Your Best Friend Won't Tell You

. . . that he has lost touch with Cornell. During the late depression, you'd be surprised to know how many alumni were forced to drop their weekly contact with Cornell through the Alumni News. Now that business is picking up, they have intended to subscribe again, but just haven't gotten around to let us know. Too many haven't seen the paper since its recent rejuvenation.

YOUR HELP IS NEEDED!

The Alumni News urgently needs more subscribers. Show your latest copy to your best Cornell friend, and suggest that he subscribe. Then send us his name and address, with request to enter his subscription at the regular rate of $4 a year. We'll do the rest, and he'll thank you for putting him in touch with Cornell again.

NEW ALUMNI OFFICES To Be At 3 East Avenue

The Alumni Office of the University and The Cornellian Council will be provided new quarters by action of the Board of Trustees, February 1, authorizing the remodelling of the building at 3 East Avenue into modern offices for their use. Work will be started March 1 and the offices will be moved into the new alumni headquarters at least by summer.

The remodelled building will accommodate on the first floor the offices of Foster M. Coffin '12, Alumni Representative, and Ray S. Ashbery '25, Alumni Field Secretary, and their staff; and on the second floor those of Archie M. Palmer '18, executive secretary of The Cornellian Council, and Mrs. Sara B. Sailor '09, assistant secretary, and their assistants. A large common room will house the mechanical equipment, addressograph lists of alumni, and other records now in the Alumni Office and used by both. A fireproof vault will be constructed for the safekeeping of the important permanent records of both offices. The bringing together of the two offices will make possible substantial economies in their operation and eliminate much of the considerable duplication now made necessary by their inadequate quarters on two floors of Morrill Hall. In addition, the new building will provide suitable reception rooms, conference rooms, and committee rooms which the increasing work of both offices has made necessary. Plans have been drawn and the work will be done by the Department of Buildings and Grounds, under the supervision of Conant Van Blarcom '08.

Is Campus Landmark

The building which will house the new alumni headquarters is the central one of the group of three former Faculty residences which face the Old Armory Green just to the north of where South Avenue formerly ended at East Avenue. It was built in 1889 by Dr. Liberty Hyde Bailey; by a coincidence his daughter, Mrs. Sailor, thus will have her office in her former girlhood home.

In 1900 Dr. Bailey sold the house to Professor John Craig, and after Professor Craig's death, in 1912, it was occupied by Professor Allyn A. Young until 1920. Then for a time, with the two houses flanking it, the building was used by the University to house women students. In 1930, when the old Psi Upsilon and Sigma Phi houses were torn down for the erection of Myron Taylor Hall, the members of those two fraternities lived there until their new homes on West Avenue were completed. For the past three years the house has been vacant.

Alumni Hall Long Wanted

The new plan is, in a sense, the culmination of the idea of an "alumni hall" which started almost fifty years ago. In June, 1888, a resolution was offered at the annual meeting of the Associate Alumni that funds be raised for an alumni hall, and a committee was appointed to investigate the proposal. Two years later, the committee reported in favor of organizing a Cornell Central Club, with the object of raising $50,000 for the purpose. President Andrew D. White signified his interest by offering to add $10,000 if the sum should be raised in five or six years. John DeWitt Warner '72, chairman of the committee, announced in 1898 a competition for architectural drawings for a building that should serve substantially the purpose that Willard Straight Hall now serves, as a center of student life, with rooms for visiting alumni. The next year it was announced that the Board of Trustees had allotted, for three years from June, 1899, "the site of the Sage cottage and the ground immediately south thereof" for the erection of the proposed alumni hall and clubhouse. The Sage cottage at Central and South Avenues later became the University Club building, and was demolished to make room for the New Road which now connects Central Avenue with West and Stewart Avenues.

Members of the committee, besides Warner, were Ehrick K. Rossiter '75, Alexander B. Trowbridge '90, Otto M. Eidlitz '81, and George R. Van De Water '74. Robert H. Treman '78, then treasurer of the Alumni Fund, was also active in obtaining subscriptions for the project. Over the years a considerable fund was accumulated, the Comptroller's Report showing a total of $22,430.19 in the Cornell Central Club fund on July 1, 1935. A part of this accumulated fund will now be used to provide the new headquarters for alumni work.

CLEVELAND CLUB ACTIVE

The Cornell Club of Cleveland entertained H. Clay Folger, of the Folger Detective Agency, at luncheon on January 30. William H. Forbes '06 reported on his trip East, telling of the dinner in honor of James Lynch '05 in New York City on January 16.

The speaker scheduled for the weekly luncheon on February 6 was F. H. Sterbenz, foreign editor of The Cleveland Press. His subject was "U. S. Policy in the Far East."

JUNIOR WEEK HAPPY Crowds Enjoy Events

Blessed with a full moon, just enough snow, and perfect winter weather, the 1936 Junior Week was acclaimed by all participants as the "best since the War."

General festivities began Thursday night with a tremendously successful ice carnival, open to all comers at twenty-five cents. The crowd completely overwhelmed Nick Bawlf's button sellers at the entrance to the Johnny Parson Club and taxed the rigidity of Beebe Lake's twenty-two inch ice. Some in costumes and others not, more than five thousand Junior Week guests, undergraduates, Faculty, and townspeople crowded to Beebe to skate to music under the colored lights, to watch the fancy skaters imported for the occasion, and to cheer "Lady Astor's Horse," of which one end was Professor Clyde W. Mason, PhD '24, and the other, Bert T. Baker '97. In spite of the confusion the judges were positive that "Slewfoot," the entry of Phi Kappa Tau, had won the dog derby, and duly awarded him and his driver the cup for that event. Fireworks from the east end of Beebe Lake climaxed the evening, as the toboggan slide carried capacity crowds.

Many fraternities entertained guests during the three days, with a constant round of dinner dances, tea dances, hay rides, breakfasts, and similar affairs to fill the hours of the days and nights between the more public gatherings. Several houses had ornate outside decorations of snow and ice, brilliantly lighted.

Musical Clubs Feast

Welcome departure from the formality of the usual Musical Clubs concert was the fare served up by the cast "Stranded in Wichita" in the "Bailey Tavern" Friday evening. The stage was a taproom with checkered tablecloths and a shy bartender was none other than "Stuffy" DeMun, borrowed for the occasion from his now-prosaic post at the Willard Straight soda bar. "Dear Old Girl of Mine" and "Honey," rendered by a close-harmony group at one of the tables, was interrupted by the entrance of Manager Robert B. Falk '36, who announced to Eric Dudley, the genial proprietor, that his troupe of singers was stranded outside and would perform for their suppers. "But we have enough musicians," said Proprietor Dudley, pointing to the Instrumental Club seated at one side. Not until he was reminded that this was the Cornell Glee Club were they invited in, hatted and coated. Thereafter for nearly two hours they were suitably entertained by their host and his waiters, and alternated with the Instrumental Club in entertaining the appreciative Junior Week audience which nearly filled the auditorium. Among their group selections were all the old favorites, including the "Bustonian Chorus," "Song of the Classes," and many others, and the program closed with a lively medley of Cornell songs by instrumentalists and singers. Stewart L. Seaman '36 and Gerrit C. Conger '37, soloists, were well received, as were the ever-popular Edwin H. Hilborn '36 with his accordion, and R. Kenneth Ketcham '29 in his antics as guest conductor of the orchestra. Glever tap dancing was contributed by Robert T. Gaffney '38, the "cigarette girl," and Thomas B. Tracy '31.

