Medical Center Plans

Announce Details of Proposed Construction of College Hospital Buildings in New York City

The New York Hospital-Cornell Medical College Association has announced detailed plans for two units of its medical center at Seventieth Street and York Avenue in New York. These two buildings will house one thousand nurses and employes, as well as service and power facilities.

Tunnels under Seventieth Street will connect the new development with the two-block plot to the south, where excavations are already under way for the main buildings of the center and its maternity, pediatrics, and psychiatry institutes.

The new plans "call for the most extensive housing and service facilities ever designed for a unified private project for care of the sick, research, and medical education," according to the Association statement. When complete they will form the northernmost units of "six solid blocks of purely medical development along the East River," being adjacent to the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research on the south.

The hospital nurses will be housed on York Avenue between Seventieth and Seventy-first Streets, with accommodations for more than five hundred nurses. Each nurse will have a private room with a window facing the outside of the building. A swimming pool, gymnasium, central living room, and social hall will be included. Five top floors of a central tower will be devoted to apartments for senior members of the permanent nursing staff. Two five-story wings will include kitchens, a dining room, administrative offices, an assembly hall, a library, laboratories, and other educational features. The New York Hospital Graduate Nurses' Club will have quarters near by.

A second tower will be superimposed upon a broad base of a compound four-story structure made up of the power plant, the laundry, and the garage which will serve the medical center. The power plant will provide heat, light, power, and refrigeration for a community of three thousand persons. The laundry will have a capacity of 4,420,000 pounds of linen a year. A feature of the structure will be a garage occupying five floors and accommodating 250 automobiles. A courtyard will be roofed over to shield patients from the noise of supply trucks. The roof will be used as a garden.

NEW FELLOWSHIPS PROVIDED IN WILL OF ITHACA WOMAN

A gift of $20,000 is made to the University under terms of the will of Anna Cora Smith of Ithaca.

The new fund is bequeathed to establish two research fellowships in the College of Agriculture. One is to be known as the Anna Cora Smith Fellowship; it is to be awarded annually for research in home economics problems to a woman student.

The second award is to be known as the Clinton DeWitt Smith Fellowship, and is limited to students who have come from farm homes and who have had farm training. The income is to be awarded annually on the same basis as that governing University fellowships allotted to the College.

CLUBHOUSE IS BURNED

The clubhouse of the Country Club of Ithaca, summer playground of Cornellians and Ithacans, was partially destroyed by fire on January 11 with a loss estimated at more than $5,000, including the personal belongings of many members.

The fire was confined to the section occupied by a dining room and the women's quarters. Women members of the club suffered the heaviest personal losses in equipment. Many members watched the flames destroy part of the building after they succeeded in rescuing effects from the other rooms of the structure.

ENDORSED FOR BENCH

Riley H. Heath '12 of Ithaca, member of the law firm of Stagg and Heath, has been endorsed by the Tompkins County Bar Association as a candidate for the Supreme Court Bench for the sixth judicial district of New York State. Many Cornellians were included among the signers of the endorsement.

Mr. Heath's law partner, C. Tracey Stagg '02, was formerly a member of the Faculty of the Law School.

IN THE DARTMOUTH ALUMNI Magazine for January Jason Almus Russell, A.M. '25, of Colgate writes on "Indian Oratory."

Asks $510,000 for College

Governor Recommends Fund for Additional Unit in Construction Plans for Home Economics

An appropriation of $510,000 for the purpose of erecting a new building for the College of Home Economics is recommended to the State Legislature in the annual budget of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt.

An appropriation of $75,000 was granted last year. Plans are already under way for the construction of a classroom and laboratory building, and if the Governor's recommendation is accepted and the additional $510,000 is granted, the new fund will be used in the construction of a single new unit.

The suggested grant is included in the report where the Governor recommends the allocation of $10,000,000 public improvement bonds for 1930.

An additional sum of $60,000 provides for the acquisition of property. Present plans call for the building of the new structure on vacant land north of the present college.

