One Special Friend...

will thank you, now, for bringing the Alumni News to his attention. It needn't cost you anything. The next time you write to that particular friend of college days, just say, as so many others are doing, "Have you seen the Alumni News lately?"

- Or send us his name and address and we'll mail him a sample copy, telling him it comes at your suggestion.
- Better yet, of course, ask us to enter him as a subscriber and send you the bill. It costs only four dollars a year. He'll thank you for your thoughtfulness each week as he reads the news of Cornell. Your request on a postcard will do.

Dr. Henry P. deForest, secretary of the Class of '84, writes us: "At the Cornell Club of New York, of which I am the librarian, the Alumni News has been much more in demand during the past few months than for some years past."

FUND REPORTS CHANGES '26 Leads All Classes

The Class of '26, in the eight months' report of the Alumni Fund through February 28, retains its lead of last month in both amount and in percentage of its members contributing, and climbs from third to first place also in number of subscribers. Archie M. Palmer '18, executive secretary of The Cornellian Council, reports that 120 members of this class, or 8.25 percent, have given $1,691.60. This is $50 more than the Class subscribed in all of the last fiscal year. The Class of '21 has likewise exceeded last year; with '25 reported last month, this makes three classes who are so far ahead of last year's total.

Experience shows that the next four months are the most productive, since the subscriptions of the older classes are mostly made in the spring and early summer, but Palmer reports a total of $35,532.10 from 2,563 contributors in the eight months through February 28. Beginning in April, he expects the older classes to show up much more strongly in the Alumni Fund ranking. Only three before 1920 are included in the first ten in amount contributed this report: '10 is second with $1,646.00; '85 is sixth with $1,290.00; and '08 is ninth with $1,152.50. '12 and '13 are tied at seventh place in number of contributors, with 91 each; but in percentage of membership subscribing, six of the classes before '20 appear among the first ten.

In amount, '23 still holds third place, with $1,525.84, and '24 is again fourth, with $1,446.34. The Class of '21 has climbed from seventh place to fifth, with $1,354.58; '22 surrenders fifth place to rank seventh, with $1,285.81; '20 drops from sixth last month to eighth, with $1,256.79; and '25 although nearly $200 ahead of all of last year, has dropped from ninth to tenth place, with $1,117.83.

Following '26 with one less contributor, the Class of '24 holds its last month's place at second, with 119. '22 drops this month from first place to third, with 115; and the baby class, '34 comes up from fifth to fourth, with 114, making a difference of but six subscribers between the leader and the fourth in line. '21 this month is fifth, with 96; '23 has risen from seventh to sixth, with 94; and '33 is a newcomer to the honor roll, taking ninth place with 85; while '20 drops from eighth to tenth, with 83.

As is to be expected from their age and because they were fewer at the start, the older classes rank well in the percentage of their living members who have subscribed to the Alumni Fund. '09 is second in this classification, with 8.09 percent contributing, having climbed from fifth place of last month. '85 steps up from eighth to third, with 8.07; '24 is still in fourth place, however, with 7.83 percent. This report shows two newcomers in the first ten: '84 in fifth place, with 7.58 percent contributing, and '13 in eighth place, with 7.46 percent. Sixth place is now occupied by '12, with 7.52 percent, and seventh by '22, with 7.47 percent, these having been pushed out of second and third, respectively. Doggedly holding their own at ninth and tenth are '00 and '34, with 7.41 percent and 7.34 percent, respectively.

WESTERN WOMEN ELECT

The Cornell Women's Club of Southern California met for luncheon on February 23 at the home of its president, Mrs. Caroline I. Slater '91. In the election of officers for the ensuing year Mrs. Howard B. Lewis (Dorothy L. Davies) '24 was elected president, with Mrs. Slater as the vice-president, Mrs. Katharine Slater Haskell '23, secretary.

REPORT X-RAY PROGRESS

Fourteen years of research carried on under the direction of Dr. Floyd K. Richtmyer '04, Dean of the Graduate School and one of the country's foremost physicists, has culminated in a new method and apparatus for the separation of X-ray wave lengths that may solve important problems which have baffled medical science for thirty years.

Trevor R. Cuykendall of Denver, Col. and Matthew T. Jones of Cleveland, O., students in the Graduate School, have with Dr. Richtmyer perfected the apparatus. It was described for the first time by Cuykendall February 23 before the meeting at Columbia of the American Physical Society and the Optical Society of America.

Called "a two crystal transmission spectrometer for ultra-short X-rays," the new apparatus is said to make possible for the first time the separation of the more penetrating types of X-rays into their component wave lengths, with consequent opportunity to study their effects on living tissues. It is the short-wave X-rays that are used largely for deep therapy, such as the treatment of deep-seated tumors. Thus for the first time will it be possible for medical science to ascertain whether certain types of wave lengths are more beneficial than others for specific types of diseases.

Professor Richtmyer reported that wave lengths two octaves below the former measurable range can now be isolated with the new apparatus.

CORNELL DAY PLANS Clubs Get Suggestions

A letter from William J. Thorne '11, chairman of the Cornell Alumni Corporation committee on relations with secondary schools, to the presidents and secretaries of Cornell Clubs outlines plans and gives suggestions for Cornell Day in Ithaca, May 11.

Club candidates for the trip to Ithaca this year are to be approved by the chairman of Cornell Day committees in local clubs before they are invited to appear for personal interviews with the committees, who will consult with principals and headmasters and finally select the boys to be brought. Thorne's letter gives detailed ideas for working with schools and with the boys and their parents.

Present students in the University are also being given opportunity to suggest the names of boys whom they should like to see invited as Cornell Day guests. These names will be referred to local club chairmen or to individuals near them for checking up their qualifications for entrance and making arrangements for transportation when they are finally selected.

Alumni who are not affiliated with Cornell clubs or who live in regions where no club is active are urged by the Alumni Office to communicate with it directly about boys whom they wish to invite.

Thorne points out that the plan is not one to get more students, but to broaden the basis of selection so that the best all-around students of high schools and preparatory schools may have opportunity to see Cornell before deciding where they will go to college. Last September nearly 3,000 applied for admission to the University, but approximately 1300 were accepted. Of last year's Cornell Day guests, about 300 were eligible for entrance, and 108 registered in the University. Ninety-eight of these replied to a letter asking whether they had definitely decided to come to Cornell before May 12, the date of Cornell Day; 71 said they were either definitely headed elsewhere or that Cornell was only one of the colleges they were considering.

"The 71," says Thorne, "broadened the selectivity base; the main object of Cornell Day. They do not represent a mere increase in numbers registered."

"Some alumni complained that certain potential applicants, especially those with all-around qualifications: brains, character, qualities of leadership and physical fitness, including athletic ability, are frequently attracted elsewhere. The answer is easy.

"Alumni of other institutions have made it their business to see that contacts are made and kept with this kind of chap. (If those of us who are interested do not do likewise, we ought to keep quiet). Use Cornell Day to bring these contacts to Ithaca and we will get our fair proportion of these men. Cornell, once seen, is its own best advertisement.

"This point is of broad, general interest to Cornell men at this time. The University is alive to that interest. This is clearly indicated by the appointment and the activities of the Athletic Control Committee and of the committee of Trustees, Faculty, and alumni. Constructive suggestions from clubs and individuals will naturally be welcomed. On the other hand, athletic-minded alumni know that the right type of material is essential to creditable teams.

"It requires no stretch of the imagination to realize that the right type of material for Cornell Day must include this group. The outlook was never brighter. The job is up to us alumni.

"Alumni make the final selection of the candidates and furnish the transportation. The alumni chauffeurs have no responsibility in Ithaca. The boys will be entertained by the fraternities without expense to them and the alumni will have to provide only their own meals. No guide duty, no guard duty, and two days' vacation!

