CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS

VOL. XXVI, No. 12

ITHACA, N. Y., DECEMBER 13, 1923

PRICE 12 CENTS

CHRISTMAS recess has been modified by action of Faculty and Trustees so that it now ends on Saturday, January 5, at one o'clock. But since no classes are held on Saturday afternoon, the actual return to Ithaca can be deferred until Monday morning, and the students gain an additional day.

THE SAGE CHAPEL Preacher for December 16 will be Dr. John R. Mott '88, chairman of the World Student Christian Federation.

LECTURES for the week include "The Fascisti and Their Leader" by Princess Santa Borghese on December 10; Dr. Lewis L. Forman's lecture in his series on "Ancient Answers to Modern Problems" on December 12; "An Archaeological Year in Greece and Italy" by Professor R. van D. Magoffin of New York University, president of the Archaeological Institute of America and recently director of the School of Classical Studies of the American Academy at Rome, an illustrated lecture on December 12; "The Fifth Century After Phidias" by Professor Eugene P. Andrews '95, the fifth in his series of public lectures in the Museum of Casts, on December 13; "Some Modern Adventures in Astronomy" by Professor Samuel L. Boothroyd, '04-8 Grad., under the auspices of Sigma Xi, an illustrated lecture on December 14; "College Life in Modern Fiction" by Professor J. William Hebel, A.M. '13, Ph.D. '20, of the Department of English, before the Ethics Club on December 14; and "The Deeper Meaning of Christmas" by Dr. Mott under the auspices of the Christian Association on December 16.

A LIBERAL CLUB has been organized at Cornell, following the recent speech of Paul Blanshard on trade unionism. A recent discussion of the club was devoted to freedom of speech in American universities.

CORNELL JOURNALISTS received recognition when Sigma Delta Chi at its recent national conference elected Peter Vischer '19 national treasurer, and Russell Lord '20 member of the executive council.

THE TEMPORARY roof on the half-ruined relic of Morse Hall is the shelter for a flock of pigeons who nest there in the spring and there survive the blasts of winter.

THE E. I. P. A. met at Cornell last Friday and Saturday as guests of Sigma Delta Chi, transacted business, heard talks by the instructors in journalism at Cornell, and were awarded prizes for the excellence of the publications of constituent members. These initials stand for Eastern Interscholastic Publications Association, which had fifty-five delegates present at the annual gathering. The Clarion, of the Rochester East High School won for the second time the cup annually awarded by the Cornell Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi.

THE RIFLE TEAM says that it may have to disband because it has not been made a sport organization to receive the financial support of the Minor Sports Council. The Council has taken the attitude that rifle shooting is not an athletic activity.

FRANKLIN C. CORNELL '89 has been elected head of the Ithaca Community Chest, succeeding Robert H. Treman '78, who has served three years, and who declined reelection.

BASKETBALL among the fraternities has been organized in six separate leagues, which will settle the individual league titles, and then the league winners will have an elimination contest to determine the champion fraternity. The league winners will be determined before the Christmas holidays, and the final contests will be decided shortly after.

FENCERS from Cornell take part in the intercollegiate championships held in March at the Hotel Astor in New York.

THE ARTS COLLEGE LIBRARY is to be opened at night, and its facilities improved, as the result of a questionnaire sent to all professors and instructors in that college. One answer indicated that the existence of the library was unknown to many undergraduates.

THE COSMOPOLITAN CLUB continues its series of entertainments characteristic of other lands. On December 7 it gave a Hindu Night, with the talent supplied by the six East Indian students in the University. Hindu refreshments, cooked by the students themselves, were served.

FRESHMEN are no longer barred from the Junior Prom, but they may not attend as "stags."

TWO STUDENTS were recently brought before the central honor committee and found guilty of joint preparation of a report. They were put on probation by the committee and were ordered to rewrite the report without collaboration. Some complaint has been voiced that adherence to the honor system is lax this year, and that unwarranted laxity in the examination rooms comes perilously near to breaches of the honor code.

COACH GILMOUR DOBIE, attending his first Rotary Club meeting after the close of the football season, was asked to say a few words to the club and responded with the statement that he knew nothing about anything except duck-hunting, in which he was profoundly interested, but could probably tell more about it after he returned from a contemplated hunting trip.

THE '94 MEMORIAL DEBATE will discuss the French occupation of the Ruhr, and the preliminary contest is to be held this week.

POST-SEASON GAMES will not be played by the football team. This statement is made by the Athletic Association in answer to the several proposals for such games that have been made, and because over-fervid sporting writers have more than intimated that such a game or games might be scheduled.

THE THANKSGIVING exodus to the Pennsylvania-Cornell game is supposed to have been participated in by about 550 students. While it is impossible to get accurate figures, returns from the railroads and information from other sources indicate that from five to seven hundred students see the annual contest.

A BLAZE in the cellar of the Sigma Phi Sigma House December 1 did much damage to the first floor of the building. Fortunately the fire broke out as the members of the fraternity were at the midday meal, and did not gain much headway before it was discovered.