In explaining an increase of $76,882 in the appropriations for the educational department, Governor Roosevelt said that "a great deal of the personal service carried on at Cornell in appropriations made last year under the heading of maintenance and operation has been transferred to the regular service line item."

ESTABLISH NEW OFFICE

Hemphill, Noyes and Company, investment brokers of New York, have established an Ithaca office in the Savings Bank Building under the management of Arthur B. Treman '23.

Members of the firm include Jansen Noyes '10, Stanton Griffis '10, and Leo M. Blancke '15.

PHI KAPPA PHI DINNER

The Cornell Chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholastic society, initiated 101 members at the annual dinner on January 15. Professor Paul J. Kruse was the principal speaker. Other speakers were Professor Roswell C. Gibbs '06, national president, Professor William I. Myers '14, president of the chapter, and Samuel R. Levering '30 of The Hollow, Va.

ATHLETICS

WIN ONE LEAGUE GAME

The basketball team broke even in two games, both played with Yale, last week. The Yale five defeated Cornell January 13 at New Haven, 35-10, and then lost a close decision January 18 in the Drill Hall, 23-19.

The victory for Cornell was its first in seven games and the first in three games played in the Intercollegiate Basketball League.

Cornell showed poor form in the contest at New Haven. Two nights before the team had lost its first league game to Princeton at Princeton, 26-18.

In the game at New Haven Yale started strong. With Booth and Horwitz, forwards, leading the attack, the Blue rolled up ten points before Cornell scored. The Elis continued the fast pace to lead by 21-6 at the end of the first half.

Yale reserves played most of the second half, and succeeded in holding Cornell to four points while they scored fourteen.

Captain Lewis, who played at center throughout the game, scored half of Cornell's total. Every Yale player in the game scored, Horwitz getting eight points and Beyer and Nanry six each.

The tables were reversed in the game at Ithaca, one of the fastest of the season.

Yale opened the scoring with two foul points, but Bessmer made a free throw good, and Zahn, on a sharp cut, scored a field goal to put Cornell ahead. The Ithacans held the lead until the end of the half, leaving the floor with a one-point margin, 8-7.

After Zahn's field goal, Murphy dropped in a free throw. Kendall made good one of two tries from the line, and then Murphy tossed in a field goal to give Cornell a five-point lead.

Albie Booth, who had scored Yale's first point, added two more from the foul line. Murphy and Booth both scored again, each getting a point. In the last minute of play, Nanry scored Yale's only field goal of the period on a backhand shot.

Yale started strong in the second half, but the close guarding of Cornell halted the fast forwards, Horwitz and Booth. Pennell, substitute center, scored a field goal to give Yale the lead, and he added another point on two tries from the foul line.

Captain Lewis of Cornell and Booth each made a free throw, and Horwitz's field goal gave Yale its greatest lead of the game, four points, 13-9.

Yale could not keep up the pace. Booth went out on four personal fouls, and Murphy made his free throw count. Murphy again came through, this time with a long shot that went clean through the rim.

Bessmer was fouled, and his shot tied the score at 13-13. Lewis got a field goal. Schane fouled Murphy, and the Cornell guard got both tries. Lewis made another point on a technical foul. A foul shot by Schane of Yale and Zahn's field goal gave Cornell a 20-14 lead, with about five minutes left to play.

Cornell now switched to a defensive game, passing the ball around in back court. Yale started its last spurt, and goals by Horwitz and Nanry scored four points. Zahn broke up the rally with a field goal, and the scoring ended with Murphy and Dean of Yale each making a free throw.

Murphy, the smallest man on the Cornell team and a guard, was the high scorer with ten points. He was in every play. Hall, who is suffering with a bad knee, played in the second half, and contributed some excellent passing and floor work. The line-ups:

WRESTLERS WIN

The wrestling team opened its season on January 18 in the Drill Hall by shutting out the Columbia matmen in eight bouts, 28-0.

Cornell won two bouts by falls, Trousdell, 125-pounder, throwing Andriette and Hulse, 165-pound division, pinning Carlsten in the first of two overtime periods.

