THE Legislature this year has allotted to the State Colleges of Agriculture and Veterinary Medicine, the sum of $1,728,630, of which $1,569,130 is for the College of Agriculture. About one million of this is for salaries and the remainder for maintenance. This amount is about $100,000 more than was granted last year. The Veterinary College received $135,000. Neither college received funds for new buildings, although an unexpended balance of $450,000 from last year’s building appropriation is still available for use by the College of Agriculture.

Northwestern University seems to be the best training ground for Cornell philosophy students. For the tenth year a student from there has received the graduate scholarship at Cornell, the honor having been awarded this year to Alston Householder of Grand Bay, Alabama. Last year’s went to Paul Flory, who has recently been made an assistant in philosophy at Cornell. Charles Morris, another Northwestern man, is also an assistant.

ARTISTS FROM ITHACA are appearing frequently in radio programs. On April 14, Mrs. Louise Bowman Ward, contralto, and Miss Viola Tuttle, soprano, soprano, both soloists in the Presbyterian choir, gave selections accompanied by C. Wesley Thomas ’23. Lynn Bogart, violinist, and Thomas Dager, cellist, were also on the broadcasting program of WFBL, Syracuse.

The Y. W. C. A. CABINET for 1925-26 was installed at a service held in Barnes Hall on April 15. Katharine L. Jacobs ’26 of Shattleing, Pennsylvania, is the new president; Alice M. Medway ’26 of Staten Island, vice-president; Barbara F. Cone ’27 of Unadilla, treasurer; and Miss J. L. White ’28 of Moravia, secretary.

A three-act musical comedy entitled “The Purple Mouse” was given by a group of undergraduates, on April 18, for the benefit of the C. U. C. A. Miss Ruth A. Northrop ’25 of Westfield wrote the book, and Joseph P. Sondheimer ’26 of Cleveland, the music. The play was followed by a dance.

The PRODUCERS of this year’s charity show, “The Cat’s Ankle,” the Misses Norma and Ariel Bement and Albert E. Milliken ’24, cleared $200 on the show and have sent the amount to the building fund of the Reconstruction Home.

Earl Carroll, prominent theatrical producer, stopped off in Ithaca a few minutes last week, on his flying trip from New York to Buffalo, and apparently thought that the layout of Ithaca, as seen from the air, is an ideal set. He carried a letter from Mayor Hylan to Mayor Schwab of Buffalo congratulating the latter city on the establishment of a community flying field.

CLARK N. BALDWIN, for over thirty years a prominent citizen of Ithaca, died on April 12 at the Clinton Springs Sanitarium after a long illness. He was the father of Harry C. Baldwin ’06, and conducted an undertaking business which was founded by his father here in 1865.

AFTER A YEAR OF NEGOTIATIONS, the State of New York has become the owner of two pieces of land which will become a part of Taughannock Falls State Park. One lot is of seventy-four acres and the other of sixty-five. One hundred acres in addition, including Taughannock Point, is under contract, and plans are under way for the acquisition of the site of the old hotel which burned two years ago. At last the mystery of Mrs. Rufol’s final resting place, which has been mentioned recently in these columns, seems to be settled. Definite proof has been given by a distant relative of Mrs. Rufol, that Rufol, just before he was hanged in Birmingham for another murder, confessed to his lawyer that he had weighed his wife’s body with heavy iron and thrown it into Cayuga Lake, near the Taughannock ravine, where the water is deepest. His daughter he gave to a family in Pennsylvania, where she grew up. The lawyer kept the secret for a long time, and then confided it to a cousin of Mrs. Rufol, but it was never made public until now.

Just before spring vacation Richard Beck, Grad., was married to Miss Bertha Samson, of Winnipeg, Canada, at the Lutheran Church of Ithaca. After a short honeymoon they will reside in Ithaca. Beck comes from Reykjavik, Iceland, and is president of the Cosmopolitan Club. He is this year a scholar in English.

THE TOWN and GOWN Club billiard championship has gone to Edward S. Preston, a local insurance man, as a result of his victory over Professor Calvin D. Albert ’02, in the annual handicap tournament, which has been running all winter at the clubhouse.

ITHACA TROLLEY CAR Number 33 tried a new one last week while going around the loop, and caught fire. Firemen saved the car from total loss but not before the floor and electrical installation under it had been badly damaged. The accident was caused from a short-circuit; no one on the car was hurt.