COLLEGE WOMEN interested in dramatics visited Ithaca this week at the annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Dramatic Association and saw the rehearsals and performance of "Mice and Men" presented by the Cornell Women's Dramatic Club.

THE CHINESE CLUB won the final contest in the Interfraternity Soccer League, and with it the league championship. Theta Xi, winner in its league, was the runner-up, and lost by the narrow margin of a 1-0 score.

HERBERT W. T. VOLSCHOW '26, of Lockport, in a fit of nervous despondency ascribed to overwork, wandered from the University and was later found with a farm family near Enfield Center. He was taken home by his father for complete rest and recovery.

RACHMIEL FORSCHMIEDT, Agriculture '25, of Brooklyn, won the annual walking contest, breaking the record for the four miles over hill and date, and finishing in 40 minutes, 30 seconds.

FRESHMAN WOMEN were given their annual view of Hades last Friday evening in the Old Armory. They must have looked at the swimming tank.

Musical Clubs Plan Trip

Cornellians of Seven Cities to Entertain Entertainers on Annual Holiday Circuit—Two Stops New Ones

Sixty-two members of the combined Musical Clubs will travel about thirty-five hundred miles in three private cars, meeting in Buffalo on December 26 for the thirtieth annual Christmas trip. They will appear in seven cities, Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago, Des Moines, Wichita, Cincinnati, and Rochester, under the auspices of local Cornell clubs in each place.

Besides the regular concert program of songs and instrumental music, the Clubs will offer a number of special features, including a quintette from the Glee Club, a banjo trio, "the Parade of the Wooden Soldiers", and a stunt orchestra.

The concert in Buffalo on the day after Christmas will be given in the grand ballroom of the Statler Hotel. George R. Wilkins '07 is chairman of a committee of the Buffalo Alumni Association which is making arrangements.

The next evening the Clubs will appear at the Arcadia Auditorium in Detroit. The Cornell Alumni Association of Michigan has invited the performers to attend its regular weekly luncheon, moved one day ahead, and has arranged a tour of the Ford Motor Company's plant in the afternoon and a private dance at the Arcadia following the concert. Robert W. Standart, Jr., '09 is in charge of arrangements.

Chicago is the next stop in the itinerary. There the Clubs will be entertained at a luncheon given by the alumni at the University Club, a tea-dance at the Casino Club, and a dance following the concert at the Blackmore on December 28. The concert is to be given at the Aryan Grotto. Newton C. Farr '09, a member of the Musical Clubs in his undergraduate days, is chairman of the Chicago concert committee.

The first appearance of any Cornell organization in Des Moines, Iowa, will be the Musical Clubs concert at Hoyt-Sherman Place on December 29. A committee of the recently organized Cornell Alumni Association, headed by Carl C. Proper '96, has made elaborate plans for entertainment.

Leaving Des Moines on Sunday morning, December 30, it is expected that the travelers will be guests in Kansas City that evening at a dinner being planned by the local Cornell Club, leaving later for Wichita, where they make their next public appearance on December 31.

In Wichita the Clubs appear as a part of a municipal series which includes such organizations as the San Carlos Grand Opera Company and the Ukrainian National Chorus. The concert is to be given at the Wichita Forum, which has a capacity of five thousand. Hal M. Black '11 is chairman of the local committee. Entertainment plans include a luncheon at the Wichita Club given by the alumni, a tea-dance, and attendance at the annual New Year's Eve party at the Hotel Lassen as guests of the management.

On January 2 the Clubs will appear at the Emery Auditorium in Cincinnati, after having been entertained at luncheon by the alumni at the University Club and at a tea-dance given in their honor by Ralph F. Rogan '97. Washington T. Galbreath '12 is chairman of the local concert committee.

At Rochester on January 3 at the Rochester Club is the last concert of the trip. As soon as they arrive the Clubs will attend a theater party at the new Eastman Theater in that city. Leonard M. Gard '13 is in charge of arrangements.

The first concert of the Musical Clubs for the season is scheduled for Irem Temple, Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, on December 15. George P. Hefferman '17 and Samuel P. Nicholson '21 are in charge of local arrangements.

SPORT STUFF

The Cornell Musical Clubs are in mad preparation for their Christmas tour of seven concerts. (For details see the large paid advertisement in the rear of this issue.) Seven concerts have been found to be the practical limit in a trip of this character. Very few undergraduates possess more than that number of dress shirts.

To the uninitiated a football game or a boat race appears to be the most exhausting of collegiate pastimes. These people are not aware of the terrible physical and mental strain entailed by the Christmas trip of a glee club. Within the space of ten days these troubadours are required to travel nine thousand miles on four hours' sleep, subsisting entirely on lobster salad, black coffee, and ice cream in fancy forms. In each city they must be introduced to 632 disconcertingly beautiful debutantes and are required to inform 38 desperate alumni what chance Whozis, the star tackle, has to pass his examinations and stay in college. Three times a day each man must make an elaborate toilet while resting on one elbow and the opposite knee in an upper berth.

