FORM VARSITY "C" CLUB Hutchinson '09 President

Nearly two hundred "C" men, alumni and undergraduates, attended what developed into the first annual meeting of the then-organized Cornell Varsity "C" Club, in Willard Straight Memorial Room Saturday night. They adopted by-laws which state the aims and objects of the new club as: "To foster the high principles and the good name of Cornell University by promoting a spirit of true sportmanship in all branches of athletics, by developing a close and sympathetic understanding between alumni and undergraduates, and by strengthening the friendly relations between Cornell and other colleges." Under the by-laws, "any Cornell man (alumnus or undergraduate) who has been awarded the Cornell 'C' in major or minor sports; or who, prior to the initiation of 'C' awards, played on any Cornell team now classed as a Varsity team; and any manager or former manager of such teams . . ." is eligible to membership. Dues are fixed at one dollar a year; "entire charge and control of this Club and of its affairs funds, and property" are vested in a Council, composed of the officers and "of a representative for each major sport at Cornell, and one representative for minor sports," these representatives and officers to be elected at the annual meeting "in Ithaca during October or November" for terms of two years.

Enthusiastic tribute was paid to John F. Moakley, now serving his thirty-eighth year at Cornell, as Alfred H. Hutchinson '09 read some of the many letters received from track men Moakley has coached. Hutchinson announced that so many letters had come that it was impossible to read them all, but that these and others which track men and other alumni wished to write and send him would be bound in a book and presented to Mr. Moakley as a permanent tribute.

Dean Herman Diederichs '97, for many years president of the Athletic Association and now chairman of the Faculty-Trustee athletics policy board, explained the University's regional alumni scholarships and the regulations concerning them. President Farrand pointed out the necessity of observing the rules governing these scholarships; and James Lynah '05 described his work and plans as Director of Physical Education and Athletics and touched also upon the scholarships.

After partaking of refreshments, members of the new Varsity "C" Club elected Hutchinson its first president; Edmund W. Butler '13, vice-president; William M. Vanneman '31, secretary; and Randolph W. Weed '09, treasurer. Members of the Council elected are Bartholomew J. Viviano '33, representing football; Creed W. Fulton '09, baseball; Edward T. Foote '06, rowing; Tell Berna '12, track; Carl F. Wedell '24, basketball; and Thomas I. S. Boak '14, other sports.

MODERN ART FILMS

The University Theatre has announced in its second season of Museum of Modern Art Films "Cavalcade," to be shown in the Willard Straight Theatre November 21, and "All Quiet on the Western Front," December 15. The year's program will also feature five German and French pictures, selected in Europe by members of the Museum of Modern Art Film Library, some of which have had but limited showing in the United States. Among these are "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari," "The Last Laugh," with Emil Jannings, "The Golem," and "The Crazy Ray," Rene Clair's first film.

WILLARD STRAIGHT BUSY

This year's "alumni home-coming" made the busiest week end yet for Willard Straight Hall, according to the management. Thousands of visitors and members of the Campus community were comfortably provided for without a hitch, as more than 2500 persons were served in the Hall's various dining rooms, 300 or more Cornellians and Dartmouth alumni and their friends attended a reception and tea arranged by the board of managers Saturday afternoon following the game, and a capacity crowd enjoyed the Dartmouth Hop Friday evening.

Besides the freshman football squad of the University of Pennsylvania and William H. McCarter, Dartmouth's graduate manager of athletics, the register of Willard Straight over the week end showed the names of the following Cornellians: Frank O. Affeld, Jr. '97 and Dr. Henry S. Dunning '05 and Mrs. Dunning of New York City; Bishop G. Ashton Oldham '01 and Mrs. Oldham, C. Reeve Vanneman '03, and Randall J. LeBeouf, Jr. '20 of Albany; James A. Webb '09 and Mrs. Webb, and John C. Barker '12 and Mrs. Barker of Cleveland, Ohio; Creed W. Fulton '09 of Washington, D. C.; Winton G. Rossiter '11 and Mrs. Rossiter of Bronxville; Edgar V. Beebe '13 of New Paltz; Thomas I. S. Boak '14 of New Haven, Conn.; Herbert R. Johnston '17 and Mrs. Johnston of Buffalo; Claude F. Tears '17 and Mrs. Tears (Gwendolyn Jones) '18 of Mountain Lakes, N. J.; Daniel W. Hogan, Jr. '25 and Mrs. Hogan of Oklahoma City, Okla.; and Henry T. Reynolds '26 and Mrs. Reynolds of Port Allegany, Pa.

ALUMNI TO SPEAK At Farrand Dinner

Representative Cornellians in varied walks of life and from many places will speak briefly at the farewell dinner to President Farrand at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City December 3. Wallace B. Quail '19, chairman of the New York Cornell Club's committee for the affair, has announced that Judge Frank H. Hiscock '75, chairman of the University Board of Trustees, will preside as toastmaster. Besides selections by the Glee Club, music by a popular New York orchestra, and other entertainment to be announced later, there will be special features engineered by William H. Forbes '06, of Cleveland, Ohio, whose supervision of entertainment at the dinner to James Lynah '05 last January was widely commended.

Climax of the evening, of course, will be an address by President Farrand. Of his administration of the University, from which he retires next June 30, Frank E. Gannett '98, University Trustee, said recently:

"Dr. Farrand's work has been eminently successful and satisfactory not only to the Board but to the alumni and students. I might add that Cornell's affairs are in better condition today than ever before. There will be universal regret when his services terminate. . . . Members of the Board several months ago tried to persuade Dr. Farrand to continue in the position another year, but he steadfastly refused to do so, saying that he thought it was for the best interests of the University that it should immediately get his successor in office; and, second, that he thought for his own health and happiness, it would be better for him to retire."

The committee looks for alumni attendance at this tribute to the President to exceed previous records for reunion affairs. Cornell men planning to attend the dinner, both individually and as members of Class, College, or fraternity groups, are asked to communicate with the Cornell Club of New York to assure seating accommodations.

KARAPETOFF IN BOSTON

More than forty alumni of the Boston area met for luncheon at the Hotel Bellevue in Boston, Mass., November 5, when Professor Vladimir Karapetoff, Electrical Engineering, spoke on "Finding Ourselves in this Rapidly Changing World." The meeting, sponsored by the Cornell Club of New England, was arranged by Roger J. Coe '25, chairman, Loyal C. Gibbs '26, and William G. Mollenberg '24.

ALUMNI CONVENTION SPEAKERS

President Farrand to Talk at Banquet

Cornell men and women from many parts of the country will come together in Baltimore Friday and Saturday next week for the fourteenth convention of the Cornell Alumni Corporation. Gustav J. Requardt '09, general chairman, reports that many of the old grads will be checking in at the Hotel Belvedere, convention headquarters, on Thanksgiving evening, coming down from the Pennsylvania game in Philadelphia. All Cornell alumni and their families and friends are welcome; last minute arrivals can be cared for but they should communicate, if possible, with Requardt in advance. Requardt's address is Biddle and Charles Streets, Baltimore, Md.

