PRICE 12 CENTS

REGISTRATION figures show a total, taken at noon on September 23, of 4,080 students, 266 more than at the corresponding date last year. Of this number, 1,328 are new students, as compared with 1,337 last year. This does not, however, represent the final total. It is reasonably to be expected that about five hundred names will be added to this list.

THE SAGE CHAPEL Preacher for September 24 was the Rev. Dr. Murray Bartlett, president of Hobart College. On October 1 the preacher was the Rev. Dr. R. Bruce Taylor, principal of Queen's University, Kingston, Canada. Next Sunday the Rev. Dr. Willard Learoyd Sperry, Congregationalist, dean of the Andover Theological School in Harvard, will preach.

THE FENCING TEAM resumed activities for the coming year with a meeting held in Barnes Hall under the presidency of Captain Arthur T. Hunter '23, of St. Louis. Shingles were given to the members of last year's team, and registrations made for practice, which began October 2 under the direction of Captain Hunter.

MORE POLO PONIES have been sent here for the use of the Artillery Unit, and are being trained by members of the Unit under the direction of Major Thomas J. J. Christian.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL REGISTRATION shows a total of nearly one hundred names, which number Coach Paul W. Eckley '17 finds full of promise for a successful season. Practice started on September 25, on the northeast corner of Lower Alumni Field. It is possible that flood lights such as are now in use on Schoellkopf Field, will be installed for the benefit of the freshmen later on, when early darkness cuts their practice short.

TRYOUTS for the University Orchestra and the Glee Club show the usual wealth of material for these organizations. The requirements of neither organization have as yet been fully met, and second calls have been issued especially for tenors and for cellists.

THE ORIGINAL MANUSCRIPT of "Dixie" has been presented to Cornell by its composer, the late Daniel D. Emmett. It is now in the North Carolina Hall of History as a loan until 1923.

THE FRESHMAN ADVISORY COMMITTEE held its first organized meeting in Barnes Hall on October 3 under the chairmanship of George L. Lee '23, of Newark, N. J. The committee, a large one, is composed of worthy upperclassmen, to each of whom is assigned a certain number of freshmen whom they will help in every possible way.

THE COURSE in hotel management given this year for the first time by the College of Agriculture in cooperation with the American Hotel Association, has attracted an enrollment of twenty students. H. B. Meek, a graduate of Boston University, has been named director of the new course, with the official title of Assistant Professor of Institutional Management in the School of Home Economics.

SORORITY RUSHING started on September 27, following rules adopted by the Pan-Hellenic Association last spring. Formal rushing will last two and one-half weeks, divided into three periods, the first of which includes eight informal entertainments, the second four, and the last two. No bids will be sent out before October 14 and pledging is to be between five and six of the afternoon of that day.

THE SOCCER SEASON opens hopefully with five full teams practicing daily on Lower Alumni Field, and the Intercollegiate League formed earlier than usual. Two new soccer fields have been laid out on Upper Alumni Field to be used primarily for games in the Interfraternity League now in the process of formation. Coach Bawlf has a nucleus of but two regulars from last year's varsity team.

JOBS FOR STUDENTS working their way through the University are fewer this year than heretofore. More than three hundred applicants for such work have been disappointed in spite of the best efforts of the Employment Bureau to find employment for them.

THE DEBATING CLUB sent Murray F. Johnson '23, of Woodside, New York, as its delegate to the conference of the Intercollegiate Debating League, held in Springfield, Massachusetts, on September 30. The purpose of the conference was to organize a debating league that shall include twelve of the principal colleges of the East.

CREW REGISTRATION to date has fallen below the marks set by this date in any of the three preceding years. Only two hundred eighty-four oarsmen are registered.

CORNELL is still the leading educational institution in Ithaca, but the Ithaca Conservatory of Music is growing rapidly and two new schools have been recently established. Last year the Ithaca School of Physical Education was started under Dr. Albert Sharpe and this year the Empire State School of Printing under the deanship of Ross W. Kellogg '12, is in full swing. It is reported that a notable theological seminary may soon change its quarters to the city on Cayuga Lake.

TRACK REGISTRATION having passed the three hundred mark, Schoellkopf Field in the afternoon presents the aspects of an Olympic meet. Saturday's trials in cross country drew fields aggregating 80 men, and brought out some hopeful material for the varsity team. In the track trials, two exceptionally good marks for this time of year were made by freshmen: 5 feet 6 inches in the high jump and 11 feet in the pole vault.

SOUTH AVENUE, between Central and Stewart Avenues, has been graded and resurfaced. It is now more like a street than a gorge.

THE INDEPENDENTS have held a meeting for the organization of their forces and have pointed out that "all men who are neither attached to, nor affiliated with, a Cornell organization in the Interfraternity meetings, is a member." Room 2 in the tower of Barnes Hall is the organization's office and a booklet telling of the Independent Association, its purposes and program, has been prepared.

THE ITHACA CONSERVATORY of Music announces an artists' anniversary concert series, to include a song recital by Herbert Witherspoon on October 6; a recital by Paderewski on November 13; a song recital by Florence Hinkle; and a violin recital by an artist who will be announced later. There will also be a lyceum course of entertainments which will include Edward Amherst Ott, the lecturer; Edith Wynne Matthison; Charles Rann Kennedy; John B. Ratto, character artist; and Alton Packard, cartoonist.

PHI KAPPA PHI has elected the following officers for the year: president, Professor Arthur W. Browne, Ph.D. '03; vice-president, Professor Abram T. Kerr '95; secretary, Dr. Jacob R. Collins '21; treasurer, Dr. Georgia L. White '96; executive committee, with the above officers, Professors Karl M. Wiegand '94, Roswell C. Gibbs '06, and Clarence E. Townsend '07.

THE CROSS COUNTRY TEAM has accepted an invitation to compete at Syracuse on November 4, in the annual intercollegiate meet scheduled in that city on the occasion of the Syracuse-McGill football game. Colgate, Columbia, and the Carnegie Institute have also accepted invitations to compete.

THE CORNELL stock-judging team achieved distinction at the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, Mass. Harvey A. Weaver '23, from Findley Lake, was high man with Lowry T. Mea, Jr., '23, of Brooklyn, a close second in general judging of all types of cattle, sheep and swine.

Convention Committees Mix Business With Pleasure

Announce Speakers for Pittsburgh Conclave Next Week and Plans for Two-Day Reunion—Old-Fashioned Cornell Party

Plans for the Pittsburgh Convention have rounded into shape and postal replies are being received from many well known Cornellians. Among early replies are J. Du Pratt White '90, Neal D. Becker '05, Edwin N. Sanderson '87, Andrew J. Whinery '10, Joseph P. Harris '01, George B. Walbridge '00, Julian A. Pollak '07, Walter P. Cooke '91, George J. Tansey '88, E. E. Sheridan '11, and Willard Beahan '78. President Farrand will be there, as well as Dean Kimball and Dean Mann. Ithaca will be further represented by Berry, Sailor, Coffin, Flack, Bement and others.

The local clubs are beginning to show life. Cleveland reports that it may be depended upon to furnish a healthy delegation. Detroit, Baltimore, Buffalo, Dayton, and Johnstown have arranged special convention boosting meetings and reports are coming that the convention is being talked of on all sides. Everything looks rosy for an old-fashioned reunion.

