entirely. Noted here and abroad as a marvelous master of technique, Rosenthal left his hearers amazed with the consummate ease with which he played the most difficult parts. He opened with Mozart's Sonata in A Major. Schumann's Fantasy in three movements evoked more applause perhaps than any other number. The artist finally playing Schumann's Warum as an encore. Then came a group of Chopin's preludes, which Rosenthal played in a perfectly normal fashion. Following these he played another Chopin Nocturne, a Valse in D Flat, and Chant Polonais. The final number included M. de Falla's Cubans, Miniature Debussy, Papillons of Rosenthal's own composition, and the Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2 of Liszt. Papillons required a remarkable display of technique and skill, as it is filled with difficult thirds and sixths. A fitting climax was the Rhapsodie Hongroise, with its majestic wealth of sound. As a final encore Rosenthal played the fifth of a series of Polish songs.

LECTURES for the week include "Fur-Farming" by M. D. Pirnie before the Agassia Club on December 16; "How Does the Modern School of French Writers React to the Influence of Anatole France?" by Abbé Ernest Dinnet, at the Goldwin Smith Foundation, on December 17; and "English Cottage Gardens," illustrated, by Miss Hilda Laines, of the Brooklyn Botanical Garden, under the auspices of the Garden Club of Ithaca and the Department of Floriculture.

THE DANN tradition still clings to the Musical Clubs. Robert Harding Dann '25 is the leader of the Glee Club while his twin brother Roger Lewis Dann '25 is president of the Musical Clubs. Both are second tenors.

THE FATHER of the Dann twins, Professor Hollis E. Dann, for many years professor of music here, has just accepted a call to the headship of the Department of Music in New York University. For the past two or three years he has been at the head of music instruction in the schools of Pennsylvania.

ALBERT E. MILLEN '24, last year's president of the Masque, who has had charge of the scenery and lighting effects for the Masque for the past two years, has again been awarded the contract for the scenery of the production this year, "It's Not All," which the Masque is to give at the Lyceum on February 5. The principal set of this year's production represents the great hall of an English manor house. Work is to be started on this at once. Work with the chorus has been going on for some time under the direction of the Misses Bement. Music is under the direction of John M. Breckenridge '26, and includes several song and dance numbers by George Pier '21, George F. Titus '25, Cyril E. Eber '25, Breckenridge, James B. Truett '26, and Gerald A. Sears '27. Professor George Fraser '21, former director of the Ohio State "Red Masque," is in charge of the performance, and is personally coaching the cast.

PROFESSOR Harold D. Smith, the University organist, gave the following Christmas program in Sage Chapel at five o'clock on December 12:

THE RED KEY held a formal subscription dance at the Beta Theta Pi House on December 12. The members of the football team were guests of honor. The patronesses were Mrs. Farrand, Mrs. Clairene F. Wyckoff, Mrs. Bristow Adams, Miss Nye, Miss Seely, and Mrs. Harry P. Weed.

AT THE MEETING of the British-American Club in Barnes Hall on December 11 Professor George E. G. Catlin spoke on "British Foreign Policy in Egypt."

SPHINX HEAD and Quill and Dagger held their annual joint dinner in the Dutch Kitchen on December 10. President Thomas L. Stirling of Quill and Dagger presided as toastmaster and the chief speech was made by Harold Flack '12 on "What the Ideal Alumnus Should Do Out of College."

DR. DEAN F. SMILEY '16, head of the Department of Medical Supervision, in an interview on December 11 pointed out that only fourteen to twenty-three per cent of the students have any vaccination scar, and that such a group, should a small-pox case be brought in, would constitute a real menace. He strongly urged all students who have not done so to be vaccinated. A vaccination clinic was held on December 13 from two to four.

F. E. BALDWIN, president of the Thatcher Manufacturing Company of Elmira, was the principal speaker at the Methodist students' banquet held in the basement of the Aurora Street Church on December 13.

Over 150 members of the Cornell Club of New York gathered at the clubhouse on December 11 for the first of a series of discussions of contemporary interest, which was designated as "Chemical Evening." Problems and developments in the chemical industry were discussed from the points of view of both the pure chemist and the industrial chemist. The audience speakers, who are perhaps the most prominent men in their profession. Elon H. Hooker '94, president of the Chemical

SPORT STUFF

The Christmas atmosphere hangs over the University. Railroad tickets and coin-skin coats are being acquired. Campus tigers return from boarding school. State street is crowded. When this appears in print the chimes will have become mute and the students will have scattered all over the broad land bearing to their several communities a note of liberal culture and something new in dance steps.
The members of the Musical Clubs may not go home. There is no flaming plum pudding for the sentimental tenor and no yule log for the rumbling bass. If the second violin hangs up his stocking the Pullman porter is likely to shine it or pinch it or something. All these poor abused young men must forego the joy of the family fireside at Christmas time.
While the rest of us rub snow on our frozen ears and thaw out our chilblains
they must needs tour the South singing sweetly and strolling among the flowers with dark-eyed daughters of Dixie.
Pretty rotten!

