Thoroughness

Our intensive program is often of great advantage to those who have a difficult schedule of work to complete. Both as to methods and subject matter our school aims to train its students to do work of the nature required by the University. We will welcome your inquiries and send catalogue on request.

New Degrees Authorized

Master of Arts and Master of Science in Education to be Given—Training in Pedagogy Provided

Important changes in the requirements for advanced degrees, authorized by the Trustees to meet more adequately the needs of persons preparing for certain teaching positions in the elementary and secondary schools, have been announced by the Department of Education. The new degrees are Master of Arts in Education and Master of Science in Education.

The new step gives recognition to the specialized problems of the teaching profession and makes definite provision for graduate training in the field of pedagogy. This represents a wide departure from the previous requirements for the master's degree, which made it necessary for the candidate to take subjects which in many cases did not have a direct relationship to the particular position for which the individual was fitting himself.

Under these new conditions, according to a statement made by Professor Julian E. Butterworth, it will be possible for persons preparing for certain positions to select subjects and activities that will give more adequate professional training than can be secured under present requirements of major and minor subjects.

Principals of elementary schools and of high schools, city, village, and district superintendents, supervisors of instruction, high school teachers desiring advanced work that will assist in their daily work, and similar officers, will find these new requirements especially planned to meet their needs. The student who has obtained a college degree without including those professional courses now commonly required by the State for admission to public school service may satisfy these requirements and at the same time be working toward one of these new professional degrees.

In explaining the procedure for obtaining the new degrees, the statement reads:

"No formal thesis will usually be required in these various curricula, though it is expected that training in meeting professional problems through scientific method will be given in connection with different courses. These changes in requirements represent in no way relaxing of standards; rather a redefinition of standards to meet better the present day needs of the teaching profession.

"The regular master's degree will of course still be available to those who find its requirements best suited to their situations. Those looking toward the doctorate will perhaps commonly find it desirable to take this degree rather than one of those just authorized."

RANDOLPH '07 HEADS WAR ON CRIMINALS IN CHICAGO

A war on crime in Chicago, initiated by business men of that city, has been placed in charge of Colonel Robert Isham Randolph '07, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

When eight murders were recorded in seven days in Chicago recently, the Association determined to investigate the crime situation. Randolph was named chairman of a special committee to study and recommend how the Association might throw the weight of its money, men, and influence into the scales in behalf of a decent city.

Colonel Randolph has declared that "there's not a business, not an industry in Chicago, that isn't paying tribute, directly or indirectly, to racketeers."

PLANNING CHICAGO FAIR

Plans for Chicago's Century of Progress exposition, to be held in 1933, are being formulated under the direction of Major Lenox R. Lohr '16.

A city covering 800 acres is being constructed for the fair, in which it is planned to exhibit the works of today and the prospects for the future rather than the achievements of the past.

Major Lohr's career has been in the United States Army. During the World War, he was decorated for service in France.

NAME ASTOR TO HOSPITAL BOARD

Vincent Astor of New York has been appointed to the Board of Governors of the New York Hospital, which, in conjunction with the Medical College, is engaged in the project of a new medical center in New York.

Wallace Lund, for many years associated with the Rockefeller philanthropic activities, has been named assistant to Dr. G. Canby Robinson, '03-5 Grad., director of the New York Hospital-Cornell Medical College Association.

Propose Prison Reform

Faculty Members Sign Petition Asking New York Legislature to Improve Penal System

Proposals for the improvement of the New York State penal system, in the limelight of discussion since recent prison riots, have been made by sixty-four members of the University Club in a petition to Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and leaders of the State Legislature.

The petition condemns existing prison conditions as "antiquated, inefficient, and inhumane," and makes seven recommendations for reform with the hope expressed that "the present Legislature will take advantage of present knowledge of the causes of crime and of technique of handling criminals, and will enact a law providing for a modern penal system."

The seven proposals are:

1. A thorough overhauling of the penal law with a view to the general extension of the principle of parole and the adaptation of sentencing and treatment to the requirements of the individual case.

2. Establishment of a full-time parole board of three members, with remuneration and tenure comparable to the remuneration and tenure of Supreme Court justices, so as to secure men of high caliber and extensive training and experience. This would involve the transfer of the function of parole from the Department of Corrections to the Executive Department, thus vesting in a single board the responsibility for parole and the exercise of the advisory power of pardons.

3. Provision of an adequate staff of parole officers and specialists in mental diseases, social work, and vocational guidance.

4. Provision for improvement in personnel of subordinate prison officials, and more adequate remuneration for prison wardens, guards, and other officers.

5. Development of facilities for vocational training, and provision of work with pay.

6. Provision of physical facilities adequate to prevent overcrowding and to afford decent hygienic and sanitary conditions.