Pittsburgh Started Early

The Pittsburgh club has had a hundred of its finest hard at work for two months. The finance committee, headed by "Brick" Metcalf, has kicked in with a fund that will knock the tar out of all deficits. Attenders will be asked to pay a ten-dollar registration fee, for which they will receive entertainment and instruction valuable beyond monetary measure.

On Friday morning, the meeting will open with a session, promptly at 10 a. m. Thomas Fleming, Jr., '05, as president of the Associate Alumni, will occupy the middle chair and will call upon A. Welling Wyckoff '94, chairman of the convention committee, and Karl W. Gass '12, president of the Pittsburgh association, to tell you that the town is yours. They have promised to tell it in a few well chosen words: George Clapp, president of the University of Pittsburgh Alumni Association, and G. Cooke Kimball, former president of the Associated Harvard Clubs, have agreed to be with us and furnish helpful suggestions as to how we, as alumni, can help the University on the Hill.

At this session the national committee on the federation of Cornell clubs will present its report. This committee has been considering the alumni service problem. The proponents of the federation plan argue that alumni usefulness can best be secured through the medium of the local club; that the individual will function through his home unit, as he does not now do through the Associate Alumni, in which he is but one of the thirty-odd thousand units. Others point out that the Associate Alumni by-laws provide for club representation, and that it is now in fact controlled by this representation, since relatively few individuals each year qualify by the payment of their annual dues. The other side argues that since the individual has not been interested in the Associate Alumni, a governing body for local clubs should not be burdened with this cumbersome organization; that a closely-knit body of these clubs should be formed; that such an organization would stimulate the formation of local clubs; that the country should be districted and each Cornellian should become automatically a member of some club; that this is the identical plan under which the Red Cross functions and which made possible their war campaigns; that it is the plan found to produce the best results by the Yale, Harvard, and Princeton federations. Discussions of this question are going to provide an opportunity for presenting your views, and you should give the University the benefit of your experience by coming and participating.

Another committee will report on the mechanism of alumni Trustee balloting. Elsewhere is this issue of the ALUMNI NEWS is given the tabulated results of the 1922 vote. A fruitful discussion of this problem is expected.

At this juncture the committee has thoughtfully provided luncheon. Reservations for tables will be made by classes, but this will not prevent you from joining any other group that you find available.

Have Choice of Entertainment

The afternoon offers a variety of attractions. You may be interested in joining up with one of the parties that is going to visit one of these plants: the Carnegie Steel Company, the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, the Westinghouse Air-Brake, the Westinghouse Electric, the Heinz, and the Pittsburgh Provision & Packing Company. Parties will also go to the Mellon Institute and Carnegie Tech., while a general sight-seeing tour will also be available.

We expect a great many of the attenders to make use of the club guest cards. Fine golf courses and tennis courts will be open to you, and transportation provided.

The men of the clan will again gather at 7 p. m. on the good ship "Homer Smith" for a supper and smoker. This entertainment promises to be the event of the convention. "Cleveland Bub" North, "Ithaca Rym" Berry and "Pittsburgh John" Todd will have charge of the ship and entertainment. Valuable prizes as follows will be distributed: For brother coming longest distance: Neat little barbed-wire facecloth. For club with largest number attending: Handsome combination cane and umbrella stand. For youngest living graduate present: Beautiful hand-embroidered satin neck-scarf. For oldest living graduate present: A full set of genuine velvet ear muffs. For the brother bringing the longest whiskers: Exquisite cut-glass dresser-size cologne bottle.

This affair is entitled a boat-ride-smoker and the boat-ride feature is not to be overlooked. The gang-plank will be pulled in at seven sharp; so don't be late.

The women of the convention, meanwhile, will go on a theatre party. Quite a few women have written for reservations and a number of men are bringing their wives. Pittsburgh Cornell women, under Mrs. C. A. Carpenter (Margaret Van Deusen '09) will be on hand to take care of the arrangements.

Faculty Speaks Saturday

On Saturday morning the meeting reconvenes at 9.30 and Dean Mann will tell us of the relationship between the University and New York State and how they are cooperating. After the business of the convention has been finished, luncheon will be provided at the Hotel Schenley. From this point we adjourn to the football game. "Pop" Warner '94 has been turning out exceptional football teams for the University of Pittsburgh, and their opponent on this date, West Virginia University, promises to give them a severe test.

President Farrand will be the principal speaker at the banquet that evening. Dean Kimball, president of the A.S.M.E. and well loved by all his former students, will be on hand to give us his keen analysis of the University happenings.

Special convention railroad fares will prevail. To get the benefit of the half-fare return trip, be sure to ask for a convention certificate when buying your going ticket. Present this at the registration booth as soon as you land at the hotel.

A well balanced program of work and fun will fill your two-day stay. The committee is most anxious to provide accommodations for all and if you have failed to send word of your coming, sit down now and drop a line to Rodman M. Cornell, Standard Underground Cable Company, Pittsburgh. He will make the necessary room reservation if you will tell him the date of your arrival.

Don't delay longer. This is going to be one of the outstanding meetings in Cornell alumni history. You can't afford to miss it.

MAJOR SPORTS TICKETS continue to be in less demand than in years heretofore, in spite of the special drive to promote their sale held on the day of the St. Bonaventure football game. The total sold to date is 3,367, as against 3,648 on the corresponding date last year.

FOR NEW YORK WOMEN

It will be of interest to Cornell women living in New York this winter to know that on Tuesdays an athletic evening is provided by the Intercollegiate Athletic Association at the Barnard College Gymnasium, 116th Street and Broadway. For further information application should be made to Elsie Church Atkinson '18 (Mrs. Kerr Atkinson), 55 Tiemann Place, New York.

FORM NEW CLUB

A new Cornell Club was formed on August 23 with the first meeting of the Cornell Alumni Association of Hampton Roads. The organization was launched with a banquet at the Southland Hotel in Norfolk, Virginia, with Cornellians present from Portsmouth, Newport News, Suffolk, Hampton, and other neighboring points.

Ben Paul Snyder, Sp., has been most active in the organization work and at the meeting he outlined the objects of the association. Following an address by Charles E. Ashburner, city manager of Norfolk, officers were elected as follows: Hubert K. Peebles '16, of Newport News, president; R. Johnson Neely '01, of Portsmouth, vice-president; William L. Mulroy '04, of Virginia Beach, second vice-president; Ben Paul Snyder, Sp., of Norfolk, secretary and treasurer; Chester Ashby '01 and John Southworth '92, of Newport News, and Robert A. Mitchell '21, of Norfolk, board of trustees.

The Hampton Roads association will hold monthly meetings.

BINGHAMTON FELICITATES FROSH

A dozen youngsters who were to become Cornell freshmen a few days later were the guests of honor at a meeting of the Cornell Club of Binghamton, New York, at the University Club in that city on the evening of September 14. The occasion was the second annual send-off given by the club to new Cornellians from Binghamton.

Much sage advice and information was dispensed gratis by alumni of various ages, some of them home talent, others importations from Ithaca. Dr. Frank M. Dyer '02, president of the club, formally welcomed the new students, urging them so to shape their courses as to get the most benefit from all of University life. Elmer F. Kinsman '20, secretary, read a letter from President Farrand, expressing welcome to the sub-frosh and felicitations to the old grads.