FRATERNITY HOUSES are suffering their spring pilfering. The sale of several suits of clothes in Elmira during the spring recess by Henry Quattrini of Linden Avenue, one of which bore the name of a person known to its buyer, led to investigation and the subsequent arrest of Quattrini. It was found that the clothing taken to Elmira was the same as that reported missing from the Alpha Sigma Phi House.

RUSSELL V. BLACK ’16 returns to Ithaca from San Francisco on April 27 for a stay of a few days to help further with the local city planning project and zoning ordinance for which he made surveys and recommendations last year. Black is one of the experts engaged in a regional planning survey of seven counties adjoining San Francisco, and will stop here on his way to attend the International City and Town Planning Conference in New York.

Lectures for the week included “Watteau and the Painters of Fête Galante au siécle,” illustrated, by Professor Louis Réaumur, official lecturer of the Alliance Française, on April 20; “The Place of the Voluntary Health Organizations in Public Health Work” by President Farrand, especially for the sophomore class, on April 20; “Soils and Migration: the Neglected Factor in American History” by Professor Archer B. Hulbert, professor of American History in Colorado College, under the joint auspices of the Goldwin Smith Foundation and the College of Agriculture, on April 23; and “Lower California,” illustrated, by Arthur W. North, on the Goldwin Smith Foundation, on April 24.

Seniors “swung out” at the Columbia game on Saturday for the first time in their official blazers of carnelian and gray. A larger proportion of the class than usual are said to have purchased blazers this year—they are fine things to show off in later before the summer resort ladies!

The Sack Chapel. Preacher for April 26 will be Dr. Rufus M. Jones, of the Society of Friends, professor of philosophy in Haverford College.

About one-fifth of the University’s productive investment is in steam railways securities, according to figures published by the public relations bureau of the Eastern railroads. The exact figure given is 21.1 per cent, or $4,199,032. Information from sixty-five colleges, universities, and technical schools shows that nearly thirty per cent of the total income producing endowment is invested in steam railways. Stanford has $15,907,000, or 49.8 per cent thus invested; Harvard, $13,681,39, or 31.8 per cent; Yale, $12,636,411, or 33.8 per cent; and Princeton, $7,437,040, or 51.3 per cent.
Forty-Eight Alumni are Judges and Public Attorneys in New York State for 1925. Ottaway, LL.B. ’09, Chautauqua; John C. Tracy ’06, Columbia; George M. Champlin, LL.B. ’01, Cortland; Frederick G. Paddock ’84, Franklin; Reuben L. Haskell, LL.B. ’98, Kings; George F. Bodine, LL.B. ’98, Seneca; Willard M. Kent, LL.B. ’98, Tompkins; Joseph M. Fowler, B.L. ’95, Ulster; Clyde W. Knapp, LL.B. ’93, Wayne; William F. Bleakley, LL.B. ’04, Westchester; and B. Benjamin Conable, A.B. ’01, Wyoming County.

County surrogates are Albert A. Bird Ph.B. ’91, Ph.D. ’93, Cattaraugus; Charles M. Harrington, LL.B. ’15, Clinton; John C. Evans, LL.B. ’98, Oneida; Clayton I. Miller, LL.B. ’93, Oswego; and George F. Kaufman, LL.B. ’12, Ulster.

The ten counties having Cornellians as district attorneys are Cayuga, Benn Kenyon, LL.B. ’07; Chemung, Walter B. Herendeen, LL.B. ’15; Cortland, Albert Haskell Jr., LL.B. ’15; Niagara, Mortimer A. Federespil, Ph.B. ’93, Ph.D. ’95, LL.B. ’97; Onondaga, Charles L. DeAngelis ’10; Ontario, Nathan D. Lapham, LL.B. ’95; Orange, Elmer H. Lemon, LL.B. ’12; Orleans, William H. Munson, LL.B. ’07; Seneca, Leon S. Church, LL.B. ’08; and Tompkins, Arthur G. Adams, LL.B. ’07.

County attorneys are George M. Tuttle, B.L. ’92, LL.B. ’93 in Niagara County; Harry N. Harrington, LL.B. ’08, Onondaga; Earle S. Warner, LL.B. ’05, Orleans, and Fred L. Clock, LL.B. ’89 in Tompkins.

SPORT STUFF

The baseball season was opened pleasantly by a victory over Columbia in the first game of the Quadrangle Cup Series. Perfect weather brought out a large and colorful crowd which ate peanuts, filled the bleachers to overflowing, behaved itself reasonably well, and enjoyed itself thoroughly. The fact that Cornell won and came from behind to do so helped.