This Cornell convention idea has been developing since 1921. The first meetings were held in May of that year, at Cleveland. The next spring Chicago entertained the alumni, and then the date was changed to the fall. In those early years the conventions were annual, and until 1930 were held in successive years at Pittsburgh, Buffalo, New York, Detroit, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Washington, and Rochester. In 1930 the biennial plan was adopted, and in that year, as in 1932 and 1934, the alumni met in Ithaca. The place of the 1938 meeting has not yet been selected.

President Farrand has participated in every convention except the first, and he missed that one only because he had not yet been named as Cornell's president. He will be the special feature of the meetings in Baltimore next week; alumni will pay him tribute at this last appearance in his official role. Dr. Farrand will have a part in the proceedings Friday morning and that night will be the principal speaker at the convention banquet.

The program will start at 7:30 Thursday evening, with the reception committee welcoming early arrivals at the Belvedere Hotel. The next two days will be filled with activity:

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 27

- 8:30 to 9:30 A.M. Registration.
- 9:30 to 12:30 P.M. First business session.
- 1 P.M. Luncheon.
- 2:30 to 6 P.M. Trip to Annapolis by bus.
- 7 to 8 P.M. Informal gathering and reception.
- 8 P.M. Banquet.
- 11 P.M. Dancing.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28

- 9 to 12:30 A.M. Second business session.
- 1:30 to 4:30 P.M. Busses to and return for stag oyster roast at the Turnverein: "Chesapeake Bay oysters in all styes, with trimmings."
- 1:30 P.M. Party for the women at the Baltimore Country Club.
- 5:30 to closing. Informal parties, nothing specifically arranged.

C. Reeve Vanneman '03, president of the Cornell Alumni Corporation, will preside at the two morning business sessions. On the program Friday morning will be President Farrand, James Lynah '05, Director of Physical Education and Athletics, and John M. Batten '37, who will present the undergraduate point of view. Batten is a triple threat man: president of both the Student Council and Willard Straight Hall, and captain of the football team.

Other business that first morning will include the election of directors of the Corporation for the next two years, and consideration of the report of the outgoing board of directors. One item of special interest will be the whole secondary school program of the University, in which the Corporation has been playing an active part. William J. Thorne '11, as chairman of the Corporation committee on relations with secondary schools, will lead that discussion.

At the closing business session on Saturday morning several of the agencies which particularly concern alumni will be discussed, with their executive officers making the presentations. Speakers will be Mrs. Robert C. Osborn (Agda Swenson) '20, president of the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs; Archie M. Palmer '18, secretary of The Cornellian Council; Howard A. Stevenson '19, managing editor of the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS; and Herbert H. Williams '25, director of the University Placement Bureau.

Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president of Johns Hopkins University, and Reeve Vanneman will speak, with President Farrand, at the banquet Friday evening. Toastmaster will be Foster M. Coffin '12, Alumni Representative of the University, introduced by F. Meredith (Jim) Wood '19, president of the Cornell Club of Maryland.

IRVING H. RODWELL '23 MISSING

Costs to convention guests will be kept down by the issuance of booklets of tickets. The combination, at $7.50, will admit to the Friday luncheon, the trip to Annapolis, the banquet, and on Saturday to either the oyster roast or the women's party. An extra banquet ticket for a lady is $2.50; single banquet tickets are $3. At the Hotel Belvedere the rates are $4 for single rooms, $6 and $7 for rooms with twin beds. Reservations may be made directly with the hotel.

ASKS GRADUATE LOAN FUND

A new $15,000 rotary loan fund for graduate students is the aim of a campaign launched last week by the Graduate School. Dean Floyd K. Richtmyer '04 points out that the loan funds now at the disposal of the University are available only for undergraduates.

The appeal, issued through The Cornellian Council, will ask more than 8,000 former students of the Graduate School to contribute in three annual installments. The fund will be administered as other Cornell loan funds, the repayments of loans being added to the principal and used again as needed.

CORNELLIAN MISSING

Irving H. Rodwell '23 has been missing since November 7, when he left his home in Rochester in his car, for Geneva. Mrs. Rodwell believes he may be suffering from amnesia.

Rodwell is thirty-four years old, five feet eleven inches tall, and weighs 165 pounds. His most distinguishing feature is his ready smile, disclosing even white teeth. He was dressed in a light gray suit, white shirt, red tie, black shoes, light gray felt hat and dark overcoat. His car is a light gray 1936 Dodge sedan, marked by a trunk on the rear and spare wheel mounted in the right hand fender, bearing New York license 6J-8843. Arthur B. Curran '16, president of the Cornell Club of Rochester, requests any one who may recognize a person answering the above description to communicate at once with the nearest police department and with him by telephone, Main 882.

Entering the College of Agriculture in 1919 from Albion, Rodwell received the BS degree in 1924. Known as "Chuck," he was a member of Kappa Delta Rho, Alpha Zeta, and Phi Kappa Phi, and of the Varsity track team and cross country squad. He was president of the Agricultural Association, president of the Agricultural Economics Club, and a member of the Cornell Countryman board.

He took graduate work in Agricultural Economics and was an assistant in marketing in 1924-5, the next year going to Rochester with the New York Life Insurance Company. President of the Rochester Life Underwriters Association, he is a member of the board of managers of the Cornell Club of Rochester. Since its inception in Rochester he has been in charge of placement for the Cornell Club of Rochester, in which capacity he has been of service to many alumni.

He lives at 44 Colebourne Road, Irondequoit, with his wife and three children. His brother, Ward A. Rodwell '19, teaches agriculture at Chautauqua.

MID-HUDSON WOMEN ELECT

The Mid-Hudson Cornell Women's Club held an evening business meeting November 9 at the home of Mrs. Henry C. Strahan (Martha Wool) '24. Mrs. Strahan was re-elected president and Mrs. Carlton L. Nelson (Irene Aldrich) '27 succeeds Mrs. Nye Hungerford (Eunice Jourdan) '34 as corresponding secretary.

SCHOOLS COMMITTEE HERE

Fourteen of the seventeen members of the Cornell Alumni Corporation's committee on secondary schools were represented at a meeting in Alumni House Saturday morning to discuss and lay out the year's work.

A prospective handbook for the guidance of members of local secondary school committees, Cornell clubs, and other interested alumni was outlined; plans for this year's Cornell Day, to be held in May, were talked over; and Dean Herman Diederichs '97 and President Farrand discussed the alumni regional scholarships with the group.