Not the least entertaining was an unidentified person who never raised his voice in song nor handled an instrument, but sat alone at a table nearly in the wings and played solitaire lugubriously, as best he was able, throughout the performance. One special waiter seemed to be delegated to keep his stein filled. Jacob S. Fassett, 3d, '36, manager of the show, swears that the unknown actor appeared uninvited at the afternoon's rehearsal and was pressed into service unidentified, merely to get rid of him.

The stage setting was designed by Serge P. Petroff '36; the Glee Club was led by Paul M. Mattice '36 and the orchestra by Samuel L. Shanaman, Jr. '36; the former having been directed, of course, by Dudley and latter by George L. Coleman '95.

From Bailey Hall the crowd went to the Drill Hall, decorated modernistically in keeping with the snow and ice outside, where nearly two thousand couples danced at the Junior Prom to the music of two "hot bands."

On Saturday afternoon, following the basketball game, such of the Junior Week celebrants as were not otherwise engaged went to the tea dance at Willard Straight Hall; and that evening the Dramatic Club presented again, in bright and finished manner, the amusing comedy, "Fashion," of life in New York in 1845.

CLASS TO PLAN REUNIONS

The Cornell Association of Class Secretaries will meet on Saturday, March 7, at the Midston Club, Thirty-eighth Street and Madison Avenue, New York City, starting with luncheon at one o'clock. The special business of the meeting will be the discussion of plans for this year's reunions, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, June 12, 13 and 14.

Twenty-four classes are scheduled to hold reunions this year. The Dix Plan will bring back '84, '85, '86, and '87; '03, '04, '05, and '06; '22, '23, '24, and '25; and the Class of '34 for its first reunion. Under the quinquennial schedule the following will celebrate in Ithaca: '71, '76, '81, '86, '91, '96, '01, '06, '11, '16, '21, '26, and '31.

Concerning THE FACULTY

GEORGE ASHBERY, the father of Ray S. Ashbery '25, Alumni Field Secretary, died suddenly in Buffalo on February 9. The family had lived in Buffalo for many years until last summer, when Ashbery's father and mother moved to Trumansburg, where he has since made his home.

DEAN DEXTER S. KIMBALL participated in the installation of Dr. William Otis Hotchkiss, February 1, as president of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. On February 3, he was invited to participate in a program of the National Broadcasting Company on the subject, "What is the Place of the Machine in Economic Life Today?" The program was given under the auspices of the Greater New York Forum of Character Building.

PROFESSOR MADISON BENTLEY, PhD '98, Psychology, gave the principal address February 7 at Yale University at the winter meeting of the Society for Research in Child Development. His subject was "Conjunctive Research Among the Sciences of Life."

THE ADDRESS, "The Relation of Undergraduate to Graduate Study," delivered by Dean Robert M. Ogden '00, Arts and Sciences, before the Association of American Universities, meeting in Ithaca last November, is printed in School and Society for February 1.

PROFESSOR MARIE B. FOWLER, Home Economics, will give a paper on "The Role of Language in Child Development" at a luncheon of the Association of Childhood Education, a division of the National Education Association, which convenes in St. Louis, Mo. February 22-28.

DR. GEORGE M. SUTTON, PhD '32, Curator of Birds, spoke February 9 at the Cosmopolitan Club of the life and work of the late Louis A. Fuertes '97, whose birthday was February 7.

PROFESSOR HEINRICH RIES, Geology, will describe "The Use of Sodium Chloride in Road Stabilization" before the annual meeting of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers in New York City February 17-21.

PROFESSOR CYRUS R. CROSBY '03, Entomology, and Mrs. Crosby left Ithaca last week in an automobile truck combination home and laboratory for a six months' tour through the southern states, across the continent to the West Coast, and thence to Alaska. From Rochester they were to be joined by Professor Sherman C. Bishop '13 of the University of Rochester. The party will collect spiders mainly, but is also interested in salamanders, newts, frogs, snakes, lizards, and turtles. It is said that, looking for a truck for conversion, Professor Crosby had his choice of an ambulance, a fire truck, a hearse, and a circus truck.

MRS. LERA C. BOSTWICK, wife of Comptroller Charles D. Bostwick '92, has been appointed a member of the Ithaca Board of Health for a three-year term.

PROFESSOR RUSSEL H. WAGNER, PhD '28, Public Speaking, with Mrs. Wagner and their small daughter, have left Ithaca for a brief visit in Ohio and a five months' trip to France and England. They plan to sail from Baltimore, Md. February 26 on the S.S. City of Newport News.

PROFESSOR GUY E. GRANTHAM, PhD '20, sailed from New York City for Europe February 1 with Mrs. Grantham and their daughter. They plan to return to Ithaca about July 1.

PROFESSOR ROY G. WIGGANS, PhD '19, Plant Pathology, has returned with his family from an automobile tour to the West Coast, where they spent some time at Berkeley and Pasadena, Cal. and returned through the southern states, stopping briefly in Florida.

REPRESENTING CORNELL at the national wild life conference called by President Roosevelt at Washington, D. C. February 3-7 were Lloyd R. Simons '11, Director of Agriculture Extension; Professors Arthur A. Allen '08 and George M. Sutton, PhD '32, and Albert R. Brand, Sp '29, Ornithology; and William J. Hamilton, Jr. '26, Zoology. Dr. Sutton, formerly state ornithologist of Pennsylvania, was appointed also to represent that State. Also at the conference was Arthur L. Clark '21, superintendent of the Connecticut state board of fisheries and game.

DR. FARRAND IN NEW YORK

The annual luncheon of the Cornell Women's Club of New York is scheduled for Saturday, February 15, at the Florentine Room at Schrafft's, 220 West Fifty-seventh Street, New York City, at 1:30 p.m.

The speakers are President Farrand and Mrs. Chi Ting Kwei, (Helen Huie) '20. Mrs. Kwei is in this country on sabbatical leave from Central China College at Wuchang, where she teaches English. Her husband is Dean of the Yale-in-China School of Science at Wuchang. At the luncheon she will talk on "Women in Modern China."

Special invitations were extended to members of the Cornell Women's Clubs of Philadelphia, Pa., New Brunswick, N. J., and Western Connecticut. Secretary of the New York Club is Katharine Ertz '18, 336 West Twenty-fourth Street, New York City.

DOBIE RESIGNS AS HEAD FOOTBALL COACH

Decision As To Successor Not Yet Made

The University is without a head football coach for the first time since April, 1920, when Gilmour Dobie succeeded John H. Rush. Dobie resigned January 31, after sixteen years as head football coach, and his resignation was accepted the next day by James Lynah '05, director of physical education and athletics.

