistry: Emil Kline, A.B. '20.

The Herman Fresch Fellowships: Oran Cecil Boyd, B.S. Agr., Oklahoma A. and M. College '16; Harold W. Fitch, B.S., New Hampshire College '21.

The Eden Valley Fellowship: L. O. Gratz, A.B., Bluffton '15. Fellowship from April 1, 1920, to March 31, 1922.

The North Fork Fellowship: I. H. Vogel, B.S., Iowa State '16, M.S., same '17. Fellowship from April 1, 1920, to March 1, 1922.

The Steuben County Seed Improvement Fellowship: K. H. Fernow, B.S. '16. Fellowship from April 1, 1920, to March 1, 1922.

The Williamson Vegetable Laboratory Association Fellowship: A. G. Newhall, B.S., University of Minnesota '18. Fellowship from April 1, 1920, to March 31, 1922.

Honorary Fellowships

Henry Granger Knight, A.B., Washington '02, A.M., same '04, Ph.D., Illinois '17, dean of the School of Agriculture, Oklahoma A. & M. College.

Major Carl Kinsley, M.E. '94, formerly associate professor in the University of Chicago.

Dr. Amos William Peters, A.M., Harvard '01, Ph.D., same '03, professor of biochemistry at the University of Nebraska.

Graduate Scholarships

The Susan Linn Sage Graduate Scholarships in Philosophy: Woolf Cohen, A.B. University of Toronto '20; Anna Forbes Liddell, A.B., University of North Carolina '18; Helen H. Young, A.B., Boston University '19; two vacant.

The Susan Linn Sage Graduate Scholarship in Psychology: Albert Clayton Reid, A.B., Wake Forest College '17; A. M., same '18.

The Graduate Scholarship in Chemistry: vacant.

The Graduate Scholarship in Physics: Herman E. Seemann, A.B., Oberlin '21.

The Graduate Scholarship in Civil Engineering: vacant.

The Graduate Scholarship in Latin and Greek: vacant.

The Graduate Scholarship in Archaeology and Comparative Philology: vacant.

The Graduate Scholarship in Physiology; Vertebrate Zoology, including Anatomy and Histology and Embryology; or Invertebrate Zoology and Entomology: Herbert Friedman, B.S., College of the City of New York '20.

The Graduate Scholarship in Botany; Geology or Physical Geography, Floyd Hodson, A.B., Indiana '20.

The Graduate Scholarship in Architecture: vacant.

FACULTY NOTES

DR. ELISE L'ESPERANCE, assistant professor of pathology in the Medical College in New York, lectured before the Public Health Education Committee of the New York County Medical Society on "The Importance of the Early Diagnosis of Cancer." This lecture, on November 2, was a part of a program of lectures during National Cancer Week.

DR. CHARLES R. STOCKARD, professor of anatomy in the Medical College in New York, gave the first of a series of Harvey Lectures at the New York Academy of Medicine on October 22. His subject was, "The Significance of Modifications in Body Structure." Dr. Stockard also lectured at the recent International Congress of Eugenics, held in the Museum of Natural History, New York.

CONTRARY to our statement last week, President Farrand is not yet president of the American Child Hygiene Association, but is a member of the executive committee and has been selected as president of the organization for 1923, in accordance with the custom. Herbert Hoover is this year's president.

DR. JAMES EWING, of the Medical College in New York, spoke on "The Control of Cancer" on November 1 at the Harvard Medical School as a part of the Cancer Week program in Boston.

PROFESSOR FLOYD K. RICHTMYER '04 is a member of the National Research Council's committee on biological relations between flowers and insects. One phase of the committee's research, according to the papers, will be in color-vision of bees and other insects.

CASS W. WHITNEY '13, extension specialist in rural social organization for the College of Agriculture, is slated to lead the musical part of a community play on December 2 at Southold, New York.

CLARENCE C. KOCHENDERFER, formerly a member of the instructing staff in political economy at Cornell, who was listed as a 1915 Ph.D. in last week's Faculty Notes, received his degree of Ph.D. from George Washington University, and not from Cornell.

PROFESSOR JAMES A. BIZZELL read a paper before the American Society of Agronomy at its annual meeting in New Orleans on November 7.