Chairman William J. Thorne '11 presided. The others present, besides Dean Diederichs, were Robert C. Hosmer '02, Prentice Cushing '05, John S. Gorrell '05, Alfred H. Hutchinson '09, Howard T. Critchlow '10, Clarence J. Pope '10, George H. Rockwell '13 representing Francis I. Nicolls '13, Blinn S. Page '13, G. Gilson Terriberry '15, Herbert R. Johnston '17, Roger F. Hall '23, and Ray S. Ashbery '25, Alumni Field Secretary.

TWO ALUMNI TRUSTEES NOMINATED

Petitions Name Mary H. Donlon '20 and William L. Ransom '05

Nominations were filed with the University Treasurer last Friday for Mary H. Donlon '20 and William L. Ransom '05 as candidates for Alumni Trustees for the five-year term beginning next June. The two Alumni Trustees whose terms expire in 1937 are Archie C. Burnett '90 and Dr. Mary M. Crawford '04.

Mary H. Donlon '20

Miss Donlon is a member of the New York City law firm of Burke and Burke, 72 Wall Street, and last June completed a two-year term as president of the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs.

She entered the Law School in 1916 from Utica Free Academy, and received the LLB degree in 1920. As an undergraduate she was president of the Women's Self-Government Association and was elected editor-in-chief of The Cornell Law Quarterly, the only woman ever to have held that position, after having been for three years a member of its board. She was also elected by the members of her Law School Class to receive a Fraser Senior Scholarship. She was a member of Mortar Board, Raven and Serpent, the Dramatic Club, and Alpha Omicron Pi.

During her presidency of the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs, of which she was also vice-president from 1930 to '34, the Federation inaugurated, among other innovations, the annual Cornell Day for women, at which girls from secondary schools are entertained on the Campus; local work with secondary schools through the Cornell Women's Clubs; the annual conference on fields of work for women, when alumnae who have achieved distinction in their professions are brought to the Campus to speak and confer with undergraduate women; and the establishment by the Trustees of five Senior Alumnae Scholarships of $200 each, awarded to Senior women on a scholarship and honor basis, this year for the first time.

For two years she was a director of the Cornell Alumni Corporation and has served as a director of The Cornellian Council and member of the Law School's Pound Memorial committee and the Law placement committee, active in placing Law alumni in Metropolitan law offices. She is a member and former director of the Cornell Women's Club of New York.

Miss Donlon passed the New York Bar examination immediately after graduation, and has been continuously associated with the firm of Burke and Burke. She is a member of the American Bar Association, New York State Bar Association, and New York County Lawyers Association. She is the only woman member of her firm, which includes John H. Schmid '18 and William E. Vogel '19. She is a member of the board of governors and the public affairs committee of the American Women's Association, and of the New York City Academy of Political Science, the American Academy of Political and Social Science, Town Hall Club of New York, and several other clubs and associations. Her sisters are Mrs. Daniel J. Crowley (Katherine Donlon) '12 and Mrs. James C. Huntington (Joanna Donlon) '18.

Mrs. Robert C. Osborn (Agda Swenson) '20, president of the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs, has announced that not only is Miss Donlon the unanimous choice of the Cornell women's clubs for Alumni Trustee, but that many alumni, both men and women, throughout the country, have also indicated their support.

William L. Ransom '05

William L. Ransom concluded this year a term as president of the American Bar Association, being the first Cornellian ever to achieve that honor. During his term he advocated actively within the Association the better organization of the Bar, improvements in the administration of justice, and the Junior Bar Conference.

He entered the Law School from Jamestown in 1901 and received the LLB degree in 1905. He was active in debating, won the Congress Debate Medal and the '94 Memorial Prize and was Senior Class orator, and served on the boards of the Era and the ALUMNI NEWS. For three years as an alumnus he was president of the Cornell Law Association.

Admitted to the Bar at Rochester in July, 1905, he practiced for two years in Jamestown, then entered the general practice of law in New York City, where he is now a member of the firm of Whitman, Ransom, Coulson, and Goetz, at 33 Pine Street. Former Governor of New York Charles S. Whitman is a partner, as is Robert E. Coulson '07.

In 1913, at the age of thirty, Ransom was elected Justice of the New York City Court on the Fusion, Republican, and Independent Democratic tickets for a ten-year term, but resigned from the bench after three-and-a-quarter years. He was Fusion and Republican candidate for District Attorney of New York County in 1917, and later became chief counsel to the New York Public Service Commission. He resumed the practice of law in 1919, and has appeared extensively in Federal and State courts in many parts of the country, representing besides individuals many large industrial, commercial, and public utility companies, municipalities, and public boards and commissions.

Active since 1920 in the American Bar Association, he was for three years a member of its executive committee, served as chairman of the section on public utility law, and came to be known as a leader among the younger, progressive elements of the Association. For many years he was a member of the committees on legal education and admissions to the Bar and on uniform state laws of the New York State Bar Association; is an honorary member of the Canadian Bar Association and member of the Association of the Bar in the City of New York, the New York County Lawyers Association, Westchester County Bar Association, the Judicature Society, the American Society of International Law; was a charter member of the American Law Institute; and is a trustee and former president of the New York Academy of Political Science. He lives in Pelham and is a member of clubs there and in Manhattan, Washington, D. C., Canada, and Florida, and of The Pilgrims in the United States, the American Economic Association, the National Municipal League, and the Council of Foreign Relations. He is married, and has four children.

Two of the ten Alumni Trustee members of the Board are elected each year for five-year terms. Nominations close at midnight, April 1, and ballots are mailed by the Treasurer's office shortly thereafter to all degree holders of record.

VIRGINIANS MEET

Largely through the efforts of G. Eric Sachers '17, five Cornellians met Saturday afternoon, November 7, in Roanoke, Va. at the home of H. Norton Stone '24, to talk over Campus experiences and present-day Cornell. Besides Stone and Sachers, those present were James M. Thomas, Jr. '94, Mrs. Merriam G. Lewis (Gertrude M. Button) '16 and Stanley W. Abbott '29.

ALUMNI DIRECTORS MEET

The board of directors of the Cornell Alumni Corporation held its fall meeting in Ithaca November 13. In attendance were C. Reeve Vanneman '03 of Albany, president of the Corporation; William J. Thorne '11 of Syracuse, F. O. Affeld, Jr. '97 of New York City, George H. Rockwell '13 of Cambridge, Mass., Creed W. Fulton '09 of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Albert H. Emery (Julia McClune) '04 of Glenbrook, Conn., Joseph B. Campbell '11 of Syracuse; Foster M. Coffin '12, secretary of the Corporation; and Ray S. Ashbery '25, Alumni Field Secretary.

The business of the meeting included discussion of the alumni convention to be held in Baltimore next week; the secondary school program in which the Corporation has taken a leading part during the last few years, sponsoring the general program and particularly the Cornell Days, for men and for women, held in Ithaca in May; discussion of the Alumni Institute, which was inaugurated by the University two years ago, following the recommendation of the Corporation; the organization meeting of the Varsity "C" Club, of which the idea was initiated by the Corporation more than a year ago; and a proposal to change the organization of the board of directors of the Corporation.