All of this would, of course, be humanly impossible, but for scientific training. As a result of skilful preparation practically all college musicians are able to dance six hours each night, and hand the same line to each girl, without using the brain at all. In this way some rest is obtained and the intellect is preserved.

Nevertheless almost every year the mind of some blond first tenor cracks under the strain and before the manager can rush in a substitute he has invited six different girls up for Junior Week.

THE ANNUAL EXTENSION conference for those engaged in this service of the College of Agriculture is to be held next week.

Fraternity Conference Meets

Forms New National Organization, Publishes Book, and Entertains Undergraduate Representatives

The fifteenth annual Interfraternity Conference was held at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York, on November 30 and December 1. There were 352 in attendance. Fifty-four fraternities and eighty-seven institutions of learning were represented. John J. Kuhn, LL.B. '98, presided as president.

The achievements of the year as summarized by the secretary, A. Bruce Bielaski, are as follows: A book on "College Fraternities" was completed and is ready for distribution. The work of the Committee on Publicity was greatly extended. Opposition to anti-fraternity legislation in Texas was greatly helped. Progress was made in South Carolina. Important advice was distributed to fraternities and sororities of New York with reference to a law which might have affected these bodies. The consultation of local fraternities was made an accomplished fact. For the first time the participation of undergraduate interfraternity councils was obtained. A further digest and index of the minutes was completed. A study of honorary and professional fraternities was made, as well as an exhaustive study of health and sanitary conditions in colleges and universities.

The Committee on Extension reported that of 900 collegiate institutions in the United States in about 660 there are no restrictions on fraternities, and the attitude of the authorities ranges all the way from completely ignoring the fraternities to full recognition and close cooperation. Two hundred institutions have no fraternities, but in many of these the environment would not be agreeable for fraternities, although many of these institutions have no formal restrictions. In 117 there are restrictions of one kind or another, and in twenty-two fraternities are forbidden; in these, some progress toward tolerance has been made.

The report of the Committee on Alumni Relations strongly favored the formation of chapter alumni clubs, the raising of endowment funds, and the issuing of fraternity magazines.

The chairman of the Committee on Publicity, Peter Vischer '19, reported that its Bulletin now goes to about five hundred fraternity officers, educators, and editors of fraternity and college alumni magazines. About twice a month items of general interest are sent to college and daily papers throughout the country.

The Committee on Professional and Honorary Fraternities made a report against allowing members of general fraternities to belong also to professional fraternities.

The Committee on Expansion guided the organization of a new national fraternity, Phi Kappa Pi, with twelve chapters thus far arranged for, representing about three hundred undergraduates.

The Committee on Organizations Antagonistic to Fraternities reported a resolution, which was adopted, strongly condemning Kappa Beta Phi. Theta Nu Epsilon is effecting some changes and reforms. The Ku Klux Klan may possibly come in for attention later.

The following officers of the Conference were elected: chairman, A. Bruce Bielaski, Delta Tau Delta, George Washington '04; vice-chairman, John Patterson, Delta Upsilon, Columbia '92; secretary, The Rev. Joseph C. Nate, Sigma Chi, Illinois Wesleyan '90; treasurer, Dr. Walter H. Conley, Phi Sigma Kappa, Union '91; educational adviser, Dean Thomas Arkle Clark, Alpha Tau Omega, Illinois '90. Executive Council, Class of 1924, Henry R. Johnston, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Williams '09; Frederick H. Nymeyer, Zeta Psi, Illinois '11; Edgar Steiner, Phi Kappa Sigma, Michigan '09; Class of 1925, John J. Kuhn, Delta Chi, Cornell '98; William R. Bayes, Ohio Wesleyan '01; and Dr. H. Sheridan Baketel, Beta Theta Pi, Dartmouth '95.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

Paris

The Cornell Alumni Association of Paris, under the active leadership of its president, Alphonse D. Weil '86, is already laying plans for Cornell entertainment when the Olympic games are contested in France next summer.

The register of Cornellians who have visited the American University Union at the new address, 173, Boulevard Saint-Germain, during the last two months includes Alan Germer '22, Herman C. Loeffler '16, Rowena A. Morse '23, Gerhard Baerg '20 Ph. D., Eleanor M. Foote '21, L. Alfreda Hill '23, Madeleine M. Hickey '23, De Elbert E. Keenan '22, and Elsie Fox '11.

Boston Women

At the annual business meeting of the Cornell Women's Club of Boston, held on November 3 at the home of Mrs. Horace Van Everen (Alice Berkefeld) '91 in Cambridge, the following officers were elected: Mrs. Thomas Dransfield (Mary Caldwell) '08, 12 Russell Street, Malden, Mass., president; Mrs. R. T. C. Jackson (Elizabeth Rhodes) '97, and Juanita Johns '22, vice-presidents; and Mrs. Harry Maxwell Varrell (Laura K. Johnson) '10, 102 Avon Hill Street, Cambridge, secretary-treasurer.

The club will meet informally for tea the first Monday of each month at the College Club, 40 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston. The next regular meeting will be in January at a place to be announced later.