PROFESSOR FLORA ROSE spoke in Pilgrim Hall, Boston, on October 31 under the auspices of the Women's City Club. Her subject was, "The Economic Value of Home-Making."

PROFESSOR MARTHA VAN RENSSELAER '09 is reported to have said that jazz has about jazzed out in America. She spoke in New Orleans at the meeting of Land Grant College representatives.

PROFESSOR FREDERICK M. SMITH is compiling a new textbook of essays and extracts for use in freshman English courses. It will be published next spring.

PRESIDENT FARRAND will speak on welfare work before officers of the Allied Charities of Elmira in that city on November 28.

THE LEAVE of absence of Professor Nathaniel Schmidt has been postponed from the second term of the current year to the second term of 1922-23.

UNIVERSITY BREVITIES

ITHACA is to have a memorial to the forty-one Tompkins County residents who died in the war, according to a resolution passed on November 17 by the Board of Supervisors.

A NEW BRIDGE is to be built at the upper end of Enfield Glen, replacing the present wooden foot-bridge. The new structure will be of steel and concrete and will be built by the Pritchard Construction Company.

THREE NEW HOMES are to be built on Stewart Avenue east of Robert E. Treman's residence and on Wyckoff Avenue. Jes. J. Dall, of New York, head of the Dall Construction Company, which built the Phi Delta Theta House, has recently purchased the property and has had plans prepared for the new houses.

SPEAKING to a good-sized audience last week, Professor Jacques Cavalier, exchange professor from France, said that a student with $400 a year was rich in a French university. He spoke entertainingly of French student life, particularly at Toulouse.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL assumed the obligation of paying damages for injuries to Mrs. Eula G. Linger, of Buffalo, who was injured in October, 1920, as the result of an unorganized rush in front of the Ithaca Hotel. In return for a settlement of $403.40 by the Council, Mrs. Linger and her husband have legally released Cornell University, the City of Ithaca, and all students of Cornell, past, present, and future, from claims of any kind arising from this accident.

THE SAGE CHAPEL Preacher for November 27 will be the Rev. Dr. Charles R. Brown, Congregational, dean of the School of Religion of Yale University.

ATHLETICS

Cross Country Championship

What is generally considered the best cross country team that has ever gone out of Cornell won a magnificent victory in the intercollegiate championship race at Van Cortlandt Park in New York Monday, capturing first place with the remarkably low total of eighteen points. Individual honors also came to Cornell, Robert E. Brown crossing the tape first in a stirring finish with his teammate Norman P. Brown, with Captain Charles C. Carter, who had purposely stayed behind during most of the race to keep the Cornell team together, coming in a good third. The course was six miles.

Marvin Rick of Princeton was fourth, followed closely by George Miske of Cornell. Crawford of Lafayette and Smith of Syracuse were followed by Charles G. Irish of Cornell who was in eighth place, the fifth Cornellian to qualify, and completed the team score. As Lafayette had not entered a team, Crawford was running as an individual, and in reckoning the official standing of the teams he was omitted from consideration. Accordingly Cornell finished as follows: 1, 2, 3, 5, 7—18.

The margin of victory was most impressive. Princeton, in second place, had a total of 87. The teams finished in this order:

1. Cornell, 1, 2, 3, 5, 7—18.
2. Princeton, 4, 10, 12, 29, 32—87.
3. Syracuse, 6, 15, 22, 31, 34—108.
4. Yale, 9, 11, 26, 28, 37—111.
5. Penn State, 16, 20, 21, 38, 39—134.
6. M. I. T., 14, 18, 23, 36, 54—154.
7. Dartmouth, 13, 19, 42, 48, 59—181.
8. Harvard, 17, 33, 43, 47, 55—195.
9. Maine, 30, 35, 49, 53, 62—227.
10. Columbia, 24, 46, 60, 61, 65—256.
11. Pennsylvania, 27, 45, 58, 64, 70—264.
12. Colby, 41, 73, 78, 79, 80—351.
13. Cincinnati, 56, 72, 82, 83, 84—377.