BURDICK RESIGNS AS DEAN

The resignation of Professor Charles K. Burdick, for ten years Dean of the Law School, to take effect January 1, 1937, was announced November 9 by President Livingston Farrand. For some time Professor Burdick has wished to be relieved of executive duties, so that he might devote his time to research, writing, and teaching his courses in constitutional and international law. He plans to take a sabbatic leave during the second term.

For two years, since its organization, Dean Burdick has been the chairman of the Law Revision Commission of New York State, charged with the duty of revising both the Penal Code and Civil Practices Act. Recently he served as a special counsel to Governor Lehman in the case against District Attorney Geoghan of Brooklyn.

Joining the Faculty in 1914, Professor Burdick was Acting Dean of the Law School for two years, and was appointed Dean in 1926. Born in Utica, he received the AB degree at Princeton in 1904 and the LLB degree at Columbia four years later. After two years' association with the New York City law firm of Wilmer, Canfield, & Stone, he taught law at Tulane University until 1912, and at the University of Michigan for two years before coming to Cornell. He has also taught in the summer sessions at Columbia, Chicago, Stanford, and Oxford, England. He is the author of several well known law texts and case books.

AT GAS CONVENTION

Five Cornellians took part in the annual convention and exposition of the American Gas Association in Atlantic City, N. J., October 26 to 28.

Davis M. DeBard '08 of Stone & Webster Engineering Corporation, New York City, called air-conditioning "a highly important field for gas sales. It offers year-round possibilities, so that a number of manufacturers now are perfecting gas air-cooling equipment." Elmer F. E. Schmidt '12 of the Lone Star Gas Company, Texas, announced that natural gas now is being piped from the Texas Panhandle 1,400 miles to Detroit.

J. Scott Fowler '03 of Philadelphia, Pa., was vice-president of the appliance division of the manufacturers section; Edson J. Tucker '08 of Toronto, Can., was vice-chairman of the accounting section; and Robert W. Hendee '17 of Colorado Springs, Col., vice-president of the natural gas section.

LAW ASSOCIATION MEETS

More than a hundred alumni of the Law School attended the annual meeting of the Cornell Law Association in Myron Taylor Hall November 14. Judge Randall J. LeBeouf '92 presided, and introduced Archie M. Palmer '18, executive secretary of The Cornellian Council, who reported on the Pound Memorial Fund, and Professor Robert S. Stevens, substituting for Dean Charles K. Burdick, who was ill.

Professor Stevens told of present conditions in the Law School, and Palmer said that 315 contributors had so far given $10,047.50 to the Pound Memorial, with more than $1500 additional pledged. He announced that the campaign for the Fund would close December 31, 1936, and that it is the hope of the committee that after the purchase of a portrait of Judge Cuthbert W. Pound '87 it would turn over to the University Trustees at least $10,000 as endowment for the Pound Memorial Scholarship in the Law School. William F. Bleakley '04, former president of the Association and lately Republican candidate for Governor of New York, was called upon for remarks from the floor.

Members of the executive committee re-elected for three-year terms were Frank H. Hiscock '75, Edwin J. Marshall '94 and Neal Dow Becker '05. At a later meeting the executive committee re-elected Judge LeBeouf president of the Association for the ensuing year and Professor John W. MacDonald '25 secretary-treasurer. The following were also re-elected vice-presidents: Edwin H. Woodruff '82, Ithaca; James P. Harrold '93, Chicago, Ill.; Edward Harris '00, Rochester; Paul Overton '00, Los Angeles, Calif.; Christopher W. Wilson '00, Brooklyn; James B. Kinne '02, Seattle, Wash.; Alfred Huger '03, Charleston, S. C.; William L. Ransom '05, New York City; Oley D. Roats '06, Springfield, Mass.; Frank B. Ingersoll '16, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Thomas B. Rudd '21, Utica; and William D. P. Carey '23, Hutchinson, Kans.

Following the meeting, members of the Association had luncheon at Willard Straight, and Saturday evening the forty or more members from Westchester County in town with Judge Bleakley held their customary dinner, at the Clinton House.

ACCORDING to the man who tends the seismograph in McGraw Hall, there was quite an earthquake around here on Friday morning just before breakfast time. Nobody else noticed it, however.

About ATHLETICS

CORNELL 6, DARTMOUTH 20

For the greater part of Saturday afternoon Cornell appeared the not-improbable winner of the football game with Dartmouth. Taking command with the opening kick-off which Baker, on a formation play long practiced, ran back 60 yards and deep into enemy territory, Cornell dominated the play for the greater part of the game; scored first, staved off the superior running attack of Dartmouth, and repeatedly avoided victory only by a handsbreadth. In the end however, but not until the final period, overwhelming speed and power on the Dartmouth side demanded its own—and got it.

An expert passing attack, an alert kicking game, and a dogged defense on the part of Cornell kept the game hanging in the balance well into the final period, until the original Cornell eleven could no longer carry the load. Then the necessity of substitutions clearly demonstrated the essentiality of reserve strength in modern football and Cornell's fatal lack in this respect. As Baker, Sheffer, Hooper, and the rest were led staggering from the field, out to the last ounce, the Dartmouth running attack for the first time developed the ability to gain consecutively. The last few minutes saw two Green touchdowns scored swiftly against the Cornell reserves and a near rout checked only by the final whistle.

With Baker's opening run of 60 yards to the Dartmouth 25-yard line, and from the aggressive, rapid attack which followed, the 15,000 spectators in the Crescent and a surprised Dartmouth team knew there was to be a ball game. Shortly after, Holland leaped to catch a quick fourth-down pass from Baker to advance the ball to the 6-yard line, and Baker and Sheffer plunged through to the four. Two incompletes into the end zone gave Dartmouth the ball on their own twenty. A moment later Peck recovered a Dartmouth fumble on the Dartmouth 42, skirted left end for an 8-yard gain, and on the next play was in the clear near the goal line to receive a pass, but dropped it, forcing a kick, which was quickly returned by Dartmouth. The play was quickly driven back to Dartmouth's north side of the field, to return to the Cornell side of the 50-yard stripe only once more in the quarter, when McLeod nearly got away along the east side but was stopped on the Cornell 22. Then a fumble gave the ball to Cornell and it was kicked out of danger.

The last play of the quarter, a pass, was intercepted by Sheffer on the Dartmouth 45, and Baker's passes to Peck and Spang took the ball to Dartmouth's Ahead of the runner and still on their feet are Moulton (64) and Sheffer (66) from the backfield, with Hemingway (84), Hughes (89), and Spang (55) coming in, and Holland (86), the giant Negro end, still further ahead to prevent future trouble.