The Hulse-Carlsten bout was the feature. The Columbia wrestler gained a slight time advantage during the first ten minutes, but not enough for a decision. Hulse was up in the first extra period, and he threw Carlsten with a half-nelson and body hold in 1.06. Carlsten was up in the second period, but he could not keep Hulse on the mat.

The bout involved practically all the new rules of wrestling. At the end of two minutes of the regulation bout, neither man had carried his opponent to the mat. For the next four minutes, Carlsten started with the advantage. For the last four minutes, Hulse was given the advantage.

In spite of the fall scored by Hulse in the first extra period, Carlsten was given a chance. Under the rules, if he had scored a fall in better than 1.06, he would have won five points, Hulse getting three points. If he had scored a fall after 1.06, Hulse would have been awarded five points and Carlsten three. Carlsten, however, failed to throw Hulse at all.

The closest bout of the program was that between the captains, Johnson of Cornell and Clark, in the 175-pound class. Johnson took the aggressive and within a minute had Clark dangerously close to a fall, but the Lion wrestler fought Johnson off. They were at neutral the rest of the time, but Johnson scored a winning time advantage.

Trousdell's fall was scored with surprising suddenness. Andriette started fast, but in the attack Trousdell skillfully gained the advantage. Andriette's efforts to get up only led him into a trap, and Trousdell scored his fall with a body hold.

The summaries:

115-pound class: Hartsch, Cornell, defeated Quencau; time advantage 3.49.

125-pound class: Trousdell, Cornell, threw Andriette with body hold; time 4.59.

135-pound class: Butterworth, Cornell, defeated Appel; time advantage 6.00.

145-pound class: Lipschitz, Cornell, defeated Relyea; time advantage 6.22.

155-pound class: Hessney, Cornell, defeated Parry; time advantage 6.25.

165-pound class: Hulse, Cornell, threw Carlsten; time 1.06 (first extra period).

175-pound class: Johnson, Cornell, defeated Clark; time advantage 1.30.

Unlimited class: Wakeman, Cornell, defeated Baker; time advantage 3.02.

A HARD QUESTION

Is Sex Necessary? Or, Why You Feel the Way You Do. By James Thurber and Elwyn B. White '21. New York, Harper 1929. 21.3 cm., pp. xxxii, 197. 52 illustrations by James Thurber. Price, $2.

At last one of the most momentous questions of modern times has been sifted down to a basic issue. Novelists, playwrights, scenario artists, and psychoanalysts have wrestled with this problem for decades. It remained for the present authors to set forth the fundamental principles of the question. They have treated the matter differently and thus have earned the sincere gratitude of all who have agonized in front of this particular question-mark. The drawings, like the rest, are different, being in a class wholly by themselves. In a burst of confidence White tells us at the end that he rescued them from Thurber's wastebasket and that two major themes underlie them all: the melancholy of sex and the implausibility of animals. It is true; we concede it at once. One of these is a chart of airplane routes across the Atlantic, substituted for what is usual in such books, a cross-section of a human body. "The authors realize that this will be of no help to the sex novice, but neither is a cross section of the human body." The logic is irresistible.

There are seven chapters—a perfect number, covering all seven sides of the question.

The first chapter is headed, "The Nature of the American Male: a Study of Pedestalism. In this are explained how baseball came into its own; also fudge-making; also the development of the tandem bicycle and of man's so-called "den," to which "the male, in a sort of divine discontent, began to draw apart by himself."

Next we are told "How to Tell Love from Passion." It includes the following cryptic observation: "I have seldom met an individual of literary tastes or propensities in whom the writing of love was not directly attributable to the love of writing."

"A discussion of Feminine Types" is especially illuminating. The most important criterion is declared to be what she does, "her little bag of tricks, as one might say." We are shown the truth of the warning. "Beware of the Quilt Type." The Buttonhole Twister, the "Don't dear" Type, and others are carefully described.

After chapters on "The Sexual Revolution" and "The Lilies-and-Bluebird Delusion," we come to the useful chapter on "What Children Should Tell Parents." A tragic figure is that of Francois Delamater, "who went deliberately to the gutter for his sex education", and so distorted and dwarfed his whole emotional life. There is excellent advice in this chapter.