Pittsburgh

J. Ralph Park, magistrate of the traffic court of Pittsburgh, spoke at the weekly luncheon of the Cornell Club of Western Pennsylvania on November 30. Although Mr. Park assured the group of sixty Cornellians that he did not recognize any familiar faces among them, he said he was struck by the number who came to him after the luncheon to ask if he kept permanent records of the cases which came before him.

The luncheon was the best attended of any so far this year. Blinn S. Page '13 of Detroit and Henry M. Beatty '22 of Cleveland were guests for the day. Louis

W. (Winks) Voigt '21 hurried back from the Pennsylvania game to give first hand impressions. Edward E. (Eddie) Ludwig '16, the official delegate, has not reported up to the hour of going to press.

George R. Wallace, an attorney in Pittsburgh, spoke on December 7 on the suppression of crimes of violence.

At the meeting on December 14 Professor Charles Reittel of the University of Pittsburgh will speak on the Pennsylvania State budget.

Erie, Pa.

President Farrand will attend two alumni meetings next week in connection with a trip which will take him to Erie, Pennsylvania, and Niagara Falls. He speaks to the Cornellians of Erie at a luncheon at the University Club on Monday, December 17. Arrangements are in charge of Donald C. Miller '12, 1680 West Twelfth Street. Miller is secretary of the Cornell Club of Northwestern Pennsylvania.

Niagara Falls

On Tuesday evening, December 18, the Cornellians of Niagara Falls will entertain the President as the guest of honor at dinner. Howard O. Babcock '14 is making the arrangements. Babcock's address is the Frontier Finance Corporation, Gluck Building.

Buffalo

Willard H. Watkins of the National Aniline and Chemical Company of Buffalo spoke at the weekly luncheon of the Cornell Club of Buffalo on December 7. Under the title "Some Economic and Political Aspects of the Dye Industry" the speaker gave a brief history of the industry, bringing out the part that American interests played in the War, and the necessity of continuing chemical warfare experiments for protection in any future wars. Mr. Watkins served on the Reparations Commission with headquarters in Paris.

Frank G. Raichle, Jr., of the law firm of Donovan, Raichle & Depew, was the speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Cornell Club of Buffalo on November 30. Mr. Raichle gave an interesting talk on citizenship and law enforcement.

Syracuse

More than one hundred Cornellians attended an informal smoker given by the Cornell Club of Syracuse at the University Club on December 4. President Farrand was the guest of honor and principal speaker. He was introduced by Dr. William P. Baker '91, president of the Club. Dr. Farrand gave a summary of present day conditions at Cornell.

After Dr. Farrand's talk, the Cornellians present expressed a desire to have some part in the nation-wide campaign which the Cornellian Council is now conducting and President Baker was authorized by unanimous vote to appoint a committee to conduct a canvass for the Alumni Fund among the Cornellians in Onondaga County.

The members of the committee are Harold Edwards '14, Elwyn L. Smith '17, Harry J. Clark '95, E. Austin Barnes '99, Robert G. Soule '15, Livingston M. Whitwell '00, Arthur A. Costello '04, John B. Tuck '93, Donald Armstrong '14, and Edward L. Robertson, '98 chairman.

Little Rock, Arkansas

A "small but enthusiastic crowd," it is reported, comprising the Cornell Club of Little Rock, Arkansas, detailed the Thanksgiving Day game with Pennsylvania play by play, for the first time in that city.

Chicago

The average attendance at the weekly luncheon of the Cornell men in Chicago runs from fifty to seventy-five, with upwards of one hundred present at the monthly luncheons when special speakers are introduced. The group meets every Thursday at 12.30 at the University Club.

Cleveland

When E. S. Jordan of the Jordan Motor Car Company was taken ill just before the weekly luncheon of the Cornell Club of Cleveland on December 6, the secretary of the Cleveland Advertising Company, Mr. Fingher, obligingly took his place as the speaker of the day. He spoke of hospital work among ex-service men.

Washington, D. C.

Washington Cornellians who did not get to Franklin Field gathered forty strong in the radio room of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company to follow the Pennsylvania game. With the plays traced out on a diagrammed field, the Cornellians kept in touch with every detail of the progress of the ball. Following the announcement "game's over," the crowd stood and joined with the crowd at Franklin Field in singing the Alma Mater.

Arrangements for the meeting were in charge of Walter L. Saunders '17 and John S. Gorrell '05, and were made possible through the courtesy of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company. Among the Cornellians associated with this company are Charles A. Robinson '06, chief engineer, Frederic J. Irish '06, equipment engineer, and William B. Beals '02, outside plant engineer.

LITERARY REVIEW

A School Story

Fidelis. By Jane Abbott '03. Philadelphia. Lippincott. 1923. 19.7 cm., pp. 304. 4 illustrations by E. Corinne Pauli. Price, $1.75.

Another good story, principally for girls but interesting also to grown-ups, comes from the pen of Mrs. Abbott. The scene is laid in an Ohio town, and the chief characters are a group of live school girls. A mystery connected with one of the teachers in St. Margaret's School is cleared up to the satisfaction of all concerned. The plot is well worked out.

