TO POSTPONE OLD AGE Rockefeller Grant Aids Studies

Extension of the faculties of youth into the last half of life is forecast in further experiments with diet made possible by a grant to the University of $42,500 by the Rockefeller Foundation, announced last week by President Farrand. For six years, three Cornell scientists have been experimenting with rats in the Animal Nutrition laboratories in the Dairy Building, to determine the role of diet in prolonging life. This grant will enable them to continue and expand their studies for six more years. Professors Leonard A. Maynard, PhD '15, Clive M. McCay, and Sydney A. Asdell are the experimenters.

Already they have observed that the life-span of animals was increased by diets much lower in calories than the "optimum" feeding recommended for growth of the young. One male rat lived to the equivalent of 150 years of human life, and these long-lived rats developed more slowly, preserving their youthful characteristics, such as fine silky hair and general activity.

From their studies so far, these experimenters are convinced that "the diet which promotes the most rapid growth of the body is not necessarily the same that retards old age and extends the useful span of life." They now propose the further "development of diets to retard changes in the animal body that come with old age and senility, in order to extend the useful fraction of the life span of man and domestic animals."

"The new work," according to their outline of it, "will be devoted to the changes that take place in the chemistry and structure of the animal body as it grows old, and the modification of these changes by special diets.

"Related to the question of calories intake," their summary continues, "is that of exercise. What degree of exercise after middle life will best promote physical wellbeing without subjecting the progressively less elastic tissues to undue strain?"

"Is any exercise desirable except for the purpose of burning up unneeded calories? Does the additional metabolism required by exercise and by the increased ingestion of food energy unduly burden the organism with katabolic products to be eliminated? Should stress be placed upon diet or upon exercise for avoiding overweight after middle life? Does exercise speed up or retard senile changes?"

"All these questions are susceptible of answer by the experimental method."

CLEVELAND ELECTS OFFICERS

The Cornell Club of Cleveland held its annual banquet on March 27 at the University Club. Speakers were all from Ithaca, Professor Charles L. Durham '99, who was starting his trip through the Middle West in the interests of the secondary school committee; Foster M. Coffin '12, Alumni Representative; Archie M. Palmer '18, executive secretary of The Cornelian Council. Tell Berna '12 presided as toastmaster.

In the election of officers George F. Burrows '00 was named president to succeed Charles C. Colman '12. Colman retired after a continuous stretch of ten years as an officer of the Club, with eight terms as secretary, two as president. The Club passed a special vote of appreciation to him. William H. Forbes '06 was elected honorary president of the Club.

Edwin S. Baker '15 was elected vice-president; Sanford B. Ketchum '34, secretary; and Walter E. Flickenger '08, treasurer. J. Bently Forker, Jr. '29 was elected a director to fill out the unexpired term of Baker. Other new directors are Joseph K. Bole '00, Morris S. Halliday '06, and Colman.

SARA B. SAILOR '09 DIES

Mrs. Sarah Bailey Sailor, assistant secretary of The Cornelian Council, died April 18 of thrombosis, after an illness of but two days.

She was born in Lansing, Mich., June 29, 1887, the daughter of Professor Liberty Hyde Bailey, now Dean Emeritus of the College of Agriculture, and Mrs. Bailey. Most of her early life was spent in Ithaca. She entered the University in 1905, took her Sophomore year at Smith College, and returned to Cornell as a Junior, receiving the AB degree in 1909. As an undergraduate she was prominent in the Deutscher Verein and in dramatics, and took active interest in other student affairs. She was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta, and since she had been back in Ithaca, had maintained a close relation with the Cornell chapter.

In October, 1911, she was married to Horace P. Sailor '06. For eight years they lived in Shanghai, China, where Sailor taught at St. John's University. Returning to the United States in 1923, Mrs. Sailor was for two years academic secretary of the Chicago Latin School for Boys, and in the summer of 1928 she joined the staff of The Cornelian Council.

Besides her parents and a sister, Ethel Z. Bailey, Sp '12, who lives with Dr. and Mrs. Bailey on Sage Place, Ithaca, Mrs. Sailor leaves two children: Annette, seventeen, and Samuel, thirteen.

GIRLS TO COME MAY 2 Twelve Clubs Entertain

Sixty to seventy girls from nearby secondary schools are expected at Ithaca for the third annual Cornell Day for Women, May 2. They have been nominated both by undergraduate women and by members of Cornell Women's Clubs, and most of them will be brought to Ithaca by alumnae.

Guests will be entertained in the women's dormitories. Some are expected Friday evening, May 1. On Saturday morning they will be taken around the Campus by undergraduate women, and after luncheon for the girls at Balch Hall and for their alumnae "chauffeurs" at Martha Van Rensselaer Hall, they will attend a special performance by the Dramatic Club in the Willard Straight Theatre. At a tea in Memorial Room of Willard Straight Hall following the play, President Farrand will speak, and that evening games and a general party for the guests will take place in the Balch Hall recreation room.

The Women's Cornell Day committee is headed by Mrs. Claude M. Bigelow (Lucile Wyman) '23, 91 Homer Avenue, Cortland. Its Ithaca members are Mrs. R. W. Sailor (Queenie Horton) '09, Lillian Fasoldt '27, Ruth E. Davis '17, Mrs. John B. Grace (Anna Fielden) '10, and Mrs. Arthur A. Allen (Elsa Geurdum) '12; with Marion F. Bean '37 chairman of the undergraduate committee.

During the spring recess twelve Cornell Women's Clubs entertained preparatory and high school girls who might be interested in entering the University. The Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs arranged for undergraduate women active in Campus affairs to address these meetings and the speakers were chosen and trained by Ray S. Ashbery '25 and Foster M. Coffin '12 of the Alumni Office, Dean R. Louise Fitch, and Marjorie Kane '36, president of WSGA.

The Washington Club gave a tea Match 29 at the home of its vice-president, Mrs. Harold Morrison (Emily Reed) '18. The speakers were Marian Myers '38 and Jean Thompson '37. Sixty attended, including twenty pre-college girls, several mothers, undergraduates, and alumnae. Mrs. Raleigh Gilchrist (Elizabeth Reigart) '19 was chairman of the committee.