In its initial appearance the team showed all kinds of baseball, including good. There was some stupid play and some particularly smart play. There was brilliant fielding and sloppy fielding. But all of the young men took a good healthy swing at the ball and hit it hard. Where that happens who cares about anything else.

Folks around here are hopeful. I don’t know about the crews. Nobody else does. I prefer to do my prophesying at the end of the season and not at the beginning.

CLUB HONORS TAUSSIG

The Cornell Club of Philadelphia at its annual meeting adopted the following resolutions on the death of John Hawley Taussig ’97, who died last month. Taussig was for many years a most active member of the Club.

"John Hawley Taussig ’97 died March 2, 1925.

"As an undergraduate he was active in every phase of University life. For two years he was wrestling champion, and for four years played end on the football team. He was a member of Delta Upsilon and of the honorary societies Apheic Samach and Sphinx Head.

"Upon his graduation he entered the employ of the United Gas Improvement Company of Philadelphia, where he continued until his death. He was as successful in his chosen profession as he had been in his undergraduate days. He was an inventor of rare ability and his patents for the manufacture of gas are largely employed in the business.

"He ever took the keenest interest in Cornell affairs. He attended every Cornell-Pennsylvania football game and participated in four of them. He was continuously a member of the Cornell Club of Philadelphia from the time he came to Philadelphia. His support could be counted upon for every Cornell activity. The University had no more loyal alumnus.

"The members of the Cornell Club of Philadelphia at their annual meeting desired here to record their appreciation of his life and their deep sorrow at his loss."

Steamer Horton Which Carried Cornellians for Thirty-Five Years Destroyed by Fire—Last of Lake Vessels

The steamer Horton, last of a number of passenger steamers which have plied Cayuga Lake within the memory of Cornellians, was destroyed by fire on the night of April 15. Many a Cornell party has she carried down the Lake to Crowbar, to say nothing of the excursions to dances at Glenwood and her years of service as finish boat for the races here, packed to her gunwales with supporters of the Cornell crews. Her charred hulk is a mute reminder that automobiles and locomotives are victors in the long race for supremacy in transportation. With the Glenwood road scheduled for repairs this season, cottagers along the west shore of the Lake whom the Horton has served for a number of years with supplies and transportation, are somewhat puzzled as to what should be done.

The boat was put in drydock near her berth at the west side of the Inlet last fall, and work had just begun on conditioning her for the coming season. The fire was first discovered in her stern about 11.30 at night and firemen worked all night trying to save the boat. The flames spread rapidly forward, fed by her pine decks and planking caulked with pitch, so that the entire deck and superstructure were swept away, leaving only the blackened hull.

The banks of the Inlet were thronged with people from Buffalo Street as far north as could be reached on foot and the burning craft cast spectacular reflections across the water. Shortly after firemen arrived the forward deck collapsed, sending flames and sparks skyward and increasing the danger to the firemen who were fighting the blaze at close range. Many small boats dotted the Inlet near the scene of the fire. Fanned by a stiff south wind, the flames and sparks from the burning deck for a time threatened the Cornell boathouse which is located a short distance north on the Inlet.

The Steamer Horton was built in 1890 by Charles Kellogg of Athens, Pennsylvania, and together with her sister ship, the Kellogg, plied Cayuga Lake as a passenger craft. At that time boating on Cayuga Lake was at its height and many steamers were in operation. On June 27, 1907, when the steamer Frontenac burned, the Horton held the lead with the Mohawk, Iroquois, Commanche, Kellogg, and City of Ithaca. The Mohawk, Iroquois, and Commanche were finally removed from the Lake, leaving the Kellogg, Horton, and City of Ithaca to fight the battle against the locomotive and automobile. The Kellogg burned at her pier in the Inlet some years ago, the Commanche was burned later, and the Horton was left to brave the dangers of abandonment alone.

For several years she has been kept on the Lake with diminishing profit to her... owners. Some years ago when the boat was offered for sale by Captain Roy Schurger, William O. Kerr '77 purchased the vessel that she might continue to serve the cottagers, but last year announced that she was not making expenses and would have to be withdrawn. At that time a corporation was organized to purchase the Horton and keep her in service. The directors elected were Mr. Kerr, Professor Henry N. Ogden '89, Edwin Gillette '73, Harry B. Hollenbeck '01, Ralph S. Kent '02, and William J. Crawford.