Lynah said this week that no successor had been selected, and would not be at least until early March. Many applications have been received. Since coming to Ithaca last September to assume direction of the University's athletics, Lynah has said repeatedly that he would "stand behind the present coaching staff to the utmost during the present season." Since the close of the football season, he has held many conferences with undergraduates and with alumni in all parts of the country, seeking advice to guide him when the time came to make a decision. He has intimated that he will be likewise guided by informed alumni and undergraduates in making his choice of a new football coach.

Want Eight-Game Schedule

He says, further, that he has found alumni sentiment strongly in favor of a return next fall to an eight-game football schedule, such as was the custom until 1933, with the eighth game against a strong team outside of Ithaca. The Faculty committee has thus far approved a schedule of seven games, six of which are against major opponents, as announced in the ALUMNI NEWS of January 23. No action has as yet been taken on a game for November 7, following that with Columbia in New York City and before the game with Dartmouth, November 14, in Ithaca.

Dobie's letter of resignation, dated January 31, follows:

"Dear Mr. Lynah:

"I feel that it is in the best interests of all concerned that I relinquish my position as head coach of football at Cornell University.

"Assuming that you can make suitable arrangements to release me from my contract, which extends to May 1, 1938, I herewith tender my resignation effective February 1, 1936.

"I am willing to leave the matter in your hands with complete confidence in your sense of fairness.

"Sincerely yours,

GILMOUR DOBIE"

Lynah's reply:

"Dear Mr. Dobie:

"I am in receipt of your letter of January 31 tendering your resignation as head coach of football effective February 1, 1936.

"It is rather typical of you to recognize the lack of harmony in the present situation respecting your continuance as head coach, and to wish to be relieved. I like the fairness with which you have approached the whole matter.

"On the Campus we deal with many important groups—faculty, undergraduates, and alumni—whose interest and support we desire to promote; whose viewpoints and opinions must be respected; whose cooperation and encouragement must be sought. Manifestly, therefore, it is imperative, to as great an extent as possible, to create and maintain an atmosphere of harmony. On the other hand, it is only fair to inform you that it is a matter of record that you have a host of loyal supporters, particularly among those who were coached by you—men who acclaim you a great coach and builder of men. We recognize, too, that in your long coaching career you have made a distinguished contribution to football.

"Obviously, these considerations compel me to regret the circumstances which make it necessary for you to sever your connections with Cornell, and it is in this spirit that I accept your resignation.

"Sincerely yours,

JAMES LYNAH,

Director of Physical Education and Athletics."

Action on Dobie's resignation was approved by the Athletics Policy Board created by the Trustees last June when the University assumed responsibility for the athletic program. Its members, besides Lynah, are Professor Herman Diederichs '97, Comptroller Charles D. Bostwick '92, Robert E. Treman '09, and George R. Pfann '24. The action was also approved by the University Board of Trustees at their meeting February 1. On February 3 it was announced in Boston, Mass. that Dobie had been appointed head coach at Boston College.

Gilmour Dobie was appointed head coach of football at Cornell in March, 1920. After his first season, in which the Varsity won six games and lost two, Dobie's contract was extended to March, 1926; and in April, 1923, after two undefeated seasons, the contract was again extended, this time to May 1, 1933. His current contract ran to May 1, 1938.

The sixteen Varsity teams which Dobie coached won 82 games, tied 7, and lost 36. They scored 3,274 points in the 125 games to 1,159 for their opponents. Pennsylvania was defeated 7 times, tied once, and won 8 games; Columbia was defeated 8 times, tied 3 games, and won 5 times; and the sixteen games with Dartmouth were split even, each winning 8. Of the 8 games played with Princeton during the period, three were won by Cornell, one tied, and four lost. The teams of 1921, 1922, and 1923 were undefeated and untied.

Dobie came to Cornell with an exceptional coaching record. At the University of Minnesota, where he received the LLB degree in 1904, he had played end and was quarterback of the 1900 team which won the Western conference championship. In 1902 he was assistant coach at Minnesota, and in 1906 and 1907 he was athletic director and coach of all sports at North Dakota Agricultural College, where the football teams he coached were undefeated. During nine seasons as football coach at the University of Washington, to 1916, his teams likewise did not lose a game, and in 1918 he took charge of football at the United States Naval Academy, where his team defeated Army after five consecutive defeats.

Dobie's Predecessors

Marshall Newell, a former Harvard player who came to Ithaca in 1894, was the first outside football coach at the University, G. Howard Davison '89, then a student in Agriculture, being first listed as coach, of the team of 1888. Newell coached the teams of 1894 and 1895, and was succeeded briefly by Foster Sanford of Yale. During most of the season of 1896 it was arranged that various alumni would return to assist Captain Joseph W. Beacham '97, but the next year Glenn S. Warner '94 was brought to Ithaca as head coach, to be assisted by a staff of alumni volunteers. This plan held for two seasons, until Percy Haughton of Harvard became coach in 1899. The next year, however, Captain Raymond D. Starbuck '00 was officially designated head coach, with Haughton as his assistant.

For eleven years thereafter, until the coming of Dr. Albert H. Sharpe from Yale in 1912, Varsity football teams were coached entirely by alumni, most of whom had been captains or star players as undergraduates. At first, for the seasons of 1901, 1902, and 1903, two or more "resident coaches" were appointed, and they were assisted and advised by a large number of interested alumni who came back to Ithaca as they could through the football season. In 1901 the resident coaches were Staßback, Daniel A. Reed '98, and Harold J. Davall '01. The next year Reed and Archibald B. Morrison, Jr. '01 were the responsible heads, and in 1903 William J. Warner '03 and Henry Purcell, Jr. '03 were the resident coaches.

In 1904, however, Glenn Warner returned with John F. Moakley as "trainer," and coached the Varsity for three years. For the next two seasons there were no head coaches, but responsibility was shared by large staffs of alumni, including Beacham, Dr. Charles A. Leuder '03, and many others. In 1909 George H. Walder '09, who had been captain of the 1908 team, was designated coach, being again assisted by numerous alumni. Then for two years Reed assumed responsibility as head coach, still assisted and advised by other alumni.

When Dr. Sharpe came to Ithaca in 1912 he was assisted by Reed and Dr. Ray Van Orman '08, who was to remain as assistant coach until Dobie was engaged in 1920. Dr. Sharpe was head coach through six seasons, until he left in the spring of 1918 to return to Yale. He was succeeded by John H. Rush, who remained but one season, and in April, 1920, Gilmour Dobie took up the duties of head coach which he retained for sixteen years.

'22 LEADS CHICAGOANS

Cornell Clippings, the weekly news sheet of the Cornell Club of Chicago, reports that there has been a total attendance of 1706 persons at the 55 regular weekly luncheons and the 12 small "out of season" lunches the Club has held from September 13, 1934, to January 23, 1936. Of these, 6 were graduate students, 80 were undergraduates, and 127 were guests. The average attendance at weekly luncheons has been 31, of whom 26 were members and 5 were undergraduates or guests.