The Mid-Hudson Club arranged a meeting at the Poughkeepsie High School on April 2, when Dorothy M. Burton '36 and Eleanor M. Bahret '38 spoke to a small group of interested girls. Other undergraduates joined the Club members at a tea following the meeting, at the home of Mrs. Edwin S. Knauss (Dorothy Pond) '18. Mrs. Henry C. Strahan (Martha Wool) '24, president of the Club, arranged the meeting.

Although there is as yet no formal organization of Cornell women in Westchester County, ten alumnae and twenty sub-freshmen from White Plains, Hastings, Port Chester, and Pleasantville met for tea at the home of Mrs. Newton I. Steers (Claire L. Herder) '02 in White Plains April 2, to hear Norma Lindstrom '35 and Jessie Reisner '37. Mrs. Carl H. Tibbitts (Kathryn Blowers) '20 had charge of the arrangements.

Simultaneous meetings were held April 4 by the Cornell Women's Clubs of Northeastern Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Boston, Mass., Western Connecticut, Batavia, Mohawk Valley, and New York City.

Eight high school girls were guests at a tea given by the Northeastern Pennsylvania Club at the home of Marion L. Lewis '18 in West Pittston. The speaker was Harriet Johnson '39. Mrs. J. Bert Wilson (Louise T. Dean) '18, president of the Club, was in charge of the meeting.

Of the thirty-eight who attended the Pittsburgh tea, eighteen were prospective students and three were undergraduates. Speakers were Eleanor H. Elste '36 and Margaret J. Kincaid '37.

The Philadelphia Club entertained fifteen high school girls and three undergraduates at the Jenkintown home of Mrs. Wilbur F. Chapman (Ruth L. Dimmick) '15. Three undergraduate women besides the speaker, Janet R. Stallman '35, were present. Mildred H. Hiller '25 presided.

Elizabeth Dransfield '37, who is the daughter of Thomas Dransfield, Jr. '10 and the former Mary F. Caldwell '08, spoke at a reception and tea at the Hotel Vendome in Boston, at which thirty-five were present. Mrs. Mary G. Reed, pianist and lecturer, gave a recital and talk on the music of various countries, and the guests were conducted through the hotel's model apartment by Mrs. Harold E. Porter. Mrs. William G. Mollenberg (Ruth L. Hunter) '26, president of the Cornell Women's Club of Boston, was responsible for the party, and presided.

Eighteen attended a tea given by the Western Connecticut alumnae at the College Club in Bridgeport. Kathleen C. Stapleton '36 was the speaker and answered numerous questions from both alumnae and prospective Freshmen. Mrs. Russell Y. Moore (Mary H. Johnson) '17 and N. Frances Weller '06 were in charge.

At the Batavia party, a tea at the YWCA, among the seventy present were high school girls from LeRoy, Albion, Alabama, Corfu, Oakfield, Bergen, Elba, and Batavia, with ten undergraduate women at home for the holiday. Jane M. Bower '36 and Elizabeth E. Page '38, the regularly assigned speakers, were assisted in describing Cornell by two Freshmen, Virginia H. Bennett and Beryl M. Salsbery. Dr. Myrta E. Hunn '00 was chairman of the committee, which had representatives for each of the surrounding towns. Mrs. Julian Harvey (Mary Wright) '14, president of the Club, presided at the tea.

The Cornell Women's Club of the Delaware Valley, of which J. Kathryn Francis '16 is president, held a similar meeting during the Christmas recess. Our report of the tea given by the Cortland Club March 20 appeared last week.

THE JOB-GETTING COURSE

TO THE EDITOR:

Some further explanation seems to be indicated of our course, "Introduction to Business and Industry," of which your reporter described one demonstration under the title, "Engineers Study Job-Getting," in the ALUMNI NEWS of last November 14.

Cornell did not originate the demonstration method of teaching industrial relations. So far as I know, it was first used by Professor Elliott Dunlap Smith of Yale. In 1931, following a meeting called two years earlier by Dean Dexter S. Kimball at the home of Sam L. Lewisohn in New York City, Professor Smith presented a demonstration by his students and explained his methods of teaching human relations by class discussions and demonstrations. As a member of the committee on instruction in industrial relations of the Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education, Professor Smith had presented a report on "Teaching Engineers to Manage Men" at the 1930 meeting of the Society in Montreal.

The first employment interview demonstration called to my attention was staged about 1928 by J. H. Bigelow of the New York Telephone Company and C. S. Coler of the Westinghouse Electric Company, at the Pennsylvania Hotel in New York City. Since these demonstrations, progressive educators in several institutions have made use of this method of teaching. A leading proponent is Professor F. Alexander Magoun of M.I.T., to whom Cornell owes a considerable debt in getting its own work started. He was responsible for a masterful demonstration given in Ithaca in October, 1934. Excellent teaching in similar fields is done by Professors Schell at M.I.T. and Feldman at Dartmouth.

Our course, "Introduction to Business and Industry," is not a course in industrial relations, but rather a practical course in personnel and job-getting. The demonstration method is used in but one meeting of the series. The course began in 1931 because we were then able to interest Howard L. Davis, director of technical employment and training of the New York Telephone Company, in giving such a course for us. He had just finished his textbook, The Young Man in Business, and was as eager to give as we were to receive, the information which would aid our students to bridge the gap between college and industry.

For years we had been struggling with this problem, and one move was the establishment of a course of lectures given by men prominent in industry who came to the Campus to explain to students some of the "high spots" of their several industries. These talks were helpful in furnishing general descriptive information, and out of them has evolved this course, which we feel is at least a partial solution of the vital problem of giving our boys practical knowledge of what they will face in the business world.

Besides Davis's lectures, seniors in Mechanical and Electrical Engineering, meeting once a week during the first term, are addressed by J. H. Bigelow, who is associated with Davis, by Dean Kimball, and by Director Herman Diederichs. They are given regular weekly assignments for discussion, and are encouraged to submit written questions prior to each lecture. Davis's text has proved a valuable aid, and enables us to cover a wide range of subjects thoroughly and comprehensively. Through their questions and discussion, we are learning to know better our seniors and their problems; and they, in turn, get the foundation of a rational business philosophy, learn something of what is awaiting them after graduation, and find out where to go for further help.

JOHN R. BANGS, JR. '21
Director of Personnel, Engineering.