7. Classification of penal institutions so as to permit special types of treatment for special classes of criminals, such as the insane, the feeble-minded, first offenders, and the more desperate cases.

ATHLETICS

FIVE DIVIDES HONORS

The basketball team broke even in two Intercollegiate League contests last week, losing to Columbia on February 19 in the Drill Hall, 41-34, and besting Pennsylvania on February 22 in Philadelphia, 27-23, in one of the closest games of the week.

Cornell's victory over the Quakers gave Columbia undisputed possession of first place in the League standing. Bessmer, substitute guard, was the star of the Pennsylvania game, his four points, one field goal and two foul shots in the last few minutes of play breaking a 23-23 deadlock and giving Cornell its four-point margin of victory.

Zahn's field goal started Cornell's scoring in the first half. The team piled up an 8-1 lead, Brodbeck's foul goal being the only Quaker score in the first few minutes of play.

Cornell increased its margin to 12-3 before Sander scored Pennsylvania's first field goal. A Pennsylvania rally netted two more points before Cornell started another burst of scoring, led by Furman, that brought the count to 18-7. Three foul shots by Tanser, Magner, and Tanser in a row ended the scoring for the first half. Cornell led, 18-10.

In the second half, Pennsylvania outplayed Cornell, gradually reducing the lead. Tanser was the Pennsylvania star in this period. He scored first with a field goal, but Zahn's basket offset the gain. Then Pennsylvania, while Bessmer scored two points, ran up ten points, Tanser's goal tying the score at 23-23.

Bessmer broke through with a long shot that put Cornell ahead as the final minute of play began. Fouled as he tried again for a field goal, Bessmer made two tries from the foul line good, and Cornell won as the whistle ended Pennsylvania's final charge.

OUTPLAYED BY LIONS

In the Columbia game, Cornell showed poor form, although three times in the second half the team, never out in front, came close to tying the score.

Columbia started briskly, piling up an eight-point lead in the first five minutes of play. With the score 12-3, Zahn got Cornell's first field goal of the half, but goals by Magurk and Tys put Columbia farther in front. With the count 17-5 against Cornell, Murphy scored a foul point. Murphy's second singleton, two foul shots by Hall, and two field baskets by Captain Lewis ended Cornell's scoring for the half. The Lions left the court at the half with a 20-12 advantage.

In the second half Cornell played better basketball, although two field goals by Tys and Magurk put Columbia twelve points ahead in the first two minutes of the period.

Cornell's best rally then started, the team gaining eleven points in a row to pull up to 24-23 before Columbia scored again. Captain Lewis got three points on a basket and a foul shot. Zahn dropped in three free throws in a row when he was fouled twice by Tys. Hall and Furman threw goals, but Bender was fouled by Zahn, and he made one of two tries good to give Columbia a 25-23 lead.

Gregory, giant Columbia center, was fouled by Schreuder as he made a goal, and he added one more point from the foul line. Bender cut through for a basket, and Columbia led, 30-23.

Schreuder and Furman made long shots good, and Zahn and Lewis each threw a basket to bring Cornell within three points of the leaders, 32-29. Bender, fouled by Zahn, scored a point, and Gregory added a field goal. Hall got a foul shot, and Zahn added another. Zahn, fouled again, tallied to make the score 35-32, but Jones, fouled by Lewis, scored.

Kendall's field goal brought Cornell within two points of the Lions, but Middleton scored on a free try, and then Bender broke loose for two fine field goals just before the whistle blew.

YEARLING FIVE LOSES

The freshman basketball team lost to Pennsylvania on February 22 at Philadelphia, 31-25. The Quakers got a fine start, leading, 13-9, at the end of the half.

Kazera, Cornell right guard, led in scoring with twelve points, six on field goals. Levy, Pennsylvania forward, was high man for his team with ten points.

WRESTLERS LOSE

The wrestling team lost its second dual meet of the season to Penn State February 22 at State College, 17-9. It was Cornell's first defeat by a member of the Eastern group which will compete for the championship at Ithaca March 14 and 15.

Cornell won three bouts on decisions, Trousdell in the 125-pound class, Lipschitz in the 145-pound class, and Captain Johnson in the 165-pound class scoring time advantages over their opponents.

State scored four decisions and a fall, Captain Hubler pinning Butterworth to the mat in the 135-pound division. The summaries:

115-pound class: Maize, Penn State, defeated Hartsch. Time advantage, 7.51.

125-pound class: Trousdell, Cornell, defeated Cowell. Time advantage, 2.57.

135-pound class: Captain Hubler, Penn State, threw Butterworth, with double armlock. Time, 4.54.