"Quotas may have to be established. Ray Ashbery in the Alumni Office at Ithaca must know by April 15 (earlier if possible) approximately the number your Club will bring. Another total of 600 is too many to handle effectively."

OFFER NEW SCHOLARSHIPS

The Board of Trustees has authorized five new undergraduate scholarships in the College of Architecture of $250 each. Cornell has been the leader of the relatively few American colleges which now require five years of undergraduate work for the Bachelor's degree in architecture, landscape architecture, and the fine arts. These new scholarships, open to graduates of four-year courses in these subjects, exactly offset the difference in undergraduate and graduate tuition in the College, making it possible for graduates of four-year courses elsewhere to receive the Cornell degrees of B.Arch., B.L.A. or B.F.A. at the same tuition cost as if they registered in the Graduate School.

Announced late in September, but two are filled this year. They are held by Nelle E. Tobias, graduate in landscape architecture of Oregon State College, and Albert S. Thomas, Jr., graduate in architecture of Clemson College.

To meet the increasing demands for graduate instruction in the College, the Trustees have also created two additional graduate tuition scholarships besides the one previously available. The College has also a University Fellowship which pays $400 and exempts the holder from payment of tuition. These scholarships and fellowship are open only to those enrolled in the Graduate School who hold a baccalaureate degree the requirements for which are substantially the same as at Cornell; in general, a five-year course. The Fellowship this year is held by James W. Breed, graduate of the University of Pennsylvania.

ELMIRA TO MEET MONTHLY

The Cornell Club of Elmira held a luncheon meeting at the Langwell Hotel on February 19, and voted to meet regularly each month thereafter. Walter R. Rollo '23, president of the Club, presided. Nelson A. Welles '84 had the honor of being the oldest alumnus present.

TO DEBATE TWICE

The Debate Council has announced two intercollegiate debates in which Varsity teams will take part during March. The first is with Hobart College at Geneva, on March 25. Sanford H. Bolz '35 of Albany and Allan B. Campbell '36 of St. Albans will uphold the affirmative of the question: "Resolved, that nations should agree to prevent the international shipment of munitions."

On March 27 in Ithaca, Gustav U. Gants '35 of New Rochelle and Philip Goodheim '36 of Gloversville will meet a team from Hamilton College. The Cornell debaters here will argue the negative side of the same question, which is this year's official topic of the Intercollegiate Debate Association.

LAW SCHOOL CELEBRITIES

This year's entering class at the Law School contains a former judge in Germany, two former assistant German judges, and a member of the Maine Legislature, to say nothing of several former members of Varsity athletic teams.

Willi Kohler was for six years a judge in Stuttgart, Germany, having studied at the Universities of Berlin and Tuepinten. Rudolf E. Uhlman studied six years at the Universities of Friburg, Munich, and received his LLD degree, and became an assistant judge in Stuttgart. John P. Jehu, although born in New York City, lived in Germany from the time he was six, received the LLD degree from the University of Munich, and was for a time assistant judge in the district of Munich. Randolph A. Weatherbee of Lincoln, Me. is a member of the Legislature of his State.

Among the present students of the Law School are at least five members of former Varsity football teams, four cross country and track men, three members of wrestling teams, two of baseball, two of lacrosse, two members of fencing teams, and one former member of the soccer team. Several took part in more than one sport, and three, Viviano and Beyer in football and Goldbas in boxing, are now members of the University coaching staff.

Wearers of the C in the first-year Law class include Robert S. Grant '34 of Ithaca, football, baseball; Edwin F. Hendrickson '33 of Bridge Hampton, track, wrestling; Nathaniel E. Kossack '34 of Kew Gardens, football, lacrosse; Joseph R. Mangan '34 of Rutland, Vt., cross country, track captain; Stephen H. Sampson '34 of Ithaca, track; and James P. Weir '34 of Guilford, wrestling.

In the second year of Law School are Raymond J. Cothran '33 of Lockport, former captain of the wrestling team; Richard H. Beyer '33 of Buffalo, football, lacrosse captain; Carl F. Hollander '34 of Philadelphia, Pa., cross country, track; George H. Krieger '33 of Salamanca, soccer; and Bartholomew J. Viviano '33 of Plainfield, N. J., football captain.

Third-year Law students include three former Varsity athletes: Hale Anderson, Jr. '33 of Caldwell, N. J. and Herbert H. Blau '33 of New Rochelle, former members of the fencing team; and Forbes D. Shaw '27, captain of the baseball team in his senior year.

WOMEN STUDY JOBS

Teaching is named as the vocation in which they are most interested by one-fourth of the 516 undergraduate women in the Colleges of Agriculture, Arts and Sciences, and Home Economics. More upper class women are interested in opportunities in the teaching profession than in any other, according to a recent questionnaire circulated by the Women's Self Government Association.

The study was sponsored by the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs and is being followed March 9 by a vocational conference in Ithaca at which undergraduate women will be hostesses to alumnae in the various fields of work who will describe the opportunities and problems to be encountered. The meeting will be brought to a close at a tea in Willard Straight Hall, addressed by Beulah Bailey '12, president of the Association of New York State Civil Service Employees. Besides undergraduates, the guests will include members of the American Association of University Women, League of Women Voters, and the Cornell Women's Club of Ithaca.

Most of the undergraduates indicate interest in more than one field of work; two-fifths said they were interested in as many as four. Among the whole group, science, including chemistry, medicine, and bacteriology, leads in interest; social service ranks second. Other fields indicated by many are journalism, clothing, dietetics, psychology, interior decoration, retailing, institutional management, and nursery schools. A few said they hoped for such careers as exploring, motion pictures, the dairy industry, and as missionaries.

FIRST HOTEL ALUMNI OUT TEN YEARS

Department Has Unique Record of Support and Accomplishments

Celebrating the tenth anniversary of the graduation of their first class, seventy-five Hotel Administration alumni, Faculty members, and guests met for dinner at the Cornell Club of New York, February 26. An illuminated scroll was presented to Professor Howard B. Meek, who has been head of the Department since its inception. The scroll is signed by the two members of that class of February, 1925: A. Winston Dunlap '25, president, and William R. Needham '25, vice-president, treasurer, secretary, historian, and member. The celebration was organized by the Cornell Society of Hotelmen, of which Albert E. Koehl '28 of the Hotel New Yorker is president and Everett E. Burdge '30 of the Hotel Lincoln is president of the New York Chapter.

Cornell's is the first four-year hotel course of college grade in the world. A tuition course, it was established and supported by the cooperation of the American Hotel Association and financial assistance of the heirs and trustees of the estate of the late Ellsworth M. Statler. In 1922 Professor Meek was brought to Ithaca as the entire Faculty. He had managed hotels in New England and the South, and had taught mathematics at Yale and the University of Maine.

Located in the old Home Economics building, the first enrollment was twenty-four students. Two courses in hotel subjects were given by the single Faculty member, the balance of the work being taken in the Department of Home Economics and other regular University classes.

Now in its own quarters in Martha Van Rensselaer Hall, the Department of Hotel Administration has an enrollment of 185. Many of the present students have worked in hotels, both before entering the University and during the summer practice periods, of which three are required of all students who have not had the equivalent experience. Its students come from all over the world. One of this term's entrants is Frank Hamlet, who for four years has been connected with the Imperial Hydro and Grand Hotels of Blackpool, England; another is Harold A. Rosen, formerly an elevator operator in the Hotel New Yorker and winner of a competitive Cornell scholarship of $500 a year for four years, offered by the management.

