PRICE 12 CENTS

COLLEGE Honor Committees suggest that anyone detecting a violation of the honor system during an examination should immediately begin to tap with pen or pencil upon his desk. This tapping shall be taken up by the other persons present, to warn the cheater and call attention to the fact that cheating is taking place. If the offense is repeated, whoever sees the repetition shall call the attention of another member of the class to it and subsequently report the case to the honor committee of the College involved.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB on January 19 and 20 presented its last group of plays for this term in the Campus Theater. The program included "In the Shadow of the Glen," by John Millington Synge; "Bound East for Cardiff," by Eugene O'Neill; and "The Man of Destiny," by Bernard Shaw.

THE SAGE CHAPEL Preacher for January 28 will be the Rev. Dr. Raymond L. Forman, minister of St. Paul's Methodist Church, New York.

LECTURES of the week include "The Background of the New York State Indians" by Dr. Erl A. Bates, before the Agassiz Club; "Mount Carmel, Nazareth, the Sea of Galilee, Damascus, Baalbek, Beirut" by Professor Eugene P. Andrews '95, being the seventh in his popular series on Egypt and Palestine; a lecture-recital of Russian and French music by Professor Horace Alwyne, of Bryn Mawr; "The Okefinokee Swamp, Georgia" by Albert H. Wright '04 before Sigma Xi; "American and European Gardens," illustrated, by Charles C. Zoller of Rochester, under the auspices of the Garden Club of Ithaca; and "L'Humour et l'Esprit," in French, by Professor André Morize, of Harvard.

BEEKEEPERS meet at the College of Agriculture during four days, from February 20 to 23, inclusive, in connection with a school or short course for commercial producers of honey.

LIBRARY FIGURES on the use of books indicate that the students are not voracious readers. The highest number of books used in a single day during the past term was 763 in December, and the lowest number, 171 in September. Books for home use on Saturday night, the time of heaviest demand, vary from a maximum of 65 to a minimum of 15.

MUSIC gets another impetus from Miss Elizabeth Coolidge of Pittsfield, Massachusetts, who enables Cornell students and Faculty members to hear O. Y. Salmond, the English 'cellist; he gives a concert in Bailey Hall, February 21. Miss Coolidge has brought musicians to several universities and colleges, and probably became interested in the musical atmosphere of Cornell through Professor James T. Quarles, who took part in the annual choral presentation at Mt. Holyoke during the past year.

JUNIOR PROM tickets have been reduced from $8.10 a couple to $7.50. This is the result of a suggestion by the Student Council to the Junior Prom Committee, made in view of the fact that recent Proms have made unwarranted profits.

THE GLEE CLUB has accepted an invitation to take part in the annual Intercollegiate Glee Club contest to be held in Carnegie Hall, New York, on March 3. Each club entered will render three numbers, one of which will be a song of its institution. The Glee Club will sing the Alma Mater for this number. There are thus far eleven other entries.

THE LATEST in collegiate dress includes three new manifestations. Startlingly brilliant neckerchiefs worn by both men and women have exhausted all the impossible combinations of upholstery silks in local stores. Second, sojourners at the Lake Placid Club over the holidays have brought back with them the wearing on each leg of two dangling, little, worsted pompoms that depend from the turned down tops of golf hose. These are worn by the men, and are just too cute! Girls' gooloshes are worn turned down at the top, quite swashbucklerishly; the excuse is that the buckles would otherwise tear the bottoms of the lengthened skirts.

SURVEYS are being made of the terrain surrounding the new Chemical Building with a view to ascertaining how much earth may be removed without endangering the foundations of the building. The development of East Avenue calls for extensive grading at that corner, but as the building is high above the Avenue on a hard sand foundation, precautions must be taken to leave ample lateral support for the foundations.

A CUP has been given by George H. Thornton '22 and his father Samuel S. Thornton, to serve as a permanent trophy for the hockey championship of the University. Although the donors did not specify the terms regulating the possession of the trophy, it is likely that it will be used as a challenge cup to be held for a year by the winner of the intercollegiate series.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL of Physical Education, for the past five years conducted by New York State at the University in connection with the Summer School of the College of Agriculture, will be transferred this summer to the Cortland Normal School, where facilities have been offered that will enable the State to carry on the school throughout the entire year.

THE WEATHER KIOSK at South and Central Avenues has lost much of its interest because the thermograph has been taken out, and the comparative records of temperatures recorded on the revolving drum are no longer available. The instrument has been worn out with service, and it is said that there are not enough funds available to the local Weather Bureau to buy a new one.

THE KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS of Ithaca have bought for their permanent home the large brick house at the corner of Green and Albany Streets. This residence, originally known as the Whiton home, was for many years the home of Governor Alonzo B. Cornell. After his death, his widow sold it to Jacob Rothschild, of Rothschild Brothers, who has occupied it for seventeen years.

THE LIBRARY has received a gift of about thirty thousand volumes, a collection made by the late Lewis B. Wynne of the United States Patent Office, Washington, D. C. The collection, which includes a wide selection of books on general literature and patent law, is the gift of Mr. Wynne's widow and his son, John H. Wynne '98, of New York.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB will depart from its usual custom of presenting three one-act plays for an evening's entertainment, and during the second term will give two performances of three-act plays. The first of these is "The Whiteheaded Boy" by Lennox Robinson, which has been played with success by the Irish Players in Dublin. The second play, to be given later, has not yet been chosen.

