One Special Friend...

will thank you, now, for bringing the Alumni News to his attention. It needn't cost you anything. The next time you write to that particular friend of college days, just say, as so many others are doing, "Have you seen the Alumni News lately?"

● Or send us his name and address and we'll mail him a sample copy, telling him it comes at your suggestion.

● Better yet, of course, ask us to enter him as a subscriber and send you the bill. It costs only four dollars a year. He'll thank you for your thoughtfulness each week as he reads the news of Cornell. Your request on a postcard will do.

Dr. Henry P. deForest, secretary of the Class of '84, writes us: "At the Cornell Club of New York, of which I am the librarian, the Alumni News has been much more in demand during the past few months than for some years past."

CORNELL DAY MAY 16 Alumni to Bring Boys Again

May 16 has been designated as Cornell Day, when the University will again entertain boys from secondary schools, as it has for the past two years. The number of schoolboy guests this year, according to Ray S. Ashbery '25, general chairman, will have to be sharply limited, with quotas assigned to each territory. For each of the past two years more than six hundred boys have come to Ithaca, and indications are that this year more would be brought than could be cared for properly if quotas are not set. Ashbery is urging alumni, therefore, to select the recipients of Cornell Day invitations carefully, with due regard for their scholastic standing and general availability as prospective Cornellians.

As before, many of the boys will be brought to Ithaca in cars by alumni. Members of the informal "Chauffeurs' Club" of other years have reported as much enjoyment from the trip as the boys they brought. The first will arrive on Friday, May 15, and the guests will be assigned as before to be entertained until Sunday at the various fraternity houses. The program is not yet announced in its entirety, but there will be a dual track meet with Pennsylvania, probably a lacrosse game on Saturday, with possibly other athletic events, and at least one gathering of guests and their undergraduate hosts for entertainment.

Several Cornell Clubs took advantage of the Christmas holiday to entertain undergraduates and prospective schoolboy Cornell Day guests; others actively solicited the help of undergraduates when they were home to suggest possible candidates for invitations from among their school friends, and in still others alumni are already active in looking up prospective guests for this year's Cornell Day.

CORNELL HIGHLY RATED

Calling attention to the enviable position of the University in the educational world, The Cornellian Council in a leaflet being mailed to January Alumni Fund subscribers, cites Cornell's high rating in two recent appraisals.

In 1934 a committee of the American Council on Education found Cornell adequately equipped with men and apparatus in twenty-seven of thirty-five fields of graduate study surveyed, and distinguished in sixteen of these fields.

Edwin R. Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, in the Atlantic Monthly for June, 1935, rated Cornell seventh among all American universities in scholarly eminence. He said:

"Cornell is especially strong in the sciences which underlie medicine and agriculture, and is one of the few general universities which have developed the engineering sciences to a high degree." Of twenty-four major departments of learning, he adjudged Cornell distinguished in thirteen.

Taking as its text the motto, "True and Firm," carved over the doorway of Ezra Cornell's former home, the booklet pictures this doorway on its cover. The Council suggests that further progress by the University is greatly helped by contributions to the Alumni Fund, and says that "Cornell is determined to deserve and maintain her reputation as a leader in honest scholarship, research, and public service."

The first six months' contributions to the Alumni Fund of the current fiscal year, according to Archie M. Palmer '18, executive secretary of The Cornellian Council, are well ahead of the amount given in the same period of 1934.

COMMITTEE AT WORK

The committee appointed from the Board of Trustees and the Faculty to consider the selection of a president for the University, held its second meeting December 7 in Ithaca. At that time the organization of the committee was completed and substantial progress is reported in its investigations.

Heretofore, the presidents of Cornell have been selected by the Trustees alone. When President Farrand last year brought before the Board the question of his retirement, he was asked, and consented, to continue to serve until June, 1937, when he shall have reached the age of seventy. It was decided then by the Trustees to seek the assistance of the Faculty as well as of the Trustees, and this committee was appointed "to search out available candidates . . . and inquire into and report upon their qualifications" to the Board, by whom the new president will be elected.

In its general canvass of the field, the committee has invited Trustees and members of the Faculty to suggest names for its consideration. It announces that it will also welcome and consider suggestions from any alumnus.

Chairman of the committee is J. DuPratt White '90. Its secretary is Professor Julian P. Bretz, 9 Boardman Hall, Ithaca. Its other members are Bancroft Gherardi '93, Jervis Langdon '97, Robert H. Tremen '78, and Frank H. Hiscock '75, ex-officio, from the Board of Trustees; and Professors Carl E. Ladd '12, Herman Diederichs '97, and Floyd K. Richtmyer '04 from the Faculty.

GIVE HOLIDAY PARTIES Clubs Entertain Students

Following the custom of other years, many Cornell clubs had parties during the Christmas holidays, most of them attended by undergraduates and by sub-freshmen, as well as by alumni.

The Cornell Club of Syracuse held its party as a luncheon at the University Club on December 28. Approximately seventy alumni were joined by almost an equal number of undergraduates and boys from high and preparatory schools. Joseph B. Campbell '11, president of the Club, introduced Justice Edward L. Robertson '01 as toastmaster. Dean Dexter S. Kimball was the principal speaker. On the program with him for briefer remarks were William J. Thorne '11, chairman of the committee of the Cornell Alumni Corporation on relations with secondary schools; Foster M. Coffin '12, Alumni Representative; Ray S. Ashbery '25, Alumni Field Secretary; and Richard H. Beyer '33, coach of the Freshman football team.

The Cornell Club of Buffalo met for luncheon on December 27 at the Buffalo Athletic Club. Nearly one hundred alumni, undergraduates, and sub-freshmen attended. H. Halsey Miller '11, president of the Club, introduced Walter S. Merwin '35, captain of the track team a year ago, as the principal speaker. Brief talks were given by Richard H. Beyer '33, coach of the Freshman football team, John J. Ferraro '34, former captain of the football and basketball teams, and Rex Morgan '39, who spoke for the Freshmen. Charles G. Seelbach '19 and his orchestra furnished the music, with Neil M. Willard '18 leading the singing.

The Pittsburgh men met at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club on December 28, with seventy-five present. The attendance was kept down by a storm that had most of Pittsburgh snowbound. Eugene C. Batchelar '02, president of the Club and director of the Cornell Alumni Corporation, presided. John W. Todd '06 was the principal speaker. John F. McGhee '24 was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Herbert Snyder '16, secretary of the Cornell Club of Southern Ohio, reports "the best Cornell party in years" when the regular monthly luncheon at the University Club in Cincinnati was moved along a day to December 27 so as to have undergraduates present. About a dozen students were there, and several spoke, including Morse Johnson '37, assistant manager of crew, who told of current developments in athletics under the direction of James Lynch '05. The toastmaster, Oscar A. Klausmeyer '13, also called upon Johnson's father, Clyde P. Johnson '93. Presiding at the meeting was L. Bartlett Shapleigh '24, president of the Club.

Twenty-five members of the Cornell Club of Northern New York entertained nineteen undergraduates at luncheon December 27 at the Black River Valley Club in Watertown. Judge Henry J. Kimball '11, president of the Club, acted as toastmaster. Mayor John B. Harris '01 of Watertown spoke, and William W. Conde '38 responded for the undergraduates, one of whom was John B. Harris, Jr. '38.

The Cornell Club of Cleveland held its annual father-and-son holiday party December 28 at the Mid-Day Club. The annual Christmas luncheon of the Cornell Club of Maryland attracted alumni, undergraduates, and prospective Freshmen to the Merchants Club in Baltimore, December 30.

On December 28, the Cornell Women's Club of New York gave its annual Christmas tea, at the Barbizon Hotel, for all undergraduate women in the city and vicinity. K. Eleanor Sternbergh '35 was hostess.

PRIZE PLAYS PUBLISHED

Cornell is surpassed only by Harvard in giving to the nation its most distinguished playwrights. This has just been recorded in a new and handsome volume, The Pulitzer Prize Plays 1918-1934 (Random House, New York City, 847 pages, $3.50), which prefaces each of the prize-winning works with a short biography of the author. In the sacred list of seventeen (two were co-authors) are the names of both Paul Green, '23 Grad, and Sidney Kingsley (Kirschner) '28. It was Green's "In Abraham's Bosom" which won for him the Pulitzer award for 1926-27. And the very last award of all went to Kingsley for his "Men in White" which, produced September 26, 1933, ran for exactly one year in New York City.

Green's work at once gave him leadership in the writing of American folk plays. It is a study of a Negro whose white blood dooms him by asserting itself at the wrong time. Kingsley's work is an analytical treatise of a physician's life and the sacrifice required for the fulfillment of his scientific self.