The first ten finished in this order:

- | | | | |
|----|----------------------------|-------|------|
| 1 | R. E. Brown, Cornell..... | 32.20 | 5-10 |
| 2 | N. P. Brown, Cornell..... | 32.21 | |
| 3 | C. C. Carter, Cornell..... | 32.49 | |
| 4 | M. Rick, Princeton..... | 32.49 | |
| 5 | G. Miske, Cornell..... | 32.53 | |
| 6 | R. Crawford, Lafayette.... | 32.56 | |
| 7 | H. Smith, Syracuse..... | 32.57 | |
| 8 | C. G. Irish, Cornell..... | 32.58 | |
| 9 | M. E. Richman, Cornell.... | 32.59 | |
| 10 | A. H. Crosby, Yale..... | 33.01 | |

The victory was the seventeenth won by Cornell since the first cross country championship races in 1899; it was the tenth since 1908 when the I. C. A. A. A. took over control of the sport. In the history of the championship, five teams other than Cornell have each won one race, Yale, Harvard, Maine, Pennsylvania, and Syracuse.

Rogers of the University of Cincinnati, which entered the meet for the first time, set the pace at the start, followed by Shields of Penn State and Burke of Harvard. At the mile Irish and R. E. Brown of Cornell and Rick of Princeton moved up to the front. At the two-mile mark Brown went ahead of Irish never to be headed for the rest of the race. Crawford of Lafayette got through the pack and moved up to within a few yards of the leader, with Rick and Norman Brown following the pace closely. Thus they raced to the three-mile or half way mark. Robert Brown was timed at 16:02 at this point with Rick close behind him. At the four mile mark Norman Brown made his spurt passing Rick and Crawford and going into second place. George Miske of Cornell had also come up and in the last two miles Captain Carter who had stayed back to keep the team together and thereby sacrificed his own chance to make a bid for first place, began to draw up on the leaders.

The last two miles was a pretty race between the Browns, who ran almost shoulder to shoulder to the tape, R. E. letting out a burst of speed in the final drive that sent him across two yards ahead of Norman. His time was 32:20 5-10; Norman's time was 32:21. Carter was twenty-eight seconds, or more than a hundred yards behind Norman Brown. After the winning five, Richman was the next Cornellian to finish. He came in ninth and Gordon, the last entrant, came in twenty-sixth.

Freshman Harriers Take Fourth

The freshman race was won by Yale, with 77 points, Pennsylvania was second with 91, Syracuse third with 93, Cornell and Dartmouth tied for fourth at 101, and M. I. T., Princeton, Harvard and C. C. N. Y. following in order. H. D. North, the first Cornell yearling to qualify, came in third. E. O. McLane of Penn was the individual winner.

Football Team Leaves

The football team left Tuesday night for Philadelphia for the annual game with Pennsylvania on Thanksgiving Day. Besides the first eleven, some twenty to twenty-two substitutes were taken on the trip. The destination of the party was not made public; it is understood that the rendezvous was a country club not far from Philadelphia, where the team was to go through its final practice program Wednesday, not leaving for Philadelphia until just before the game.

Except for a few injuries sustained in the last scrimmage the varsity team was in fine shape physically and mentally and it was the expectation that they would approximate the form shown in the Dartmouth and Columbia games despite the strain and grind of a long season.

William Carey, substitute right half back, hurt in scrimmage, was put out of the game for the rest of the season. He suffered a minor leg fracture. Leonard C. Hanson, left tackle, and Charles E. Cassidy, left end, were also suffering from injuries when the squad left, but it was hoped that they would be in shape to play by Thursday.

In case neither was able to play Coach Dobie was expected to start Frank Sundstrom at left tackle and Elias F. Buckley at left end.

Since the Springfield game much of the practice has been carried on in the baseball cage because of unfavorable weather conditions. With the exception of two scrimmages, the work has been relatively light.

Penn Defeats Freshmen

The Penn freshmen defeated the Cornell freshmen at Franklin Field last Saturday by a score of 19 to 7. Although the Cornell yearlings outrushed their opponents they were unable to take the leather over except once. Kneen scored a touchdown in the third period on a forward pass after a march down the field.

Penn scored once on straight rushing from midfield. McGraw intercepted a forward pass and ran forty-five yards through the Cornell team for another touchdown, and a fifty-yard run by Dewhirst after he had recovered a fumble was responsible for the third.

