GEOLOGISTS HONOR HARRIS

An informal tea for Professor Gilbert D. Harris '86 was given Sunday afternoon, October 21, in McGraw Hall by members of the Department of Geology and of the two geological societies, Chi Upsilon and Sigma Gamma Epsilon.

Professor Harris, who this fall retires from active teaching in the University, plans to continue with the publication of the Bulletins of American Paleontology and with the study of material which he has collected during various geological expeditions made in this country, South America and Europe. Much of this material is at present housed in the recently established Paleontological Research Institution, concerning which Professor Harris spoke briefly. While noting that the Institution, with headquarters on Dearborn Place, is organized quite independently of the University, Professor Harris emphasized that it is established with the idea of cooperating with the University and of offering its facilities to advanced students, as well as to qualified independent workers who may wish to consult the collection of type specimens and find surroundings in which to pursue their own research.

Among out-of-town guests were several former students of Professor Harris. He also received numerous telegrams and letters of greeting from friends and students now engaged in geological work throughout the United States, Canada, South America and South Africa.

AWARD TRACK CUPS

More than a hundred undergraduates attended the annual fall track get-together sponsored by Spiked Shoe, honorary track society, in Willard Straight Hall on October 16. Speakers were Coach Moakley, Professor John R. Bangs '21, coach in the weights, Charles E. Treman, Jr. '30, freshman coach, Captain Walter S. Merwin '35, Frank J. Irving '35, and Robert J. Kane '34 who described last summer's European tour of the American track team of which he was a member.

The twenty John F. Moakley cups presented by alumni clubs to be awarded to those members of the track squad who make the best records, show the best attitudes and the greatest improvement, went to Robert E. Linders '36 of Jersey City, N. J., 100 yards; Robert A. Scallan '36 of Terrace Park, O., 220 yards; Carl F. Hollander '34 of Philadelphia, Pa. and Addison M. White '35 of New Hartford, 440 yards; William S. Hutchings '35 of Ithaca, 880 yards; Leon W. Taylor '34 of Penn Yan, mile; Bruce D. Kerr '35 of Ithaca and William N. Kaskela '34 of Newfield, two mile; Otto M. Hilmer '34 of Cincinnati, O., high hurdles; John L. Messersmith '36 of Westfield, N. J., low hurdles; John M. Scott '35 of Ithaca and Grandin A. Godley '36 of Tenafly, N. J., high jump; Henry S. Godshall, Jr. '36 of Lansdowne, Pa., broad jump; Robert B. MacNab '36 of Missoula, Mont., pole vault; Bruce H. MacLeod '35 of Milwaukee, Wis. and Walter D. Wood, Jr. '36 of Summit, N. J., shot put; Bo I. B. Adler '35 of Ithaca, discus; Robert A. Reed '35 of Dunkirk and Joseph L. Leone '36 of Ithaca, hammer throw; and Donald T. Houpt '37 of Ambler, Pa., javelin.

TO COACH STUDENT TEAMS

A further development of the plan to foster participation in sports by all undergraduates is a new scheme this fall by which members of the varsity coaching staffs will coach the teams of the separate colleges, fraternities, and independent groups who participate in intramural sports under the direction of Howard B. Orner '19 of the Department of Physical Education. Under the new plan the coaches of freshman teams and assistants to varsity coaches will give pointers to the member teams of the intercollegiate and interfraternity leagues in all sports, accomplishing the double purpose of helping the members of these teams improve their games and at the same time spotting promising material for varsity teams that might otherwise have gone unnoticed. Head coaches will supervise the coaching of their respective sports.

Four new gigs have been purchased for the use of intramural crews, and it is planned to hold an interfraternity regatta on the Lake some time in May with the intercollegiate regatta. Thus rowing will be added to the other sports in which many student teams compete for the '97 trophy, the gift of an anonymous member of that Class awarded annually since 1927 to the fraternity or independent team which amasses the largest number of points in all sports at the end of the year.

Coaching intramural soccer teams under the new arrangement are Forbes D. Shaw '27, now a senior in law, George H. Krieger '33, junior in the Law College, and William D. Sargent '31, who is registered in the Graduate School.

Basketball teams will have the supervision of Donald F. Layton '29, John R. Moynihan '26, and Shaw. Max Hurwitz '35 will oversee wrestling; Charles E. Treman, Jr., '30, track; Joseph R. Mangan '34, track and cross country; Sargent, lacrosse; Emanuel Tarlow '35, swimming; and Shaw, baseball.

HOTEL MEN MEET NOV. 13-14

A delegation of the world's leading hotel men, members of the executive committee of the International Hotel Alliance, will be the honor guests at the twelfth annual smoker of the Cornell Society of Hotelmen to be held in the grand ballroom of the Hotel New Yorker on November 13. The foreigners are attending a series of meetings held in connection with the National Hotel Exposition in New York City.

The smoker, at which each year Cornell hotel students and graduates entertain three or four hundred hotel men, is one of the outstanding social events of Exposition week. Through the courtesy of Ralph Hitz, president of the New Yorker, Milton C. Smith '31, chairman of the smoker committee, has been able to arrange for Ozzie Nelson and his band together with the floor show of the New Yorker's Terrace Room as the foundation upon which to build an elaborate entertainment program, including, besides Cornell talent, some of the brightest stars of Broadway.

The annual dinner of the Cornell Society of Hotel men will be held the following night, November 14, at the Pennsylvania Hotel. Following the dinner will be a brief business meeting and then dancing in the Madhattan Room. Albert Koehl '28, president of the Society, is general chairman, and James R. McKowne '32, c/o Harris, Kerr, Forster Co., 18 East Forty-eighth Street, New York City, is chairman of the dinner committee.

All graduates and former students of the Department of Hotel Administration are members of the Cornell Society of Hotel men, and it is expected that, as in previous years, most of those who are in the vicinity of New York and some from a distance will attend this year's smoker and dinner.

HARVARD HONORS THREE

Three members of the Class of '33 have been honored at Harvard, where they are now students. Henry S. Reuss and Norman S. Altman have been elected to the board of the Harvard Law Review, and John P. Nell has been awarded a fellowship in the School of Business Administration. Reuss was editor of the Sun in his senior year, Nell was business manager, and Altman held the Boldt Scholarship here.

ENROLLMENT LARGER THIS FALL

Official Figures Show 47 More Students Than Last Year

Total enrollment in the University this fall, according to figures just given out, is 5,717, an increase of 47 over the number registered a year ago. Of this number, 5,454 are in Ithaca, 27 more than last year, and 263 are in the Medical College in New York.

