MANY CONFER ON JOBS Alumnae Discuss Vocations

More than three hundred women students of the University took part in the conference on fields of work held in Willard Straight Hall March 9. Total registration for the various meetings was more than seven hundred, including students, members of the Faculty, and of Cornell Women's Club of Ithaca, American Association of University Women, and League of Women Voters, who cooperated in the afternoon reception and lecture by Beulah Bailey '12. The program was designed to cover the main fields of work in which students had indicated interest, as reported in the ALUMNI NEWS last week.

The morning speakers surveyed the two general fields in which the greatest number of students had expressed interest. They described the opportunities in each, and the qualifications and training necessary to enter them. Professor Emily Hickman '01 of New Jersey College for Women spoke on "Education," and Alice Evans '09 of the National Institute of Health spoke on "Science." These lectures were open both to students and members of the Faculty.

Seven round table discussions for students only occupied the afternoon. Each was led by an alumna active in the field discussed and undergraduates were given opportunity to ask questions and to make personal appointments for further discussion. Of these, Dr. Hickman led the round table on college teaching and Miss Evans on scientific research. Katharine Buckley '01 of New York City led the discussion of business and finance; Marion Jewell '08 of Washington Irving High School, New York City, on high school teaching; Miss Bailey, on government service; Edwena Carpenter of The Family Society, Syracuse, on social service; and Jean Frederick '32 of the Rochester Democrat-Chronicle, on journalism.

To conclude the conference the various cooperating organizations gave a reception and tea in Willard Straight Hall. Here Miss Bailey, who is research assistant for the State Tax Commission and president of the State Civil Service Employees Association, spoke on "Women in Government." She urged the necessity of personal interest in legislation, especially as to the pending amendment consolidating local units, which she said if passed would save taxpayers millions of dollars. She also advocated basing state aid for education on the number of pupils in a community rather than, as at present, upon its wealth.

Those responsible for the Conference were so well pleased with its success and with the interest shown by undergraduate women that they have expressed the hope that similar meetings may be held each year. Mrs. R. H. Shreve (Ruth Bentley) '02 is chairman of the vocational committee of the Federation, of which Mary H. Donlon '20 is president. Edith M. McAdoo '35 of Kew Gardens is president of the WSGA, and committees of students were active in each women's dormitory and sorority.

FARRAND IN PENNSYLVANIA

The Cornell Clubs of men and women of Western Pennsylvania entertained President Farrand at luncheon at the William Penn Hotel in Pittsburgh on March 4. It was the first joint luncheon of the two clubs.

President Farrand visited the Shadyside Academy, and in the evening spoke before several hundred members of the Women's Club of Sewickley, Pa.

DROP FEWER STUDENTS

Six fewer students were dropped by the University at the end of the first term this year than last. Enrollment last fall was announced as forty-seven greater than the previous year. The total of seventy-eight "bustees" announced by Dr. Eugene F. Bradford, University Registrar, compares with an average of about 175 for the ten years since 1925. The decreased number is ascribed to the effects of the system of selective admissions which has been in effect for the past eight years, and to the more serious attitude of present-day students.

Against all precedent, this year more sophomores were dropped than freshmen; twenty-six second-year aspirants went, and only twenty-three members of the entering class. Only three of the seventy-eight who fell by the wayside were women, one each in Arts and Sciences, Agriculture, and Home Economics; and only five were Seniors, one in Engineering and four in Arts and Sciences.

From the College of Arts and Sciences, except Chemistry, thirty-one were dropped, of whom four were seniors, six juniors, ten sophomores, and eleven freshmen. Agriculture dropped twenty-five: two juniors, eleven sophomores, seven freshmen, and five special students. Engineering lost thirteen: one senior, seven juniors, four sophomores, and one freshman. The Chemistry Department dropped three, one junior and two freshmen; as did Veterinary, three juniors. Architecture lost but two, one sophomore and one freshman. The single "bustee" of the College of Home Economics was a freshman woman.

PROFESSORS TO TRAVEL Students Plan Cornell Day

With Cornell Clubs and other alumni, especially within driving radius of Ithaca, already at work on preparations for Cornell Day, May 11, as reported last week, the Faculty committee on relations with secondary schools has arranged its pilgrimage of travelling professors to visit schools in a wider area, and undergraduates have started their plans for the entertainment of the guests on the Campus.

To maintain the traditional geographical distribution of University students, a committee was organized last year with Professor Riverda H. Jordan as chairman whose members meet with alumni in various key cities about the country, confer with principals and headmasters of secondary schools, and give talks at school assemblies.

This year three well known professors, Bristow Adams, Charles L. Durham '99, and Jordan, all of whom travelled last spring in the University's interests, will again swing around the alumni circuit. Professor John G. Jenkins '23 is a new member of the travelling professors this year.

The first of the quartette to leave Ithaca will be professor Durham, who starts March 18 in Indianapolis, Ind. and will visit St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo., Tulsa, Okla., Little Rock, Ark., Memphis and Nashville, Tenn., Louisville, Ky., and Cincinnati, O.

The tour of Professor Jordan will take him to Dayton, Columbus, Cleveland, Akron, and Youngstown, O.; Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, and Allentown, Pa. He starts April 1 and will be on the road two weeks.

Professor Adams also starts April 1, in Detroit, Mich. He will visit Toledo, O., Chicago, Ill., Milwaukee, Wis., and St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn., the last on April 12.

Plans are now being made for Professor Jenkins to visit Baltimore, Md., Washington, D. C., Wilmington, Del., and Philadelphia, Pa., starting also April 1.

The complete itineraries of all four will be found in "Coming Events."

Meanwhile in Ithaca last week the Interfraternity Council unanimously voted to prohibit all pledging of prospective Cornellians between May 9 and May 12. The various fraternities will be hosts to the visitors.

The undergraduate executive committee held its first meeting on March 7 and discussed the entertainment program. A meeting of the entire undergraduate Cornell Day committee, including members of both senior societies and the

University Loses Mynderse Van Cleef '74 and Two Oldest Living Graduates

With the death in Ithaca March 6 of Mynderse Van Cleef '74 and in Benton Harbor, Mich. the day before of Charles E. Reeves '71, the University lost both its longest serving member of the Board of Trustees and its eldest living graduate. Reeves, who would have been ninety years old next July 27, was, since the death on January 24 of Julia L. Doubleday '83, the oldest person then living who had graduated from the University.

Mynderse Van Cleef '74

Mynderse Van Cleef had served as a member of the Board of Trustees for nearly fifty years. He was first elected Alumni Trustee in 1881 and held that office for ten years. Since 1895 he had been a Trustee elected by the Board, and was attorney for the University and chairman of the Board's committee on general administration. He presided at the meeting of that committee on March 2, but on March 5 became suddenly ill and the next day was operated upon for a perforated gastric ulcer. He failed to rally from the operation.

Born in Seneca Falls, August 29, 1853, Van Cleef attended public school there and graduated from the old Ithaca Academy, his family having moved to Ithaca in 1869. The next year he entered the University, and received the BS degree in 1874. He attended Columbia Law School, studied law in Ithaca, and was admitted to the Bar in September, 1876. He became a leading lawyer and banker in Ithaca. From 1889 to 1900 he was commissioner of the United States Circuit Court. He had been an officer of most of Ithaca's banks, and was one of the founders of the Ithaca Trust Company, of which he was president from 1908 to 1919 and has since been chairman of the board. He was formerly attorney and a director of the Tompkins County National Bank, was president of the former Ithaca Security Company, and at the time of his death was attorney to the Ithaca Savings Bank. He had also been a director in several business corporations, including the old Cayuga Lake Cement Company.