Classified according to their universities, the Pulitzer prize authors permit little generalization unless it be that the Eastern institutions attract more prospective playwrights of quality than those of the West. Harvard, with three, leads the list. Cornell, Princeton, North Carolina, and Columbia are tied with two. Then, with one each, come the Universities of Wisconsin, Tennessee, California, Chicago, North Dakota, Drake University, Stanford, and the New York Law School. Of the whole list only three playwrights were not university students.

About ATHLETICS

SKI TEAM NINTH

The Varsity ski team finished ninth, leading Ottawa, Yale, and Bowdoin, at the annual college week competition at the Lake Placid Club which ended New Year's Day. They trailed Dartmouth, McGill, New Hampshire, Williams, Harvard, Toronto, Princeton, and St. Patrick's.

Members of the team are Millet G. Morgan '37 of Hanover, N. H., Verner F. Ogi '37 of Webster, Philip G. Wolff '37 of Barker, Joslyn A. Smith '38 of Westmount, Can., Captain Freeman Svenningson '38 of Montreal, Can., and Carl-Eric Béve '39 of Stockholm, Sweden. An intercollegiate meet is planned at Ithaca January 17-18, and the team will take part in the Dartmouth Ice Carnival at Hanover, N. H., February 8; in the Middlebury Winter Carnival at Middlebury, Vt., February 14-15; and in the International Ski Union championship meet at Lanconia, N. H., February 22.

WIN TWO, LOSE TWO

With the tallest aggregation in many years, but designated by Coach Howard B. Ortnier '18 as "mighty green," the basketball team won its first two games, against Toronto and Harvard, and lost two, to Rochester and Colgate.

On December 13 the Varsity opened its season by defeating Toronto in the Drill Hall, 54-29. Its first game in the Eastern Intercollegiate League, against Harvard, it won, December 20, also in the Drill Hall, 41-33. At Rochester December 23 the more experienced Rochester team won, 36-29, fighting out of a 16-16 tie at the half. The squad came back a week early to prepare for Colgate January 4, but they were defeated at Hamilton Saturday night, 23-48.

To start the four games, Ortnier has used the same lineup, consisting of four Sophomores and but one letter man, Ernest A. Downer '36, recently elected captain. Downer at guard has been a consistent scorer, but closely followed by Thomas A. Rich '38 of Hobart, playing at forward. The other first-string forward is Louis E. Dauner '38 of Cincinnati, Ohio; with Robert McDonald '38 of Waterbury, Conn. at the other guard position and Carlton P. Wilson '38 of Milwaukee, Wisc., six-foot-four-and-a-half-inch center, giving the Varsity most of the tap-offs for the first time in years.

With this year's new "end-line-out-of-bounds" play and the elimination of the tap following a foul, the game is more than ever a test of endurance, and necessitates frequent replacements to maintain the pace. Accordingly, Ortnier has made frequent shifts, in practice and in games, of the most promising of his squad. Most often used are Harry T. Kemp '37 of Pottstown, Pa. and Rudolph Doering '37 of Camden, N.-J., forwards; Stanley Simon '37 of Brooklyn and Edward E. Hughes '38 of Edgewood, Pa., Varsity football center, guards; and Orville Engst '37 of Manlius, center. Reserve forward is George W. Crowther '37 of Sodus.

Charles E. Dykes '36 of Springfield, Ohio, veteran guard who tore his kneecap early in the season, is now back in uniform and should be ready for action shortly. Thomas C. Burns '36 of Reading, Pa., another guard who saw action last year, is recovering from an injured ear drum suffered in practice. Lewis M. Freed '36, last year's miniature flash forward, has been in poor health and has not come out for practice this season.

DECIDE MAT CHAMPIONSHIPS

Five hundred spectators saw the two-ring novice meet in the Old Armory December 13 which opened the Campus mat season. Fifty wrestlers and nearly seventy-five boxers who had not participated in Varsity or Freshman meets and who had not previously won novice, University, interfraternity, or intercollegiate championships had been training for weeks under the eyes of the respective coaches, Walter C. O'Connell '12 and Jacob I. Goldbas '34. A series of elimination matches in both sports had brought the best of these together for the 1936 novice championships of the University. The winners

WRESTLING

118-pound class: Marton Ward '39 of Rochester.

125-pound class: John H. Peck '36 of Webster, cross-country letter winner last year.

135-pound class: Aertsen P. Keaseby, Jr. '39 of New York City.

145-pound class: Charles R. Reynolds, Sp. of Trumansburg.

155-pound class: Frederick F. Reimers '39 of Hammond, La.

165-pound class: Winfield D. Tyler '36 of Ithaca.

Heavyweight Class: John C. Hemingway '39 of Syracuse.

BOXING

115-pound class: William W. Carver '36 of Ithaca, son of Professor Walter B. Carver, Mathematics.

125-pound class: Robert Soman '36 of Forest Hills.

135-pound class: Moses L. Goldbas '39 of Utica.

145-pound class: Aarni K. Kariikka '39 of Ithaca.

155-pound class: R. Vinent Thompson '39 of Rochester.

165-pound class: Charles J. Carmody, Jr. '37 of Scarsdale.

175-pound class: Marion V. Bailliere, II '38 of Hudson, Ohio.

Unlimited class: Samuel G. Forkey '39 of North Bangor.

On December 18, the boxing matches for the University championships attracted more than three hundred fans. These were open to all comers, and as was to be expected, were won for the most part by members of last year's Varsity and Freshman squads. One notable exception, however, was Moses L. Goldbas of Utica, Freshman brother of the coach, who defeated John G. Tausig '38 of Harrisburg, Pa., last year's University champion. Except for Goldbas, the winners of these matches, which, like the novice bouts, were three rounds of two minutes each, will comprise the Varsity team which opens its schedule January 11 against Syracuse in that city. This year's University boxing champions:

- 115-pound class: Captain Luis Torregrosa '36 of Porto Rico.
- 125-pound class: Milton A. Lessler '37 of Brooklyn.
- 135-pound class: Moses I. Goldbas '39 of Utica.
- 145-pound class: Ira W. Wilson '38 of Brooklyn.
- 155-pound class: David Cramer '36 of Utica.
- 165-pound class: Charles J. Carmody, Jr. '37 of Scarsdale.
- 175-pound class: George C. Rankin '36 of Richmond Hill, Varsity football tackle.
- Unlimited class: Irving A. Jenkins '37 of New York City.

The first intercollegiate schedule of a Cornell boxing team, now under the sponsorship of the Athletic Association, opens January 11 against Syracuse in that city. Next they meet Queen's University at Ithaca January 18, Yale at Ithaca February 22, Penn State at State College February 29, and Catholic University at Washington, D. C. March 7.

University wrestling championships will be determined January 15, three days before the first match, with Queen's University at Ithaca.

R.O.T.C. RIDERS UNDEFEATED

The rough riders of the ROTC polo team returned to Ithaca unbeaten, from their holiday tour of three games in New Jersey. Stephen J. Roberts '38 of Hamburg, playing at No. 1, was high scorer in two games, and Thomas Lawrence '38 of Smithtown Branch was high the first, against Lawrenceville School at Trenton, December 20. Left-handed Captain John C. Lawrence '36 played back throughout.

Against Lawrenceville the Varsity scored 14½-9½; they defeated the 112th Field Artillery, New Jersey National Guard, at East Orange, December 27, 10½-8; and Westfield Polo Club at Westfield December 28, 17-8.

On December 14, at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., with Clarence C. Combs '39 of Westfield, N. J. playing at No. 2, they defeated the Wilkes-Barre Whips 19½-16½, Combs overcoming a 9-point handicap with ten goals scored. Captain John Lawrence, playing at No. 2, scored 6, and his brother, Thomas, at back, 2, with 2 credited to the horses.

On the same evening in the Riding Hall a second team, composed of David Pollak '39 of Cincinnati, Ohio, No. 1; Warner L. Jones, Jr. '39 of Louisville, Ky., No. 2; and Arthur B. Christian '38 of Elmira, back, defeated the 112th Field Artillery, New Jersey National Guard, 11½-10½. The two Freshmen collaborated in a last period drive which put them ahead after the visitors had taken a 9½-5½ lead.

While the Varsity was playing at Westfield December 28, an "All-American" team lost to Essex Troop Seconds at Newark, N. J., 4-9½. Bartholomew Viviano '33, now a Senior in Law, played at No. 1, Henry Untermeyer '36 of New York City at No. 2, and Robert Reis '37 of New York City at back.

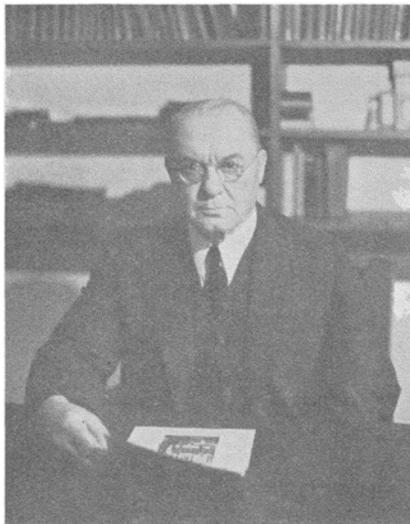

The first intercollegiate polo match of the indoor season is with Princeton in the Riding Hall January 11, to be followed by Army at West Point January 18.

