ITHACA, N. Y., FEBRUARY 28, 1924

PRICE 12 CENTS

THEAPOT Dome tempests reach even to the Cornell Campus, and the past week has found at least two courses giving the topic considerable discussion. These are the courses on political parties and on the conservation of natural resources in the United States.

COACH MOAKLEY and Professor Bristow Adams, Faculty adviser on track affairs, addressed the weekly luncheon of the University Club of Springfield, Massachusetts, on February 18. The track coach talked about scholarship and the professor about athletics.

THIS WEEK has been the wintriest of the season at Ithaca, with opportunities for the devotees of all branches of winter sport.

THE SAGE CHAPEL Preacher for March 2 will be the Rev. Dr. Roger S. Forbes, Unitarian, of Germantown, Philadelphia.

PROFESSOR EUGENE P. ANDREWS '95 is to lecture on February 28, in his course in the Museum of Casts, on "The Venus di Milo." On the same day Max Montor, director of the Hamburg Stadt-Theater, is to recite the first part of Goethe's Faust, under the auspices of the Deutscher Verein.

SOME IMPORTANT lecturers are expected to come to Ithaca in the immediate future. On March 4 Lieutenant Colonel Charles W. Furlong '02 will speak on "Chile and Exploring Through the Cold Land of Fire." George M. Trevelyan, this year Lowell lecturer in Boston, will speak on March 7 on "Literature and History" and on March 8 on "The Mingling of Races in Anglo-Saxon Britain." Professor Feuillerat, of the University of Rennes, France, will speak on March 24 on "Some Principles of Artistic Construction in Shakespeare's Plays."

AT BOSTON the track team broke out in its new and neat uniform consisting of dark red sweaters and dark red trousers, cut sailor fashion, with a white stripe down the leg. This costume is neat and nifty, with an element of swank not possible with the former dirty-grey nether coverings which, in the words of Hashimura Togo, look like "underworn garments." At first the boys pretended to make fun of the striped trousers, and facetiously hailed one another as "Front!" But they were proud of their appearance just the same. The flare at the bottom of the trousers can be closed with snap fasteners, thus keeping out the wind.

MODERNISM and Fundamentalism, or whatever the differences may be, are having some exponents in Ithaca with five Sunday evening lecture-sermons by the Rev. J. A. C. Fagginer Auer, Grad., at the First Unitarian Church, and an exposition at the Lyceum last Friday night by Dr. W. B. Riley, Baptist, of Minneapolis, of evolution as "unscientific, unscriptural, anti-Christian, and tending to anarchy."

A CONTAGIOUS WARD for the Ithaca City Hospital is strongly recommended by Dr. Lewell T. Genung '97, who states that at least two lives probably could have been saved during this winter had such a place been available.

THE PORTRAIT which Professor Olaf Brauner has been painting of President Farrand is now finished and will be exhibited at the Cornell Club in New York before it takes its place in the Farrand home here.

CITY CLERK WILLIAM O. KERR '77 recently called attention to a document of the early days of Ithaca which he has in his possession and which is of interest to Cornellians. In 1888 the citizens of Ithaca petitioned the trustees of the village of Ithaca "to open an extension of Factory Street (now Stewart Avenue) from William Street through to University Avenue."

MORE THAN THREE HUNDRED attended the illustrated Sigma Xi lecture on "Modern Adventures in Astronomy" given by Professor Samuel L. Boothroyd '04-8 Grad., in Rockefeller Hall on February 21. Using lantern slides, Professor Boothroyd gave his audience brief introductions to the sun, moon, and planets. He mentioned three astronomical proofs of the validity of the theory of relativity.

THE BOILERS which formerly heated Roberts Hall and adjoining buildings of the College of Agriculture have now been removed, and the north wing of the building, immediately under the assembly room, is being remodeled to give much needed space and daylight to some of the offices now housed in the cellar.

DEAN JACOB G. LIPMAN, Ph.D. '03, of New Jersey State College, and Dean Albert R. Mann '04 are to be the speakers at the annual banquet of the International Agricultural Society of Cornell at the Cosmopolitan Club on March 1.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB repeated the last group of plays it gave last term before a good-sized audience in the Campus Theater in Goldwin Smith on February 23. The plays were "The Very Naked Boy" by Stuart Walker; "Miss Maria" by Maude Vosburgh; and "The Valiant" by Holworthy Hall.

SIX MEN from the sixty who tried out have been selected for membership in the Glee Club. They are George B. Webber '25 of Pearl River, Medford T. Thomson

'25 of Medina, William A. Flanagan '26 of New York, J. W. Houck '27 of Harrisonburg, Virginia, C. C. House '27 of Avon, and A. Trayford '27 of Huntington.

A ONE-HOUR COURSE on relativity is being given this term for the first time by Professor Earl H. Kennard, Ph.D. '13, of the Physics Department. The course is announced to deal "with the experimental facts involved in relativity, the underlying ideas of the theory, and enough of the mathematical development to meet the needs of the physicist and to enable the class to think in precise terms about the fundamental principles."

RUTH E. DAVIS '17, of Buffalo, has returned to Ithaca to become secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association in Barnes Hall, filling the place left vacant by Margaret A. Cushman '23 since her marriage to John R. Fleming '22, on December 22.

DOROTHY W. ALLISON '24 of Brookline, Pennsylvania, will represent Cornell at the fourth meeting of the national Athletic Conference of American College Women, to be held at the University of California at Berkeley from April 9 to 12.

JOSEPH QUEVEDO, JR., '26, of South Guatemala City, C. A., who holds the Pan-American fencing championship, will try out for the American Olympic team, and is said to have an excellent chance of a position on the squad. Quevedo has held the national championship of Guatemala since 1920. He is ambidextrous and fences in both the Italian and French styles.

SNOW and bitter winds from across the valley sweeping the hilltop back of Schoellkopf most of the week, have not stopped the construction of sheds and the erection of a steam boiler to heat the water, sand and gravel which will go into the enlargement of the stands until warmer weather comes. It was expected that the first of the column footings would be poured this week, since they are to be well below the frost-line. The contract calls for the completion of at least nine of the ten thousand additional seats by September 26, 1914.

JOSEPH A. LAZARUS '25 of Bayonne, New Jersey, who has held the University flyweight and bantamweight boxing championships for three years, is booked to represent New York in the 118-pound class against men from Boston, Cleveland, and Pittsburgh in the intercity tournament to be held in Madison Square Garden on March 26 and 27. Lazarus was defeated for the national championship last year by Al Bender. He plans to try out for the American Olympic boxing team next May.

Cornellians at St. Louis

Harold Flack '12 and George R. Pfann '24
Spend Busy Day With Southern Alumni—Guests at Banquet

Report comes from St. Louis that while the committee of welcome was easily able to identify Harold Flack '12, secretary of the Cornellian Council, when he arrived there on February 17, it failed utterly to identify George R. Pfann '24, captain of the 1923 football team, when he came in the next morning. It seems that the committee was waiting at the gate for a football player of large proportions, and "modest George slipped by them without being recognized. The committee finally located him in Flack's room at the hotel and offered apologies, much to Pfann's amusement."