He also had many civic and welfare interests; was instrumental in the construction of the nurses' home at Memorial Hospital, had been a trustee of the hospital for many years and chairman of its endowment committee. He was a director of the Social Service League, a trustee of the Cornell (city) Library Association, and a trustee and chairman of the board of the First Presbyterian Church of Ithaca. The annual dinner of the Chamber of Commerce on February 25, 1932, was dedicated to him, and he was presented with a testimonial of his long service to the community and to the Chamber as vice-president and director since its founding.

At reunion time each June for several years, Mr. Van Cleef had given a dinner in Willard Straight Hall to graduates of the '70s and '80s who returned to the Campus. He was a member of Kappa Alpha and since 1886 had been president of the corporate association of the Cornell chapter.

On December 21, 1882, Mr. Van Cleef married Elizabeth L. Treman, sister of Robert H. Treman '78 and the late Charles E. Treman '89. She died in November, 1919. He is survived by two daughters, Miss Eugenia Van Cleef and Mrs. Arthur W. Booth of Elmira, whose husband is a member of the Class of '93.

President Farrand paid the following tribute to Mr. Van Cleef:

"By the death of Mynderse Van Cleef, Ithaca has lost an outstanding citizen and Cornell University a valued counsellor and Trustee. It is hard to picture this community without him. Conservative and cautious, his devotion to what he considered right was never in question and he will be sorely missed."

Julia Louisa Doubleday '83

Dr. Henry P. de Forest '84 sends us the following about Julia L. Doubleday '83, who was not only the oldest living alumna of the University but, so far as is known, also the oldest living graduate:

"Julia Louisa Doubleday '83, who died in Binghamton on January 24, was probably the oldest alumna of Cornell University. She was born in Binghamton, March 7, 1842. After her graduation from the Binghamton High School, she taught music for several years but continued to study along academic lines. In 1876 she became preceptress at Falley Seminary in Fulton. This was one of the older private schools of the State, and had many Cornellians among its students, including John H. Comstock '73, Veranus A. Moore '87, and Willard W. Rowlee '88. Miss Doubleday retained this position until 1881, when the failing health of Rev. James Gilmour, the principal, made it evident that the school would soon be closed. Delbert H. Decker '84 and Henry P. de Forest '84 were members of the last class to graduate at this institution, in June 1881.

"In September, 1881, Miss Doubleday and Decker entered the University with the Class of 1885. Decker, though president of his Class in his Sophomore year, graduated with the Class of '84. Miss Doubleday completed the required curriculum in two years and received her degree of Ph.B. with the Class of 1883. Both she and Decker were elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

"After her graduation she returned to Fulton as teacher in the new High School. In 1886 she accepted a position in the Central High School of Washington, D. C. Later she became a stenographer in the office of an architect in Washington. She was next appointed to a clerkship in the United States Patent Office and there remained until 1912, when at the age of seventy, she was retired.

"In 1922, at eighty, she returned for the Summer Session, and in the summer of the following year was again a student of her Alma Mater.

"She continued to make her home in Washington until 1931, when she suffered a severe attack of heat prostration. In October of that year she was removed to the infirmary in the Home for Aged Women, in Binghamton. This is a record of a life of ninety-three years of continual study, achievement, and usefulness of which Cornell women may well be proud."

Charles Elias Reeves '71

Charles Elias Reeves '71, eldest alumnus and after Miss Doubleday's death probably the University's eldest graduate, died March 5 at the home of his niece, Mrs. F. M. Kerry, 292 Brunson Avenue, Benton Harbor, Mich. Recently William A. Vawter II '05 had called on him and found him somewhat feeble but much interested in the University. He suffered a fall, however, and did not recover.

Reeves was born in Marion, Wayne County, July 27, 1845. Before and after the Civil War he taught school in southern Illinois, but returned home to run the farm while his four brothers served in the Army. He entered the Elective Course in the spring of 1869 as a sophomore, having attended Knox College, and received the BS degree in 1871. He was one of the Commencement speakers.

He earned his entire expenses as a student, laying floors in Building No. 2, now White Hall, and worked on the first cottage in the Grove Colony which occupied the site in the rear of the present President's house. Arthur B. Backhouse '71 and Talworth Backhouse '71 of Bedford, England, furnished the lumber, helped plan and erect the building, and held a half interest in it. Reeves earned his board as steward of an eating club here and during one summer vacation sold more than forty Ithaca wheel horseshoes.

Following his graduation, Reeves began the study of law in St. Louis, Mo., but soon returned to teaching. After a year in charge of Fairplane School, near Benton Harbor, he purchased the Benton Harbor Palladium, a weekly newspaper, which he published for eight years. For two years thereafter he taught, in the normal school at Cheney, Wash., later to study and teach science in Spokane College, receiving the AB degree there in 1884. He was also managing editor of the Columbia Christian Advocate and soon joined the Spokane Printing Company, which published it. Since 1896 he had lived with his niece in Benton Harbor. He is survived also by another niece and six nephews, one of whom is Rear Admiral Joseph Mason Reeves, USN.

The death of Reeves leaves Charles A. Storke '70, retired lawyer and educator of Santa Barbara, Cal. as the eldest living graduate of the University. He is eighty-eight. John A. Rea '69, sole surviving member of the first graduating class, who lives in Tacoma, Wash., is thought to be the second oldest alumnus. He will be eighty-seven on June 18. A photograph of these two with the late Charles F. Hendryx '69 and Royal Taft '71, taken in 1929 when the four attended alumni reunions in Ithaca, was printed in the ALUMNI NEWS of January 31.

APPOINTS EASTMAN TRUSTEE

Edward R. Eastman, editor and president of American Agriculturist, has been nominated by the Governor as a Trustee of the University to fill the vacancy created by the appointment of Peter G. Ten Eyck as State Commissioner of Agriculture as reported in the ALUMNI NEWS of February 14. Ten Eyck's term as the Governor's appointee would have expired in 1937; he is now ex-officio a member of the Board.

Eastman has long been prominent, especially in agricultural affairs of the State. He was the first editor of the Dairymen's League News, and since the purchase of American Agriculturist in 1922 by Henry Morgenthau, Jr. '13, has been its editor. With the moving of the paper to Ithaca last fall, Eastman became president of the publishing company; associated with him in its ownership are Frank E. Gannett '98 and H. Edward Babcock, both University Trustees, and E. Curry Weatherby '15.

For the past five years Eastman has been director-at-large of the Farm Credit Administration unit at Springfield, Mass., comprising the Federal Land Bank, Intermediate Credit Bank, Production Credit Corporation, and the Federal Bank for Cooperatives. He is secretary of the Governor's Agricultural Advisory Commission and a member of the State Conservation Advisory Commission.

From 1924 to 1928, Eastman was ex-officio a member of the University's Board of Trustees as president of the State Agricultural Society, the position now held by Dean Carl E. Ladd '12. In 1917 he was assistant county agent leader at the College of Agriculture. He attended the Summer Session in 1914. Two of his sons, Donald D. Eastman, MS '32, and George R. Eastman '35, have been students at the University.

ATHLETICS SUB-COMMITTEE MEETS

Student Poll Indicates One-Third Favor Undergraduate Tax—Nearly Half Do Not Vote

The special committee appointed by President Farrand January 26 "to consider problems of organization to assure an adequate and continuous program of sports at the University on a permanent basis" met in the President's office on Saturday and heard reports of various bodies that have been considering the matter.

