Reunion Plans Develop

Representation of Classes Will Be Wide—'69 May Make 100 Per Cent Attendance Mark

The annual invasion of Ithaca by the reunion classes will this year bring representatives from a wider range than ever before. The confident hope that '69 will be present in full force, with both Charles F. Hendryx of Cincinnati and John A. Rea of Tacoma counted present, the first time that any class will have had its complete representation, has its sequel at the other end of the line in the elaborate preparations which are being made by '26, just two years out of college. The two class secretaries for '26, Don Ferris for the men and Frances Eagan for the women, are already laying claim to high records for reunion attendance. If '69 makes good in this effort to have both members back, '26 will probably have to take second place in the struggle for the cup given to the class which has the largest proportion of its total membership. But in numbers alone, there is every indication that the high scores of other years will be beaten this June by the two-year class.

Reunions will be held this year by the following classes, although in the case of '16, '17, and '19 the reunion will be by the women alone. The men of those classes are centering all of their attention upon the ten-year reunions, and are not celebrating this year under the Dix Plan.

The classes: '73, '78, '79, '83, '88, '97, '98, '99, '00, '03, '08, '13, '16, '17, '18, '19, and '26.

The general trend of reunions is toward the Dix Plan, and away from the old quinquennial. This trend is particularly noticeable in the cases of classes which have been out of college more than twenty-five years. Although no effort is being made by any agency to supplant the quinquennial reunion with the Dix reunion, the custom seems to be leading to the conclusion that although there will probably always be celebrations of reunions at the end of ten, fifteen, twenty-five, and fifty years, there will not in the future be so much significance attaching to the reunions of twenty, thirty, thirty-five, forty, and forty-five years.

Whether under the Dix Plan or the quinquennial, two of the most important reunions are always those of the fifty and twenty-five year classes. This year will be no exception. '78 is one of the stronger classes of the earlier Cornell days, and its strength will be reflected in the reunion which is being arranged by Dean Albert W. Smith and Robert H. Treman. The twenty-five year reunion of '03 will undoubtedly be a distinctive celebration. Seldom has a Cornell reunion had so much thought and time expended on it. Edward Burns as general chairman and Raymond P. Morse as secretary have the interests of the men pretty well covered, while Mrs. Ernest P. Waud (Olive B. Morrison) is taking care of the women.

The Dix Plan will be celebrated in complete form by the combined classes of '97, '98, '99, and '00. Although the classes will have their individual celebrations, much of the reunion time will be spent together, in joint dinners, golf tournaments, and other common interests. These four classes will carry their union even to the point of similar uniforms. They will also have one joint band which will play for the four classes.

'13 will play a particularly important role this year. As the fifteen-year class it will be the host to the other classes, particularly at the rally in Bailey Hall on Saturday night, June 16. The arrangements for the fifteen-year class are in the hands of John E. Whinery and Mrs. Leonard C. Urquhart (Jane D. McKelway).

The official reunion days will be Friday and Saturday, June 15 and 16. The wise alumni, however, will not only plan to arrive on Thursday, when the Musical Clubs concert and other events will be held, but will plan to stay through Sunday and Monday. Old timers who have been through many reunions consider Sunday the best day of all. Monday is the general winding up of the college year, with Commencement exercises held in Bailey Hall.

MAY HEAD COMMITTEE

George R. Van Namee '02, member of the New York State Public Service Commission and the manager of Governor Alfred E. Smith's pre-convention campaign, is foreseen in Democratic political circles as the next chairman of the Democratic National Committee, if the Governor receives the nomination for the Presidency.

Van Namee has been active in Democratic politics for the past twenty years, during which period he served for a time as secretary to the Governor and as his close political adviser. He has also served as secretary of the Democratic State Committee.

General Ely a Visitor

Commanding Officer of Second Corps Area Visits Cornell R. O. T. C. on Tour of Inspection

Major General Hanson E. Ely, commanding the Second Corps area, visited Cornell on May 2 for a personal inspection of the Military Department. His visit was the first of an officer of high rank in recent years.

A feature of the inspection was the Field Artillery Battery firing practice conducted on the east shore of Cayuga Lake several miles north of the city. An Army observation plane flew to Ithaca from Mitchell Field, L. I., to take part in the firing practice, and artillery problems were worked out by the cadets through radio communication with the airplane directing fire.