THE TOMPKINS COUNTY NATIONAL Bank, the oldest banking institution in this part of the State, has increased its capital stock from $100,000 to $200,000 as a result of the unanimous action of stockholders at their meeting on January 9. Robert H. Treman '78 was reelected president of the Bank, an office which he has held continuously since 1900.

A CUPOLA FURNACE of modern and improved type has been given to Sibley College by the Whiting Corporation, in which several Sibley alumni are interested. The furnace will be erected next summer.

PRESIDENT FARRAND was the speaker at one of the regular assemblies of the College of Agriculture on January 16. Following his speech, students from other lands presented international vaudeville.

Have Law Summer School

Trustees Provide for Intensive Training in Two Extra Terms

In accordance with recent action of the Board of Trustees, the College of Law will offer, during the summer of 1923, a Summer Session of eleven weeks' duration. The session will be divided into two terms of five and one-half weeks each. The first term will begin on June 25 and end August 1. The second term will begin August 2 and close September 8.

Three prominent professors of law from other American law schools will come to Cornell for the first summer session. The out-of-town members of the Law College Summer School Faculty will be Professor Walter W. Cook of the Yale University College of Law, Dean Merton L. Ferson, of the George Washington University Law School, and Dean Warren W. Seavey, of the University of Nebraska Law School.

This new policy of the Law College increases the number of weeks devoted to instruction in law at Cornell from thirty-two to forty-three each calendar year. The change has been made desirable by the fact that in recent years the law schools of the country have raised the requirements for admission. The better law schools now require two or more years of general college work before a student may begin the study of law, whereas formerly only a high school education was required by most schools. Students are, therefore, beginning the study of law at the age of twenty years or more, whereas formerly they commenced at the average of eighteen years. Consequently, beginning law students are more mature and earnest now than formerly, and more anxious to concentrate on their law studies with a view to finishing the course and being admitted to the bar as soon as possible. For these reasons there has come a demand that facilities be provided for continuing the study of law during the summer, so that a student may finish his course in a shorter time.

By the new plan, students may complete the course of study at Cornell and receive the LL.B. degree after two college years and three summer sessions of law study. For example, a student commencing the study of law at the beginning of the 1923 Summer Session may graduate in September, 1925, having attended for two regular college years and three summer sessions. With the summer session and the limited elective system now in force, a student may commence the study of law in June, August, September, or February, that is, at the opening of either of the Summer Sessions, or at the beginning of either semester of the regular college year. One who begins his course in February, 1923, can attend for five semesters and one and one-half summer sessions, and may receive his LL.B. degree in June, 1925. Not only may graduation be thus accelerated by intensive work, but admission to the bar may be attained correspondingly earlier in most States.

Even with this intensive course of study, more than nine weeks of vacation are left in each calendar year, which is more than the average business or professional man of the age and maturity of the average law student ordinarily receives. It is believed that the Summer Session in law fills a great need in the educational system, and that it corresponds with the desires of a large number of law students.

Engineers' Society Dines

Several Hundred Alumni Attend Most Successful Annual Banquet in Years

The annual dinner of the Cornell Society of Engineers, held this year on January 19 at the Fifth Avenue Restaurant in New York, will go down as one of the most successful meetings of that unusually active alumni organization. Several hundred alumni, including a sprinkling of Arts and Ag men, but made up for the most part of the simon pure old grad who got his education at the northern end of the Campus, sang the Cornell songs, renewed their youth—if they were that old—and listened to a group of relatively short speeches. These were provided by President Farrand, Dean Dexter S. Kimball, Professor Paul M. Lincoln, the newly elected director of the School of Electrical Engineering, Professor Henry N. Ogden '89, representing the School of Civil Engineering, Colonel William G. Atwood '92, and S. Wiley Wakeman '99, one of the brand new Alumni Trustees.

Following the speeches, Neal D. Becker '05, president of the Cornell Club of New York, told of the plans for new quarters for the club. Francis Y. Joannes '00, as the architect who designed the building in which the club is to be located, showed slides giving views from various angles.

The Class of '92 not only had the largest representation of all classes, but related in song at regular and short intervals the claim that "Old Cornell ain't what she uster be, thirty years ago!" It is evident that those old grads are still of the opinion they held last June when at their thirty-year reunion in Ithaca their plaintive cry shared honors with the song of the porcupine as the reunion anthem. '96 and '10 were not far behind '92 in the race for class representation.

The singing was led by two '14 men, Linton Hart and Anson L. (Pink) Clark. Carroll R. Harding '10 presided as president of the society. The committee in charge was Ernest A. Truran '95, chairman; John W. Ripley '93, Clyde Potts '01, J. Edgar Davidson '08, Harold H. Williams '09, Ralph E. Chapman '11, Phillip T. Coffey '14, Russell T. Tree '14, Donald G. Cockcroft '19, and Eugene F. Zeiner '20.

Trustees Meet in New York

Change Commencement to Monday—Elect J. DuPratt White Vice-chairman of Board

The Commencement exercises will be two days earlier this year than is customary, following action taken by the Board of Trustees of the University held in New York City on Saturday. The period of time between the close of final examinations and the graduation exercises has thus been shortened by changing commencement from June 20 to Monday, June 18. This change was requested in a petition which the Student Council presented to the University Faculty on December 13. The Faculty has already given its approval.