145-pound class: Lipshitz, Cornell defeated Kaiser. Time advantage, 3.24.

155-pound class: Reybitz, Penn State, defeated Hessney. Time advantage, 3.19.

165-pound class: Captain Johnson, Cornell, defeated Campbell. Time advantage, 4.40.

175-pound class: Long, Penn State, defeated Wakeman. Time advantage, 2.18.

Unlimited class: Pearce, Penn State, defeated Cornish. Time advantage, 9.00.

SWIMMERS WIN

The swimming team defeated Lafayette February 22 at Easton, 40-19, winning first place in six of the seven events. Ives of Cornell was the outstanding performer, winning firsts in the 100-yard free style and 44-yard free style races. He also swam on the relay team.

Readinger of Lafayette was the only first place winner for his team when he captured the diving event. Brooke, Gibson, and Seibold were other first place winners for the Ithacans.

FENCERS THIRD

The fencing team, which opened its season by defeating Hamilton in a dual meet, finished third best in a triangular meet with Yale and Hamilton on February 22 at New Haven. Yale scored 22, Hamilton 16, and Cornell 13.

PRINCETON WINS ON ICE

The hockey team closed its season February 19 at Princeton, losing to the Tigers by a score of 6-0. The team has a season record of four victories, over Colgate, St. Lawrence, Union, and Hamilton and two defeats, by Clarkson Tech and Princeton.

The Tigers scored four of their six goals in the first period. Shearer, Tiger goal guard, played an unusually fine game, making thirty-seven saves on hard shots by the Cornell forwards.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL ELECTIONS

The Athletic Council last week elected Julian C. Butterworth '32, Ithaca, assistant manager of football. Other managers named were Walter F. Demming '32, Salem, Ohio, assistant manager of freshman football, and Wilbur F. Pease '31, Cooperstown, football representative on the Interscholastic Committee.

NEW SOCCER CAPTAIN

James W. McCullough, Jr., '31, Rockville Center, has been elected captain of the soccer team, succeeding Earl S. Bessmer '30, Sherrill. McCullough plays goal on the soccer eleven. Besser is playing substitute guard on the basketball team.

BASKETBALL LEAGUE STANDING

Cornell finished a week's campaign of Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League games in fourth place in the standing of the teams. Cornell broke even, losing to Columbia, 41-34, and defeating Pennsylvania, 27-23.

Columbia now leads the lead by virtue of its one victory of the week. Pennsylvania defeated Princeton, 22-17, to earn an even break in two games.

Yale won two games, beating Dartmouth, 31-20, and Princeton, 30-24, to take third place.

The standing of the teams:

	W	L	PC.
Columbia	4	1	.800
Pennsylvania	4	2	.667
Yale	4	4	.500
Cornell	3	4	.428
Dartmouth	2	4	.333

New University Trustee

H. Edward Babcock, Made Head of Grange, Is Now Its Representative on Board

H. Edward Babcock, former professor of farm management in the College of Agriculture, took his place as a member of the Board of Trustees of the University at the mid-winter meeting of the board on February 8.

The New York State Grange has a representative on the board, elected annually. The Grange recently chose Mr. Babcock for this position to succeed William F. Pratt.

H. E. BABCOCK

Mr. Babcock is general manager of the Grange League Federation Exchange, one of the largest farm cooperatives in Eastern United States. As one of the organizers and as manager he helped develop this organization from a $1,000,000 to a $30,000,000 enterprise.

Mr. Babcock graduated from Syracuse University in 1911, with an A.B. degree. He became a teacher of agriculture and county agent of Cattaraugus County. From 1913 to 1918 he was assistant state leader of county agents and was instrumental in organizing the New York State Farm Bureau. Then he became State leader. From 1918 to 1920 he was director of State Food Conservation in New York State.

IN The Cornellian Council Bulletin for February Professor Leslie N. Broughton, Ph.D. '11, describes the St. John Wordsworth Collection recently presented to Cornell by Victor Emanuel '19.

THE SWINGING BRIDGE

A HINT TO HOSTESSES

The frequent arrival of wedding announcements from former students, now current old grads, is a reminder that the ranks of the alumni are continuously being added to by what we may term alumnesses. After these venturers into matrimony have been entertained profusely by their friends, sooner or later the alumness of the ménage (or menagerie, as it may happen) will tell her mate that they too must give a party. And never will she tell him a more earnest word. To her I offer a hint.

The trouble with the usual party is that the hostess has all the trouble, and the guests merely bask in comfort. Common fairness suggests that the guests should do as much worrying as the hostess. Why not give a costume party?