General Ely arrived by train from New York and breakfasted at Willard Straight Hall before he proceeded to the Drill Hall. Upon his arrival there, a battery fired a salute of thirteen guns. The Officers of the R. O. T. C. were presented to him before an inspection of the Drill Hall began.

A luncheon with Col. Joseph W. Beacham '97 as host, and dinner, at which reserve officers were hosts, were given in General Ely's honor during the day. He also attended the Cornell-Syracuse base ball game on Hoy Field.

General Ely has a distinguished record, his service beginning at West Point where he was graduated in 1891. He served in the Spanish-American War, in the Philippines, at foreign capitals as a military observer, and in the World War.

From the rank of colonel at the beginning of the World War, he rose to the rank of major general. He received numerous decorations for bravery, and he commanded the Fifth Division when the Armstice was signed. Although he reverted to a colonel's rank upon his return to this country, he soon won a permanent commission as a major general. Late in 1927 he became the commanding officer of the Second Corps area with headquarters at Governor's Island.

In an interview, he discussed briefly compulsory drill in the colleges. His view on the question is simple: Students who object "do not need to go" to institutions where drill is compulsory. He does believe that those colleges, established in part through land grants, should carry on the agreement to provide drill.

Fill Trustee Vacancies

J. DuPratt White '90 and Cuthbert W. Pound '87 Elected—Several Faculty Appointments

J. DuPratt White '90 and Cuthbert W. Pound '87 were elected by the Board of Trustees on May 5 to board memberships to fill the vacancies caused by the death of Ira A. Place '81 and the resignation of S. Sidney Shepherd.

George E. G. Catlin, assistant professor of political science, was named a full professor. Norman W. DeWitt, professor of Latin in and dean of Victoria College, University of Toronto, was named acting professor of classics for one year. Professor Carl Stephenson of the University of Wisconsin was named acting professor of medieval history for the first term of 1928-29. D. L. Finlayson, lecturer on fine arts at Wells College, who has been lecturing at Cornell this term, received a three year appointment as assistant professor of fine arts.

Professor Robert E. Cushman, who is absent on leave this term, was appointed Goldwin Smith Professor of Government. A. D. Seymour, visiting lecturer in architecture, was appointed professor of architecture.

Bids for the War Memorial group of dormitories will be opened on May 22, following approval by the Trustees of a report of the Committee on Buildings and Grounds in which final plans for the group were presented.

The Board also passed a resolution of regret on the death of Professor Isaac P. Roberts, first dean of the College of Agriculture.

ATHLETICS

Nine Wins Two

The Cornell baseball team kept its Quadrangle Cup League lead with its second victory of the season over Columbia, 6-5, at New York May 4, after it had scored a 6-5 win over Syracuse on Hoy Field on May 2. At Princeton May 5, Cornell lost to the Tiger nine, 7-4.

Against the Syracuse nine, Cornell used three pitchers, Boies, although he left the mound at the end of the sixth inning, getting credit for the victory. The Red and White batsmen were held to eight hits but Syracuse errors aided Cornell's scoring.

Against Columbia Cornell scored all its runs in the seventh inning. Columbia was leading, 4-0, when the burst of Red and White scoring changed the outcome.

The inning started when Gichner was safe on an error, Froelich singled, and Cooper was hit by a pitched ball. With the bases loaded, Balderston singled, scoring Gichner. McConnell doubled to center and reached third base on the play, scoring three men. McConnell tallied on Crosby's single. Hebert forced Crosby at second and then scored on Gichner's single.

Cornell failed to keep up its hitting streak in the Princeton game, Layton holding the Red and White to five hits. Lewis, hurling for Cornell, gave three hits and a pass in the second, Princeton getting three runs. Cornell tied the score in the fourth with three tallies on two hits and two passes.

Two runs in each of the fifth and sixth innings gave the Tigers the game, for Cornell's rally in the eighth produced only one score.

Win First Spring Meet

With clean sweeps in six events and twelve first places, Cornell defeated Massachusetts Institute of Technology on track and field at Cambridge May 5, 104-31. Technology won the 220-yard dash, the 880-yard run, and the javelin throw.

Cornell's hurdlers, distance runners, and weight men starred in the meet, for Technology's entries failed to place in the high and low hurdles, the mile and two-mile runs, the hammer throw, and the shot put.

Treman provided one of the upsets in the 440-yard dash, when he defeated Captain Meagher of M. I. T. in 0.52 1-5. Rhodes of Cornell won the 100-yard dash and the running broad jump and finished second in the 220-yard dash to score thirteen points for Cornell.