A new office, that of vice-chairman of the Board, was created and Trustee J. DuPratt White '90 was elected to it. Ezra B. Whitman '01 was elected a member of the Committee on Building and Grounds to fill the vacancy left by the expiration of the term of office of John C. Westervelt '94. Charles E. Treman '89 was elected to the place vacated by Mr. Westervelt on the conference committee of the College of Architecture.

On the recommendation of the Faculty of the College of Agriculture the Board approved the discontinuance of the twelve weeks third term which the College has held every summer since 1914. The Faculty explained that while it still believed in the idea of operating the college for 12 months in the year it had not been able to effect a time adjustment of the summer term with the existing semester system in the University. Departments chiefly interested in summer work are considering the development of courses in connection with the existing six weeks' Summer School in Agriculture. They will seek to increase their offerings in the summer session by adding courses designed primarily for teachers and by including advanced courses for graduate students.

President Farrand, on behalf of the committee on plans of the proposed University Union given by Mrs. Willard Straight, reported progress in the working out of the plans.

Carl Cleveland Taylor was elected professor of rural social organization in the College of Agriculture, effective July 1, 1923. He is now head of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Business Administration at the North Carolina State College of Agriculture and Engineering. He is a graduate of Drake University, Iowa, in the class of 1911, and he took his doctor's degree in 1917 at the University of Missouri, where he had done graduate work in sociology under Professor Charles A. Ellwood '96. For two years Dr. Taylor held a professorship of sociology at Missouri, where his chief work was in the field of rural sociology. He has published a good deal on that subject.

The Board accepted with a resolution of thanks a gift of $5,000 from Mrs. Ellen Foster Bell for a permanent memorial to her husband, Harold Ingersoll Bell, a graduate of the College of Civil Engineering in the class of 1905, who died at New York City on December 28, 1921. The fund will be called the Harold I. Bell Research Fund, and the income will be used to purchase equipment and supplies for research in the fields of hydraulic engineering and related fields. At the time of his death Mr. Bell was connected with the H. P. Cummings Construction Company of Ware, Mass., and has constructed several large hydro-electric plants in the State of Maine.

Sabbatic leave of absence was granted to Professor Vladimir Karapetoff for the second term of this year, to Professor J. P. Bretz for the first term, and to Professor M. W. Sampson for the second term of next year.

DARTMOUTH INVITES CORNELL

As a manifestation of the excellent spirit and good feeling existing between Cornell and Dartmouth, especially relative to football, the latter invited Captain Eddie Kaw and Graduate Manager Romeyn Berry '04 to attend the annual football dinner held January 21 at Hanover.

This is said to be the first time that Cornell has been asked by a rival, though friendly college, to take part in honoring the football team of that college. Captain Kaw left January 20 for Hanover, while Mr. Berry, who was in New York City, went from there.

WOMEN'S WORK VARIES

Women who work their way through Cornell offer a variety of methods, as shown by the employment agency figures at Barnes Hall. In job preferences, 52 elected to take care of children; 34 wanted office work; 33 wanted to do copying; 32 to act as companion; 25, as waitress; 19 preferred housework; 19, the more specialized task of dish-washing; 22 thought they would be good clerks; 20, typists; 14 tutors; 13, stenographers; 14, seamstresses; 13, librarians; 8, book-keepers; only four thought they could cook and do their University work at the same time; 1 was down as an accountant, and 1 as a musician. In regular positions, 45 girls are earning board and room by doing four hours' work a day in private houses. About one girl in nine who eats in the dining halls earns her board.

SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY has disposed of its real estate holdings in Ithaca by action of the executive committee of the board of trustees. The property consisted of the brick block at 129-131 East State Street, the ground floor of which is occupied by the clothing firm of Ben Mintz, Inc., and came into the possession of Syracuse University by bequest. Its assessed valuation is $30,700.

Lose Two Games

The basketball team dropped two games on a week-end trip to New Haven and New York, the one to Yale an Intercollegiate League match. The Blue defeated the Varsity 30 to 27 Friday night, while Cornell lost another close game to the College of the City of New York Saturday night by a score of 21 to 18. After the Yale match Coach Ortner reorganized the Cornell five and if the new lineup worked out successfully in the Bucknell game here Tuesday night, it was Ortner's plan to send it into the match with the champion Princeton five, scheduled for the Drill Hall here on Friday.

The defeat by Yale was somewhat unexpected, but there has been a basketball revival at New Haven which apparently has considerably strengthened the Blue.

Cornell took an early lead, but after five minutes of play Yale went ahead and by a lively spurt had a 17 to 11 lead at half time. Cornell spurted early in the second period, coming within two points of the Blue, but the latter again drew ahead. Cornell was fast overhauling Yale when time was called. Pito and Suisman starred for Yale, while Luther, who made thirteen points, was the outstanding figure for Cornell.

The line-up and summary:

Yale (30)	Cornell (27)
Suisman.....	L.F.....
Pito.....	R.F.....
Conklin.....	C.....
Gitlitz.....	L.G.....
Baither.....	R.G.....
	Capron

Goals from field: Pito (4), Suisman (3), Conklin, Baither (2), Luther, Capron, Crabtree (2), Stone, Wedell, Maier (2). Goals from foul: Suisman 10 out of 14, Luther 11 out of 14.

Substitutions: Cornell, Maier for Crabtree, Maier for Capron, Stone for Wedell; Yale, Luman for Gitlitz, Haas for Baither.

Referee: Tom Thorp, Columbia. Umpire: Benze, New York City. Time of halves: 20 minutes.