Of any book we ask the question, what lasting influence will it have? In the case of this book, the answer is prompt. The final chapter, on "Claustrophobia, or What Every Young Wife Should Know," will, we are certain, save many a home from shipwreck.

The work concludes with "Answers to Hard Questions" and a Glossary. It is bound to have a wide circulation, as a frank and courageous treatment of one of the most complex problems of our age.

THE SWINGING BRIDGE

A CONCERT IS CALLED OFF

On the night of a recent concert, announced in the University Series, the University had a magnificent illustration of its community solidarity. Miss Austral, soprano, and Signor Amadio, flutist (or flautist, according to your education), were to appear at Bailey Hall at 8:15. At 7:30 they telegraphed from Cortland that owing to the utterly impassable icy roads no transportation to Ithaca could be obtained, and the concert must be called off. The Music Committee jumped for the telephones, telling season subscribers right and left the deplorable news, and urging, in the manner of a chain letter, every one to telephone immediately all of his or her friends. Bells jangled, citizens and citizenesses leaped to the receivers, and wires sizzled as the word sped around town like a ripple on a pond. Then the back action ensued, as people began to call up those who already knew. You speedily found out how many friends you had, eager to spare you the trip to Bailey Hall. Wearied adults resigned the wires to the children, and youthful cynicism replaced gracious gratitude: "Concert off? Aw gwan, we knew that long ago!" Anyway, inside of twenty minutes the entire town was aware that Miss Austral and Signor Amadio, who is Mr. Austral or else Miss Austral is Signora Amadio, were stranded in Cortland, as aforesaid, and the concert, see above, was canceled. As a final touch manufactured by fate in the very spirit of a professional anecdotist, a man appeared at Willard Straight at 8:20: "Say, where the heck is this concert? I've just driven over from Cortland to hear it."

A wholly deserved tribute to Rym Berry has come in the mail, mellifluously couched in metre and bearing the mark of the Imagist School of verse. The author disclaims desire to be known by his real name and demands that a Latin nom de plume be used. Regard it then as from the hand of Paterfamilias, Fiat Justitia, E Pluribus Unam, Et Tu Brute, or Ab Ovo, as you will.

Founder's Day Widely Observed

Acting President Dexter S. Kimball Characterizes Ezra Cornell as Man of Constructive Mind in Address at Ithaca—Rochester Program is Broadcast over Radio

Cornellians throughout the world observed the anniversary of the birth of Ezra Cornell on January 11 with dinners, luncheons, and other gatherings at which programs and entertainments appropriate to the occasion were given. The feature of the Founder's Day observance was the broadcasting of a Cornell program from Station WHAM in Rochester.

Reports from some of the clubs are given below. Others will be published next week.

ITHACA

Dean Kimball was the principal speaker at a gathering of more than two hundred Cornellians of the two clubs in Ithaca at the annual banquet in the Savings Bank Auditorium. The bank building is on the site of the house where Ezra Cornell spent his last year.

The dean characterized the founder as belonging to a "group of men living just after the Civil War, who had a constructive type of mind. There are never more than a handful of such minds at any one time. Today, the total group of such people in the world number not more than a few thousand."

Men of Ezra Cornell's type and in his time "revolutionized our industrial life and changed our very viewpoints in general," Dean Kimball declared.

The speaker referred to four fields of human activity in which the great minds of the period of Ezra Cornell expressed their genius and impressed themselves on civilization. These were the fields of machine tool making, the development of power, transportation, and communication. Pioneers in these fields had to face a storm of criticism from others who could not visualize progress.

In the fields of religion and politics, freedom had been established before Ezra Cornell's time, the dean declared, and from his time until the present the struggle has been for economic freedom.

The answers to criticism of any increase in economic ease, Dean Kimball said, are the rise in general living conditions, the great progress in medical knowledge, and the advancement of education.