The two Ithacans spent a busy day in St. Louis. At the Soldan High School they addressed more than twenty-seven hundred pupils in three relays, with the accompaniment of Spring Day and recent Cornell football games shown in moving pictures. Both Flack and Pfann spoke of the value of higher education and clean sportsmanship. They were entertained at luncheon in the school cafeteria by John Rush Powell, the principal, a graduate of Yale. The afternoon was spent at the Country Day School, a few miles out of St. Louis. Speeches were made, Cornell songs were sung, and yells exchanged. At both schools students plied the two with questions about Cornell, athletics, and college life in general.

Later they were entertained at tea at the College Club by the Cornell women of St. Louis, and that evening the Cornell Club of St. Louis held a banquet in their honor. Flack spoke on present conditions at Cornell and told of the work of the Council.

George Pfann was cheered as lustily as if he were making a touchdown. His quiet, modest sincerity as he announced that the talk of his going to West Point next year was "all bunk" was most convincing.

"I hope to graduate in June," he said. "I have already signed a contract to act as assistant coach at Cornell, and I expect to take postgraduate work in the University." Speaking of the criticisms aimed at Cornell's football schedule, he said that Dobie and Berry were doing everything in their power to arrange for at least four games each season with outstanding teams. Before he finished, Pfann paid a glowing tribute to the ability of Dobie as a coach. Three reels of recent events at Ithaca and of the 1923 football games were shown.

Alden Little '02 was toastmaster at the banquet. Alvin Griesedieck '16, president of the Club, led the general singing and sang several solos. Hender C. Schuyler '10 starred at the piano. More than forty members of the Club were present.

The next day Flack met a group of Cornell alumni at luncheon, and together they laid the foundation for work to be done in St. Louis for the Cornellian Council.

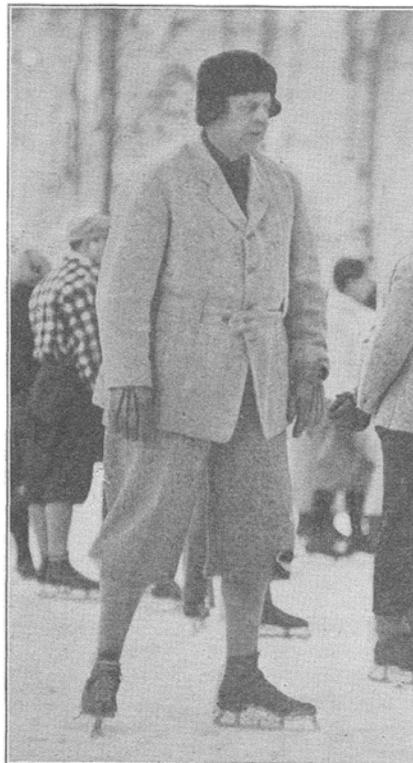

SPORT STUFF

For comment on the intercollegiate basketball situation a weekly paper is a dangerous medium. Wisdom is proved folly even before it appears in print. But it is perfectly safe now to record that the basketball team has done a workmanlike, courageous, and useful job in defeating Dartmouth, Columbia, and Pennsylvania, all within the space of six days. Thereby it has taken the leadership of the League with a grip on the position. Three games remain to be played—with Yale at home, and with Columbia and Princeton abroad. If we win any of the three contests it will be mathematically impossible for any other team to do more than tie us.

Do you remember what a perfect mid-winter day is like in Ithaca? That's the sort of thing we've been having now without interruption for two weeks. Breathless, starry nights of cruel cold! Dazzling days of blue shadows in the snow! Sleight bells, furs, and steaming breath! Sunburn, frostbite, skates, skis, and toboggans everywhere!

Those students who frequent Beebe Lake and the snow-clad golf links sometimes go to the Infirmary on account of flesh wounds and concussion of the brain, but seldom because of grip, colds, and pink eye. Flesh wounds and concussions are a cheap price to pay for immunity from the meaner ills.

Appoint Council Committees

Designation of Groups Within Cornellian
Body, Each for Special Purpose, Expected to Promote Entire Job

The Cornellian Council, meeting in Ithaca on December 15, 1923, decided to apportion its membership into a number of definite committees, the better to handle the various matters which come within the province of the Council. The specific purposes of these various committees and their membership has now been determined, and is announced as follows:

COMMITTEE ON DORMITORIES AND DINING HALL BUILDING: Floyd L. Carlisle '03, chairman, Karl W. Gass '12, Russell B. Hurlburt '10, William G. Mennen '08, Julian A. Pollak '07, Leon Stern '89, Henry M. Robinson '90, Walter C. Teagle '00, J. DuPratt White '90, A. Graham Miles '97, John C. Westervelt '94, Thomas B. Crews, Jr., '14, Hosea C. Ballou '20, Charles C. Bailey '21.

COMMITTEE ON FORTY CONTRIBUTIONS OF $3,000 EACH FOR MEMORIAL DORMITORY UNIT: Creed W. Fulton '09, chairman, Gustav J. Requardt '09, Walter L. Todd '09, Frederic E. Jackson '01, Heatley Green '01, Edward L. Robertson '01, Clarence M. Oddie '99, Archibald T. Banning, Jr., '04, Ernest M. Bull '98, Walter P. Cooke '91, Wilson S. Dodge '21, Robert J. Eidlitz '85, Nicholas H. Noyes '06, Paul A. Schoellkopf '06.

COMMITTEE ON GYMNASIUM AND SWIMMING POOL: Francis O. Affeld, Jr., '97, chairman, Erskine Wilder '05, Walter A. Bridgeman '13, Leonard C. Hanson '23, Daniel A. Reed '98, Sao-Ke Alfred Sze '01, Maurice R. Whinery '01, Thomas F. Keating, Jr., '15, Hosea C. Ballou '20.

COMMITTEE TO OBTAIN ENDOWMENT FOR LAW SCHOOL FOR A VAULT FOR LAW LIBRARY: Ira A. Place '81, chairman, Harland B. Tibbetts '04, Paul E. Lesh '06, William Metcalf, Jr., '01, Randall J. LeBoeuf '92.

COMMITTEE TO WORK FOR FUNDS FOR AN ADDITION AND FOR ADDITIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE LIBRARY: Thomas Fleming, Jr., '05, Merritt E. Haviland '77, Dr. Irvin J. Kerr '91, Edward T. Turner '10, Albert E. Metzger '88; Willard Austen '91, and Dean Charles K. Burdick, advisers.

COMMITTEE WHICH WILL ASSIST IN BUILDING UP THE SUBSCRIPTION LIST OF THE ALUMNI NEWS: Andrew J. Whinery '10, chairman, Charles C. Whinery '99, Howard M. Rogers '07, Warren G. Ogden '01, Winthrop Taylor '07, Alfred W. Mellowes '06, Mrs. Edward Schuster (Mary M. Crawford) '04, Karl W. Gass '12, John J. Serrell '10, Walter L. Todd '09.

COMMITTEE ON ENDOWMENT FOR A UNIVERSITY PRESS: John L. Senior '01, chairman, Sao-Ke Alfred-Sze '01, Woodford Patterson '95, Frank E. Gannett '98, Henry J. Patten '84, Henry W. Roden '18, Dr. Herbert D. Schenck '82, Alfonse D. Weil '86, Alpheus W. Smith '19, Foster M.