Professor Charles L. (Bull) Durham '99, and R. W. (Tubby) Sailor '07, came with the latest gossip of Tompkins County. Between them they attempted to cover the field, to give the freshmen a better understanding of the University than is available to most young Cornellians until they have been in Ithaca for a term or two.

Not the least enjoyable feature of the evening was the community singing with Kinsman at the piano, together with two solos by George B. Cummings '12, the "Alumni Song" and the "Crew Song."

ATHLETICS

The Football Schedule

Cornell 55, St. Bonaventure 6.
 October 7, Niagara at Ithaca.
 October 14, New Hampshire at Ithaca,
 October 21, Colgate at Ithaca.
 November 4, Columbia at Ithaca.
 November 11, Dartmouth at New York.
 November 18, Albright at Ithaca.
 November 30, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

Still Shaping Team

The football team rolled up a big score (55-6) against St. Bonaventure in the opening game last Saturday; but in form, team play, and notably line play they were not as advanced as last year's team in the opening game, against the same opponents. Whereas a year ago the eleven men who were to make up the varsity had been definitely selected and the team that opened the season also started the final game, with Pennsylvania, those who sweltered in a mid-summer sun in the stadium last Saturday discovered that it will be a week or two before a first varsity eleven is definitely chosen and team development can go forward in earnest.

The varsity played about the kind of game one might expect from a group of individuals who had not been working together for any length of time. There was missing a concerted charging line; interference for the backs first failed to develop at all, but as the game progressed one had glimpses of backfield formations and protection for the runner that distinguished the offense of last year's eleven. For the most part, however, gains were made by individuals, clever dodging, elusive running by Eddie Kaw and Pfann, and later on by Donald Post, who was substituted for Kaw in the third period and gave a good account of himself.

The forwards as a rule failed to get the jump; they did not charge in in time to put their opponents on the defensive, and consequently it was difficult for the backs to get off their plays. There was lacking the team work which even as early as the first game characterized last year's eleven and proved even at that time that an aggressive scoring machine was in the process of making. On the other hand one got the impression, especially as substitutes were sent in who showed in some cases greater possibilities than their predecessors, that the material is at hand for another good eleven and that another effective machine is on the way.

Occasional loose handling of the ball proved costly. A fumble by Harte of a short punt, early in the first period, put Cornell on the defensive, well in her own territory, and subsequent loose handling of the ball by Ramsey and Kaw allowed St. Bonaventure to make a touchdown. On three other occasions fumbles stopped promising advances. On the other hand some of the men were keen to follow the ball, Kneen, Pfann, Raymond, and Hanson in particular. Tackling was usually effective, but a tendency to overrun the man with the ball was not uncommon, sometimes the runner was checked but not brought to earth. The ends got down fairly well, but they were blocked more than once.

On the offense most of the gains were made as a consequence of individual effort, though here and there formations that proved so effective last season made substantial progress. A few passes were used, with excellent effect, one, Kaw to Pfann, paving the way to a touchdown, and another, Post to Pfann, resulting directly in a score. Each covered about twenty-five yards.

George Pfann, the quarterback, stood out for all around offensive play, proving a hard man to stop as he darted by the tackles or occasionally went out around the ends. His cutting in after starting out on a wide arc was conspicuously successful. Captain Kaw played for two and a half periods, showing old time form in returning punts and in circling the tackles or occasionally making a wide sweep about the ends. His punting was also satisfactory, the kicks averaging forty-five yards or thereabouts. The most effective play seemed to be feinting a pass, followed by a run, which might go off tackle or out beyond the ends. Ramsey showed flashes of form in sharp line plunges and defensive play, and Harte made occasional gains through the line. The latter had been playing fullback on the second team until an injury to Cassidy this week brought him up to the first team. A broken bone in the hand will keep Cassidy out of the game for a time.

Besides Pfann, who was perhaps the busiest and most useful person in the game Saturday, Hanson stood out prominently. Not only did the big left tackle play an effective game in the line, but his work downfield was notable. At the beginning of the third period Hanson kicked off, a long, high kick which Lucco caught and muffed on the ten-yard line. He had barely recovered it before Hanson bore him to earth. And when it came to making the point after touchdown, Hanson was there with a perfect score, five goals from placement out of five attempts. Rollo, who took up this task after Hanson had retired, kicked two out of three. Rollo, by the way, showed a good deal of promise in the period or so he played.

Ten days ago the team seemed to have been definitely selected. But injuries and the failure of a few men to come up to expectations have changed the situation. Of the ends who started Saturday, Kneen, Dexter, Gouinlock, Raymond, and Henderson, only the first named is probably sure of a place. Gouinlock and Raymond might be ranked next in order. Hanson and Sundstrom, who started at tackles, are fixtures, certainly the former; Mott Smith seems to have the call at center. His passing was accurate and his defensive play fairly good, but he has yet to show on getting down on the kickoff, charging, etc. The loss of Brayton at center is certainly felt; he was in many ways the big figure in last year's line.

Although Berean, a sophomore, and Smith, one of last year's substitutes, started at guards, Brannon and Ebersole, of the original first team, gave a better account of themselves when they got into the game, and Rollo and Flynn, the latter a dark horse, seemed even more effective, though when they got into action the opposition was of course weaker. All of these six men seem to be in the picture.

Behind the line Pfann, Kaw, and Ramsey are certainties; when Cassidy recovers he will supplant Harte at fullback. He is faster and wiser in the game. Post looks good as a first substitute halfback; against less capable and experienced players than Kaw and Ramsey, Post would be a varsity selection. Wade of last season's freshman team looks like the other halfback substitute.

As for the game itself, St. Bonaventure had the advantage in the first period because fumbling put Cornell well back into her own territory and the line didn't give the backs a chance to get going. A fumble, as recounted before, gave the visitors their one score. Cornell picked up in the second period, scoring two touchdowns, with Kaw and Pfann getting into action nicely. In the third period two more touchdowns were obtained against the fast weakening Saints, and in the final quarter, with an almost new team on the field, Cornell rode over her opponents, scoring four touchdowns. The summary:

Cornell	St. Bonaventure
Dexter.....	L.E..... Lucco
Hanson.....	L.T..... Cunningham
B. Smith.....	L.G..... Shea
Mott-Smith.....	C..... Knauff
Berean.....	R.G..... Paiseley
Sundstrom.....	R.T..... Fallon
Kneen.....	R.E..... M. Martineau
Pfann.....	Q.B..... Logue
Kaw.....	L.H.B..... Green
Ramsey.....	R.H.B..... Lynch
Harte.....	F.B..... McAndrews

Score by Periods

Cornell.....	0	14	14	27—55
St. Bonaventure.....	6	0	0	6

Touchdowns: P. Martineau, Ramsey, Kaw, Pfann 4, Post, Sullivan. Points after touchdowns: Hanson 5, Rollo 2. Substitutions: St. Bonaventure, Farrell for Shea, Leary for Logue, Cummings for Martineau, Grey for Lucco, Logue for Leary, Leary for Lynch; Cornell, Gouinlock for Kneen, Brannon for B. Smith, Ebersole for Bearen, Kneen for Gouinlock, Wade for Ramsey, Raymond for Kneen, Post for Kaw, Rollo for Ebersole, Sullivan for Sundstrom, Richards for Mott-Smith, Rooney for Wade, Henderson for Dexter. Officials: referee Eckles, W. and J.; umpire, Ed Thorpe, De Lasalle; head linesman, Riskey, Colgate. Time of periods: 12 minutes each.