Crawford, a Cornell junior entered in the weights, finished second in the hammer and javelin throws. Wright of Cornell won the hammer throw with a toss of 154 feet 9 1-2 inches.

The finish of the two-mile run was a dead heat among Benson, Levering, and Beaman of Cornell. McKaig set a fast pace to lead his teammates, Eldridge and Brumder, to the tape in the mile.

The summaries:

100-yard dash: won by Rhodes (C); second, Eckert (C); third, Jandris (T). Time, 11seconds.

220-yard dash: won by Ladd (T); second, Eckert (C); third, Rhodes (C). Time, 23 ⅘ seconds.

120-yard high hurdles: won by Wells (C); second, Caruthers (C); third, Schultz (C). Time, 16 ⅗ seconds.

22-yard low hurdles: won by Beyer (C); second, Caruthers (C); third Young (C). Time: 26 ⅕ seconds.

440-yard run: won by Treman (C); second, Meagher (T); third, Bryon (C). Time, 52 ⅘ seconds.

880-yard run: won by Fay (T); second, Dulaff (C); third, Berry (T). Time, 2.02 ⅕.

One-mile run: won by McKaig (C); second, Eldridge (C); third, Brumder (C). Time, 4.36 ⅗.

Two-mile run: dead heat among Levering, Beaman and Benson of Cornell. Time, 10.10 ⅕.

Pole vault: won by Williams (C); second, tie between Jack of Tech and Nydegger of Cornell. Height, 12 feet 6 ¼ inches.

Hammer throw: won by Wright (C); second, Crawford (C); third, Weis (C). Distance, 154 feet 9 ½ inches.

Shot put: won by Levy (C); second, Anderson (C); third, Wickham (C). Distance, 46 feet 1 inch.

Javelin throw: won by McCarthy (T); second, Crawford (C); third, Parker (C). Distance, 172.25 feet.

Running high jump: won by Keats (C); second, Costello (T); third, Berry (C). Height, 5 feet 10 inches.

Running broad jump: won by Rhodes (C); second, Zigler (T); third, Brumder (C). Distance, 21 feet 10 ⅝ inches.

Discus throw: won by Anderson (C); second, Gray (T); third, Firman (C). Distance, 138 feet 7 inches.

THE OFFICERS Photos by Troy

Major P. V. Kane of the Department of Military Science at Cornell is indicating the progress of fire to Major General Ely on the map. Major Ralph Hospital, also of the Department of Military Science, is standing at General Ely's left, with his back to the camera, and directly behind him is Colonel Joseph W. Beacham '97, the commandant.

THE CLUBS

Buffalo

The Club entertained the championship Fosdick-Masten basketball team on April 5 at the Statler Hotel. This team was runner-up to Syracuse Central High School in the New York State championships. Coach Al Seelbach, who was present with his team, is a Cornell man by adoption as his two brothers are recent graduates.

President Frederick C. Backus '14 welcomed the guests and introduced Louis W. Simpson '96, who spoke briefly on the history and ideals of Cornell. He was followed by Carl F. Wedell '24 and James B. Wilson '19, who gave short talks on athletics at Cornell. Coach Seelbach responded for the team.

Lafayette High School of Buffalo and Kenmore High School of Kenmore were also well represented by members of their basketball teams.

Hawaii

The Club meets regularly for luncheon on the second Thursday of each month. The luncheons are usually held at the University Club of Honolulu, but visiting Cornell men, who are welcome to the luncheons, should communicate with the secretary at the office of American Factors, Limited, or with any other alumnus in Honolulu. At the last monthly meeting, held on April 12, twenty members were present.

The officers of the club for the current year are: president, J. Lewin Renton '12; vice-president, Stanley Mott-Smith '19; secretary-treasurer, William W. G. Moir '18.

A special Committee on Relations with Preparatory Schools consists of George D. Crozier '24, City and County Attorney's Office, Honolulu, and R. Alexander Anderson '16, Von-Hamm Young Company, Limited, Honolulu.

Louisville

The Club, recently revived as a result of the visit of Thomas J. Mcfadden '22 from the Alumni Office, held an informal dinner at the Pendennis Club on April 7. Warren M. Shallcross '06 presided, and among the guests were several undergraduates now at Cornell, six boys in the graduating classes of the Louisville high schools, and the coaches of the two high schools.