Soccer Team Defeats Syracuse

The Cornell soccer team defeated Syracuse by the score of 10 to 1 on lower Alumni Field Saturday before twelve hundred spectators. The Cornell team outplayed the Orange practically all the way, launching a fast offensive at the very beginning of the game and keeping the play in Syracuse territory most of the time. Cornell scored six goals in the first half. The line-up and summary:

Cornell (10)	Syracuse (1)
Molinet.....	G..... Cooley
O'Connor.....	R.F..... Huston
Leonard.....	L.F..... Walton
Thompson.....	R.H..... Suman
Cilloniz.....	C.H..... Partridge
Kwong.....	L.H..... Condit
Righter.....	O.R..... Bertenshaw
Rosseau.....	I.R..... Phillips
Elli.....	C..... Johnson
Crabtree.....	I.L..... Hoyland
Cook.....	O.L..... Jagger

Goals: Cornell, Elli 7, Crabtree, Righter, Pethick; Syracuse, Johnson.

Substitutions: Cornell, Smith for Rosseau, Woolf for Kwong, Meyer for Woolf, Hopflauer for Crabtree, C. H. Leonard for O'Connor, Pethick for Cook, Rosseau for Smith; Syracuse, Ross for Cooley, Rothburg for Ross, Ross for Suman.

CORNELL SOCIALISTS have expressed their lack of faith in the ability of the Washington conference to abolish war. The Cornell Chapter of the Intercollegiate Socialist Society has passed a resolution urging "the manual, mental, and aesthetic producers of the wealth of the world to desist from all enterprises propagating hatreds or manufacturing and transporting the tools of military force."

FOUR VAGRANTS, colored, were jailed last week by Sheriff Fay Skillings. They were found living in a slaughter house near McLean and seemed pleased to change to the less pungent atmosphere of the Tompkins County jail.

LITERARY REVIEW

For Designers in Concrete

Concrete Designers' Manual: Tables and Diagrams for the Design of Reinforced Concrete Structures. By George A. Hool, Professor of Structural Engineering at the University of Wisconsin, and Charles S. Whitney, M.C.E. '14, Structural Engineer. New York. McGraw Hill Book Company, 1921. 8vo, limp cloth, pp. viii, 276.

This will prove an indispensable handbook for the construction engineer. It is not a book of theory, nor does it duplicate information which can conveniently be found in other handbooks used by all designers. It is the result of extended experience on the part of the authors, whose design has been to compile data in the most convenient form and of the greatest value to designing engineers.

The fifty-four tables and sixty-six diagrams here given will make possible the rapid designing of reinforced concrete structures in accordance with the report of the Joint Committee on Concrete and Reinforced Concrete of the American Society of Civil Engineers (presented January 17, 1917), the recommendations of the American Concrete Institute, and the Building Code requirements of the cities of New York and Chicago. Some of the tables and diagrams, the authors believe, will also be found of so general a nature that they will prove useful even when the requirements are different from those specified.

The ten sections deal with slabs, flat slabs, rectangular beams, T-beams, shear reinforcement, columns square and round, bending and direct stress, footings, and miscellaneous, including the approximate quantities of steel, concrete, and forms for typical square interior panels of the three-beam and girder floor system, building code requirements of the various cities for live load, recommended live loads for the various contents of storage warehouses, and the weights of building materials. In the appendix will be found the rulings pertaining to design and working stress from the Joint Committee Recommendations of the American Concrete Institute (passed April 17, 1920), and the Building Code requirements for concrete in New York and Chicago.

Books and Magazine Articles

In the Journal of the American Institute of Architects for November Frederick L. Ackerman '01 introduces his trenchant attacks on the price system, writing under the title, "Climbing the Greased Pole."

"Tompkins County Gravestone Inscriptions" is the title of a serial now running in The New York Genealogical and Biographical Record, and the author of which is Mrs. Dora Pope Worden, of Ithaca, mother of the late Florence

Worden '04 and of Katherine Worden, assistant in the Library. Mrs. Worden and her assistants have visited seventy-five cemeteries and copied about five thousand inscriptions.