"Men like Ezra Cornell are those who are remodeling the world. We are building an industrial background such as no people has ever possessed, and which will blossom into a new industrial era. Where such men walk, all will follow. Without them there is no such thing as civilization. Ezra Cornell belonged to this type because he had a constructive mind."

Miss R. Louise Fitch, dean of women, was also on the speaking list. Dean Albert W. Smith '78 read several chapters from his forthcoming biography of Ezra Cornell. Mrs. LoRean Hodapp, soprano soloist of the Westminster Choir of Ithaca, sang two groups of songs. Professor Paul Weaver led the singing of Cornell songs. Warren Sailor '07 was toastmaster.

FINGER LAKES

More than forty Cornellians attended the Founder's Day dinner at the Geneva Country Club. Harry G. Stutz '07, general manager and editor of The Ithaca Journal-News, was the speaker.

Stutz spoke of athletics at Cornell and other phases of present-day university life. He referred to the progress which has been made in the beautification of Fall Creek and Cascadilla Creek gorges, made possible by the gifts of Colonel Henry W. Sackett '75.

Thomas I. S. Boak '14, chairman of the Committee on Relations with Preparatory Schools, gave a detailed report on the work of his committee. He said that a number of conditions, inimical to the development of good athletic teams, have been corrected with the cooperation of the Faculty.

It was proposed to extend the territory of the club to include Cayuga County. County Judge Edgar S. Mosher '02 and former District Attorney Benn Kenyon '07 both expressed the opinion that Cayuga County Cornellians would gladly join the Club, which already has a large membership in Ontario, Wayne, Yates, and Seneca Counties.

Nathan D. Lapham '95, president of the club was toastmaster.

CORTLAND WOMEN

The beginnings of a new Cornell club resulted from a meeting of twenty Cornell women of Cortland, New York, on Founder's Day. Miss Lois Osborn '16 presided at a luncheon held at the Y. W. C. A. Speakers were Miss Caroline K. Dawdy '30, president of the Women's Self Government Association, and Foster M. Coffin '12, Alumni Representative. It was voted that a meeting should be held each month.

PLAINFIELD

The Club held its annual dinner meeting on January 11 at the Watchung Valley Country Club. Harold Flack '12, executive secretary of the Cornellian Council, was the principal speaker and was elected to honorary membership. George E. Lewis '12 of Essex Falls, President of the Alumni Track Association, was toastmaster.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: president, Charles C. Rocap '08; vice-president, Dr. George T. Longbothum '07; secretary, C. Leslie Slocum '13.

He is survived by his wife, who was Anna F. Horton '15, his parents, two brothers, and a sister.

TOKYO CLUB ENTERTAINS

Cornellians Attending World Engineering Congress in Japan Are Guests at Dinner

BABCOCK DIRECTOR, SAMPSON

EDITOR, TO AID ALUMNI NEWS

THE Alumni News announces the additions to its board of directors of H. Edward Babcock, and to its staff of editors of Martin W. Sampson. Each succeeds Romeyn Berry who had asked to be released the first of the year.

Babcock has made a remarkable success as organizer and general manager of the Cooperative Grange League Federation (better known as the G. L. F.), the great farmers' Co-op of the Eastern States, with headquarters in Ithaca. To enter this work he left the University in 1922, where he was professor of marketing.

Sampson is head of the Department of English. He came to Cornell from the University of Indiana in 1908. He will conduct The Swinging Bridge.

The Alumni News is fortunate to have been able to secure the help of these distinguished gentlemen. It is their modesty, not ours, that is contented with this unpretentious announcement.

Going to Hawaii

Professor Bristow Adams to Teach at University There—Then to Complete World Tour

Professor Bristow Adams of the office of publication of the College of Agriculture, leaves at the end of the term to spend the equivalent term at the University of Hawaii, at Honolulu.

He has been invited by President David L. Crawford of the Hawaiian institution to give two courses there, one on the conservation of natural resources, and the other on journalistic writing. Professor Adams has been giving such courses at Cornell during the past fifteen years, the first in connection with the Department of forestry, and the second in connection with the courses in extension teaching of the College of Agriculture. His absence from Cornell, for the duties in Hawaii, coincides with his period of sabbatic leave, which has been granted him during the second term of the academic year of 1929-30.