The Class of '22 holds the record, with a total of 99 attending. '24 is next with 88, followed by '11 with 77, '28 with 75, and '27 with 71. The oldest Class represented is '76, with 3 members, and two members of the Class of '35 are recorded. These figures do not include the 1935 annual banquet, "June Night" in 1935, and one luncheon when the book was not passed around.

SHOW MORE MOVIES

Even before its subscription showing in New York City, a Campus audience had opportunity to see Monday night, under the auspices of the University Theatre, the second program of "Memorable American Films" of the Museum of Modern Art Film Library. This program introduced two of the earliest sound pictures, Robert Benchley's ludicrous lecture on "The Sex Life of the Polyp," filmed in 1928, and "The Skeleton Dance," first of the Walt Disney silly symphonies, made in 1929.

Most of the evening was occupied with the seven reels of "The Freshman" with Harold Lloyd, which, although just as appealing as ever, demonstrated strikingly, nevertheless, the tremendous strides in professional finish which the "movies" have taken in the eleven years since it was made.

Of still earlier vintage, and interesting mainly because they mark definite periods in the history of film comedy, were "The Doctor's Secret" in which George Melies in 1900 gave full rein to his talent for broad comedy and impossible inventions; "Gertie the Dinosaur," an animated cartoon made and shown independently in 1909 by Winsor McCay, creator of the comic strip, "Little Nemo;" and "His Bitter Pill," an irreverent satire on the then-popular "Westerns," produced by Mack Sennett, with Mack Swain as the sheriff with a heart of gold.

SCS WORKERS

Twelve Cornellians are employed in various parts of New York State by the Soil Conservation Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. Six, all members of the Class of '35, are: Warren C. Huff and George Llano of Bath; Stuart A. Child, Ellenburg Depot; Harold B. Sweet, Vanisville; Frank Colling, Prattsburg, and Merrill N. Knapp, Norwich. The others are Donald Bradt '34, George C. Moore '31, and Montague Howard '32 at Bath; Edward R. Neil '34, Norwich; Turre Pasto '34, Ithaca; Norman Foote '32, Farmingdale.

SIMON PETER GOES FISHING

Simon Peter made a mistake last week. Simon Peter is our new yellow tomcat. You remember we told you about him in December and how fascinated he was by our goldfish, Abercrombie and Fitch and the Brooks Brothers.

Simon Peter's error arose from thinking the marine plants which grow in our fish pool and float upon the surface, were sufficiently bouyant and substantial to bear his weight. In his endless, circular pursuit of Abercrombie, he decided to cross the pond by the green islands rather than again follow the shore line all the way 'round. He perceived his mistake almost at once, and changed ends instantaneously. As a result, he caught himself by his forepaws and left his sleeves, collar, coat, and vest out of water. But his pants were soaked.

We are in a position to testify that the most abject, undignified, and repentent member of the animal kingdom is an Angora tomcat whose coat and vest are still dry and fluffy but whose pants are wet and form-fitting.—R. B. '04 in "State and Tioga," The Ithaca Journal.

SET SCRANTON RECORD

A new record for the Cornell Club of Northeastern Pennsylvania was set February 7, when eighty Cornellians and several school boy guests attended a dinner of the Club at the Scranton Club in Scranton. George G. Brooks '94 presided and introduced Seth W. Shoemaker '08 as toastmaster.

Professor John R. Bangs, Jr. '21, head of the Department of Administrative Engineering and assistant track coach, discussed both fields of his activity and told something of the work of John F. Moakley and of the history of track athletics under him. R. W. Sailor '07, editor of the ALUMNI NEWS, described recent events in Ithaca. He appeared for James Lynah '05 and Professor John G. Jenkins '23, who were unable to be present.

Also at the speaker's table was Royal Taft '71, one of Cornell's oldest living alumni, who a few days before had been pictured by the Scranton newspapers skating with some of his grandchildren.

Brooks was elected honorary president of the Club and Shoemaker president.

J. Bert Wilson '19 was elected secretary-treasurer.

On Saturday, Bangs and Sailor spoke at a luncheon meeting of the Cornell Women's Club of Northeastern Pennsylvania, held at the Hotel Jermyn in Scranton. Mrs. J. Bert Wilson (Louise T. Dean) '18, the president, presided. It was reported that a recent card party of the Club had been the means of raising $50 for the Club's scholarship fund.

ENTERTAIN SCHOOL BOYS

The Cornell Club of Berkshire County held a meeting at the Stanley Club, Pittsfield, Mass., on January 27. Secondary school boys were the guests of the Western Massachusetts alumni at their first school party. Edward A. Otto '23 was the presiding officer.

BATAVIA WOMEN MEET

The Cornell Women's Club of Batavia, one of the newer Cornell organizations, held its seventh meeting on January 17 at the home of Mrs. Frank Owen (Natalie Walker) '24. The next meeting will be held on March 14 at the home of Mrs. Mary Wright Harvey '15, president of the Club. Following its schedule of a meeting every other month, the spring date will be May 16 at the home of Mrs. Francis Sturges (Lucy Mark) '19.

Dr. Myrta Hunn '00 is chairman of a tea to be held during the spring vacation.

BROADCAST FROM CAMPUS

Alumni in all parts of the United States will have opportunity February 19 to hear the University chimes and a program of music and talks from the Campus during the national farm and home hour over the NBC-WJZ network of fifty-two radio stations. The program will be broadcast at 12:30 p.m., eastern standard time, as the second of a series from eleven land-grant colleges during the year.

Besides the chimes, the program as tentatively arranged will include several selections by a chamber music group from the University Orchestra, directed by George L. Coleman '95, and a violin solo by Professor Ronald Ingalls of the Music Department, with Luther M. Noss, University Organist, at the piano.

Provost Albert R. Mann '04, who is chairman of the New York State Planning Commission, will speak on land use and the activities of the College of Agriculture in the land utilization program. Professor Thomas E. LaMont '27, Agricultural Economics, will discuss the methods and necessity of classifying land for agricultural use; and Professor Frank B. Howe, Agronomy, former State director of the Soil Conservation Service, will describe land conservation. Dean Carl E. Ladd '12 of the College of Agriculture, speaks on the best use of the poorest and best land.

Elmer S. Phillips '32, acting director of Station WESG, is making local arrangements for the broadcast.

TO GIVE DRUMMOND PLAY

The Dramatic Club will present in the Willard Straight Theatre, probably February 28 and 29, "Traffic Signals," a "jazz morality play," written by Professor Alex M. Drummond, head of the Department of Public Speaking and director of the University Theatre. The play is in two parts, the second but recently completed. The first part was given by the Dramatic Club in March, 1927. Member of the cast then was Daniel E. Duryea '28, now playing in New York City in "Dead End," by Sidney Kingsley '28.

CAMPUS FORUM LECTURES

Coordinating the lecture activities of various Cornell organizations, CURW announced this week the Campus Forum, which by means of a series of visiting lecturers will provide a permanent institution for discussion of current social, economic, and religious questions.