GEOLOGICAL SOCIETY HERE

The Geological Society of America, headed at Cornell during the summer of 1888 by Professor Henry Shaler Williams, comes back to the Campus for its thirty-sixth annual meeting on December 29, 30 and 31. The present membership of the Society is approximately five hundred, many of whom will be at Ithaca for the meeting.
The guests will be entertained at Prudcence Risley Hall, and will hold their meetings in the lecture room of the Baker Laboratory and in McGraw Hall. A smoker and the annual dinner of the Society will be given in Risley.
Professor Heinrich Ries is a member of the executive council of the Society.
Cornellians other than Dr. Williams who were interested in the beginnings of the Society include Professor Samuel G.
Williams, James F. Kemp, and Charles S. Prosser '83. The Society started with one hundred and two original fellows, sixteen elected members, and eight prospective members, which included all but about six of the working geologists of the country.

The Cross Country season of 1924 was officially brought to a close with the twenty-sixth annual banquet of the Cornell Cross Country Club, held, as has been the custom, at Varna, on December 6.
Medals, cups, and shingles won during the year were awarded, and Coach Moakley and Edward B. Kirby '25 of Newark, New Jersey, spoke.

ties. Following the concert a special dance with refreshments served in the adjoining ball room, will be given in honor of the men. Dorsey W. Hyde, Jr., '10 is chairman of the committee on arrange-

At Trenton, N. J., on January 2 the Clubs will arrive in time to visit the State Penetentiary and perform for the men, as on a similar visit three years ago. Returning from this, luncheon will be given them at the Cartaret Club by the Alumni Association, and they will take trips to see Lawrenceville and Princeton. That evening dinner parties will be given by several of the patronesses before the concert,
which is to be held in the Crescent Temple,
followed by a dance given by the Cornell Club. Donald B. Rice '14 is chairman of the concert committee.

Arriving in New York on the morning of January 3 the men will make their headquarters at the Cornell Club, and spend the day seeing the city and prepar-

8.30 that evening. In addition to the din-men will attend a dance given for them

following the concert at the Cornell Club, in which several former members of the Clubs will provide special features in the way of entertainment. The details for the reception of the men and of the concert are in the hands of Willard I. Emerson

New York

The chemists' dinner was held on December 11; it is described elsewhere in this issue. The following schedule of class dinners has since been carried through:

1911, December 11; 1902, December 12;
1915, December 15; 1892, December 16;
1906, December 17.

Other dinners are to be held as follows:
Medical freshmen, December 18; 1919,
December 19; 1890, December 20.

Cleveland

On December 11, before a gathering of fifty Cornellians, the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company gave a talk with an excellent movie entitled "The Heart of Cleveland," showing how the illuminating company functions in our everyday life.
The meeting was a very successful and enthusiastic one.

The Club will hold its annual luncheon for members and undergraduates at the Hollenden Cleveland, on December 23
at 12.15 p.m.

A NEW CALENDAR

George F. Morgan '03 of the University
Photo and Gift Shop, 314 College Avenue, has published a handsome calendar for 1925, printed by the Albertype Company of Brooklyn. The twelve pages measure fifteen by twelve inches in size and the pictures have been skillfully grouped with reference to the seasons. The photographer has been fortunate in capturing some memorable scenes, for example the second touchdown in the Pennsylvania game of last year. The gorge scenes come out very well.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

The Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska has declared that if the University is to provide adequate educational facilities for its students it must have for the next ten-year period a minimum tax levy of one-fifth of a mill. During the last ten-year period the number of students increased almost 250 per cent, while the appropriation increased only one-third. Last year there were 10,352 students.

The University of Rochester recently announced the completion of a drive for ten millions of dollars from the City of Rochester.

The University of Chicago is preparing to undertake a campaign to raise $54,- 000,000 for additional endowment. It plans to establish several professorships carrying a stipend of $10,000 each.

New York now has a total registration of 17,024, as follows: College of Arts and Pure Science, 667; Engineering, 363;
Medical College, 495; Commerce, 5,197;
Law, 1,953; Washington Square College,
2,903; Graduate School, 184; Education,
1,068; School of Retailing, 433; Evening Engineering, 186; Graduate School of Business Administration, 197; Wall Street
Division, 2,000; Summer School, 2,149;
duplications to be subtracted, 835.