SPRING NOTE

Wherever men gather to the complete exclusion of women (which is still lots of places, though fewer and fewer) the word is being whispered that the suckers are biting in the Inlet. This news is important, if true. It's probably true.

To understand the importance of fishing for suckers as a unique American institution, you must not think of it as a sport, but as an annual, masculine assertion of universal brotherhood and of faith in essential democracy.

Sucker fishing is usually conducted in dirty water and unsanitary surroundings. Suckers aren't much good after you've caught them. To be edible a sucker must be wrapped in a corn meal batter and fried so long with salt pork that he becomes a crisp fritter which you'd never suspect of having any sucker inside it when you eat it.

All sorts of men and boys go sucker fishing together, including bankers, bums, ministers, professional drunkards, pee-aitch-dees, petty thieves, and captains of industry. East of the Lackawanna tracks there may be discernable certain distinctions among a group like these, but on the Inlet bank they are all brothers and the only possible way in which the captain of industry and the minister can establish any margin of superiority over the drunkard and the thief is to catch more suckers and to excel them in courtesy and good nature.

Sucker fishing needs its Isaak Walton.—R. B. '04 in "State and Tioga," Ithaca Journal.

'16 REUNION PLANS

Carlton P. Collins, reunion chairman for the Class of '16, sends us advance information about the twenty-year reunion of the Class, to be held in Ithaca June 12-14. His address is 303 Main Street, Stamford, Conn. Collins writes:

"The Class of 1916, under the efficient leadership of Weyland Pfeiffer, is whipping its plans into final form for its twentieth year reunion. Enthusiastic reports are coming in from all quarters, and the event gives promise of being not only a landmark for this sturdy class but also for the annals of reunion history at the University. Rumors are about that South Baker will not be large enough to accommodate the crowd and that additional facilities will have to be arranged.

"The Class costume will be a Navy blue blazer with patch pockets, pinch back, silver buttons, and '16 in white felt on the breast pocket. Perhaps too much dignity, but the '16ers believe they can carry it through! They request that all other reuniting classes accept as final the costumer's guarantee as to the fastness of the color, and hereby give warning to all and sundry to lay off the water.

"Two interesting events have been added recently to the Class reunion program. First, a race is to be staged between that glamorous triumvirate of the cinders, Hoffmire, Potter, and Irish. To quote Bub: 'Our own Jack Moakley will be the starter.' Great delight is anticipated and much wagering. Second, a one-set match of 1-6 tennis will be played. The 1 stands for Bay Hunter, who will cover a doubles court all by himself (poor feller), and the 6 stands for any six, sick, '16ers on the other side of the net. The rules committee has ordered that no substitutions can be made on the 1 side but that substitutions may be made after each point on the six side if so desired. Booty Hunkin will be the announcer and scorer.

"The Reunion Committee believes that these two events alone are worth the fifteen dollar registration fee. The Committee urges that costume measurements be sent in promptly to assure delivery by June 12."

TRAVELERS REPORT

Professors Meet Boys

This year's visits by members of the Faculty to twelve cities during the spring recess to meet with alumni and prospective students in secondary schools are reported as eminently successful. All three "traveling professors" agree that in this third season of the work of the Faculty committee on relations with secondary schools, greater interest was shown and more definite help was given, both by alumni and school principals in most of the cities visited, than ever before.

Professor Charles L. Durham '99 was the first to start. In Cleveland, Ohio, the Cornell Club had arranged a Saturday afternoon meeting March 28 at the University Club, which was attended by more than fifty boys from the schools of Cleveland and nearby towns. Charles C. Colman '12, the retiring president, and George F. Burrows '00, the newly-elected president of the Club, presided, and a ten-piece orchestra from one of the Cleveland schools entertained with several selections. Campus movies were shown and Professor Durham described undergraduate life at Cornell and answered questions from the boys.

In Milwaukee, Wisc., approximately seventy-five alumni and prospective Freshmen, many with their parents, were entertained at a Sunday afternoon reception March 29 at the home of Robert E. Friend '09. The next day Professor Durham held personal conferences with several of these, and that evening spoke at the annual banquet of the Cornell Club of Milwaukee. Here new officers were elected: president, Bruno V. Bitker '21; vice-president, Carl F. John '22; secretary, Clifford B. Stevens '34; treasurer, Henry M. Stillman '31.

The next two days Professor Durham visited several schools in St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn., and spoke at an assembly at St. Thomas School, to which he was accompanied by James C. Otis '01, chairman of the St. Paul committee, and Paul C. Murphy '18, a former student at the school. Approximately twenty-five alumni attended a Cornell Club dinner March 31, at which Campus movies were shown and Professor Durham and several alumni spoke, among them Everett W. Olmstead '91.

Forty attended the regular Thursday luncheon of the Cornell Club of Chicago April 2, at which Professor Durham was the guest of honor. The rest of his two-day stay was spent in visiting schools in the city and suburbs, arrangements having been made by Harry W. Helmer '10 as chairman of the committee in the absence of Alfred H. Hutchinson '09, who was ill.

The first stop of Professor Riverda H. Jordon was in Detroit, Mich., where on March 29 the Cornell Club had arranged a reception at the University Club for boys from local high schools and academies and their parents. Approximately twenty-five boys were told about Cornell by some of the fifteen alumni present and by the guest speaker, and twenty indicated that they were interested in coming to Cornell. From this group the Club will select its boys to bring to Cornell Day May 16. The next day Professor Jordan visited the Grosse Point High School as the guest of the principal. Blinn S. Page '13 was chairman of the Detroit committee.

Harold M. Alexander '33, president of the Cornell Club of Toledo, with two undergraduates home for the holiday, Franklin S. Macomber '37 and John F. Delaplane '36, accompanied the "traveling professor," March 31, on visits to two schools, where they talked with interested students. That evening at the University Club in Toledo, approximately thirty-five alumni and prospective Freshmen gathered for dinner and "the most successful Cornell meeting ever." Walter J. Sherman '77 presided.

At the Arsenal Technical High School in Indianapolis, Ind. April 1, Professor Jordan addressed an assembly of seniors arranged by the director of guidance; and at Shortridge School he met a smaller group. After luncheon with the head master of Park School at the home of John F. Modrall '34 and Donald D. Modrall '39, he spoke at a dinner of the Cornell Club of Indianapolis, held at the Columbia Club, with several invited schoolboy guests among the thirty present. Henry I. Johnstone '26, chairman of the local committee, presided at the dinner.