The speakers were the two coaches, Neal A. Arnston and Howard Johnston, Prof. Ernest P. Chapin '93, principal of the Manual Training High School, and Lewis P. Seiler '28, president of the Student Council at Cornell. Reels of Campus scenes, sent from the Alumni Office, concluded the program.

The Club voted to present a silver cup, given in honor of Coach John F. Moakley and to be known as "The Cornell Track Trophy," to the two local high schools. It is to become the permanent possession of either school winning the annual dual track meet the best three out of five years.

New York Women

The Club will hold a picnic supper at the Barbizon Hotel on Saturday, May 12, at four o'clock.

There will be a short business meeting, during which the officers for the coming year will be elected. After the meeting Elsie Armstrong, an adept at card reading, will tell fortunes, and Anne Otell, a student of psychology, will do palm reading.

Philadelphia

The Club entertained Coach John F. Moakley when he was in Philadelphia on Friday, April 27, for the Pennsylvania Relays.

The Club is making rapid progress this year, the membership now numbering over 350. One of the recent acquisitions is a radio in the Club House.

Andrew R. McCown '13, president of the Club, has appointed the following committee chairmen: entertainment, C. Rodman Stull '07; finance, William H. Keeler '16; membership, Wilson H. Patterson '09; publicity, Howard H. Ingersoll '15; and house, Howard V. Whitney '09.

Plainfield

The Club met on April 11 at the home of Donald F. McClure '20. The speaker of the evening was Maxwell M. Upson '99 of New York, Alumni Trustee, who told of recent developments at the University of particular interest to alumni. Motion pictures, sent down from Ithaca by the Alumni Representative, were shown.

FELLOWSHIP IS AWARDED

Ralph T. Seward '27 has been appointed to a fellowship of the National Council on Religion in Higher Education, one of fourteen appointments recently announced at the Ithaca headquarters of the council. Since his graduation he has been in Geneva, Switzerland, making a first-hand study of the League of Nations and international relations. He has been enrolled in the Geneva Institute of International Relations.

Among the Cornellians who now hold fellowships are Victor L. Butterfield '27, Paul M. Flory, Grad., assistant in philosophy, Julian Woodward, assistant professor of sociology, Rev. Hugh Moran, Presbyterian student minister at Cornell, Miss Mary E. Cox, Y.W.C.A. secretary, and T. P. Carpenter, associate executive of the Cornell University Christian Association.

The directors of the Council include Professor Jeremiah W. Jenks, former member of the Cornell Faculty, chairman, President Farrand, and Roger H. Williams '95. Richard H. Edwards, executive secretary of the C.U.C.A., is also executive secretary of the Council.

McFadden '22 Resigns

Becomes Special Assistant in Attorney General's Office, Leaving Post of Field Secretary

Thomas J. McFadden '22, LL.B. '25, has resigned his position with the University to become special assistant to the United States Attorney General. He has gone to Washington to undertake his duties as personal aide to Colonel William J. Donovan, who is director of the Anti-Trust Division of the Department of Justice.

Since December McFadden has held the newly created post of field secretary from the office of the Alumni Representative. A chief duty of his office has been to convey to alumni in various parts of the country an accurate impression of the University, and in turn to transmit to the University ideas and information from the alumni. This contact with alumni had no connection whatever with money-raising. It was concerned principally with the organization of new local clubs and the further development of clubs already in operation.

In addition to two extended trips—one as far south as Miami and New Orleans, the other as far west as Omaha—McFadden has visited several alumni centers in the East. He has addressed not merely old and new Cornell Clubs for a total of fifty-one meetings, but high school and junior college audiences as well.

On the Western trip from which McFadden has but recently returned he attended meetings with alumni in the following cities: Wilkes-Barre, Lancaster, Harrisburg, and Pittsburgh; Columbus, Canton, Akron, Toledo, and Cleveland; Indianapolis, St. Louis, and Kansas City; Omaha and Lincoln; Ames, Des Moines, and Davenport; Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo, and Rochester. He has addressed separate meetings of Cornell women in St. Louis, Detroit, Akron, Ithaca, and New York.

STUDENT RESCUED FROM LAKE

E. W. Kettering '31 of Dayton, Ohio, thrown from his speedboat as he attempted a sharp turn near the lighthouse, was rescued from Cayuga Lake on April 30 by James Wray, Sr., head coach of the crews. The rescue was effected with Kettering almost completely exhausted from his efforts to keep afloat in the water.