Coffin '12, R. Warren Sailor '07, Professor Lane Cooper, Harry G. Stutz '07.

COMMITTEE FOR THE ASSIGNMENT OF THE NEW YORK STATE SOLDIER BONUS: Robert E. Coulson '07, chairman, Thomas F. Keating, Jr., '15, Alden R. Sherry '15, Thomas B. Crews, Jr., '14, Weyland Pfeiffer '16, Hosea C. Ballou '20.

COMMITTEE ON SUBSCRIPTIONS OF $100 TO $1,000 ANNUALLY: Harry J. Clark '95, Archibald S. Downey '02, Harrison D. McFaddin '94, Robert T. Mickle '92, Edwin E. Sheridan '11, E. Vail Stebbins '93, J. Du Pratt White '90, Wilfred L. Wright '00, Archie C. Burnett '90, Walter L. Todd '09.

MORE DEANS' REPORTS

We continue our summaries of the Deans' reports on the welfare of their colleges. Dean Bogert reports that 117 students received instruction in law, and that of the 87 regular students 34 per cent resided outside of New York State. The Dean refers to the formation of the Cornell Law Association, the establishment of the Summer Course in Law, including both elementary and advanced work, the return of the Delta Chi House to the donors on the ground that the trust could not be practicably administered, the establishment of a failure grade of 44, which will compel the recipient to repeat the course, and the participation of the College in the work of the American Law Institute in simplifying and restating the American common law. As needs of the College he specified the addition of a seventh full time man; provision for the teaching of jurisprudence, the history of the common law, Roman law, modern civil law, and comparative law; the establishment of a graduate degree in law; more shelving for the Library; and the addition of a smoking room, additional toilet facilities, and lockers. He thinks the tuition fee of $200 should not be increased in less than two years.

Dean Niles of the Medical College reports that last year there were 535 applicants for the 45 places available in the New York Division, and that at the end of the year only two students, both freshmen, were dropped. The Dean refers to the effort now being made to improve medical curricula in general and secure proper correlation among the various subjects; in accord with this movement the College has cut down the total number of required hours, provided for free periods when students may work at discretion, and effected better correlation and concentration among subjects. Practically every teacher in the College is doing research and some men are devoting all their time to it. The Pay Clinic is definitely pronounced successful; the admission fee has now been increased to $1.50. Urgent needs include closer affiliation with a large general hospital and various special hospitals to be placed with the Medical College on a common site in close proximity; increased endowment to provide particularly for assistant professors and increase in the departmental staffs; and funds for the development of new departments, particularly a school of public health.

Dr. Kerr, secretary of the Ithaca Division of the Medical College, reports a satisfactory year. He notes the difficulty of obtaining enough graduate assistants and the need of assistant professors of histology and embryology and of physiology. Twenty-nine students worked at Ithaca this year (the limit being thirty); of these seventeen were Cornell seniors (fourteen men and three women), and the remaining twelve were graduates of Cornell or other recognized institutions. The reserves of dissecting material, which had been exhausted, are again beginning to accumulate. Research has gone on satisfactorily, and thirteen papers have been published.

Dean Moore of the Veterinary College first discusses the decrease in the numbers of American veterinary students, from 2487 in 1914 to 531 in 1922. The causes he believes to be the closing of the doors of several of the proprietary schools as a result of the stiffening of standards in 1918; the drop in the prices of farm animals and dairy products; and the extension of the Federal accredited-herd plan for the control of bovine tuberculosis to all herds, which provides free tuberculin testing; and the spread of the impression that all disease eradication is to be taken over by Government employees. There is, however, a growing demand for trained veterinarians. In 1910 the domesticated animals of the country, valued at $3,925,000,000, were cared for by 11,552 men. In 1920 this value had increased to $8,013,000,000 while the number of men had decreased to 8,692. Further, there has been a rapid growth in the poultry industry and in the number of small animals needing care. The profession has also the duty of protecting the public consumers against injurious disease-conveying meat foods.

The College taught 92 students, besides giving 683 hours of instruction to outside students. The freshman class increased one hundred per cent over that of 1921. In the clinics it handled 6,179 cases. It examined 1,751 specimens for the diagnosis of disease. It distributed 73,043 doses of different tuberculins, 451,700 mls of anti-hog-cholera serum, and 14,945 mls of hog cholera virus, used in the simultaneous method of immunizing hogs against cholera. Only 57 specimens of suspected rabies were sent in (as against 588 in 1908-9); of these 14 were positive. Research goes on, and at the Experiment Station experiments are being conducted on channels of infection and the production of immunity. The Legislature appropriated $117,410 for maintenance (an increase of $6,450 over the previous budget); $22,500 for the completion of the south wing of James Law Hall; $10,000 for additions to the hog-cholera serum laboratory; and $3,500 for the repair of the parapet on James Law Hall.

MORE PLANS FROM '09

Plans for 1909's fifteen-year reunion have been perfected to the most minute detail, including the menu for the class dinner and program for the party in Bailey Hall, which is put on each year by the fifteen-year outfit.

Gil Dobie has been signed up to speak at the latter event—his first appearance at any alumni gathering. Jack Moakley will also speak. Backing up these two celebrities will be a galaxy of intellectual talent from the Faculty and the Class of 1909.

The committee has adopted the slogan: "All you have to do is to get yourself back to Ithaca and pin your return ticket to your underclothes." Everything else is arranged—including the band.

A personal confidential communication will shortly be mailed to each member of the Class. An answer to it is required from each recipient. Watch for it. While you are watching, you might keep your eye on the ALUMNI NEWS. Further announcements will appear from time to time.

PHILADELPHIA READY TO START

Under the direction of Robert T. Mickle '92, and William H. Fries '11, Philadelphia committee of the Cornellian Council, a campaign to enlarge the contribution of Philadelphia Cornellians to the University will commence on March 3 and continue for two weeks. Over sixty men have been enrolled to conduct the solicitation under the following captains:

Benjamin O. Frick '02, Thomas F. Crawford '05, Arthur M. Harrington '05, Craig Adair '06, George F. Fenno '06, Howard M. Rogers '07, C. Rodman Stull '07, Otto V. Kruse '09, Hobart C. Young '10, Percy S. Lyon '12, Andrew R. McCown '13, L. Alan Passmore '17, G. Ruhland Rebmann, Jr., '18, and P. Schuyler Briggs, Jr., '20.

Professor Charles L. Durham '99 will give a "Sales Talk" to the teams at a dinner to be held at the Cornell Club of Philadelphia on February 28.

While the relations between the Cornell Club and the Princeton Club during the period of combined use of the Princeton Club House were always most cordial, and the Cornell Club enjoyed a period of expanding activity during that period, it has had a greater impetus since the acquisition of its new club house. With the exception of the Princeton Club, its present membership exceeds that of any other single university club in Philadelphia.

The present campaign is not under the Club's control, but has its fullest cooperation. As a closing feature of the campaign, the Club will hold a banquet for all Cornellians in the Philadelphia district on March 19. President Farrand has promised to attend and all Cornellians are invited to be present.