Ithaca society has had a wave of costume parties, and one is bound to say that they shed undeniable gaiety on our busy little city. The sight of bright garments is delectable, and the atmosphere of escape from one's ordinary personality is fraught with charm. It is worth a moderate price of admission to spy Mr. Berry (adv.), Mr. Coffin (adv.), Mr. Treman (adv.), decked out as Turks, Scots, and other infidels, bearded like the pard and smiling like the Cheshire cat, full of strange oaths and seeking the bubble Reputation e'en in the cannon's mouth.

I give a further hint to those who may be under the need of donning fancy dress. Instead of putting all your attention on your costume, put nine-tenths of your care on your facial make-up. Be inspired by General Burnside, Chief Justice Hughes, or a Hedjaz sheik (pronounced 'shake' among the illuminati); dally with a chivalric mustache or with Dunderreary weepers; put on a grounding of grease paint no. 3 or no. 5; scorn not the lipstick, be lavish with the rouge, and learn what marvels may be done with a dark brown liner. Your hostess will not know you at first, and your own wife will pretend ignorance gladly. You will burgeon out in your assumed personality, and you will say gallant and witty things you didn't know you had at command. Try it.

M. W. S.

IN The American Mercury for February, under the title "Mass Psychologist," Henry F. Pringle '19 writes on the work of Edward L. Bernays '12.

IN China's Millions for August last there was a portrait of the late Dr. Leighton P. Rand '16 together with a sketch of his life entitled "To Preach and to Heal."

BOOKS

THE SCIENCE OF MIND

The History of Psychology. By Walter B. Pillsbury, Ph.D. '96, Professor of Psychology in the University of Michigan. New York. W. W. Norton and Company. 1929. 22.2 cm., pp. 326. Four illustrations. Price, $3.50.

Dr. Pillsbury brings to the writing of this volume a long teaching and research experience. After two years as assistant here, he went to Michigan in 1897, and since 1910 has been director of the psychological laboratory there.

The literature of psychology is enormous, including thousands of books and hundreds of volumes of periodicals. No man in a single lifetime can hope to master any large fraction of this mass of materials. Under the circumstances, then, we think this book has been well done. Some may complain that rather too much space has been devoted to the earlier period, leaving too little for modern times; but that will be a matter of opinion.

Pillsbury writes clearly and concisely. The lay reader has little trouble in following him.

One or two slight errors may be corrected. It was not Havelock Ellis (in the Index "Haverlock") but Alexander H. Ellis who translated Helmholtz's Tonlehre (p. 166). It was not in 1859 but much earlier that Wallace read Malthus (p. 199). He sent his paper on species to Darwin in 1858 and the two papers, his and Darwin's, were published in the Journal of the Linnæan Society in 1858. Then Darwin took two years in which to elaborate his theory, publishing "The Origin of Species" in 1860.

At the present time, Pillsbury tells us, there are some six schools of psychologists: (1) The Structuralist School (e.g. Titchener), which holds that consciousness is directly observable and is composed of simple, definitely describable elements. (2) The Functionalists (Dewey, Angell), who would study not the contents but the capacities of the mind, not what it is but what it does. (3) The Behaviorists (Max Meyer, Watson), who believe that consciousness has no existence and that the observer should study only the actions of an organism, from the outside, in another individual. (4) The Hormic School (McDougall), which holds that all is will, that consciousness is dominated by ends, which control consciousness even before we are aware of them. (5) The Gestalt School (Wertheimer, Koehler), which, accepting consciousness as material, insists that we know only forms or wholes in consciousness, that its elements exist only in relation to the larger wholes dominating them. (5) The Understanding School (Spranger, Binswanger, Ewald), which would give up trying to analyze consciousness or explain it casually, and would be content to appreciate it and its ends.

Thus we have radically diverse views regarding consciousness and its elements and regarding the validity of studies of oneself, to say nothing of other differences among the different schools. The science is in its infancy.

Plan Geology Camp

Will Be Memorial to Professor Henry Shaler Williams, Former Head of Department

A summer geology camp, to open June 16 for six weeks, will be established this year as a memorial to Professor Henry Shaler Williams, former head of the Department of Geology. The camp will be located near Tyrone, Pa., regarded as one of the best geological sections in the Appalachian Mountains, affording unusual opportunity for study of changes in fossil forms and sedimentation.

The camp is the result of gifts by friends to the Williams Memorial Fund.

The course will be open to ten students, and the six weeks will be spent in detailed mapping of selected areas, reconnaissance, and plane-table work. Visits to adjacent geological deposits will also be made.

Dr. Charles M. Nevin will direct the camp. With the growing importance of geology as a factor in economic life, Cornell geologists believe that a valuable accomplishment resulting from the field work will be the ability to think of geologic structures in three dimensions, something which is not gained from class room work. It is pointed out that the unusual topography of the region chosen for the camp will afford unlimited opportunities for study of the relation of physiography to subsurface structure.