18 and paved the way for a beautifully executed double lateral, Sheffer to McKeever to Holland, which put the big Negro end behind the goal line standing up, to score. Rose's kick, with Baker holding, was blocked. Then for most of the game after Dartmouth's first touchdown, made following a brilliant passing attack with five minutes of the half to go, it appeared that that one missed point might be the margin of Dartmouth's victory. The Dartmouth kick for the conversion hit the left goal post and bounced inside.

Again on the kickoff Baker appeared to be away for a touchdown run, but slipped (it then raining) on his own 45, and on the next play but one Hollingsworth intercepted Baker's pass to end that threat. After Dartmouth's quick kick the Cornellians fought doggedly inside their own 30-yard line, but soon got going again with a series of passes that worked, and took the ball to Dartmouth's 25-yard line as the half ended and the cold rain settled in, to soak field, ball, and stands.

Throughout the third period Dartmouth seemed satisfied with kicking the wet ball to protect its one-point lead, as Cornell kept grimly boring in with reverse plays, runs, and then a well-executed fifteen-yard pass which Peck caught on Dartmouth's 30 and ran to the 12. After the next attempted pass failed, Rose came in to try for a field goal on the fourth down, but it went low. Undaunted, however, the Varsity quickly brought the ball back from Dartmouth's short kick to their 40, a pass to Holland after Sheffer had made a first down taking it again inside the enemy's 15. Baker advanced it to the 9, and of two attempted passes the second was juggled by Holland but dropped behind the goal line. This was on third down, and Rose had already taken off his headgear to attempt another field goal from the 10 when the officials called the ball back to the 20 and gave it to Dartmouth for two incompleting passes into the end zone.

An exchange of punts to open the fourth period put the ball in play on the Dartmouth 26, and a penalty for clipping gave it to Cornell on the 34, but a 15-yard penalty for holding against Cornell took it back to the 43 and after a pass attempt Baker kicked to the 12. Here began the rout of a tired Cornell team, as the Green marched through six successive first downs to a touchdown, made within three minutes of the end. Baker, exhausted, came out five minutes from the end, Sheffer suffered injury to his hand, and the Red line was ripped to bits, with Snavelly forced to throw in ten reserves in that last few moments. Dartmouth failed to convert, however.

Following the kickoff a fumble by Moulton at midfield gave Dartmouth its second start, which they quickly carried through to the second touchdown of this fateful quarter, this time converted. Intercepting Gildersleeve's pass near midfield in the last minute of play, Dartmouth started for the Cornell goal a third time, but a fumble fifteen yards out and the referee's whistle ended the fray. FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

A Freshman football season unblessed with victory, marred by an unusual number of injuries, and punctuated by previous defeats at the hands of Colgate, Syracuse, and Wyoming Seminary came to its conclusion Saturday morning when an undefeated team of Pennsylvania freshmen won on Schoellkopf Field, 54-0. Though the season is now officially ended, the more promising Freshmen whose studies are in good shape will practice with the Varsity for another week.

The coaches are not unduly cast down by the Freshman game record, and it is believed that some excellent material has been discovered and developed for subsequent inclusion in Varsity ranks. Some forty men can be handed on to Coach Snavelly for further development in spring practice.

On the basis of observations through the fall, the following appear to give particular promise for the future, always admitting that first-year appraisals are dangerous in view of the astonishing physical and mental changes that can take place in a boy between his Freshman and Sophomore years: Backs, Farrell, 185 pounds, Baker 185, Munley 178, Bialek 183, Brown 175, Moransky 174, Sleeth 175, and Hooker 170; Ends, Burke 186, Barr 190, Mogk 188, and Walker 170; Tackles, Lafey 240, Eichler 201, Schultz 210, and Worcester 190. guards, Obler 188, Beemer 180, McCutcheon 200, and Spaulding 195; Centers, Phillips 200 and Taylor 170.

Of the above, Mogk and Moransky hold regional alumni scholarships from the Cornell Club of New York; Farrell from Philadelphia, Eichler from Utica, Baker from Harrisburg, Burke and Bialek from Wilkes-Barre, Beemer and Munley from Scranton. Two other regional scholars in the Freshman Class are Jaicks, an end, from Chicago, and Guilfoyle, a guard, from New York.

LIGHTWEIGHTS BEATEN

The first season of lightweight football at the University ended Saturday just before the Varsity game, with the first defeat, by Hornell High School, 6-7, on lower Alumni Field. Coached by Nathaniel E. Kossack '34, Robert S. Grant '34, Carl W. Willsey '34, William H. Borger '36, and Gordon F. Stofer '36, the team had previously defeated high school teams from Geneva, Cortland, and Watkins. More than a hundred men have been out for practice regularly, and most of them have played in most games. Next year, it is hoped, Cornell may become a member of the Eastern Intercollegiate Lightweight Football League, now composed of Rutgers, Yale, Lafayette, Princeton, Pennsylvania, and Villanova. Yale is champion this year.

SOCCER TEAM LOSES

Scheduled unexpectedly to keep in trim for the Thanksgiving Day game with Haverford, the soccer team met Colgate at Hamilton Friday afternoon and suffered its fifth defeat, 3-1, in seven games played. Injuries have taken their toll this season, Dugan and Karl Hemmerich both playing Friday with slight handicaps.

Colgate scored early and maintained its drive through the first half, but in the second the Varsity tightened up, although able to make but one goal, by Dugan on a corner kick from Darling.

NOW THAT the carnage is over and the dead counted, Mrs. Louis C. Boochever, wife of the University Director of Public Information, appears to have been the only Democrat elected this year to public office in Tompkins County. Mrs. Boochever was nominated by the Democrats and duly elected as a member of the Ithaca Board of Education. She was vastly assisted by the fact that the Republicans also endorsed her.

ON THE CAMPUS AND DOWN THE HILL

By Romeyn Berry '04

BOTH VARSITY and Freshman ROTC bands took the field at Saturday's football game, and put on a noteworthy performance in music, marching, and spelling. Dartmouth didn't bring a band. We don't take a band to Hanover, either. It's too far, too difficult, and too expensive. Between the halves the combined Cornell bands spelled HELLO INDIANS. They spelled it correctly, too. Then they worked out a complicated figure wherein the red-coated Varsity band became a bow and shot a red arrow composed of wood-winds and drums into the blue-clad Freshman band who were massed as a target in the semblance of a capital D.

NOBODY is quite sure who thinks up things for the band to spell at football games. There are two distinct schools on the subject. Some say Captain George M. Williamson, Jr., the Army officer in charge of the band, does it, and that he gets the words to be spelled out of book supplied by the War Department. The other theory—the majority opinion, perhaps—is that Mrs. George Coleman, wife of the band's musical director, works out the formations with pins on a board.