LYNAH TRAVELS

James Lynah '05, Director of Physical Education and Athletics, will be the guest speaker at a luncheon of the Cornell Club of Detroit January 11 at the Book Cadillac Hotel. He will discuss the athletic situation at the University. Delegations from nearby Michigan towns and from Toledo and Cleveland, Ohio, were expected. William D. Crim '17 is chairman of the committee.

The day before, Lynah meets with the Cornell Club of Buffalo. On January 13 the Cornell Club of Chicago will entertain him at luncheon at their regular meeting place at Mandel's.

N.C.A.A. HONORS DIEDERICHS

Professor Herman Diederichs '97, Director of the Sibley College of Mechanical Engineering, was elected vice-president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association at the annual meeting of that organization held in New York City during Christmas week. By virtue of his new office, Professor Diederichs will have general supervision of common athletic interests among the colleges and universities of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, and Maryland. He succeeds Dean Robert G. Sackett of Pennsylvania State College.

This national recognition of Professor

Diederichs' contribution to intercollegiate sport is a natural consequence of his twenty-nine years service in athletic administration. Elected to the old Cornell Athletic Council in 1907, his service has been continuous, in one office or another, ever since. He was made president of the Cornell University Athletic Association in 1913 and served in that office for years, resigning in 1934 to become chairman of the Board of Athletic Policy, which he now is.

As an undergraduate Professor Diederichs was a member of the Cornell track team. He was a shot putter of sorts.

CELEBRATE FOUNDER'S DAY

Celebrating Founder's Day this year, the Cornell Women's Club of Ithaca will entertain the resident members of the Cornell family at a luncheon in Willard Straight Hall, January 11. On Sunday afternoon, January 12, from 5 to 6:30, the Student Council and Women's Self-Government Association will hold a reception to members of the Founder's family in Willard Straight Hall.

BOSTON WOMEN MEET

The Cornell Women's Club of Boston met for bridge and tea the afternoon of December 7. The hostess was Mrs. William G. Mollenberg (Ruth L. Hunter) '26. The club is making a drive for new members, and at this meeting there were several who had never before attended a meeting.

Mrs. Mollenberg has appointed the following to be members of committees of the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs: Mrs. Mayo A. Darling (Evalina P. Bowman) '20, membership committee; Mrs. Victor Ruggles (Cora J. Whitman) '15 Sp, scholarship and loan fund; Mrs. Thomas Dransfield, Jr., (Mary F. Caldwell) '10, vocational information; Mrs. Charles A. Holcomb (Edith Warren) '20, secondary schools.

SHOW "MOVIE" HISTORY

The University Theatre brings to the Willard Straight Theatre, beginning January 11, two series of five programs each from the film library of the Museum of Modern Art in New York City. One series, of early American films, will show the progress of moving pictures from the first Edison kineoscope pictures through the work of Griffith to the end of the era of silent pictures. The other, of memorable American films, is an introductory group of outstanding "Westerns," comedies, documentary films, pictures of mystery and violence, and screen personalities, from the earliest "movies" to those of the last few years.

New prints have been made and professional equipment will be used for their showing. Season tickets are available for each series, with one program of each series to be given each month as noted in our calendar of "Coming Events."

MORE JOBS OPEN

Ten kinds of jobs, open to alumni with various kinds of training, are listed in Bulletin 16 of the University Placement Bureau. They include engineering and manufacturing, sales promotion and merchandizing, research, and newspaper reporting.

Alumni interested are invited to send for further information to Herbert H. Williams '25, Director, University Placement Bureau, Willard Straight Hall.

SPRING DAY MAY 23

Spring Day has been set for Saturday, May 23, and this day has been officially designated a University holiday. On that day the Varsity, Junior-Varsity, and Freshman crews will row on Cayuga Lake against Harvard and Syracuse, and the baseball team will play Yale on Hoy Field.

Other plans have not yet been announced, but it is likely that with Cornell Day set for the previous Saturday, alumni interest, except on the part of those nearby, will be greater in Cornell Day than in Spring Day this year.

PRESENT OLD PLAYS

Just before the Christmas holiday, on December 18, the Laboratory Theatre, comprising chiefly graduate students and Seniors majoring in dramatic production, gave "Everyman" and "The Second Shepherd's Play" from the Towneley Cycle, as the first productions of its seventh season.

Both were excellently staged and produced, before an appreciative audience in the Willard Straight Theatre. Directed by Professor Alex M. Drummond, both performances were exceedingly well given. Rose Gaynor '34 deserves special mention for the real dignity and grace of her part as Knowledge in the morality play, as does Barrett Gallagher '35, who appeared as Goods; and Ben Metz, Grad, as Mak, and Margaret Schramm '35, his shrewish wife, in the Shepherd's Play.

LETTERS

Subject to the usual restrictions of space and good taste, we shall print letters from subscribers on any side of any subject of interest to Cornellians. The ALUMNI NEWS often may not agree with the sentiments expressed, and disclaims any responsibility beyond that of fostering interest in the University.

TO THE EDITOR:

It is only fitting that some reply be made to the letter of Mr. George T. Ashton concerning "Americans at Olympics," which appears in your December 5 issue. As I stated in my article appearing in your October 24 issue, "R. B." invited debate when he wrote you on this subject (your September 26 issue).

Mr. Ashton, referring to my letter as "a bit excited and inaccurate," cites letters from the German and Polish Embassies at Washington to disprove the incident regarding the killing of the Jewish football player on the Polish team by a Nazi crowd. In answer, it would perhaps suffice to state that the unfortunate incident was reliably reported throughout the American press, including the United Press—upon which Mr. Ashton places great reliance in his article—as well as the foreign press. Mr. Ashton places reliance upon certain letters received by him from the German and Polish Embassies at Washington. With due deference, this argument is specious; for the statement from the Polish Embassy is negative, and the German Embassy cannot be expected to admit this unfortunate incident. The German Embassy at Washington has also denied other serious acts of persecution which have occurred in Nazi Germany.

As a further argument for America's participation in the Olympics, Brother Ashton quotes the United Press dispatch of October 29 to the effect that six of America's finest track athletes urged participation in the 1936 Olympics. True lovers of sport sympathize with these American athletes who should have an opportunity to so participate; but from the same United Press, issue of November 18, 1935, it appears that there are numerous former Olympic champions and participants who have urged withdrawal of the American team from the Olympics. The press quotes such statements by nine outstanding American athletes—of these eight are former American Olympic champions:

James Bausch, 1932 Olympic decathlon champion;
Deputy Police Inspector Matt McGrath, veteran Olympic hammer-throw champion;
Jack Shea, 1932 Olympic ice skating champion;
Ray Barbuti, 1928 Olympic 400-meter champion;
Carmen Barth, 1932 captain Olympic lacrosse team;

Edward F. Jennings, 1932 Olympic rowing champion;
 Evelyn Furtsch, 1932 Olympic 400-meter relay champion;
 Stella Walsh, sprinting champion.

In conclusion, I submit that Mr. Ashton seems "a bit excited" and thoroughly "inaccurate" when he states that the "wail" is from "a relatively small group of United States citizens whose real motive is to seek revenge," etc. The United Press again on December 2, 1935, quotes forty college heads who are opposed to the Olympiad. What revenge can these college professors be seeking?

Millions of our citizens, of all denominations, have joined in protest. To paraphrase the name of an old popular play, "Fifty Million Americans Can't Be Wrong."

Space does not permit any further reply to Brother Ashton's letter; but at the request of the editor of Areopagus, Cornell's student journal of opinion, I have written at greater length—the issue of December 11.

The Fair Play Committee, composed of outstanding Americans, aptly summarizes the real vital issue for all American athletes, to wit:

"By her treatment of her Jewish athletes, Nazi Germany has introduced race into the Olympics; by her treatment of her Catholic and Protestant athletes she has introduced religion into the Olympics; and by her exploitation of the Games she has introduced politics into the Olympics." ABRAHAM L. DORIS '10

DELAWARE ELECTS OFFICERS

At the annual meeting of the Cornell Club of Delaware, held at the University Club in Wilmington on December 20, Joseph H. Shaw '12 was elected president. He succeeds Caesar A. Grasselli '22, who is taking up his residence in London, England. Spencer Brownell, Jr. '25 was elected secretary, succeeding Lawrence V. Smith '18. Smith and C. Judd Stewart, MS '24, were elected vice-presidents; Louis A. Larson, PhD '28, treasurer; Frank G. Tallman '77 and J. Thompson Brown '03, trustees.