EFFECTS OF SMOKE IN CHIMNEY UNDER LABORATORY STUDY

The central heating plant smokestack, two hundred feet high, is being utilized as a laboratory in an attempt to discover possible ways of building better chimneys and of eliminating money losses from the outpouring of smoke.

The new laboratory has been fitted out since scientific experiments were inaugurated some years ago to find out what actually goes on in the rising column of smoke inside chimneys.

Special instruments, mounted in the tips of steel beams eighteen feet long, have been prepared. These beams will be thrust through the sides of the stack. Measurements of temperature, velocity, and direction of gas streams, composition of gases, and friction losses will be recorded. One set of instruments will be operated from a platform near the top of the stack, another half-way up, and a third close to the ground.

Large metal brads, used as steps to ascend the outside of the chimney, are surrounded by a screen to prevent falls.

The instruments have a high degree of sensitivity, and they are built to withstand temperature and corrosion effects. The gauge used to measure the velocity of the gas stream will indicate pressure differences of one ten-thousandth of an inch of water.

OBITUARIES

CHARLES A. LUX '81

Charles Augustus Lux, a founder of the Rochester, Syracuse, and Eastern Railway, died suddenly at his home in Syracuse on January 22. He was seventy years old. He took a year in the optional course.

With William P. Gannon, Mr. Lux organized the electric railway, which began operation in 1905. He also helped build other inter-urban lines in central New York. Later he entered the water power field. During recent years he was connected with the financial house of Howell, Usher and Mitchell.

ERWIN E. LANPHER '99

Erwin Eugene Lanpher, for twenty-six years city engineer of Pittsburgh, died there on January 18 after a short illness. He was fifty-five years of age. He received the degree of C.E. After graduation he was for three years city engineer in charge of waterworks in Atlantic City, N. J. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Helen Moore Lanpher.

WALTER C. STEVENS '99

Walter Campbell Stevens, manager of the Menteith Book Company of New York and author of Vistas, a travel book about France, died on December 6.

He was born on June 17, 1870. He received the degree of LL.B. and later studied at Stanford. He practiced law for some years and spent much of his time traveling in France. He wrote a number of short stories. His second book, Frigid Limbs, was finished except for the last chapter when he died. His sister, Adelaide Waller Stevens, survives him.

HENRY C. BROOKS '00

Henry Chapin Brooks, lawyer in New York, died at his home in New Rochelle, N. Y., on January 19, following a long illness. He was born in Hartford, Conn., the son of David B. and Julia Clarke Brooks. He received the degree of LL.B. and was a member of Delta Chi. His wife, formerly Jane Day Calvarly '01, and three daughters, survive him.

CHARLES A. WARD '02

Charles Archibald Ward, chairman of the board of the Ward Baking Corporation, died suddenly at his home in New Rochelle, N. Y., on February 10, of heart disease.

He was born in Pittsburgh fifty-one years ago, the eldest son of Robert B. Ward, founder of the company. He received the degree of M.E. He had been president of the Ward Motor Vehicle Company and joined the Ward Baking Corporation a year ago. He became president shortly after the death of his brother.

A NEW CORNELL LETTER

Founder Writes on the Inauguration of Lincoln in 1861

A family letter written by Ezra Cornell at Washington March 3, 1861, on the occasion of the inauguration of Abraham Lincoln as president, to "My Dear Mary Ann," his wife, has just been published by his grandson, Charles E. Cornell. The letter follows:

Washington, D. C.,
Military Hotel,
March 3, 1861.

My Dear Mary Ann;

As the eventful period of inauguration draws nigh the crowd increases in and about the hotels of this city.

Mr. Willard told me today that he had 1,500 guests booked. I asked him how many rooms he had in the house. He answered, about five hundred. Thus you see he averages three to a room, which is just the number I have in my room—a gent. from Jamestown, N. Y., one from Fort Wayne, Ind., and myself.

The halls and parlors are radiant nightly with ladies, many stopping at the house, and others who come in from the neighborhood to spend the evening, to see, be seen, promenade, dance, etc.

Besides the large number stopping at this house, hundreds are attracted from the other hotels, and private houses, hoping to get a look at Mr. Lincoln and occasionally they succeed in their wishes, but it increases the jamb to an intolerable degree, and renders it unpleasant.

Last evening about 10 p.m. Mrs. Lincoln held a short levee in the parlor, which gave some hundreds the opportunity to be introduced and shake hands with her. She is a short, plump body of a woman, apparently from forty to forty-five fresh, healthy look, and plain becoming attire. I like her appearance much better than I did Miss Lane, Mr. Buchanan's niece, whose Old Maidship has presided at the White House the past four years.