In Cincinnati, Ohio, Professor Jordan visited the Walnut Hills High School, accompanied by Russell N. Withenbury '34, chairman of the Club committee; and was taken to Withrow High School by Fred J. Wrampelmeier '29. Luncheon at the University Club was attended by approximately twenty alumni. The next day, his visit to Pittsburgh having been cancelled because of the flood, Professor Jordan spent with Herbert Snyder '16, head master of the Cincinnati Country Day School, and was entertained at dinner by Vernon Woodward '27 and Mrs. Woodward (Hilma C. Hohrath) '27.

Professor Bristow Adams held his first meeting, with alumni, undergraduates, prospective Freshmen, and some teachers, at the University Club in Wilmington, Del., April 1. Movies were shown and he spoke about Cornell. Edward Mendinhall '16 was chairman of arrangements.

The next day he spoke at the regular Thursday luncheon of the Cornell Club of Washington at the University Club in that city. That afternoon, accompanied by John S. Gorrell '05, Professor Adams spoke at an assembly at the High School in Chevy Chase, Md. and to the senior class of the Devitt School in Washington.

In Baltimore, Md. April 3, after dinner with a dozen alumni at the Baltimore Country Club, Professor Adams spoke on "Going to College" at a reception and buffet supper for prospective Freshmen and their parents arranged by the Cornell Club of Maryland at the Hotel Altamont. Movies were shown, and many questions were asked by the boys in personal interviews, he reports. Frederic M. Wood '19, president of the Cornell Club of Maryland, handled the arrangements.

MUSICAL CLUBS ENTERTAIN

Alumni and their families, with many guests, turned out in force in the three cities where the Musical Clubs presented their road show, "Oh, What A Night!" during the spring recess, and thoroughly enjoyed the performances, according to the manager, Jacob S. Fassett III '36. It was announced this week that the show will be repeated during class reunions in Ithaca, June 12-14. Given in Bailey Hall last Junior Week, it was widely acclaimed by all who saw it.

At Wayne, Pa., March 30, seven hundred persons, the largest crowd in six years, packed the auditorium of the Radnor High School auditorium and the school added more than a hundred dollars to its scholarship fund. Otto V. Kruse '09, whose son, William C. Kruse '38, was a member of the cast, was in charge of arrangements.

In Baltimore the next day, the bus carrying the Glee Club broke down in the middle of the downtown traffic ten minutes before the performance was scheduled to open in the Maryland Casualty Auditorium. The boys turned to, pushed the thirteen-ton behemoth up a hill into a side street, and commandeered taxis to arrive just as the curtain went up for their entrance on the stage. Eight hundred saw the show and many stayed for the dance afterward, both arranged by a committee of the Cornell Club of Maryland headed by Theodore W. Hacker '16. That afternoon a much-enjoyed special performance was given for the patients at Baltimore's Hospital for Crippled Children.

For the next evening's show and dance, at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, D. C., Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was one of the patronesses. The audience of a thousand persons in the grand ballroom of the hotel thoroughly enjoyed the show, Fassett reports, and not less the impromptu entertainment provided by two alumni present. Edward Holmes '05, president of the Cornell Club of Washington, was invited to the stage to sing the Alumni Song. He invited Sao-Ke Alfred Sze '01 from the audience to perform in his place, but the Chinese Ambassador quickly rose in his box and replied that much as he should like to do so, his contract with the Metropolitan Opera Company would prevent him from singing. Shortly after, one of the waiters in the cast stepped down from the stage to present Sze with a mug of the property refreshments of which the actors were partaking.

Eric Dudley, director of the Glee Club, who had previously played the genial host of the tavern in which the show is staged, was prevented by illness from making the trip, but will be on hand for the Reunion Week show in Ithaca. His place was taken by Andrew C. Hartnett '38, recruited from the Dramatic Club. George L. Coleman '95, director of the Instrumental Club, made the trip, however, and Fassett and his assistant manager, David L. Ten Broeck '37, accompanied the thirty five members of the Glee Club and the thirty instrumentalists, herded them safely into their two busses, and saw to the safe transportation of the properties. These included a folding bar and its appurtenances, to say nothing of the beer dispensed therefrom, instruments, and the Bavarian reunion costumes borrowed from the Class of '23 to clothe the orchestra.

NAVY DAY IN MARYLAND

The annual Cornell-Navy Day of the Cornell Club of Maryland is announced for Saturday, May 2. Naval Academy sub-chasers have been assigned to carry Cornellians to see the Varsity and Junior Varsity Cornell-Navy races, leaving the Academy grounds at 2 p.m. Accommodations are limited and tickets are being sold by the committee at fifty cents each.

After the races the Club will hold a "rendezvous" of dining and dancing at Rugby Hall on the Severn, which is operated by W. Snowden Wright '12. Rugby Hall is on the Annapolis Boulevard at Revell Station, twenty miles from Baltimore and seven from Annapolis. William A. Marshall III '29, 117 South Street, Baltimore, is secretary-treasurer of the Club.

ALL-NEW JERSEY PARTY

Seven Cornell Clubs of New Jersey, cooperating in a program for Cornell day, entertained seventy-five selected seniors from high schools and preparatory schools of the State at the Canoe Brook Country Club, Summit, April 10. This was the local culmination of a two-year program in which the participating Clubs had last year entertained the most promising juniors from the schools of their respective localities and from those guests had selected the boys to be invited as seniors to this year's all-New Jersey party. Each Club had its quota of invitations, and from this State group will be selected the boys to be brought to Ithaca for Cornell Day May 16 by the New Jersey Cornellians.

The guests were seated in small groups consisting of an alumnus or two and several boys. Andrew J. Whinery '10, the toastmaster, described Cornell, and then, giving point to his remarks, the room was darkened for sound movies of the Campus. Ray S. Ashbery '25, alumni field representative, spoke on "A Four-Year Investment," and Professor John G. Jenkins '23, Psychology, told "What to Expect of a University" with special reference to Cornell. Charles A. Norris '24 entertained with his famous mono-

THEY ENTERTAINED ALUMNI, AND WILL AGAIN

Four members of the cast of the Musical Clubs show, "Oh, What A Night!" which went on tour during the spring recess and will entertain alumni who come back for Class Reunions, June 12-14. logue, "Trip to Ithaca," and William W. Sproul '28 gave his tap-dancing interpretation of the Ithaca street car, with Donald F. Hackstaff '33 at the piano. The program closed with a moving picture review of Cornell sports and the announcement that Dr. Eugene F. Bradford, director of admissions, would answer questions of boys interested.