Victories over Columbia and Pennsylvania, following close on the heels of the defeat of Dartmouth have brought the basketball team measurably nearer the Intercollegiate championship. In six days the Cornell five won three games, two away from home. In two instances they defeated their most formidable rivals. This represents a first rate achievement, and if the team is able to maintain its stride, there is no reason why, for the first time since 1913, the Eastern basketball crown should not come to Ithaca.

At the beginning of this week the team had still three League games to play, one with Yale, on the home court, on March 1, the other two away from home, with Columbia in New York on March 8 and Princeton at Princeton on March 15. Cornell has won six game and lost one; Dartmouth and Columbia have won three and lost three. Princeton has won two and lost three, and Pennsylvania and Yale won two and lost four. The last two are definitely out of the race. If Cornell wins one more game the worst that could happen would be a tie for first place assuming that Columbia and Dartmouth managed to win all of their remaining four games or Princeton all five, an apparently remote contingency.

If Cornell wins two out of the three the championship is assured. If the team wins only one of its remaining games and Dartmouth, Columbia, or Princeton lose but one of those they have left to play, first honors would come to Ithaca. As a matter of fact, if the team beats Yale on the Drill Hall court Saturday night the championship will be practically assured.

Few basketball games at Ithaca have been more bitterly contested all the way through than that of last Tuesday, when Cornell overcame Columbia by a score of 25 to 19. The issue was not settled until the last five minutes of play, when, with the Lions leading by one point 19 to 18, the first time in the game they had been out ahead, the Red five rallied and in a smashing finish scored two baskets from the field and two foul goals.

Cornell assumed an early lead by a dashing offensive, a quick passing game that broke through the Columbia defense and scored seven points before Strom dropped in a foul goal for the New Yorkers. Capron shot the first goal after a minute of play and Dake followed with two before Columbia got under way. Cornell's passing and dribbling at this stage, and for that matter in all but the early part of the second half, had Columbia going, whereas the passing game of the New Yorkers broke down against Cornell's close guarding, and Columbia resorted to long distance shooting, showing at times almost uncanny accuracy. Such shots by Wilson, Lustig, and Strom cut down Cornell's lead in the first half to four points, the home team leading at half time 11 to 7.

Toward the middle of the second half more long distance shooting cut into Cor-nell's lead again until the time came when the Lions were ahead by one point. The situation was critical and Coach Ortner made one of those timely shifts in the line up that have proved helpful in other contests this season. A pretty side shot by Rossomondo put Cornell in the lead again, and then Capron, for the second time during the evening, made a beautiful one-handed running basket on a pass from Wedell, a play, sometimes executed with Capron passing and Wedell making the shot, that has proved very effective all the season. Raymond followed with two foul goals, clinching the victory. Capron, Wedell, who as usual was the key of the Cornell attack Rossomondo and Raymond stood out for Cornell, while Strom and Lustig were leaders for Columbia.

The line-up and summary:

THE DRILL HALL ALL DRESSED UP FOR THE PROM

We tried to get one with the dancers in it, but they moved too fast for the photographer. Contrast this setting with the one of the basketball game, both in the Drill Hall in Junior Week. Only about one-third of the floor was used, but it happened to be used for both Prom and basketball game, and the wax on the floor from the night before somewhat hampered the players on Saturday.

scored eleven field baskets to five for Pennsylvania. It was the first defeat the Red and Blue had suffered this season on the home floor, after fourteen victories.

At the end of the first half Cornell was leading 12 to 8. In the second half the Quakers attempted a rally, but Wedell came along with a one-handed goal that started an avalanche of shots at Pennsylvania's basket. When the smoke had cleared away six field goals had been registered. Wedell, Rossomondo, and Byron were big factors in the onslaught.

Win Lehigh Wrestling Meet

The wrestling team won a close meet from Lehigh at Bethlehem, Pa., on Saturday, the score being 11 to 9. One fall and two decisions were won by the Cornellians, while Lehigh took three bouts on decisions.

The last match of the program, the unlimited bout, resulted in a draw.

Captain MacWilliam of Cornell defeated Reynolds in the 115-pound class by a fall on a crotch hold. Washburn of Lehigh won on time advantage of three minutes in the 125-pound class over Chakin of Cornell. In the 135-pound class Captain Warriner of Lehigh won a decision over Muller of Cornell, time advantage 2 minutes 37 seconds. In the 145-pound class Ayau of Cornell had little difficulty obtaining a decision over Rogers, time advantage 8 minutes, 51 seconds. May of Cornell won the 185-pound match by decision over Beck, time advantage four minutes, 16 seconds. In the 175, Howard of Cornell lost to Burke by decision, time advantage 6 minutes, 58 seconds.

With the score standing 11 to 9 in Cornell's favor, Affeld of Cornell and Levitz of Lehigh came to the mat in the unlimited class. Victory here would settle the result. Neither man was able to bring his opponent to the mat and the referee called the bout a draw.

Yale Wins in Hockey

Yale nosed out Cornell in a brilliant hockey game at New Haven last Tuesday, score 4 to 3. The Blue, one of the best teams in the East, had to give everything it had to defeat Coach Bawlf's men, who under all the circumstances played a phenomenal game, the best of the year. Cornell's defense broke up Yale's fine passing game and the Blue was seldom able to get away.

Yale scored two goals in the first period, but Cornell rallied in the second and kept the puck constantly in Yale territory, scoring twice to Yale's once. Each team scored one goal each in the final period. The work of Stainton, Cornell's goal tender, won high praise from spectators.

Freshmen Win

Victories over the Columbia and Rochester freshmen were scored during the week by the Cornell yearlings. They defeated the Lion cubs Tuesday night by a score of 31 to 20, and overcame Rochester Saturday by a score of 39 to 21.

TOMPKINS COUNTY will have spent in it during 1924 approximately a million dollars for roads, it was announced after a recent meeting of the County Highway Commission in Ithaca. It is planned to resurface three miles of the Trumansburg road with concrete, and to continue the work begun last year on the Ithaca-Elmira road, among others.

THE CORNELL CLINIC in New York on April 1 comes under the directorship of Dr. Calvin H. Goddard, assistant superintendent of Johns Hopkins Hospital in charge of the business management of the dispensary. Dr. Goddard took his bachelor's degree at Hopkins in 1915 and his M.D. at Hopkins Medical School in 1919.

BEATING PENNSYLVANIA IN THE DRILL HALL

True to tradition, the basketball team succeeded in downing its ancient Junior Week rival and for good measure repeated the performance last week. Short throws from close under the basket were the mainstay of the Cornell team. In this picture the ball can be seen nearly at the top.

MEETING SPECIFIC NEEDS

PLANS of the Cornellian Council for meeting some of the University's more urgent needs have culminated in the appointment, announced in this issue, of a special committee for each of the tasks that the Council is endeavoring to undertake. Specifically, rather than give the members as a whole a list of a dozen or a hundred University problems, with the result that no one is charged with solving any of them, the Executive Committee will eventually assign each member to the particular problem to which he is best adapted.