In the game with C. C. N. Y. Luther was shifted to right forward, Wedell going from left forward to center, and Capron was moved up to left forward from left guard, R. L. Maier going into the last named position. Although the players were unfamiliar with their new positions, the change worked well.

The first half was nip and tuck, C. C. N. Y. going ahead a few minutes before the whistle blew to a 11-8 lead at the end of the first half. Cornell made it even up in the next ten minutes, and the score stood tied until two minutes from the end of the game when a field and foul goal gave the home team a victory. Wedell with three field goals and Luther with six foul goals led Cornell's scorers, while Edelstein and Klauber showed the way for C. C. N. Y. The line-up and summary:

C. C. N. Y. (21)	Cornell (18)
Nadel.....	L.F.....
Salz.....	R.F.....
Curran.....	C.....
Edelstein.....	L.G.....
Klauber (Capt.).....	R.G.....
	Crabtree

Goals: C. C. N. Y., Klauber 3, Salz 2, Nadel, Edelstein; Cornell, Wedell 3, Capron 2, Crabtree. Foul goals: Edelstein 7 out of 14, Luther 6 out of 7.

Substitutions: Cornell, Stone for Capron, Capron for Maier; C. C. N. Y., Palitz for Salz. Time of periods: 20 minutes each. Referee: Tom Thorp; umpire, Koch.

Course Still Unchanged

No decision as to the length of the Varsity race at the next regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association was reached at the meeting of the Board of Stewards, held in New York last Friday. In fact, the association is deadlocked on the question, Cornell and Pennsylvania voting in favor of retaining the three-mile course, while Columbia and Syracuse went on record for returning to the longer distance.

Accordingly another meeting of the stewards will be held in New York on February 15 at which time it is expected an agreement will be reached. A more thorough canvass of sentiment at the various institutions will be made before that time, it is understood. In Ithaca it is thought likely that the varsity race will stay at three miles.

The regatta will be rowed on Thursday, June 28, probably at Poughkeepsie. Chairman Morton Bogue was empowered to select the site for the regatta and it is understood he will confer with representatives of the City of Poughkeepsie. If that city agrees to meet the expenses incurred by the association—not by the various crews—and if satisfactory arrangements can be made with the West Shore Railroad with reference to an observation train, etc., the regatta it is believed will go to the Hudson again. The stewards, however, have decided to make a personal survey of the course on Seneca Lake at Geneva, and will go thoroughly into the question of transferring the regatta there at some time in the future. Julian Curtiss of Yale was chosen regatta referee. Cornell was represented by Charles E. Treman '89, steward, and Graduate Manager Romeyn Berry '04.

Hockey Team Ties

The hockey team played a scoreless tie game with Clarkson School of Technology on Saturday afternoon on Beebe Lake. The ice was soft and mushy and made good hockey out of the question. Though they played two extra five-minute periods, neither team could score.

Play Polo in Philadelphia

The polo team will play Pennsylvania in the 33rd St. Armory in Philadelphia, at 8.30 p. m., February 3. The team will meet the First City Troop at 3.30 the next afternoon. The Cornell polo team defeated the City Troop by a score of 13-12 at Thanksgiving time.

CAREY LIKES OXFORD

News has just been received of William D. P. Carey '23, who was appointed to a Rhodes Scholarship from Kansas last year and took up residence at Oxford in October. In a letter to Hugh Moran, a former Rhodes Scholar who has interested himself in the promotion of the Rhodes idea among Cornell men, he says in part: "Oxford far exceeded my expectations, and that is considerable. I am unable to describe my sensations upon first arriving there. No doubt you experienced much the same feeling and realize the inadequacy of words to express it. Besides being very beautiful and interesting, the tradition which permeates life here is wonderful. Everything commands the deepest respect and most profound reverence."

At Oxford Carey is a member of Christ Church College, otherwise known as "The House," founded by Cardinal Wolsey on the foundation of an ancient Norman Church and other ecclesiastical establishments, and the Alma Mater of many notable men, among them Mr. Gladstone. It is the largest and one of the most beautiful of the Oxford colleges, and stands very high in athletics as well as in scholarship. Carey has been playing on the college Rugby team, of which he has the following to say: "Very soon after arriving I attempted the game of Rigger. Although I do not think it at all the same game as football [the American game of football is a direct outgrowth of the English Rugby. Ed.] I must agree that it is good sport, and I have enjoyed it very much. Through this channel I have come to meet several of the English boys, and although I have not yet become the bosom friend of any, I have received very decent treatment. They are very amiable and friendly in their games and this spirit has been a source of real enjoyment to me."

He then speaks very highly of his fellow Rhodes Scholars, and says that his gratitude for assistance in obtaining the appointment "grows with each succeeding day at Oxford."

LITERARY REVIEW

A Big Job Well Done

Service with Fighting Men: an Account of the Work of the American Young Men's Christian Associations in the World War. Editorial Board: Chairman, William H. Taft; Managing Editor, Frederick Harris; Associate Editors, Frederic Houston Kent, William J. Newlin. New York. The Association Press. 1922. 25.6 cm., 2 vols., pp. xxviii, 636, xii, 664. 3 maps and 18 plates.

In these two handsome, well written, and well printed volumes we have a comprehensive account of the gigantic task which confronted the American Y.M.C.A. and of how it was performed. During the war the Y.M.C.A. served from four to five million American soldiers and sailors. It conducted nine-tenths of the welfare work among the American forces in Europe. It ministered to nineteen million soldiers of the Allied Armies, including over five million prisoners of war. From 1917 to March 7, 1921, it raised $170,673, 914 and spent $152,170,109.