Chairman of the committee for the party was J. Paul Leinroth '12; it included representatives of the Cornell Clubs of Newark, Lackawanna, Union County, Plainfield, Raritan Valley, Trenton, and Westfield. Clarence J. Pope '10, president of the Cornell Club of Newark, made the local arrangements.

A similar Cornell Day party for New York City, Westchester County, nearby Connecticut, and Long Island, will be held at the Cornell Club of New York May 2, with William M. Vanneman '31 chairman of the committee. Boys will be invited both to an afternoon reception at the Club and to an evening's entertainment. Professor Riverda H. Jordan, chairman of the Faculty committee on relations with secondary schools, will be there, as will Dr. Bradford and Ashbery, and they will bring with them from Ithaca several undergraduate entertainers.

JUDGE HISCOCK EIGHTY

The Cornell Club of Syracuse gave a surprise banquet April 15 at the Onondaga Country Club in honor of Judge Frank H. Hiscock '75, chairman of the Board of Trustees, to celebrate his eightieth birthday, which occurred the next day.

Principal speaker was Carl G. Snively, head coach of football, who outlined his plans for restoring Cornell's prestige in the football world. Accompanying Coach Snively from Ithaca were Harrison S. Wilson '36, captain of the 1936 football team, captain-elect John M. Batten '37, and Louis C. Boochever '12, Director of Public Information.

A huge birthday cake was presented to Judge Hiscock by the toastmaster, Jerome D. Barnum '12, publisher of the Syracuse Post Standard. Joseph B. Campbell '11, president of the Club, was in charge of the festivities, and after opening the meeting turned it over to the toastmaster.

The next day, at his home in Syracuse, Judge Hiscock received from his fellow members of the Board of Trustees a large silver bowl containing eighty red and white roses. The bowl is a replica of a Paul Revere masterpiece in the Boston Museum, and is suitably engraved. Judge Hiscock has been continuously a member of the Board of Trustees since 1901, and served a five-year term as Alumni Trustee from 1889 to 1894. He has been chairman of the Board since 1917. Ten years ago he retired as chief judge of the State Court of Appeals.

About ATHLETICS

GODSHALL TO JOIN STAFF

Henry S. Godshall, Jr. '36 of Lansdowne, Pa. was appointed last week by James Lynah '05 to the administrative staff of the Department of Physical Education and Athletics, beginning September 1, 1936. In addition to various other duties to be later assigned, he will oversee the work of the undergraduate managers of all sports, have charge of the athletic stockroom and supplies, be the custodian of all athletic field equipment, and have charge of all home arrangements. His appointment is in line with Lynah's expressed policy of enlisting the active assistance and support of undergraduates and recent graduates in athletics.

Godshall holds the cage and Drill Hall records in the broad jump and is one of the dependable sprinters on the track team, making the trip to London in 1934 with the Cornell-Princeton track team. He is president of Spiked Shoe, honor track society, and of the Student Council.

CORNELL 6, HARVARD 8

The baseball team lost its first home game, to Harvard, 6-8, on Monday afternoon, after rain had caused cancellation of the one scheduled with Colgate at Hamilton April 15 and the two games with Columbia slated for Hoy Field last Saturday. This was the second League game, the first having been lost to Pennsylvania, 9-17. On April 22 a game was scheduled with Syracuse at Ithaca, and two League games with Princeton at Ithaca April 25.

Monday's game was won for Harvard by Colwell's ninth-inning home run after the Varsity had made five runs in the seventh and eighth to tie the score at 6-all. In the seventh inning, Jack Lozier, southpaw twirler who had replaced Lindheimer in the fifth, smashed a home run over the right field fence to bring in Schaerer and Florence. Lindheimer walked six in five innings and had trouble fielding Harvard's bunts. The lineups:

Tatum Freshman Coach

James M. Tatum, who came to Ithaca with Carl Snively from North Carolina as assistant football coach, has been appointed also as coach of the Freshman baseball team. He will be assisted by

AT SYRACUSE TO CELEBRATE THE BIRTHDAY OF JUDGE FRANK H. HISCOCK '75
Speakers at the party of the Cornell Club of Syracuse April 15 to celebrate the eightieth birthday of the chairman of the University's Board of Trustees. Head football coach Carl G. Snively, Judge Hiscock, and John M. Batten '37, football captain.

Robert S. Grant '34, who won the "C" in both baseball and football and is now registered in the Law School. Sixty-five Freshman candidates have registered for baseball. Tatum graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1935, played varsity football, and was catcher and outfielder on the baseball team.

TENNIS TEAM WINS

Two hundred spectators saw six members of the Varsity tennis team battle among themselves Saturday afternoon in the Drill Hall, in the final of the season's first meet. The score was Cornell 18, Syracuse 3, Colgate 1.

Mrs. James Lynah (Elizabeth E. Beckwith) '03 awarded a cup to Captain Bernard Marcus '36 of Mount Vernon as the winner of the singles matches over William J. Simpson '37 of Larchmont; and to Bernard Diamond '37 of Brooklyn and Lloyd A. Doughty '36 of Bayside, who were forced to go four sets before taking the doubles titles from two Varsity newcomers, Herbert Sobel '38 of New York City and J. Garrett Peavy '37 of Dobbs Ferry. All these men had won straight sets over their Syracuse and Colgate opponents in the morning's preliminaries and semi-finals.

The team next meets Penn State at State College April 25; then Columbia at New York May 2; St. John's at Ithaca May 6; Georgetown at Ithaca May 9; McGill at Ithaca May 16; and closes its season against Army at West Point May 23.

On April 23 the Department of Physical Education sponsors an evening exhibition match in the Drill Hall by four of the country's best professional tennis players: George Lott, Berkeley Bell, Ellsworth Vines, and Lester Stoefen.