Besides the strictly professional courses and those required of all undergraduates in the University, hotel students get training in such subjects as drawing, physics, chemistry, biology, engineering, vegetable crops, meat products, dietetics, food preparation, bacteriology, textiles, decoration, economics, psychology, personnel management, advertising, and public speaking. Most of these are special classes for Hotel Administration students.

Forty or more strictly professional hotel courses are taught by the resident staff of the Department and by visiting lecturers recruited from the industry. Hotel accounting and financial management are given by Assistant Professor John Courtney '25 and by Charles E. Cladel '29, who is on leave of absence from the accounting firm of Horwath and Horwath. Courses in hotel operation and management are given by Professor Meek. Practical instruction in hotel engineering, mechanical equipment, planning, and maintenance is given by Professor Frank H. Randolph '17 and Charles I. Sayles '26. Alfred L. Olsen '25 is on leave of absence in Washington, D. C., where he is assistant deputy administrator of NRA.

Since the inception of the Department its students have had the advantage of regular instruction by persons active not only in the operation of hotels but in allied businesses and professions. These visiting lecturers come regularly from their offices to the Campus to conduct classes. Among them this year, for example, are Henry A. Carey '12, who gives a course in insurance; Durries H. Crane, vice-president in charge of food, National Hotel Management Company, New York City; Albert E. Koehl '28 of the Hotel New Yorker, who gives instruction in hotel promotion; Daniel H. McCarrigher '13, operator of the Stuyvesant and Westbrook Hotels, Buffalo; Ann Owens, executive housekeeper, Sherry Netherland Hotel, New York City; William R. Needham '25, president, Needham & Grohmann, Inc., New York City, who gives a course in hotel public relations; Ernest N. Smith, executive vice-president, American Automobile Association, who gives instruction in "tourism," the volume and distribution of travel; Charles K. Swafford, vice-president in charge of sales, National Hotel Management Company, New York City; Louis Toth, C.P.A., of Horwath and Horwath, New York City, who conducts a course in hotel finance; Allan H. Treman '21 who teaches hotel law; and Joseph D. Vehling, food editor, Hotel Bulletin and The Nation's Chefs.

In addition to those who give regular courses, distinguished hotel men deliver each year a series of weekly lectures on various professional subjects. The first of these for the current term was given February 22 by John L. Horgan, manager of the Hotel Edison, New York City.

Not only do hotel men help teach the students, but they also hire them. Of the 225 men and seven women alumni, 98 percent are employed, 86 percent in hotel work and 32 percent managing hotels. At no time, says Professor Meek, have as many as five percent been out of work; in the last two months of 1934 he had requests for help from forty prospective employers and could find only four or five alumni of the Department who were not working.

Professor Meek has

built up in his Department a remarkable esprit de corps. Undergraduates have their own teams for intramural sports; Ye Hosts, the upperclass honorary society, acts as a reception committee for entering students and visiting hotel men; and this year members of the freshmen class have their own Department club, The Greeters.

Every alumnus is a member of the Cornell Society of Hotelmen, which has six regional chapters. The Society and undergraduates entertain hotel men each year in New York City during the State convention and National Hotel Exposition, when upperclassmen attend the Exposition, inspect Metropolitan hotels, and take over the running of one of them for a day.

For one day each spring since 1926, students of the Department organize and completely operate Hotel Ezra Cornell. This year on May 3 they will take over Willard Straight Hall, plan and prepare a dinner, manage entertainment and a dance, and handle the accommodations for guests.

Besides giving instruction and employment to graduates and undergraduates of the Department, the hotel and related industries have established no less than thirteen scholarships, fellowships, and prizes to be awarded to students. The donors include Horwath and Horwath, hotel accountants; the International Stewards Association; The Savarins, Inc.; E. M. Tierney of the Arlington Hotel, Binghamton; Harry Latz Service, Inc.; the New Jersey and the Pennsylvania State Hotel Associations; E. C. Eppley, president of the Eppley Hotel Company; Harris, Kerr, Forster & Company, accountants; National Hotel Management Company, Inc.; Ahrens Publishing Company; W. I. Hamilton, author of the series of Hotel Service manuals; and Needham and Grohmann, Inc., advertising agency specializing in hotel advertising.

Cornell hotelmen are widely scattered over the globe. Among the restaurants, hotels, and clubs where alumni may now expect to be cared for by fellow Cornellians are the following:

AG. FROSH PURPOSEFUL

Nearly eighty percent of the freshmen in the College of Agriculture came to college to get specific training and a better job, according to the answers to a recent questionnaire.

Early in the course in orientation, which all are required to take, the 359 entering students in the College were asked to indicate anonymously for which of seven or other reasons they came to college. They were given opportunity to check also the reasons of second and third importance if more than one reason influenced them, and to state other reasons not included.

The primary reason checked by 207 of the 359 freshmen was "to get training for a specific type of work or profession." Next in importance and closely related was "I hoped, by going to college, to be able to get a better job"; 79 checked this. Forty-seven "wanted a general college education"; nine wrote in various other reasons not stated, and the same number checked "My family wanted me to go to college." Five "had nothing else worthwhile to do," two "wanted the social contacts to be found in college," and only one said he "wanted to develop my athletic ability."

Secondary reasons were given by 334, the preponderance given to the possibility of a better job, wish for a general college education, social contacts, and desire for specific training, in that order. The prevailing reason of third importance given was social contacts, followed by the wish for a college education, and by family wishes and the desire for a better job.

BATAVIA WOMEN MEET

Mrs. Julian Harvey (Mary E. Wright) '14, Batavia, was hostess to twenty members of the Cornell Women's Club of Batavia at a luncheon meeting, February 16 at her home, 419 East Main Street. Following the luncheon, Myrta E. Hunn '99 gave a brief review of the play Liliom, by Ferenc Molnar, which is to be presented in April by the Batavia players. The Club will hold its next luncheon meeting on April 13, the place to be announced later.

BUFFALO CLUB DINES

The Cornell Club of Buffalo had one of its old time parties on February 23 when some two hundred alumni were present for the annual dinner at the Hotel Buffalo. President Farrand and Professor George F. Warren '05 were the principal speakers, with Carlton P. Cooke '21 as toastmaster. Several other alumni made brief remarks: Arvin J. Dillenbeck '11, president of the Club; Herbert R. Johnston '17, secretary; W. Morgan Kendall '19, chairman of the club scholarship committee; and Archie M. Palmer '18, secretary of the Cornellian Council. Edwin H. (Hap) Hilborn '36 went up from Ithaca to perform on his piano accordion. Neil M. Willard '18 took his accustomed role as song leader, as did Charles G. Seelbach '19 directing his orchestra. H. Halsey Miller '11 was chairman of the banquet committee.

A CORNELL BILLIARD TEAM, selected in the game room of Willard Straight to represent the University by telegraph March 7 for the second year of intercollegiate competition, consists of Frank A. Taberski '35 of Schenectady, Robert N. Williams '37 of Bradford, Pa., Mortimer Goldstein '36 of Rochester, Manford Rosencheck '37 of Elmira, and John R. Carver '37 of Ithaca.

ASHBERY MAKES CIRCUIT

Ray S. Ashbery '25, Alumni Field Secretary, has just returned from a trip into New England where he met with various Cornell Clubs and visited several preparatory schools in connection with the plans for Cornell Day, scheduled for Saturday, May 11.

His first stop was the first annual banquet of all Cornell football men in the Metropolitan area on February 8 in New York. He attended the meeting of the Association of Class Secretaries on Saturday, the 9th. On Monday evening, February 11, Ashbery participated in the College Night at the Garden City High School. Farther out on Long Island the following evening he met with the alumni of eastern Suffolk County at the Hotel Henry Perkins in Riverhead.