The Sewanee Review for October-November includes three contributions by Cornellians. Professor Walter W. Hyde '93, of the University of Pennsylvania, writes on "The Charm of Greek Travel," dwelling on the landscape, especially the hills, travel conveniences, peasant hospitality, the Greek love for the beautiful, and the Christian adaptations from heathenism. Professor Joseph Q. Adams, Jr., Ph.D. '06, writes on "A Norman Origin for Shakespeare." He derives the word from the Norman saquer, "to draw vigorously," and espee, "a sword," a derivation which helps us to account for the earlier form Shakspey. Perhaps it is a too sweeping inference, even if the proposed etymology be accepted, that this gives Shakespeare any great amount of Norman blood. His ancestors of the tenth generation would number 512, of whom only two or so might be Normans. Edith Horton '13 has a dainty poem entitled "My Kitchen."

In The Personalist, published by the University of Southern California, for October, the Rev. George W. Roesch '07, now a Methodist minister of Danbury, Connecticut, writes on "Pragmatism and the Christian System." He thinks, for example, "that those churches which have cherished the Trinitarian doctrine have been the ones best adapted to cope with practical difficulties of life."

"The Orbit and Spectrum of H. R. 8803" by Professor Samuel L. Boothroyd, '04-5, '07-8 Grad., appears as one of the Publications of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory (vol. i, no. 25).

In The Cornell Countryman for November Professor E. Dwight Sanderson '98 writes on "The Science of Country Life." A poem entitled "When the Leaves come Down" is the work of William P. Alexander, who is connected with the Buffalo Municipal Museum. Edwin C. Heinsohn '15, who is now connected with the Amos Bird Company, packers of egg products, in Shanghai, tells "What a Cornellian Saw in China." Marvin T. Merrick '22, of the College of Arts and Sciences, writing under the title "Recreation and Dramatics," describes the success of the Little Country Theatre and the Cornell Dramatic Club at the New York State Fair. All three of these articles are illustrated. Robert Morrill Adams writes on "Home Storage of Vegetables."

CHINESE HONOR SOCIETY

Cornell graduates are president and secretary of the national organization of Phi Tau Phi, honorary scholastic society of the Republic of China, which has just been formed, according to an article which appeared recently in The North China Star, of Tientsin. Chung Chen Lo

'10, President of Tangshan Engineering College, is president of the national council and Professor Joseph H. Ehlers '16, of Pei Yang University, is secretary.

The article in the The North China Star runs in part as follows:

"An outgrowth of an extended series of conferences among the leaders in educational affairs in China is the formation of the Phi Tau Phi Honorary Society with chapters in fifteen of the leading universities of China. It is to be similar in aims and activities to the well known Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi Societies, which since their establishment in 1776 and 1892, [should be 1886] respectively, have exercised such a profound influence on American education, and among whose members are many of America's leaders in all lines of endeavor. A large number of the charter members of the new Phi Tau Phi Society of China are members of the American honor societies. The purposes of the new society may be briefly stated as follows: to encourage high scholarship and stimulate research among undergraduates, graduates, and faculty of the universities of China; to afford a reward for high scholastic accomplishment; and to create ties of mutual interest among the various universities of China.

"Eligibility to active membership is determined on the basis of scholastic standing of the members of any graduating class, or the performance of original work in advanced courses; five per cent of any class only being eligible for membership which in any case is to be conferred only on men of exceptional merit.

"Some of the most prominent graduates of previous years have been elected to membership. Those men together with the university presidents and a few selected faculty members constitute the charter membership. Honorary members may be selected from among foreigners or Chinese prominent in Chinese affairs."

The following chapters have been established: Peking University, Pei Yang University, Tangshan Government Engineering College, Nanking University, Soochow University, St. John's University, Shanghai Government Institute of Technology (Nanyang), Boone University, West China Union University at Chengtu, Szechuan, Shansi University, and Canton Christian College. Chapters have been authorized for Hong Kong University, Peking National University, and the Government Southeastern University at Nanking.

PROFESSOR HENRY W. SCHNECK spoke at the annual convention of the Vegetable Growers' Association of America in Albany, on November 2.

TWO WOMEN, Mary G. Willcox '23, of Ithaca, and Evelyn E. Folks '23, of Yonkers, have been elected to the Era board. Miss Willcox is editorial and Miss Folks business representative.