This procedure, a radical departure for the Council is an excellent idea, and will undoubtedly produce results. As a by-product it should increase the interest of the members of the Council in their work, and relieve the monotony of their constant solicitation for mere funds. The solicitor will now be a specialist, soon to know more of at least one definite, interesting subject than any of these that come within earshot.

There is nothing essential in the new plan to prevent a councilor from continuing to solicit funds for general purposes. The very practical annual gifts to the University for general purposes will continue to increase even while the specific needs are being sought, for the new plan will be an asset to the councilors in their general work rather than a liability.

REGISTRATION STATISTICS

Increases in attendance at American colleges and universities have moderated to about the pre-war rate, in contrast with the soaring increase of 1919 to 1921, according to an article in School and Society for February 16, written by Dean Raymond Walters of Swarthmore. Dean Walters's figures are for enrollment in the first term, and are based on reports from 151 leading universities and colleges on the approved list of the Association of American Universities.

The 1923 advance over 1922 in full-time regular students in 134 of these institutions, which reported both last year and this, was three per cent; the increase of 1922 over 1921 in 123 institutions had been two per cent. In grand total enrollment the 1923 gain over 1922 was six per cent, as compared with fourteen per cent for 1922 over 1921.

"These percentages are markedly smaller than the percentages of 1919 to 1921 increases," said Dean Walters. "Nevertheless even at the diminished rate, the numerical gain this year at some of the larger State universities exceeds what used to be the total enrollment of the old-time New England college. At other large institutions there are slight advances, and at others slight losses. Of the smaller institutions—those have fewer than 1,000 students—eighty per cent report increased attendance over 1922."

The gain in full-time student enrollment of the twenty-five largest institutions on the list was three per cent for 1923 over 1922, and the similar gain for the twenty-five smallest institutions on the list for 1923 over 1922 was seven per cent.

The fifteen largest institutions listed for regular students devoting full time to their courses are California (including the Southern branch), 13,276; Columbia, 11,530; Illinois, 9,353; Michigan, 8,906; Minnesota, 8,331; Ohio State, 8,225; Wisconsin, 7,531; Pennsylvania, 7,168; Harvard, 6,584; New York, 5,843; Nebraska, 4,562; University of Washington, 5,221; Iowa, 5,202; Cornell, 5,153; and Boston, 4,834.

The eighteen largest institutions listed for full-time, part-time and Summer school totals are Columbia, 28,861; California (including the Southern Branch), 23,139; College of the City of New York, 17,055; Pennsylvania, 14,632; New York, 14,385; Minnesota, 12,322; Chicago, 12,191; Michigan, 11,162; Wisconsin, 11,088; Illinois, 10,557; Boston, 10,096; Ohio State, 8,725; Harvard, 8,925; Pittsburgh, 8,553; Northwestern, 8,229; Nebraska, 8,220; Texas, 7,511; and Cornell, 7,090.

THE FIRST of a series of organ recitals to be scheduled by the Department of Music was given in Bailey Hall on February 21 by Norman Coke-Jephcott, organist of Grace Church, Utica. The second in the series will be given by Harold D. Smith, acting organist of Vassar College, on February 28 in Bailey Hall.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

In the four days from February 19 to 22 five of the Cornell clubs in Ohio held meetings. The Cornell men of Youngstown, Akron, Toledo, and Dayton celebrated with dinners on successive nights, with a luncheon in Columbus on Washington's Birthday. Foster M. Coffin '12, alumni representative, was a guest at all the meetings, bringing with him motion pictures of the University. Discussion of club activities took up a substantial part of each meeting.

A new club was added to the lists. The Cornell Club of Youngstown succeeds the former informal organization. James E. Bennett '11 was elected president, with Harry A. Boyd '06 as secretary-treasurer, and the following as directors: James C. Argetsinger '05, Walter R. Lalley '17, and Martyn Z. Bentley '22.

The other groups had already been organized, with varying degrees of activity. New officers were elected for the Cornell Club of Dayton: P. Barton Myers '13, president; Harry C. Beckwith, Sp., vice-president; and James D. Lorenz '23, secretary-treasurer. Myers appointed two past presidents to serve as additional members of the executive committee, George H. Kramer '02 and Harry I. Schenck '03.

New York Women

The annual luncheon of the Cornell Women's Club of New York was held on February 16 at the Hotel Commodore. Two hundred and sixty Cornell women and their guests were present. Dr. Frank Pierrepont Graves, Commissioner of Education of the State of New York, talked of his visit to the Near East last summer, and of the potential influence of American educational institutions such as Roberts College and the University of Beirut in helping to maintain peace in that part of the world. Neal Dow Becker '05, president of the Cornell Club of New York, outlined the plans being made for entertaining the annual convention of the Alumni Corporation in New York next November. Dr. Mary M. Crawford '04, vice-president of the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs, and of the Alumni Corporation, who has been nominated for alumni Trustee, was the last speaker. Mrs. John A. May (Johanna C. Stolte '05) sang a number of songs, among them some that were original to the "stunts" of the women as undergraduates. Margaret Loomis Stecker '06, president of the Cornell Women's Club of New York, presided. Miss Charlotte Smith '85, first president of the club, and other charter members, were at the guest table. Among the guests were a number from out of town, including Clara G. Cornell '06, founder and president, and a large representation of the Cornell Women's Club of Western Connecticut.

The committee in charge of arrangements was Frances Selden '10, Harriet

Waterman '13, Dorothy Winner '16, Martha Miller '15, and Elsa Schlobohm '21.

The next meeting of the Cornell Women's Club of New York will be held on March 8, at 2.30 at the League House of the New York League of Girls' Clubs, 15' East Sixtieth Street. Miss Faith Willcox, of the Travelers' Aid Society, will speak.

Cleveland

The annual banquet of the Cornell Club of Cleveland will be held at the Hollenden Hotel on March 22 at 6.45. Conant Van Blarcom '08, Plymouth Building, chairman of the committee, has set out to make this the best banquet Cleveland ever held. It will take the form of a college revue, and already definite acceptances have been received from Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Dartmouth, and Western Reserve for college stunts.

At the meeting of the Club on February 14, the guest of honor and speaker was Matthew Luckiesh, director of the Lighting Research Laboratory, National Lamp Works of the General Electric Company, Nela Park, Cleveland. His subject was "Artificial Light and Civilization." Mr. Luckiesh is a national expert on light and color.

Northern New Jersey

At the luncheon of the Cornell Club of Northern New Jersey on February 15 at the Downtown Club in Newark, Joseph A. Hurley, Newark commercial manager of the New York Telephone Company, spoke on the compilation of directories. He explained a reform instituted at the suggestion of a Cornell employee which facilitated distribution.

Washington, D. C.

The Cornell Alumni Society of Washington held a meeting at which more than fifty were present on February 14. Dr. William Alanson White '89, noted alienist and psychologist and director of St. Elizabeth's, the Federal hospital for insane and mental cases, talked about his work and some of his patients.

Dutchess County, New York

Twenty members of the Cornell Club of Dutchess County, New York, attend the regular meeting and dinner of the Club held at the Colonial, Poughkeepsie, on February 11. Selden H. Hall '03 reported for the committee in charge of the Herrman H. Vail Memorial Fund which was established by the Club to assist students at Cornell from Dutchess County, that no applications for aid had been received thus far this year. Notice of the fund will be sent to principals of all the high schools in the county.