With Waterbury, Connecticut, as headquarters for two days, Ashbery visited Choate, Taft, and Roxbury schools, and was entertained by the Cornell Club of Waterbury at a dinner meeting on February 14 at the Hotel Elton. He met at dinner with the Cornell Women's Club of Western Connecticut on February 16 in Bridgeport.

The Boston alumni held a buffet supper Monday, the 18th, at the Chamber of Commerce building. The Club that evening had many high school boys as its guests. From Boston Ashbery visited Andover and Exeter.

The Hartford Cornell Club had a dinner meeting at the University Club on February 21. During his stay in Hartford, Ashbery visited Loomis, Westminster, and Avon-Old-Farms, preparatory schools in the vicinity.

Ashbery talked on current Campus topics at all of the alumni gatherings and showed films of football games and Campus views.

ON TRAINING CITIZENS

Culture, insofar as it can be induced by higher education, has had to undergo in the last half century many and vigorous changes. Cornell has played the part of pioneer in many of these modifications. Its services extend from a time when no culture was recognized but the classics, to one when a person with merely a bowing acquaintance with these earlier standards may still be regarded as cultured if he is prepared to contribute to society the quality of leadership.

To this modern idea of the task of an educational institution, Cornell is well adapted. Teaching the classical subjects with enthusiasm, she combines with them offerings that are in some cases wholly practical and in others invaluable to those who wish to understand or to lead movements for the benefit of state or nation. This understanding may be merely sympathy for a movement, or it may be the actual technique to work professionally in social and civic projects of nationwide magnitude.

Change is going on progressively, not in any one department or college, but rather in the breaking down of administrative distinctions to give students opportunity to acquire broad training. It is now possible to take a subject here, a department there, wherever useful material is found to produce a desired background for the attaining of the new objective.

The immediately useful value of these consolidations is seen in such courses as Hotel Management, Landscape Architecture, and Administrative Engineering. Doubtless, as the demand becomes urgent and funds for administration become available, so-called practical courses can be established in any subject. The University is a reservoir of science, economics, and other fundamentals that can give breadth and depth to whatever additional technical courses may be offered.

The success of this idea of adapting the available opportunities to a purpose has led to such important developments as the new course in large scale planning, the course leading to the management of public works, and the drafting of members of the staff to lead in State and national planning, social as well as economic.

Recognition is rapidly growing that Cornell is much more than a place where courses are taught. Here, as in few other universities, opportunity is freely offered whereby its students may become truly cultured; in the sense that they become better citizens than if they have been educated merely. In a changing world its graduates have had the opportunity of pondering on the causes, values, and reasons of the changes.

The great need of the world at the moment, if it is not true of all ages and epochs, is for citizens willing to try to find out what it is all about. Mere curiosity is insufficient equipment for the task. Training in fundamentals, technique, facts, and above all social-mindedness, will make the fully-rounded voter and worker that the country increasingly needs.

So it is that, in a world that must apparently be rebuilt, and that might be remade into something finer than what has been lost, Cornell is able to contribute more than her quota of the personnel for the task. This personnel, both of voters and leaders, will approach the problem with a knowledge of the world in which we have been living, plus a bent for studied rather than haphazard progress toward that Utopia which may be built by hard work and intelligent planning.

AS PRESIDENT of the National Society of the Women's Overseas League, Miss Faustine Dennis, daughter of Emeritus Professor and Mrs. Louis M. Dennis, Chemistry, took a part in a coast-to-coast broadcast from WJZ on February 25.

PROFESSOR JULIAN P. BRETZ, chairman of the Tompkins County Democratic Committee, addressed the Women's Democratic Club of Ithaca February 28. Margaret M. Reidy '08 is the president.

MISS SARAH NEBLETT, executive secretary of the CURW, and Catharine H. Stainken '36 of Brooklyn, treasurer of the women's cabinet, represented the University at the Student Christian Movement conference of western New York at Elmira College, March 2.

A DAUGHTER was born February 25 in Ithaca to Dr. and Mrs. Earl M. Hildebrand, Plant Pathology.

PROFESSOR E. LAURENCE PALMER '11, recently returned, described before the Exchange Club of Ithaca, February 26, "A Couple of Months in Jamaica."

Concerning
 THE FACULTY

PRESIDENT FARRAND, broadcasting February 25 over a national network in the "Doctors, Dollars, and Disease" series of the National Advisory Council on Radio in Education, advocated a system of health insurance to the benefit of both the public and the medical and dental professions. He pointed out that the mass of the American people are receiving inadequate medical care, although that care is available and must be had. The costs cannot be met by the individual but can be met when distributed over large groups. Methods of distribution must depend on local and special conditions. Dr. Farrand's address was widely quoted and was the subject of an editorial in the New York Times of March 1.

PROFESSOR ROLLAND M. STEWART, Rural Education, was called to Washington, D. C. February 23 to be one of the judges to select the master teacher of vocational agriculture for 1934-5. On February 27 he reported before the annual convention of the National Education Association department of superintendence, for his committee, on "Redirecting the Training Program for Rural Youth."

DR. KENNETH HOOD, PhD '34, assistant and instructor in Farm Management since 1930, has returned to Pennsylvania State College, his alma mater, to become a member of the staff in agricultural economics.

DR. CHARLES J. BULLOCK who was instructor in Political Economy at the University from 1895 to 1899, has retired as professor of economics at Harvard, where he has been since 1908. As an outspoken advocate of a sales tax and as a successful teacher and writer, he was the subject of Lemuel F. Parton's column, "Who's News Today," in the New York Sun of February 2.

PROFESSOR PETER W. CLAASSEN, PhD '18, Biology, is recovering at his home, 915 Highland Road, from a recent major operation.

DR. HARRY H. LOVE, PhD '09, Plant Breeding, recently returned from China, described conditions in that country before the Ithaca Rotary Club on February 13.

DEAN DEXTER S. KIMBALL, Engineering, spoke against State ratification of the child labor amendment at the annual dinner of the YMCA in Ithaca February 19. At a smoker of the Masonic Club February 13 he gave an illustrated talk on the famous Comstock Lode.

BRIEF NEWS OF CAMPUS AND TOWN

MARCH came to Ithaca gently and to this writing (Monday) has continued lamblike, as the ice on Cayuga Lake recedes daily nearer toward the shore and the toboggan slide at Beebe Lake becomes again deserted. Last week, however, we still had skating and for part of the time the slide was as fast as it has been all winter.

ALONG WITH the first-of-the-month bills came to such of Ithaca's householders as are employed in some capacity by one of the State colleges the good news that the Governor's new budget included provision for restoring all pay cuts which have been in effect since April, 1933. Beginning next July 1, they all go back to pre-depression incomes. Thus is restored a sliding scale of wage cuts, which fell heaviest on those who were getting the most. The State budget appropriates $1,705,572 to the College of Agriculture, $302,690 to Home Economics, and $172,765 to the Veterinary College, of which not all, of course, is for salaries and wages. From the lower Campus comes only the unofficial word that the University's budget is still being stretched to the limit.

TAKING AS HIS TEXT a quotation from Andrew D. White's Autobiography: "Today is the disciple of yesterday, and tomorrow of today," Dr. Henry Noble McCracken, president of Vassar, predicted further increase in bureaucracy and pleaded for a liberal democratic state, at the dinner of university women and their guests in Willard Straight Hall February 27. He decried the present tendency toward making inferences from great masses of statistics and said that education and science must take account of the emotions as they never have in the past.

FASTNACHTFEST will be celebrated with a costume party in Willard Straight Hall on March 16, when Memorial Hall will be transformed into the public square of a typical German Village and the guests will disport themselves in costume. This year for the third time the affair will be sponsored by the Deutcher Verein and the board of managers of Willard Straight. German exchange students from many Eastern universities will be guests of honor.