Most Opponents Win

Games played Saturday by teams Cornell will meet this season resulted as follows: Niagara 0, Hobart 27; New Hampshire State 21, Bates 7; Colgate 50, Clarkson, 6; Columbia 48, Ursinus 7; Dartmouth 20, Norwich 0; Albright 34, Juanita, 0; Pennsylvania 14, Franklin and Marshall, 0.

Early indications are that Colgate, Columbia, Dartmouth, and Pennsylvania will all have stronger teams this year than last. Colgate and Columbia particularly got away impressively. Richard Harlow, for some years coach and assistant coach at Penn State is now directing Colgate football. At Columbia Frank J. O'Neill is head coach again, while John Heismann remains head coach at Pennsylvania and Jack Cannell is at the head of the Dartmouth staff. Columbia is reported to have plenty of experienced backfield material, and many big if inexperienced men for the line. In the next two weeks these teams should develop sufficiently to give a fairly good line on their potentialities.

SPORT STUFF

In that initial football game the score at the end of the first period was St. Bonaventure 6, Cornell 0. A little later St. Bonaventure grew weary, the Cornell eleven got together a little better and the dam broke, flooding the place with touchdowns.

Pretty close to six thousand persons attended the game—more than ever before saw an opening game in Ithaca. Ten or twelve years ago that would have been about the number present at a "big" home game.

The seat sale for the Colgate game to be played here on October 21 opens for members of the Athletic Association only on Monday, October 9. The general sale opens the following day. Tickets are again $2 and are not subject to tax. Fifteen cents should be added to remittances to cover registration and postage.

For the last three years the Colgate game has drawn about ten thousand people. The figure hasn't varied much. About that many people are expected this year. If, however, Colgate should beat Princeton on October 14—and our scouts tell us this is by no means impossible—Schoellkopf Field won't be big enough on the 21st.

The experience of the St. Bonaventure game didn't help us innocent by-standers any in determining how good our team is likely to be, or who is likely to play on it. Saturday it looked like a pretty good football squad and a pretty poor football team.

CALIFORNIA THANKS CORNELL

The University of California, through its alumni secretary, R. E. Bosshard, has sent the thanks of its alumni to Cornell for the entertainment given the California track team when it stopped in Ithaca last May en route to the Intercollegiate. Mr. Bosshard writes as follows to Alumni Representative Foster M. Coffin '12:

"Recently when we gave a luncheon in honor of the members of the track team, Coach Walter Christie recounted the pleasant attentions that were bestowed upon the members of the team at Cornell. Following his talk a motion was made and un-animously adopted that the Alumni Secretary extend to Cornell University the thanks of the alumni of California for the splendid reception given to the boys.

"I have written a letter of similar tenor to Mr. Romeyn Berry, your graduate manager."

NEW ENGLAND WASHED CLEAN

One of the best known of the annual alumni functions is the "Wash" of the Cornell Club of New England, celebrated each summer with fitting pomp and ceremony. The reporter from Boston who sends in the following story was evidently of the opinion that the day was a success:

"Readers of the ALUMNI NEWS may have experienced some difficulty lately in obtaining their usual supply of Ivory soap. The Cornell Club of New England regrets exceedingly if anyone has been unduly embarrassed or inconvenienced by this apparent shortage as it was no doubt brought about by the immense quantity of the cleansing substance consumed at their Annual Wash, Saturday, July 29.

"The party started with an informal lunch at the Hotel Westminster, Boston, and from there journeyed by auto to South Natick where the doings started with a baseball game between the odd and even classes. Converse Hill '18 was elected, without competition, to pitch for the evens, and after a lot of persuasion W. I. Huckins '18 consented to catch. And they did pretty well at that. The battery for the odds consisted of Creed W. Fulton '09 and R. L. Sittinger '15, Creed, of course, pitching and Rud acting as backstop. After seven innings of almost errorless baseball, the score then being 13 to 6 in favor of the evens, the umpire Richard O. (Dick) Walter, '01, our "oldest living alumnus," called the game to allow time for the other events.

"In the base running contest Huckins distinguished himself by covering the four bags in 17 2-5 seconds and again by defeating all comers in the baseball target throwing, even Arthur P. (Cully) Bryant '00 and Edwin R. Thomas '08, who tied for second place. Ted Graves '10 took the throwing contest from Creed Fulton by hurling the sphere eighty-six yards. They couldn't find it in the tall grass after that. About this time every one remembered the real purpose of the migration to South Natick and accordingly dove or was pushed into the Charles River to WASH up for dinner at the Old Natick Inn.

"Creed Fulton presided at dinner and, as the program promised, awarded the winners of athletic events with neat prizes. Dr. Howard P. Bellows '72 and S. Wiley Wakeman '99 were the speakers of the evening. Several others said something at odd times. S. H. (Hibby) Ayer '14 sang and played many of his inimitable songs. In fact it is doubtful if Hibby had time to eat, so loud and persistent were the calls for more. After dinner the crowd drifted to the spacious side porch of the Inn and in the dusk sang all the old-time melodies and a few new ones with a feeling and wealth of harmony seldom equaled since Zinck's and the Senate, as we like to remember them, passed out of existence.

"Fifty men were present and every one of them voted this the best Wash staged yet, thanks to the committee headed by Oswald Rothmaler '12. And it was a good party. As The South Natick Weekly Gazette so aptly and justly expressed it, a pleasant time was had by all present."

The Cornell Club of New England resumed activities for the fall with the first of the regular weekly lunches at the City Club on Monday, September 11. The "Rub," the annual ceremony which follows each "Wash," will be held on Saturday, October 7.

TO DINE AT SCARSDALE

Cornell men of Westchester County, with a few others who live over the line in New York City and in Connecticut, will make a day of it at the Scarsdale Country Club on Monday, October 23. A golf tournament will be held in the afternoon, open to all comers, and in the evening President Farrand will be the guest of honor at a Cornell dinner.

Owen C. Torrey '11, is chairman of the committee on arrangements. His address is the Marine Office of America, 53 Beaver Street, New York. All interested Cornell men who may be missed in the circulation of advance notices should get into touch with Torrey.

DETROIT OFFICERS

The Cornell University Association of Michigan is holding its annual meeting on Friday, October 6, at the University Club in Detroit. The business of the meeting consists of discussion of the Pittsburgh convention and the election of officers for the coming year. The following officers have been named by the nominating committee, of which Halsey V. Welles '13 is chairman:

President, Henry E. Epley '03; vice-president, Edgar K. Ford '10; treasurer, Lloyd G. Grinnell '16; secretary, Clinton R. Tobey '18; industrial secretary, James W. Parker '08; sixth member executive committee, George B. Walbridge '00; delegates to the Associate Alumni, Heatley Green '01 and Robert C. Hargreaves '09.

SEVERAL CHURCHES of Ithaca on September 29 held receptions for old students returning, and for freshmen.