THERE WERE lots of dances around the Hill over the weekend. And from the Sun: "Will person who took silk opera hat by mistake at fraternity dance Friday night call Mrs. Williamson (4413)." That goes for old grads, too. But if you took the hat home it will be all right if you just mail it to Mrs. Williamson. Perhaps it would be just as well if you didn't call her up.

THREE FRATERNITIES celebrated anniversaries over the weekend. Psi Upsilon had about sixty alumni back to commemorate the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the chapter; Delta Phi entertained approximately forty on almost the date of their housewarming party in Llenroc, the former home of Ezra Cornell, twenty-five years ago; and about an equal number, including eleven of the eighteen founders of the parent society, Caduceus, gathered at the Alpha Gamma Rho house for a twenty-fifth birthday dinner.

THOMAS J. FARRELL, outstanding football back (crippled since the Colgate game), was last week elected Freshman member of the Student Council. Farrell was the only one of the nineteen candidates for the position who neither attended nor made a speech at the undergraduate political rally reported last week. Walter H. Foertsch of Rochester, last year's Freshman stroke, and Austin H. Kiplinger of Washington, D. C., dynamic Class leader and Campus reporter of the Ithaca Journal, were the successful Sophomore candidates. At the rally referred to, Foertsch pledged himself to discover and represent a "true cross section of Class thought and ideals," and Kiplinger advocated the public scholastic rating of fraternities.

THE RIGHT REVEREND G. Ashton Oldham '01, Bishop of Albany, conducted the services at Sage Chapel last Sunday. This department has been going through the files and checking up on Bishop Oldham. The record shows that this good man is always moved to preach the Word in Ithaca on those week-ends when there is an outstanding football game on Schoellkopf Field. It may be mere coincidence, but the fact remains he hasn't missed in years and years.

OUTSTANDING FEATURE of last week's underclass elections was the smallness of the number who took the trouble to vote at all. Only 300 Freshman turned out (less than 25 percent of the Class) and the Sophomore vote was 514, a distinct minority expression.

THE MEDICAL SCHOOLS of Cornell and the University of Pennsylvania are ultimate, contingent beneficiaries of the $220,000 estate left by the late Dr. Samuel McClary, 3d, of Philadelphia. The bequest is subject to a life interest in the widow and contingent on her not bearing any children.

FRESHMAN STAG NIGHT was held at Willard Straight on Wednesday night. This was the seventh of these now-annual events given by the Board of Managers and designed to familiarize the Freshmen with one another and with the traditions of Willard Straight. Dean Kimball spoke and so did Professor Jenkins, Psychology. The Glee Club sang and there were refreshments—on the house.

SAGE CHAPEL PREACHER November 22 will be the Rev. Francis J. McConnell, Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, New York area.

LECTURES for the week include Dean Robert M. Ogden '00, Arts, Professor Edwin A. Burr, Philosophy, and Frederick H. Bullen '38 on "Academic Freedom," presented by the American Student Union November 16; Dr. Horace M. Kallen, "Democracy and Consumers' Cooperation," in the Campus Forum series, auspices of the Hillel Foundation, November 18; and "Registration of Engineers," by Dr. David B. Steinman, consulting engineer, before a joint meeting of the engineering societies November 20.

ARMISTICE DAY got not the slightest recognition on the Campus. Downtown a whistle blew on South Hill and then silence fell on the whole community as traffic halted in the streets and a uniformed bugler blew "Taps" from the steps of the High School. But on the Campus all went merrily, to the slogan of "business as usual." There was no pause at any time! On the following day the Sun called attention to the omission, but they hadn't thought about it beforehand. In the eleven o'clock lecture on American History one student whispered to another, "How much of a war do you have to have before Cornell finds out about it?"

CORINTHIAN YACHT CLUB crews defeated two from Dartmouth, 21½-19½, in four dinghy races sailed on Cayuga Lake Sunday afternoon between snow squalls. Commodore Richard H. Bertram '37 and Irwin W. Tyson '38 were the Cornell skippers.

AT A RECENT LUNCHEON the Advertising Club of Ithaca discussed "the student influence on local advertising." They decided it was good. The membership agreed that "quality goods have been emphasized as a result of University business."

THE CORNELL Student Lecture Bureau has been organized under the sponsorship of CURW (Barnes Hall). Any time you need a student speaker, that's the place to go. On Armistice Day they sent speakers to the Kings Ferry High School to discuss "Religion and Peace," and the next day another group went to the Whitney Point C.C.C. Camp to talk about "Science."

LOST—"in the vicinity of Baker Dorms on Monday night, a bracelet bearing the inscription Sigma Phi." This from the agony column of the Cornell Sun. Two possible explanations are implied, both equally disturbing to the University's administration. Either (1) a lady has been around the Baker dormitories; or else (2) the Sigma Phis now wear bracelets. The ALUMNI NEWS can't help you out a bit. We don't know either.

DONALD T. HOUP, Robert B. Trivett, and Roger H. Ayala, all Seniors in Architecture, have been awarded Sands Memorial Medals for architectural work of exceptional merit on the basis of designs executed last year. Commendation has also been given Adelaide E. Briggs '38, Robert S. Kitchen '36, Benjamin J. Rabe '35, and John C. Lawrence '37 for their collaborative design submitted in the competition of the American Academy in Rome. Kitchen, winner of the Grand Prix de Rome, is now studying in Italy.

COURT AND CONSTITUTION

The Supreme Court and the Constitution. By Professor Robert E. Cushman, Government. Washington, D. C. Public Affairs Committee. 1936. 48 pages. 10¢.

Is the Constitution adequate for today? Has the Supreme Court rightly interpreted it? Should we change the Constitution or limit the Supreme Court?

Discussing these questions, Professor Cushman says: "The basic nature of our constitutional system has not changed since 1789. But the nation which it governs has vastly changed." Exploring the decisions of the Supreme Court on the constitutionality of the New Deal, he finds that "In every case the Court had to read concrete meaning into words so vague and general as to be in themselves virtually without meaning, and with no guide but its own past decisions and present hunches." And concluding that "our present difficulties are due partly to an over-zealous extension of judicial power and partly to the failure of the 18th century constitution to meet adequately the demands of the 20th century," the author proposes that we attempt to solve both problems by clarifying Constitutional amendments.

CORPORATION LAW

Corporations. By Professor Robert S. Stevens, Law. St. Paul, Minn. West Publishing Company. 1936. xvi+946 pages. $5.

It has been said that legal fictions "are scaffolding; useful, almost necessary, in construction, but after the building is erected, serving only to obscure it." The author points to the orthodox definition of a corporation as an artificial personality in support of this characterization, and says the demolition of such "scaffolding," which tends to obscure the reality of the individuals who have incorporated, is the basic solution of all corporate problems.