John A. Allen '17
John Allen died in Salt Lake City, Utah, on October 2, of injuries sustained while he was in service during the World War.

He was born in Salt Lake City on October 20, 1894, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Allen and after attending school there, went to Yale. In 1915 he entered Cornell as a student of agriculture and remained for one year.

Cliff F. Lester, Grad.
Claude Frederick Lester died at Venice Center, N. Y., on August 9, 1924.

He was born in East Venice, N. Y., on April 7, 1878, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred V. Lester. After getting his early training there, he went to Middlebury College, from which he graduated with highest honors in 1903. In 1908 he received the degree of A. M. from Columbia University and subsequently studied at the Universities of Buffalo, Nebraska, Washington, and Cornell.

He taught school for some time, being principal of the High School at Galway, N. Y., and vice-principal of the Highland Falls, N. Y., High School, as well as a professor of history in the high schools at Elizabeth, N. J., Lincoln, Neb., and Seattle, Wash. Later he was a professor of history at Brodick College, Philippi, W. Va., and professor of American history at Colby College.

He enlisted at the outbreak of the War and while in service was injured in a motor accident. He never fully recovered from the injuries and his death is attributed to them.

Frank C. Loring, Grad.
Frank Carlton Loring, a graduate student in the University in 1909-10, died in the United States Veterans' Hospital at Albuquerque, N. M., on February 16, 1924 after a long illness dating back to his service during the World War.

He came to Cornell in 1907 after having attended Purdue and Columbia Universities, and was a graduate student for one year. The next year he continued his graduate work and also acted as an instructor.

LITERARY REVIEW

Several Happy Thoughts

A charming volume, intended to impart information (not to be taken too seriously) and at the same time relieve the tedium of life. It will doubtless find a wide sale. It is a good sort of present to make to an ardent collector. The number of antiques has greatly increased of late years—witness the formation of the Amateurs' Association to Putter with Pewter, The West Side Guild for the Study of Early Victorian Sawhorses, and other such bodies of earnest seekers after culture and bargains. So the number of antiques has likewise increased—as one look at the chorus girls will indicate.

No matter what you collect—matchboxes, glass stoppers, watches, greenbacks, bustles, worm holes, or golf balls—you will find suggestions of value in this book; the wiles of the dealer, the tricks of the busy makers of antique furniture, many of these are pointed out. You will not remember all of these suggestions; but they will give added zest for the next collecting trip. The only collector not recognized in these pages is the bill collector.

The best landscape in the book is the Old Virginia Four-Poster Inlaid with Mahogany. The publishers have admitted to us that one of the distinguished savants above pseudonymously designated is the celebrated Kennebunkporter Kenneth L. Roberts '08.

Books and Magazine Articles
The Cornell Graphic for November 22 has a portrait of Professor J. F. Mountford, the new professor of classics, and of J. Darrieulat, the new fencing master.

In The American Bankers' Association Journal for November Jerome B. Landfield '94 writes on "Draining Away Russia's Capital." "All competent and impartial observers think that the Bolshevik régime cannot last. Its economic system can only lead to ruin, and its leaders cannot change that system because it rests on force and terror and to cause to do so is to abdicate. There is no possibility of evolution within the régime, because it rests on force and terror and to relax that terror would invite terrible reprisals."

In Old Oregon for November Professor Herbert C. Howe '93, of the University of Oregon, writes on "Football Dope." "For years," the editor says, "Professor Howe has been the representative of the University of Oregon in the Pacific Coast and Northwest conferences. He spends countless hours on the football field at practices, as well as at games, at conference meetings up and down the coast, and at local war councils. His knowledge of Oregon athletics, which has been spread over a long period of years, makes his opinion valuable.

An editorial writer in The Harvard Alumni Bulletin for November 20 comes to the defense of the much abused lecture system. "The best method of instruction is neither the lecture system nor the discussion method, but a combination of the two. The emphasis may well vary with the subject; it should also be adjusted to the personality of the teacher. A good lecture does not aim to impart information. The students can get their information more quickly and more easily by reading the books assigned. The purpose of the lecture should be to present divergent points of view, to stimulate interest in the subject, and to draw the minds of the students into articulation with the lecturer's own chain of thought. The good lecturer thinks aloud, and his students tune in on the process. But the lectures should in all cases be supplemented by reading in a considerable range of books (not in one textbook merely), and the whole thing should then be threshed out by the student in discussion groups or at tutorial conferences. These conferences should come last, not first."