ALBANY WOMEN ELECT

Thirty-five members of the Cornell Women's Club of Eastern New York met in Albany for luncheon December 14 and elected the following officers for the year: Grace Williams '32, president; Beulah Bailey '12, Frances L. McTammany '09, and Laura M. Stuckmann '07, vice-presidents; Mrs. Howard E. Salsbury (Helen L. Jaquish) '22, treasurer; and Barbara L. Colson '32, secretary. The secretary's address is 826 Park Avenue, Albany. She requests that Cornell women who live in Albany, Troy, Schenectady, and vicinity, get in touch with her so she may send them notices of meetings.

ON ACADEMY COMMITTEE

Seven Cornellians are members of the committee on public health relations of the New York Academy of Medicine. They are Drs. Harry Aranow '04, Carl Boettiger '03, Connie M. Guion '17, Robert L. Hutton '03, Walter L. Niles '02, Howard C. Taylor '17, and Nathan B. Van Etten '89. The committee recently approved a report made by a sub-committee, for the Academy, on the New York City Domestic Relations Court, with particular reference to its psychiatric and medical needs.

BOOKS

By Cornellians

A MENTAL STIMULANT

Evolution and Repentance. By Professor Lane Cooper. Ithaca, N. Y. Cornell University Press. 1935. viii+253 pages. $2.25.

Here is a book that defies casual reading; a book that makes demands upon the mind; a book that calls up images, awakens curiosities, questions prejudices, arouses hunger for great literature. From its pages ideas spring like sparks and set fire to the mind.

The volume is made up of papers delivered on various occasions over a period of years. Its subjects range from the practical details of making and using a concordance to the forms of the imagination and the idea of Evolution, and includes stimulating commentary upon literature, philosophy, and education.

Professor Cooper's admirable faculty—one shared with his perennial Aristotle—of clarifying both the details and the large implications of an idea, are well illustrated in the paper entitled "The Perennial Schoolmaster and Greek." Here he considers the incomparable excellence of Aristotle, the values of the study of Greek, and the methods used in teaching the Classics at Cornell.

In the essay which affords the collection its title, the author argues for an enlightened skepticism toward an hypothesis which he finds accepted with a credulity verging upon the superstitious. Declaring the evolutionary philosophy useful but not high, he prefers that of Plato and Aristotle, who "somehow combine the fluid with the static concept," and "lay the final stress upon the timeless form and pattern."

Despite unassailable learning and persuasive style, Professor Cooper can hardly escape the charge of dogmatism in these pages. Certain convictions to him apparently self-evident will seem to some of his readers highly debatable. "Literature represents human life at its best"—"Taken all in all, it [the Greek] is a better literature than any that has succeeded it." Such characteristic statements inevitably invite opposition, and so promote that salutary "mental fight" the author so convincingly commends.

"This little treatise," declares Professor Cooper of the Poetics, "is packed full of germinal thoughts, like a pod full of seeds." The same may justly be said of the present volume. It is a book no less stirring than scholarly, the work of a fine student and a fine teacher.—E.C.P.

SHANGHAI ALUMNI DANCE

Among the nearly four hundred former students, Chinese and American, of American universities who are active members of the American University Club of Shanghai, Cornellians rank in the first ten in number. The chairman of the Club's entertainment committee has written to the University for the orchestration of "the" Cornell song, suitable for an eight-piece jazz orchestra, for use at the annual University Club ball this winter.

HENRY FEEHAN DIES

Henry Feehan, who for fifty-three years had been in charge of the stock rooms of the Chemistry Department, died at his home in Ithaca, December 29, of heart failure. He was known to thousands of Cornellians simply as "Henry," and had dispensed test tubes, acids, and bunsen burners to students in the Chemistry laboratories since 1882, when the Department was housed in the old wooden building on the site now occupied by Goldwin Smith Hall. The next year he helped to move the Department to the two top floors of Franklin Hall, then into Morse Hall, which he helped restore to service after the destructive fire in 1916, and finally into Baker Laboratory when that building was occupied in 1923.

He was born in County Louth, Ireland, in 1856, and came to America in 1880. Several years ago he was made an honorary member of Al-Djbar, honor society in Chemistry. His service in the Department antedated that of any other present member.

Twice in the past three years Henry had been the guest of honor at luncheons given by alumni during the meetings of the American Chemical Society. In 1933, at Washington, D. C. he expressed a wish to call upon Alfred Sze '01, Chinese ambassador to the United States, whom he had known as an undergraduate, and he was accordingly entertained by Sze at the Embassy. Last April in New York City, 125 alumni who had known him here and many members of the Faculty attended a luncheon in his honor.

Mr. Feehan lived at 807 East State Street. He is survived by two daughters, Frances and Agnes, Sp '35, and three sons, Harry J. '14, Arthur J. '20, and H. Vincent Feehan '21.

REPLACING FARRAND

The difficult task of finding an adequate successor to Livingston Farrand faces the recently formed committee of the Board of Trustees. It has included members from the Faculty. It welcomes suggestions from the alumni. Even with these noteworthy departures from standard practice, we do not feel sanguine that they can accomplish what they have set out to do.

Historically, the presidency of a college has undergone many changes. Recently the duties and requirements have accumulated like a rolling snowball. No longer merely the intellectual leader of the organization—the abbot who governs the monastery—a college president must combine qualifications that would yield him much greater tangible rewards in other occupations; e.g., politics or big business. The field is thus sharply reduced.

The ramifications of his duties are many. In addition to the intellectual leadership that is fundamental and historical, a college president is usually expected to be a financial genius; a budget balancer; an expert with the university's investment portfolio; a high-pressure salesman who can bring in endowment and unallocated gifts. He must be an amusing after-dinner speaker, and yet be able to deliver an interesting and profound address on any subject, or no subject. He must be able to extend the university's greetings to the alumni, welcome the freshmen, secure cooperation from the Chamber of Commerce, and at the same time take a leading part in the councils of the Nation's educators. If he heads a State University he must be adept with legislatures.

Besides these general, and often contradictory, requirements, Cornell has certain special requirements which exclude those who would come with a program of making her into something which she is not.

Cornell has always been committed to a policy of experiment, whether it be non-sectarianism, or the parity of all academic work, or merely the right to question the utility or sanctity of any educational practice, no matter how hallowed by time or general recognition.

We have now, and undoubtedly always shall have, certain characteristics that will elicit opposition from minorities, particularly of those alumni who seem to wish they had gone to New England for their educations. We have compulsory military drill, coeducation, agriculture, gorges, a Vet College, fraternity houses, amateur football, a small stadium, a student body that includes every race and creed, freedom of speech, burdensome requirements for entrance and residence. We are Land-Grant. We celebrate Memorial Day on Spring Day. We would as soon have classes on Fourth of July as not.

In some directions Cornell is a pioneer. In most respects she represents the finest development of what is generally accepted as democratic, efficient, and desirable in university education. She does not have to apologize for her achievements to the alumni of institutions whose methods and objectives are different. Even though the requirement still further limits the field, Cornell's new president must come, not merely with respect and tolerance for her idiosyncracies, but ready to continue championing the fundamentals of Cornell's greatness.

With the requirements for the presidency increasing rapidly, as we have pointed out, another disquieting tendency is showing itself. It is vogue to select a comparatively young man with potentially thirty years of service before retirement. It is safe to forecast that higher education is in for some radical changes, with further probable changes in the requirements for presidents. Only the Catholic colleges have faced this problem. They elect a professor to the presidency for a limited term, and at the end put him back in the teaching position from which he came.

With these manifold general requirements of the presidency, and the peculiar ones of the presidency at Cornell, we wonder, and respectfully inquire, whether it might not be desirable at this time to overhaul the entire scheme of administration. There could be a sharp simplification of the duties of the President to those that one individual can perform without delegation of his authority. This plan would compel the increase in primary responsibilities of other officers that would have to be created or elevated.

Could a group of several powerful individuals—a cabinet—each with special qualifications in a high degree, govern the University more successfully? The selection of a titular head from this group for a limited term would then enable the Administration to retain sufficient flexibility to meet the changing conditions in higher education, and give the President permanently a resilient and buoyant enthusiasm toward what would still be a many-sided occupation.

Dr. Farrand's place in Cornell's heart is a great one and a happy one. It is not reasonable to expect the committee adequately to replace him. If a successor must be chosen in the time-honored fashion, the years following 1937 are potentially lean years.

ALUMNI AT HARVARD

Ten Cornell graduates are enrolled this year in the Harvard Business School, which will hold an extra session January 27 to August 12, 1936, to give a full academic year of study to those students who were unable to register last September. Cornellians in the first year are: Carl H. Ahrens '35; John P. Nell '33; and Oscar G. Mayer, Ewing P. Shahan, and Frederick D. Williams, all Class of '34. In the second year are: Donald E. Beaton '34; and John M. Fabrey, Benjamin S. Loeb, Jr., Frederick W. Rys, and Harry C. Weidner, Jr., all Class of '35.