THE FIRST Cornell ROTC indoor horse show will be held in the Riding Hall on the evening of April 20, under the sponsorship of the Riding and Polo Club. Classes are announced for both gentlemen and ladies in gaited saddle horses, jumping, and gymkhana events. The customary outdoor show will also be held late in May on upper Alumni Field in conjunction with the Association of American Horse Shows.

LAWYERS AND THEIR LADIES and guests danced gaily at the annual Bar-risters' Ball, held March 1 in Willard Straight Hall. The day before, a specially chartered airplane had circled over the Campus dropping a few free tickets and many legally-worded summonses to attend. Ernest J. Gazda '35 of Taylor, Pa. was chairman of the committee.

LOUISA F. DAVIS '37 of Hoboken, N. J., who last summer toured Germany with several other young Americans, related her experiences to a YMCA club in Ithaca February 26. She spoke especially of the German youth movement and said that their organizations are for political purposes mainly, not military.

PROFESSOR ANDREW C. HAIGH, accomplished pianist of the Department of Music, played a delightful program of Beethoven, Franck, Shumann, and Chopin to the great enjoyment of his audience in Bailey Hall on February 26. This community has no doubt of its favorite piano recitalist.

MICHIGAN'S teacher of organ music and conductor of its choral union, E. William Doty, was guest organist in the second of the series of Sunday afternoon recitals in Sage Chapel on March 3.

LECTURES for the week include the fifth and sixth of the Messenger lectures on "National Planning" by Professor Wesley C. Mitchell, on March 4 and March 8; an address before the Cornell Liberal Club on March 5 by Howard Williams, secretary of the League for Independent Political Action; and James D. Pond, describing experiences with animals in central Quebec, before the Agassiz Club on March 7.

MAJOR J. C. ADDINGTON, U.S.A., of the Department of Military Science, addressed a joint meeting of the Officers-Club; Scabbard and Blade, national military society; and Pi Tau Pi Sigma, national honorary society of the ROTC Signal Corps, in Willard Straight Hall February 21. His subject was "What the Future Holds for the ROTC." He explained the opportunities open to men who complete the advanced training course offered at the University, in the regular Army, in the National Guard, and in the CMTC and CCC. James A. Mullane '35 of Lawrence, Mass., president of the Officers' Club, presided, and introduced John S. Crocker '35 of Yonkers, president of Scabbard and Blade, who spoke briefly on military courtesy. Sewell W. Crisman, Jr. '35 of Morristown, Pa. is president of Pi Tau Pi Sigma.

ON SUNDAY, March 10, Willard Straight Hall presents Margit Wikstrom, soprano, and Mary Conover Winter, pianist, in a joint recital in Memorial Room at 4:30.

SAGE CHAPEL PREACHER on March 10 is Rev. Henry H. Tweedy, D.D., of Yale University Divinity School.

ARTHUR GARFIELD HAYES, noted trial lawyer and publicist, on Washington's Birthday spoke in Willard Straight Hall on "Fascism, Communism, and Democracy," under the auspices of the Hillel Foundation. He deplored the objective of Communists in America to overthrow the Government, and said that if Americans would really live up to the bill of rights in the Federal and state constitutions, "we would have as fair a measure of liberties as any people can afford."

CORNELL OLLIE PRIDE to celebrate Farm and Home Week produced 137.5 pounds of milk on February 13, a new record for a day's production. Two days later she entertained the Governor at the University barns. Now five years old, she made a world's record as a two-year-old, producing in 305 days, 17,324 pounds of milk and 652 pounds of butterfat. She was grand champion dairy cow at the New York State fair in 1933 and grand champion cow at the Eastern States Exposition last fall.

SOPHOMORE SMOKER is scheduled for the week of April 21 under the chairmanship of John M. Batten '37 of Cape May, N. J.

THE COSMOPOLITAN CLUB entertained at its Coffee Hour on Sunday Dr. George M. Sutton, PhD '32, Curator of Birds, who gave an illustrated lecture on Eskimos, and told of his experiences in the Far North.

AREOPAGUS, journal of student opinion, has elected three undergraduates to its editorial board and five to the business staff. The new editors are Milton I. Roemer '36 of Paterson, N. J., Ruth J. Rosenbaum '36 of Milford, Conn., and Douglas C. McGowan '37 of New York City. The business members are Richard Fleischman '36 of Buffalo, Seymour R. Meyer '36 of Brooklyn, Charles S. Joelson '37 of Paterson, N. J., B. Hannah Nachman '37 of Saratoga Springs, and Florence E. Singer '38 of Ilion.

GEORGE M. COHAN is booked to appear in Ithaca in "Ah Wilderness" on March 27, taking the place of the "Ziegfeld Follies," previously announced for March 20 but closed on the road.

About ATHLETICS

FENCERS LOSE NARROWLY

The fencing team won in touches, 59-53, against Penn State at State College on Saturday, but lost the meet by one sabre match, 8-9. This is the first meet that Coach Georges Cointe's team has lost, having defeated Toronto and tied Hamilton in the Drill Hall.

The foils matches were won, 5-4, Edwin O. Merwin '36 of Buffalo and Morris Sandgrund '37 of Rochester each winning and losing one, and Daniel D. Krakauer '35 of Tannersville winning one and losing two. In the epee the teams were tied when James W. Parker '37 of Wilton and Sandgrund each won one and lost one. In the sabre matches, however, Penn State was adjudged the winner 3-1, Edgar M. Matthews '37 of Jamaica winning one and losing one, and Wieman Kretz '36 of Rockville Center losing both his bouts.

On March 9 the team will engage in a triangular meet with Syracuse and Colgate at Syracuse. On March 16 they meet Columbia in the Drill Hall.

PRINCETON WIN HELPS

With but one more game to play, against Dartmouth next Saturday, the basketball team climbed out of its last-place tie with Harvard to take sixth place in the Eastern Intercollegiate League by a surprise defeat of Princeton, 30-25, at Princeton Saturday night.

Holding the Tigers to but 4 points in the second half, the Varsity, led by Freed and Downer, came from behind a 21-17 count at the half to score 13 more points before the game ended. Held to a single basket in the first period, Freed made four field goals and two fouls in the second, giving him so far third place in the League in individual scoring. The summary:

This last-half strength is new this season, the team having been defeated on February 27 in the Drill Hall by Columbia, 26-36, when it could not maintain the pace set in the first period.

Playing the Lions to a 17-all deadlock at the half, and soon after leading 22-19, the Red defense completely wilted to give Columbia 14 more points in eight minutes while not a goal was registered for Cornell. Freed with 6 goals from the field, was only one behind Nash, Columbia's high scorer, but he had little support from the rest of the team. Cornell was penalized for 11 fouls and Columbia for 9. The visitors lost Casey and Tomb by this route, and Cornell, Moran. The summary:

Freshmen Finish Well

The freshman basketball team finished its season on Saturday by defeating Cortland Normal junior varsity in the Drill Hall, 44-31. This frosh team, one of the best in years, has been beaten in but one of its seven games, by the Colgate freshmen, 31-33.

In Saturday's game, Coach Layton used his entire squad of 12 men, but only in the third period were they outscored, 8-5. Again Thomas A. Rich of Hobart, center, led the scoring with 15 points, but Louis E. Dauner of Cincinnati, O., forward, was close behind with 13. Robert J. McDonald of Waterbury, Conn., who has done well at guard, was unable to play because of a shoulder injury suffered in practice. The team showed the best form of the year.

RIFLEMEN WIN AGAIN

The ROTC rifle team shot a triangular match in Auburn on Saturday to defeat decisively the Prison City Rifle Club and the Auburn Rifle Club. High guns on both opposing teams, shooting 183, were but one point above the lowest Cornell score.