Seven lectures have been announced, beginning February 16, when Josef Hanč, Czechoslovakian Consul to the United States, will speak at the Cosmopolitan Club. On the next Sunday, Dr. Harry F. Ward of Union Theological Seminary, the Sage Chapel preacher that day, will give a Forum lecture in the evening in Willard Straight Hall. On February 28 Dr. Mordecai Johnson, president of Howard University, speaks in Willard Straight Hall on the Goldwin Smith lectureship. March 1, on the Hillel Foundation, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of the Free Synagogue, New York City, also the Sage Chapel preacher, will lecture in Willard Straight Hall.

Norman Thomas, leader of the Socialist party, comes to Bailey Hall March 19; and from the same platform Toyohiko Kagawa, Japanese author and lecturer, speaks on April 6. The seventh lecture of the series will be given April 17 by Harper Sibley, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce and a Trustee of the University, also in Bailey Hall.

NEW ENGLAND OFFICERS

The Cornell Club of New England, at its annual meeting in Boston, Mass. December 9, elected Anthony O. Shallna '16, the former secretary, to be president for the current year. Secretary is Leon M. Brockway '08, 14 Shornecliffe Road, Newton, Mass. Francis A. Nicolls '13 is vice-president; Thomas Dransfield '10, treasurer; and regional vice-presidents are H. Hunt Bradley '26 for Rhode Island, Everett W. Pierce '23 for New Hampshire, and John P. Franklin '19 for central Massachusetts. The board of governors comprises Frank G. Anderson '06, Giles M. Smith '08, Roger J. Coe '25, Hugh S. Fifield '26, Richard F. Walter '28, and Robert J. Wilkes '28. Malcolm S. Jones '10 is athletic director, and George H. Rockwell '13 is alumni representative.

A CONTROVERSY ENDS

The passing of Gil Dobie from Cornell football ends one of the longest and most acrid controversies ever to engage alumni. Sharply resembling a political argument in its freedom from good taste and good manners, this clash of beliefs and prejudices has kept Cornell alumni in a turmoil for a decade. Mr. Dobie recognized the situation as a deterrent to his successful coaching at Cornell, and as a major cause of some of his recent failures, and resigned.

Dobie's regime at Cornell lasted several times as long as that of any of his predecessors. He is said to have held the position longer than any football coach now coaching, and while that may be pure journalese exaggeration, he undoubtedly held the position at Cornell unusually long for a Cornell football coach, and we think much longer than the average for the country.

Whether Dobie can coach the "modern game," or any game except the mass attack such as the off-tackle slant, has been a fruitful cause for argument. The opinion is held by various Colgate, Dartmouth, and Pennsylvania football alumni that he could, emphatically, when he had the man-power to protect it. Perhaps the question will now be answered more fully.

It is certain that Cornell is not the most favorable place in which to promote the "modern game" of football in another sense. To its fundamental handicaps of remoteness and early winter weather, Cornell has always added qualifications of her own, such as a sharp limit on the number of out-of-town games, probation for relatively slight scholastic deficiency, ineligibility for those whose support came from other than parents or similar logical supporters, and every conceivable safeguard and barrier against barnstorming, professionalism, and, to a degree, ballyhoo. After Dobie mastered the rules of this rather peculiar football-playing institution, he apparently took pride in what may have seemed to many its unnecessary purity.

The record of the football teams of the past sixteen years under Mr. Dobie, figured on almost any reasonable basis, is highly creditable to his ability as a coach. The percentage of victory is greater than over any other consecutive period of similar length, and not far behind the average of the best sixteen individual years Cornell had in the thirty-five years before 1920.

If the answer to that record is "schedules," comparison can fairly be made with each major opponent. It will be found that since 1920 Cornell has won 47% of her Pennsylvania games, 50% of Dartmouth, 59% of Columbia, 44% of Princeton, and 55% of her occasional games with other major opponents; or 51% of the total major games. All factors considered, this record is highly creditable to coach and teams, better than Cornell's football record as a whole, and fully as much as she can hope for if she is to retain her amateur status in a game that has practically become professionalized.

Mr. Dobie seems to have recognized, however, that his presence at Cornell was an obvious cause of discord, and resigned as the best solution for the major problem in Cornell's athletics.

This is not the first time that Cornell's football coach had been forced out for reasons other than inability to teach football. Three coaches of earlier periods, one of them twice, found the Cornell situation untenable and went on to leadership in their chosen profession elsewhere. It is to be expected, therefore, that Dobie will go to his new assignment with bright prospects of making an outstanding success of it.

Those who know him well will treasure memories of a unique person, with unusual characteristics that could often produce a miracle; who built teams that, though small, had condition and endurance, a high degree of precision, often unexpectedly clicking at an awkward time for an opponent. We are glad his new position is not with one of Cornell's opponents.

Nearly every Cornellian, whatever side he may have taken in the discussion, will wish Mr. Dobie God speed and the best of luck.

NO BLUES FOR '16

The Class of '16 is determined to celebrate fittingly its twentieth reunion in Ithaca next June, according to Carlton P. P. Collins, chairman of the reunion committee, who sends us an enthusiastic report of the second pre-reunion dinner, held at the Cornell Club of New York, January 29.

Francis T. Hunter presided, and the only serious note, Collins says, was the suggestion made by J. Kissam Innes that the official reunion blazers be blue, in keeping the ripening dignity of the Class and the great age of its members. Special entertainment was provided the diners by Morton Downey, friend of the toastmaster. A long cheer for his graciousness was led by Daniel F. Potter, Jr. John T. (Terry) McGovern '00 also entertained in his own intimitable manner, and was elected an honorary member of the Class, which he accepted, with reservations.

A vote of thanks was tendered to various members of the Class for their contributions toward the success of the dinner and of the reunion in June: to George M. Stevens, Charles Borgos, and Hunter for refreshments; to F. Grant Schleicher, Alden C. Buttrick, and Harold E. Irish for dinner and reunion notices; and to Weyland Pfeiffer for his efforts as secretary of the committee.

Besides the chairman and secretary, Irish, Hunter, Schleicher, and Edward S. Jamison constitute the reunion committee for New York City and vicinity; Hamilton Vose, Jr. for Chicago; F. Lawrence Bailliere for Tulsa, Okla.; Francis H. Scheetz for Philadelphia; Samuel E. Hunkin for Cleveland; Benjamin H. Micou for Detroit; David R. Visel, of Carpenteria, for California; Buttrick for Minneapolis and St. Paul; Louis A. Zimm for Boston; Edward E. Ludwig for Pittsburgh; Harry A. F. Eaton for Washington, D. C.; and Jess J. Dall, Jr. for Ithaca.

NECROLOGY

'87 Sp—WILLIAM BUTTS ITTNER, January 26, 1936, at his home in St. Louis, Mo., after an illness of six months. As a widely known architect of school buildings, he was credited with originating the "open plan" of design, in the form of an E or an L, for increased light and air; a form now widely used. He designed 430 school buildings in 28 states, and many other structures. For many years he had been commissioner of buildings and architect for the St. Louis Board of Education, and in 1925 established his own firm, William B. Ittner, Inc., of which his son, William B. Ittner, Jr. '24 is also a member. William P. Gruner '07, vice-president of the Mutual Bank and Trust Co. of St. Louis, writes: "Bill Ittner was a live Cornell man in this district and we can ill afford to spare him in times like these." BRIEF NEWS OF CAMPUS AND TOWN

FARM AND HOME WEEK opened Monday for the twenty-ninth time, with an official first-day registration announced as 667, which was 23 more than the first day last year. A dizzy round of demonstrations, lectures, meetings, luncheons, dinners, and varied entertainment occupies the visitors and staff members of the College of Agriculture right through Saturday morning.