LITERARY REVIEW

A Story of Feminism

Spellbinders. By Margaret Culkin Banning. New York. George H. Doran Company. 1922. 19.5 cm., pp. 290. Price, $2, net.

This is the third novel by Mrs. Archibald T. Banning, Jr., which we have had the pleasure of reviewing in these columns, the others being "Half Loaves" and "This Marrying." We now have some idea of what to look for in her stories. The scene is apt to be laid in a great Western city, among people of the higher social strata, and always among people who are worth while; and the story is apt to deal intelligently with some one of the great problems of our complex modern life, always in a manner which compels attention and which throws light on it if it does not always solve the question in hand.

The present story has to do with the woman's movement. Gage Flandon, a rising young lawyer, is bitterly opposed to woman suffrage and all that goes with it for what he believes to be the cheapening of the life of women, and especially for the one woman of his life. She, however, drawn into the struggle for the recognition of women's rights through the influence of a college friend, Margaret Duffield, persists in her political activity, with results that threaten disaster to their happy family life. There are other "workers" for the cause—Mrs. Brownley, the charming hostess, Mrs. Thorstad, the ambitious politician; and contrasted in a way with these is Freda Thorstad, beautiful, impulsive, foolish, perhaps, but always right-minded, whose love story is fresh and fine.

The net result of the story, as a study in feminism, is not altogether favorable to the woman's cause. The author seems to tell us that righteous as that cause may be in theory, the reform for which it stands can be wrought only with pain and tears. And the pathetic figure of Walter Carpenter is a type of the tragic personages whom it leaves in the wake of its onward march. One may argue, of course, that there are varying degrees of femininity, and that some women would never be content to merge their individuality into private family life even if there were no such thing as a woman's rights movement. But it seems evident that our author meant Margaret Duffield to be a type of woman who, but for the great passion she conceives for the cause of woman's advancement in general, might have become a happy wife and mother. There are undoubtedly many such, who become, in many cases secretly, martyrs to the cause.

Like Mrs. Banning's other stories, this one is well worth reading, both for its interest as a story and for the point of view it suggests on the great question with which its plot deals.

There are some misprints which the

MARYLAND SAILS CAYUGA

The Dartmouth Club of Baltimore participated in the annual boat-ride on August 20, of the Cornell Club of Maryland, and were introduced to familiar Cornell names. The good ship Horton left the "Rhine" at 10.30 in the morning and sailed down Chesapeake Bay to "Taughannock Falls" (Heintzmann's Shore, at Rock Creek). After dinner on the boat, the party landed and Dartmouth defeated Cornell in an old-time ball game, 24 to 6. Swimming and indoor sports were also enjoyed.

The return trip was made in the evening amid close harmony, arriving in Baltimore at eight. Refreshments were served on board the boat. Cornellians present included George M. Nauss '07, Walter D. Young '92, William G. Helfrich '12, William S. Graham '16, William S. Wright '12, Frank E. Black '22, Francis T. Brinkley '73, Adrian Hughes '12, Karl E. Pfeiffer '12, Theodore W. Hacker '17, Gustav J. Requardt '09, Henry R. Gundlack '11, and Arthur V. Foard '06.

HOW WE VOTE FOR TRUSTEES

At the Pittsburgh Convention a committee, appointed in Chicago last spring, will report on certain changes in the method of voting on Trustees. Of interest in this connection will be the figures of last year's vote as analyzed by the alumni office.

Complete figures just compiled show that the candidate who ran third, and thus lost of election, polled a vote only thirty-seven ballots behind the previous high record. In 1916 James H. Edwards '88 was elected with 4,186 votes. The totals last spring were: S. Wiley Wakeman '99, 4580; William Metcalf, Jr. '01, 4,459; Mrs. Anna Botsford Comstock '85, 4,149.

Since the establishment two years ago of the office of Alumni Representative, appeals to alumni aiming at a larger vote have been steady and persistent. In 1920 the franchise was exercised by only one out of every five potential voters. In 1921 the proportion was increased to one voter out of every four. Last spring the figures reached a mark higher than one out of every three (36.5 percent). The goal of more than half looms up as not impossible of attainment.

In the last election 19,425 persons were eligible to vote by virtue of having received a Cornell degree and having a mail address of the preceding year. The increase was due in part to the number of degrees granted during the twelve months, but principally to the number of "lost" graduates who were located in that period.

One striking increase was in the number of women voters. In the two preceding years the men had outdistanced the women not only numerically, as would be expected, but proportionately as well. The figures in 1921 had been 26 percent for men and 18.5 percent for women; and in 1920, 21 percent for men and 17.1 percent for women. Last spring the vote of the women reached 47 percent of their number, 1,303 out of a possible 2,752. The vote for men was 5,635 out of 16,673, or 34 percent.

Detailed analysis of the vote only strengthens the conclusions reached by those who have studied the votes of the two preceding years; that the activities of a local club or association are directly reflected in the size of the vote in that section of the country; and that the vote is far heaviest, in proportion to their numerical strength, among the older classes.

By geographical divisions the vote is heaviest of course in New York State. Of the 6,938 votes cast, 3,175 came from alumni resident in New York. Next came Pennsylvania with 606, New Jersey with 380, Ohio with 307, Illinois with 291, Massachusetts with 256, and California with 254.

On the fairer basis of percentages, these States show a quite different rating. Massachusetts cast ballots from 52 percent of her alumni; California from 49 percent; Pennsylvania from 42 percent; New Jersey and Ohio, 37 percent; New York, 36 percent; and Illinois, 35 percent. Among all States, Massachusetts ran third to Kansas and Oklahoma, which had 54 percent and 53 percent respectively. Kansas has only 56 voters however, and Oklahoma 62. Five States cast as much as a fifty percent vote, Louisiana running fourth with 51.5 percent of a possible 64 votes, and Delaware fifth with 50.5 percent of 77.

California, sixth among all the States, led the group west of the Rockies, with 49 percent of 517. The number of votes from Eastern States increased greatly this year. A year ago the East was far outdistanced. Except for New Jersey, which ran fourth with 46 percent, the most respectable Eastern State in 1921 was Maine, whose 29 percent ranked her in nineteenth position. This year Massachusetts ran third with 52 percent, Delaware fifth with 50.5 percent, Rhode Island seventh with 46 percent, Vermont ninth with 43 percent, Pennsylvania fourteenth with 42 percent, and New Hampshire sixteenth with 41 percent.

Only a few States are lower than the general average of a year ago. Four States voted less than 25 percent: Georgia, 24 percent; North Dakota, 23 percent; Nevada, 15 percent; and Idaho, 7 percent. Georgia in 1921 was third from lowest.

Six cities cast a vote of 60 percent or better. Cambridge, Mass., totaled 72 percent with 24 out of 33, and State College, Pa., 62.5 percent with 15 out of 24, Pittsburgh, Pa., Worcester, Mass., Providence, R. I., and Glens Falls, N. Y., voted 60 percent. Pittsburgh totaled 142 out of 234, Worcester 18 out of 30, Providence and Glens Falls, 14 out of 23.

Of the classes, '84 repeated its leadership of last year, with 66 percent of its members voting; '74 was close behind with 65.5 percent. The classes of '72, '75, '85, '88, '82, '96, and '69 finished next in order, all with percentages of 50 percent or better.