These included the committee on athletic control, of which Professor Herman Diederichs '97 is chairman; Professor Walter F. Conwell, president of the Athletic Association; a committee of five undergraduate members of the Athletic Council appointed during the past week with Thomas C. Borland '35, crew commodore, as chairman, to survey the situation and report; and a report from William A. Foote '35, president of the Student Council, on the undergraduate poll conducted by the Council March 5 and 6.

Students Vote Tax

Approximately one-third of the undergraduates in the University voted for a compulsory tax to support athletics in the balloting sponsored by the Student Council. The ballot contained three propositions: (1) "that the Cornell intercollegiate program of athletics be completely abandoned"; (2) "that the intercollegiate athletic program be drastically curtailed to operate within its income"; and (3) "that a compulsory athletic tax of not less than ten dollars a term be levied on all undergraduates, such tax to give free admission to all home athletic contests and adequate support to intramural and women's athletics as well as intercollegiate; and further that the administration of the tax be accompanied by a reorganization of athletics under University control." Ballot boxes were placed at five convenient spots on the Campus.

The vote for the third proposal was 1,517; for curtailment, 865; and for abolition of intercollegiate athletics, 41. 2,421 ballots were cast. Of the Senior Class 354 voted for the tax and 166 for curtailment; of the juniors 436 supported a tax and 258 favored curtailment; 388 sophomores voted for the tax and 221 for proposal 2; and of the Freshman Class 339 were in favor of a tax and 218 voted for curtailment of athletics.

The poll was preceded by a week of discussion in the Sun, editorially, in the news columns, and through voluminous letters for and against the tax. On February 26, Foote outlined the situation at length in the Sun, which also printed the operating statement of the Athletic Association for 1933-34 as given in the ALUMNI NEWS of November 15, 1934. Foote pointed out that the sports program could be curtailed to the amount of this year's estimated deficit of $28,000 by abandoning certain of the present sports, of which crew costs approximately $14,000 a year, track $15,000, baseball $8,000, and basketball $7,500.

Argue Pro and Con

On March 5 the Sun published statements from Professor Charles L. Durham '99, adviser in crew, and Professor Bristow Adams, adviser in track, with respect to curtailment or abolition of these sports. Professor Durham said that intercollegiate rowing would be impossible without subsidization from the Athletic Association or the University; that none of the crews against which Cornell rows are otherwise supported; and that alumni support by underwriting or contributions, as had been proposed, is not feasible. Professor Adams maintained that track expenditures are now cut to the bone; that we do not meet more than two-thirds of the engagements we might have; and that further curtailment of the track program would label the University as a second-rate school in track for the first time since we were the first to win the intercollegiate championships.

Through the week various correspondents to the Sun questioned figures and supported them, argued for and against a tax, and doubted and upheld the good faith of its sponsors. The editors summarized the arguments both for and against, and presented a symposium from the editors of other college newspapers on how sports are financed elsewhere. On March 2 appeared the results of a questionnaire sent to various colleges by Professor Diederichs, which showed that at six universities,—Harvard, New York, Pennsylvania, Columbia, Michigan, and Ohio State—sports programs are financed at least in part by undergraduate fees.

The day before the balloting the National Student League distributed mimeographed sheets denouncing the proposed tax and the Athletic Association, and that evening held a protest meeting. Several proponents attended, however, so the meeting turned out to be a general discussion with both sides heard.

The Sun stated that the proposed $20 tax would absorb the "Old Armory fee" of four dollars now paid by all men students and the Sage Gymnasium fee and Women's Student Government Association tax paid by the women. After deducting these fees, it would yield about $75,000, of which it was assumed that $10,000 would go for intramurals and $5,000 to the WSGA. Of the remaining $60,000, the Sun said $12,000 would of necessity go to visiting football teams and revenue would drop perhaps $24,000 by free admission of students to games. The remaining $24,000, with other income, would, it expected, pay for just about the present athletic program.

Conflicting opinions of the final results were expressed. The Sun editorially deplored the fact that only slightly more than half the undergraduates were interested enough to vote, and reasoned that perhaps it should have taken sides on the question instead of presenting all sides impartially. Serge P. Petroff '35, manager of track, was quoted as deducing from the registered approval of more than 1,500 students the tacit approval of a tax by three-fourths of "the University." Lee A. Lorch '35, president of the National Student League, said that the student body showed great lack of insight in its vote, and that the total of the votes for the first two proposals should be taken as a unit opposed to the levying of a tax, since the vote of the opposition was split. Armand W. Kelly, Grad., president of the Liberal Club, called the wording of the ballot unfair in that it tended to split the opposition to a tax, and accounted for the smallness of the vote by saying that the Trustees have not been swayed in the past by student opinion.

Trustees to Decide

The subcommittee which met with President Farrand on Saturday is composed of Andrew J. Whinery '10, chairman, Dr. Floyd S. Winslow '06, William J. Thorne '11, Dean George Young, Jr. '00, Provost Albert R. Mann '04, and Charles H. Blair '98. It is to report later to the full committee on organization of the athletic interests of the University, which in turn is expected to make recommendations to the Board of Trustees. The larger committee comprises, besides the foregoing, Colonel John B. Tuck '93 and Robert E. Treman '09 representing the Trustees; Professor Hugh C. Troy '95, who with Dean Young represents the Faculty; and C. Reeve Vanneman '03, the fourth representative of the alumni. Following the report of another subcommittee composed of these four members, the Trustees at their meeting on February 2 appropriated $28,000 to underwrite the sports program for the remainder of the present year. A committee of the University Faculty has also been appointed, with Professor Frederick G. Marcham as chairman, to study the athletic situation; but has not yet reported.

SAGE CHAPEL PREACHER March 17 is Rabbi Edward L. Israel, Har Sinai Temple, Baltimore, Md.

TO HANDLE PLACEMENT

Mrs. Arthur L. Danforth (Grace L. Ward) '07, president of the Cornell Women's Club of Buffalo, has appointed Elizabeth C. Spencer '32 as placement secretary of the Club.

QUAKERS RUSH PROSPECTS

The Cornell Club of Philadelphia on March 9 entertained a dozen prospective Cornellians at the clubhouse, 1219 Spruce Street. Walter W. Buckley '25 presided. The principal speaker was R. W. Sailor '07, editor-in-chief of the ALUMNI NEWS. Plans were discussed and invitations given the guests to attend Cornell Day at Ithaca on May 11. Films of the Campus and student life, and of the 1934 Pennsylvania game were shown after the dinner.

TO PLAY LACROSSE

Sixteen alumni of the Metropolitan District who formerly played lacrosse at the University met for dinner March 1 at the Cornell Club of New York to plan the organization of an amateur lacrosse team to be composed of former Varsity players.

Roy Taylor '10, who played on the Varsity teams of 1908 to 1910, and has since been an active amateur player and referee, was the guest of honor and spoke of the possibilities of such an organization.

Other Cornellians present were James M. Rooney '24, G. Louis Kammerer '28, Harold Greenberg '29, Albert R. Erda '30, Fred C. Fay '30, Edwin W. Jamieson '30, Samuel G. Tiemann '30, George C. Wallace '31, Arthur L. Boschen '32, Stanley W. Hubbel '32, George H. Matthew '32, Irving V. Tullar '32, Arthur M. Van DeWater '32, Carleton M. Cornell '33, and Henry Gally, Jr. '34.