About 11 p.m. Mr. Lincoln came in from spending the evening abroad, and stopped a few minutes in the parlor receiving the introduction of those present, and exchanging a pleasant word with each. This was the first time I had seen him since he left New York, and the first opportunity to shake hands with him. He looks much as the pictures represent him, and I was favorably impressed with his appearance.

Tomorrow, God willing, he will be installed as the head of the Government, and I trust it may inaugurate a new era of honest, and patriotic administration of laws.

There is nothing apparent on the surface of society here to interrupt the imposing and important ceremonies of inauguration tomorrow, and I trust all will pass off quietly, as the precautions seem to be ample to preserve the peace even if other designs still exist.

Mr. French, who is to be Marshall in Chief, informed me that he had no apprehensions of a disturbance, but he said Gen. Scott still felt some apprehension as he had received over 300 letters of a hostile and threatening character; but he has got the Military so posted that he will probably chill any hostile spirit into submission before it breaks out in acts of violence and disorder.

I have not seen Gen. Scott since I have been here. I shall see him tomorrow at the head of the procession.

The weather has been lovely, warm enough to be uncomfortable. This evening it is cooler.

I shall leave here for New York about the middle of the week. Love to all.

Yours affectionately,
E. Cornell

ANNOUNCE APPOINTMENTS FOR SUMMER LAW SCHOOL

Faculties of eight law schools will be represented on the teaching staff of the summer session of the Law School this year. The two terms of the summer session extend from June 24 to July 31 and from August 1 to September 5.

Professor Robert S. Stevens, acting dean, will be in charge of the session. Five members of the summer teaching staff will be Cornell Faculty members: Professors William H. Farnham '18, Gustavus H. Robinson, Harold E. Verrall Horace E. Whiteside '22, and Lyman P. Wilson.

The visiting teachers are: Professor George William Gray, Syracuse University; Ira Polk Hildebrand, dean of the University of Texas Law School; Professor Evans Holbrook, University of Michigan; Professor William Edward McCurdy, Harvard Law School; Professor Joseph Warren Madden, University of Pittsburgh; Professor Calvert Magruder, Harvard Law School; Professor William Foster Reeve, University of Pennsylvania; and Professor Frank Smithies Rowley, of Cincinnati.

TO AID RESEARCH

The Association to Aid Scientific Research by Woman, of which the Cornell Federation of Alumnae Clubs is a member, is to continue its support during 1930-31 of the American Woman's Table at the Zoological Station at Naples.

The station was founded in 1872 and was opened to workers the following year. The American Woman's Table was first supported in 1898, on the suggestion of Dr. Ida Hyde '91, one of the first American women to study there.

Application for the use of the table may be made to the association secretary, Mrs. Samuel F. Clarke, Williamstown, Mass.

THE GREAT SPORTING EVENT OF ALUMNI TRUSTEE ELECTIONS

PERMIT us to make our annual reference to the spring election of Alumni Trustees. Nominations close on April 1. Ballots go out shortly thereafter. The mail vote is counted the week of the reunions and the result is announced at the Saturday reunion meeting of the Alumni Corporation.

It has been the aim of the Corporation to have more nominees than twice the number of vacancies to be filled. The purpose of this is threefold. First, it should be regarded as an honor to be nominated for a Trusteeship. True, any ten graduates may make a nomination, but in general to be the choice of a large group of alumni such as a large alumni club, is an honor second only to actual election.

Secondly, the nomination of a field of that size assures the defeat of more persons than the number elected, eliminating the sting of defeat and focusing attention on the distinction of being nominated.

Lastly, and as a result of the preceding reasons, the present plan of Trustee elections should increase the interest of important alumni in Cornell whether they are elected or defeated. It should increase the interest of the electorate in the elections and thus in the University. It is a fine plan.

This year the place of Edwin N. Sander-son '87 is vacated prematurely for the very happy reason that the Board of Trustees has elected him to the Board, thus creating a vacancy for a short term of four years, instead of five. Trustees Maxwell M. Upson '00 and Alfred D. Warner '00 are finishing their first terms and will, we hope, run for reelection. Two, perhaps three, other candidates are unofficially in sight.

There should be at least seven candidates for the three places to be filled. For the best interests of the University we hope some of the important Cornell Clubs will prevail on modest but otherwise well qualified candidates to enter the race and make an interesting field day out of the election.

THE CLUBS

NEW ENGLAND

The completed program of the annual banquet, to be held at the University Club in Boston on February 28, announces as speakers Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, recently returned as Ambassador to Germany, Dr. Mary M. Crawford '04 of New York, of the Board of Trustees, and Professor Charles L. Durham '99. The toastmaster will be Professor Thomas N. Carver '94 of Harvard.