Professor Adams sails from San Francisco on February 7, on the President Fillmore. He will be accompanied, on the trip from San Francisco to Honolulu, by his brother, Wallace Adams, who is starting to Manila to take up his duties as head of the department of fisheries of the Philippine Bureau of Science, to which position he has been recently appointed after several years in a curatorship at the Steinhart Aquarium in San Francisco.

Before he sails, Professor Adams, through arrangements made with Foster Coffin, Alumni Representative, will address meetings of Cornell alumni in Los Angeles and San Francisco. At Los Angeles, he will visit a sister, Mrs. George L. Bellis, and at Berkeley will see his mother, Mrs. Ada G. Adams, and another sister, Mrs. Thomas H. Means.

STOPS AT STANFORD

He has also been invited to stop at Stanford, his alma mater, where he was a member of the class of 1900. Here he will talk to the classes in journalism conducted by Professor Everett W. Smith, who was Professor Adams' roommate at college, and will speak also to the Stanford chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, of which he is national honorary president. Although Professor Adams has been on the Pacific Coast several times since graduation, he has not been at Stanford since 1901.

From Hawaii, which he will leave about the end of May, Professor Adams will visit Japan, China, the Philippines,

Siam, Straits Settlements, India, Arabia, Egypt, and a number of European countries before returning to Ithaca in mid-summer. He hopes to see the international track meet in London between the teams of Cornell and Princeton, Cambridge and Oxford, since his last previous trip to Europe was in connection with these games in 1926.

THE CLUBS

NEW YORK

The Club held its first dinner for preparatory school boys on December 30, when more than a hundred members of the club dined with forty young students. Colonel Joseph W. Beacham, Jr., '97 and Professor Charles L. Durham '99 were speakers from Ithaca, George R. Pfann '24 made a short talk, Jacob S. Fassett '12 entertained with stories, and Bruce W. Hackstaff '31 represented the undergraduates with selections on the piano.

DR. ALBERT F. ZAHM '92 NAMED TO NEW CHAIR OF AERONAUTICS

Dr. Albert F. Zahm '92 has been appointed to the new Guggenheim Chair of Aeronautics at the Library of Congress. The chair was only recently created, and Dr. Zahm was appointed to it after serving as director of the aerodynamic laboratory of the Navy Department since 1916.

Dr. Zahm sponsored the first international conference on aerial navigation at the World Fair in Chicago. He also developed the first "air tunnel," used in measuring wind velocity. During the World War he was in charge of the laboratory at the Curtiss-Wright factory.

The Laetare Medal, presented for scientific work by the University of Notre Dame, was awarded to Dr. Zahm in 1925.

MENOCAL '88 OFFICIAL DELEGATE

Mario Garcia Menocal '88, former president of Cuba, has been appointed by Acting President Dexter S. Kimball to represent Cornell at the International Congress of Universities in Havana, Cuba, February 15-20. The opening of the Congress will commemorate the bicentenary of the University of Havana.

HEADS PANAMA REPUBLIC

Pablo Gaspar Arosemena '09 has been elected president of the Republic of Panama. President Arosemena attended Cornell one year beginning in 1905 and studied mechanical engineering.

THE WEEK ON THE CAMPUS

WHAT is the matter with us, anyhow? We alumni should devoutly interrogate our souls and examine our consciences. If we are to believe the undergraduate, the alumnus is responsible for every college evil, such as the loss of a football championship, the winning of a football championship, drink, fraternity snobbishness, and the commercialization of the degree. A still more essential accusation detonates in The Sun, as follows:

"UNDOUBTEDLY our administrators and professors would like to revise the curriculum and limit registration to those really fitted for it, but until the vast group which holds the balance of power in its hands is educated, we cannot hope for reform. This group consists of alumni everywhere whose conservative and even reactionary attitude must be fought. The best weapon is organized and intelligent propaganda in the hands of progressive administrators."