GOLFERS SPLIT EVEN

The Varsity golf team, with only two of last year's veterans and but a week's opportunity for outdoor practice, defeated Haverford College, 8-1, over the Merion Cricket Club course April 17, and lost to Pennsylvania at the Philmont Country Club the next day, 3-6.

Charles S. Willcox '38 of Birmingham, Ala. won twice and helped Captain Jacques C. Saphier '36 of Brooklyn win the best ball match against Haverford. William B. Smith '38 of Jeannette, Pa. also won two matches. Robert T. Cameron '38 of Southampton was medalist in the Haverford match with 78, and Smith was medalist at Philadelphia with 80. Other members of the team were R. Douglas Rogers, Jr. '38 of Westfield, N. J.; William G. Roundey '37 of Utica, against Haverford; and James R. Jamison '38 of Greensburg, Pa., against Pennsylvania. Kenneth Wilson '36 of Knowlton, Canada, is the manager.

The team will play this year five opponents in the newly-formed Eastern Intercollegiate Golf Association: Pennsylvania, Princeton, and Georgetown in Washington, D. C., May 1 and 2; and Penn State and Pittsburgh in Ithaca May 8 and 9. On April 25 they play a non-League match with Penn State at State College; May 11, Colgate at Ithaca; May 16, McGill at Ithaca; and May 20 Syracuse at Syracuse.

AWARD MCGINN CUP

The McGinn Cup for track novices has been awarded for this year to William C. Chandler '39 of Brooklyn, member of last fall's Freshman cross country team, who gathered the most points in the four special races, varying from two to four miles. Trophies provided by the Cross Country Club went also to Richard A. Geis, Jr. '39 of Garden City, whose father, '08, was also a track man, for second place; and to Frederick H. Bullen '38 of Pueblo, Colo. for third.

The donor's purpose, of attracting undergraduates to track who might otherwise be lost to the team, was especially fulfilled this year in Howard W. Welch '38 of Trumansburg, who did not compete until the fourth race of the series; won that, and is now training under Coach Moakley as a candidate for the four-mile relay team to run April 24 and 25 at the Pennsylvania Relay Games at Philadelphia.

Donald McGinn '26, the donor of the cup, is a former Varsity cross country and mile runner who had had no previous experience until he came under Moakley's eye. He now teaches English and coaches track at Rutgers Preparatory School, and visited Coach Moakley during the spring recess.

A similar trophy for novices, on which the name of the winner is engraved each year, was given by Daniel F. Potter, Jr. '16, winner of the 1914 cross-country intercollegiate, captain of the 1915 cross country team, and Varsity two-miler. Races for the Potter cup, which are run in the spring, have already started.

Spring Track Schedule

The track team has been steadily at work for more than a month in preparation for the spring season, first on the board track on Schoellkopf Field and latterly on the practice track on upper Alumni Field. Following the Pennsylvania Relays, the team meets Princeton at Princeton May 2; Harvard, Columbia, Yale, Princeton, Pennsylvania, and Dartmouth in the second of the heptagonal meets, to be held in Boston, Mass. May 9; Pennsylvania at Ithaca May 16; and goes to Philadelphia for the outdoor Intercollegiate May 29 and 30. The first three men in each event there will qualify for the Olympic trials, to be held in June.

The Freshman team will take part in a triple meet with Colgate and Syracuse at Ithaca May 2, and meets Penn State at State College May 16.

WOMEN FENCERS SECOND

Cornell took second place in the women's intercollegiate fencing tournament, held at Hunter College in New York City, April 18. They lost by one touch both the individual and team championships, Captain Nellie M. Gordon '36 of Lawyersville being tied with Mildred Stewart of Hunter at 4-all until Miss Stewart made her fifth touch to win the individual championship and the title for her team. Coach Cointe's proteges defeated Brooklyn College, 6-3; New York University, 5-4; and William and Mary, 6-3; and lost only to Hunter, 4-5.

Carol E. Young '38 of Ithaca, daughter of the late E. Lawrence Young '13, defeated Stella Fox of Brooklyn, former intercollegiate champion. The other members of the team were Mary C. Pound, daughter of Alexander W. Pound '10 of Lockport, and grand-daughter of the late Judge Cuthbert W. Pound '87; and Marjorie L. Shenk '38 of Buffalo.

In an earlier match in Ithaca with New York University, the women had been defeated, 6-3.

MAIL YOUR QUESTIONNAIRE

All subscribers to the ALUMNI NEWS have recently received a booklet, The Graduate's Guide for 1936, and a questionnaire asking for information about probable purchases this year. These are mailed at a considerable cost in the expectation that the questionnaires filled out and returned will enable our advertising representatives, The Graduate Group, Inc., to obtain a considerable volume of new advertising for us.

Only by increasing the paper's income shall we be able to increase the number of pages and include several new features we have in mind to make the ALUMNI NEWS increasingly interesting. Thus by devoting the necessary few minutes now to filling out and mailing your folder (postage is prepaid), you will directly help to improve your own paper.

Equally important, of course, is always to let advertisers know, when you buy their products, that you saw their ads in THE CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS.

BRIEF NEWS OF CAMPUS AND TOWN

BLAZING controversy has stirred the Campus and the columns of the Sun for weeks over the question of this year's Junior blazers. Recriminations and defenses have followed each other in rapid succession, first as to whether the official garments should be white flannel or grey Shetland, then as to whether or not the pockets should be piped with red. After two polls of the Class, the committee has announced the official choice as grey flannel with a Cornell seal and red piping. Dissenters have announced, meanwhile, that an unofficial coat of grey gabardine, with yoke back and red piping, could be procured from an Eddy Street merchant.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS the week-end of April 10-12 were Leonard K. Elmhirst '21 and Mrs. Elmhirst, the donor of Willard Straight Hall. They stayed at Willard Straight, attended the Dramatic Club performance Friday evening, and on Saturday conferred with Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, who had made a special trip from Washington, and with Dean Carl E. Ladd '12, Professor George F. Warren '03, and others, concerning the fourth International Conference of Agricultural Economists, of which Elmhirst is president, to be held in Scotland next September.

KAPPA SIGMA defeated the Independents to win the intramural basketball championship; Chi Psi won the interfraternity bowling league championship by outclassing Sigma Phi Epsilon; and the Freshmen women won the WAA swimming meet in the new pool. Agriculture won the intercollegiate wrestling championship, with Arts, Law, Chemistry, and Administrative Engineering all tied for second place. Interfraternity wrestling teams are now competing, the winners to score points toward the '97 Intramurals Trophy.