In scholarly yet concise style, Professor Stevens presents an exposition and critical analysis of the modern law of corporations. He defines legal personality as "the embodiment of rights and obligations with which the law endows individuals," and posits the following realistic approach: "'Corporate personality' may be regarded as a type of dual legal personality. As such, it serves to separate the rights and obligations connected with one's individual and personal affairs, from his collective rights and obligations as a member of an incorporated group. Under this reasoning, a corporation need not be looked upon as a single person, artificial and non-physical, but may, with more reality, be regarded as the group of associates who, by incorporating, have acquired their corporate personalities."

The topics selected for treatment, with due regard to the present importance of each, are corporate personality; incorporated and unincorporated companies; purpose and effect of distinction between the corporate and individual legal personalities of shareholders; formation of corporations; effect of irregular incorporation; promoters; corporate authority; ultra vires; torts and crimes; subscriptions; shares and other securities; dividends; right of inspection and pre-emptive right; voting; transfer; directors and officers; shareholders' actions; shareholders' liability—payment for shares; rights and remedies of creditors and reorganization; dissolution of corporations; and foreign corporations.

Within the last seven years, several states, from California to Pennsylvania, have carefully revised their corporation statutes in accordance with modern principles, establishing "an enlightened balance between freedom and control of corporate management." Because the text includes citations to the more important sections of these revised acts, and because it contains liberal references to additional case material and legal periodical literature, it should prove invaluable both to practicing lawyers and to students.

PITTSBURGH WOMEN MEET

From the International Art Exhibit in Pittsburgh, Pa., November 7, the Cornell Women's Club of Pittsburgh adjourned to the home of Mrs. Peter H. Curry (Cecilia O'Neill) '98 for a business meeting and tea. The president of the Club, Mrs. Clyde H. Grossarth (Florence Van Vranken) '31 presided. Dr. Irene Davis Ferguson '21, chairman of the scholarship committee, reported that a $200 Club scholarship had been awarded to Beatrice M. Moore '37, on the basis of good scholarship, personality, and character. H. Lois Brown '35, secretary of the Club, was appointed ALUMNI NEWS representative.

MRS. SNYDER IN BUFFALO

The Cornell Women's Club of Buffalo held a buffet supper meeting at the General Electric Building on November 11, with Mrs. Olive Northup Snyder '22, Assistant Alumni Representative, as the guest speaker. About forty members were present. Members of the classes from '30 to '36 were in charge of the supper, with Dorothea Heintz '34 chairman.

Mrs. Snyder spoke particularly of Cornell Day for Women, of the annual Conference on Fields of Work for Women, and of the new Senior Alumnae Scholarships, sponsored by the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs.

Concerning THE FACULTY

ESTIMATING that between 60 and 80 percent of all persons have ear troubles caused by mechanical noise, Professor R. Foster Kennedy, Clinical Neurology, of the Medical College in New York, told the Academy of Medicine October 21 that noise is one of the major enemies of modern existence. He urged that industrial noise, as much a hazard in factories as toxic liquids, fumes, dust and gases, be eliminated or controlled. Pointing to the effect of noises on human conduct, he said: "Psychologically, they cause loss of temper and play a part in quarrels. In attempts to overcome the effects of noise, great strain is put on the nervous system, leading to neurasthenic and psychasthenic states. Long before the emotions are disturbed, certain changes take place, such as heightened pulse rate, increased blood pressure, and some irregularities in heart rhythm."

APPOINTMENT of Professor John W. MacDonald '25, Law, as New York State chairman of the American Bar Association's Junior Bar Conference has been announced by Paul F. Hannah, Conference secretary at Washington, D. C. Professor MacDonald is also executive secretary and director of research of the New York State Law Revision Commission.

"HABIT AND CHARACTER BUILDING" was discussed by Professor Paul J. Kruse, Rural Education, before the Women's Assembly of CURW November 5.

PROFESSOR MAX L. W. LAISTNER, History, recently addressed the Kentucky Classical Association, meeting at Berea College, on "Isocrates and Humanistic Education."

PROFESSOR PERCIVAL J. PARROTT, '06 Grad, Entomology, has left for Cape Town, South Africa, to study fruit growing and related problems concerning trade relations between this country and Africa. Professor Parrott is chief in research and vice-director of the Geneva Experiment Station.

FREDERICK O. WAAGE, instructor in Classical Archeology since 1935, addressed the Journal Club of the department of art and archeology at Princeton University November 10. Composed of faculty members and graduate students of the department, the Club meets to discuss current publications and their own researches in the field of the history of art. Waage read a paper on "Samian Ware in Latin Literature," in which he identified and described a type of pottery used during the Hellenistic age, with reference to the Latin authors and the products of excavations in the Near East.

This study is a continuation of Waage's research in ancient pottery, begun during his excavations at Corinth, Athens, and Antioch.

DR. A. R. STEPHENSON, father of Professor Hadley C. Stephenson '14, Veterinary, died in Ogdensburg recently.

PROFESSOR WILLIAM C. DeVANE, head of the English Department, will lecture on "Browning" at Western Reserve University during the early part of the next term. Dr. A. S. P. Woodhouse of the University of Toronto will speak here during the second semester on "Milton." The plan is an extension of an exchange effected last year between Toronto and Cornell by Professor DeVane, who looks forward to enrolling other universities in the project.

"PROBABLY the best show on Broadway is 'Hamlet' with John Geilgud," according to Julian B. Fossen, Grad, assistant director of the University Theatre. Speaking before undergraduate women at a tea November 11, Fossen recommended "On Your Toes," "Victoria Regina," "Red, Hot, and Blue," "Hamlet" with Leslie Howard, and "Tonight at 8:30." In his opinion this season is conspicuous for the number of dramatic failures.

"THERE IS MUCH TALK about inflation, but we still have a deflation price structure," Professor George F. Warren '03, Agricultural Economics, told delegates to the New York Farm Bureau Federation meeting in Syracuse November 11. "Prices paid to farmers for food have risen 135 percent since February, 1935, but are still low relative to retail prices, costs of distribution, cost of living, taxes, and debt. Prices of basic materials will have to rise by a considerable amount before the price structure is brought into balance; any further rise would then be inflation." Dr. Warren forecast an upward trend in prices and demand for farm products during the next few years.

STORY TO END stories about thrilling moments in football was told by George R. Pfann '24, Alumni Trustee, at the annual football luncheon of the Advertising Club of New York City October 30. The former Varsity quarterback said it happened while he was coaching at Swarthmore. The score was tied, with but four seconds to play in a game with Dickinson. A Dickinson player threw a long pass from the 50-yard line over Swarthmore's goal; the whistle blew while the ball was in the air. A Dickinson team-mate, knocked over behind the goal line, was lying on his back. Something hit him on the chest and instinctively his arms went up to protect himself. It was the ball. The touchdown gave Dickinson the victory.