Increased enrollment is shown this year in the College of Agriculture, 139 (of whom 62 represent an increase in the two-year course); in Administrative Engineering, 34; Hotel Administration, 22; Architecture, 20; Medical College in New York, 19; and in the B. Chem. course of the College of Arts and Sciences, 2. Decreases from the enrollment of last year are indicated in the A. B. course of the College of Arts and Sciences, 62; in Civil Engineering, 47; Graduate School, 41; Mechanical Engineering and Home Economics, 11 each; Electrical Engineering, 9; Veterinary, 8; Law School, 6; Chemical Engineering, 4; and Medical College in Ithaca, 2.

The number of women students in the University this year is 30 less than last year, while 65 more men enrolled this fall than last. In the Graduate School the number of women is less by 18, of men by 23; in the Medical College in New York women have decreased by 2, men increased 21; in Ithaca there are four less men and two more women taking medicine than last year. The Law School shows a decrease of 7 men and one more woman;

Arts and Sciences (A.B.) has 25 fewer men and 37 fewer women, while the increase in the chemistry course is accounted for entirely by women. Architecture has 11 more women and 7 more men than last year, Civil Engineering now has but one woman instead of two, Mechanical Engineering has one more than last year, and the other engineering courses show no women enrolled in either year. The two women in the Veterinary College are the same number as last year, and Agriculture has 22 more women and 118 more men. Home Economics this year has gained one man student but lost 12 women, and Hotel Administration has two more women and twenty more men than last year.

Official enrollment figures for this term by Colleges and departments are given below.

ENDOWS GOETHE PRIZE

The will of Ludwig Vogelstein, who died in New York on September 24, is reported by the press to contain a bequest to the University of $1,000 to be used as an endowment for a Goethe prize, the income to be given annually to the student presenting the best essay on Goethe or German literature. Mr. Vogelstein was chairman of the board of the American Metals Company, Ltd., and a well known philanthropist and welfare and religious leader.

This bequest permanently endows the Goethe Prize which he established in 1917.

CORNELL AT BRITISH MEET

By Walter S. Merwin '35, Captain, Cornell Track Team

Perhaps alumni who follow track and field athletics will be looking for an explanation of the showing we made at the Oxford-Cambridge meet in London last summer, and for the reasons why most of us fell so far short of what we were capable of doing in our respective events. This is not intended, however, to give us alibis in print but merely to describe the day's events. The final outcome of the meet should not, I think, take credit from the Americans but rather should give it wholeheartedly to the English chaps. They out-fought us, they out-foxed us, they out-ran us—and therefore they won.

The first event of the day, in which I was fortunate enough to be competing, was the 120-yard high hurdles. England took first and second in this event with George Willock, Princeton, finishing third. Willock finished the race after a bad spill at the first hurdle and got some much deserved applause for it. I hit the third hurdle and went down—and stayed. Many explanations for our showing here were offered but none of them, in my opinion, are correct. The track was not too soft and slow for us—we have run on others much worse. Our spikes were not too long—they felt just right to us and gripped fine. It was not the strange track, nor the large crowd, nor the different hurdles. It was merely that we were not as good as our English friends and were trying to run "over our heads." We were nervous, anxious, and as jumpy as a couple of school boys. In this anxiety we forgot practically everything we had ever learned.

The second event, the one-mile run, centered all attention on Jack Lovelock, Oxford, and Bill Bonthron, Princeton. Our man, Paul Vipond '34, who is really a very fine runner, was unfortunate in having to compete against two such brilliant athletes as the others. He ran magnificently, though, and alternated with Leach of Oxford in setting the pace for the first two laps. Paul finished fourth in really excellent time and may be very proud of the fight he put up against these two world's record holders.

This put the Englishmen two events up on us besides giving us a terrific jolt when Bonthron was beaten. But in the next event, the 440-yard dash, Bob Kane '34 ran one of the best races of his track career to win in the grand time of 0:48.8. This was the fastest quarter mile that had ever been run on the White City track up to that time. Bob started out in the lead, paced himself the entire way, and finished strongly to beat Rathbone of Cambridge by six yards. Kane is a beautiful runner to watch, with a long, smooth stride that takes him along like seven-league boots. His event was the first of the day to go to Cornell.

The fourth event saw us tie the score. Captain Dick Hardy '34, getting his usual terrific start, won the 100-yard dash from Davis of Cambridge in 10 seconds even. Considering that this race was run right in the face of a terrific wind, the time was really very creditable. Bob Linders '36 shut out Betty of Cambridge to get a good third. Bob is a powerful runner and should soon ably fill the gap made by Captain Hardy's graduation.

Although many finishes of the afternoon's races were exciting, none were exceedingly close until the 220-yard dash was run. In this event Davis of Cambridge had the inside lane with Bob Kane next to him. At the sound of the gun Davis was away as though he had been shot. He went around the curve like a streak and piled up a commanding lead over Bob by the time they reached the final straight-away. As they neared the tape, Kane rapidly closed in on "Tiny" Davis and seemed almost to have him. They struck the worsted as one with practically no choice between them. The judges, though, awarded the race to Davis and doubtless were in a position well able to decide. But there were many at the finish who thought Kane had nipped the Britisher at the line and deserved the call. Bob smilingly accepted the decision and congratulated Davis in a way that showed more clearly than any other the spirit in which these meets are conducted.

Lose Distances and Hurdles

We were unfortunate in the three-mile run against the Englishmen in that Bruce Kerr '35, our distance star, was unable to compete. A week before the meet he contracted a severe cold accompanied by a sore throat and Mr. Moakley thought it best not to let him run. This was too bad for us as Bruce is really an excellent distance man and his participation in the meet, had he been in condition, might possibly have made a difference in the final score. An intercollegiate place winner both indoors and outdoors, he would have been a real threat to Ward of Cambridge, who won the event.

Steve Sampson '34, Cornell's representative in the half-mile, ran a splendid race to finish third to Stothard of Cambridge and Bill Bonthron. He paced the field for the first lap and still led going into the second. Then Stothard and Bonthron set out in the lead with Sampson at their heels. He dogged the leaders the whole lap and finished close to them in another very exciting race.

In the last running event of the day "Ham" Hucker '37, the only freshman competing in the meet, gave a performance auguring well for his success as a varsity man for the next three years. He fought Charley Stanwood of Oxford every foot of the 220-yard low hurdles. He pushed Stanwood to the winning time of 0:24.4, which is the fastest the low hurdles have been run in England for a long time. The race was in doubt to the very end, where the Oxford chap won by a scant yard.