CLASS GATHERINGS out of the way, undergraduates have settled down to work. Remarks made by Alan J. Gould '21, sports editor of the Associated Press, at the Sophomore smoker April 10, which made it appear that he favors subsidization of athletes, stirred a temporary Campus furor. The next evening George R. Pfann '24, speaking at the Freshman banquet, commended James Lynah '05 for the "new era" in Cornell sports he has brought; and the Junior smoker April 16 was dedicated to Lynah, with Carl G. Snavelly, the new football coach, as the featured speaker. Romeyn Berry '04 presided at the Sophomore smoker, and introduced Lynah and Gould. Professor Charles L. Durham '99 was toastmaster at the Freshman banquet and Dr. George M. Surton, PhD '32, Ornithology, related experiences living with the Eskimos. At the Junior smoker in Bailey Hall, William H. Forbes '06 introduced Lynah; Professor Herman Diederichs '97, who presented "C's" to 234 letter men in sixteen sports; and Snavelly, whose request for active undergraduate interest in and support of the football team met with rousing cheers.

VISITING JURISTS who heard the final moot case of first-year Law students awarded the decision to Donald G. Briggs '36 of Interlaken and Edward H. Weeks '36 of Richmond Hill, attorneys for the respondent in a case involving the construction of a barn with unpaid-for lumber on mortgaged land. President Farrand, Provost Albert R. Mann '04, Supreme Court Justice Riley H. Heath '12, and Cortland County Judge William H. Coon '22 were among the guests at the dinner April 11 at which the decision was announced.

CURRENT CONFERENCES on the Campus have included the gathering April 18 of members of faculties of New York State colleges and universities for a conference of the State Council of the Student Christian Movement, with John R. Mott '88 as guest speaker; members of the Southern Tier, Rochester, and Syracuse chapters of the American Society for Metals for an afternoon meeting and dinner April 20; and the annual State Institute for Parent-Teacher Leaders, in Martha Van Rensselaer Hall, April 20-24.

SPRING RECESS was not entirely a surcease from study for some Faculty members and students. Sixteen Foresters, under the guidance of Professor Arthur B. Recknagel, spent the vacation in the Cornell camp at Witherbee, S. C. Twelve students interested in social problems were conducted by Professor Julian L. Woodward '22, Economics, and Sarah Neblett of CURW on a tour of New York City social agencies, tenements, and corrective agencies. About twenty-five Seniors and graduate students in Chemistry and Chemical Engineering were taken by Professor Fred H. Rhodes, PhD '14, and Dr. Charles C. Winding on a tour of inspection of several large refineries and other chemical and instrument plants in and near Philadelphia, Pa. and Wilmington, Del. Three Plant Pathology graduate students spent the holiday with Professor Herbert H. Whetzel collecting fungi near State College, Pa. and Morgantown, W. Va. Professor Whetzel addressed the University of West Virginia chapter of Sigma Xi April 3 on "Teaching for Training in Research." The Ornithology sound recording truck, meanwhile, left for Florida piloted by five students of the Department in search of first-hand knowledge of Southern birds.

DEBATERS CONTINUE to debate! The women's team met successively in Ithaca those of Keuka College March 25, William and Mary March 27, and Syracuse April 20. Meanwhile, Philip Goodheim '36 of Gloversville and Willis D. Curtiss '38 of Sodus have been selected from the Men's Debate Club to represent Cornell against Washington University in St. Louis, Mo. April 23, and against the University of Missouri at Columbia April 24, on the subject, "Resolved, that the President should be re-elected."

SEVEN UNDERGRADUATES are delegates to the New York Student Convention in Buffalo, where questions of state will be reported on and argued April 24 and 25.

ALUMNI COME BACK increasingly to talk to students from their experience in business, industry, and the professions. Recent Campus lecturers have been Carl S. Coler '11, manager of office employment and training for Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, who spoke April 10 at an open meeting of the AIEE on "Fifty Years of Alternating Current"; Milton C. Smith '32, manager of the Hotel Sherman Square in New York City, who spoke on "Planning Your Future" the same day to Hotel Administration students, and Mrs. Smith (Margaret Wilkinson) '32, who accompanied him and spoke on the allied subject (although also to the men) of being a hotelman's wife; William L. Kleitz '15, vice-president of the Guaranty Trust Company and a former Sun editor, who described banking as a career, April 11, under the auspices of the University Placement Bureau; Ellen A. Dunham '32, director of the consumers' service kitchen of General Foods Corporation, to Home Economics students April 16 on "Opportunities in Foods Research"; Elmer A. Sperry, AM '15, of the Sperry Gyroscope Company, lecturing April 21 under the auspices of the Flying Club; Max C. Maxwell '00, assistant to the president of Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company, on "The History and Romance of Locks and Their Manufacture," before the ASME April 22; and William M. Leffingwell '18, Schuylar County FERA Administrator: "I Like the New Deal," at an open meeting of the Democratic Club April 23.

FIRST REAL ESTATE development of major importance to be undertaken in Ithaca since 1929 got underway April 7 when the Mayor broke ground for the first of eight projected residences in the Eastwood development, on what was the former Hanford farm near East State and Cornell Streets. Chester H. Hewitt '26 and Richard E. Metzger '28, Ithaca architects, have designed the new houses.

NECROLOGY

'74—JOHN CAMPBELL BURRUSS, February 6, 1936, at Atlanta, Ga. He entered the Optional Course in 1870 and remained one year.

'75 PhB—SAMUEL WARNER CARPENTER, March 11, 1936, in Mancos, Colo., where he was a lawyer. He had lived in Colorado for more than thirty years; attended his class reunion in 1930. He entered the Course in Philosophy and Letters in 1871. Sprague Boat Club.

AN APARTMENT dwelling to house at least sixty families is projected for upper Dryden Road above College Avenue by Norbert H. Schickel '09, who is registered in the Graduate School.

Concerning THE FACULTY

ROBERT H. TREMAN '78, who has been a Trustee of the University since 1896, the longest service of any present member on the Board, celebrated his seventy-eighth birthday March 31 in Ithaca. Injuries received in a fall on the ice several months ago had confined him to his room for some time, but he is now fully recovered and is at his office in the Tompkins County Trust Company almost daily.