The boat was insured for $2,500. It is doubtful if she will be rebuilt.

'00 STARTS WELL

On the occasion of a visit to New York of the Class president, Charles C. West, men of 1900 met for an informal dinner at the Cornell Club, on April 13.

During the evening, the question was asked as to how many present expected to attend the twenty-five year reunion in June. Twenty-two said they were going.

President West appointed Gardiner S. Dresser to have general charge of the reunion with George Young, Jr., to look after preliminary arrangements in Ithaca.

ATHLETICS

Enter Three Crews in Races

The junior varsity eight will be entered in the Harvard regatta on the Charles on May 9, and in the races with Yale and Princeton at Derby, on the Housatonic River, on May 16. This expansion of the rowing program was sanctioned by the Committee on Student Affairs last week.

It will be the first time the junior eight has participated in these regattas, and the first time since the days when the Junior crew rowed occasionally in the American Henley that this eight has left Ithaca for any regatta except that of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association at Poughkeepsie. All three Cornell crews, varsity, junior varsity, and freshman, will row on the Charles and at Derby. In the varsity race at Cambridge Cornell will meet Harvard, Pennsylvania, and M. I. T. It is probable that all three of these institutions will also enter junior and freshman crews.

At Derby both Yale and Princeton will have crews in three races.

The enlargement of the rowing program is designed to stimulate competition and increase interest among the oarsmen, and is a step toward the rehabilitation of rowing at Cornell.

Beat Columbia at Baseball

The first game of the Quadrangle, Cup Series, played on Hoy Field last Saturday, was won by Cornell. The Red and White defeated Columbia by a score of 7 to 5 in a loosely played game, marked by free hitting. It was the first game of the home season, and the first victory over the Lions in several years.

In the pitchers' duel between Captain Von Brocklin of Columbia and Milligan of Cornell, the latter had the better of the argument, though he was hit safely nine times and was credited with one wild pitch. He had one bad inning, the sixth, when Columbia reached him for four hits. Otherwise he tightened up when in difficulty. Milligan also contributed to his own victory by some quick thinking in the second inning when he purposely dropped a bunt to open the way for a triple play, and he drove in two runs with long sacrifice flies.

Cornell got twelve hits off Captain Von Brocklin, four of them two-baggers. Shaw, with two two-base hits and Wendt with three singles led at the bat. The hitting was the bright feature from the Cornell point of view. The team showed traces of inexperience. There was careless work on bases, two men being caught off the bags.

Columbia threatened in the first when Rothenfeld and Trentacosti hit, but Rothenfeld was caught at the plate. In Cornell's half two runs were scored. Merritt doubled to left field and scored on two battery errors after Dupree walked. Baker singled to center, scoring Dupree.

Milligan showed fine baseball sense in the second inning by dropping Lorch's bunt and forcing Miller at third, Zegri at second and Lorch at first for a triple play.

Columbia got one run in the third on a fielder's choice, a scratch hit to short center by Rothenfeld and Stirling's passed ball, Von Brocklin tallying.
OBITUARY

John B. Higgs ’78

Word has just been received of the death on December 23, 1922 at Somerset, N. Y., of John Broad Higgs.

He was born in Brooklyn on March 22, 1856, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Higgs. After getting his early training there and in the old Ithaca Academy, he entered Cornell in 1874 as an optional student. He remained one year. He played second base on the Freshman baseball team and was a member of the Phila- dor Chess Club. After leaving Cornell he studied medicine and became a practicing physician in Somerset.

William B. Smith ’88

William Buzard Smith died suddenly of heart trouble at the home of his brother in Windber, Pa., on March 3.

He was born in North Lima, Ohio, on February 5, 1863, the son of Henry H. and Sannahtha Buzard Smith. After attending the public schools at Columbiana, Ohio, he went to Ohio State University in 1889 and remained one year. In 1895 he came to Cornell and graduated in 1888 with the degree of B.L. He was a member of Chi Phi, was editor of the Era in his senior year, played on the lacrosse team, was secretary and treasurer of Bench and Board, class prophet in his senior year, and president of Mermaid.

After leaving Cornell, he studied law under the late Judge Jacob Ambler in Salem, Ohio, and was admitted to the bar in 1899. In 1903 he was admitted to practice in the United States courts. For four years he practiced in Denver, Colo.; in 1894 he removed to Philadelphia, Pa., to engage in the wholesale dry goods and notions business. In 1902 he entered the retail firm of H. H. Smith and Sons Company at Columbiana. In 1898 he came to Windber, Pa., as general manager of the Eureka Stores of Pennsylvania, the New River and Pocahontas Stores, and the Windber Pure Ice Company.