Concerning THE ALUMNI

'86—William B. Vischer has a granddaughter who has enrolled in Miami University, and a grandson who is attending Cleveland Heights High School and expects to enter college soon. His home is at 210 South Main Street, Wellington, Ohio, where he is a piano dealer.

'91 CE—Clarence A. Snider is president of the Sulphur Export Corporation, with offices at 420 Lexington Avenue, New York City.

'94 LLB—Myron C. Taylor was chairman of the committee for a dinner given November 5 in New York City to honor Fulvio Suvich, newly appointed Ambassador of Italy to the United States, by the Italy America Society and the American Society of Royal Italian Order.

'97 CE—Benjamin E. Tilton, trustee of the New York State Railways, reported October 26 a net income of $26,284 in September for the Rochester City and Suburban Lines, compared with $11,861 for the same month last year.

'99 BS—Dissenting from the eleven other members of the National Advisory Council appointed by President Roosevelt to help shape the social security bill, Walter C. Teagle '99, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, in a joint statement with Gerard Swope, president of General Electric, pointed out November 1 that the act needs "important modifications."

'04 LLB—William F. Bleakley, Republican candidate for Governor of New York, led the national ticker in the State by approximately 400,000 votes. Unofficial returns showed that he carried forty-five of New York's fifty-seven upstate counties. After the election Bleakley announced that he would return to the practice of law in Yonkers.

'05 ME—A unique rowing event, a "head of the river race" copied after the annual regatta conducted on the Thames River in England, was held November 8 on the Harlem River under the sponsorship of the Nassau Boat Club. Andrew J. Haire, Jr. rowed in the Nassau eight.

'05 AB—The Oyster Institute of North America announced October 26 the establishment of a department of buyer relations headed by Lewis Radcliffe, director of the Institute. The new department will undertake, among other activities, the publication of a monthly bulletin addressed to oyster buyers.

'05 LLB—An editorial in The John Marshall Law Quarterly for September, 1936, published by the John Marshall Law School, Chicago, Ill., lauds William L. Ransom, president of the American Bar Association, "of whom everything might be said that Hamlet said of his mother's first husband;—a man of wonderful personality, reminding one at times of the Father of his Country and at others, in his bell-toned voice, of the late President Eliot of Harvard University; a man of presidential mold in any position or office, appointive or elective."

'06 ME—Edward H. Faile, designer of the twelve-story Goelet Building at Fifth Avenue and Forty-ninth Street, New York City, has also planned a four-story addition soon to be erected at 6 West Forty-ninth Street.

'07 ME—Nelson J. Darling, works manager of the General Electric Company in West Lynn, Mass., has a sixteen-year-old son, Nelson, Jr., and a daughter Phyllis, twelve. His address is 96 Beach Bluff Avenue, Beach Bluff, Mass.

'07 ME—William R. Wigley has opened an office in the First National Bank Building in Ithaca for J. & W. Seligman & Co., 54 Wall Street, New York City. He will cover central New York in developing the firm's investment advisory service for corporations, individuals, executors, and others with substantial investment portfolios.

'07 AB—At the invitation of Thomas B. K. Ringe, president of the organized classes of the University of Pennsylvania, R. W. Sailor '07, editor of the ALUMNI NEWS and of the American Alumni Council, will make the principal address at the annual dinner of the officers of Pennsylvania's organized classes, at the University Club in Philadelphia November 25. Sailor recently addressed a district convention of the American Alumni Council, in New London, Conn., on the purposes and co-ordination of alumni activities.

'07 ME—Henry J. Miller is vice-president and secretary of the Pittsburgh Steel Company, Pittsburgh, Pa.

'08 ME—William G. Mennen, Jr., son of William G. Mennen '08, was to marry Catherine A. Carlson of New York City November 9. Mennen, Jr. is a Princeton alumnus, and is in business in St. Louis, Mo.

'09 Sp—The Shell Union Oil Corporation announced October 27 the appointment of Leonard T. Kittinger as vice-president in charge of marketing on the Atlantic seaboard.

'10 ME—Frank R. Oates is managing director of Technicolor Limited, Bath Road, Harmondsworth, Middlesex, England. "Completed our first Technicolor British picture 'Wings of the Morning' this summer at Denham Studios. Building new color film laboratories which will start operation next month," he writes. His address is Claremont, Hill Waye, Gerrards Cross, Bucks, England.

'10 CE; '75 BME; '40—Son of Harold T. Critchlow and grandson of the late Professor George S. Moler '75, Raymond R. Critchlow is a Freshman in Hotel Administration. Critchlow '10 recently completed a special assignment as regional coordinator of the National Resources Committee on the drainage basin study for the United States, the report to be presented to the President in December. He is chief engineer of the New Jersey Water Policy Commission, with offices at 28 West State Street, Trenton, N. J. His home is at 577 Rutherford Avenue, Trenton.

'11 ME; '24 ME—John K. Rewalt is district manager for the Philadelphia Gear Works, with offices at 330 West Forty-second Street, New York City. Chester W. Ludlow '24 is a sales engineer in the same office.

'12; '40—Wright Bronson has a son, Wright Bronson, Jr., who is a Freshman in Mechanical Engineering and a member of the Freshman football team. His two daughters, Marjorie and Mildred, are thirteen and eleven years old, respectively. As branch manager at Akron, Ohio, of the Dill Manufacturing Co., Bronson's address is 501 People's Bank Building. The Dill Company, with factory located in Cleveland, Ohio, manufactures tire valves and accessories, and screw and stamping machine products.

'12 BS—The belief that private business, industry, and banking are inimicable to the general welfare of the people of the United States is one of the fallacies generally accepted by millions of people as the result of the proponents of economic panaceas, according to Edward L. Bernays, counsel on public relations. Writing in the November 4 issue of The Financial World, Bernays declares that in our system "free democracy and free enterprise are inseparable."

Stay at the Roosevelt. It is readily accessible to any part of Manhattan and in the very center of the mid-town business district. Roosevelt service is quiet yet swift and efficient. Folks tell us that our rooms make grand offices, and many of our local friends take one by the day, just to get away from their own telephone and finish up a pressing job.

YOU'D BETTER EAT Thanksgiving Day

Going to the Penn game means, in too many Cornell cases, going without Thanksgiving dinner.

But in a town like Philadelphia, celebrated for its cookery since shad first spawned in the Delaware, there is every reason for dedicating the day both to sport and to good living.

It is possible to lunch and dine delightfully in Philadelphia—and without missing a moment of the game—if one but takes a little forethought in the matter.

At all the places around the edges of this page Cornellians will see that you are served in the best Philadelphia tradition.—R.B.

Welcome Fellow - Cornellians

WHEN in Philadelphia for the game plan to stop at a hotel that is run by and for Cornellians.

Here at The Vendig you are assured of comfortable rooms at moderate rates—from $2.50 single, $4 double—a center of the city location, reasonable restaurant prices, and a pleasant, refined atmosphere.