The best class this side of the "nineties" was '00, in thirteenth position with 47 percent. '21 was the best class in the "teens" or later, finishing in thirty-fifth place with 38 percent.

In number of votes cast the younger classes of course score heaviest; '17 with 299. Then followed in order '16, '18, '15, '12, '14, '11 and '21. In fact, 45 percent of the total vote was cast by members of classes who have taken degrees since 1910.

In the consideration of this vote by the classes, there is the usual puzzling question. On the one hand it might naturally be assumed that alumni activity would be strongest, proportionately, on the part of alumni recently graduated, with their memories of the University still vivid. The offsetting ground for encouragement is in the evidence that as Cornell alumni grow in years, their interest in the University increases to a corresponding degree.

Alumni representation on the Board of Trustees comprises one-quarter of the total voting membership. The Board has forty voting members, of whom ten are elected by the alumni, two each year for terms of five years. Of the remaining thirty members, fifteen are elected by the Board itself (three each year) and five are appointed by the Governor of New York State (one each year). The remaining ten members comprise the governor of the State and other appointments which are substantially ex-officio. In addition to the ten members elected by the alumni, the majority of the other thirty members are Cornell graduates.

The two Trustees chosen by alumni each year are elected by transmitted ballot. The franchise may be exercised by every person holding a Cornell degree, either baccalaureate or advanced. Any person can be placed in nomination by ten Cornellians eligible to vote, such nominations to be sent to the Treasurer of the University not later than April 1. As soon as practicable after April 1, the names of nominees, with accompanying biographies and ballots, are sent by the Treasurer to every degree holder. Votes may be cast until the Monday preceding the Commencement meeting of the Associate Alumni, held in Ithaca each June.

As the Associate Alumni is charged with the managing of the vote, a productive discussion of Trustee elections taking place at Pittsburgh should lead to an increased participation in the administration of the University, through making the Alumni Trustees representative of a wider electorate. FACULTY NOTES

PROFESSOR MILLARD V. ATWOOD '10 recently addressed a New Jersey newspaper institute held at New Brunswick under the auspices of the State Press Association and the College of Agriculture.

PROFESSOR WILDER D. BANCROFT was one of the delegates to the annual convention of the American Chemical Society, held in Pittsburgh during the week ending September 9.

PRESIDENT FARRAND will address the annual convention of the American Red Cross, to be held in Washington October 9, 10, and 11. Other speakers scheduled to address the various meetings of the convention are Chief Justice Taft, President Harding, and Secretary Hoover.

PROFESSOR JAMES T. QUARLES and Mrs. Quarles left on September 27 for Pittsfield, Massachusetts, to attend the annual Pittsfield Music Festival.

PROFESSOR EUGENE P. ANDREWS '95 and Mrs. Andrews returned to Ithaca on September 25, from a six months' tour of Europe. While in Smyrna, they attended, as guests of a Greek officer, a barbecue on the firing line.

DR. LIVINGSTON FARRAND and Mrs. Farrand returned on September 29 from New York City, where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Farrand's father, the late William T. Carleton. Mrs. Farrand has discontinued her usual days at home until after Christmas.

DR. ERL A. BATES of the College of Agriculture gave an address on the Indians of New York State, through the broadcasting station of the Federal Telephone and Telegraph Company of Buffalo, on September 20.

PROFESSOR ROBERT S. STEVENS of the Cornell Law School was married on August 16 to Miss Pauline Croll, daughter of Mrs. Albert I. Croll of Boston. They will live in Ithaca.

PROFESSOR HEINRICH RIES spent part of the summer in Virginia, investigating the foundry resources of that State. This work is being carried on in connection with the investigation of molding sands that is being made by a joint committee appointed by the National Research Council and the American Foundrymen's Association.

OBITUARY

Harry W. Treat '88

Harry Whitney Treat, prominent capitalist, clubman, and sportsman of Seattle, was instantly killed on July 30, when his automobile went over an embankment on the Columbia Valley road near Chilliwack, B. C. He had spent several days in British Columbia, and returning he missed a turn and got on the wrong road. When he realized his mistake, the road had become very narrow, and the side fell away almost to a precipice. In attempting to turn the car around he went too far and the car crashed down the embankment and he was buried under it.

Treat was born in Monroe, Wis., on December 13, 1865, a son of Joseph Bradford and Priscilla Gould Treat. He attended the elementary schools of Monroe and later the Morgan Military Academy of Chicago, entering Cornell in 1894 in the course in science, and remaining three years. Then he entered the Harvard Law School, specializing in corporation law. On leaving Harvard, he became associated with the wholesale department of Marshall Field and Company, resigning four years later to establish the real estate firm of Helliwell and Treat in Chicago. In came known as Treat and Peck. Three years later Treat gave up his affairs in Chicago to locate in New York, transacting an important volume of business under his own name, with offices at 65 Wall Street. He went to Seattle in 1904, and had since been extensively engaged in the real estate business there.

At Cornell, Treat was a member of Alpha Delta Phi, Fruija, Undine, Bench and Board, and the Football Association, and served on the Junior Ball Committee. He was an honorary member of the Seattle Press Club, a life member of the New York Press Club, and a member of the Travelers' Club of Paris, the Alpha Delta Phi Club of New York, the Rainier Club, the Seattle Golf Club, the Seattle Hunt Club, and the University and the Harvard Clubs, of Seattle.

He was married on June 4, 1896, to Miss Olive Marion Graef, who survives him with two daughters, Priscilla Grace, and Loyal Graef.

Thomas B. Bryson '94

Thomas Bines Bryson died at his home in New York on September 5, after a brief illness.

Bryson was born in Mechanicsburg, Pa., fifty years ago, and entered Cornell in 1890, receiving the degree of C.E. in 1894. He was a member of Alpha Tau Omega.

Upon leaving college, he was first employed as a draftsman by the Pencoyd Iron Company of Philadelphia, and a year later he became associated with J. W. Hoffman, where he obtained his early experience in the contracting business, having been employed on heavy construction in railroad and harbor work. He went to New York about 1900 and entered the employ of the John F. O'Rourke Company, specializing in foundations and pneumatic machinery, and was in active charge of a number of difficult foundation jobs, among which was that of the Stock Exchange Building in Wall Street. Five years later he entered private practice, specializing in foundations and tunnels. He constructed one of the sections of the Fourth Avenue Subway in Brooklyn, adopting some original methods with great success. For a number of years he had been vice-president and general manager of the Holbrook, Cabot and Rollins Corporation, and was widely known by reason of the many large contracts which he successfully carried out. In this capacity, he took a contract for the completion of Dry Dock No. 4 at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, a particularly difficult piece of work which had been in process for six years or more by the use of coffer dams which collapsed. Bryson sank a series of caissons through rock around the entire dry dock, and three lines of caissons under the floor. The contract was successfully completed well ahead of the specified date. Another contract was the section of the Aqueduct Tunnel from Cooper Union, New York, to Brooklyn, under the East River, a sixteen-foot bore through solid rock, reaching a depth of 750 feet below sea level. At the time of his death he was actively engaged in the construction of the foundations for the piers and abutments of the new bridge from Philadelphia to Camden. This job involved the sinking of two of the largest pneumatic caissons ever built.