Rochester

A. Buel Trowbridge '20, second Rhodes Scholar to be appointed from Cornell, compared Oxford with American universities at the meeting of the Cornell Club of Rochester held at the Powers Hotel on February 13. He said that the plan of American college education was a "predetermined system" where what the student learned after he had chosen his course was a matter of his professor's decision. If he measured up to that standard he was given credit; if not, he was brushed aside as a failure. He advocated that the Oxford and Cambridge plan should be considered by America.

Speaking before the local Cornell Club at its luncheon on February 6, Felix A. Elliot of the Eastman Kodak Company declared that Rochester is oversold on its school system. He said that the present buildings were overcrowded and inadequate, that teachers were underpaid, and that the city provided an average of only seventeen square feet of play space for each child, whereas each one should have at least one hundred square feet.

Utica

"Syracuse Day," celebrated by the Cornell Club of Utica on February 19, was called most successful by the eighty-odd who attended the luncheon at the Hotel Utica. Alumni of Syracuse University living in and near the city who were invited to the luncheon of the Cornell Club responded enthusiastically and contributed greatly to the success of the meeting.

The speakers were Ernest I. Edgecomb, judge of the Supreme Court, and John L. Train, representing Syracuse, and P. Charles J. De Angelis '71, formerly judge of the Supreme Court, representing Cornell. They were introduced by Gay H. Brown '11, president of the Cornell Club.

Songs of both Syracuse and Cornell helped along the spirit of good fellowship and friendliness which prevailed.

On February 26 the Utica Club announces a dinner dance at the First Presbyterian Church House on Genesee Street. All Cornellians within reach are cordially invited.

At its next regular meeting, on March 4, A. Buel Trowbridge '20 will speak. The Club meets the first and third Tuesdays of each month at Hotel Utica, English Room, at 12.15. The secretary, Mrs. Joanna D. Huntington '18, 1323 Seymour Avenue, Utica, is anxious to receive the names of Cornellians who could come to these meetings but do not receive notices of them.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

FOURTEEN college glee clubs of the Middle West took part in a competitive concert held at Orchestra Hall, Chicago, on February 18. The house was crowded. Grinnell won with 276 points out of a possible 300. Michigan was second with 272, and Beloit and Northwestern tied for third place with 242 points each.

THE HARVARD Endowment Fund on January 1 amounted to $13,945,536, of which more than $11,983,000 had been received in cash. All but about thirteen per cent of the money pledged is unrestricted. The total number of paid-in subscriptions is 15,140, and there are 8,337 accounts on which instalments are still due.

OBITUARY

John W. Trainer '80

John Walter Trainer, for many years a member of the Department of Justice at Washington, died suddenly in that city on November 15 last.

He was born at Steubenville, Ohio, and entered Cornell in 1876. His sophomore year was spent at the University of Virginia and then he came back to Cornell where he spent two more years. He was a member of Chi Phi and the Tom Hughes Boat Club.

During the first administration of Grover Cleveland, he entered the Department of Justice, where he became an assistant to the Attorney General, a position he held until the beginning of the Harding administration. His health began to fail soon after, but the end came unexpectedly.

Robert M. Adam '89

Word has been received of the death of Robert M. Adam, a student in the Sibley College of Mechanical Engineering in 1885 and 1886. He entered Cornell from Joliet, Ill., and while in the University was a member of the Mechanical Engineering Association.

Dr. Herman L. Gifford '90

He was born in Jamestown, N. Y., and from 1886 to 1889 was a student in science. He later went to the Long Island College Hospital, from which he graduated in 1891. Since then he had been a practicing physician in Brooklyn.

Dr. Gifford was a member of the New York State Medical Society, Kings County Medical Society, and the National Geographic Society. For the last twenty-nine years he had been medical examiner for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Albert C. McMillan '00

Albert Campbell McMillan died at Biltmore, N. C., on February 6 of tuberculosis, from which he had been suffering for several months.

He came to Cornell in 1896 from the Mohegan Lake School at Peekskill, N. Y., and remained for one year as a student of civil engineering. At the time of the Spanish-American War, he joined the Rough Riders and President McKinley commissioned him as a captain although he was but twenty-one years old at the time. He saw service in Cuba and later in the Filipino insurrection.

In late years he had been engaged in the realty business in New York, where he became a well-known operator. He is survived by his father, Samuel McMillan, prominent builder and contractor of New York, besides a daughter, Mrs. Walter Healy and a brother, Samuel McMillan, Jr., of the same city.

Charles I. Sutfin '19

Charles Ide Sutfin died in Wilmington,

Del., on February 14 after an illness of several months.

He was a former resident of Ithaca and after graduating from the Ithaca High School entered Cornell in February 1915 as a student in the College of Agriculture, remaining one year. The last news received about him prior to the word of his death was that he was teaching agriculture in the High School at Newark, Del.

Sutfin is survived by his mother, Mrs. I. L. Sutfin of Wilmington, Delaware and two sisters, Mrs. Juliet Homewood of that city and Mrs. August Moran of Washington, D. C.

Richards E. Banks '26

Richard Edwin Banks died at his home in Ithaca on February 13 after an illness of several months.

He was born in Ithaca on June 25, 1905, the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Edwin Banks. After graduating from the Ithaca High School, he entered Cornell in 1922 as a student in the College of Arts and Sciences.

He is survived by his father, S. Edwin Banks '95, his mother, a brother, Robert T. Banks '26, and a sister, Virginia T. Banks, all of Ithaca.

THE EIGHTIES START

Two classes of the Eighties take the honors of being first in the field with reunion urges of more than passing appeal. R. U. Cumming '84, who is evidently cooperating with Dr. Henry P. de Forest, greeted all his classmates with a valentine reminder that he had a date with them "at the sign of the clock" on Friday, June 13. The illustration which accompanied the letter and is reproduced below indicated his conception of what would be the response to the invitation.

Martin H. Goodkind '87, reunion chairman for his Class, greets all his classmates with a photographic reproduction of The Cornell Daily Sun of February 14, 1885, containing a two-page account of the sophomore banquet of that year.

LITERARY REVIEW

The African Scene

The African Novels of Louis Bertrand: a Phase of the Renaissance of National Energy in France. By David Clark Cabeen, A.M. '19. Pennsylvania Ph.D. Thesis. Philadelphia. 1922. 23.8 cm., pp. 106.

Dr. Cabeen has done a good piece of work, on a subject which is of great interest at the present time, especially in view of the charges of militarism which have been laid at the door of the French Government.

French imperialism in Africa is not yet a century old. It was in 1830 that a French army occupied Algiers. Since 1880 colonization has been successful, and in 1911 out of a population of 5,492,000 there were 304,000 native French or of French descent, and 188,000 naturalized French citizens. Tunisia was occupied in 1881, and Tunisia became in 1896 a protectorate of France. The Moroccan crisis of 1905 was quickly followed by the rapid pacification of Morocco by General Lyautey, and in 1912 the Treaty of Fez recognized the protectorate of France over Morocco.