In the field events Cornell also did well. Charley Scott '36, undaunted by Stanwood's reputation, jumped as well as he has ever done to beat the Bowdoin graduate. Charley cleared 6 ft. 2 in. to win and took the Oxford man's measure by three inches. Grandon Godley '36 tied for third place with Stanwood and Louis Wenzel of Princeton at 5 ft. 11 in.

The one field event in which Cornell had no entrant was the pole vault. Princeton qualified two of their men to shut us out of any possibility of scoring here. However, as the Princeton men took first and second places with vaults of 13 ft. and 12 ft. 2 in., respectively, we certainly could have done no better.

In the shot-put Duke Wood '36, converted crew-man, gave us a good second place. Duke had only been out for track since spring and made such great improvement that he won for himself a place on the international team. In the "long" jump, as the Englishmen call it, Hank Godshall '36, placed third. The winner of this event, Duncan of Oxford, set a new record (the only one of the meet) so Godshall has nothing to be disappointed over.

Mr. Moakley said to me after the meet was over, "That meet was won from the neck up." And he certainly was right! The Englishmen had our numbers and knew how to use them. Although it is true that if the American scoring system of 5-3-1 had been used, we would have won 57 2-3 to 50 1-3, that is beside the point. We were guests of the English and competed the way they do. Had the meet been in America they would have been under a similar disadvantage.

It was a grand track meet and the Britishers are great sports. We all enjoyed competing against them and knowing them. Of course, we are sorry we didn't win, but that is past now. And we are all remembering the pleasant and enjoyable parts of the gathering—which far overshadow such a minor point as a defeat.

About ATHLETICS

TEAM LOSES TO LIONS Outclassed in Second Half

The football team at Baker Field on Saturday played as good a game as they were capable of. At the end of the first half, with the score 0-0, it appeared that the game might be won by either team. After that however, the Lions' power, even without the injured Barabas, made the score 14-0. If a few more Red passes had been completed, and if the Red drive which arrived at the Columbia three-yard line as the whistle ended the half had been staged a little sooner, perhaps the result might have been different.

This is not the first time that the Columbia Lions have defeated Cornell teams. Even in the halycon years of 1903, 1904, and 1905 there were Red teams which could not defeat Princeton, Columbia, and Penn. In the fourteen years since the resumption of their annual games, the Varsity has been thrown to the Lions five times, played them to scoreless ties twice, in 1927 and '28, and have been otherwise blanked once previously, in 1932.

Saturday's contest was spotted with moments of fast and slow football on both sides. Except in the third quarter, when Brominski, Tomb, and Vollmer, filling in for the injured Barabas, led them to their two touchdowns, Columbia was battled on fairly even terms by the Varsity eleven.

The Lions launched their first serious attack early in the third quarter with a 70-yard march and a touchdown. Five minutes later, Brominski turned in a 30-yard run around end for another score. A third was narrowly missed when Tomb raced 60 yards across the Cornell goal, only to be called back and the Lions penalized for holding.

Soon after the kick-off Stofer fumbled a Columbia kick on his own 42 and Furey recovered for the Lions. Tomb passed to Brominski and Furey for gains of 9 and 19 yards and then on three tries Tomb reached the one-yard line. A touchdown seemed imminent but Tomb's fumble of a pass from center saved the day for the Varsity.

Cornell started a thrust in the second when Switzer intercepted a pass from Tomb and dashed to the Lion 38. Switzer's pass to Stofer was good for nine yards, but Condon twice failed at the line and the Lions took over on their 27.

After that, Columbia took to the air, and with Tomb passing to Chase and Furey, reached Cornell's 24-yard line before losing the ball.

The visitors were pounding at the Lion goal as the half ended. Frederick passed to Switzer, whose fine 34-yard run put the ball on Columbia's 26. Another aerial, Stofer to Switzer, advanced it to the 17. Switzer hit the line for two yards and then passed to Nunn on the three-yard line as the whistle blew.

Cornell's line furnished stubborn defense in the first half, the forwards charging into the Columbia line with a vicious drive. Switzer opened up with forward passes, end runs, and off-tackle slants that had the Lions on the run, and the Varsity backfield was knocking down Columbia passes right and left.

Columbia's most sustained drive followed the kick-off in the second half. Brominski ran Stofer's kick 20 yards to Columbia's 40, and then Brominski, Vollmer and Tomb charged and passed their way down the field for a touchdown, Vollmer stepping the last six yards. Brominski converted and the Lions led, 7-0.

On the first play after the kick-off, Tomb galloped 60 yards across the Cornell goal, but it counted for nothing as the play was called back and the Lions penalized for holding.

Not to be stopped however, the Lions soon roared to another score. After Tomb had run a Cornell kick 20 yards to the Cornell 30, Brominski got loose for a 30-yard sprint for touchdown. Brominski again kicked the goal and Columbia was in front 14-0.

Gerbino, a Lion sub, speared a heave from Stofer early in the fourth and sprinted 35 yards to Cornell's 37. Another overhead from Gerbino to Tomb put the ball on Cornell's 26, but the attack failed and Cornell held for downs on the 25-yard line. A kicking duel ensued.

Cornell gambled desperately with passes in the last period, Switzer and Wilson shooting them to Bragg and Stiles. Columbia's air defense stood up well under this barrage, Gerbino doing a good job at intercepting when Condon threw a long, accurate pass to Stofer.

Columbia protected its lead judiciously in the last period, the Lion reserves doing a good job defensively.

The Varsity made 8 first downs to 13 by Columbia; gained 82 yards by rushing to the Lions' 171. Both teams completed 7 forward passes, of 22 attempts by the Red and 16 by the Lions, Cornell gaining 99 yards and Columbia 97. Columbia completed two laterals for a gain of one yard; Cornell attempted none. Columbia's 9 punts aggregated 460 yards, Cornell's eight, 380. The Lions ran back punts for a total of 28 yards, the Redmen 69. Columbia fumbled three times, Cornell once; Columbia lost 45 yards from 5 penalties, Cornell 10 yards by two penalties. The line-up:

WIN AGAIN AT SOCCER

Opening with a swift attack* for a score, then slowing down somewhat until spurred by a tie in the third quarter, the Varsity soccer team won its second league victory over Swarthmore Saturday, 2 to 1, on lower Alumni Field. Although not hard pressed at any time, the Red booters played a steady game, with Adler's long kicks a feature of the defense and Brindley at guard, playing his second game, warding off the opponents' ball like a professional. Versluis and Nathanson on the forward line also turned in good performances.