SELL FAMOUS BUILDINGS

Two buildings familiar to generations of Cornellians have changed hands, according to announcements made during the week.

Cascadilla Manse, the picturesque old residence which rears its white walls amid a cluster of trees on the high promontory of land that wedges between Dryden Road and Cascadilla dormitories just above Eddy Street, has been sold to two Trustees of the University, Stanton Griffis '10 of New York City and Nicholas H. Noyes '06 of Indianapolis, Ind. No announcement has been made of its future use, but it is surmised that one or both purchasers may make it a summer home in Ithaca.

The house was built by John and Ai Giles in 1840, when Eddy Street dam held the back waters of Cascadilla Creek to generate power for the old Morse mill below, and a fountain fed from the stream played in the front yard. It was constructed as two apartments for the families of the two original owners, and was one of the fine residences of the town, surrounded by nearly an acre of grounds. Later it was purchased by Professor Hiram Corson and was his home until he died in 1911. Thereafter it housed the tutoring school of Cony Sturgis, '05 Grad., and then until the new Lutheran Church and parsonage were built about ten years ago it was occupied by the late Rev. William H. Horn. Since that time it has been rented as a studio and part-time home by Bryant Fleming '01, landscape architect. It was sold by Dr. Eugene R. Corson '75 of Savannah, Ga., son and heir of Professor Corson.

The other building recently to change hands is the former McGraw mansion on Terrace Hill overlooking the city. It has been sold to the Grange League Federation Exchange, agricultural cooperative association now occupying various offices in Ithaca, which will raze the historic red brick structure and build a modern office building on its site. H. Edward Babcock, University Trustee, is head of the GLF, and many other Cornellians are active in it.

The McGraw mansion was built in the early '80s for John McGraw, charter Trustee of the University and donor of McGraw Hall and many other gifts. Here was born his only daughter, Jennie McGraw, who became the wife of Willard Fiske and was the donor of the original Cornell chimes. The architect was William H. Miller, who also designed the President's house, Boardman Hall, the Library Tower, the Sage mansion, now the Infirmary, the Town and Gown Club, and many other buildings in Ithaca. After the death of Mr. McGraw, the house was occupied by Ebenezer T. Turner '83, nephew of Mrs. McGraw, and Mrs. Turner. Eighteen years ago it was purchased by Louis P. Smith, the present mayor of Ithaca. It has been sold by him subject to changes in the city zoning law to permit the erection of an office building on its site.

chairmen of the committee in each fraternity, was called for March 13. Ray S. Ashbery '25 is chairman of the executive committee and Professor Herman Diederichs '97 is Faculty adviser. Its other members are John W. Todd, Jr. '35 and John H. Mount '35 representing Sphinx Head; Serge P. Petroff '35 and Walter D. Switzer '35, Quill and Dagger; Henry S. Godshall, Jr. '36, Aleph Samach; James C. Forbes '36, Red Key; Bo I. B. Adler '35, Scarab; G. Paul Torrence, Jr. '35, Interfraternity Council; William H. Foote '35, Student Council; and E. James Caldwell '37, Cornell Daily Sun.

As announced in the ALUMNI NEWS last week, Cornell Clubs are already at work under the leadership of William J. Thorne '11, chairman of the Cornell Alumni Corporation committee on secondary schools. Each of the cooperating clubs has its Cornell Day chairman, who is in charge of the selection of boys to be brought and of arranging their transportation to Ithaca.

Ashbery, Alumni Field Representative, is general chairman of the event. Individual alumni who may have candidates for this year's Cornell Day he invites to communicate directly with him if there is no Cornell Club in the vicinity.

ALUMNI ACTORS

Cecil R. Rosenberry '26, in his column "All In a Lifetime" in the Ithaca Journal, takes issue with Walter Winchell on the subject of Cornell "bustees" who have made good in the theater. He says:

"A Scallion to Winchell"

"Walter Winchell, who is our competitor, had best look into his facts. He says: 'To be expelled from Cornell University was once an augury for a successful stage career. A few of those who were tossed out of the university for one crime or another are George M. Cohan, Frank Sullivan, Adolphe Menjou (for flunking his French courses), and Mike Vogel, editor of the Motion Picture Herald.'"

"We can find no record of Mr. Cohan ever having attended Cornell or any other university (cf. Who's Who), Francis John Sullivan, as everyone knows, took his AB degree unencumbered in 1914. Adolphe Menjou ['12] never could get along with the professors, admittedly. And we're also willing to concede Arthur Michael Vogel ['17] who, by the way, studied agriculture.

"Winchell goes on to add: 'More recently those destined for fame in the theater have been accorded more respect by the university, and Franchot Tone [Stanislas Pascal '27] and Sidney Kingsley [Sidney S. Kirschner '28] were permitted to leave through the front door with sheepskins.'"

NEW ENGLAND ORGANIZES

With the Bean Pot for March, the Cornell Club of New England sends a special communication signed by Francis A. Niccolls '13, chairman of the Cornell Day committee, outlining plans for getting prospective students to Ithaca. All New England alumni are asked to check their local schools, consult with principals and head masters, meet likely boys, and see that they get to Boston to start for Ithaca with the Club party at 7 o'clock, May 10, from the University Club.

The annual banquet of the Club is announced for March 23, with President Farrand as the speaker. Both men and women will attend. The Bean Pot says also that the twenty or more active Cornellians in Providence, R. I. plan soon to start regular semi-monthly luncheons.

About ATHLETICS

LOSE TO HARVARD

Weakened by the absence of John Meaden, sophomore distance runner, and the consequent necessity of entering Bruce D. Kerr '35 of Ithaca in both the mile and two-mile races, the track team Saturday night in Boston suffered its first defeat in dual or triangular meets in two years. Harvard won the meet with 50½; Cornell was second with 38 5/6; Dartmouth was last with 26 5/6.

Milton G. Green of Newton Center, Mass., who spent one year at Cornell as a member of the Class of '36, won the meet for Harvard. He tied a world's record to beat Captain Walter S. Merwin '35 of Buffalo in the hurdles, pushed Henry S. Godshall, Jr. '36 of Lansdowne, Pa. to a better jump than he has ever before made in a meet, and trailed close behind Robert E. Linders '36 of Jersey City, N. J. in the 50-yard dash. He was high scorer of the meet with 11 points.

Four triangular meet records were broken and another tied as Harvard won its ninth title, the Varsity last year having broken for the first and only time so far the Crimson's string of victories since the meet was inaugurated ten years ago.

Linders, however, was the only double winner of the meet, duplicating his feat of last year and winning the 300-yard dash within 1/5 second of the record. He won the 50-yard dash over Green and Downer of Harvard, who is a brother of Ernest A. Downer '36 of Poughkeepsie, Varsity basketball star.

The Varsity mile relay team provided the greatest performance of the evening in cracking the five-year-old record to lead Dartmouth to the tape by 50 yards. Edward G. Ratkoski '35 of Dunkirk led off, handed the baton to Robert A. Scallan '36 of Terrace Park, O., who passed it to James H. Hucker '37 of Buffalo for a sparkling 50-second quarter before it went to Linders as anchor man.

First places were also gained by Charles R. Scott, Jr. '36 of Montclair, N. J. with 6 feet 2 inches in the high jump, and Henry S. Godshall, Jr. '36 of Lansdowne, Pa. with 22 feet 7 inches in the broad jump.