Witnesses of the accident telephoned to the Cornell boathouse, and Coach Wray, accompanied by James K. Hall '29 of Lexington, manager of the crews, and Howard O. Aigeltinger '30 of York, Pa., started from the boathouse in "The Old Man," the Cornell launch. He was hauled into the launch by the coach and taken back to the boathouse. He was taken in an automobile to his fraternity house and then to the Infirmary. He suffered no serious ill effects.

BOOKS

Walter Kerr

A Biography of Walter Craig Kerr. By Albert W. Smith '78. With 4 Illustrations. New York. The American Society of Mechanical Engineers. 1927. 22.5 cm., pp. xvi, 191.

Dean Smith is already well known in engineering literature as the biographer of John Edson Sweet (see our issue for April 9, 1925). He has now placed engineers in general and Cornellians in particular under further obligation for his life of Walter Kerr. The book is exactly what we all expect from Uncle Pete—well written, the thorough job of a highly competent engineer, yet something more—a work marked by a large humanity and the touch of a humanist and poet.

The book is made up of two parts, the first the biography proper (108 pages), the second (78 pages) made up of a well chosen selection from Mr. Kerr's public addresses.

Walter Craig Kerr '79 was undoubtedly one of the greatest engineers ever graduated from Cornell. He helped to build up the great organization of Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Company, "He was also for three years a teacher of engineering; he was a yachtsman who applied brains to sailing; he was an enthusiastic amateur biologist; a loyal citizen working for the welfare of his community; a lover of poetry and music; a writer of verse." For Uncle Pete this is no anticlimax; nor will it be for anyone who cares about or knows anything of the architectonics of literature.

Born in St. Peter (unsuccessful rival with St. Paul for the distinction of capital of Minnesota), on November 8, 1858, Walter Kerr was descended from an earlier Walter Ker who was banished from Scotland in 1685 for his very decided religious views. The father of Walter Kerr was a home missionary of the Presbyterian Church. The boy grew up on the then frontier, a sturdy, manly youth, "with an eager mind, a warm heart, and a developing love of beautiful things both from the hand of God and from the thought and skill of man."

It was Walter Kerr's mother who selected far-away Cornell for her son's alma mater. In 1875 Cornell was a small, poorly equipped university of five hundred thirty-two students and a faculty of forty-three. Small though it was, however, this Faculty boasted such names as Andrew D. White, Goldwin Smith, Theodore W. Dwight, James Russell Lowell, Burt G. Wilder, Willard Fiske, Bayard Taylor, and John Edson Sweet. Walter Kerr was an excellent all-round student. He could not only impress his engineering instructors but also present a creditable poem at Psi Upsilon literary meetings. He was not altogether unknown as a harmless practical joker, and some good yarns have come down to us as to his ingenuity in this line.

After a notably successful career at Cornell, both as a student an as an instructor in engineering, young Kerr left in 1882 to engage in engineering practice, He at once became identified with the Westinghouse interests; and on November 1, 1884, the firm of Westinghouse, Church, Kerr, & Company was organized. Walter Kerr jocularly remarked that probably he should ultimately boss the new concern, since it had adopted his initials. The prophecy "was to be completely fulfilled."

The history of the development of this great engineering organization is most interesting. One of its undertakings was the construction of the South Station in Boston. Its greatest undertaking was the Pennsylvania Station in New York, on which the firm did everything except the tunnels under the Hudson. Kerr was also chairman of the commission which drafted the plan for the removal of the West Side freight tracks from Tenth and Eleventh Avenues and other New York streets.

But limitations of space forbid further notice of this work. It is a portrait of a large-hearted, keen-brained, vigorous personality—a "human dynamo," but one who made much of life and who loved his fellow-men. Cornell will always be proud of the name of Walter Craig Kerr, to whose memory Dean Smith does full justice.

Books and Magazine Articles

In The Nebraska Alumnus for April there is an article by Dean Henry H. Foster '98 of the Nebraska Law School on "Moot Courts Bolster Freshman Law Interest," accompanied by a portrait of the writer. There is also a portrait and brief sketch of Professor Madison Bentley, Ph.D. '98, Nebraska '95, who becomes Sage Professor of Psychology here next year.

"Young America Travels Abroad" by Mrs. Marjorie Barstow Greenbie '12 and Helen Lawrence Davis has just appeared from the press of the Frederick A. Stokes Company of New York.

In Current History for April Leo Gershoy '19 writes on "Nationalism's Challenge and Menace."