At the start of the game Hershey shot a perfectly aimed corner kick to Bermejillo who passed it to Versluis. The latter drove a hard shot into the goalie's hands, and Referee Ackroyd ruled that the ball had passed behind the line.

For the rest of the half the ball remained almost entirely in mid-field with neither team pressing the defense often. A penalty kick that Bermejillo shot went too high and dropped over the crossbar.

The third period saw Swarthmore launch a hard attack that finally culminated in a score when Davis drove the ball into the left corner. Brindley twice saved a Garnet tally by quick thinking. On one play he spectacularly tipped the ball back over the crossbar to the cheers of the some 200 spectators.

With the score thus tied and victory threatened, the Varsity staged a timely rally. Captain Oleg Petroff and Versluis took the ball along the sidelines from mid-field and with beautiful team work placed it in a scoring position where Versluis drove it into the net for the winning point.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

The Varsity basketball schedule calls for 18 games, beginning December 8 with Niagara at Ithaca. Springfield is the only newcomer to the schedule. Of the twelve intercollegiate league games, six will be played at home, beginning with Princeton on January 12, and the remainder abroad.

Basketball practice began in the Drill Hall October 22, with Coach Howard B. Ortner '19 assisted this year by John R. Moynihan '26 forward and guard, respectively, on the teams of 1925 and 1926, and Donald F. Layton '29, for three years a member of the basketball and baseball teams and captain of basketball in 1929.

The schedule:

Dec. 8	Niagara at Ithaca
Dec. 18	Springfield at Ithaca
Dec. 22	Rochester at Rochester
Jan. 5	Buffalo at Buffalo
Jan. 9	Colgate at Ithaca
Jan. 12	Princeton at Ithaca*
Jan. 16	Syracuse at Syracuse
Jan. 19	Harvard at Cambridge*
Jan. 26	Yale at Ithaca
Feb. 9	Pennsylvania at Ithaca*

GOLF CHAMPION

Charles S. Willcox, freshman from Birmingham, Ala. and brother of last year's title holder, J. DeWitt, Jr. '35, won the fourth annual golf championship of the University on October 18, defeating his nearest rival 81 to 82 on the Ithaca Country Club course.

ANNOUNCE JOBS

Announcement was made in Ithaca last week of a new project of the soil erosion service in Washington which it is expected will absorb about one thousand men who have completed college work in agriculture and kindred subjects. They will be recommended by college authorities in each state and will be given jobs for six to eight months on a number of soil erosion projects now under way in various parts of the country.

A preliminary survey has been completed in New York, and the soil erosion office in Ithaca cooperates with the University in developing the Arnot Forest.

FRESHMAN WOMEN last year in the College of Home Economics who lived in University dormitories spent from $689.79 to $1207.95, the average being $793.50, according to a survey made by the College. Those who worked as waitresses spent from $381 to $634, with an average expenditure of $483.30. Students who lived at home with relatives spent from $141.50 to $313, the average being $235.40; freshmen who worked for room and board spent from $135 to $225, with an average of $182.

DID CORNELL DAY HELP?

Even without detailed analysis of registration figures we can be glad that the year starts out with an increased number of students rather than the expected decrease. No great retrenchment seems to be called for from a falling off in tuition fees, one of the more serious problems facing the University a year ago.

We should like to know what effect Cornell Day had on this result—whether many of the new students would have come to Cornell without this effort; whether the quality of student has been improved in any way by the effort; and whether regardless of quantitative or qualitative results, the day was a success worthy of making it a fixture.

Whether this rushing party helped the exchequer or not, it undoubtedly was a valuable experience for the undergraduates who played host and for the alumni who played chauffeur, with members of the Faculty and resident alumni sharing amply in the benefits.

We hope a canvass will show that many of the sub-freshmen thus entertained actually matriculated, and that a large percentage of these became interested in Cornell because of this contact.

REV. CHARLES W. GILKEY, D.D., Dean of the Chapel at the University of Chicago, was the Sage Chapel Preacher for November 4.

SQUASH COURTS in Myron Taylor Hall will serve the newly organized squash club of sixteen undergraduate members. The only squash courts on the Campus besides those of certain fraternities, these are shared by students and members of the Faculty.

WASHINGTON CLUB OFFICERS

The Cornell Club of Washington, D.C. has elected the following officers for the current year: Edward Holmes '05, president; August H. Moran '17, vice-president; Harold W. Walker '11, secretary; and Robert A. Philipson '19, treasurer. They meet regularly for luncheon on Thursdays at 12:30 at the University Club.

PRESIDENT MEETS ALUMNI

Two hundred Cornell alumni and their guests, who included preparatory school executives from eight northern New Jersey towns, heard President Farrand discuss the University's present situation and future aims at a dinner held in Canoe Brook Country Club, Summit, on October 26. The party was arranged by the Lackawanna Cornell Club. Russell T. Kerby '23, president, introduced Dr. Farrand.

After expressing his pleasure at meeting with so many alumni from the section of New Jersey which incorporates Boonton, his birthplace, the President dealt vigorously with several questions which frequently are put to him by loyal alumni who want to know how, in these changing times, Cornell is measuring up with other universities and how it is meeting new conditions.

Is Cornell satisfied with the quality of students passing through the university nowadays, President Farrand put first among the questions which constantly are asked by its alumni and friends. While indicating some degree of dissatisfaction as reflected in the constant effort to raise standards of selection for each entering class, the President stated without reservation that graduates of recent years are of higher calibre than ever before. When this statement was good-naturedly challenged from the floor, Dr. Farrand retorted with a smile, "No one in this room back of 1920 could get through Cornell today."

With much earnestness he went on to say that scholastic standing alone cannot admit applicants to the University. To the College of Arts and Sciences 2,000 scholastically qualified men and women seek admission every year. Five hundred only can be accepted. In the Medical College, where only 75 new students can be taken each year, selection must be made from 900 qualified applicants. Thus the University authorities must exert their best efforts to form a freshman class each year composed of students who possess qualities that show promise of successful development into finely matured character and useful citizenship. Difficult as it is to make these selections, Dr. Farrand added, the work is simple compared with the task of explaining successfully to irate fathers why their boys were not admitted. Total enrollment in all eight colleges of the University this year is approximately 5,300.

Another question frequently asked, he said, is whether Cornell is content with educational methods worked out years ago or is the University applying modern, progressive ideas in its technique of teaching. Cornell is thoroughly alive, he said, to what is happening in this direction; is constantly testing and experimenting; is adopting those methods proved to be good. Thus from better material than ever in entering classes are being developed graduates who leave college with a broader, richer and more liberal education than ever has been available before. In accomplishing such results the right sort of teachers and an atmosphere conducive to sound habits of study are far more important than the curriculum itself.