IN THE OPINION of this alumnus, there are four major fallacies in the three sentences quoted above. But there is no space for argument. I merely wanted to point out that the alumni, who seem like such innocent and jolly creatures, fond of chorus singing and manly outdoor games, subject to bursts of generosity and sentiment, appear to the undergraduate a hideous menace and the cause of all his woes. Perhaps we should establish a lobbyist in the University, to justify our ways to the college world. Is propaganda to be employed by the undergraduate to lure us to strange and undesired destinations? Then let us organize, my brothers, to fight propaganda with propaganda.

SHREVE, LAMB, AND HARMON, the celebrated New York architects (Shreve graduated from the College of Architecture in 1902), have given the College a fellowship of a novel sort. A graduate will be chosen annually to spend a year in the firm's office, at a normal salary. But "he will be encouraged to study the work of the office as he did his student work and perfect himself as far as possible along whatever line seems best calculated to advance his special ability or interest." Thus many of the common difficulties of adjustment of the student to the business world should be smoothed away. Says Mr. Shreve: "There is too often a hampering sense of a complete altering of direction and activity, with a loss of measure of progress and a failure of real accomplishment; there may even be the feeling of a necessity of endeavoring to render service merely in order to hold a position and so secure an uninspiring living through effort along unfamiliar and less attractive lines, not following the path in which the true ability and ambition of the student lie." Charles C. Porter '29 is now working for the firm on such a basis as is outlined for the fellowship.

PROFESSOR JAMES K. WILSON of the Department of Agronomy is helping out as coach of tennis, owing to the unavoidable absence of Coach E. J. Faulkner. Professor Wilson is the champion of the Faculty Tennis Club, whose sensational game you have perhaps admired as you passed the courts back of Rockefeller Hall.

DR. DEAN F. SMILEY '06, head of the Department of Hygiene, is carrying on a campaign against colds, which no doubt are responsible for more loss of time among the students than any other cause. He is taking blood specimens from students subject to frequent colds and from those who seldom succumb thereto, for purposes of comparison.

THE COLLEGE of Home Economics was host at a conference on child development and parent education on January 17 and 18. Delegates were present from nine colleges and a number of cities. Miss Anna Richardson of the American Home Economics Association and Miss Flora Thurston of the National Council of Parent Education, formerly a member of our Faculty, led the conference.

THE 2ND ANNUAL Veterinary Conference was likewise held over the week-end. It set a record for attendance. The members were addressed by Dean Pierre A. Fish '90 and Professor James N. Frost '07 of the Veterinary College, Professor Ralph H. Wheeler '09 of the College of Agriculture, and Dr. T. H. Ferguson, president of the American Veterinary Medical Association.

DR. LIBERTY HYDE BAILEY, Dean Albert R. Mann '04, and about thirty-five others attended the convention of the State Horticultural Society in Rochester on Thursday and Friday. Dr. Bailey was one of the chief speakers. Samuel R. Levering '30 of The Hollow, Va., won the speaking contest for undergraduates, discussing "What Is Right with Fruit Growing in Western New York."

PUBLIC LECTURES were given during the week by Professor Horace W. Wright of Lehigh University on "The City of Kings"; by Professor Albert C. Phelps of the College of Architecture on "Florentine Churches"; by Professor James F. Mason of the Department of Romance Languages on "Old Paris"; by Dwight J. Baum, New York architect, on "Domestic Design"; by Professor Raymond Moley of Columbia University, member of President Hoover's Crime Investigation Committee, on "Criminal Justice in Transition"; and by W. H. Reichardt, of the General Railway Corporation, on "Railway Safety Devices."

THE SAGE CHAPEL PREACHER on January 19 was the Rev. Dr. Miles H. Krumbine, minister of Plymouth Church, Shaker Heights, Cleveland.