CAYUGA LAKE is frozen solid for more than a mile northward from Stewart Park, and main roads, at least, have been cleared of snow after a succession of blizzards that for two weeks have kept local forces busy at shovelling. Almost continuous near-zero temperatures for three weeks have brought out the Department of Buildings and Grounds signs warning "Trails Closed" in the gorges until spring.

EXCITEMENT SEETHED in the offices of Ithaca's two newspapers the morning of February 1 while the Trustees were meeting in Morrill Hall. At 12:30 announcement was made of Gilmour Dobie's resignation. A special tabloid edition of the Sun (then in suspension because of term examinations) hit State Street, the circulation manager claims, at 1:04, thirteen minutes ahead of the Ithaca Journal. The staffs of both newspapers, forewarned that the story would break on Saturday, worked all night Friday and presented complete stories to local readers in less than an hour after the Trustees had acted.

TRAFFIC in Ithaca has eased greatly in the past month, as more than 300 automobile drivers have paid a dollar each into City coffers for overstaying the parking limits on downtown streets. Further efforts to relieve the local situation will undoubtedly follow the completion of a traffic survey started as an avocation two years ago by Henry C. Thorne '10.

SUBSTITUTING for the Rev. Erdman Harris of Union Theological Seminary, who was ill, the Rev. Alfred P. Coman, former pastor of the First Methodist Church in Ithaca, preached in Sage Chapel last Sunday. Preacher for February 15 is the Rev. Sidney Lovett, Chaplain of Yale University.

HUNG in a travelling collection of the Rome collaborative drawings exhibited in the Architecture display room in White Hall during Junior Week were the first-prize-winning designs of four Cornellians, which we described last week, and those of other students in Architecture which received honorable mention.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON Willard Straight recital, February 9, was given by two musicians new to Ithaca, and thoroughly enjoyed by their large audience. Gertrude Morris Kirshbaum, harpist, is the wife of Joseph Kirshbaum, violinist assistant in the Music Department, who recently played in the same series. Pauline Terpstra Spencer, contralto, is in Ithaca for two years while her husband, Harold F. Spencer, completes his work for the Doctorate in Psychology. The previous week, the ninety-five members of the Sage Chapel Choir gave an hour's program in Sage Chapel, under the direction of Professor Paul J. Weaver, Music. Next Sunday, Professor Ronald W. Ingalls, violinist, of the Music Department, will appear in Willard Straight Hall.

GOLDEN EAGLET, highest Girl Scout honor, has been won by Mary E. Dixon '38 of Ithaca. The award was presented by Mrs. George F. Warren (Mary Whitson) '05, Ithaca commissioner.

WELL KNOWN to many congregations at Sage Chapel, where he had often occupied the pulpit, was Dr. Jay Thomas Stocking, pastor of the First Congregational Church at Newton Center, Mass., who died January 28.

LECTURES for the week, besides the hundreds on the Farm and Home Week program, include the Rev. James M. Gillis, editor-in-chief of The Catholic World, under the auspices of the Newman Club and the Catholic Chaplaincy of the CURW, in Myron Taylor Hall February 11; and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, February 13 in the same place, addressing the Cornell Democratic Club on "The College Student's Place in Government."

LITTLE PUBLICIZED but nevertheless engrossing to their participants and engendering considerable local interest are the organized athletic events carried on throughout most of the year by teams of employees from various buildings and departments of the University. Just now it is bowling, and at last reports the No. 1 team from College Stores was tied at the top of the University league with Administration. The Prudence Risley team (of men, of course) last week won two successive games from Balch Hall. Agriculture meanwhile, won from the Electrical Department.

PROFESSOR CHARLES L. DURHAM '99 presented the case for the Roosevelt New Deal in the second of the series of semi-monthly round tables on current questions at the Interim Club, January 31.

THE PRESIDENT'S Birthday Ball in Ithaca attracted nearly 1,500 persons to the Drill Hall January 30. Proceeds go to the Reconstruction Home, earmarked for the continued treatment of adult sufferers from infantile paralysis who live in Tompkins County.

ITHACA SAVINGS and Loan Association at its annual meeting last month re-elected Harry C. Baldwin '06 secretary; Professor Carl Crandall '12, Engineering, treasurer; and William H. Morrison '90 as vice-president. Many other Cornellians are directors.

LESLIE S. NICHOLS '38 of Fort Edward carried off intercollegiate honors by making the only perfect score in the student judging contest at the Poultry Exposition in New York City February 7. The Cornell team, composed of Nichols, Albert E. Palm '36 of Ohio, and Seymour M. Bulkley '37 of Odessa, placed second to North Carolina State College. The boys were coached by Alfred Van Wagenan '30 of the Poultry Department staff.

BANKS of Ithaca re-elected all their officers and directors, including many Cornellians, for 1936. Of the First National Bank James R. Robinson '08 remains as chairman of the board and Ebenezer T. Turner '83 as vice-president; with Howard Cobb '95, Provost Albert R. Mann '04, Charles H. Newman '13, Jared T. Newman '75, Professor Harold L. Reed, PhD '14, Economics, and Lawrence C. Rumsey '11 among the directors. Tompkins County Trust Company has as president Robert H. Treman '78 and as vice-president Sherman Peer '06, and numbers among its directors Comptroller Charles D. Bostwick '92, Harry G. Stutz '07, E. Victor Underwood '13, Leon D. Rothschild '09, Allan H. Treman '21, University Treasurer George F. Rogalsky '07, and Charles E. Treman, Jr. '30. Paul Bradford '18 is treasurer and auditor.

HENRY A. CAREY '12, Ithaca insurance man, has been elected treasurer of Memorial Hospital. Professor Howard B. Meek, Hotel Administration, last year's president, refused re-election but remains a member of the board.

INTERCOLLEGIATE BASKETBALL competition between a Cornell women's team and those of Alfred University, Elmira College, and Wells College is scheduled for the afternoon of February 22 in the Old Armory. The visiting teams will be entertained at lunch in Balch Hall and at tea in Willard Straight Hall after the games by members of the Physical Education Department.

About ATHLETICS

SKI TEAM AT DARTMOUTH

The Varsity ski team, handicapped by low scores in the jumping and combination events, placed eleventh among twelve entries in the annual Dartmouth winter sports carnival over the week-end. Creditable scores were registered in the downhill and slalom races, and Verner F. Ogi '37 of Webster, jumping for only his second time, reached a mark of 27 meters. Others who made the trip were Millet G. Morgan '37 of Hanover, N. H., Robert O. Buell '38 of Bolivar, David M. Misner '38 of Buffalo, Joslyn A. Smith '38 of Westmount, Can., and Carl Eric Beve '39 of Stockholm, Sweden, with Robert K. Story '37, manager.