Bryson has been closely identified with the American Society of Civil Engineers, and was at one time president of the General Contractors' Association of New York. He was recognized as of preeminent ability in foundation work from a technical point of view, and was also distinguished by his ability to organize and handle men. He obtained not only the hearty cooperation of his associates, but the highest degree of loyalty and friendship. He was a member of the Cornell Club of New York, the University Club, the Metropolitan Club, the Engineers' Club, the Oakland Golf Club, and the Apawamis Country Club.

He was a nephew and close associate of Theodore Cooper, one of the most noted bridge engineers in the country. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Maude Winter Bryson, whom he married in 1910.

Fraser Brown '00

Fraser Brown died on June 22 at his home, 643 Palisade Avenue, Yonkers, N. Y.

He was born on June 10, 1879, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin Brown of Albany, came to Cornell from the Albany High School, studied law with the class of 1900, and was admitted to the bar. For many years he practiced law in Denver, Colo., and for the last seven years was associated with the firm of Hawkins, Celfield and Longfellow in New York. He was a member of Delta Chi.

He possessed an unusually quick and retentive mind and at the time of his death was an acknowledged authority on municipal bond law. His book on municipal bonds, which had gone to the publishers shortly before his death, will be a valuable addition in this field, and is largely a summary of lectures given by him before the Law School of New York University.

Fraser was a loyal Cornellian and at the time of his death was vice-president of the Cornell Club of Yonkers. He was a true and intensely religious man, and his strength of character was clearly indicated by the courageous way he defended his ideals. His original point of view, delightful sense of humor, and familiarity with and appreciation of our best literature made him a welcome guest and a delightful friend.

He is survived by his widow, Charlotte Sewell Brown, and his mother.

G. S. R. '04.

Mrs. Gramm was formerly Miss Carrie Naomi Riegel. She was born at Harrisburg, Pa., on January 4, 1887, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hanson S. Riegel, and grew up in that city. After graduating from the High School, she entered the College of Arts and Sciences, receiving the degree of A.B. in 1909. She was a member of the Pennsylvania Club.

She taught languages in a private school in Harrisburg, and later in the High School in Newport, N. J., and the Normal School in Millersville, Pa. She was married on March 30, 1914, to Ray H. Gramm (Ohio Northern University 1909), and had since lived at Niagara Falls, where Gramm was engaged in engineering and construction work. For several years she had suffered from nervous trouble, which was found to be due to tumor of the brain. Although the tumor was successfully removed, she failed to rally from the operation.

She is survived by her husband and two small children, her parents, and a brother, Ross M. Riegel '04.

Robert J. Scammell '20

Robert Jesse Scammell was killed on August 24 when a gas tank exploded in the rear of a grocery store where he was working in LaFayette, near Syracuse, N. Y.

Scammell was born on February 6, 1897, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Scammell, and prepared at the LaFayette High School, entering Cornell in 1916, in the course in agriculture, and receiving the degree of B.S. in 1921. He was a member of Acacia, and of Tully Lodge, F. and A. M.

Surviving him are his parents, three sisters and a brother. He was to have been married this month to Miss Mazarre Johnson of Ithaca.

ALUMNI NOTES

'73—Mrs. Rinna Swartz of Cambridge Springs, Pa., and Edwin Gillete '73, of Ithaca, were married in Cambridge Springs on July 22. They will reside at 304 North Geneva Street, Ithaca.

'87 PhB—In connection with the War Department's award of a Distinguished Service Cross and silver star to Lieutenant Rowan, who "carried the message to Garcia," it is interesting to know that a Cornell man, Francis Leon Chrisman '87, was the first to give the story to the public. Chrisman, a former owner of the Montclair, N. J., Herald, and head of the Chrisman Newspaper Syndicate, first met Lieutenant Rowan in the War Department in Washington, about twenty-four years ago, and after an interview, he telegraphed the New York World a page about the wonderful exploit. Soon afterward, Elbert Hubbard, who was lost on the Lusitania, wrote an editorial in The Philistine about the soldier who carried the message to Garcia, and about forty million copies of the article were sold.

'92 ME, '93 MME—Alexander D. Lunt was recently made manager of the patent department of the General Electric Company. After graduating from Cornell, Lunt studied in the law school of Columbian (now George Washington) University and was admitted to the bar in 1897. He was a member of the examining corps of the United States Patent Office, remaining in that position until he was engaged by the General Electric Company as assistant attorney.

'93 AB—Wells Gilbert is president of the Wilson River Lumber Company and the Olean Land Company; his business address is 1115 Spalding Building, Portland, Oregon.

'94 ME—Mrs. Alma Lyons Slater, the wife of Fred R. Slater '94, died very suddenly on August 19 at her residence, 618 North Broadway, Yonkers, N. Y. Besides her husband, she leaves two daughters, Louise Marion, and Elizabeth Jean.

'95—After fifteen years' association with the Lackawanna Steel Company Harold L. Stevens has resigned to become general manager of sales with the Central Iron and Steel Company, Harrisburg, Pa.

'96 LLB—William H. Feiker, an attorney of Northampton, Mass., and former mayor of that city, is Republican candidate for Congress from the second Congressional District of Massachusetts.

'97 LLB—George A. Rogers is president of the Union Rock Company of Los Angeles, Calif., a new concern which recently acquired and took over the properties of the Union Rock and Gravel Company, the Los Angeles Stone Company, the Southern California Rock and Gravel Company, the Pacific Rock and Gravel Company, and the Russell, Greene and Foell Company. This consolidation, which became effective on April 22, brings under one management a rock quarry and dry-crushing plant on Brush Canyon, and four sand and gravel plants on the San Gabriel River. The five plants have a combined capacity of 11,000 tons a day of classified material, producing practically any grade of aggregate required in cement concrete, asphaltic concrete, plastering, and material for ballast. The June 5th issue of Cement, Mill and Quarry contains an extensive article on this subject, accompanied by seven photographs.

'01 AB—Warren G. Rorst, the six year-old son of Victor D. Borst '01, was drowned at Middleburgh, N. Y., on August 19, while bathing in the Schoharie River with his sister Betty and his mother. Borst is a member of the law firm of Stockbridge and Borst, 41 Park Row, New York.

'02 AB—Frank C. Edminster is conducting a radio school at his home, 512 Stewart Avenue, Ithaca, in connection with his tutoring school.

'04 CE—Mr. and Mrs. Ross M. Riegel of Pittsburgh, Pa., announce the birth of a daughter, Eleanor Margaret, on August 13. Mrs. Riegel was formerly Miss Hazel Clark (University of Akron '06). Riegel is with the West Penn Power Company, 14 Wood Street, Pittsburgh, and their mail address is Box 1223, Pittsburgh.

'05 ME(EE)—The Lamberson Japanning Company, of which William J. Miskella is president, has purchased a large modern building where it will extend its present business of japanning hoods, fenders, etc., to cover the refinishing of entire automobiles. Miskella's business address is 1162-6 West Twenty-Second Street, Chicago, and he lives at 736 South Lyman Avenue, Oak Park, Ill.

'06 ME; '09 AB—A son, Samuel Sailor, 2d, was born on June 12 to Mr. and Mrs. Horace P. Sailor (Sara M. Bailey '09) of Shanghai, China.