Touching briefly on the business side, the President announced that Cornell had balanced its operating budget of $6,000,000 last year and is in sound financial condition, though compelled rigidly to check some forms of expansion. He spoke with deep feeling of the loans which have been made for years from the $600,000 Guiteau Fund to needy students who have repaid 90 percent of their debts in accordance with the terms of the obligations. He also told the interesting story of John McMullen, self-educated dredging contractor of Bridgeport, Connecticut, whose bequest made years ago has provided a $700,000 capital fund, the income from which aids many financially handicapped students to stay in college.

Delegations from many northern New Jersey alumni groups attended, headed in several instances by presidents of these local clubs. Seated together immediately in front of the guest of honor were John H. Bosshart '02, superintendent of education for South Orange and Maplewood, and the following principals of important schools: R. F. Perry, Morristown; Ward Shoemaker, Madison; A. J. Bartholomew, Summit; R. J. Bretnall, Milburn; H. A. Ferguson, Montclair; Galen Jones, Plainfield; C. D. Wardlaw of the Wardlaw School, Westfield.

HEADS UNIVERSITIES

The University was elected president of the Association of American Universities at its meeting in Chicago October 25-27, and it was voted to hold next year's annual sessions here, in October, 1935.

Thirty-two universities, are members of the Association, with Brown vice-president and Yale, secretary.

In accordance with custom, Cornell was represented at the meeting by the dean of the Graduate School, Professor Floyd K. Richtmyer '04. He was assigned to a number of important committees, and will be active in arranging the 1935 meeting here.

WILLARD STRAIGHT has opened a new recreation room for women, the same used by the Glee Club and Dramatic Club for rehearsals but to be reserved for the use of women students until one each day and on Tuesday and Friday afternoons. It is one floor below the women's tea room.

BRIEF NEWS OF CAMPUS AND TOWN

PRELIMS, parades, and pageantry claimed the attention of this community last week. They don't use bluebooks any more, since Andrus & Church have become the William A. Church Company and moved off State Street, but the effect of prelim time on the undergraduates is just the same as it has always been. Fraternity house study lights burn just as late and student faces bear the same look of anxiety for several days as they did when you were in college.

TOMPKINS COUNTY'S milk parade, while perhaps unnoticed by most of the Hill community, extended for nearly a mile through the downtown streets on October 26 under the command of Lieut. J. L. Chamberlain of the ROTC as acting marshall. Near the head of the column marched Professor Bristow Adams, chairman of the local milk committee, flanked by the Mayor and the city's Police Commissioner. Among the prize-winning floats was one from the College of Agriculture on which a blue-ribbon Holstein cow was attended by two Juniors, Ruth M. Sharpe and Emma C. Spangler, dressed as Dutch milkmaids.

MOST OF THE COMMUNITY at least heard echoes of the city's official celebration of All Hallows Eve, when youngsters and grown-ups turned out in costume for a riotous parade with impromptu bands and dancing in a roped-off street.

AN APPRECIATIVE capacity audience applauded and re-encored Ted Shawn and his company of men dancers presented in the University Theatre by the Dramatic Club on November 1. Perennially popular in each of the six times he has appeared here, this is the second year that Shawn has entertained the Campus with his company of dancers exclusively men. They were graceful, impressive, and humorous as they interpreted successively with movement alone the temper of their various selections.

A SMALL BLAZE brought the Ithaca fire department to Goldwin Smith Hall the evening of October 30, but did slight damage beyond burning up paper towels and blackening the walls of the Faculty lavatory.

SINCE SHIPPING on the Lake has diminished to but an occasional gasoline barge or a hard-working tug hauling barges loaded with salt or cement, local residents have mostly forgotten the meaning of the international marine distress call. One evening last week four short blasts of a tugboat's whistle just off the buoy which marks the entrance to the Inlet failed to attract attention until the captain sent up rockets after he had blown out a cylinder head and his anchor cable of four hundred feet failed to reach bottom. Finally a launch put out from the State dredge and he was towed to port in a strong northwest wind which threatened to pile him up on the rocks which border the eastern shore.

A TEA was given last week in Martha Van Rensselaer Hall by the staff of the College of Home Economics to Mrs. Glennie Kellogg, who retires after twenty-two years of service as housekeeper for the College. Almost from its beginnings as a department in a few rooms of Roberts Hall, Mrs. Kellogg has faithfully tidied up the quarters of the University's professional housekeepers. She was given pictures of the three buildings where she has worked for so many years.

WHETHER BECAUSE of the advice of R. B. quoted in last week's ALUMNI NEWS is unknown, but action will not be pressed by Professor Ross, it is said, against the student who killed his great dane.

AT THE SMOKER of the Cornell Law School Association held in Willard Straight Hall on November 2, Arthur J. Keffe '24 described "The Young Lawyer's Practice in New York City." Keffe is with the law firm of Milbank, Tweed, Hope and Webb.

KAPPA DELTA EPSILON, honorary education sorority, has elected as officers for the year Virginia M. Lauder '35 of Binghamton, president; Katherine M. Doring '35 of Glens Falls, vice-president; Ruth L. Gates '35 of Buffalo, secretary; and Francis L. Weil '35 of Lancaster, treasurer.

THE DARTMOUTH GAME on November 17, as in previous years, will be the occasion for a dance in Willard Straight Hall. Not at this writing officially named, the Student Council offers a prize of a free ticket for the best name suggested. Decorations and orchestra are promised to be of the best.

THREE SOPHOMORES, it is related, peeled potatoes one day last week at Christiance Dudley's drugstore (sic) in lieu of pay for three Coca-Colas. Entering the store for purpose not stated, they being temporarily out of funds, one of the three saw fifteen cents lying unclaimed upon a table and invited his friends to a drink. The young woman who had forgotten the money appeared in time to prevent its use as payment and to send the three to temporary duty in the kitchen.

THE HUMAN CONSTITUTION and Its Practical Problems was the subject of a lecture given by Dr. J. Parsons Schaeffer, '09 A.M. '11 Ph.D., in Stimson Hall on the Schiff Foundation November 2. Dr. Schaeffer is a leading authority on the anatomy of the nose and accessory sinuses, and is professor of anatomy and director of the Daniel Baugh Institute of Anatomy of Jefferson Medical College.