YALE MEMORIAL TO SAGE

The Cornell Library of Ithaca, of which Harry G. Stutz '07 is librarian, received last month from friends in memory of William H. Sage a copy of each of the 311 books published by the Yale University Press. With the collection came a set of bookplates, one to be inserted in each volume. They read: "Cornell Library Association, Ithaca, New York. A Gift in Memory of William H. Sage of the Class of 1885, Yale College."

In forwarding the volumes to Stutz, George Parmly Day, treasurer of Yale University, writes in part: "The volumes are forwarded to you in the hope that they may prove of enduring service to the community whose welfare was close to the heart of the Yale graduate in whose memory they have been given to the Cornell Library Association."

The collection covers a wide range of subjects and includes many valuable and useful books. They are to be catalogued in the Cornell Library under their various subject classifications for general use.

William H. Sage was graduated from Yale with "high standing" and membership in Phi Beta Kappa. He came to Ithaca in 1880 and built the house on East Seneca Street now occupied by Delta Gamma, where he lived until 1898.

A member of the Board of Trustees from 1888 to 1904, Mr. Sage showed his interest in Cornell's welfare by substantial gifts. He and his brother, Dean Sage, gave the house which had belonged to their father, Henry W. Sage, as a University infirmary. In addition to equipping it, they established an endowment fund of $100,000.

In 1904 Mr. and Mrs. William H. Sage rebuilt and enlarged Sage Chapel and presented its original pipe organ. Mr. Sage established the Sage Pension Fund with a sum of $150,000 and was responsible for the stone arch which spans Cascadilla Gorge.

BRIEF NEWS OF CAMPUS AND TOWN

THE NEW YEAR BEGINS in Ithaca, not January 1, but as the University resumes operation. Then Faculty children go back to their schools, professors are home from their holiday meetings, and lights burn again in student domiciles. By Sunday night most of them were back in town and the place took on new life.

WILLARD STRAIGHT, however, kept open through the holiday period, with twenty nations represented by the 105 guests at the annual dinner and Christmas entertainment sponsored by the board of governors for foreign students who remained in Ithaca.

CAROLERS SANG in Bryant Park and elsewhere about the city on Christmas Eve, and the home of Professor and Mrs. Julian E. Butterworth, Rural Education, won the neighborhood prize for the best Christmas decorations.

UNDERGRADUATE SUPPORT of the American Red Cross brought total subscriptions of more than $1300, which was 110 per cent of the goal for the annual Campus campaign which closed just before the holiday. Sixteen student teams from various organizations were under the general chairmanship of oarsman Herbert A. Hopper '36, son of Professor Herbert A. Hopper '03, Animal Husbandry.

STUDENT COUNCIL this year has appointed a committee to plan for an elaborate Junior Week, following the term examinations, which end February 5. A mammoth ice carnival is planned for Beebe Lake Thursday night, with lights and music to skate by, prizes for the best costumes and fraternity house decorations. Athletic events, a concert by the Musical Clubs, and the Junior Prom will entertain house party guests Friday night, and the basketball game with Pennsylvania Saturday afternoon. Chairman of the committee is Walter D. Wood '36 of Summit, N. J.

SKATING was promised on Beebe Lake this week, following an unfortunate experience the Saturday after Christmas, when a tractor being used to clear the ice broke through and sank in twelve feet of water. To rescue it, it was necessary partially to drain the lake, and a warm spell followed so that new ice formed is only now sufficient for skating.

WINTER SPORTS began in Willard Straight Hall just before the holiday recess, when the debating team scored 38-20 over Dartmouth, and a team from Phi Sigma Delta won the interfraternity bridge tournament in a field of fifteen contestants. The debaters successfully defended the negative of the question: "Resolved, that the policies of the present Administration warrant the support of the electorate in 1936." Varsity contestants were Philip Goodheim '36 of Gloversville and Frederick J. Rarig '37 of Ithaca. Professor Leonard C. Urquhart '09 ran the bridge tournament, won by Julian H. Brachfeld '37 of Harrison and Sidney Reider '37 of Hastings-on-Hudson.

SAGE CHAPEL PREACHER January 12 is the Rev. Francis J. McConnell, Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, New York Area.

ON THE AIR February 19 over a nationwide NBC hookup, talks and music from the Campus will represent Cornell in a new series of land-grant college radio hours.

O TEMPORA! O MORES! Willard Straight Hall cafeteria, hitherto sacrosanct to men, is opened also to women, beginning with the New Year. Men may now also eat alone in the Tea Room, where formerly they had to be accompanied by women guests.

A DELEGATION of undergraduates, headed by the Rev. G. Eugene Durham '20, Methodist student pastor, attended the twelfth quadrennial Student Volunteer Conference held in Indianapolis, Ind. during the holidays.

FALCONRY, which attracts an increasing number of students at Cornell, got into the headlines recently in New York City. Egbert W. Pfeiffer '37, football center, took his goshawk to his Riverdale home for the holiday. Escaping, its leather leash snagged in a tree and the bird was shot from a branch seventy-five feet above the ground by the New York City police.

FIRST DRINK from Forest Home's new water system, supplied from University reservoirs, was served January 6, with due ceremony, to Professor Forrest B. Wright '22, Rural Engineering, who is president of the Forest Home Improvement Association. He turned the first spade for the PWA project in October. More than fifty homes in this Ithaca suburb, mostly occupied by Faculty families, may now have this new convenience.

CORNELL (CITY) LIBRARY Board on December 20 re-elected all officers for the New Year. Harry G. Stutz '07, as librarian, therefore remains, ex-officio, a Trustee of the University. Charles E. Cornell, grandson of the Founder and University Trustee, is president, and Ebenezer T. Turner '83 is vice-president.

ALEPH SAMACH, Junior honor society, has elected Richard M. Brayton of Herkimer and John W. Scott of Niagara Falls.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS to ninety-eight upperclassmen were cadet commissions in the ROTC.

"CORNELL'S FUTURE is safe in the hands of her alumni," Ray S. Ashbery '25, Alumni Field Representative, told members of the Ithaca Kiwanis Club last month. He said that the job of "selling Cornell" to prospective students by means of Cornell Day was made effective by the cooperation of alumni.

DEATH of the Rev. Martin D. Hardin, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Ithaca, December 14, shocked the entire community. He had been in Ithaca since 1920, and had endeared himself to a large part of both Town and Gown. His daughter, Julia S. Hardin, is a Senior in the University.

SCABBARD AND BLADE, honor society of the Military Department, initiated seven upperclassmen and eight Army officers on December 18.

MAYOR MYERS of Ithaca, who took office New Year's Day, has several Cornellians as members of his official family. Truman K. Powers '30 is the new city attorney and Lawrence M. Mintz '11 was named acting city judge during absences of City Judge Harold E. Simpson '19, who was elected with the Mayor. Leonard Miscall '19 is a new member of the Board of public works, and Alderman George F. Rogalsky '07 was named acting mayor. Simultaneously, the County Board of Supervisors announced that they had retained Charles H. Newman '13 as county attorney.

LECTURES for the week include Professor W. L. Badger of the University of Michigan, January 7, on "The Salt Industry"; Professor Arthur A. Allen '08, January 9, before the Agassiz Club on the recent joint bird expedition of the University and the American Museum of Natural History; Professor Richard Goldschmidt, director of the Kaiser-Wilhelm Institute of Biology at Berlin-Dahlem, January 10, on "Genes and Hormones in Sex Determination," on the Schiff Foundation; and Mme. Clara de Morinni, January 13, on "Famous French Homes of Today," on the Goldwin Smith lectureship.

1935 COSTS of operating hotels are the subject of a survey being initiated for the American Hotel Association by the Department of Hotel Administration.

NECROLOGY

HARRY WALLACE LUND, since 1927 business manager of the Medical College in New York, December 8, 1935, of a heart ailment. Before joining the Medical College, he was for twenty-five years an official of the General Education Board, in charge of awarding fellowships to physicians for research on tropical diseases. His family survives him at 132 Harrison Street, East Orange, N. J.

'74 BS—WLASTIMIL SWATY, November 28, 1935, at his home, 1112 North Thirteenth Street, Waco, Tex. He entered the Science Course in 1871 from Ahnepee, Wis., and had lived in Waco for many years.

'76—GEORGE WASHINGTON GRAHAM, November 28, 1935, suddenly of a heart attack at his home, 3100 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, Ill. He entered the Optional Course in 1872 and remained two years. He had been in Chicago since 1885, and was a member of the real estate operating firm of Hayworth and Graham. He was a member of the Cornell Club of Chicago and of Delta Kappa Epsilon.