Some tricks of style are irritating: the use of "too" to begin a sentence, some badly split infinitives, "gotten," "those kind." Still, these are trifles; in general the style is simple, direct, effective; the dialogue is natural and lively. The whole is permeated by that healthful atmosphere of the new time when a larger measure of social justice shall be realized among men, and when we shall have a clearer sense of human worth. It is a very readable story, and well suited for a present to girls of high school age.

Southern Europe in One A. D.

The Geography of Strabo, with an English Translation by Horace L. Jones, Ph.D. '09. In Eight Volumes. Vol. ii. New York. Putnam. 1923. 16.8 cm., pp. vi, 480. 3 maps. The Loeb Classical Library.

Strabo was born in Pontus, in Asia Minor, around 64 B. C. of Greek and Asiatic forbears, and lived till 19 A. D. He received a training thoroughly Greek and became a great traveler, seeing much of the known world of his time. After a while he settled down apparently at Alexandria to collect materials and study. About 20 B. C. it is thought that he settled in Rome. His "Historical Memoirs", said to have been in forty-three books, are lost; but he is nevertheless known as the author of the most important of ancient geographies. Of the seventeen books, two are introductory, two deal with Spain and Gaul, two with Italy and Sicily, one with northern and eastern Europe, three with Greek lands, the eleventh with the main divisions of Asia and the East, nos. twelve-fourteen with Asia Minor, fifteen with India and Persia, sixteen with Assyria, Babylonia, Syria, and Arabia, and seventeen with Egypt and Africa.

Strabo has not been much studied by American scholars. Most of the monographs are the work of German scholars, and the only English translation thus far made is the work of an Englishman, Hans C. Hamilton, for Bohn's Library. It was highly appropriate that when the Loeb Classical Library was projected, the work of editing and translating Strabo should have been entrusted to the late Professor Sterrett, so justly famed as a traveler and archeologist in classical lands, and after his lamented death should be carried on by one who has so fully assimilated his spirit and enthusiasm, Professor Horace Jones of the Department of Greek.

It is a tremendous undertaking, which will take the editor's entire leisure time for some years. The text calls for constant study and some revision. There are variant readings and conjectures of former editors to choose from or reject, and this work must be done on the basis of a vast amount of technical knowledge of ancient science, customs, geography, mythology, history, political institutions, and linguistics. Jones is conservative, and to a layman at least, generally convincing. As for the translation, we will merely say that we have read the entire volume without being anywhere made unduly aware that it is a translation. It is idiomatic, easy, and so far as we have tested it (and we did this here and there), accurate.

Many curious facts will confront the eye of the reader of these descriptions of Spain, France, Britain, and Italy as they looked and seemed to a Roman citizen of the first years of the Christian era. Here is a sample describing the people of Gaul: "The Gallic people wear the 'sagus' [a coarse cloak], let their hair grow long, and wear tight breeches; instead of tunics they wear slit tunics that have sleeves and reach as far as [the hips] . . . The Gallic armor is commensurate with the large size of their bodies: a long sabre, which hangs along the right side, and a long oblong shield, and spears in proportion, and a 'madaris,' a special kind of javelin. . . . Most of them, even to the present time, sleep on the ground and eat their meals seated on beds of straw. Food they have in very great quantities, along with milk and flesh of all sorts, but particularly the flesh of hogs, both fresh and salted. Their hogs run wild, and they are of exceptional height, boldness, and swiftness; at any rate, it is dangerous for one unfamiliar with their ways to approach them, and likewise also, for a wolf. As for their houses, which are large and domeshaped, they make them of planks and wicker, throwing over them quantities of thatch."

Books and Magazine Articles

In The American Magazine for October is an article entitled, "Are you Getting Nervous? Here Are the Signs," being an interview with Dr. Robert Foster Kennedy, associate professor of neurology in the Medical College in New York and president of the New York Neurological Society. The article is illustrated with a portrait of Dr. Kennedy.

To The Yale Law Journal for November Professor George G. Bogert '06 contributes an article entitled "Express Warranties in Sales of Goods." The article has been reprinted in a pamphlet of twenty-one pages.

A new edition of the pamphlet on "Prize Competitions" has lately appeared. It contains seventeen pages and describes forty-one sets of prizes and medals.

Dean Dexter S. Kimball is publishing an extended serial entitled "Quantity Increase and Cost Decrease from Applied Standardization" in Management and Administration. The fourth instalment appeared in the October and the fifth in the November number.

In The Journal of Forestry for October Professor Ralph S. Hosmer discusses "The Attitude of the Forestry Profession Toward a National Forestry Policy."

In Science for November 30 Dr. Max Kahn '10 writes an obituary of the late Dr. Jacob Rosenbloom. Professor Warren S. Thompson, of Miami, formerly of Cornell, reviews Professor Edward M. East's "Mankind at the Crossroads."

Elect Two Captains

Cross country and soccer captains have been elected in the last few days. The harriers chose John A. Glick '25 of Southampton, N. Y., to lead next year's team, while the soccer team elected Alvin Hulnick '25 of Fort Wadsworth, N. Y. Glick was a member of the last two cross country teams and was on the track team last year. Hulnick has played right half-back on the soccer team for two seasons.