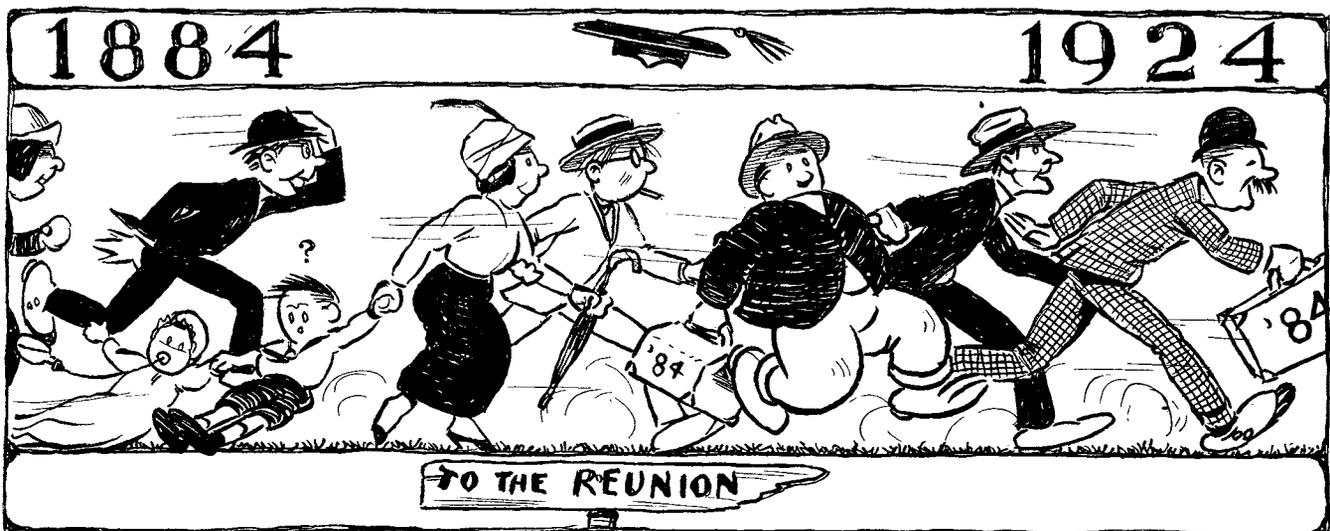

In 1891 Louis Bertrand was sent to Algiers to teach in the Lycée. A young man of twenty-five, a native of Spincourt, near Metz, in Lorraine, he had graduated from the Lycée Henri IV and the Ecole Normale, and in 1896 he completed his thesis for the doctorate. After nine years of service he resigned to devote himself to letters. Since 1899 he has published, besides four volumes of criticism, some twenty-one novels, of which ten belong to the African cycle, eight to the Mediterranean cycle, and three to the group in which the scene is laid in his native land. The African cycle includes "Le Sang des Races," 1899, "La Cina," 1901, "Pépète et Balthasar," 1904, "Le Jardin de la Mort," 1905, "La Concession de Madame Petitgand," 1912, "Saint Augustin," 1913, "Les Plus Belles Pages de Saint Augustin," 1916, "Sanguis Martyrum," 1918, "Les Villes d'Or," 1921, and "Autour de Saint Augustin," 1921. He is a master psychologist and a real artist.

Bertrand is the delineator of French imperialism in Africa. It is his gospel to his fatherland, wearied by centuries of civilization, that she can "renew her youth by contact with the teeming barbarism of the new and vigorous races of North Africa." The over-civilized Frenchman should "learn to understand the soul of the barbarian in all its violence and cunning, and be able to compete with him by the strength of his will and of his muscles. Thus will North Africa become an invaluable school of energy for the Frenchman, since he will quickly learn there the sharp glance and the power of rapid decision of the uncultivated man."

Moreover, musing over the dead cities of the desert, Bertrand dreams of a great Mediterranean Latin empire, in which the ancient Latin spirit shall be perpetuated. But it is to be an empire based on force. "Pacifism and revolutionary humanitarianism, considered as universal ideals, have been proved by the Great War to be absolute failures. However tired of war a nation may be, it is a gain of no mediocre importance to have recovered a taste for violence, and to have again become accustomed to scorn for human life and the shedding of blood."

A strange doctrine to preach in these days of war-weariness, when many have despaired of world recovery from the effects of the World War, and when experts tell us that war was a pink tea party compared to what the next war, when and if it comes, is likely to be! It may well be that "right is crushed by violence if incapable of resisting it"; but defeat is temporary, and nothing that relied wholly on force has ever yet succeeded in the world. The fate of the German Empire might teach M. Bertrand something on this score.

Books and Magazine Articles

Professor Joseph Q. Adams's "Life of William Shakespeare" was reviewed in the London Times Literary Supplement for December 27.

The Chemical Age for January reprints from Professor Dennis's description of the Baker Laboratory several paragraphs under the head of "Essentials of a Laboratory of Chemistry."

In The South Atlantic Quarterly for January Professor Allan H. Gilbert '09, of Trinity, N. C., reviews E. Lynn Thorndike's "History of Magic and Experimental Science During the First Four Centuries of Our Era."

In Science for February 8 Dr. David Starr Jordan '72 appeals for books for the University of Tokio, which lost its entire library of five or six hundred thousand volumes in the recent fire.

In Bird-Lore for January-February Professor Arthur A. Allen '07 has an illustrated article on "Ring in the New." It advises the bird-lover to follow up his hobby throughout the year.

In the Journal of the New York Botanical Garden Dr. William A. Murrill '00 writes on "Cocoa and Chocolate."

The Bryologist for November contains an obituary of the late Professor Elias J. Durand '93, of the University of Minnesota. Phytopathology for September had an obituary of Dr. Durand by R. B. Harvey together with a bibliography of thirty titles. Professor Durand's "Outline of Laboratory Practice for the General Course in Botany" has gone through five editions.

In American Forestry for February there is a review of "Logging" by Professor Ralph C. Bryant '00, of Yale; also of "Standardized Plant Names" compiled by the American Joint Committee on Horticulture, composed of three members of whom one is Dr. Frederick V. Coville '87, of Washington.

In The Physical Review for January Samuel S. Mackeown '17 writes on "The Hall Effect and Specific Resistance of Cathodically Deposited Films of Gold." There is also an abstract of the paper on "Acoustic Wave Filters in Series" read by Professor George W. Stewart, Ph.D. '01, of the University of Iowa, at the recent meeting of the American Physical Society.

In Education for February Stephen G. Rich, A.M. '15, of Essex Falls, N. J., writes on "The Real South Africa."

The Teachers College Record for January includes an article on "Education and the Home" by Professor Benjamin R. Andrews '01, of Teachers College.

In School Science and Mathematics for February Professor Louis C. Karpinski '01 and Adelaide M. Fiedler collaborate in an article on "The Terminology of Elementary Geometry." The revised edition of "Plane Geometry" by Professor John W. Young, A.M. '01, Ph.D. '04, of Dartmouth, and Albert J. Schwartz is reviewed by H. C. C.