'81 BAg; '85 MS—ALBERT GEORGE CHARLES HAHN, December 9, 1935, at his home in Palo Alto, Cal. A retired capitalist and inventor, he was best known for his work with the Eastman Kodak Company in improving photographic processes. He entered the course in Agriculture in 1878, and was minority president of his Senior Class, with George L. Burr '81, now Professor Emeritus of Mediaeval History, as majority president. Hahn returned to the University in 1884 as a graduate student in Chemistry and Metallurgy. Tom Hughes Boat Club; Alpha Delta Phi.

'91 PhB, '93 LLB—BURTON WILLIAM DAVIS, December 7, 1935, at his home in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., where he practiced law and was a director of the Kingston National Bank and Trust Company. He entered the course in History and Political Science in 1887 and the Law School in 1891. Son, Daniel B. Davis '20.

'91—MARTIN JOSEPH FLANNERY, March 24, 1935, in Indianapolis, Ind. He entered the Law School in 1889 from Towanda, Pa.

'94—FRANCIS EVERETT PRATT, December 10, 1935, at his home in Hollidaysburg, Pa. He entered the College of Civil Engineering in 1890 and remained two years. For fourteen years he was chief engineer for Arbuckle Brothers, coffee and sugar importers, of Brooklyn; then a member of the contracting firm of Pratt & Moore; and for the last fifteen years was engineer for the Dexter-Carpenter Coal Company in New York City, having formerly lived in Glen Ridge, N. J.

'95 LLB—WILLIAM PATCH BELDEN,

December 24, 1935, in Cleveland, Ohio, of pneumonia, after a week's illness. He was a director and general counsel of the Republic Steel Company and the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Company, and senior member of the law firm of Belden, Young & Veach, which he established in 1932. He successfully defended the suit brought by the Government to prevent the merger, which took place last August, of the Republic Steel Company and the former Corrigan, McKinney Steel Company, and was also active in the $21,500,000 refinancing program recently carried out by the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Company. He entered the Law School from Richford in 1892, practiced for a time in Michigan, and went to Cleveland in 1917. Son, William B. Belden '25.

'97 ME(EE)—FREDERICK HENRY HAYN, March 22, 1935, in California, where for several years he had been a patent attorney, practicing in Los Angeles. For many years previously he had been in the United States Patent Office in Washington, D. C.

'99, '00 ME—WILLIAM COX DALZELL, December 11, 1935, at his home in Bristol, Conn., where he had been for twelve years an engineer with the New Departure Manufacturing Co. He entered Sibley College in 1895, rowed on the Freshman crew and on the Varsity four years, becoming captain in 1900, and was University single sculls champion in 1899. Sphinx Head, Sigma Xi.

'04 ME (EE)—CHARLES WETMORE EVERSON, April 10, 1935, at his home, 263 Oak Street, Audobon, N. J. He had been in sales engineering works since the World War, during which he was a First Lieutenant, stationed for the most part at Camp Grant, Ill.

'05 ME—RICHARD AVERY WRIGHT, December 17, 1935, of a heart attack, in New York City. He had been vice-president of the General Regulator Company since 1933, was previously sales manager of the Smoot Engineering Corporation, and for seventeen years before that a consulting engineer. He entered the course in Electrical Engineering in 1901, was a member of the Varsity lacrosse team in his Junior year, and as a Senior was president of the Electrical Society. Sigma Xi. Son, Richard A. Wright, Jr. '33. His widow lives at 29-47 216th Street, Bayside.

'25, '26 LLB—THEODORE McALLISTER WRIGHT, November 28, 1935, in Corona, Long Island, from injuries received in an automobile accident. He entered the College of Arts and Sciences in 1921, transferred to Law, and since graduation had practiced law in his home town of Flushing. Varsity hockey team; circulation manager, Cornell Daily Sun; Majura; Phi Delta Phi; Sphinx Head; Delta Tau Delta. The press reports that he left a bequest to the University.

Concerning THE FACULTY

PROFESSOR GEORGE F. WARREN '03, Agricultural Economics, speaking before the American Farm Economic Association in New York City, December 28, predicted that in the event of a negative decision by the Supreme Court on the constitutionality of the processing taxes and production control, "agriculture would receive a stimulus similar to that which industry received by the invalidation of the similar theory represented by the NRA." Attacking the underlying economic principles of AAA as unsound, he was opposed on the platform by M. L. Wilson, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

PROFESSOR ROBERT E. CUSHMAN, Government, spoke December 15 on "The President and the Constitution," as the second of the Faculty lectures scheduled by the Willard Straight board of governors. "Never before in peace time," he said, "has any president so effectively dominated legislative policies."

PROFESSOR CLARK S. NORTHUP '93, English, who is president of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa, contributes to the first issue (Winter, 1936) of The Key Reporter, new national publication of the society, "A Second Group of Reading Courses." He recommends books in twelve fields of literature and in the first four classifications of a list in science.

DEAN DEXTER S. KIMBALL, Engineering, speaking before the Engineers' Club in Philadelphia, Pa., recently, is reported to have denounced as wasteful a proposed Government survey of technological unemployment.

MODERN HISTORY, the textbook by Professor Carl Becker, History, use of which in the schools of Washington, D. C. was challenged by the District Federation of Citizen's Associations, has been completely vindicated of teaching or advocating Communism. A special committee headed by Robert A. Maurer of the Georgetown University Law School so reported to the District of Columbia board of education.

DR. HUGH GLASGOW, professor of Entomology and chief in research at the Agricultural Experiment Station in Geneva, on December 28 married Dr. Beulah P. Ennis, head of the biology department at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo.

PROFESSOR WILLIAM STRUNK, Jr., PhD '96, English, who has been in Hollywood, Cal. since July as consultant in the production of "Romeo and Juliet," has been granted additional leave of absence for the remainder of the first term, to complete his professional services with the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation. A letter from him in Hollywood was published in the ALUMNI NEWS of November 7.

NINETY MEMBERS of the Faculty, headed by Professor Walter F. Willcox, Economics, signed a telegram to Congressman Sterling W. Cole urging him to oppose passage in the House of Representatives of a bill, passed last summer by the Senate, which provides punishment for inciting disaffection in the Army and Navy. Their opposition is on the grounds that such a law would be likely to be interpreted so as to suppress civilian discussion.

EVOLUTION AND REPENTANCE, by Professor Lane Cooper, English, is reviewed in the Rutgers Alumni Monthly for November-December, 1935. Professor Cooper received the PhD degree from Rutgers in 1896.

PROFESSOR ASA C. KING, '99, Farm Practice, is recovering from a recent operation.

PROFESSOR PASCAL P. PIRONE '29, Plant Pathology, and Mrs. Pirone have a son, born January 3.

PROFESSOR WILLIAM C. BALLARD, JR. '10, Electrical Engineering, and Mrs. Ballard on December 23 celebrated their silver wedding anniversary at their home on Klinewood Road, Ithaca.

LECTURING before the Agassiz Club just before the Christmas recess, Professor Samuel L. Boothroyd, Astronomy, described the 1931-32 Harvard Cornell expedition to Arizona for the study of meteors, of which he was in charge of the field work.

FOR STUTTERERS, a new book which brings medical psychology to the aid of persons so handicapped, by Dr. Smiley Blanton '14, of the Medical College in New York, and Margaret Gray Blanton, has been recently published. Dr. Blanton reported on his research in the subject at the annual speech correction meeting in Chicago, Ill. January 1.

PROFESSOR GEORGE C. EMBODY, PhD '10, Aquiculture, and Gardner Bump '25 of the New York State Conservation Commission are members of a committee to formulate a new public policy relating to game, fish, and other wild life. The appointments were announced by Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the board of the newly-formed American Wildlife Institute.

GRACE M. HENDERSON, extension instructor on a year's leave from the College of Home Economics, has been provisionally appointed supervisor of senior education in the home economics education bureau of the New York State Department of Education. Among other things she will help develop education in home economics in elementary schools, junior and senior high schools.

Concerning THE ALUMNI

'88 PhB—In a recent address, "The Christian Religion and Present World Outlook," which he delivered at an annual conference of Episcopalian clergymen in Lake Mahopac, Dr. John R. Mott of the International Y. M. C. A. declared that the present offers great opportunities in foreign lands for constructive service by the Christian Church.

'93 CE—Norman B. Livermore of San Francisco, Calif. is a director of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company and also of the Natomas Company.

'94, '01 LLB—William Mercalf, Jr. is a director of the United Engineering and Foundry Company of Pittsburgh, Pa.

'05 LLB—Walter McMeekan is president of the Realty Purchasing Corporation of New York City.

'06 CE—John Stearns is directing the construction of sixty miles of the Colorado River aqueduct which will provide the metropolitan areas of Southern California with a more adequate water supply. His address is P.O. Box 426 Indio, Calif. Two daughters, he writes, are Stanford University students.

'98 AB—"In the pursuit of his profession he has ever worked for the good of the commonwealth in politics, social life, finance, and education by the molding of a public opinion which demands an ever-improving society and government in both state and nation." This glowing encomium was accorded Frank E. Gannett, publisher of The Gannett Newspapers, by Professor Wendell M. Burditt of Alfred University when that institution conferred upon the journalist the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, December 5.