COLD WINDS last week made the opening day of the pheasant season not too comfortable nor productive of birds, and the snow and rain they brought interrupted for a day the schedule of interfraternity touch football games on Alumni Field. Although some hardy souls turned out, the combination of cold rain, snow, and early darkness led those in charge to call off the games. Some pheasant dinners were reported about the Hill despite the unfavorable weather.

THE FRESHMAN soccer team beat Ithaca High School 3-1 on Alumni Field October 31.

FRESHMEN in Hotel Administration have organized a club of their own, designed to endure throughout their four years and afterward, with the prosaic name, Hotel Club. Its officers are Vincent T. Burns of Richmond Hill, president; Alvin T. Gally of Lynbrook, vice-president; Roger W. Wentworth of Wilkinsburg, Pa., secretary; and Harry H. Port of Locust Valley, treasurer.

TWENTY-SIX PROFESSORS of Romance languages from Colgate, Elmira, Hamilton, Rochester, Syracuse, Wells, Buffalo, Alfred and Keuka were guests of the Department of Romance Languages for dinner at Willard Straight Hall on October 26 and to discuss problems of teaching and research in their field.

FREDONIA NORMAL SCHOOL, it seems, did not cancel the lecture of Norman Thomas as stated on this page of October 18. Herbert M. Douglass '07, who is Dean of Men at Fredonia, writes that it was another institution in the vicinity, according to the press, at which Thomas was scheduled to speak on October 8, which cancelled his lecture. "Upon learning of the open date, the principal of Fredonia Normal School invited Mr. Thomas here to deliver his address, 'The School at the Crossroads,' which he did to the great satisfaction of our students and faculty. It was, of course, not a political speech." We are glad to print the correction in fairness to the State Normal School which Douglass informs us "is striving to develop in its students some degree of open-mindedness."

'06 MEN PLAY GOLF

Five members of the Class of '06 held an unofficial reunion at the annual "Twa Days" Golf Tournament at the Glen View Golf Club in Chicago, Ill. on Sept. 22. The accompanying picture of the five was taken just after they had left the eighteenth green, where Curt Welch sank a long putt to take the hole. From one of their number, Ed Foote, we have the picture and the following account of the gathering:

"Curt Welch, the genial host, was responsible for getting these men together and, while no records were broken at golf, it is doubtful if any other crowd at the tournament had a better day."

"Rodge Vail was unable to play golf because of a lame shoulder and acted as coach, scorekeeper and water boy. The score of the foursome suffered by his absence, but there was much argument as to whether or not it did not suffer more because of his acting in the capacity of coach. It is probable that more attention was paid to the reunion than to the golf game. This golf team may not be able to lay any claims to championship in golf, but it is doubtful if it will have to take a back seat to any team when it comes to reunions."

"Bill Forbes, whose reputation as a singer is far flung among Cornellians, was in unusually good voice in the evening and Glen View, which has quite a reputation as a singing center, marvelled at the harmony emanating from that section of the locker room occupied by Bill Forbes and Rodge Vail. It was agreed that the only thing lacking to make this close harmony complete was Doc Umstead."

"In breaking up after a very enjoyable dinner, resolutions were passed by this group that they would be on hand at Ithaca for their thirty-year reunion in 1936."

The sons of four of this group are also Cornellians. William H. Foote is a senior and president of the Student Council, Clifford B. Stevens was a member of the Class of '35, James C. Forbes is in the Class of '36, and Roger S. Vail, Jr. is a freshman.

NAME COMSTOCK HALL To House Entomology

Comstock Hall is now the official name of the building formerly occupied by the College of Home Economics, which now houses the Department of Entomology. It is fittingly named, of course, for the late Professors John Henry Comstock '74 and Anna Botsford Comstock '85 who pioneered here in the study of insects.

Professor Comstock it was who first worked out a system by which insects, like plants, might be identified and classified, based on the venation of their wings. His books and other writings, for the proper illustration of which Mrs. Comstock learned wood engraving, are still the standard authorities in the field. Most of the leading entomologists in the country have been his students as have those in the field of nature study followed the lead of Mrs. Comstock. Besides their unquestioned leadership in their chosen fields, Professor and Mrs. Comstock became, in their fifty years of residence at Cornell, among the best-loved members of the University community. Mrs. Comstock died on August 24, 1930, and Professor Comstock six months later, on March 20, 1931. The bulk of their estate was left to the University, including their interest in the Comstock Publishing Company, which they owned with Professor Simon H. Gage '77. Their will provided also for the establishment of the Grove Karl Gilbert Student Loan Fund.

The new quarters of the Department comprise some 30,000 square feet of floor space. In 1872 the systematic study of insects at the University began in the tower room of McGraw Hall, just below the University's great bell and the nine smaller bells of the McGraw chimes. John Henry Comstock, then a junior in the Natural History Course, was also Master of the Chimes. In the fall term of 1872-3 Mr. C. V. Riley of St. Louis, Missouri, gave a course of twelve lectures on economic entomology, but it was not until the next year, with Comstock an instructor in economic entomology in the School of Agriculture, that resident courses in the subject were given. In 1881 the Department was moved next door, to the second floor of White Hall, and since 1906 had been housed on the third floor of Roberts Hall.

The work in entomology, limnology and apiculture now occupies the five floors of Comstock Hall, with a staff of nine professors under the headship of Dr. James G. Needham, PhD '98, two assistant professors and twelve instructors. Ornithology, under the direction of Professor Arthur A. Allen '07, remains in McGraw Hall. In addition to the numbers of undergraduates who take courses in the Department, fifty-six graduate students chose majors in entomology in 1933-34.

Outlying links with the Department include an insectary, an experimental fish cultural station, a biological field station, and three wild life preserves, all of them aggregating 650 acres.

LIBRARY STILL SIXTH

The University Library is still the sixth largest among American universities, despite the fact that its endowment ranks but eleventh, according to the report of the Librarian, Dr. Otto Kinkeldey, for the year ending last July 1. Its staff of 36 ranks eighteenth in size, and the salaries paid rank twentieth.

Again last year the sum of $5,000 was appropriated through the Cornellian Council from the Alumni Fund to be used for the acquisition of new books. With 15,315 volumes added during the year, there are now 917,943 items in the various libraries on the Campus.