Backing up these leaders, Varsity men captured three second places and tied for another; three thirds and a tie; and three fourth places. Captain Merwin in the high hurdles and Walter D. Wood, Jr. '36 of Summit, N. J. in the 16-pound shot put pushed the winners to new records; John B. Harlow '35 of Montclair, N. J. took second in the 35-pound weight throw; and Robert B. McNab '36 of Missoula, Mont. tied for second in the pole vault. Kerr, tired from his substitution for Meaden in the one-mile race where he placed fifth, took third place in his specialty, the two-mile run; Grandin A. Godley '36 of Tenafly, N. J. took third in the high jump, as did Robert A. Reed '35 of Dunkirk in the 35-pound weight throw; and Scallan tied for third in the 300-yard dash. Fourth places went to Edmund V. Mezitt '37 of Weston, Mass. in the two-mile; to Charles Y. Neff '37 of Buffalo in the high hurdles; and to Donald T. Houpt '36 of Ambler, Pa. in the shot put. The summary:

WRESTLERS BEAT COLUMBIA

With three contenders for intercollegiate honors out of action because of injuries, the wrestling team surprised the spectators by defeating Columbia, 22½-9½, in the Drill Hall Saturday evening. Coach Walter C. O'Connell '12 had been holding trials during the week to find substitutes for Julius Nathan '35 of Monticello at the 126-pound weight and John P. Floros '36 of Ithaca at 135 pounds, both of whom were injured in the meet with Lehigh last week. In the first major meet of the season, against Syracuse February 9, William L. Cogshall '35 of Ithaca sustained a shoulder injury that has kept him out since.

Completely reorganizing his team, therefore, O'Connell used two men from the Junior Varsity, Paul F. Hartzsch, Jr. '37 of Brooklyn and Caleb K. Hobbie '35 of Rochester, in the 126-pound and 175-pound classes, respectively; and George J. Morgan '36 of Westfield, N. J. at 135 pounds, out of his previous class. Hartzsch drew his bout and the other two won. Asa George '36 of Ithaca forfeited his heavyweight bout after he had aggravated an old shoulder injury. The summary:

118 pounds—Schallenberger, Cornell, threw Dusbeder with wrist lock and nelson. Time—4:36.

126 pounds—Hartzsch, Cornell, and Chilvers drew in extra periods.

135 pounds—Morgan, Cornell, defeated Brown. Time advantage—5:40 (extra periods.)

145 pounds—Elmes, Columbia, defeated Crandall. Time advantage—3:32.

155 pounds—Shoemaker, Cornell, threw Green with a leg split. Time—1:00 (in first extra period.)

165 pounds—Brownell, Cornell, threw Jockun with a double armlock. Time—9:04.

175 pounds—Hobbie, Cornell, defeated L'Hommedieu. Time advantage—4:40.

Heavyweight—George, Cornell, forfeited to Eing.

This was the first major meet which the Varsity team had won, and its last dual meet. They had previously won only from Springfield in a non-league match, and had lost to Syracuse, Penn State, Lehigh, and Army. The last event on the wrestling schedule is the intercollegiate championship meet in Philadelphia, Pa., March 15 and 16.

BOXERS CLOSE SEASON

The first season of intercollegiate boxing for Cornell ended Saturday in Syracuse when a crowd of 1500 saw the Varsity defeated, 6-2, by a team favored to win the intercollegiate championship next week in New York City. Coached by Jacob I. Goldbas '34, without financial assistance from the Athletic Association, the team met defeat by one point at the hands of Penn State, last year's champions; tied Toronto; and lost to Yale, 3-5.

The outstanding bout in Saturday's meet resulted in the year's first defeat for Captain David Cramer '35 of Utica. The 155-pound slugger was given terrific body punishment by McGivern and lost the last two rounds by large margins.

Luis Torregrossa '36 of Porto Rico opened auspiciously for the varsity as he scored a decisive victory over Black of Syracuse in the 115-pound bout.

Bo I. B. Adler '35 of Ithaca, in the 175-pound class, scored the only other win for Cornell. The big Swedish redhead punished his Orange rival badly in the final round after being sent to the floor himself to the count of nine in the second round by Best.

Irving A. Jenkins '37 of New York City gave Brown a great battle for honors in the heavyweight bout but the Syracusean managed to pile up enough points for victory. Jenkins closed Brown's left eye and was slugging him at the finish.

FENCERS WIN TRIANGULAR

The fencing team on Saturday at Syracuse defeated Syracuse, 11-6, and Colgate 12½-4½, gaining 23½ points of a possible 34, to 14½ for Syracuse and 13 for Colgate.

Edwin O. Merwin '36 of Buffalo starred, taking all 6 of his bouts in the foils. Morris Sandgrund '37 of Rochester won 5 and lost one, and Daniel D. Krakauer '35 of Tannersville won 1 and lost five. In the epee matches James W. Parker '37 of Wilton won 3 and tied one, and Daniel F. Macbeth '37 of Auburn won 2 and lost two. In the sabres Wieman Kretz '36 of Rockville Center and Edgar M. Matthews '37 of Jamaica each won 3 and lost one.

FINISH SIXTH IN BASKETBALL

The basketball team finished a mediocre season at Hanover Saturday, meeting defeat by Dartmouth, 28-43. The Green team led from the start, making four field goals and a foul before the first Cornell score. At the half Dartmouth led 24-16. Foote and Downer closely guarded Dartmouth's Captain Bonniwell, leading scorer of the League, but were unable to keep from fouling him, so that six of his points were made as a result. Captain Foote was sent off on fouls in the second half and was followed later by Downer. Freed as usual led the scoring for the Varsity and missed but one of seven foul tries. The summary:

CORNELL (28)
	G	F	P
Freed, f.	3	6	12
Downer, f.	3	0	6
Moran, c.	0	1	1
Foote, g.	2	0	4

Davis, g.	3	1	7
Totals.	15	13	43

The team thus finished in sixth place in the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League, having won but three of its twelve games, over Pennsylvania, Harvard, and Princeton. If Harvard beats Yale it will tie Cornell for last place, with Columbia and Pennsylvania tied for first, pending the playoff Wednesday at New Brunswick, N. J.

The Varsity scored 329 points in all, ranking fourth behind Columbia, Pennsylvania and Dartmouth. Lewis Freed '36 of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., forward, scored 105 of these to take third place in individual scoring behind Bonniwell of Dartmouth and Nash of Columbia. Last year's captain, John J. Ferraro '34, was high League scorer with 128; Bonniwell's record is 144. Ernest A. Downer '36 of Poughkeepsie scored 67; Charles E. Dykes '36 of Springfield, O., 42; Captain William H. Foote '35 of Milwaukee, Wis., 36; and John C. Wilson, Jr. '35 of Milwaukee, Wis., 31.

SWIMMERS LOSE LAST

The swimming team, only Varsity team that always competes away from home, met defeat at the hands of Syracuse Saturday, 27-43, in the last event of the season for both. Robert D. Cloyes '38 of Cleveland Heights, O. was the only individual Varsity winner, taking the 50-yard freestyle event in 26 seconds. The relay team, composed of Sewell W. Crisman, Jr. '35 of Morristown, Pa., Samuel F. Huber '35 of Bridgeton, N. J., Emanuel Tarlow '35 of New York City, and Cloyes, brought the only other win.

Robert N. Avery '35 of Grosse Point, Mich. undefeated breast stroke swimmer, did not compete, and both Tarlow and Egon F. Brummerstedt '35 of Greenwood Lake were disqualified in the 200-yard breast stroke event for taking illegal turns.