Change Basketball Rules

The basketball season opens December 21 with a game with Syracuse University at Syracuse. Then will come the annual holiday trip, which like that of last year is restricted to a few games with teams of nearby institutions. The first Intercollegiate League game will be with Dartmouth, on January 12 at Ithaca.

The schedule:

- December 21, Syracuse at Syracuse.
- January 1, Rochester at Rochester.
- January 2, Colgate at Rochester.
- January 3, Buffalo at Buffalo.
- January 5, C. C. New York at Ithaca.
- January 8, Syracuse at Ithaca.
- January 12, Dartmouth at Ithaca.
- January 19, Yale at New Haven.
- January 26, Princeton at Ithaca.
- February 9, Pennsylvania at Ithaca.
- February 16, Dartmouth at Hanover.
- February 19, Columbia at Ithaca.
- February 22, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.
- February 27, Colgate at Ithaca.
- March 1, Yale at Ithaca.
- March 8, Columbia at New York.
- March 15, Princeton at Princeton.

League games this year will be played under amended rules. The most important changes have to do with the foul shooter and the seventeen-foot zone. Under the new regulations each player fouled must make the free try for a goal, instead of any player on the team fouled. This change will eliminate the foul goal specialist—the individual who by virtue of his skill in caging goals from the foul line has frequently given a team actually inferior in team play a victory. This new rule will stress team rather than individual play and makes for a fairer method of scoring.

Under the amended seventeen-foot zone rule a player in possession of the ball outside of the zone has two free tries, if he is fouled while in the very act of trying for a basket. If he is fouled outside of the zone when not in the act of trying for a goal he has one free try. Inside of the zone—i.e., anywhere within seventeen feet of the basket, any player in possession of the ball will, if fouled, have two free tries at goal.

The varsity basketball squad has been working for several weeks, but Coach Howard Ortner has not yet selected the first team. Two of last year's regulars are available, Captain Charles H. Capron '24 and Carl F. Wedell '24.

WHO GOT THE SUITCASES?

Theodore Tweston, the University proctor, has received an appeal from the police department of Philadelphia, asking aid in ascertaining the names of three young men who called at the Ninth District station house, Twentieth and Buttonwood Streets, directly following the Pennsylvania game. A suitcase which had been found at the corner of Nineteenth and Hamilton Streets was turned over to the men on their representation of ownership, but the patrolman who made the delivery neglected to ascertain their names. His only recollection is that they said they were from Cornell. The names are needed merely for the completion of the Philadelphia police records, but the proctor would be glad if any of the alumni could throw light on the problem.

TO HOLD HIGHWAY CONFERENCE

An important conference on highway engineering will be held by the Bureau of Highways of the State Department of Public Works at Ithaca on December 18-20 under the auspices of the Cornell School of Civil Engineering. The Federal Bureau of Public Roads and the highway departments of Connecticut, Illinois, Michigan, Pennsylvania, and the City of Philadelphia are to cooperate by furnishing speakers and in other ways.

The program includes papers presenting the latest developments resulting from experience and from recent investigations pertaining to highway engineering, particularly with reference to the investigations of subsoil conditions and pavement design; the recent studies of traffic and the resultant analyses; the economics of relocation, resurfacing, maintenance, and the methods of maintenance. The program also includes construction and inspection methods of Portland cement concrete roads and bituminous pavements with particular reference to hot mixes of aggregates and bituminous materials, and the organization, equipment, and methods of snow removal. There is also included in the list of topics the relation between the engineer and contractor, and the essentials of highway construction.

ITHACA has no large supply of anthracite coal, but the dealers expect enough to come in so that there will be no repetition of the soft-coal burning of last winter.

NEW FRIENDSHIPS FOR OLD

A GIFT that brings the giver as valuable returns as it does the receiver is possibly not altogether in accord with the modern spirit of the giving at Christmas of expensive but not necessarily useful presents. Nevertheless it is often unavoidable that a gift is both useful and satisfying to the donor.

Our subscribers undoubtedly have many Cornellians among their acquaintances who do not read the alumni paper. The law of averages assures each of them of six. They may easily be identified by their thirst for information about Cornell, and their lack of knowledge about affairs Cornellian. They enjoy, perhaps once a month, getting all the dope through the ear from someone who gets it weekly through the eye. Neglect, shiftlessness, or lack of opportunity at the right moment has left them outside the circle of the well informed. By nature, however, they crave the stimulus that the subscriber's thrilling conversation affords them.

The gift of a year's subscription to Cornellians such as we have described will end forever this student-teacher relationship. In its place will be established a more valuable one for both donor and recipient. Gratitude alone will more than replace it. The gain to the donor will arise from the new point of view in the recipient. Both, equally well informed, may then meet on a parity in a discussion that had been theretofore one-sided.

The value of friends with the same point of view in any field cannot be estimated. The cost, on the other hand, in this particular field is slight. Four dollars a year is a mere trifle when viewed as the entire expense of a new friendship.