'07 CE—Charles W. Hubbell, consulting engineer, is special adviser to the International Correspondence Schools in the preparation of their course in shipbuilding. He lives at 37 Fulton Street, Pittston, Pa.

'08 AB—Kenneth L. Roberts, the well-known critic of Sport Stuff and of the ultra-modernist policies of the ALUMNI NEWS, held a brief but interesting conference on the evening of August 26, 1922, at the entrance of Ham's Restaurant (Adv.) in Portsmouth, New Hampshire, with Professor Martin Sampson, as the former was going in and the latter was coming out, and an enjoyable time was had. After that Mr. Roberts had a broiled lobster, for which the Atlantic Ocean, on one of the shores of which Kenneth Roberts '08 resides, is justly noted.

'09 AB—John L. Kushke was instructor in modern languages in the 1922 Summer Session of the Princeton Tutoring School.

'10 AB—Ernest B. Cobb announces the removal of his office to Suite 308, 51 East Forty-second Street, New York, where he may be consulted on questions pertaining to systems, tax returns, accounting, and auditing.

'10 BSA, '13 MSA; '15 BS —Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Moore (Cornelia F. Kephart '10) of East Lansing, Mich., announce the birth of their daughter, Jeanette, on July 19.

'11 AB—Miss Mildred A. Mosier will sail on October 19 from Vancouver, B. C., on the Empress of Canada, to resume her work as principal of the large Morton Lane High and Normal School at Moulmein, Burma, British India. She will go by way of Japan, China, Manila, and Singapore.

'11 AB, '14 MD—A daughter Elizabeth Lindsey, was born on July 17 to Mr. and Mrs. David P. Barr.

'11 AB—The Rev. Raymond H. Fuller is curate of St. John's Episcopal Church, Buffalo, N. Y. He lives at 167 St. James Place.

'12 ME—A son, John Calvin, Jr., was born on July 24 to Mr. and Mrs. John C. Barker of Cleveland. John Junior weighed in at seven pounds eleven ounces.

'12 AB, '14 LLB—Remsen B. Ostrander has severed his connection with the legal department of the United States Rubber Company, and has opened an office for the general practice of law at 60 North Village Avenue, Rockville Centre, Long Island.

'12 ME—Merton A. Darville is in the construction department of the Turner Construction Company, 244 Madison Avenue, New York.

'12—Harold P. Wood was transferred on August 1 from the factory of the American Steel and Wire Company, Worcester, Mass., to the sales office of the company, 30 Church Street, New York.

'12 BArch—Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Florence Louise Cudney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willington E. Cudney, and Rollin D. Weary '12, both of Chicago. The wedding will take place in the early fall. Weary is a member of the Weary and Alford Company, architects and engineers, specializing in bank and office buildings. His address is 1923 Calumet Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

'13 AB—Miss Christa M. Alley '13 was married on June 21 to Delos D. Robbins, and they are making their home in Little York, N. Y.

'13 ME—The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company has announced the appointment of Ben F. Bardo as superintendent of electric transmission, with headquarters at Cos Cob, Conn.

'13 LLB—Mr. and Mrs. John W. Little announce the birth of their son, Frederick Duane, on September 10.

'13 AB—Edwin G. Burrows is instructor in journalism in the University of Michigan; he lives at 1306 Washtenaw Terrace, Ann Arbor.

'14 ME—Mrs. Frank A. Dodge, of Newton Highlands, Mass., has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Christine A. Dodge, to Roger Stuart Brown '14, of Montclair, N. J.

'14 AB—Miss Lelia E. Tupper is teaching English in the Port Jervis, N. Y., High School. She did graduate work last summer at Cornell.

'14 AB—Miss Delphine M. Hoffmann and Albert Edward Renaud, Jr., '14, were married on September '16 at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Carolina Hoffmann, 230 Quincy Street, Brooklyn.

'17 ME—Lieut. Chester C. Hough, Corps of Engineers, has been transferred from Camp Meade, Md., to Fort Tilden, N. Y.

'17 ME—Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Gertrude R. Nelson, daughter of Mrs. Nelson of New York, to Ernest R. Acker '17, of Kingston, N. Y.

It will pay you to listen to this music

ALL over the country the whistle is blowing for the kick-off, the start of that great game—another college year.

Be on your toes when the whistle blows. A good start will carry you well on toward your goal.

Let the football candidate start by working away till his muscles ache from bucking the line.

Let the aspirant for manager put in careful study of his team's needs, always eager to help—arranging a trip or carrying a pail of water.

Let the publications man be alert for news and tireless in learning the details of editorial work.

Whatever activity you come out for, crowd a lot of energy into these early Fall days.

And if a good start helps win campus honors, it helps win class room honors, too. The sure way to be up in your work is to aim now for regularity at lectures, up-to-date note-books and particular attention to the early chapters of text-books, thus getting a grip on the basics.

This is best in the long run, and—selfishly—it is easiest in the long run. That is, if life after college is made easier by the things a bigger income can buy.

Cornell First!

Classes will come and classes will go, but the old school will remain forever!

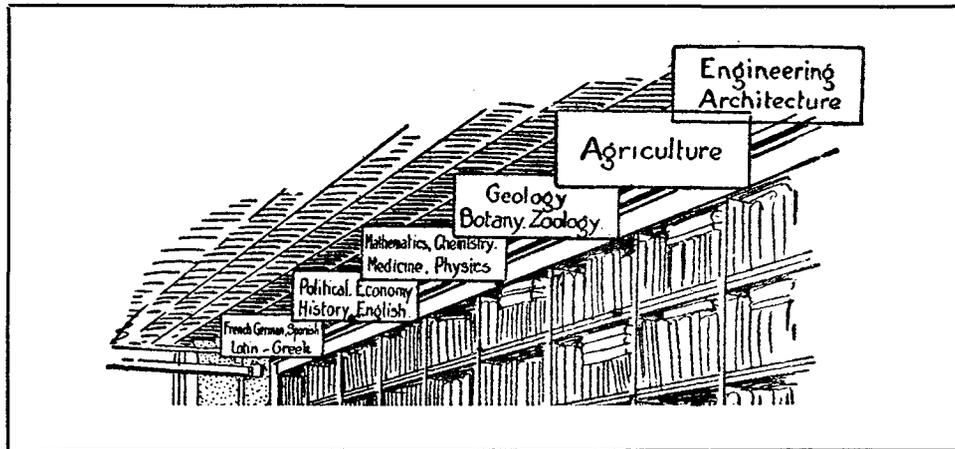

You owe serious thought and endeavor to the problems of Cornell—you owe her cooperation in Alumni activities.

Cornell will be "at Pittsburgh" October 13th and 14th. Of course there's loads of fun on the schedule—but the business sessions will consider questions of vital importance to all Cornellians.

Remember—Cornell first!—and arrange to attend the "Cornell at Pittsburgh" Convention, October 13th and 14th.

CORNELL at PITTSBURGH

Our book service is above the average store

Many are taking advantage of the opportunity. Not all order. Some ask for information. Few stores carry such a complete stock of textbooks. If you attended the university years ago we want to serve you now as then. Have you read "Concerning Cornell"?

Cross Section Papers

You will remember the quality. We use only papers made of rags. It is best for the purpose. Our sample book will be sent promptly on request. Two new kinds will be ready October 15th.