The team had previously lost to Rennselaer Polytechnic Institute, Franklin and Marshall, Manhattan, and Rochester, and defeated Buffalo Teachers' College.

TEAM LEADERS

The Athletic Council has ratified the election of captains in soccer, fencing, and wrestling; and of managers and assistant managers of football and cross-country.

Charles C. Shoemaker '35 of Philadelphia, Pa. is the captain of wrestling for the coming year; Howard D. Dugan '36 of Hamburg, captain of soccer; and Edwin O. Merwin '36 of Buffalo, brother of Walter S. Merwin '35, captain of the 1934 track team, is captain of the fencing team.

William M. Hoyt '36 of Summit, N. J.

is football manager; Frank B. Poole '37 of Ithaca, assistant manager; George M. Dimeling '36 of Clearfield, Pa., freshmen manager; and Samuel S. Verbeck '37 of Manlius, assistant freshmen manager.

John J. Gillespie '36 of Long Beach, Cal. is cross-country manager; Robert J. Agnew '37 of Norwich, Conn., assistant manager; and Douglas B. King '37 of Maplewood, N. J., assistant manager of freshmen cross-country.

RIDERS WHIP ALUMNI

In spite of giving their opponents a two-goal handicap, the ROTC polo team took the measure of an alumni team in the Riding Hall Saturday night, 23½-15½. John D. Hertz '31 and Richard M. Sears '33 played for the alumni and the place of Charles K. Graydon '30 was taken by "June" Little, nationally famous outdoor player who was playing indoors for his second time.

Only in the first period were the graduates ahead and then only by the handicap, both teams tallying four times. The summary:

CORNELL (23½)		ALUMNI (15½)
Leslie	No. 1	Sears
T. Lawrence	No. 2	Hertz
J. Lawrence	Back	Little
Score by chukkers:
Cornell	4	8	5
Alumni	4	3	4
Scoring: Cornell—T. Lawrence 12, Leslie 5, J. Lawrence 3. Alumni—Sears 8, Hertz 4, Little 3.
Fouls: Cornell, Leslie; Alumni, Hertz 3.
Referee: Lt. Pittman, Cornell.

The Indoor Polo Association last week put the Lawrence Brothers of Smithtown Branch, Captain John C. '37 and Thomas '38, into the one-goal handicap class, giving the Cornell team henceforth a rating of two.

On March 16, in the Riding Hall, a women's polo team will make its first appearance, preceding the Varsity encounter with Essex Troop of Newark, N. J. The women will play the Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Whipettes, and on April 6 a return match is tentatively scheduled at Wilkes-Barre. Playing for Cornell will be A. Nathalie Colvocoresses '38 of Phoenix, Ariz., Anne M. Simpson '36 of Lyons, and a third member to be decided.

TO BRING PREACHERS

Beginning March 10, Cornell United Religious Work presents on Sunday afternoons in Barnes Hall a series of five talks on religion by ministers of as many faiths. The first speaker was Dean Thomas W. Graham of Oberlin College, Presbyterian. On March 17 Rabbi Edward L. Israel of Baltimore, Md. will discuss the Jewish faith. Father William Byrne of Ithaca speaks on behalf of the Catholic Church, March 24. On April 14, Dr. Rufus Jones of Haverford and Bryn Mawr will lecture on the Society of Friends; and on May 5 Bishop Charles Fiske, Episcopalian, concludes the series.

NOMINATE TUCK '93

But one nomination has so far been filed for the two vacancies in Alumni Trusteeships to be filled in June, according to Foster M. Coffin '12, secretary of the Cornell Alumni Corporation.

Colonel John B. Tuck '93 of Syracuse, who is completing his first term, will run for reelection. Maxwell M. Upson '99, whose second term would have ended this June, was coopted by the Board as a member in February.

The final date for filing nominations is April 1. Any ten persons holding Cornell degrees may place a candidate in the field by addressing a petition to the Treasurer of the University, George F. Rogalsky '07. Ballots and biographical sketches will be mailed to all degree holders during the first week of April. Ballots may be returned until June 10 and the results will be announced at the annual meeting of the Cornell Alumni Corporation.

MICHIGAN HAS CROWD

The largest attendance in the history of the Cornell Club of Michigan turned out for the forty-fifth annual banquet held at the University Club in Detroit on March 11. Richard Bragaw '09, president of the club, introduced Clarence F. Hirschfield '05 as toastmaster. The principal speaker was William S. Knudson, executive vice-president of the General Motors Corporation, who emphasized the importance of keeping an open mind in our present civilization. Henry E. Epley '03 was presented with a silver cup in token of his untiring efforts on behalf of the club.

DEVELOP NEW CABBAGES

Behind the recent announcement that the Department of Plant Breeding had discovered "a new strain of cabbage that won't smell up the house" is an interesting story of six years of experimentation. More than four thousand cabbage plants are being used by Professor Clyde H. Myers, PhD '12, to develop this and other new strains. By the introduction of a cold storage rest period followed by greenhouse forcing, the period of seed production was reduced from two years to a little more than one, thus cutting nearly in half the time which would normally be required to get new plants.

The so-called odorless cabbage is the result of selections from among various strains of Savoy, a well known old European variety. It produces dark green, uniform heads of about three pounds, with crisp, crinkly leaves of mild flavor that carries with it minimum odor in cooking.

This is but one of many experiments with cabbage that are being carried on under Professor Myer's direction. He expects that others may bring new varieties of even greater commercial importance. Under the method he has developed, the plants selected for the desired qualities are uprooted and placed in cold storage for about two months. This rest period, followed by careful growing in greenhouses, brings bloom long before the normal time, and the selected plants are then hand pollinated so as to control the production of new strains.

KEEP LOCAL HISTORY

The DeWitt Historical Society of Tompkins County was organized February 21, successor to the Historical Society of Ithaca and the DeWitt Historical Society. As might be expected, many Cornellians are actively interested in the new organization, as they have always been in those that preceded it.

Professor Benton S. Monroe '96, city historian, spoke of the organization of the Historical Society of Ithaca through the instigation of Ezra Cornell and Francis Miles Finch, later Dean of the Law School. The organization meeting was held, he said, in the office of Boardman and Finch on June 30, 1863, the day before the first clash of the Battle of Gettysburg. Professor Monroe suggested that the idea of the Cornell Library in Ithaca might well have grown from the activities of this society, most of whose records are lost.

After a period of inaction, the society was revived in 1900 as the DeWitt Historical Society under the leadership of William Elliot Griffis, and various tablets and markers were placed about Ithaca which still survive.

Emeritus Professor Charles H. Hull '87, American History, was named honorary president of the new Society. Professor Monroe is third vice-president; D. Boardman Lee '26 is treasurer; and Albert W. Force '19 is a custodian. Among the directors are Bessie F. Speed '06, Jared T. Newman '75, Romeyn Berry '04, Mrs. Albert H. Wright (Anna Allen) '09, Robert H. Treman '78, Mynderse Van Cleef '74, James R. Robinson '09, Charles D. Bostwick '92, and Ebenezer T. Turner '83.

MAY TEST EMPLOYEES

To benefit both prospective employers and students, Herbert H. Williams '25, Director, announces a new service of the University Placement Bureau. Through his office, alumni and other prospective employers may now obtain the records of students available for summer work and thus select certain ones to be tried out during this period with a view to their possible employment after graduation.

Williams has on his lists persons with some previous experience in practically every field. Many have worked in summer hotels and as camp counsellors, and not a few have been employed in various industries and businesses, both before entering the University and during summers.