During his lifetime he was active in civic matters in Windber and became known as a liberal giver to charitable work. He is survived by two brothers, George A. Smith, ’89, and H. E. Smith of Windber, and one sister, Mrs. S. S. Stewart of Columbiana, Ohio.

Mrs. Herman A. Liebig, Sp. ’88

Mrs. Alico Temple Liebig died in June, 1915, it has just been learned.

She was born at South Granville, N. Y., on March 3, 1862, the daughter of Truman and Sarah Welch Temple. After getting her early education at the Troy Conference Academy and the Vermont Academy, she entered Cornell in 1887 as a special student, remaining one year.

On December 12, 1887, she was married to Herman A. Liebig and they had three children, Herman A., Jr., Truman T., and Frederick W. Liebig.

Frank V. E. Bardol ’89

Frank Valentine Erhart Bardol died in the General Hospital at Buffalo, N. Y., on April 9, following an operation.

He was born at Erie, Pa., on June 12, 1869 and his parents moved to Buffalo two years later. He entered Cornell in 1885 as a student of civil engineering. In 1889 he was graduated with the degree of C.E. After leaving Cornell, he was an assistant engineer in the New York State Department of Public Works for three years and later was city engineer of Buffalo for four years. In 1903 he organized the Eastern Concrete Steel Company in Buffalo and was its president. In 1917 he became vice-president and general manager of the Rock Asphalt and Construction Corporation, vice-president of the Buffalo Drif- ing Company, president of the Erie Beach Company, the Niagara Ferry Transportation Company, and the Niagara and Fort Erie Railroad Company. He was also an officer or director of several other concerns.

He was a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, the Buffalo Club, the Buffalo Athletic Club, the Buf- falo Rotary Club, the Buffalo Orpheus, Washington Lodge, F. & A. M., the Buf- falo Consistory, Ismailia Temple, Zuleika Grotto, and the Buffalo Fraternal Order of Eagles.

In 1910 he was married to Miss Katherine Wagner, who survives him with three sons, Franklin, Edgar, and Robert Bardol.

Julius W. Loewenthal ’91

Belated word has come of the death on May 25, 1915, at Chicago, Ill., of Julius Loewenthal.

He was born in Chicago on April 27, 1870, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Loewenthal. He came to Cornell in 1888 as a student of law and graduated in 1891 with the degree of L.L.B. After graduation, he returned to Chicago and entered banking. In 1899 he was married to Miss Carrie Freudenthal, who survives him with three children, Richard J., Edith, and Edward J. Loewenthal.

William F. Hammond ’91

William Fuller Hammond died at his home in Boulder, Colo., on March 17 after a two weeks’ illness of heart trouble.

He was born at Rutland, N. Y., on May 20, 1866, the son of George W. and Fannie Sawyer Hammond. He entered Cornell in 1887 as a student of civil engineering and remained for two years.

In 1889 he went with the Kindehook and Hudson Railway and remained for two years, when he became a division engi- neer for the New York Central Railroad. After two years in this position, in 1897 he began two years of service as levelman for the United States Geological Survey.

In 1900, Hammond gave up engineering work to join F. M. Kirby & Company of Pottsville, Pa., which conducted five- and ten-cent stores. Later he went with the Woolworth Company and for many years was manager of its store in Pottsville. In 1920 he retired from active business and moved to Boulder, in the hope that his health might improve there.

He is survived by three daughters, Charlotte and Elizabeth Hammond of Boulder, and Mrs. R. O. West of Denver, Colo., in addition to a sister, Mrs. F. J. Weckesser of Wilkes Barre, Pa.

Henry B. P. Wrenn '96

Henry Bradley Plant Wrenn died in Cleveland, Ohio, on April 10.

In 1892 Wrenn came to Cornell from Atlanta, Ga., as a student of engineering and remained for four years. He was a member of Sigma Phi and of the Southern Club, of which he was secretary in his senior year. He was also a member of the Masque, Bench and Board, and of Mermaid, and vice-president of Fruija.

After leaving Cornell, he became known as a leader in the field of electrical engineering. He was engineer on electrification incidental to the building of the Grand Central Terminal in New York and at the time of his death was assistant electrical engineer for the Cleveland Union Terminals Company. He was twice married.