CHEERING

During, and right after the football season the usual criticism of cheering and cheerleaders found expression in the Sun and in Campus discussion.

It may be pertinent to recall an incident of the Pennsylvania game which reflects credit on the much maligned cheer leaders. When the usual victory snake dance was in progress on Franklin Field an effort was made to imitate the practice of some Yale students who celebrated the victory over Harvard at Cambridge by uprooting the goal posts on the Harvard gridiron. The Cornell cheer leaders promptly interfered and put a stop to this misdirected enthusiasm in time to prevent an incident similar to that for which The Yale News felt it must make an apology. The Franklin Field goal posts, according to last accounts, are still standing.

SEVENTH DANCE SCHEDULED

The seventh of the intercollegiate dances under the management of Denis B. Maduro '23 and C. J. Zimmerman, Dartmouth '23, will occupy the entire nineteenth floor of the Biltmore Hotel in New York on December 21. Three famous orchestras will furnish the music, "The Barbary Coast Jazz Band" from Dartmouth, the Golden Gate Orchestra, which plays regularly at social affairs in New York, and the "California Ramblers," said to be the most perfect professional combination in the East, who will come over from Monte Carlo to play continuously from two to four.

'92 TALKS REUNION

Sixteen members of the Class of '92 lunched at the Hotel Grosvenor, New York, on December 8, as the guests of their classmates Leonard D. and Arthur J. Baldwin. Most of the discussion centered around the plans which '92 is already making to bring back a record-breaking delegation at its next reunion, a year from next June. The operation of the group plan brings the class back with its contemporaries of '90, '91, and '93.

The class is planning the publication of a class history in connection with the next reunion. The character and scope of the publication were discussed at the luncheon.

FACULTY NOTES

DEXTER S. KIMBALL, dean of the College of Engineering, is reported as having given one of the most notable speeches at the recent convention of Land Grant colleges in Chicago. He is quoted as saying that present-day colleges must put an industrial background to the education now dispensed, and that vocational training must be liberalized as well as liberal culture vocationalized.

EDWARD L. KEYES, professor of urology at the Medical College, declared at a meeting of the national social hygiene conference held in St. Louis recently that the war gave a tremendous impetus to the social hygiene movement, "making the United States safe for social hygiene, whether or not it was made safe for democracy."

VLADIMIR KARAPETOFF, professor of electrical engineering, attended the annual meeting of the American Association of University Professors at Chicago as a member of the Council and as the delegate of the Cornell Chapter, and on the same trip addressed students at Ohio State University and Purdue, as well as a Cornell group and the American Institute of Electrical Engineers at Detroit.

FRANK DICKSON, for three years instructor in the Department of Plant Pathology, has gone to the University of British Columbia at Vancouver as assistant professor of plant pathology.

PROFESSOR GEORGE A. WORKS, of the Department of Rural Education, will go to Texas soon on official leave to begin his work as director of the Texas educational survey, to which office he was recently appointed by a commission of the State Legislature. This survey is to cover all the tax-supported schools of the State, from the rural schools up to and including the institutions for higher education. At the meeting of the Texas State Teachers' Association at San Antonio on November 29-December 1 Professor Works delivered an address and conferred with the members of the commission.

JAMES F. MASON, professor of Romance languages, was elected head of the New York Modern Language Association at its recent meeting in Albany.

ALBERT R. MANN '04, dean of the College of Agriculture, spoke in New York last week on educational preparation for the agricultural missionary. His talk was given before the International Association of Agricultural Missions.

DR. GEORGIA L. WHITE '96, dean of women, was one of the speakers at a dinner held recently in the Hotel Astor, New York, in honor of three officials of the International Federation of University Women now visiting the United States from England, France, and Denmark.

OBITUARY

Romyn Hitchcock '72

Romyn Hitchcock, well known as a research botanist, chemist, and professor of English, and for many years a resident of Ithaca, died on November 30 at Baltimore, Md.

He was born in St. Louis, Mo., on December 1, 1851. After gaining his early education, he was attracted by the prominence given the sciences and came to Cornell, where he passed the first examinations in Military Hall and entered the University at its opening.

During his freshman year he became a member of Delta Upsilon and also won first prize for rapid work in chemistry. At the end of his junior year he left Cornell and in 1871-2 took a special course in the Columbia School of Mines. In 1872-4 he was assistant professor of chemistry at Lehigh and in 1876-7 was professor of chemistry and toxicology at the Chicago Homeopathic Medical College.

In 1878 he became one of the publishers and editor of The American Microscopical Journal and for many years after was a writer for that paper as well as other publications; his articles received wide attention.

In 1883 he was appointed curator of the National Museum at Washington, a place which he held until 1886, when he went to Japan as professor of English in Koto Chu Gakko, a Japanese Government school at Osaka, where he remained for two years. Later he served as commissioner to China in aiding that country to be represented at the World's Columbian Exposition.

In late years, Mr. Hitchcock had made special studies in botany and was a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and of the Royal Microscopical Society of England, and a member of the American Chemical Society, the New York Academy of Sciences, and the New York Microscopical Society.