NEW YORK WOMEN

The Club held its annual luncheon at the American Women's Association Club House on February 15. With the exception of two, every class from '91 to '29 was represented, '27 again leading in number.

Mrs. Edward Carter, delegate at the recent Washington Conference on the Cause and Cure of War, spoke on "The Prevention of War." President Farrand as the principal speaker carried his listeners through international interests to more local news of Cornell.

Miss Jessamine S. Whitney '05, president of the Club, was toastmistress. Barbara Wright '27 was chairman of the luncheon committee. Mrs. Potter, president of the New York Wellesley Club, was a guest of the New York women.

PITTSBURGH WOMEN

The Club held its meeting in celebration of Founder's Day on January 18. A good representation met for luncheon and general discussion at McCreery's.

ROCHESTER

Dr. John Spengler, Eye Specialist, gave the Club an interesting talk on modern methods of eye measurement, at the weekly luncheon at the Powers Hotel on February 5. Thomas F. Fennell '26, former member of the football team and latterly an assistant coach, discussed the football situation at the University.

SCHURMAN PRAISES YOUNG PLAN

The Young Plan for the settlement of German reparations is "probably the best settlement that could have been worked out at the present time," Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, former president of Cornell and recently retired ambassador to Germany, said at a dinner given in his honor last week in New York by the Board of Trade for German-American Commerce.

Dr. Schurman predicted early ratification of the Plan by the Reichstag.

THE WEEK ON THE CAMPUS

THE women students are to have a new gymnasium, unless all the provisos and qualifications in the news story are intended to make us conclude that the women students are not to have a new gymnasium. Some funds have been obtained and it is expected that more will be raised this year. The site is the land directly north of Balch Halls, the present eighth and ninth holes of the Golf Club. The golfers will simply have to move farther out; probably they can arrange to use some of the land on the other side of the country road, where the poultry farm is. Anyway, it is interesting to see that while the men students have been agitating for a new gymnasium for twenty years and more (see the article "How Long Will It Stand?" in The Cornell Era for May, 1912), the women, with feminine directness, have simply got themselves a new gym.

THE UNIVERSITY CLUB of Ithaca has sent a petition to Governor Roosevelt, calling for prison reform. There were sixty-four signers, representing many of the branches of the University's instruction. You may have noticed the news story, featured as it was by such papers as The New York Times. Why are petitions so exciting to news editors? There is food for reflection here. Two hundred Yale undergraduates and faculty members petitioned President Hoover to abolish battleships and made page 3, top of column. Is the public more impressed by these petitions than is President Hoover, or than is Governor Roosevelt? Let us picture Governor Roosevelt receiving this petition in his mail. He reads the signatures with absorbed interest; he discovers that the professors of home economics and Romance languages are agreed that, among other things, the function of parole should be transferred from the Department of Corrections to the Executive Department. He then puts the petition in a large waste basket marked "Petitions." He has probably signed petitions himself to oblige a friend.

8 BELOW SUNDAY; 66 above, Thursday.

LECTURE SERIES seem to be the thing of this season. Professor George L. Hamilton of the Department of Romance Languages gave the weekly lecture on Early Italian Art; Professor A. G. Widgery of the Department of Philosophy gave the first of a series of talks on "Living Religions." The Department of Landscape Architecture inaugurated a series of public lectures with a talk by Russell V. Black '16 on "The Scope of Regional Planning."

ONE-MAN SHOWS: Dr. Peter P. Babiy, curator of the entomological collection, gave a public lecture under the auspices of the Deutscher Verein on "Old and New Austria." Miss Agnes E. Conway, archaeologist, spoke on "Excavations at Petra."

DR. ALBERT W. PALMER, president of the Chicago Theological Seminary, officiated in Sage Chapel on February 23. Having been the Sage Chapel preacher on the previous Sunday, he continued in town throughout the week, holding vesper services and individual conferences.

THE ART GALLERY is showing the work of students in Architecture and Landscape Architecture in the University of Michigan, with a display of water colors by Boyd T. Hill, a prominent Chicago architect.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB put on three one-acters, "Honeymoonshine," by Delbert Keenan '23, "The Mourning Call," translated from the Spanish of Ramon de la Cruz by Professor Walter H. French '19 and Dale R. Mitchell '17 of the Department of English, and "Two Can Bar the Door," by Giovanni Boccaccio, who was not a college man.

CHARLES SNITOW '30 of New York, baritone, and John M. Billings '30 of North Manchester, Ind., pianist, gave the regular Sunday recital in Willard Straight Memorial Hall.