Next week-end the team will enter the intercollegiate meet at Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vt.

COURT TEAMS WIN TWO

Before a colorful Junior Week crowd of three thousand persons who taxed the capacity of temporary stands erected at the east end of the Drill Hall while the ruins of the Junior Prom decorations were being removed, the basketball team easily defeated Pennsylvania, 36-31, in a game marked by more accurate basket shooting than they have displayed before, and by the excellent work of Referee McNulty, who officiated alone.

After the first few minutes, when Pennsylvania gained 4 points from the floor, only to be headed by Captain Downer scoring 7 in succession, three on fouls, the Varsity led continuously. Throughout the first half the play of both teams was fast and furious, but Cornell still led, 18-14, as the period ended.

In the second half diminutive Lew Freed was all over the floor, but he was kept well guarded by the Quakers and frequently missed his tries. Toward the middle of the period, however, he managed to flip two of his one-handed shots into the basket to put the Varsity ahead 28-17. With Cornell leading, 36-24, and less than three minutes to play, Coach

Ortner sent in an entire new team, of Dauner, Burns, Hughes, Doering, and Simon, and several answering shifts by the Pennsylvania coach resulted in the Blue team closing the lead by 7 points before the game ended.

This victory put Cornell into a tie with Dartmouth for second place in the Eastern Intercollegiate League, hit Dartmouth's victory over Harvard on Monday forced Cornell back to third place. Cornell meets Yale at New Haven on Saturday and Dartmouth in the Drill Hall February 17.

Captain Downer's total of 11 points in Saturday's game also put him back at the head of the League in individual scoring, with 44; his nearest rival, Barrett of Pennsylvania, with 41. Rich is at fourth place with 35.

Defeat Alfred

A spectacular fighting finish that had the audience on its feet and put the Varsity ahead, 39-37, was the feature of a non-League game with Alfred February 5 in the Drill Hall. With less than a minute to go and Alfred ahead 37-36, McDonald dropped in a long basket from just outside his foul circle, and as the whistle blew Freed made good a foul to put the Varsity 2 ahead.

The game opened slowly, with neither team distinguishing itself, and the score was 19-19 at the half. For most of the second period Alfred carried the offensive, but the Varsity guarded so closely that only with a few minutes left did the margin get to 36-30, Alfred leading. Then, after McDonald had looped one into the basket, Wilson literally tore through two Alfred guards to score, and Doering took a long pass and put in a quick one from underneath. McDonald for Cornell and Schacter for Alfred each scored four field goals, but Oberhanick of Alfred made good ten of thirteen foul tries and two from the field to total 14 and win scoring honors for the game.

J-V's Also Win

The Junior Varsity team in its first appearance of the season defeated Ithaca College Reserves 20-16 in a preliminary to the Alfred-Varsity game. Saturday afternoon before the Pennsylvania game the Junior Varsity defeated Johnson City, 18-17. John Pluta '36 of Johnson City, playing at guard, was high with 6 points in the first game, and scored the winning basket against his home town team in the last thirty seconds.

MANGAN '34 WINS TROPHY

Joseph R. Mangan '34, now a Junior in the Law School, became last week the fifth mile runner to win the Rodman Wanamaker International Trophy for his great performance in defeating Glenn Cunningham and Gene Venzke in the Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden February 1. In the final twenty yards Mangan spurred to pass Cunningham and he was followed by Venzke, the three crossing the finish within one-fifth of a second. Mangan's time was 4:11, only 2.6 seconds short of the world indoor record, held by Cunningham.

Two weeks earlier, Cunningham had narrowly defeated the former Cornell track captain in the Boston Garden, and last Saturday in the Hunter mile at the Boston A.A. games Venzke fought off Mangan's last lap bid, to cross the line three inches in the lead in 4:14.4, the fastest indoor time ever recorded in Boston.

Mangan came to Cornell in February, 1930, from Rutland, Vt. and immediately went out for track, although he had had no previous experience. Coach Moakley soon saw in him the makings of a great runner, but he says that Mangan, although he developed steadily, did not show his full possibilities until his Junior year, when at the indoor triangular meet in Boston he made new records in both the mile and the 1,000-yard events. The next spring he performed well in the Pennsylvania relays, and in a dual meet with Pennsylvania set a new meet record for the mile of 4:17.2 and won second in the 880. That same spring, in the New York Athletic Club games, he came within three-fifths of a second of the world's three-quarter-mile record, making it in 3:03.2, which mark he bested in 1935. In the Intercollegiates at Berkeley, Cal. he won the mile in 4:14.8, just four-fifths of a second behind the record set by John Paul Jones '13, and in the Oxford-Cambridge, Cornell-Princeton meet in 1933 he set a new national record in the two-mile race of 9:15.8, besting by 2 seconds that held by Tell Berna '12.

During the summer of 1933, he pulled a 'rickshaw at the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago, and with his team mate, William F. Davis '34, cross country captain, he won the 'rickshaw relay from a field of nine universities. Last June, Mangan set a new American record for the three-quarter-mile run in the NYAC games at Travers Island, beating Venzke and the latter's previous record in 3:01.4.

While an undergraduate, Mangan was practically self-supporting, doing odd jobs of all sorts and playing the banjo in a student band. It became known last week that he had taken up running to offset an injury to his legs that might have crippled him permanently. When he was six, he was run over by a wagon and his hip bone was crushed in two places. An operation restored his legs to normal, but their development is his own.

At the Boston Athletic Association games on Saturday, a Varsity relay team was forced out when Robert A. Scallan '36, the first runner, was knocked down and lost the baton. Others entered were Walter T. Tatum '38 of Long Beach, Warren L. Bohner '38 of Maplewood, N. J., and John A. Meaden, Jr. '37 of LaGrange, Ill.

TENNIS CAPTAIN STAYS

Bernard Marcus '36 of Mount Vernon, 1936 captain and a veteran of last year's successful tennis team, reached the semi-finals of the Eastern intercollegiate indoor tennis championship matches in New York City over the week-end, being then defeated by Koslain of New York University, the defending title holder. Marcus had previously defeated Merkel of St. Johns and Masterson of Long Island College.

Bernard Diamond '37 of Brooklyn, another veteran of last year's Varsity, was eliminated earlier, and Herbert Sobel '38, star of last year's Freshman team, was defeated by Koslain in a first-round match.

Since last fall, Coach Vladimir Terentief has been running the usual ladder tournament in the Drill Hall, open to all comers, from which to select his 1936 team. Besides Marcus and Diamond he has two other veterans from last year's squad, William J. Simpson '37 of Larchmont and Lloyd A. Doughty '36 of Bayside, and several other likely prospects from the Freshman team.

WRESTLERS BEAT SYRACUSE

The Varsity wrestling team won its second meet of the season February 6 in the Drill Hall, defeating Syracuse 16-14. Not until the last bout, when Asa George '36 of Ithaca by careful wrestling lost by time advantage to the Syracuse captain, Crotty, and so won the meet, was there any excitement. Wrestling in the unlimited class, George far outweighed his more experienced opponent, and was able to use his weight to prevent a fall.