In The Philosophical Review for January Professor Harold R. Smart, A.M. '21, Ph.D. '23, of the University of North Carolina, participates in a discussion of "Statistical Law and the Ontological Proof." William McDougall's "Outline of Psychology" is reviewed by Professor Margaret F. Washburn, Ph.D. '94, of Vassar. G. E. Moore's "Philosophical Studies" is reviewed by Professor Elijah Jordan, A.M. '08, of Butler College. Ludwig Wittgenstein's "Tractatus Logico-Philosophicus," with an introduction by Bertrand Russell, is reviewed by Professor Theodore de L. de Laguna, Ph.D. '01, of Bryn Mawr.

The Survey for February 15 includes a review of Dr. Vernon Kellogg's "Mind and Heredity" by A. K.

In The Philological Quarterly for January Professor Charles Bundy Wilson '84, of the University of Iowa, reviews Weckherlin's "Eclogues of the Seasons" edited by Elizabeth F. Johnson.

In The Classical Journal for January Professor Lane Cooper's "Aristotelian Theory of Comedy" is reviewed by Professor W. R. Agard of St. John's College, Baltimore, Md.

In School and Society for February 2 Professor Michael V. O'Shea '92, of the University of Wisconsin, discusses the question "Should We Endeavor to Secure Uniformity in Educational Terminology?"

The Official Publications of the National Association of Cost Accountants for January 15 contains an article of eleven pages by Matthew L. Cary, C.E. '15, of the G. A. Kelly Company of Flint, Michigan, on "Getting the Most Out of Business Records." The office of the Association is in the Bush Terminal Building, 130 Forty-second Street, New York, and the price of copies of each issue to non-members is seventy-five cents.

In The Stanford Illustrated Review for January Dr. David Starr Jordan '72 writes on the late Professor John Maxson Stillman, the first professor of chemistry at Stanford.

Dean Everett V. Meeks, formerly of Cornell, now of the Yale School of the Fine Arts, writes in The Yale Alumni Weekly for February 1 on "The Plan for the Physical Development of Yale as a Safeguard of Yale's Growth."

The Vermont Alumni Weekly for February 13 includes an illustrated description of "Phi Delta Theta's New House" at Vermont by William McLeish Dunbar '21, the architect.

Kenneth L. Roberts '08, in The Saturday Evening Post for February 23, under the title "East is East", continues his trenchant attacks on our present immigration lack-of-policy.

In Science for February 15 there appears the address on "A Program for Agricultural Development" delivered at the recent meeting of the A.A.A.S. at Cincinnati by Professor Roscoe W. Thatcher, of the Geneva Station, vice-president and chairman of Section O. Dr. David Starr Jordan '72 has a note on "The Weber Seventy-Year Book" recently published in honor of Max Weber, for twenty years professor of zoology at the University of Amsterdam.

In The Minnesota Alumni Weekly for February 14 there is a review of "Freedom and the College" by Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, Ph.D. '97.

The Washington University Record for December contains the addresses delivered by President Farrand and Dean Walter E. McCourt '04, of Washington University, at the inauguration of Herbert E. Hadley as chancellor of Washington. Professor McCourt is dean of both the Colleges of Engineering and Architecture at Washington.

In The Journal of Philosophy for February 14 Professor Edwin B. Boring '08, of Harvard, publishes a seventeen-page review of Knight Dunlap's "Elements of Scientific Psychology."

In The American Journal of Sociology for January Professor Frederick C. Prescott's "The Poetic Mind" is reviewed by Robert E. Park.

In The Journal of Geography for February appears the address on "Traditional Geography and the Present Trend" delivered by Professor Ray H. Whitbeck '01, of the University of Wisconsin, at the recent A.A.A.S. meeting at Cincinnati.

Dr. Robert T. Morris '80 in the number of The Medical Journal and Record for February 20 presents "My Latest Conclusions Concerning Gastric Ulcer." On the whole, as is to be expected, he favors rather less operating, even according to the finest technique, and more attention to letting Nature build up the patient.

In the Journal of the American Institute of Architects for February Frederick L. Ackerman '01 reviews "Housing: the Facts and the Future" by Harry Barnes, vice-president of the Royal Institute of British Architects.

"The Fall of Louis XVI" by Professor Louis R. Gottschalk '19, recently of the University of Louisville, has been published as Little Blue Book 515 by the Haldeman Julius Company of Girard, Kansas.

In The Cornell Countryman for February Professor Ralph H. Wheeler '06 writes on "Farmers' Weeks, Past and Present." Professor Bristow Adams is the ventriloquist through whom "The Farm Press Speaks for Itself." Frederick G. Behrends '16 discusses "Extension Work in Rural Engineering." All three articles are illustrated.

A new edition of the Butterick Cook Book has just been published by Dodd, Mead and Company of New York. It has been largely rewritten by Professor Flora Rose. It is favorably reviewed in The Columbus Dispatch for February 15.

ALUMNI NOTES

'72—Henry LeRoy Stewart, secretary of the Class of 1872 and for the past eleven years city engineer of Ithaca, has given his resignation to the city administration to take effect on March 1. He has been connected with city affairs since 1895 and since then has been instrumental in bringing about many improvements in various parts of the city. After leaving Cornell he was engaged in railroad work for about sixteen years, during which time he patented a conductor's cash fare railroad ticket which is in use all over the country. After returning to Ithaca, he became interested in the study of botany and he has one of the finest collections of botanical specimens of this part of New York State that are known. He has made no definite plans for the future other than to take a well-earned rest for a time.

'80 AB—Western Starr presided at memorial services for Nicolai Lenin, former head of the Soviet Government, which were held by the Lenin Memorial Committee of Washington, D. C., at the Pythian Temple there on February 1.

'84—Richard Ware is associated with Crane Parris and Company of Washington, D. C.

'87 ME—Members of the Schenectady, N. Y., section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers were addressed on February 1 by Professor Harris J. Ryan of Stanford. His subject was "The Fundamentals of High Voltage Phenomena," a question about which he has done considerable research work and in which he collaborated with the late Dr. Charles Steinmetz. He has been at Stanford since 1905, has been engaged in high voltage transmission line studies, and for some time has been consulting engineer for the Los Angeles Aqueduct and Power Commission.

Books for the Next Six Months

Agricultural Books

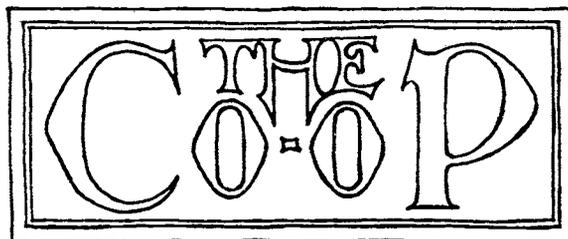

All books in this list are not for the farmer. Corbett's Garden Farming is a good book for the man with a small garden. The Dyke Automobile Encyclopedia is good for the general reader. Holt's Care and Feeding of Children is a good book to have in the home. These are only a few of the good books listed. Write for copy of the list.

Engineering Books

The Engineering list does not contain as many books for the general reader as the other list. Engineers usually want facts. Radio is both technical and popular. We can help you with suggestions in other lines. We are willing to get special information for you regarding books.