Frank C. Rinkle '01

Frank Currier Rinkle died on January 31, 1924, at Los Angeles, Calif., after a long illness of tuberculosis.

He was born in Boonville, N. Y., on August 31, 1877, the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Rinkle. After attending the Boonville High School he came to Cornell in 1897 to study medicine, but ill health forced him to leave soon after. In 1889 his health necessitated removal to the Pacific Coast. He was engaged in construction and engineering in the West and Northwest until illness forced him to give up active work.

Walter R. McGahren '17

Walter Ridgway McGahren died on May 22, 1916, at Wilkes Barre, Pa., it has just been learned.

He was born on October 1, 1891, at Wilkes Barre, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John McGahren. After attending Wilkes Barre High School and Fordham University, he entered Cornell in 1913 as a student of engineering, and remained one year. He then taught, and intended later to study law. While principal of the Mahanoy Township High School near Wilkes Barre, he became ill and died soon after at his home.

Hyman C. Levene '21

Hyman Charles Levene died in February, 1922.

He was born in New York on February 22, 1900, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Levene. After graduating from DeWitt Clinton High School, he entered Cornell in 1916 as an engineering student and graduated in 1921 with the degree of E.E.

CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS

CLUB ACTIVITIES

Cleveland Women

At the last meeting of the Cornell Women's Club of Cleveland, a luncheon on April 2, Miss Lucy A. Bassett '16 gave an interesting report of her work in a child clinic in Cleveland.

Miss Bassett will entertain the Club at its annual meeting in May.

Dutchess County, New York

Fourteen members of the Cornell Club of Dutchess County, New York, met at Poughkeepsie for supper on April 13 preceding the regular monthly business meeting of the Club. Plans were discussed for organizing a baseball team to challenge the local Pennsylvania Club and other similar organizations.

Philadelphia

At the annual meeting of the Cornell Club of Philadelphia, held on April 8 officers and directors were elected for the ensuing year.

They are: president, C. Redman Stull '07; vice-president, Willson H. Patterson '09; secretary, Frank A. Gerould '15; treasurer, Charles L. Maas '14; athletic representative, Hobart C. Young '10; directors, Benjamin O. Flick '02, Allen C. Fetterolf '19, Francis H. Scheets '16, Waldemar F. Fries '10, Richard E. Bishop '09, Frank Whiting '13, and Otto V. Kruse '09.

St. Louis

The Cornell Club of St. Louis entertained Professor Vladimir Karapetoff, of the School of Electrical Engineering, at a luncheon on April 14. Professor Karapetoff was in St. Louis to attend the convention of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. He attracted one of the largest groups of Cornell men that have ever attended a luncheon in that city.

At the convention Professor Karapetoff read a paper on "Initial and Sustained Short-Circuits in Synchronous Machines". Professor Karapetoff gives a recital and musical at the New National Museum in Washington on April 23. He gives the entertainment as the guest of the Cornell Alumni Society of Washington.

Northern California Women

Mrs. E. A. Bridgford (Emma Gertrude Payne) '04, retiring president of the Cornell Women's Club of the Bay Cities of California, is hostess to the Club at its annual meeting, held on April 17. At luncheon red and Easter illes combined Cornell colors with Easter decoration.

The new officers elected are: president, Mrs. Charles Aronovici (Florence Rosamond Parson) '05; vice-president, Mrs. Charles T. Morrison (Caroline Willard Baldwin) '05; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Mark Rifenbark (Florence Olive King) '09, 3152 Lewiston Avenue, Berkeley.

It was voted to change the name of the Club, which will now be known as the Cornell University Women's Club of Northern California. Mrs. Jacob J. Rosendale (Esther Toor) '10 was again appointed publicity secretary.

West-Central New York

Cornell men residing in the New York State counties of Ontario, Seneca, Wayne, and Yates will meet informally for dinner at the Hotel Seneca in Geneva on Wednesday, May 6. A delegation from Ithaca will join the party, including Romeyn Berry '04, R. Warren Sailor '07, Foster Coffin '12, and Harold Flack '12, together with some entertainers from the Glee and Savage Clubs.

The meeting is being arranged by a committee of six: Nathan D. Lapham '95 and Morris Tracy '09, of Geneva; Clarence R. Andrews '08, of Penn Yan; and John S. Gay '01, Milton R. Sanderson '12, and Thomas I. S. Bonk '14, of Seneca Falls.

Invitations have been sent to Cornell men in these four counties. Any who do not receive the letter should send their acceptance to Gay at Seneca Falls.