John J. Serrell, Jr. '37 of Elizabeth, N. J. was high with 190 in the two positions, prone and standing. Ronald N. Throop '35 of Syracuse, who has been out of recent competition with an ankle injury, was second with 187. Richard M. Bleier '35 of New York City followed with 185. Fourth with 183 was Laurence S. Carroll '35 of Cutchogue, who made the only perfect score prone. Stephen C. Fordham, Jr. '38 of Tivoli and John W. Humphreys '36 of Hollis tied for fifth place, with 182.

Last week in the Allegheny League, the team won two postal matches against Pittsburgh and Lafayette.

SWIMMERS WIN AND LOSE

The swimming team broke even in Western New York over the week-end, defeating State Teachers College in Buffalo, 72-12, Friday, but losing in Rochester the next day, 33-38, to the University of Rochester.

At Buffalo the Varsity swimmers broke four pool records and took every first and second place.

Faster competition, or a faster pool, or both, in Rochester, however, brought only two first places to the Varsity swimmers: Avery in the 200-yard breast stroke, and the 200-yard relay team, composed of Crisman, Tarlow, Huber, and Cloyes.

TRACK TEAM SECOND

The eighteen Varsity entries in the ICAAAA championship games in Madison Square Garden Saturday finished second with a team score of 16½. They placed in eight events; Manhattan, the winner, got 26 in six.

Until Tuesday, when pictures were seen, it was thought that Robert E. Linders '36 of Jersey City, N. J. had failed to place in the 50-yard dash, making the team fourth with 15½, ½ point behind Columbia and ½ point behind Harvard. Linders had won the preliminaries and had beat Johnson, the final winner. The camera showed that he placed fifth.

Places in the finals were gained by Bruce D. Kerr '35 of Ithaca, second in the 3,000-meter race; John Meaden '37 of La Grange, Ill., third in the 1,500-meter run; fifth for the 1,600-meter relay team composed of Robert A. Scallan '36 of Terrace Park, O., Edward G. Rarkoski '35 of Dunkirk, Addison M. White '35 of New Hartford, and James H. Hucker '37 of Buffalo. Walter D. Wood, Jr. '36 of Summit, N. J. placed second in the 16-pound shot put, with a heave of 47 feet 10½ inches; fifth in the running broad jump went to Henry S. Godshall, Jr. '36 of Lansdowne, Pa., 22 feet, 5 in.; tie for fifth in the pole vault among the Yale meet triplets, Robert B. McNab '36 of Missoula, Mont., Robert D. Price '36 of Willoughby, O., and Fred C. Sorenson '35 of Plattsburgh; and third in the 35-pound weight throw for Robert A. Reed '35 of Dunkirk, with 46 feet, 10 in.

Four members of the freshman medley relay team drove to New York "on their own" and placed third, but not to count in the official scoring. They were Herbert H. Cornell of Brooklyn, Warren L. Bohner of Maplewood, N. J., David F.

Sanders of Evanston, Ill., and Saul Rosenberg of Rochester.

Five of the Varsity men also went at their own expense; White, Godshall, and the three pole vaulters, McNab, Price, and Sorenson.

Captain Walter S. Merwin '35 of Buffalo was one of seven last year's champions to lose his title. He was shut out in the semi-finals, although he won the preliminary heat and placed a close third in the last semi-final race.

Donald T. Haupt '36 of Ambler, Pa. had qualified in the shotput, but in the finals took sixth place.

JINX PURSUES RIDERS

Continuing the jinx which has pursued them almost consistently away from home, the ROTC polo team met defeat in Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Saturday, 8-14, at the hands of the Wilkes-Barre Whips.

The game was fast and furious, and Cornell led at the half, 5-4½, but the Whips were too fast for the visitors in the last two chukkers. Harvey of the home team was high scorer, with 7. Tom Lawrence made 5 for Cornell, Leslie 3, and Captain John Lawrence 1.

Since borrowed horses are used, the home team of course, always has the advantage. The Varsity team has won but one of their five out-of-Ithaca matches, against Norwich. Their record so far is eight wins of twelve games played. The Wilkes-Barre team was defeated January 5 in the Riding Hall, 12½-9.

TWO WRESTLERS INJURED

Two injuries and two defeats were garnered by the wrestling team which met Lehigh at Bethlehem and Army at West Point, March 1 and 2.

Julius Nathan '35 of Monticello was injured at Bethlehem and had to forfeit his Army match and John P. Floros '36 of Ithaca succumbed to his Army opponent after 3 minutes, 10 seconds. At Bethlehem the intercollegiate champions defeated the Varsity Friday, 24-6. Floros's match ran to two extra periods and brought one of the two draws for the Red. They gained but one decision, when Captain John W. Shoemaker '37 of Scranton, Pa. scored 3 points in the 165-pound class. Willes E. Travis '35 of Middletown also won a draw in the 118-pound class.

Travis again starred at West Point on Saturday, when he won the decision for aggressiveness after his bout had gone to two extra periods. Army won the meet, 21-9. The only fall was scored by Army in the 145-pound class over George J. Morgan '36 of Westfield, N. J., who was replacing Cogshall, injured at Syracuse February 9.

The Junior Varsity wrestling team on Saturday tied Mansfield State Teachers College, Hobbie in the 165-pound class for Cornell and Brewer of Mansfield in the unlimited class scoring the only falls. For the Red, Haatzsch won at 135-pounds; Crandall at 145; and Wise at 155.

SKIERS FINISH SIXTH

Millet G. Morgan '37 of Hanover, N. H., president of the Cornell Ski Club, was elected president of the Intercollegiate Ski Union at the annual meeting held at St. Sauver, Quebec, in connection with the three-day championship competitions which ended March 2. Fifteen Canadian and American universities are members of the Association.

Lacking entrants in the jumping and combination events, the Cornell team placed fourth in those it entered, but sixth in the meet.

ROCHESTER TALKS SPORTS

Two hundred Cornellians and their guests were at the University Club for the annual Washington's Birthday party of the Cornell Club of Rochester.

Following the dinner there was a floor show of a dozen numbers from the Thelma Biracree ballet school and impersonations by Jack Driscoll, a radio artist. Then came dancing, which lasted until early morning.

The regular weekly luncheon of the Club on February 27 was devoted to a consideration of athletics at the University. Dr. Floyd S. Winslow '06, past president of the Cornell Alumni Corporation, and member of the committee appointed by President Farrand and the Board of Trustees to consider the athletic situation, discussed the background and present condition. A committee appointed previously to consider the situation brought a report with suggestions, and this was unanimously adopted and forwarded to the Corporation.

OBITUARY

ARTHUR BIRD '73, who was one of the oldest newspaper men in the country, died February 26 at his home in Sidney. He had suffered a stroke of apoplexy on December 10 and another four days before his death. His parents were English missionaries in Port-au-Prince, Haiti, and he was born there, entering the University in the Natural Science Course in 1869 and remaining one year. A statement made by Ezra Cornell in a University assembly which he attended that "now we have a foreign student enrolled, we can rightfully lay claim to being a college," Bird took to mean that he was the first foreign student ever to enroll. In the first year, however, according to the Register, the University had three students from England and one each from Brazil, Russia, and Nova Scotia. In 1869-70 the Register showed ten others besides Bird from outside the United States, including one, William B. Bowler

'73, from Port-au-Prince. After leaving the University, Bird received the MD degree from Columbia, was for a time interpreter for the State Department, and in 1878 was secretary of the American legation in Port-au-Prince. In 1882 he founded the Sidney Record, a weekly, and was its editor and business manager until his death.