'99 LLB—Walter L. Pate is one of the donors of the Olcott-Pate Cup, bridge trophy for which some four hundred hands were dealt in an international tournament held in New York City last month.

'00 AB, '02 LLB; '29 AB—Mosher and Schneider is the new name of the law firm at 301-303 Pearson Building, Auburn, following the marriage, September 5, of Esther Mosher '29 to George A. Schneider, Syracuse attorney. The new partnership follows that of Mosher and Mosher, in which the present Mrs. Schneider was co-partner with her father, Hon. Edgar S. Mosher '00, former Cayuga County Judge. Now all three are members. Mrs. Schneider was formerly deputy clerk of the Cayuga County Children's Court.

'01 AB, '03 AM; '01 AB—Benjamin R. Andrews, Mrs. Andrews (Elizabeth Russell) and their son, Benjamin R. Andrews, Jr., spent last July and August in Japan and China where Andrews, professor in Teachers College, Columbia University, conducted a field study course for American teachers. A revised edition of his college text, Economics of the Household, was issued in September by The Macmillan Company.

'02 BArch, '06 Grad—Richmond H. Shreve of Shreve, Lamb and Harmon, New York City architects, was chairman of the architects' section of the Christmas seal campaign launched Thanksgiving day by the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association.

'03 AB, '05 MD; '20 Sp—Fate (to use an old journalistic saw) "was in a capricious mood" a short time ago. Result: Two Cornellian physicians, working arduously in the same State at virtually the same time, removed open safety pins swallowed accidentally by two young girls. In New York City on the evening of November 30, Dr. Arthur M. Wright extracted a pin from Lillian Lennehan, 15, after a plane, summoned by wireless, took the Ramsey, N. J. girl from a Boston steamer, raced thirty-five miles to the Metropolis, and relayed her to a Bellevue Hospital ambulance. A few hours later, on the morning of December 1, Dr. John M. Griffin of Glens Falls extracted a pin lodged in the esophagus of ten-months-old Mary Jane Tidman. Both patients recovered promptly after the operations.

'06 AB, '07 AM—After injuring his right ankle while on duty, the Rev. Frank B. Crandall, Major in the Chaplain Corps Reserve, United States Army, was a patient for five weeks last summer in the Army hospital at Fort Devens, Mass. Having recently concluded his year as commander of Athol Commandery, Knights Templars, Crandall is now head of Lowell Council, Princes of Jerusalem, in the Scottish Rite. His address is 274 Wallingford Ave., Athol, Mass.

'06 AB; '78 BME—Vice-president of the League for Less Noise, Dr. Edward E. Free addressed members of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers on "Thunder and Smoke" at their annual dinner in New York City December 4. During the affair a roll was read which included Ellwood Burdsall '78 among the six who had been for fifty years members of the Society.

'07 ME—Lee E. Barrows is manager of the producing department of The Texas Company, a promotion which, effective December 1, transferred him from Fort Worth to Houston, Texas.

'07 ME—Livingston D. West, vice-president of the J. G. White Corporation, New York City, has purchased a residence on Canoe Brook Parkway, in the Hillcrest section of Summit, N. J.

'07 AB, '10 MD—Presiding over the Medical Society of the County of Westchester (said to be the oldest organization of its kind in the United States), Dr. Harrison Betts of Yonkers led that group recently in devising a plan to extend financed credit to families faced with large and unforeseen medical bills. To facilitate this plan the Society, in existence 138 years, was just incorporated.

'07 ME—While public utility holding companies were striking back at their enemies last month, George C. Estill, president of the Florida Power and Light Company, hurried to their defense by pronouncing them of inestimable service to local power concerns in grave emergencies. In letters to Senators and Representatives from Florida, Estill, a Miami resident, described how two mammoth holding companies serving his district, and answering his appeal, had rushed money, men, and equipment to his concern after it had suffered serious losses in the devastating hurricane of November 4.

'08 ME—David H. Goodwillie, executive vice-president of Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company, was elected November 5 to the city council of Toledo, Ohio. The council will be the first to function under Toledo's newly adopted city-manager plan.

'09 AB—Alfred H. Thatcher is a director of the Burkhard-Schier Chemical Company of Chattanooga, Tenn., where he is also affiliated with the Standard Coosa Thatcher Company, cotton manufacturers.

'09 CE—Its plan duly approved by its president, Walter L. Conwell, the Downtown Athletic Club, New York City, staged a recent women's fashion show in its quarters at 19 West Street. Although heretofore the organization had been consecrated to "fight nights" and other programs of uncompromising virility, the show, with society women as mannikins, was planned to acquaint the members in advance with the demands to expect from their wives.

'09 AM, '14 PhD—George F. Zook, president of the American Council on Education, announced in Washington, D. C. recently that the council had established a financial advisory service for educational organizations through a $10,000 grant from the General Education Board.

'10—Lee S. Crandall, bird expert at the Bronx Zoological Gardens, is a member of the advisory board of the Avicultural Society of America.

'11, '12 AB; '97 PhB—After denouncing the former lassitude of a Federal Government which had stored its records in halls, cellars, and attics all over the nation and even in many foreign countries, Dorsey W. Hyde, Jr., director of the archival service of the National Archives, told delegates to the conference of Eastern College Librarians at Columbia University December 1 that the new $12,000,000 National Archives Building in Washington, D. C. will make available "the facts upon which the written history of American life and civilization will be based." Isadore G. Mudge '97 also addressed the assembly of approximately 200 librarians.

'12—Although Congressional investigators acquitted the American Retail Association of lobbying charges after questioning Lessing J. Rosenwald recently, they learned that Sears, Roebuck, of which Rosenwald is the board chairman, was being hampered by 118 different Governmental codes; paid at least $4,000,000 in taxes in 1930; expected to pay more than $8,300,000 in 1935, and yet, has recorded only a ten percent business increase within the last five years. Rosenwald's concern operates 450 retail stores and employs 48,000 persons.

'14 AB—Herbert D. Lent, Jr. and Mrs. Daisy Wright Townsend were married October 27. They will live at 64 Sagamore Road, Bronxville, after March 1. Lent practices law with his father in Mount Vernon. He is also a member of the Pennsylvania and Florida bars.

'14 ME—With offices at 250 Stuart Street, Boston, Mass., Walter E. Addicks is district manager in New England for Cutler-Hammer, Inc.

'14 BS—Benjamin Patterson, Jr. is president of the Patterson-Sargent Company, manufacturers of paints and varnish in Garden City, L. I.

'14 DVM—In one species, at least, the male is as tender as the female. According to a Thanksgiving statement issued by Dr. William A. Billings, assistant professor of agriculture at the University of Minnesota, the turkey gobble may talk tough but he is really as tender as the turkey hen. Modern methods of turkey raising, Billings explained, have eliminated the earlier difference in palatability.

'14 PhD—John R. Tuttle, director of Elmira College's bureau of appointments, reported recently that four out of five members of Elmira's 1934 graduating class are holding paid jobs. Sixty percent of these teach.

'14 PhD—"A single discovery about electrons has paid for the cost of conducting all the research in this laboratory." Oliver E. Buckley made this statement recently to members of the National Research Council (division of engineering and industrial research) who for five days surveyed the practical achievements of science in the Bell Telephone laboratories.

'15 CE, '35 MCE—Carl C. Cooman is employed as a civil engineer by the Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation. His address is 28 Woodrow Avenue, Rochester.

'15 BArch, '22 MArch—Recent guests at the Hamilton Hotel in Bermuda were J. Lakin Baldrige and Mrs. Baldrige of Ithaca.

'15 AB—Walker Hill, Jr., investment broker of St. Louis, Mo., married Mrs. Margaret Block McDonald, last May 27. His offices in St. Louis are in the Security Building.

'15 BS—"Youth will be served"—but not much longer. Upsetting the long-established notion that the world belongs to the young, Pascal K. Whelpton of the Scripps Foundation for Research in Population Problems was one of several concurring investigators whose studies indicated recently that in the America of some twenty-five years hence, Age will be running both the nation's business and Government. The conclusions of Whelpton and his colleagues, released in Washington, D. C. recently by the National Resources Board, disclosed that by 1960 the population of the United States will be stabilized with twice the present number of citizens past the age of sixty years. The number of young persons under twenty will decrease in the same proportion. Favored by this ratio, Age will gain ascendancy over Youth in America's vital affairs, the investigators predict.

'16 AB, '18 CE—Fred C. Griffith is district traffic superintendent for the New York Telephone Company. He lives at 25 Park Avenue, Monticello.