In his Foreword Mr. Taft emphasizes the fact that the Y.M.C.A., comparatively speaking, was extraordinarily well prepared to undertake this work; and one sees how this came about when one reads of the experiences the Y.M.C.A. had already had in previous wars, beginning with our Civil War.

Mr. Taft handles well the criticism which one sometimes hears of the Y work. Mistakes there were, of course, but they have been frankly admitted and never concealed; and moreover, they are negligible when seen in their just proportion to the good work done by the Association.

In the sixty chapters and eighteen appendices of the book every phase of the multitudinous activity of the Y is covered in a readable and well proportioned narrative. There are clear statements of the problems involved in welfare work from the point of view of the civil, the medical, and the military authorities. There is some account of the history of welfare work, and interesting contrasts are afforded by the narrative of Florence Nightingale's struggles with prejudice and conservatism in 1854 and the attitude of the military and civil authorities in 1914. There are hints of the great difficulties encountered in dealing with men of different faiths; at Camp Upton, for example, there were at one time sixty different forms of faith represented.

It is pleasant to note that among the workers two of the most influential and prominent were Cornellians,—John R. Mott '88, general secretary, and John S. Tichenor '96, formerly of Ithaca, one of the associate general secretaries. Of Mott Mr. Taft has this to say: "There is no one of the present day who has a greater world vision of promoting the better side of all men and more experience fitting him to do so than Dr. Mott. His knowledge of the moral and religious spirit of peoples of all countries and of the effective method of reaching and stimulating that part of their natures is extraordinary. Leaders in centers of influence the world over have a familiarity with his genius and capacity. This has made him a great agent in the progress of civilization. No man knew so well as he did, when we were brought into the war, the problem we would have to meet, because he had made himself intimate with the conditions in all the war area by extended visits to the countries of the combatants and to their prison camps." Tichenor was likewise well fitted for his work. After serving for seven years as Y secretary at Montclair, N. J., he entered the Army and Navy Department of the International Committee and served for two and a half years as national secretary for South Africa, then returned to the Army and Navy Department as senior secretary in 1911. He acted as Mott's associate or alternate in negotiations with the War and Navy Departments and on the Commissions on Training Camp Activities, and had supervision of supplies and of physical and educational work.

Books and Magazine Articles

Professor Louis M. Dennis with two of his pupils has been studying germanium. "Germanium: I. Extraction from Germanium-Bearing Zinc Oxide. Non-Occurrence in Samarskite" by Professor Dennis and Jacob Papish, Ph.D. '21, appeared in the Journal of the American Chemical Society for October, 1921, and was thence reprinted. "Germanium: II. Farrand in Chicago

Cornell's president and two of her prominent alumni will do the principal speaking in Chicago on January 31, when the Cornell men of that city meet at the University Club for their annual banquet. Professor Charles L. (Bull) Durham '99 will come on from Ithaca with President Farrand. He will preside as toastmaster. Dean James Parker Hall '94 of the University of Chicago Law School is the only other speaker so far announced.

The Cornell Women's Club of Chicago will entertain the President with a tea at four o'clock of that same afternoon. Chicago women who may not receive notice should communicate with the president of the club, Miss Gertrude Huth '17, 6017 Kenmore Avenue. The president of the men's club is Charles C. Whinery '99, 731 Plymouth Court.

Professor Durham Travels

Professor Charles L. Durham '99 will make a rapid fire swing through the Middle West next week, speaking in four days before as many alumni clubs of Cornell men. He will leave Ithaca on January 29 for Milwaukee, where on the 30th he will be the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Cornell Club of Milwaukee.

As described above, Professor Durham will toastmast the banquet in Chicago on January 31. He will then turn east, stopping at Cleveland and Buffalo to speak on February 1 and 2 respectively.

Prep School Committee

Ralph McCarty '96, president of the Cornell Alumni Association of Western New York, has appointed the following committee on relations with the Buffalo high and preparatory schools:

James Storer '12, chairman; Paul H. Husted '14; Daniel F. Potter, Jr., '16; W. Morgan Kendall '19; Matthew Weimer '17; Charles G. Seelbach; '19 and Carleton P. Cooke '21.

Chicago Women Meet

The Cornell Women's Club of Chicago held its monthly meeting at the Chicago College Club on Saturday afternoon, January 6. Following a short business session Miss Melita Skillen '11, head of the dramatics department of the Senn High School in Chicago, talked informally of her work.

Regular meetings of the club are held on the first Saturday of each month.

Other Alumni Speak

The Cornell Club of New England has had three interesting meetings at the weekly Monday luncheons. Alumni of Dartmouth, Annapolis and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology have talked informally to the Boston men. Dr. Warren K. Lewis, head of the department of chemical engineering at the Boston institution, was the speaker on January 15, when he explained the Tech plan of "farming out" chemists to industry.

Detroit Studies Directories

A representative of R. L. Polk & Company was the speaker of the day at the regular weekly luncheon of the Cornell University Association of Michigan held in Detroit on January 18. He explained the methods of this directory publishing company in collecting data for its publications.

The Cornell men of Detroit are planning to invade Ann Arbor in force on the evening of March 24, when Michigan and Cornell hold their annual dual track meet.