CORNELLIANS DELEGATES

Nine Cornell women were delegates of various branches of the American Association of University Women at the recent convention in Indianapolis on April 7 to 11. They were Mrs. Willard Beahan (Bessie DeWitt) '78, Cleveland, Ohio; Fredonia Allen '00, Indianapolis, Indiana; Pandira Crocker '89, Ann Arbor, Michigan; Dr. Martha Dean '96, Richmond, Indiana; Florence M. Foster '97, Chicago; Mrs. William H. Glasson (Mary Park) '03, Durham, North Carolina; Frances Na- pler '21, Bloomington, Illinois; M. Cary Thomas '77, Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania; Elizabeth L. Whittaker '05, Elmira, N. Y.

'09'S GAZETTE APPEARS

The Class of '09, which last year broke all Cornell reunion records with two hundred members back, has started preparations for this year's reunion with '10, '11, and '12 by publishing two numbers of The Back to Ithaca Gazette.

The first issue, published in March, was edited by Gustav J. Bequardt instead of the Life Secretary of the Class, Robert E. Treman, to whose work in getting the crowd back last year it was largely a tribute. It was filled with photographs taken at that time, with the men's group picture extending across front and back covers, and an illuminated copy of the testimonial resolutions adopted by the Class to "Bob."

The April issue, recently out, announces that of the 156 postcard inquiries sent to men who came back last year, 38 "Sure Are's" have been received, eleven "Hope To's," and ten "Impossible's." The fund of $2,000 which the Class is raising for a portrait of Dean Crane has so far received $638 in subscriptions. The Gazette is full of plans for and letters about the coming sixteen-year reunion on June 12, 13, and 14, 1925.
Published weekly during the college year and for the year in August; forty issues annually. Issue No. 1 is published the last Thursday of September. Weekly publication (numbered consecutively) ends the last week in June. Issue No. 40 is published in August and is followed by an index of the entire volume, which will be mailed on request.

Subscription price $4.00 a year, payable in advance. Foreign postage 40 cents a year extra. Single copies ten cents each.

Should a subscriber desire to discontinue his subscription or change that address, to that effect should be sent in before its expiration. Otherwise it is assumed that a continuance of the subscription is desired. Checks, drafts and orders should be made payable to Cornell Alumni News.

Correspondence should be addressed:

A DESIRABLE JUNKET

Presidents of the alumni association, whether of the reformed Alumni Corporation or of the earlier Alumni Association, have been, on the whole, conspicuous for their attention to their duties. The failure of the general association to take complete leadership in alumni affairs in the past has not been from weakness on the part of its executives.

During a succession of strong administrations, however, it is interesting to observe the activity of the alumni association. Archie Burnett, present president, who last left was reported having made a tour of Cornell clubs from Philadelphia to St. Louis, visiting and addressing twelve clubs on the trip.

In so much as Cornell clubs are the basic unit of the new Corporation it is quite logical that the president should know what mere organization it comprises. While Mr. Burnett made the trip on his own initiative and at his own expense, the success of the expedition leads one to hope that the Corporation may soon commit the president to such a trip by including it in the oath of office and the budget.

HAYLIFORD VICTORIA MEDALIST

We are indebted to Professor Henry S. Hayford, who is now in Washington, for the reminder that the Geographical Journal for July last included the report of the award of the Victoria Medal to the late Dean John F. Hayford '89, of Northwestern, and for the following excerpt from that publication:

The Victoria Medal is given as an award for conspicuous merit in scientific research in geography, and it is not every year that it is awarded. On this occasion, however, your Council have not hesitated to assign it to John F. Hayford for his work on the subject of isostasy. The word "isostasy" does not occur in the statement of the award of the Victoria Medal to Sir Sidney Burberr in 1913, it is the fact that his scientific work in Indian geodesy was deeply concerned with this problem. It was left, however, for Mr. Hayford of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey to put the theory for the first time upon a world-wide basis. He took up the subject at Washington back in 1898, and in 1906 presented his results to the Budapest meeting of the International Geodetic Association. At the next meeting of the Association held in London three years later he presented a report which has since become a classic of geodesy. The whole question came under discussion at one of our afternoon meetings in January last. It will be within your recollection that the outstanding features of that discussion were a wide acceptance of the theory, and a general recognition that its establishment was due more to Mr. Hayford than to any other one man. Indeed one speaker of authority went so far as to declare that "the work of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey in putting the theory upon its present basis is one of the outstanding scientific achievements of our time."
LITERARY REVIEW

An Atlas of English Literature
By Clement Tytico Goode, Ph.D. '20, Professor of English in the University of Richmond, and Edgar Finley Shannon, Ph.D., Professor of English in Washington and Lee University. New York. The Century Company. 1925. 30 cm., pp. x, 136.