'16 ME—On December 27 the directors of the National Broadcasting Company elected Lenox R. Lohr president of the Company, succeeding Merlin H. Aylesworth, who had been president of NBC since its formation in 1926. Cornellians of his vintage remember Lohr as the Senior from Washington, D. C. who was Colonel of the Cadet Corps in 1916. After a distinguished military career which began soon after his graduation from the University, he resigned his commission as Major in the Civil Engineer Corps of the Army in 1929 and became general manager of the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago, Ill. Overseas during the World War, Major Lohr served with the Fourth Engineers, as assistant and acting intelligence officer of the Fourth Division, and as brigade adjutant, Fifty-seventh Infantry Brigade, Twenty-ninth Division. He received a divisional citation. Returning to the United States after the Armistice, he was for a time director of the mechanical departments at the Army Engineering School, and was a member of the committee on the war memorial to American engineers at Louvain University, Belgium, in 1928. For seven years, to 1929, he was a director and executive secretary of the Society of American Military Engineers and editor of its journal, The Military Engineer. He is a member and former general president of Sigma Phi Sigma, of the National Press Club, Washington

Academy of Science, Scabbard and Blade, and various engineering societies. Married in 1924, he has three daughters and two sons.

'17 AB—After a searching investigation of New York City's magistrates courts, Chief City Magistrate Jacob Gould Schurman, Jr., declared recently that corruption in these jurisdictions had been virtually wiped out and that consequently the rotation system of shifting magistrates from one court to another each week would doubtless be abolished. The rotation plan was devised to eliminate graft practices uncovered in the Seabury investigation which Schurman and others helped to launch in 1930.

'17 ME—Questioning the constitutionality of the public utility holding act of 1935, Ernest R. Acker, president of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, headed the voting trustees of his company November 28 in filing an application with the Securities and Exchange Commission for exemption from the law.

'17 MME—With his wife, two daughters and a son, Robert O. Meyer, a "bluegrass country" farmer, lives on the Military Pike, Lexington, Ky.

'17 AB; '20 AB—Sidney P. Howell is manager of the Town Hall League for Political Education which, among its other activities, sponsors national broadcasts of debates by prominent speakers on current issues. Howell, also editor of Town Crier, a Manhattan monthly publication, lives with Mrs. Howell (Marcia McCartney) '20 and their three children in Radburn, N. J.

'19, '21 AB, '23 LLB—Although severely critical of the Federal Securities Act when first enacted, Arthur H. Dean, Wall Street attorney, reversed his position in a recent public statement, by crediting it with more merits than demerits.

'19 BChem—Frederick Hubach is district sales manager for the du Pont Rayon Company, 350 Fifth Avenue, New York City. He lives at 3G Kenwood Apartments, Great Neck, L. I.

'20 AB; '23 AB; '28 AM; '17 AB—The marriage on November 28 of Edith M. Simpson and Robert L. George was recently reported to the ALUMNI NEWS by William B. Campbell, '28 AM, and Mrs. Campbell (Ruth V. J. Simpson) '17, the bride's sister. Mr. and Mrs. George live at Westwood Farm, Oakdale, Conn. After residing several years in Rangoon, Burma, where he taught at Judson College, Campbell is now registered in the Graduate School. He and Mrs. Campbell live at 1017 East State Street, Ithaca.

'20 AB, '27 AM—Mrs. William H. Hastings (Ruth Aldrich) is the mother of a son born August 18. Her husband, the Rev. William H. Hastings, is pastor of the Congregational Church in Ithaca.

'21 BS; '21 ME—Until five years ago Edward L. Rich, Jr., didn't have the slightest intention of going into the laundry business. Today he is president and general manager of one of the oldest laundries in Baltimore, Md. In a recent letter to Archie M. Palmer '18, executive secretary of The Cornellian Council, Rich explained just how it happened. During the dark days of 1930 Rich joined the National Guard as a captain. The morale of his battery was badly shaken. The men had no work and were "almost starving to death." Rich, thereupon, bought them a second hand truck "and started several . . . collecting laundry from about fifty friends of mine on a commission basis." The plan succeeded. So well did it succeed, in fact, that Rich was soon compelled to supervise the work of the collectors. He became enthused, and took over the plant of Baltimore's Sanitary Laundry Company for which his battery men had solicited business. Under Rich's management the concern has "made very nice strides." Coincidentally, Rich, while attending a recent convention of the Laundryowners National Association in Atlantic City, learned from a classmate, William D. Ellis III, that all along he had been buying his cotton goods from the mill with which Ellis is associated in Atlanta, Ga.

'21—One of New York City's leading motion picture critics, William R. Boehnel of the World-Telegram, is planning with his colleagues an organization to select the actors and actresses contributing the best screen performances of the year. This organization is to be patterned after the recently-established group in New York City which is to name annually its choice in the season's legitimate theatres. With the latter unit, another Cornellian, George Jean Nathan '04, is conspicuously identified. Boehnel's group will also vote on the year's best screen direction and its best reading script.

'22—Benjamin T. Burton is a member of the brokerage firm of Burton Cluett & Dana, 120 Broadway, New York City.

'22 AB—As exalted ruler of New York Lodge No. 1, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, Elwood G. Feldstein presided over memorial services December 1 for the eighty members of his organization who died during the year.

'23 AB—Police were searching Chicago's crime hideouts recently for two bandits who escaped in an interchange of pistol shots after a frustrated attempt on December 1 to hold up Leon Mandel 2d., his brother, and their wives. Mandel, with the others, had just alighted from an automobile to board his yacht in the Chicago River when the robbers stepped up with weapons levelled. One, overpowering Mandel's sister-in-law, held her before him as a shield and fired three wild shots which sent the yacht's quartermaster dashing to the scene. Badly scratched by his struggling captive, the robber released her to flee with his companion to a nearby automobile. Thereupon the Mandel brothers, drawing pistols from a pocket of their automobile, opened fire on the fugitives. One dropped but quickly scrambled to his feet and with his confederate hurried into their car and sped away.

'23; '25—James E. Pew '23 was erroneously reported in our issue of December 5 as having been elected to a committee of the American Petroleum Institute. We learn that he is working for the Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation in Owens, West Virginia, and has no connection with the oil industry. It was John G. Pew '25 whom the American Petroleum Institute at its annual convention elected to the committee of its division of production. He is with the Sun Oil Company at Dallas, Tex.

'23 BS—As president of the Cleveland Tractor Company, W. King White reported in a recent letter to his stockholders that the dollar sales for his concern in the fiscal year ending last September 30 were seventy-six percent greater than in the previous fiscal year.

'24; '25—Robert T. Smith was recently elected president of the Pennsylvania-New Jersey Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers. He is also a director of the International Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers, and lives with Mrs. Smith (Glenavie Cairns) '25 at Waverly, Pa.

'24 CE—Mrs. Philip Carlin (Dorothy W. Allison) recently resigned her position as assistant office engineer for the Delaware River Joint Commission, Camden, N. J., and has moved to Mamaroneck.

'24—Louis P. Flory discussed "Optical Instruments in Plant Research" to members of the New York Microscopical Society who met recently in the American Museum of Natural History, New York City.

'25 BFA—Florence E. Dahme's address is 461 East Third Street, Mount Vernon.

'25, '27 BS—"I'm going to Cornell to college." This premature preference was voiced the other day by the seven-year-old daughter of Mrs. Anthony de H. Hoadley (Elma E. Little). Mrs. Hoadley, who lives at 1170 Waverly Place, Schenectady, writes that she has two small daughters and a baby son.

'25 BS—"The main part of my time has been, and still is, occupied here at home on a potato and dairy farm." So writes Ralph D. Reid, formerly on the Farm Management staff, who, since 1934, has been a part-time appraiser for the Federal Land Bank of Springfield, Mass. Married in 1930 to Betty Lansing, Syracuse '29, Reid's address is R. D. 1, Salem. He has a small daughter.

'25 BS, '30 MS—"It's great out there, but Cornell is still best." That was how Dorothy M. Compton, nature study teacher in the public schools of Princeton, N. J. described Douglas Lake, Mich. where, as a student at the biological station of the University of Michigan, she spent the last two summers. Her Princeton address is 22 Witton Street.

'25 BS; '27, '28 BS—William R. Needham and H. Victor Grohmann, of Needham & Grohmann, Inc., New York City advertising agency, listed one Cornellian for honorable mention in a recent essay contest on the hotel industry which they sponsored. The contest attracted 122 entries. Runner-up was Clyde A. Jennings '25, manager of the Hotel Elton, Waterbury, Conn. Besides the two partners, Professor Howard B. Meek, Hotel Administration, was one of the judges. First prize was $100. in cash and a round trip to Europe.

Sacrifice---Key to Progress

To the unselfish effort of men and women of ability civilization owes its continuous advancement.

The self-effacement of mothers and fathers enables children to survive and go on to successful careers.

And this spirit of sacrifice is responsible for the PROTECTION of millions of dependent women and children by their providers.

Protect Your Loved Ones.