THE McMULLEN SCHOLARSHIP has been awarded to John W. FitzGerald '26 of Brooklyn. This scholarship is one of the best; it is awarded to the graduate student in engineering who shall have shown "the most ability and initiative." Mr. FitzGerald will use the money to spend a year in Europe, studying in the universities and observing industrial conditions and scientific developments in England, Italy, Germany, and Russia.

THE MECHANICAL LABORATORY has recently installed a dynamometer rated at 150 horsepower and making from 1600 to 3200 revolutions a minute. It will be used for research by Knut G. Nipedal '29, working on a Sibley fellowship under the direction of Professors Victor R. Gage '06 and Adain C. Davis, Jr., '13.

"THE SOCIAL REGISTER—Paris has its Grand Boulevards, the old Waldorf had its Peacock Alley, but Cornell can rest secure in the possession of her Goldwin Smith steps. Here it is that the élite gather to while away the moments between classes. Beside the bowed columns of the Arts College temple come many of the momentous decisions on the eligible for next year's social register, decisions so delicate as to be swayed by the bosom of a shirt or the hue of a cravat.

"Here is the place where the rising sophomore can measure his true success in the social world. And many is the time when a bright spring morning is darkened by the fishy stares of supposed backers. The intellectual realizes that this is no place for him; he is not even noticed as he scurries through the door, with his head down and a sheaf of notes under his arm.

"The great unwashed may grit their teeth; the social clubs may rise and fall, but the true aristocracy of Cornell is safe as long as the Goldwin Smith steps are inviolate and pleasant weather continues."—The Cornell Daily Sun, February 21, 1930.

THANK YOU VERY MUCH, Mr. Hewitt.

"WHEN POPULAR INTEREST in football began to show itself at the start of the present century and large crowds had to be provided for, Lillian Russell was regarded as the last word in feminine loveliness. Influenced by Lillian (and perhaps in some degree by Grover Cleveland) graduate managers decided that 19 inches was the proper space to set off for each customer on a grandstand seat. . .

"After the war, with its meatless Mondays and sugarless Sundays, some dreamer observed that the ladies were getting away from the Lillian Russell leadership and were again showing the influence of the snake. He induced a lot of them (I don't know how) to step out to the stadium and sit down. When 20 had been parked on a bench designed for 20 there was still enough room left for two more seats. And that, dear reader, turned out to be an important discovery.

"The arbitrary dimension was immediately reduced from 19 to 17½ inches. Princeton alone gained 6,000 seats by the change. At $3 that meant $18,000 increased income for a single game. Athletic organizations went mad. Some cut to 17 and even 16½. Crowds increased and there began the much discussed era of commercialization and over-emphasis.

"And now, perhaps, you begin to see the sinister relation of feminine styles to mass athletics and clean sport for all. If long, white gloves are coming back, why not hips? If hips come back we'll have to return to 19 inches in the grand stand and what will that do to the gate receipts? The moment Marie Dressler supplants Joan Crawford as the model for contours college athletic organizations will be headed for the bankruptcy courts and John R. Tunis can go back to work."—Romeyn Berry in The Ithaca Journal-News, February 17, 1930.

REALLY MUCH TOO GOOD of you, Mr. Berry.

Believing

This is a skeptical age, with opinions and methods waging a continuous conflict. Therefore, when a vast number of men and women agree, it is significant.

Consider the general attitude toward life insurance. Millions have acquired its protection and now own more than one hundred Billion Dollars of it!

Who would dispute their wisdom? Who would ignore the sermon their caution preaches?

The wise man belongs to this majority.

Another hour sounded off—a scene on the campus between classes from Trite Notes on the Contemporary Cornellian by HARRY L. CASE '29

What—or how—could we add to that? More similar short testimony, perhaps, but why multiply examples?

In short, A Half-Century at Cornell is a book you'll be proud to own. And if you stop to consider how important it is to know Cornell, you'll admit the need of a book that presents that grand place with all the intimacy of its own atmosphere and that tells about what has happened in the same way that you actually lived your part of it.

Cornell Bookplates

Cut this out and indicate the one you want

These are distinctive and identify your books. Several hundred people have already ordered them. The price is only $1.50 per hundred and $1.50 extra for printing your name. If more than one hundred are ordered, the printing after the first hundred is 50c per hundred. Exact samples may be obtained by writing for them.

Cross Section Papers for Particular People

Those who have ordered their cross section papers of the Co-op, have done so because of quality. Quality of paper is obtained by using a rag stock paper. Accuracy is obtained by careful inspection of our plates before printing. There are only two processes which can be accurate. Send for the sample book and prices.

About Cornell University