He was married on April 24, 1875 to Miss Emma Louise Bingham of Ithaca, who survives him.

Floyd C. Overton '84

Floyd Carter Overton, one of the most prominent breeders of Holstein-Friesian cattle in New York State, died at Adams on December 4 from injuries received in an accident when he was knocked down stairs and struck on his head on a concrete floor.

He was born near Roberts Corners, N. Y., sixty-five years ago, and after graduating from the Belleville Union Academy, entered Cornell in 1880, remaining as a student in arts for two years.

He was president of the Board of Trade in Adams, a vice-president of the New York State Dairymen's Association, chairman of the Adams Red Cross Chapter, a former president of the village, a prominent member of the Grange and well up in Masonic circles.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two sons, Dr. Floyd C. Overton, Jr., '10 DVM, and Kent A. Overton, '10 Sp. Agr., and one daughter, Mrs. Ruth O. Kenyon, wife of Donald Kenyon '17.

Edward T. Wallenbeck '89

Edward Thornos Wallenbeck died at his home in Willow Creek, N. Y., on November 17, after an illness extending over several years.

He was born in Willow Creek sixty-one years ago and after receiving his early education in that village and Ithaca, in 1885 entered Cornell. Of late years he had been engaged in farming and was a past master of Tompkins County Pomona Grange.

Besides his wife, he is survived by one daughter, Ethel Wallenbeck.

William J. Auburn '97

William Jacob Auburn died at Pasadena, Calif., on October 17.

He was born on March 1, 1867, at McKeesport, Pa., and after attending Pennsylvania State College, he entered Cornell in 1896 and received his M. E. degree in 1897. In 1917 he went to the Pacific Coast and in 1918 was appointed an instructor in machine design in the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena, a position which he held at the time of his death.

William M. Handleman '11

Word has been received from the family of William Monroe Handleman, that he died in New York on August 9, 1920.

He was born in New York on January 21, 1890 the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Handleman, and after graduating from Morris High School, entered the Cornell Medical College in New York in 1907. He remained one year.

Herbert E. Banta '26

Herbert Edward Banta died at the Cornell Infirmary on December 7 as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident in Ithaca on November 7.

He was born at Conklin, N. Y., on August 24, 1903, and after attending the Binghamton and Albany High Schools, entered the College of Agriculture in 1922.

Before coming to Cornell, he had gained a reputation as an athlete and was a member of his freshman track team. He won his numerals in the high jump and also was a discus and hammer thrower. He was a member of Alpha Chi Rho.

He is survived by one brother, Charles F. Banta of Binghamton, N. Y., and three sisters, Mrs. E. O. Hackett of Albany, N. Y., Mrs. Bert Finch of Ogden, Utah, and Mrs. Lewis Kinley of Olean, N. Y.

CORNELL DEBATERS won the first of the intercollegiate contests with Yale, discussing the topic that it would best serve the interests of New England to have its railroads unified. The debate was held in Goldwin Smith auditorium on December 8.

ALUMNI NOTES

'80 BS—Prof. William Trelease, head of the Department of Botany at the University of Illinois, was the official representative of that university at the recent inauguration of Chancellor Hadley of Washington University and of President Brooks of the University of Missouri. He holds the degree of LL. D. from each institution.

'84—Herbert L. Aldrich recently returned from a six-months' trip to the Orient, starting with two weeks of visiting show places on the Pacific Coast and two more weeks in Hawaii, where he saw the volcano of Kilauea. From there he went to Yokohama and spent a month in Japan and witnessed the famous ceremonial tea and cherry blossom dance which was especially fine this year on account of the forthcoming nuptials of the Prince Imperial. After being in Korea for a few days, he went to China where he lived with friends in a Peking compound for several months. He praises the politeness and courtesy of the Chinese as far above that of any other peoples he has ever seen in any part of the world, and he has been an extensive traveler.

'84 BS—Dr. Henry P. de Forest addressed the Brooklyn Pediatric Society on November 28 on the subject "The Prevention and Treatment of the Common Cold in Children," a question which he has studied extensively. COURTNEY AND CORNELL ROWING

Interest in Cornell books is increasing. One customer wrote to us last week that her son who graduated some time back wanted a copy of "Concerning Cornell." We have mailed quite a few copies of "Courtney and Cornell Rowing" this past week. Nearly all Cornell men are interested in rowing. The price is $1.50 postage paid.

TROY'S 1924 CALENDAR

Those who bought a Troy Calendar last year will want another this year. Mr. Troy has new pictures each year. Keep up to date regarding campus changes. The pictures in the calendar are well worth framing. The "Airplane" view shows the new chemistry building. The price this year is $1.55 postage paid.

CONCERNING CORNELL

If you have a copy you will know the merit of the book. You should consider it as a possible present to a friend who may be a Cornellian or who may be going to college. Half the sales we mail for the giver. This saves time and trouble. The flexible leather edition sells at $5.00 and the cloth edition sells at $3.50. We pay the postage.