CHEMISTRY DEPARTMENT, and especially the work of Professors Emile M. Chamot '91 and Clyde W. Mason, PhD '24, were given public recognition when Professor A. A. Benedetti-Pilcher of New York University, chairman of the newly-formed microchemistry section of the American Chemical Society, announced that "chemical microscopy was developed into a science of visual observation at Cornell" by these two. This week, following his attendance at its convention in Kansas City, Mo., the Society is sponsoring a lecture tour in which Professor Mason speaks on "Chemical Microscopy" at the University of Nebraska, Creighton University, Iowa State College, University of Iowa, and Notre Dame University.

DIRECTOR S. C. HOLLISTER, Civil Engineering, and Mrs. Hollister have a daughter, born in Ithaca April 16.

PROFESSOR PAUL J. WEAVER, Music, and Mrs. Weaver, who is managing editor of Music Clubs Magazine, attended the Music Educators' National Conference in New York City the week of March 30.

PROFESSOR RALPH H. WHEELER '09, Assistant Treasurer of the University, and Mrs. Wheeler spent last week on a motor trip to Charleston, S. C.

PROFESSORS KARL M. DALLENBACH, PhD '13, and Harry P. Weld attended the annual meeting of experimental psychologists at Clark University, Worcester, Mass., the week of April 6.

FIVE SPEAKERS took part in a symposium on "Photosynthesis in Plants" at a public meeting of the Cornell Chapter of Sigma Xi, April 10. They were Professors Lewis Knudson, PhD '11, Botany; Arthur J. Heinicke, PhD '16, Pomology; John R. Johnson, Chemistry; R. Clifton Gibbs '06, Physics; and Wilder D. Bancroft, Physical Chemistry. At an informal supper and smoker last month, eighty members of Sigma Xi and their guests heard four younger members of the Society describe their research in progress. Introduced by the president of the Chapter, Provost Albert R. Mann '04, the speakers were Dorsey W. Bruner, PhD '33, Veterinary Bacteriology; Willie J. Frierson, Grad, Chemistry; Gabriel A. Lebedeff, MS '31, Plant Breeding; and Donald F. Weekes, Grad, Physics.

MRS. PAULINE W. WELLS, Home Economics, was married March 31 in Bel Air, Md., to Ransom B. Fuller, an alumnus of Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute and a writer of short stories. They live at 520 Thurston Avenue, Ithaca.

GILMOUR DOBIE suffered a broken collar bone when three Boston College backfield candidates crashed into him during spring football practice in Boston April 13. It was said that the injury would not keep him off the field more than a few days.

PROFESSOR JAMES E. BOYLE, Rural Economy, has been seriously ill of pneumonia at Ithaca Memorial Hospital.

PROFESSOR CLARENCE G. BRADT '21, Animal Husbandry Extension, and Mrs. Bradt have a son, born March 28 in Ithaca.

KEYS TO WOODY PLANTS, by Professor Walter C. Muenscher, PhD '21, Botany, was published in its fourth edition, revised, on April 1.

PAINTINGS by three members of the Architecture Faculty, Professors Olaf Brauner, Walter King Stone, and Kenneth L. Washburn '26, are being exhibited during April at the Arnot Art Gallery in Elmira.

PROFESSOR WILLIAM C. DEVANE, head of the English Department, discussed "Modern Poetry" at a luncheon April 14 which brought to an end this year's current events class on the Campus. On April 19 his lecture on "The Browning-Barrett Romance" was the last one of the popular Sunday evening series arranged by the Willard Straight Hall board of managers.

PROFESSOR VLADIMIR KARAPETOFF, Electrical Engineering, addressed the chapel assembly at Elmira College April 17 on "A Biological Attitude Toward Human Affairs." He will speak at the Cornell Club of Philadelphia May 29. Early in April he presided at a meeting in New York City of the subcommittee on monographs, a division of the committee on electrical insulation of the National Research Council.

JAMES S. KNAPP '31, Agriculture Publications, sailed April 9 for a cruise to the West Indies.

NEW YORK TIMES Garden Section, March 15, contained an article on the home vegetable garden by Professor Paul Work, MSA '13, Vegetable Crops, and one on the planting and care of hedges by Donald Wyman, PhD '35, formerly instructor in Ornamental Horticulture and now horticulturist in charge of the Arnold Arboretum in Boston, Mass.

Concerning THE ALUMNI

'92 CE—Colonel William G. Atwood is president of the American Relief Administration Association, whose membership is composed of men who served in relief work under Herbert C. Hoover during and after the World War. Atwood succeeds Hoover, who retired as president of the Association March 14.

'93 ME(EE); '93 ME(EE), '94 MME—Arthur W. Berresford was chairman of the committee of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers for the celebration, March 20, simultaneously in forty-eight cities, of the fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of the alternating current system in America. "Electrical engineers agree," he announced, "that modern power systems and the universal use of electricity date from the successful demonstration of the first alternating-current system at Great Barrington, Mass., on March 20, 1886. From that demonstration sprang the world's present methods of generating, distributing, and applying electric power." At the celebration dinner of the New York section of the Institute, Bancroft Gherardi '93, vice-president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, was a speaker.

'93 ME(EE)—George deB. Greene is secretary of a preferred stockholders' protective committee of the Pressed Steel Car Company. His address is 44 Wall Street, New York City.

'95 LLB—Dr. Ernest E. Cole is deputy State Commissioner of Education in Albany.

'95 PhB—The investment banking firm of Estabrook & Co., 40 Wall Street, New York City, in which Roger H. Williams is a partner, celebrated its eighty-fifth anniversary April 1.

'96—Walter S. Goll, who has been with the General Electric Company since 1897, beginning in the drafting department of the Schenectady works, has retired as manager of the Fort Wayne works, which position he has held since 1922. Although retiring as manager, he will continue with the company and will be available for special assignments.

'98 ME(EE)—Jeremiah D. Maguire, president of the Federation Bank and Trust Company of New York City, has been elected a director of the Thirty-fourth Street Midtown Association.

'98 BS—Andrew J. Mac Elroy is president of the Acorn Publishing Company, Inc., Rockville Centre, publishers of school and college text books. His address is 23 Vassar Place, Rockville Centre.