A volume of poems entitled "Rosy Thorn" from the pen of Mrs. Ellen Coit Elliot '82 has lately been published by the Stanford University Press. It is very favorably reviewed in The Stanford Illustrated Review for November.

In School and Society for November 29 Professor Benjamin R. Andrews '01 of Teachers College writes on "Collection of Moneys in the New York Public Schools."

PRAISE FOR BABCOCK

Andrew S. Wing, editor of Farm and Fireside, in the December number of that journal pays a deserved compliment to former Professor Harold E. Babcock and to Bruce N. Millard ’18. We quote a small part of the article: "H. E. Babcock is one of the best dairymen in the old Empire State. Babcock is a good deal, for New York boasts of loads of good dairymen and a lot of fine dairy farms. Give him a few more years—he started Inlet Valley Farms in 1919—and it will be difficult, in my opinion, to find his superior in New York State or among Guernsey breeders anywhere. He is the best dairyman I know anywhere, now, and here is the evidence:"

"First, Babcock and B. N. Millard have built up a fine herd of Guernseys whose records have set breeders talking all over the country, they having focused attention on a new type of Guernsey."

"Second, they have made their herd profitable purely from the standpoint of the commercial milk plant."

"Third, Babcock has attracted to his neighborhood other men who are cooperating with him in developing this new type Guernsey. Together they have solved the marketing problem by selling their milk at retail in the nearby city of Ithaca."

"Fourth, Babcock is manager of the Co-operative Orange League Federation Exchange, the organization which is purchasing each year about $8,000,000 worth of dairy feed, fertilizer, seed, and other supplies for the dairymen and farmers of New York and adjoining States. This exchange saves each participating member real money."

"Fifth, he is interested actively in practically every farmers' movement of importance in the State, and is an official in many of them. And the best of it is that wherever he lends a hand something genuinely useful to the farm folks of the Empire State is accomplished."

CLARENCE F. HIRSCHFIELD, M. M. E., '05, chief of research of the Detroit Edison Company, spoke before the juniors and seniors in Silhby on December 10 on "The Use of Pulverized Steam in a Steam Power Plant."

The CORNELL Alumni News Committee heard Professor Vladimir Karapetoff lecture on "The Power of Love and International Understanding," at its meeting on December 7. The lecturer also played several selections on the piano.

At the HINDI night meeting of the Cosmopolitan Club on December 13 Dr. Taraknath Das of New York was the chief speaker, his subject being "India's Place in World Politics and World Peace."
The Louvain University Library is the testimonial of 1,000,000 American students to their fellow students in Belgium and a memorial to the American students who gave their lives in the great war. The Foundation Company, is an organization of construction engineers specializing in the building of difficult superstructures and substructures. Whiskers used to be a regular part of the Congressional candidate's make-up.

Maybe he thought a full beard made him look enough like Blaine or Garfield to cause voters to take it for granted that he must have the qualifications that go with a high order of statesmanship.

It is more probable, however, that he allowed his whiskers to grow because he could not in his day have the shaving comfort that goes with Colgate's Rapid-Shave Cream for lathering.

In all but a few sad cases where collection is made under a Personal Bond, only a fractional amount of the loss is recovered. Within the current year a member of the House of Representatives of the United States made the statement that, while acting as Treasurer of a Middle-Western state, having in his custody state funds amounting at times to several million dollars, the only protection the state had was a Personal Bond of approximately $500,000, the signers of which could at no time have produced more than ten cents on the dollar.

It is estimated that two billion, two hundred and fifty million dollars would not liquidate the Personal Bonds recorded in the courts of the different commonwealths of the United States. If collection were forced under all these bonds it is certain that only a fractional recovery could be made.

As far back as 1894, the then Secretary of the Treasury of the United States reported that the Federal records showed uncollected and uncollectible judgments against Personal Sureties, aggregating more than thirty-five million dollars.

A Case in Point

Some years ago, the Treasurer of an Eastern state gave a bond signed by fifty Personal Sureties. He was subsequently discovered to have embezzled several hundred thousand dollars. Suits, entered by the state against his Sureties, dragged along for a number of years with the result that the whole affair was finally dropped, without the recovery of a dollar of the amount stolen.

The Corporate Surety, however, being dependent upon the good will of the public for its business, must and does pay legitimate claims promptly.

Plenty of time to send for Troy Calendars at $1.55 each.

Mail orders seem larger this year than usual. Troy's 1925 Calendar is fully up to his high standard and many think better than usual. The new picture of the Library on the cover is a good one. Other new pictures on the inside make it very desirable. An excellent Christmas present at a reasonable price.