Enjoy Bear Hunt

Dr. W. A. Colledge, chairman of the entertainment committee of the Adventurers' Club, talked of bear hunting and such things at the weekly luncheon of Cornell men in Chicago on January 11.

Rabbi Louis Wolsey spoke on "The Americanization of America" at the weekly luncheon of the Cornell Club of Cleveland on January 18.

THE PAN-HELLENIC Council will discuss the advisability of second-term rushing for sororities at Cornell during the second week of the coming term. By that time the questionnaires on the subject, that have been sent to other universities and colleges, will have been analyzed and tabulated.

JOURNALISM students visited the offices of the Ithaca Journal-News in relays last week, when they were shown through the works by Harry G. Stutz '07, the editor.

SPORT STUFF

This is written at Dartmouth College by the pale light of the Aurora Borealis. Down in Faculty Pond the walruses are splashing about and somewhere off on the hills a sentimental musk ox is baying the moon.

Back in the days of Daniel Webster the only winter sports provided for the undergraduates at Hanover were oratory and draw poker. That is why all Dartmouth men play their cards so close to the chest and can talk eloquently about the glories of their college either to the Supreme Court or anybody who happens to occupy the same seat in the smoking car.

Now, however, the Hanoverians are exploiting their monopoly on the snow and ice and have moved out of doors. Everyone skis. Little girls and stout professors hurl themselves from dizzy heights down precipitous slopes with equal glee and abandon. Thousands of acres of snow-clad, pine-wrapped hills have been added to Dartmouth's territory by the discovery and occupation of sturdy, undergraduate pioneers. I am assured that these return to the Campus periodically, for classes, dry underclothes, and butchers' meat.

At present I'm divided between admiration and envy. I want a ski jump in Ithaca right away—provided I don't have to go down the darn thing myself.

ON CHARLES W. AMES '78

EDITOR, THE ALUMNI NEWS.

The Minnesota History Bulletin, vol. 4, pps. 3-4, published at St. Paul by the Minnesota Historical Society, has just reached me to-day, though it is dated "August, November 1921!" In it, pp. 124-129, is an appreciative notice, with portrait, of the late Charles Wilberforce Ames '78, which concludes:

"Looking back on his many accomplishments [I think Mr. Arthur Sweeney, the writer, must have meant "achievements"] for the good of the city of St. Paul, we can say with truth that no man strove more greatly, accomplished more good, nor (sic) left a higher example of citizenship than Charles W. Ames."

Your files will show you that he was once a Trustee of Cornell.

THE MONDAY COMMENCEMENT

The moving forward of commencement announced elsewhere, was suggested primarily so that students who were graduating might not have to waste two days in waiting. It obviously has, in addition to its advantages, some disadvantages, chief of which is the necessity for added speed on the part of the Faculties in making up and reporting marks.

To an alumnus from elsewhere two days in Ithaca in June with no particular duties might seem like a priceless boon. To the student, after four years of residence, the two days have quite a different aspect. Jobs, home, and the unconquered world are waiting for him.

Practice in the university world is divided between the week-end and the mid-week commencement. Few have tried out the Monday commencement. It is quite possible that it will work out practically and offer a satisfactory solution to the senior-week-reunion-commencement problem.

The main problem has been, of course, the separating of the three distinct crowds that must be handled in ten days. It has been considered desirable to have senior week and alumni reunions sharply distinct, and the crowds from one out of the way before the other commences.

The new schedule is not yet announced but, while the crowds can perhaps still be kept separate, it is quite likely that the line of demarkation will become less distinct, with some of the senior week guests and some of the alumni staying right through to Commencement.

Happily for alumni reunions, which concern us more than the other events, it is likely to work out in favor of the dormitory reunion from the very fact that fraternity houses will be otherwise occupied. It is clear to those who are responsible for class reunions that the most enjoyable reunions have been those in which the reuner has been least preoccupied with fraternity ties. Hence anything that tends in that direction will strengthen the reunions.

The opportunity may also be offered, under the new schedule, for the alumnus to see Commencement. If interest in it is manifest, undoubtedly the Trustees will eventually make alumni participation in the event a possibility.

MORE DEANS' REPORTS

We continue below our summaries of the reports of the Deans for 1921-22.

The Dean of the College of Law reports that 97 students were registered, of whom 36 per cent came from outside New York State. The number entering under the new requirements (a prerequisite of two years of college work) has been gradually increasing and will probably continue to increase until there are 250-300 students, which is about the right number. The addition of Mr. Whiteside and the introduction of the practice of giving some courses in alternate years has made possible the addition of courses in taxation, restraints on business and industry, international law, municipal corporations, administrative law and public officers, damages, and bankruptcy; a total of 119 hours is now offered instead of the 90 hitherto available. The application of the elective system is necessary in consequence. About two-thirds of the work, including all of the first year work, remains required. This removes some administrative difficulties in connection with giving credit toward advanced standing. The Dean hopes that work in jurisprudence and legal history will soon be available, and believes that the history of the common law, Roman law, modern civil law, and comparative law should also be added. A graduate course and a summer term are also highly desirable. The library needs additional shelving, reclassification, and the preparation of shelf lists. A locker room and smoking room are desired. The Delta Chi dormitory was accepted in November, 1921, but thus far no plan for the operation of the hall has been reached. Finally, the Dean notes that during the year the American Bar Association voted to favor the requirement of two years of college work and three of law for admission to the bar; in December the Association of American Law Schools fixed two preliminary years of college work as the standard of admission to its membership; and steps have been taken to carry out these advances in legal education in the various States.