Commenting on the improved reading habits of students, Dr. Kinkeldey points out that the establishment of a "seven-day book shelf" containing about 200 books in the field of popular belletristics has proved an unqualified success. The

FIVE '06 MEN TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS AFTER

Left to right: Roger S. Vail of Chicago, Glee Club, Masque, Council, Savage Club, Quill and Dagger; Edward T. Foote of Milwaukee, crew commodore and stroke, Sphinx Head; William H. Forbes of Cleveland, crew, Masque, Aleph Samach, Quill and Dagger, and donor of the Forbes cups for crew competition; W. Clifford Stevens of Milwaukee, Masque, Savage Club, Mummy Club, Mandolin Club, Quill and Dagger; Leon C. Welch of Chicago, baseball captain, Aleph Samach, Quill and Dagger.

200 volumes were borrowed 11,853 times in the year. This service was maintained without expense to the University because the volumes were gifts from members of the University community and others, together with purchases made possible from fines. The "seven-day book shelf" consists largely of the higher type of fiction, literary novels, essays, popular scientific works, biography, and recent dramatic successes in book form. According to Associate Librarian Elias R. B. Willis, students with foreign backgrounds are the most frequent borrowers of these books.

Of particular interest to the welfare of the Library was the continuation of a special grant from the Carnegie Corporation for a Faculty research assistant. Henry H. King, a graduate of Amherst, for the past two years has been serving as research assistant to Faculty members engaged upon projects intended for publication. His work involves making preliminary research surveys, gathering and systematizing material and attacking specific research problems, thus relieving Faculty members of much necessary labor.

The drop in the exchange value of the dollar and a shrinkage in endowment income are responsible for curtailment in book purchases during the year to the extent of almost 5,000 volumes. However, the Library adopted a policy of maintaining the continuity of its extensive periodical collection in the face of the increased cost of foreign periodicals amounting to almost fifty per cent, even though this meant a drastic curtailment of funds for the purchase of new books.

By gift or exchange the Library received 4,435 items as against 4,133 last year. Institutions and individuals to the number of 527 made gifts to the Library during the year. The number of university, college, and industrial libraries that borrowed from Cornell during the year was 146.

ST. LOUIS HEARS MCCOURT

At the regular monthly luncheon of the Cornell Club of St. Louis, held on October 26 at the American Hotel, Dean Walter E. McCourt '04 of Washington University spoke on his recent year's trip around the world. The Club meets regularly the last Friday of each month at noon at the American Hotel.

ITHACA WOMEN ELECT

Professor Bristow Adams addressed the Cornell Women's Club of Ithaca on "How to Read A Newspaper" at their first meeting of the year for dinner in Willard Straight Hall on October 22. Seventy-five members attended and were led in singing by Mildred F. Wilson '22 with Mrs. W. W. Ellis (Edith A. Ellis) '90 at the piano.

The Club voted to reduce the yearly dues and to hold a bridge party for the Student Loan Fund. Lillian Fasoldt '27, president; Ruth E. Weld '31, treasurer, and Mrs. Carl Gilbert (Marie M. Turpin) '23, director, continue their terms. New officers are Guertine Tinker '30, vice-president; Mrs. G. E. Durham (Mary P. Porter) '22, secretary; and Mrs. R. C. Osburn, (Agda T. Swenson) '20, director.

MORE FRATERNITY PLEDGES

Continuing the list of fraternity pledges begun in our issue of October 11, we print below the additional names reported as pledged through October 26. This brings the total to 560 this year, as compared with 434 during the period of organized rushing last year. Unless otherwise designated, the names below are of freshmen.

LIBERTY HYDE BAILEY on October 29 described his summer's trip to Mexico collecting palms to wives of Agriculture Faculty members who were the guests of Mrs. Bailey at their home in Sage Place.

Concerning THE ALUMNI

'75 AB—Judge Frank H. Hiscock and Mrs. Hiscock celebrated their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary on October 22 with a quiet family dinner at their home in Syracuse.

'87 AB—Rutgers University last June presented its award for "outstanding service to agriculture and education" to Dr. James E. Russell, dean emeritus of Teachers College, Columbia University, retiring member of the New Jersey Milk Control Board, and prominent breeder of Guernsey cattle. In presenting the award, a bronze medal, Dr. Robert C. Clothier, president of Rutgers, read the following citation: "In your singularly useful career as a teacher, and as trainer of teachers, you have successfully upheld social welfare and service to humanity as the ultimate goals of education. Your constant and fruitful efforts on behalf of adult education in the United States have won the highest commendation. In dealing with the problems of rural life you have discerned that only through a better enlightened rural citizenry can we expect agriculture to progress and to fulfill its mission to an ever-changing world. Furthermore, as one interested in education and scientific progress in New Jersey, and as a leader in a great sister university, you have been a good friend to Rutgers. It is therefore highly appropriate that we should confer upon you the Rutgers University award for outstanding service to agriculture and education of which this medal is the symbol."

'90—Dr. Robert T. Morris is one of six trustees named in the will of Edward West Browning, who died recently in New York, to administer the Edward W. Browning Foundation. The will specifies that from this Foundation are to be given each year six prizes of $250 each to outstanding men and women in six fields of public service: world peace, religion and morals, prevention of cruelty to children, prevention of cruelty to animals, promotion of fisheries in the United States, preservation of wild animals, and in the field of fine arts.

'88 PhB—John R. Mott announced on October 21 the dissolution of the Institute of Social and Religious Research, of which he had been president. No reason was given. Organized in 1921 under the patronage of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. for the study of religious enterprises and their social significance, the Institute had been supported by annual grants from him.

'95 LLB; '99 BS—Frank K. Nebeker was chief of Government counsel in the Government's suit against the Weirton Steel Company asking an injunction preventing the company from interfering in its employees' choice of collective bargaining representatives. Walter C. Teagle '99, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, testified for the defense on October 23 as a former member of the old National Labor Board.

'98 BArch—Members of Delta Upsilon who live in northern New Jersey and adjacent points were entertained with their families in June by Floyd Y. Parsons and Mrs. Parsons at a picnic at their camp at Wyckoff, N. J. This was the tenth similar annual gathering.

'99 ME(EE)—John W. O'Leary, president of the Machinery and Allied Products Institute, spoke over a Columbia Broadcasting System network on October 25.

'00 AM; '05 LLB—Roswell C. McCrea and Judge William L. Ransom are members of the committee on program and arrangements for the annual dinner of The Academy of Political Science being held at the Hotel Astor in New York City on November 7. Judge Ransom is also a member of the Academy's board of trustees.

'01 BArch—Frederick L. Ackerman, who is technical director of the New York City Housing Authority, spoke on the National Housing Act at a dinner on October 31 of the Producers' Council, affiliated with the American Institute of Architects.

'02 BArch—In the current reorganization of the National Labor Relations Board, R. H. Shreve has been appointed a member representing industry of the Regional Labor Board for the New York district.