WILLIAM SWAN ELLIOTT '87 died February 22 at his home on Woodland Road, Pittsburgh, Pa., at the age of 71. He entered the course in Electrical Engineering in 1885 from Wellsville, O., and graduated with the ME(EE) degree in '87. He entered the employ of the Sprague Electric and Railway Motor Company, then for two years from 1890 he was department manager for Edison Electric Company in Chicago, Ill., and for three years sales manager of the Stirling Boiler Company. Since 1905 he had been president of the Elliott Company, of Ridgeway, Pa., manufacturers of electric, steam and hydraulic power plant apparatus. His son, George F. Elliott '17, was associated with him there, as were Milton E. Thompson '90 as consulting engineer and Harry E. Erb '28 as service manager. Mr. Elliott was also president of the Kerr Turbine Company, Liberty Manufacturing Company, and vice-president of the Lagonda Manufacturing Company. He had made many inventions, especially in the field of deaeration, and was a member of the Cornell and American Societies of Engineers and of the AAAS.

GEORGE MOTT TUTTLE '92 died at his home, 1105 Ferry Street, Niagara Falls, on February 20 after a long illness. He was 63. He entered the Science Course in 1888, but transferred to Letters and received the BL degree in '92, then registered in the Law School and received the degree of LLB the next year. He was an editor of the Sun in his junior and senior years, was toastmaster of his senior banquet, and a member of Beta Theta Pi. He had practiced law in Niagara Falls since 1893, first in the office of Cromley and Lawrence, then in partnership with Spencer J. Lawrence, and since 1900 as senior member of the firm of Tuttle and Rice. For two years, 1889 and 1900, he was city attorney of Niagara Falls. He had been also secretary of the J. L. Morrison Company and the Morrison Stitcher Corporation and for years was associated with the Niagara Falls Power Company. In 1910, Tuttle was president of the Cornell Alumni Association of Western New York. He was active in fraternal and civic affairs and was a member of the American and County Bar associations and of the city Lawyers Club. He is survived by his widow; three daughters, and two sons, of whom one is George M. Tuttle, Jr. '35.

of 62. He was registered in the University but one year and received the MD degree in 1899. From then until 1916 he practiced medicine in New York City, where he was visiting physician at Polyclinic Hospital and taught at the old New York College of Dentistry. During the world war he was Captain in the Seventy-First Regiment, Thirteenth Division, and was later commissioned Major and put in charge of a reclamation camp at Palo Alto, Cal. Since 1920 he had been practicing in Miami, Fla. and was on the staff of Miami City Hospital. He was a brother of William L. Westermann, Professor of Ancient History at the University from 1920-23, now of Columbia, who survives him, with two other brothers and a sister.

HAROLD HOLLENBACK OSBORNE '13 died February 10 at the age of 44 in Newport News, Va., following a brief illness. Since 1923 he had been with the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, where he was assistant metallurgist. Osborne entered the College of Arts and Sciences in 1909 from Wyoming Seminary and received the BChem degree in 1913. He was a member of Theta Xi and Alpha Xi Sigma. Before going to Virginia he had been employed by the Carpenter Steel Company at Reading, Pa., the Locomobile Company at Bridgeport, Conn., Rich Tool Company in Chicago, Ill., and the Magnesium Company of America at Niagara Falls. He is survived by his wife, who lives at 62 Post Street., Hilton Village, Va. and four sons and a daughter; by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theron C. Osborne of Falls, Pa., and by two sisters. Five Cornellians were pallbearers at the funeral: Charles B. Palen '13, William T. Newell '15, Frederick D. Robinson '16, William E. Blewett '18, and Maurice B. Tonkin '23.

LUA ALICE MINNS '14, who had been a member of the Floriculture staff of the College of Agriculture since 1912, died February 21 at her home in Lodi, O., after an illness of five months. Miss Minns entered the special course in Agriculture in 1910, but transferred to the regular course and received the BS degree in 1914 and that of MS in 1918. She became a recognized authority on herbaceous plants and her courses in garden flowers were extremely popular. She worked with plants herself, and planned and planted each year the colorful flower garden that brightened the upper Campus near the former rural school building, later the Cornell Countryman office, and now the broadcasting studio of Station WESG. She took great pleasure in showing visitors through her garden and was always ready to talk about her plants and flowers. She took active part in the annual flower shows sponsored by the Department, and had written and lectured extensively on gardening.

Concerning THE ALUMNI

'79 BS (S-L); '84 BS (S-L); '92 AB; '98 PhB, '99 LLB—Clayton Ryder '79, Franklin A. Coles '84, Arthur J. Baldwin '92, and Andrew E. Tuck '98 attended a luncheon at the Union Club in New York City given by the thirty surviving members of the 1915 Constitutional Convention of New York State in honor of the ninetieth birthday of Elihu Root on February 15.

'86—William C. Green is proprietor of the W. C. Green Company, commercial heating engineers of Cincinnati, Dayton, and Columbus, O. They represent Warren Webster & Co., of Camden, N. J.; Carrier Engineering Company, of Newark, N. J.; Nash Engineering Company, of South Norwalk, Conn.; Spencer Turbine Company, of Hartford, Conn.; Boylston Steam Specialty Company, of Chicago, Ill.; Henszey De-Concentrator Company, of Watertown, Wis.; and others. His address is 704 Rose Street, Rooms 602-5, Cincinnati, O.

'87 CE—Lyle F. Bellinger was recently elected secretary-treasurer of the Georgia section of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

'88 CE—Mario Garcia Menocal, former president of Cuba, recently led the National Democratic party in a demand for an immediate general election under the Crowder Code and restoration of the 1901 Constitution.

'92 CE—William G. Atwood, consulting engineer, gave a paper on "Increased Activities of Marine Wood Borers on the New England Coast" at the January meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers in New York City.

'94 AB—Herbert W. Knox is assistant pastor of the North Presbyterian Church at 599 West 155 Street, New York City.

'97; '03 AB; '04 AB—George O. Muhlfeld '97, Floyd L. Carlisle '03, and Jacob F. Schoellkopf '04 were re-elected directors of the Marine Midland Corporation at its annual meeting, February 18, in Wilmington, Del.

'00 BS, '30 PhD—Louis C. Graton, professor of mining geology at Harvard, is quoted as telling the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers at a meeting in New York City, February 20, that the United States Supreme Court gold decision was a strange circumlocution of logic, and that it may eventually have the effect of aggravating the accumulation of the last few years of uncertainties, undermining the use of gold as a standard.

'00 CE—James H. Miner, formerly with the Dwight P. Robinson Company and the United Engineers and Constructors, is office engineer on the Columbia River basin project for the United States Reclamation Bureau.

'01 AB—Joseph P. Harris was recently elected president of the Library Board of the City of Cleveland Heights, O.

'02 BSA—Arthur F. Brinckerhoff lectured February 20 to the Horticultural Society of New York on "Landscaping."

'02—Henry Bruere, president of the Bowery Savings Bank and director of the Union Pacific Railroad, in a speech at the monthly luncheon of the Traffic Club of New York City, stated that by following the report of Joseph B. Eastman, Federal railroad co-ordinator, recovery of the railroads would be assured. He is quoted as saying that the savings banks have no intention of getting rid of their $1,700,000,000 or railroad securities.

'02 Sp—Mrs. Garret Smith (Florence B. Cavanaugh), of the Federates Shade Tree Commissioners of New Jersey, discussed practical methods in beautifying towns and roadsides over WOR February 18. She urged the cooperation of the State Highway Commission and the Emergency Relief Administration in bringing about extensive tree planting this spring.