A bill to provide for the furthur development of vocational education in the several States, introduced into the House by Representative Daniel A. Reed '98 has been reported favorably by the House Committee on Education. The text of the bill is printed in School and Society for April 7.

The Illinois Alumni News for April includes a portrait and sketch of Professor Edmund L. Worthen, M.S.A. '08, Illinois '04, whose book on "Farm Soils: Their Management and Fertilization" has just appeared from the press of John Wiley and Sons.

OBITUARIES

Timothy S. White '73

Timothy Sidney White died on April 15 in Los Angeles, Calif.

He was born in New Brighton, Pa., seventy-four years ago, the son of Timothy B. and Olive Howland White. He received the degree of B. C.E. He was a member of the Tom Hughes Boat Club.

He was for many years consulting engineer and vice-president of the Penn Bridge Company. He had also served as vice-president of the Beaver Falls Tile Company.

He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Annie A. Appleton, and a son, Samuel A. White.

John E. Everitt '87

Dr. John Elmer Everitt died on February 28 at the Arnot Ogden Hospital in Elmira, N. Y.

He was born in Burlington, Pa., on June 11, 1862, the son of John A. and Harriet Greatsinger Everitt. He spent two years here taking the medical preparatory course. He graduated from the College of the City of New York in '87.

For the last twenty years he had been practicing medicine in Sayre, Pa., and was physician of the Sayre schools.

He is survived by three sons, John, Edward, and Thomas, and a daughter, Miss Frederica D. Everitt.

Alexander D. Lunt '92

Alexander Drummond Lunt died on April 25 at the Marlborough-Blenheim Hotel in Atlantic City, N. J., following a stroke of paralysis. He had been in poor health for more than a year.

He was born in Portland, Me., a son of Wilbur D. Lunt, former United States District Attorney in Maine. He received the degrees of M.E. and M.M.E. from Cornell. He was a member of Sigma Chi.

He had been with the General Electric Company since 1898 and at the time of his death was head of the company's patent department.

He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Pauline Tyson of New Pork.

Charles L. Johnson '99

Charles Leo Johnson died last August 24 in Pittsfield, Mass., following an operation for appendicitis.

He was born in Chicago on January 1, 1873, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Johnson. He received the degree of M.E.

At the time of his death he was office procedure engineer in the office of the controller of manufacture of the Western Electric Company in New York. He had been with the company since 1899.

He is survived by his wife and four children, Grace Edith, Charlotte Mary, Charles L. Jr., and Edward Harold Johnson.

MODEL LEAGUE MEETS

The second annual model Assembly of the League of Nations was held at Cornell May 4 and 5, with 250 students from seventeen Eastern colleges and universities in attendance as representatives of the various constituencies of the League.

The Assembly elected Darragh de Lancey of Princeton president, and Warren L. Worden '29 of Enid, Okla., was elected one of the six vice-presidents. President Farrand, acting as president of the Council of the League of Nations, opened the Assembly session and welcomed the delegates.

Sir Herbert Ames, former financial director of the League, was one of the principal guests and gave two lectures during his stay. Speaking in Bailey Hall on "The Changing Spirit of Europe," he declared that recent events at Geneva, "the ideal place to watch the changing attitude of nations," have tended "to make the League a real force towards world peace."

"At first," he added, "the League seems to influence only the little nations, but gradually the big nations are consulting it when necessary. Little as well as big nations feel the weight of the League, until it may well be said that 'no country can disregard the moral relations with others.'

"Let us not be deceived into thinking that there is any state of perfection in Europe. The war clouds still hover, but the League is like a fireman watching the smoke. A good part of the improvement is due to the League."

The sessions of the model Assembly were held in the Memorial Hall of Willard Straight. The colleges represented were Alfred, Buffalo, Elmira, Colgate, Cornell, Hobart, Lafayette, New York University, Penn State, Rochester, Syracuse, New York State College for Teachers, St. Lawrence, Princeton, Union, Vassar, and Wells.

In his opening address, President Farrand told the delegates that their gathering together to set up a counterpart of the Assembly indicated "growing open-mindedness." He also told them that the idea of the model Assembly was "pedagogically sound."

The work of the Assembly was carried out in the method and spirit that prevail at Geneva. Committees were named, reports were submitted, and questions were discussed.

The Assembly advocated an international university as a means of breaking down the nationalistic attitude and of promoting peace. It recommended the substitution of instruction in world peace and cooperation for military training.

The Assembly also adopted a resolution calling for revision of existing Chinese treaties.