THE STUDENT VOTE

Although purely advisory, the undergraduate poll regarding the proposed athletic tax is illuminating, and heartening to those that would like to see inter-collegiate athletics continued at Cornell on much the same basis as in the past.

More students voted for a tax of twenty dollars a year than the number that have paid ten dollars for season tickets in any of the past three years.

Perhaps the financial problem of the Athletic Association will eventually be solved by meeting in some manner the requirements of these voters and those that did not vote so that they will purchase season tickets and thus, by inference, appear as spectators at the games.

The non-collegiate spectator is attracted to games only in part by the desire to see a brilliant contest of giants. An equally powerful urge is to see the crowds and all the life and youth and action that goes with a stand full of students. It is this attraction that has kept college football abreast of professional football and has prevented other branches of collegiate athletics from going out of the picture completely.

Possibly the vote is a straw that shows that three thousand or more potential customers are ready to support athletics again with memberships under certain conditions, if these conditions can be ascertained and met.

Remedies such as the taking over of athletics by the University are not to be taken lightly. It is not impossible that conditions might right themselves with reasonable cooperation from all parties. The ideal solution would be for the students to take the situation out of the hands of the University and the alumni, and support their own athletics themselves by voluntary subscriptions. This alternative was not included on the ballot.

FRESHMEN will hold their class banquet on April 13 in Memorial Hall at Willard Straight, according to announcement made last week. John A. Pistor of Upper Montclair, N. J. is chairman of the committee.

CLEVELAND KEEPS EDUCATED

The Cornell Club of Cleveland at its regular luncheon March 7 entertained James G. Caffrey, director for northern Ohio of the FHA, who spoke on "Possibilities for Recovery in 1935 through the National Housing Act." The previous week Robert O. Brannon '23 of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company spoke on "The Importance of Winter Air Conditioning."

CHICAGO AFTER STUDENTS

Cornell Clippings, the lively weekly news sheet of the Cornell Club of Chicago, announces in its issue of March 2 the appointment of a committee of eleven to take the lead in the Club's new program "to send to Cornell each year an increasing number of outstanding boys from the secondary schools of the Chicago area."

Alfred H. Hutchinson '09 is chairman of the new committee; its other members are Ross W. McKinstry '18, Newton C. Farr '09, Clarence T. Seipp '08, Frederic O. Ebeling '09, Clarence A. Peirce '09, Harry R. Kay '22, Stewart A. Cushman '20, John J. Munns '14, Huntley H. Gilbert '07, and Waldo F. Tobey '95.

Three classes, '23, '24, and '25, were schedules for reunions at the regular luncheon of the Club on March 7. The speaker was R. G. Raymond, manager of the Chicago Lighting Institute, who discussed "The Science of Seeing."

NEW CAMPUS MAP READY

A new and revised map of the University Campus has just been prepared under the direction of Woodford Patterson '95, Secretary of the University. It shows graphically the many changes made since 1930, when the last map was published.

Coming to the Campus from Stewart Avenue, one finds a new route entirely. "New Road," so-called, proceeds in a northerly direction from the corner of Stewart and South, winding up the hill past the new Sigma Phi and Psi Upsilon houses, jogs slightly to the south crossing Central Avenue at about the site of the old University Club, now removed, and proceeds eastward across the former Sage Green, crossing East Avenue and joining the former road between the Drill Hall and Hoy Field. The south end of Sage Road at Central Avenue and the weather kiosk which stood there are now eliminated, Sage Road now ending at New Road just east of Central Avenue. President's Avenue, which formerly ran from Central Avenue near the Library to East Avenue directly in front of the President's house, has now also been eliminated, as has most of South Avenue except a short spur which runs up from Stewart.

The new map shows the several new buildings which have been erected on the Campus since 1920, and Boardman Hall is relabelled, "History," since the Law School has moved to Myron Taylor Hall, which on the previous map was shown only as projected. It shows the new dormitory unit, Mennen Hall, and on the upper Campus, Martha Van Rensselaer Hall and the Agricultural Economics Building, with the new Riding Hall adjoining the ROTC stables on Dryden Road. The former reservoir back of Bailey Hall the map shows to have been converted into a parking space, and similar places for cars are indicated in and about the plaza before Bailey Hall and north of the Old Armory. Further concessions to the automobile age are evident in the marking of route numbers on the principal through roads, Stewart Avenue to Auburn, and the new Ithaca Road—Dryden Road extension to Cortland.

The map measures 14½ by 11 inches. Copies may be had on application to the office of the University Secretary, Morrill Hall.

DRAMATIC CLUB PRESENTS

Thirty-six students appeared before the audience in the University Theatre on March 9 in the four original one-act plays presented by the Dramatic Club. This is not to mention the four student authors, members of Professor Alex M. Drummond's class in playwriting, the four student directors, nor the probably much larger technical staffs which worked behind the scenes.

Of the four plays, two stood out above the others. "The Life of John Doe," by Seymour B. Berkowitz '36 of Newark, N. J., portrayed somewhat cynically but with many clever lines and some amusing jingles the birth, education, marriage, parenthood, and work of its principal character. This against a background of separate cubicles for each division, each lighted at the proper time as the action dictated.

"Thy Neighbor's Wife," by Annette R. Baker '35 of Hudson, treated the age-old triangle in a most modern manner, and was extremely well done by its two characters, the lover and the husband.

"Borax," by Violet J. Brown '35 of Brooklyn, was a panorama of a day in a furniture store, and "The New Humanism," by John R. Hefler '34 of Providence, R. I., had to do with labor troubles and with a man's theories as opposed to his actions in emergency.

WILLARD STRAIGHT HALL provides new service for its patrons with the announcement that henceforth from 4 to 6 on Fridays guides will be available in the main lobby to conduct visitors through the building. Tours will be suited to the convenience of those being conducted. The undergraduate guides will explain the murals, the three-hundred-year-old Chinese paintings, will show the dormitory for visiting teams, the game rooms, dining rooms, kitchens, and other features of the Hall.

BRIEF NEWS OF CAMPUS AND TOWN

FRESHMEN the past two weeks have been undergoing the tribulations of fraternity initiation. The outward signs have been darkened houses and the displaying of fraternity banners, but an inquiring reporter for the Sun estimates that as many as 1400 paddles have been sold this year by the two establishments which specialize in their sale: Doll's on College Avenue and Driscoll Brothers' lumber yard downtown. The standard model is thirty-six inches long, about four wide, and almost an inch thick. They come in all shapes and sizes, however, with holes and without. It is now almost the universal custom for the fraternities to initiate in the second term, dictated probably as much by the effects on the house budget of the loss of freshmen as by concern for the scholastic opportunity of pledges.

TEN STUDENTS of the Department of Floriculture are presenting a series of "garden club of the air" broadcasts over Station WESG each Wednesday at 4. Those who have charge of these programs on gardening are Joseph W. Miller '35 of Rochester, Frank E. Miller, Jr. '35 of Lynn, Mass., Jean J. Black '36 of Staten Island, Richard D. Hammond '35 of Marathon, Viola A. Henry '35 of Norwich, Betty Jane Holleyhead '36 of Rochester, Richard T. Hougen '35 of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., Mrs. Callie S. Smith '36 of Poughkeepsie, Edith J. Beasley, Sp., of Ithaca, and Ruth M. Press '35 of Philadelphia, Pa.