FACULTY NOTES

PROFESSOR JOHN H. TANNER '91 will have a leave of absence during the second semester, which he will spend in a cruise to the Mediterranean and a tour of Europe and the Near East.

PROFESSOR JAMES E. BOYLE, of the Department of Agricultural Economics, has gone to Logan, Utah, where he gives several talks on marketing, including one at Farmers' Week at Utah Agricultural College. He also speaks at the University of Montana.

PROFESSOR OLAF M. BRAUNER has just completed a second life-size portrait of Mrs. Irene Castle Treman, wife of Robert E. Treman '09. As distinct from the former portrait which he painted, Professor Brauner has given to this one an unusual suggestion of action and much exquisite coloring.

PROFESSOR PAUL J. KRUSE, of the Department of Rural Education, is inaugurating a plan for character analysis of students, to include ratings in self-confidence, interest, power of analysis, aptitude, application, accuracy, speed, neatness, improvement-by-learning, and conduct. Each trait is rated to a scale, and self-confidence, for example, may be characterized as excellent, self-reliant, confident, lacking-in-confidence, and timid. Each student has three printed forms, to be filled out by himself, by his best friend, and by his best-known professor. The stimulus to self-analysis of character is expected to result in a cultivation of good traits, and an elimination of the weak ones.

DEAN GEORGE G. BOGERT '06 last week attended a meeting in New York of the committee on establishing a permanent organization for the improvement of the laws of which Elihu Root is chairman. As one of the New York commissioners of the National Conference on Uniform Laws, he attended the meeting in Hot Springs of the executive committee of that organization, afterward returning to New York for a meeting of the State Bar Association on January 20.

UNION REPORT OUT

The annual bulletin of the American University Union just issued shows that there were 1348 registrations during the year at the Paris office, and over 1239 at the London headquarters.

The Union offices at 1 Rue de Fleurus, Paris, and 50 Russell Square, London, W. C., have lists of pensions and lodgings and offer social opportunities. They also secure access to the British Museum and other libraries as well as to universities and other institutions of learning. Candidates for degrees find their way made easier by consulting, in Paris, Professor Paul Van Dyke, director of the Continental Division, and in London, Dr. George E. MacLean, director of the British Division.

Are You Interested in the Development of the Dormitory System at Cornell?

Frank H. Hiscock

IF you are, you can't afford to miss reading the interesting article on the history of the movement and on the plans for the completion of the group, published in the January Cornellian Council Bulletin.

This article has been written by Frank H. Hiscock, '75, Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals of New York State, and Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Cornell University.

Judge Hiscock is the successor as Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the late George C. Boldt, through whose efforts the new dormitories were planned and through whom Mr. George F. Baker was first interested in Cornell University.

The group of residential halls when completed will comprise about twenty buildings; will provide accommodations for about sixteen hundred students and will yield an annual income to the University of more than $60,000.

The following paragraph is quoted from Judge Hiscock's article:

"I think it may be safely said that no gift can contribute in so many directions to the welfare of Cornell as those which provide for the erection of a residential hall. It serves the purpose of providing pleasant accommodations at a reasonable price for a large number of our students. It brings them together in a close community where will be developed acquaintance and companionship, loyalty to the University and increased opportunity for well considered action in student affairs. It will develop the spirit of equality and democracy for there will not be, as there are in other institutions, halls for rich men and poor men. And lastly such a hall will produce a steady income for the University which can be devoted to other much needed purposes."

OBITUARY

Edward H. Bostwick '85

Edward Herman Bostwick, prominent member of the Ithaca bar for more than a quarter of a century, and secretary of the class of 1885, died at the Ithaca City Hospital on January 11. He suffered a cerebral hemorrhage at his office the day before, and never completely regained consciousness. He had been in poor health for the past two years, but had continued to attend to his duties regularly.

Mr. Bostwick was born on July 3, 1863, and was graduated from Cornell in 1885 with the degree of B.S. He was a member of Kappa Alpha, the Mermaid Club, and the Students' Blair and Logan Club, having been one of the vice-presidents of the latter organization. Later he attended the Columbia Law School, and was admitted to the bar soon after his graduation.

For several years he was engaged in the real estate business and the practice of law in California and New Mexico. Then he returned East and practiced law in the village of Spencer, returning to Ithaca about twenty-five years ago. He was associated with Myron N. Tompkins for a short time, but after a few years took an office in the Savings Bank Building, where he had been located for twenty years.

He was instrumental in organizing the Tompkins County Bar Association, of which he was a charter member, and served as its president from 1919 to 1921. In 1909, 1910, and 1911 he was City Judge, and he served as United States Commissioner for the Northern District of New York. For many years he had been counsel for the New York State Gas and Electric Corporation. He was a trustee of the Ithaca Savings Bank, and had been secretary of the board for a number of years.

In addition to his professional duties, Judge Bostwick had always been deeply interested in civic and charitable enterprises, and gave generously of his time to them. He had long been a member of the board of directors of the Associated Charities, now the Family Welfare Society, of which organization he had also served as president. For the past two years he had been chairman of the Court of Honor of the Ithaca Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Judge Bostwick was a member of Fidelity Lodge, F. and A. M., the Craftsmen's Club, Ithaca Lodge of Elks, and the Town and Gown Club, and of the Protective Police. He was a member of St. John's Episcopal Church, and had been a vestryman for many years.