Falls were gained by Gregory Shallenberger '37 of Cleveland, Ohio, in the 118-pound class, and by John Floros of Ithaca in the 145-pound class. Harry Smith '38 of Buenos Aires, Argentina, lost by a fall in the 165-pound class to Wilbur of Syracuse in the first of two overtime periods, and Cantpa George Brownell '36 of Westfield, N. J. lost the 155-pound class by referee's decision in two overtime periods to Driscoll of Syracuse. Charles Mosher '38 of Ithaca won the 126-pound bout by time advantage, as did Wallace Spellman '37 of Canastota. Paul Hartzsch, Jr. '37 of Brooklyn lost in the 135-pound class to Deme, who defeated him last year.

A Junior-Varsity meet which preceded the main bouts was lost by Cornell to Syracuse, 11-19, with the 135-pound and 175-pound bouts defaulted.

RIDERS WIN TWICE

Except for Thomas Lawrence '38, who played in both, two different ROTC polo teams maintained the unbroken record of Varsity home victories by defeating two opponents the past two Saturdays.

On February 1, against a six-goal handicap, a team composed of Stephen J. Roberts '38, No. 1, Captain John C. Lawrence '36, No. 2, and his brother at back, defeated the 109th Field Artillery, Pennsylvania National Guard, 17-15. Six periods were played, and not until the fifth was the Varsity able to overcome the visitors' advantage. Roberts was high man with a total of 8, Tom Lawrence 6, and John 5, with 1 credited to the pony. Three fouls each by Roberts and John Lawrence took 3 points from the Varsity total. Referee was Major Charles E. Boyle.

Against the Pittsburgh Polo Club February 8, Tom Lawrence, riding at No. 2, won the game single-handed by tallying 16 goals, some in every period and finishing with 4 in the sixth. The score was 24-9. His teammates in this game were player-manager Henry Untermeyer '36, who was replaced at No. 1 at the half by Howard E. Babcock, Jr. '36, and Arthur B. Christian '38 at back. Babcock and Christian each made 4 goals and Untermeyer 3. Referee was Lieutenant John R. Pitman.

It is rumored that Peter Vischer '19, editor of Polo, and some of the former Varsity players now in New York City, dissatisfied with the ½-point margin by which an alumni team defeated the second team January 25, are threatening to bring up a team of alumni some time in the future that will do better. The undergraduate riders say they are ready to meet all such challengers.

FENCERS DEFEAT TWO

The Varsity fencing team defeated Syracuse, 15-2, and Colgate, 12½-4½, in the Drill Hall Saturday afternoon, the finals being conducted on the basketball court by Professor Pascal P. Pirone '29, Plant Pathology, who as a Senior was captain of the team.

Edwin O. Merwin '36 of Buffalo, captain last year, won all his matches with foils, as did this year's co-captain, Vincent C. Smith '36 of Albany. Likewise the other co-captain, Weiman Kretz '36 of Rockville Center, won his sabre matches against both opposing teams, as did Edgar M. Matthews '37 of Jamaica. These are all veterans of last year's Varsity team, as is Daniel F. Macbeth '37 of Auburn, who blanked both Colgate and Syracuse in the epee matches.

Against Syracuse, John F. Stephens '37 of Syracuse lost his foils match;

Since the opening of the Riding Hall in December, 1934, the indoor Varsity team has not lost a game at home. Third member of this year's team is Stephen J. Roberts '38 of Hamburg.

David Epstein '38 of Brooklyn won one and lost one; and Stanley R. Stager, Jr. '36 of New York City won one. In the epee James W. Parker '37 of Wilton won two. In the sabres, Robert A. Shaw '38 of Albany won one.

Against Colgate, foils matches were won by Epstein, 2, and by Stephens and Hugh W. Banfield '38 of Gloversville, while one was lost by Stager. Parker won one epee match and tied one, and Harold E. Parker '38 lost one. In the sabres, Shaw and George E. Detmold '38 of Long Island City each lost one.

HOCKEY TEAM LOSES

The hockey team lost to Colgate, 2-3, in the final period Thursday afternoon on Beebe Lake before an excited Junior Week crowd. Howard D. Dugan '36 sparked the Varsity play through the entire 60 minutes, and his brother, David '37, coming in in the second period, made both Cornell scores. For thirty minutes the Varsity was on the defensive, but after the first Dugan score the Colgate captain and goalie, Billings, was forced to his best defense.

The summary:

MICHIGAN REMINDER

Effective in increasing attendance at meetings and bringing substantial increase in dues-paying members is the attractive desk calendar pad being distributed by the Cornell Club of Michigan, according to Matthew Carey '15, president. Printed in red on the appropriate daily sheets are the Club affairs scheduled for the year, including the weekly Thursday luncheons, each designated as for specific classes. On the sheet for February 28 is noted the annual banquet, with President Farrand as speaker, at the University Club at 7.

At the top of the pad a red enamelled plate labelled "Cornell Club of Michigan" gives permanently the Detroit telephone number of the Intercollegiate Alumni Club, where the regular luncheons are held. The last sheet of the pad is a coupon addressed to Warren D. Devine '26, secretary, requesting a refill pad for 1937 and enclosing dues for the new year.

'17 AB, '21 PhD—The research of Dr. Lewis R. Koller of the research laboratories of the General Electric Company, is the subject of a recent article by David Dietz in the New York World-Telegram. Koller is quoted as saying that there is a drop in electrical potential between the air and the earth which results in a constant flow of current to the earth, and that when a person stands at the surface of the earth, there is a potential difference of more than 100 volts between his head and his feet, but that the effects of these voltages are quite imperceptible because of the high resistance of the air and that the extraction of power from this source is quite improbable. Engineers realize that in order to be able to furnish different types of air on demand, they must learn more about the ion content of it.

'18, '21 AB—Henry W. Roden, director of the baby products division of Johnson & Johnson, was promoted February 1 to the position of director of merchandising. Roden joined the company in 1927 as assistant director of the Modess division; in 1929 he was advanced to the position of director of the baby products division. SHE'S A PARTNER IN A GREAT AMERICAN BUSINESS

SHE is one of 850,000 owners of Bell System securities. They are typical Americans—some young, some middle age, some old. They live in every part of the nation.

One may be a housewife in Pennsylvania. Another a physician in Oregon—a clerk in Illinois—an engineer in Texas—a merchant in Massachusetts—a miner in Nevada—a stenographer in Missouri—a teacher in California—or a telephone employee in Michigan.

For the most part, Bell System stockholders are men and women who have put aside small sums for saving. More than half of them have held their shares for five years or longer. More than 650,000 of these 850,000 security holders own stock in the American Telephone and Telegraph Company—the parent company of the Bell System. More than 225,000 own five shares or less. Over fifty per cent are women. No one owns as much as one per cent of the stock of A. T. & T. In a very real sense, the Bell System is a democracy in business—owned by the people it serves.

Over 270,000 men and women work for the Bell System. One person out of every 150 in this country owns A. T. & T. securities or stock and bonds of associated companies in the Bell System.