THE CORNELL Corinthian Yacht Club, although not yet formally organized by the adoption of a constitution and by-laws, held a meeting at the Clinton House March 5, inspected two sample sailing dinghies which an enterprising manufacturer from Skaneateles had brought over for that purpose, and discussed its proposed program. This includes a course in navigation, a fleet of eight boats in which races may be held Saturdays and Sundays on Cayuga Lake, and official representation in the intercollegiate yacht races in June and perhaps in the intercollegiate outboard motorboat regatta.

EUGENE C. SCHUM '35 of Erie, Pa. won first prize and the right to represent the undergraduate branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at a meeting of the Society at Boston, Mass. in April, with his paper on "The Advantages of the Hesselman Engine." Second prize was awarded to Robert H. Ritchings '35 of Chatham, N. J. for his paper on "Some New Silver Solders"; third went to John H. Palmer '35 of Milwaukee, Wis. for his on "A Thermo-Integrator."

CHARLOTTE G. THROOP, Vassar College graduate of 1934, daughter of Mrs. Montgomery H. Throop (Elizabeth Nichols) '05, and granddaughter of Emeritus Professor Edward L. Nichols '75, has been awarded the James Ryland and Georgia A. Kendrick fellowship in physics for study at Cornell, according to announcement from Vassar.

TOMPKINS COUNTY is to be the scene of a model health demonstration program financed for the most part with Federal funds, according to a plan proposed by the State Health Department and accepted by the supervisors. It had previously been endorsed by the County Medical Society after recommendation by the chairman of the State Medical Society's public health committee and by Dr. Farrand, who was head of Governor Roosevelt's State Health Commission. The county will be made a special sanitary district to which will be detailed by the State an assistant district health officer, a supervising nurse, a sanitary engineer, a clerk, and an additional nurse.

ENGUEDA YOHANNES, senior in the Veterinary College whose home is in Addis Abeba, capital of Abyssinia, told an Ithaca gathering March 5 that Italy would find it difficult to take his country, even if she wanted to. The country has never been conquered, he said, has been ruled by the same family since 4476 B.C., and is now the only independent nation in Africa. The present trouble he lays to the uncertain boundary of land granted to Italy by Abyssinia in 1905.

THE FAITHFUL trolley cars of Ithaca have been sold down the river. The Common Council voted seven to one on March 6, after a public hearing in which practically no sorrow at their passing was voiced, to allow busses to be substituted and the tracks torn up. Earlier, conditional upon city and Public Service Commission approval, controlling interest in Ithaca Railways, Inc. had been sold to Utica bus operators. They promise specially constructed modern vehicles to cope with Ithaca's hills and to be running, it is hoped, by June 1. Thus alumni returning for reunions this year may miss yet another of their student memories of the place.

AGAIN on March 5 the Budapest String Quartet captivated a Cornell audience in Willard Straight Theatre, with a program of Beethoven, Schumann, and Reger chamber music exquisitely rendered. They have been favorites here for several years, and completely justified their reputation.

BUSINESS RECOVERY in Ithaca will be speeded through a series of business clinics sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce under the chairmanship of Alfred Kittler, local agent of the Lehigh Valley, who takes the place of the late "Frank Lehigh." Two of the meetings were led by Dean Dexter S. Kimball and Sherman Peer '06.

SIX MEMBERS of the Law School Class of '36 have been elected to the editorial board of the Cornell Law Quarterly: A. Marcus Connelly of Ashville, Howard S. Friedman of Perth Amboy, N. J., Hubert G. Hanson of Marcellus, John F. Maddever of Niagara Falls, Robert S. Pasley, Jr. of Maplewood, N. J., and Frederick W. Whiteside, Jr. of Camden, Ark.

LECTURES for the current week include two addresses by Kirby Page in Barnes Hall on March 10: "Is America Speeding Toward Fascism?" and "What Shall We Do with the Sermon on the Mount"; the seventh and eighth in the Messenger series by Professor Wesley C. Mitchell on "National Planning," March 11 and March 15; a discussion of "The New Plan of the University of Chicago" by Professor Chauncey S. Boucher, Dean of the College of Arts, Literature, and Science in that University, under the auspices of the Cornell Chapter of the American Association of University Professors, on March 11; John Tasker Howard, critic and author, on "Our American Music," illustrated at the piano, on the Goldwin Smith Foundation, March 13; Nick Bawlf and his Olympics pictures in Willard Straight Hall March 14.

BESIDES the lectures announced last week, three other speakers from away came to the Campus during the week. On March 5, T. Alfred Fleming of the National Board of Fire Underwriters spoke on "The Relation of Fire Prevention and Building Construction" in West Sibley. The first of a series of talks on employment opportunities sponsored by the University Placement Bureau was given March 7 by R. W. Valentine, training manager of Halsey, Stewart Company. He described the investment banking business and the qualifications necessary for success in it. On March 8 the Department of Hotel Administration sponsored a talk by W. A. Stead of the Royal Connaught Hotel, Hamilton, Ontario, who is also president of the Hotel Greeters of America. A delegation of hotel students accompanied him that evening to Syracuse, where he was guest of honor at a banquet of the latter organization.

Two years ago Dr. Sutton and John B. Semple, a trustee of the Carnegie Institute, heard but did not see the rare flammulated screech owl in the Chisos mountains. This year, with Dr. Josselyn Van Tyne of the University of Michigan, they hope to find and study it, and to discover there also a new species of humming-bird. This work in the Southwest will follow Dr. Sutton's participation in the expedition which is now recording bird songs in Florida.

DIRECTOR PAUL M. LINCOLN of the School of Electrical Engineering has invented an electric meter of the thermal type on which he has just received a patent. It is said to have eleven unique features.

WIN BAIRD PRIZES

The Baird Prizes have been awarded for this year to Arthur G. Lavagnino '35 of Pasadena, Cal., first, and Serge P. Petroff '36 of Montclair, N. J., second. These prizes, of thirty and twenty dollars, are awarded annually to students in the College of Architecture taking junior and senior design. This year's problem was for the design of a doorway leading from a large hall, such as the Hall of Records in Washington, D. C., into another room housing the Declaration of Independence. Of the several designs submitted, these two received the unanimous verdict of the judges for their general excellence, according to Dean George Young, Jr. '00.

The prizes were established in 1927 by Mrs. M. Z. Baird of Cleveland, O., who is the mother of two former students in Architecture, Thomas J. Baird '25 and Lincoln Baird '28. She is also the donor to the College of a fund from which loans are made to worthy students.

LAW COMMISSION ACTIVE

The New York State Law Revision Commission, of which Dean Charles K. Burdick is chairman, Professor John W. MacDonald '25 is executive secretary and director of research, and Warnick J. Kernan '05 is a member, has for the current year submitted eleven bills to the Legislature and three reports to the Governor. The Commission is a permanent body, established to advise the Legislature in the progressive and orderly revision of the State's legal system. Its activities are centered in Myron Taylor Hall.

Among the changes now recommended to the Legislature are revision of the perjury law, the enactment of an extradition act uniform with those of other states, alteration of the present common law rule with respect to damage actions for personal injuries, certain amendments to bring the personal property law into uniformity with those of other commercial states, abolition of the archaic common law rule which may defeat suits by children for personal injuries if negligence of their parents or custodians is proved, and amendments to the real property law affecting properties held in trust, the rights of tenants to make alterations, collection of damages, and interpretation of deeds.

The Commission at the request of the Governor has recommended an amendment to the correction law which simplifies and unifies its provisions for reduction of sentences. Also at the Governor's request the Commission has reported on its study of the so-called "public enemy act," and has started work on the complete revision of the New York penal law.