In 1892 he married Miss Julia Theresa B. Heenan, who survives him with a son, William D. Bostwick. He leaves also a sister, Miss Ada Bostwick of Ithaca, and a brother, Lawrence Bostwick, of Westfield, N. Y.

Royal E. Wilbur '87

Royal Edwards Wilbur died suddenly in Washington on January 7.

He was born in Carthage, N. Y., on November 15, 1864, and after receiving his preparatory education there, he came to Cornell in 1883, receiving the degree of Ph.B. in 1887. He was a member of the History and Political Science Association and of Phi Beta Kappa.

For the past thirty-two years he had been located in Washington, D. C., where he was employed in the Bureau of Internal Revenue. All rulings issued by the Bureau were first reviewed by him. He was chairman of the board of deacons of the Bethany Baptist Church, where his death occurred. He had complained early in the evening of feeling ill, and during the services he retired to the social room, where he was found soon afterward.

Surviving him are his widow, and two sons, Merton A. Wilbur, and Hubert A. Wilbur, all of whom reside at 4315 New Hampshire Avenue, N. W., Washington.

Harry E. Stovall '20

Captain Harry Eldridge Stovall was killed on December 31 when a plane which he was piloting fell to earth in a nose dive about seven miles southeast of Mexia, Texas.

Stovall was born on January 17, 1895. After attending the High School at Mangum, Okla., and Texas Christian University at Fort Worth, he entered Cornell in 1916, in the course in civil engineering. He left soon after war was declared, and enlisted in the aviation section of the Marine Corps, receiving his training at Quantico, Va., and Miami, Fla. Qualifying as an expert marksman, he received a second lieutenant's commission. He was in the fight at Chateau-Thierry and Belleau Wood, and was in Tournai, Belgium on November 9, 1918, when that city was occupied by the allies.

He was one of the men picked for the North Bombing Squadron, which was preparing to fly over Berlin to bomb that city when the Armistice was signed. At the close of the war he received a captaincy, and he returned to the States early in 1919.

He was married on February 16, 1916, to Miss Ellen Mary Lawler, of Washington, who survives him with two children.

Joseph A. Lagerquist '21

Joseph Albert Lagerquist died in Brooklyn on June 28, following an operation for appendicitis.

He was born in Oxford Depot, N. Y., on April 28, 1898, the son of Erik S. and Augusta Van Cleft Lagerquist, but for the past twenty years he had resided in Brooklyn, N. Y., where he received his preparatory education. He was graduated from the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute in 1917, and entered the Cornell Law School in the fall of that year, but was unable to return after the second term on account of ill health. He was a member of Phi Delta Theta.

They have bought the patents, machinery, records, etc., from the Ordnance Company, who put weldless rolled rings on the market in 1919 after an expenditure of about a quarter of a million dollars in engineering developments. The rings are rolled by a patented process and on patented machines from a small drop forge blank into the ring of required size and shape. Internal and external gears, bearing rings, and cones for the automotive industry are made from the blanks which they roll. They also make spinning rings which are used in knitting machines. Their product is made in plain and alloy steels, and is also adapted to the non-ferrous metals. The process is a development of both the machine and the process perfected by the Ordnance Company in the rolling of copper rotating bands, one of which is used on every armor piercing projectile, the only product of the Ordnance Company.

IN TINTYPE DAYS

WHEN MAN DISPLAYED A "TOPKNOT"
UNDERNEATH HIS CHIN

Away back in the eighties, when Aunt Fannie laid her hand firmly upon Uncle Addison's shoulder and stood resolute, not to say defiant, while the tintype artist did his worst, there was a logical reason for man's inclination to keep his Adam's apple from achieving prominence.

Shaving, in those days, involved certain hazardous chances.

Mowing the upper part of the facial stubblefield was not particularly perilous, but even the man who handled his razor skillfully was inclined to save wear and tear upon his jugular vein. Hence the cataraacts of hair that tumbled over the chins of our sires.

When the baseball player whose countenance beams out of this page was in his twenties men had to use inferior lather for shaving.

There was nothing then like Colgate's Rapid-Shave Cream for making the beard yield without a struggle.

The man who uses this wonderful new shaving cream doesn't have to do any heavy scraping or nervous repeating around his thyroid peak.

An easy once-over, after the moist, softening lather has been applied, and all's well.

When you have tried Colgate's Rapid-Shave Cream you will say it is better than you thought a shaving cream could be.

It is economical, too. Half an inch of it, as pressed from the tube, will make an abundant lather even for a man with a double-chin and overhanging jowls.

Let us make you a present of enough of this wonderful cream for two weeks of the easiest shaving you have ever enjoyed.

Just cut out this paragraph and send it to us, with your name and address. In return, we will send you a free sample tube, and trust to your judgment.

Colgate's Rapid-Shave Cream takes the smart out of shaving and puts it in your appearance.

Wm. Lyon Phelps:

"Let me congratulate you with all my heart on the founding of THE LITERARY REVIEW at Cornell. It is an enterprise that I suppose is the result of the literary interest already in the university and it ought to cause a good deal more. I congratulate you not only on the idea but on the excellence of of the first number."

Cornell Daily Sun Editorial:

"Such a periodical supplies a long felt need in the University."

The Sibley Journal:

"This new undertaking is being attempted for the first time in many years, if not for the very first, and if all indications point true, the attempt will not have to be made again for it certainly looks as if THE LITERARY REVIEW of Cornell were here to stay, as much a fixture as the Daily Sun or the Widow, but in its own way."