This is an excellent idea well carried out. There are nine maps, five being of England in different periods, and the others being of Scotland, Ireland, London, and Italy in relation to English authors. With each map there goes a list of authors of the particular scene, and under each author are letter-and-figure references to the map. At the end there are lists of places and names of prominence have been omitted or overlooked. The maps come out very well, and large type is used throughout the letter-press.

The book should have wide use. It will do much to give students a sense of the connection of the author with his geographical environment. If Taine was not altogether right in his thesis that literature is chiefly a product of environment, including climate, he nevertheless came nearer the truth, perhaps, than some of us are accustomed to think. Imagine Tennyson a mountain bard or Wordsworth a poet of the slums; at once you begin to see what their backgrounds meant to them.

Another Scott Burton Story

It is a pleasure to read another first rate boys' story from the pen of Professor Edward G. Cheyne. The Scott Burton books have been made for their author a recognized place among writers of this class of fiction.

The present volume is a further account of the adventures of Scott Burton, the young forester, in the mountains of North Carolina. A New Englander by birth and training, but having had some experience in the West, young Burton is sent to this particular job because he has gained a reputation in the service for having handled successfully some very ticklish situations in other parts of the country.

Here in the Blue Ridge was a long-standing and fierce feud between two mountain families, or one might say tribes, as practically everyone in the locality was related to and so lined up with one side or the other. Cleverness, quick wits, and honest determination to straighten things out squarely are the qualities which bring young Burton's efforts to successful accomplishment. The mountain characters of Hopwood, Sewall, Jarred Morgan, and Foster Wait stand out in dramatic clearness against a background of scenic beauty which gives an atmosphere of romantic picturesque to the entire narrative.

Much interest is added to the story by the realistic picture of the ways and methods of procedure of the Government forestry work.

Whiskers Cease to Trouble

Kind men, brave men, and wise men have permitted their beards to spread with little regard for zoning restrictions, but it must be conceded that most of them were actuated by nobler things than vanity.

Whiskers never improved the appearance of any man who was not deformed or disfigured. When they were swished by the passing breezes their growth, in most instances, was permitted because shaving was difficult, owing to a lack of anything for making an effective lather.

Now there is no reason for letting whiskers come out into the open or for keeping the fluctuating Adam's apple under cover.

COLGATE'S Rapid-Shave Cream

softens the beard at the base, where the razor's work is done. It makes shaving easy, and leaves the face soothed and velvety.

There is no need of doing any smearing work with the fingers when you shave with Colgate's. Press half an inch of the cream upon your wet brush, and work up the lather on your face.

The softening effect of the lather upon the beard is almost instantaneous, and your shave is simplified.

Daily shaving has become a business, as well as a social requirement.

A BOOK of VIEWS OF CORNELL

This beautiful volume (12 x 7) contains 132 of the finest photographs of Cornell—its campus, its gorges and waterfalls, and its activities. The book is printed by a new process on beautiful Alexandria Japan deckle-edge paper and bound in heavy art leather. It is a book you will treasure.

Through the generosity of a group of Alumni, who have contributed material and labor, the book is now available at less than half the price which would ordinarily be charged. Any income that may be derived from the sale will be given to the University.

Electricity Means Better Work

The Woodstock Electrite, newest member of the Woodstock family, has all the features that distinguish the standard Woodstock machine, plus the speed and ease of electrical operation. It is a revelation in typewriter efficiency and high grade character of work. Send for booklet which describes both the Electrite and the standard Woodstock machine.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

The Columbia Library now numbers more than a million volumes. Last year 144 Ph. D. theses and 475 master's essays were written at Columbia and deposited in the library.

The Princeton Class of '13, with 373 members, which Alexander Hamilton Institute used as the basis for a recent advertisement in alumni magazines, is earning more money than the newspaper from which their figures were taken gives them credit for. The newspaper, and consequently the advertisement, gave 186 men as earning less than $2,000 a year each. Subsequent investigation showed that only nine could be thus classified. Since the newspaper makes no effort to correct the error, the Institute offers a letter of correction, stating that at the time the statistics were used only nine were earning less than $2,000 each.