'03 LLB; '87—Alfred Huger in a recent letter to the Ithaca Journal describes the late Cuthbert W. Pound as "a learned gentleman who had successfully brushed away the cobwebs of conceit and pose which entangle so many lives . . . and who, with both feet planted firmly on the ground but with eyes lifted to a star, moves on through a world he knows has to be lived in among imperfect human beings." Had it not been for "Professor" Pound's friendship, advice, and encouragement, Huger says, he would have given up the study of law. He was president of his senior Law class, and after graduation served as private secretary to Andrew D. White when he was ambassador to Germany. He is regarded as one of the foremost experts on maritime law, and during the War he was first admiralty counsel to the United States Shipping Board. He is a member of the law firm of Huger, Wilson, Miller, & Mouzon, in Charleston, S. C.

'04 LLB—William F. Bleakley, Justice of the New York State Supreme Court, was recently called upon by the congregation of the Hungarian Dutch Reformed Free Church in Peekskill to settle a dispute over pastors. This church is across the street from the old hat factory where Bleakley worked to pay his way through college.

'04 CE—An article by Elwyn E. Seelye on "Precautions in Building Design," appeared in the January issue of the Cornell Civil Engineer.

'05 LLB—Judge William L. Ransom and Mrs. Ransom have been spending some time in Jacksonville and St. August ine, Fla. In Jacksonville, Judge Ransom attended the mid-winter meeting of the executive board of the American Bar Association; and at St. Augustine, where he attended the annual meeting of the Florida Bar Association, he was the principal speaker at the organization meeting of the Junior Bar Conference.

'05 ME—Grosword Wilson, for many years with the National Life Insurance Company, in Cleveland, O., was honor man for the company in January.

'06 ME—Robert Gregg, vice-president of the United States Steel Corporation, was elected on February 15 a director of the American Iron and Steel Institute. He attended the annual banquet of the Traffic Club of New York City, February 21.

'07 MD—Thomas F. Laurie was elected president of the Onondaga County Medical Society last December. Laurie is chairman of the section on urology of the New York State Medical Society and consultant in social hygiene for the State Department of Health. His office is in the Medical Arts Building, Syracuse.

'07 AB—Adolph Kiendl has been appointed special commissioner by the Federal Court, to preside at an inquiry into an attempted reorganization of a $13,800,000 collateral bond issue of the Prudence Company, Inc. of New York City. He appeared for the receivers of a Brooklyn cafeteria against Brooklyn College members of the National Student League who were alleged to have incited labor troubles.

'07, '09 AB—Robert E. Coulson is attorney for the Brooklyn Edison Company.

'07—Harold D. North is president of the Ferry Cap and Screw Company in Cleveland, O.

'08 ME—James W. Parker, Alumni Trustee, was elected vice-president of the Detroit Edison Company, February 18.

'08, '09 CE—A. Clinton Decker presented a paper on "Sanitary Experiences in the Operation of a Large Industrial Enterprise" before the sanitary engineering division of the American Society of Civil Engineers at the January meeting in New York City.

'08 AB—Mrs. W. Roy Barnhill (Alice L. Clark) spoke February 21 at a meeting of the Mineola Garden Club on "Plants and their Care." February 20, she spoke on "Blue in the Garden" before the Little Neck Garden Club.

'08 BS, '09 MS—Dr. Koliang Yih, Chinese Consul General, spoke on the United States silver policy and its effect on China, at a luncheon given February 18 for the American Economic Mission to China.

'08 BS, '10 MS—Maurice C. Burritt, Alumni Trustee, as State Public Service Commissioner registered a dissenting opinion on the electric rate reduction program approved by the P.S.C. February 21 for Utica, Rome, Little Falls, and neighboring communities. He is quoted as saying that the rate appeared to discriminate in favor of city customers and against the farmer, and that it would seem to discourage the building of municipal plants in cities and villages.

'10 MSA, '12 PhD—A resume of surgical practices with the pituitary gland by Waldemar Kaempfert in the New York Times of February 17 credits Dr. Philip E. Smith, of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, with first developing a simple method of removing the pituitary gland without causing almost certain death.

'11 ME—William G. Christy is smoke abatement engineer for the department of smoke regulation in the Board of Health and Vital Statistics of Hudson County, N. J. His headquarters are in Jersey City, N. J.

'11—Everett L. Kent, at a meeting February 19 and 20 in New York City of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, was appointed member of a committee to confer with the wool and mohair advisory committee on methods of marketing wool.

'12—LeRoy F. Fairchild, structural engineer with the Eastman Kodak Company, spoke at the convention of the American Concrete Institute in New York City, February 19-21.

'13 LLB; '14 AB—James McKinney and Mrs. McKinney (Louise Bontecou) are directors of the recently chartered McKinney Agency, Inc. of Ithaca, insurance brokers.

'13 AB; '34 AB—Mrs. Charles M. Chuckrow (Mollie A. Goldenburg) '13 and her volunteer placement activities for Cornell alumnae are the subjects of an interview by Malvine Gescheidt '34, writing under the pen name of M. J. Stuart, in the New York Evening Sun of February 20. Miss Gescheidt's address is 647 Hudson Street, New York City.

'14—Elisha Hanson, counsel of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, is quoted as saying before the meeting of the Inland Daily Press Association in Chicago, February 19, that the effort of the National Labor Relations Board to assert a superior jurisdiction over labor controversies which arise under the code, is an attempt to violate the free press guaranties of the newspaper code.

'14 PhD—Dr. Jay A. Myers of the University of Minnesota, in a speech before the American Medical Association in Chicago, February 18, made a plea for general hospitals to admit tuberculosis patients. He said that due to the growth of the sanatorium movement in the past fifty years, the medical profession in general has lost its interest in tuberculosis. He urged physicians to look for the disease in their patients and to educate people on the subject.

'14 AB—Harold Riegelman, counsel to the Citizen's Budget Commission of New York City, outlined the Commission's recommendations at a hearing February 18 of the city's new charter commission.

'14 BS, '18 PhD—William I. Myers, governor of the Farm Credit Administration, asserted recently that farm taxes are substantially decreased and that their upward trend apparently has been halted.

'14 AB—Frank Sullivan, in his daily column in the New York American for February 16, made a plea for inventors to complete their inventions, particularly the zipper.

'17 CE—Richard Parmenter, now registered in the Graduate School for a Doctor's degree in physiology, has been director of an oceanographic survey on Lake Erie. He recently bought a 24-foot yawl in Washington, D. C. which he will sail to Annapolis during spring recess, and later to his home at Provincetown, Mass.

'17 BS, '21 PhD—Roy L. Gillett is agricultural statistician in the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets at Albany.

'17 AB, '24 PhD—James A. Kennedy is associate professor of bacteriology in the University of Louisville medical school and director of bacteriological and sociological laboratories at the Louisville City Hospital and department of health. He was visiting professor of bacteriology at the University of Georgia medical school at Augusta during 1933-34. His address is 1209 Audubon Parkway, Louisville, Ky.

'18, '31 WA—Wesley M. Dixon is vice-president of the Container Corporation of America, 350 Madison Avenue, New York City.

'19 BS, '21 MS—Chancellor Carlos E. Chardon of the University of Puerto Rico, who a year ago drafted the Puerto Rican rehabilitation plan, is in Washington conferring on Island rehabilitation matters with the President.

'19—Dr. Charles G. Heyd of New York City told the Federation of State Medical Boards of the United States in Chicago, February 19, that sixty percent of medical practice in thickly populated states will be in dispensaries and clinics ten years hence due to inadequacy of funds derived from philanthropic sources to support voluntary hospitals.

'20 Grad—Dr. William E. Zeuch of the University of Illinois was co-founder in 1923 of Commonwealth College in the Ouachita Mountains. Commoners, as their students were to be known, might be of any political or economic faith, but all must work for their keep—four hours a day, five days a week, scrubbing, carpentering, washing dishes, or farming.

'20 LLB—Paul L. Bleakley is chairman