Another resolution concerned the entry of the United States into the World Court: "That the reservations of the Senate of the United States of America in their adherence to the Permanent Court of International Justice having been duly considered and accepted by this League, it is the sense of this Assembly that negotiations should be forthwith resumed, looking toward the final adherence of the United States of America to the said Court."

Other matters considered by the delegates included famine in China, health, the liquor traffic, opium, an international labor bureau, transit and communications, and disarmament.

MOOT COURT FINALS

Jospeh Weintraub '28 of Newark, N. J., and Charles M. Zelkowitz '28 of Warwick, representing the Finch Club, won the decision in the final moot court argument of the year's series among students of the Law School.

The court which heard the final case on May 4 in Boardman Hall was composed of Judge Cuthbert W. Pound '87 of the New York Court of Appeals and Justices Harry L. Taylor '88 and Charles B. Sears of the Appellate Division of the New York Supreme Court.

Robert G. Goodale '28 of Bayonne, N. J., and George S. Koles '30 of Lawrence, Mass., represented the Woodruff Club in the final argument against the Finch Club.

ELFRIEDA E. POPE '29, daughter of Professor and Mrs. Paul R. Pope, has won the Corson French Prize with an essay, "An Estimate of Musset's 'Lorenzaccio.' "

THE GUILFORD Essay Prize has been awarded to Hyman Yudewitz '28 of New York. Yudewitz won the Morrison Poetry Prize in 1927.

The Week on the Campus

THE Sun ran one day last week an editorial which should be of a good deal of interest to the alumni. The editor admits the frequent accusation that alumni enthusiasm is responsible for athletic over-emphasis, and wonders if the more clear-eyed undergraduate of today will preserve his sense of proportion in after years. No, the editor concludes. "Twenty years from now, we venture to say, today's conservative and indifferent undergraduates will be clamoring for a better football team, bigger and better schedules, less exacting scholastic requirements, and all the other planks on the alumnus platform."

MANY OBSERVERS with longer memories than the editor will disagree with the assumption on which his conclusion rests, that is, that times have not changed, and that the present undergraduate is the exact replica of his father. We have certain definite indications of a change. Twenty years ago every able-bodied student turned out to cheer the departing football teams. Now it is not much more than a handful. The Junior Smoker used to jam the Armory. This year Bailey Hall was abandoned, on account of the poor attendance, and a paltry two hundred came to the dinner which replaced the Smoker. When we beat Dartmouth in the tremendous game of November, 1926, there was not a single arrest.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED, we are convinced. They are going to change still more. In twenty years, we boldly predict (and why not? No one will remember the prediction), the football frenzy will have considerably abated, for the undergraduates of today will not have revised their set of valuations. Will they then lose their affection and loyalty to the University? I don't see that that follows.

THE EDITOR concludes his editorial with golden words: "Some day some one ought to write an article on the over-emphasis of the over-emphasis of college athletics."

MAJOR LOUIS L. SEAMAN '72, that best of friends of the University, has presented to us his collection of African game, the product of his own prowess. Do not fail to see it when you come back to the Campus. It is housed in McGraw Hall, in the approach to the Fuertes Memorial Room, which should be ready soon. One is greeted by six zebras, in life-like and alarming poses. The collection includes heads of rhinoceroses, wild boars, wart hogs, antelopes, gazelles, water-buffalo, hartebeests, water bucks, and American elk. The interest and value of this collection is bound to increase as time goes on and civilization continues its work of destruction.

THE POWERS OF WAR and peace put on their acts in Ithaca last week. The annual inspection of the R. O. T. C. was performed by Major-General Hanson E. Ely. The big guns boomed at targets in Cayuga Lake; the valley between Forest Home and Varna was filled with the rattle of musketry; the Signal Corps signaled, the Supply Train supplied, and an observation plane directed the fire from the skies.

ALL THIS HAPPENED on Wednesday; and on Friday the Model League of Nations assembled, bringing peace to the war-torn countryside. You will find a full report of this interesting innovation on another page. Some 250 delegates from seventeen institutions were present; Sir Herbert Ames, treasurer of the League from 1919 to 1926, and Sherwood Eddy, secretary for Asia of the Y. M. C. A., were among the speakers. The problems of Poland especially engaged the attention of the delegates. It was called the Model League of Nations perhaps because it set a model of harmony to the Geneva League.