'03-4 Sp—George H. Phelps on November 1 became a general partner in Fenner & Beane, members of the New York Stock Exchange. He will make his headquarters in Miami Beach, Fla., where he has been a winter resident for many years. Formerly advertising director of Dodge Brothers during the automobile company's first fifteen years, in 1921 he formed the advertising firm of George Harrison Phelps, Inc., continuing to act as advertising counsel for Dodge Brothers and handling the accounts of other national advertisers. In 1930 he sold his interest in the firm and retired from the advertising business. He was appointed special United States commissioner to Europe to study labor conditions, and in 1931 was special commissioner of the French Colonial Exposition, of which he became chairman of the American committee. Three times he was decorated by the French Government for promoting Franco-American relations, and has written several books on public relations and economics.

'04 AB—Those parts of George Jean Nathan's ten-point American recovery program which are aimed at the activities of women are somewhat caustically commented upon by Evelyn Seeley in the New York World-Telegram of October

27. She says: "Actually, Mr. Nathan, as his friends know, is the most romantic of males, the most gallant and charming and thoughtful toward women individually. He does not want woman back in the kitchen but rather sitting back frail and lovely and helpless and decorative against the silken cushions sewing a fine seam or just folding her pretty white hands. At one time Mr. Nathan's argument might have been forceful. At another time it might have been funny. Now it is neither."

'05 MD—Dr. J. Homer Cudmore was Republican candidate for Representative from the Sixteenth District in New York City, running on the slogan, "Jobs instead of charity." He is a fellow of the American College of Physicians and of the American Medical Association, a member of various other professional societies, and vice-president of the Physicians and Allied Professions Political League. His office and residence are at 216 East Thirty-ninth Street, New York City.

'05-6 Grad—Burdette G. Lewis, executive director of the American Welfare Association, addressing the convention of the Association in Denver on October 27, asserted that the Administration was considering a plan to levy a nation-wide payroll tax of one percent which he said would bring additional income to the Treasury of at least $200,000,000 a year. At Washington it was stated that no such tax had been discussed, but pointed out that it might have been confused with the possibility of legislation setting up unemployment insurance.

'05 ME—Norman C. Chambers and Mrs. Chambers are visiting in the United States on a brief holiday from Berlin, Germany, where Chambers makes his headquarters as manufacturer's representative in Moscow of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool Company. Ernest P. Waud '03 writes that he and Mrs. Waud (Olive B. Morrison) '03 entertained the Chambers at their home in Chicago early in October and had a most interesting time with them, as they have had many interesting experiences including being on the Titanic when it was sunk and traveling in all parts of the world.

'06 BSA—In connection with the centennial celebration of the city of Binghamton recently, John H. Barron, extension professor of agronomy, was honored as the first farm bureau agent in the world. A bronze tablet was unveiled at the Broome County court house to commemorate the founding of the farm bureau in March, 1911, under Professor Barron's managership.

'08 LLB; '21 AB, '24 LLB—Daniel Crowley, City Judge of Ithaca, and Allan H. Treman '21 have been appointed members of the law committee of the State Democratic committee by James A. Farley, chairman.

'08 AB—R. Stuart Owens is a chemical engineer specializing in corrosion and abrasion problems. His office is at 72 Cortlandt Street, New York; he lives at 289 Clinton Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

'10 AB—Abraham L. Doris is Comptroller of the State of New York.

'10 LLB—Russel Sprague, supervisor of the Town of Hempstead, N. Y., was one of the speakers at the opening of the new Meadowbrook State causeway from Freeport to Jones Beach on October 27.

'11 ME—Paul B. Eaton is professor and head of the department of mechanical engineering at Lafayette College, Easton, Pa.

'12 BSA—Since May, 1933, George H. Bissinger has been director of research of the Philippine Sugar Association in Manila. He has been appointed a member of the National Research Council of the Philippine Islands, is chairman of the section on sugar by-products and a member of the division of forestry and agriculture. Last August he became editor of The Sugar News. On February 11, 1933, he married Winifred Allen of Tacoma, Wash., in Kowloon, Hongkong. His address is P. O. Box 1493, Manila, P. I.

'12 LLB—Henry A. Carey, president of the H. A. Carey Company, Ithaca insurance agency, was given a testimonial dinner at Dr. Frank J. McCormick's summer home on Seneca Lake to celebrate his twentieth year in the insurance business. After graduation, Carey was admitted to the Bar and had offices in Plattsburg and Cortland before he returned to Ithaca to open an insurance office with John Burns as Burns and Carey. He is president of the Reconstruction Home in Ithaca, a member of the board of trustees of Memorial Hospital, and city commissioner of health.

'13—Helen A., daughter of Lessing J. Rosenwald, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck & Co., and Mrs. Rosenwald, eloped on October 22 and was married to Harry H. Snellenburg, Jr., of Wyncote, Pa. The bride had been attending Simmons College and the groom, Brown University.

'14 CE—Joseph A. W. Iglehart has been appointed a member of the auditing committee of the Bond Club of New York City.

'14 ME—Mabon P. Roper forecast a possible total saving in gas bills next year of $30,000,000 to $50,000,000 by the use of more efficient top burners on gas ranges, at the convention of the American Gas Association in Atlantic City, N. J. October 28.

'14 PhD—Dr. W. Howard Rankin, New York State supervisor of elm disease control, has an article on the garden page of the New York Times of October 28 on the fight being waged against the Dutch elm disease and how home owners can assist in it, principally by destroying all dead elm wood, either standing or cut.

MORE IMPORTANT THAN ANY MATERIAL THING

MORE important than millions of telephones and millions of miles of wire is the fundamental policy of the Bell System. It is founded on a spirit of fair dealing with the public, with employees and with those who have invested their money in the business.

“The fact that the responsibility for such a large part of the entire telephone service of the country rests solely upon this Company and its Associated Companies also imposes on the management an unusual obligation to the public to see to it that the service shall at all times be adequate, dependable and satisfactory to the user. Obviously, the only sound policy that will meet these obligations is to continue to furnish the best possible telephone service at the lowest cost consistent with financial safety. This policy is bound to succeed in the long run and there is no justification for acting otherwise than for the long run. . . .

“Earnings must be sufficient to assure the best possible telephone service at all times and to assure the continued financial integrity of the business. Earnings that are less than adequate must result in telephone service that is something less than the best possible. . . . The margin of safety in earnings is only a small percentage of the rate charged for service, but that we may carry out our ideals and aims it is essential that this margin be kept adequate. . . . This is fundamental in the policy of the management.”