IT WAS A VERY MUSICAL week. Florence Austral, dramatic soprano, and John Amadio, flutist, gave the second concert of the University Music Series on Monday, making amends for their failure to arrive on the scheduled date. C. Gordon Watkins, a pianist of much local fame, gave a recital in the University Theater on Tuesday. On Sunday Steuart Wilson, tenor, whom you may remember as the life and soul of the English singers on their tour last year, sang first at the vesper service in Sage Chapel and then in a recital in Willard Straight Hall. Professor Harold D. Smith's regular weekly organ recital consisted of works by American composers, one of them Professor Smith himself. His "A Memory" was written for the Sage Chapel organ, as was Edward Johnston's "Even Song," also included on the program.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB put on four one-acters, evidently no great shakes, but marked by some good acting by junior members of the Club.

THE ART GALLERY is showing what its managers consider "the most important exhibition of art that has been shown at Cornell University in twenty-five years." It is a memorial exhibition of the oils, water colors, etchings, and lithographs of Arthur B. Davies, loaned by the Ferargil Galleries of New York. The caliber of the show may be judged from the fact that it goes from here to the Metropolitan Museum of New York. Its last day here is Monday, January 27.

"THE CELEBRATION of Ezra Cornell's birthday in all parts of the world periodically starts the speculation as to whether shades on the other side of Jordan have knowledge of contemporaneous events on this side and whether they retain a capacity for the various human emotions, including astonishment. If they have and do, wouldn't it be interesting to know what Mr. Cornell thinks of this old canal boat town and what has happened to it. No hitching post on State Street and 10 beaute shoppes! The Corner Book in the middle of the block, Andrus and Church up an alley and Treman & King without a buggy whip or a bed wrench in the place."—Rym Berry in The Ithaca Journal-News (helas!), January 13.

A Reduction in Long Distance Telephone Rates

An Advertisement of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company

ON JANUARY 1, 1930, there is effective a reduction in various long distance telephone rates in the Bell System which on the present volume of calls means a saving of more than $5,000,000 a year to the telephone-using public in the United States. This is the fourth reduction in long distance rates within a little more than three years. On October 1, 1926, they were reduced by $3,000,000. On December 1, 1927, a reduction of $1,500,000 went into effect. On February 1, 1929, there was a reduction of $5,000,000.

THESE REDUCTIONS are in accordance with the aim of the Bell System to continue to furnish the best possible telephone service at the least cost to the public. Earnings must, of course, be sufficient to permit the best possible telephone service at all times and to provide a reasonable payment to stockholders with an adequate margin to insure financial safety. Earnings in excess of these requirements will either be spent for the enlargement and improvement of the service, or the rates for the service will be reduced. This is fundamental in the policy of the management.

Modern Synchronization of Theory and Practice

To bring industrial practice ever closer to theoretical perfection, engineers today are turning more and more to optical science. Specially-developed optical instruments have brought almost unbelievable precision in the control of the raw materials, processes and finished products of countless industries.

The Hydrogen-Ion Colorimeter illustrated above is only one of the many special instruments built by Bausch & Lomb for industrial engineering.

Bausch & Lomb will gladly employ their wide experience to solve your problems by means of special optical instruments.

Things to Remember in the New Year

The gift folder of Cornell things is free for the asking. The new edition was a little late this year but there are things in it of interest outside of Christmas buying. Bookplates, pennants, shields (now  $\frac{1}{3}$  off), jewelry and candy. We have a special offer on Troy Calendars. We give one 1930 for the Calendar and a 1929 for pictures. The combination price is \$2.00.

Troy's 1930 Calendars

Cross Section Papers for Particular People

Cross section paper is mainly a business proposition but many send in a copy of our ad when replying. The sample book is free and shows many kinds and sizes. We use two thicknesses of all rag stock paper.

Cornell Campus Map $1.50

Continued interest showed this year in the Campus map. One in ten are framed because we do the work. Probably more are framed when they reach the final owners. Have you one? Do you really know the Cornell Campus?

The map sells at $1.50

Thrift is a Royal Road

Much was published and said during Thrift Week about the wisdom of Saving. In this the Life Insurance business heartily concurs.

Men who practice Thrift do more than put money away for future use. They build their own characters, set a decent example for others and stabilize their own credit.

Practice Thrift and prosper.