TWENTY-TWO WOMEN students went to Syracuse Saturday to join in a "playday," that is, an afternoon of baseball, basketball, tennis, volley ball, and quoits, with exhibition games of hockey and lacrosse. The delegates from Cornell, Syracuse, Elmira, Wells, and Rochester were all mixed up with one another, in order that there might be no college teams, and no college rivalry. "Sport for sport's sake" was the slogan. This is no doubt part of the movement to decommercialize sport. But after all, after all! The college rivalry is a good deal more than half the sport.

THE WOMEN'S JUNIOR CLASS had a mock wedding with the freshman class last Wednesday. They had a mock bride, mock groom, mock minister, mock guests, mock gifts, and mock wedding cake. It all sounds frightfully mock. As a spectacle we should prefer the informal men's freshman-sophomore functions, wherein they don't give each other any mock slaps on the nose.

AN UNUSUALLY SUCCESSFUL debate was that between representatives of the University of the Philippines and the Cornell team last Thursday. The question was: "Resolved, that the Phillippines be given immediate and complete independence." The Philippine boys won, after giving an example of the eloquence and earnestness that may be inspired by a conviction of the justice of the cause argued.

THE WEEK was crowded with events which we have space only to list. The women's debate team argued with Elmira College on Saturday; the Dramatic Club put on three original plays by Cornellians: "Really!?!" by Theodore C. Kuhn '27, "Black Velvet" by Philip H. Freund '29, and "The Eternal Quadrangle" by John M. Emperor '26. Freund's play was based on a brilliant idea—that of showing the world as it appears to a blind man. The stage was black, the action was carried on by voices. The idea was too big for the author to make entirely effective; indeed it would tax the best of our dramatists. Anna Case, the famous soprano, gave a concert in Bailey Hall on Tuesday. Lectures were delivered by Prof. George B. Barbour of Yeching University, Pekin, on "Early Man in Asia and his Geological Background," by Dr. Saul Dushman of the General Electric on "Band Spectra and Molecular Structure," by Miss Sarah Wambaugh on "The Human Side of Plebiscites," and Dr. Charles F. Binns on "Pottery Making, Then and Now." Judge Harrington Putnam, formerly a judge of the New York Supreme Court, gave a series of lectures on the Admiralty Courts.

WE OBSERVE that Heywood Broun has just been canned by the New York World because he made some sneering remarks about his employer in The Nation. May we assure the University that whatever we have said about it in THE ALUMNI NEWS was only in fun?

NEW TIME IN EFFECT

The daylight saving schedule adopted by the Faculty went into effect at Cornell Tuesday morning, May 1, with the opening of eight o'clock classes and without the confusion predicted by some opponents of the change.

Amusing stories immediately gained circulation, however, one of the best relating to two women roommates, each of whom, unknown to the other, set their joint clock ahead an hour when they retired on April 30. Both appeared an hour ahead of time for their first class.

Ithaca will remain on Eastern Standard Time, for the Common Council, at its meeting on May 2, did not even consider the question.

Ithacans who attended the concert given by Anna Case in Bailey Hall May 1 found themselves out of the hall in time to get downtown again for a nine o'clock (Eastern Standard Time) motion picture performance.

The situation created by the operation of two different times is not causing the inconveniences expected, and business men downtown are finding that the extra afternoon hour, caused by the difference, is producing more shopping activity on the part of students.

THREE SOPHOMORES have been elected to the board of The Sibley Journal of Engineering. They are Phillis K. Brill of New Haven, Conn., Harrison B. Simpson of Brooklyn, and Arthur B. Riddiford, Jr., of Oak Park, Ill.

MRS. JUANITA LANE, contralto, and Dexter S. Kimball, Jr., Grad., tenor, gave the last of the year's series of Sunday musicales in Willard Straight Hall May 6

POWER

The Wheels of Progress Turn

PHILO POWER STATION, PHILO, OHIO, CONSTRUCTED BY THE FOUNDATION COMPANY

WHEN our forefathers built their primitive water wheels to use the power of running water, little did they dream of the super-power plants to be developed later. Nor could the early scientists, who first experimented with electricity, have conceived of the extensive uses to which it could be put.

In this age of power its advancement has been more and more due to the public which uses it, and which owns a large part of the securities issued for the erection and maintenance of the generating plants.

New uses and new users of power are tremendously increasing the demand for the enlargement of existing stations, and the construction of new ones, both steam and hydro-electric.

The Foundation Company, in constructing many of these super-power plants, has been serving the public over a period of years.
