PRESIDENT DAY SPEAKS On Co-Education

Approximately 100 Cornell women attended the dinner given by the Cornell Women's Club of Ithaca in honor of President and Mrs. Edmund E. Day, October 20. Mrs. T. Roland Briggs (Frances O. Ingalls) '12, president of the Club, introduced President Day.

Referring briefly to the number of problems which he finds confronting him as he takes up his new office, President Day spoke particularly of co-education. "I am a little mystified about the attitude of some people in regard to co-education at Cornell," he said. He pointed out that according to the University charter co-education was a fundamental concept in the mind of the Founder, that since 1872 women have been on the Campus, that from all present indications women would continue to be on the Campus for a considerable time to come. Is it unreasonable, the President asked, that co-education at Cornell be accepted as a fairly well established fact? But he would go further. He would have it a success at Cornell

"I consider it one of the most interesting problems that I have before me: to make co-education on this Campus as successful as it can be made on any college campus." The President asked for suggestions and advice. "Dig into this question for yourselves," he urged, "bring it up for debate, then leave a memorandum about it on my desk. I want the low-down on Cornell women. I believe you can give it to me."

MESSENGER LECTURES

Messenger lectures for this year are being given by Dr. Edward J. Dent, Fellow of King's College and professor of music in Cambridge University. For four weeks, beginning October 25, he is giving a series of twelve lectures, Monday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoons, on "The Rise of the Romantic Opera." Starting with two introductory lectures, he will discuss successively the various composers of the period and their works, and conclude with "The Influence of the Romantic Opera on Subsequent Music." He will illustrate his lectures with selections from the operas discussed.

Professor Dent is an internationally known authority on music history and musicology, and founder and president of the International Society for Contemporary Music. He arrived in America in September and is lecturing at various universities in the United States and Canada. While in Ithaca he is a guest at the Telluride house.

The Messenger Lectures were endowed in 1923 with a bequest from Hiram J. Messenger '80, who died in 1913. His will provided for "a course or courses of lectures on the evolution of civilization, for the special purpose of raising the moral standards of our political, business, and social life," to be delivered by "the ablest non-resident lecturer or lecturers obtainable."

MODERN ART FILMS

Continuing the presentation of noteworthy motion pictures from the Museum of Modern Art Film Library, the University Theatre has announced a program of seven to be given in the Willard Straight Theatre during this academic year. First five are "The Birth of A Nation," given October 22 and 23; "Carnival in Flanders," November 9; "Anna Christie," December 13; "The Love Parade," January 29; and "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," February 14.

TRIBUTES TO DIEDERICHS '97

The Cornell Engineer for October is a memorial issue to Dean Herman Diederichs '97, who died August 31, 1937. Dexter S. Kimball, professor of engineering, emeritus, and his predecessor as Dean, contributes an intimate account of Diederichs's life, and tributes are printed from Dr. Farrand, Dean Robert M. Ogden '00, Arts and Sciences; Foster M. Coffin '12, Alumni Representative; Professor S. C. Hollister, acting Dean of Engineering; Professor John R. Bangs, Jr. '21, Administrative Engineering; C. Reeve Vanneman '03, president, Cornell Alumni Corporation; Dr. Abram T. Kerr '95, secretary of the Medical College in Ithaca; Director Paul M. Lincoln, Electrical Engineering; Director William N. Barnard '97, Mechanical Engineering; Cornell Society of Engineers; and Professor Emeritus Albert W. Smith '78, former Dean of the College.

FRESHMAN SCHOLARSHIPS Include Alumni Children

Winners of the twenty-three University Undergraduate Scholarships awarded each year to Freshmen as the result of September competitive examinations have been announced by President Day. Among them are three children of alumni.

The five Lefevre Scholarships, endowed by a bequest of George W. Lefevre '89, are for $400 a year so long as the holder remains in good standing in the University. The others are for two years, with annual value of $200. This year's winners:

Lefevre Scholars: Henry Atten, Arts, Brooklyn; Seymour S. Bluestone, Arts, Brooklyn; Anthony J. Marano, Engineering, Buffalo; Morris Rothenberg, Arts, Buffalo; Henry Tesluk, Arts, Buffalo.

Cornell Scholars: Burton August, Arts, Brooklyn; Frederick M. Ball, Chemistry, Plattsburgh.

Horace Greeley Scholars: Douglas T. Barlow, Arts, Lyon Mountain; Louis C. Boochever, Jr. (son of Louis C. Boochever '12), Arts, Ithaca.

John Stanton Gould Scholars: Elizabeth Bundy, Arts, Leroy; Frank A. Celentano, Arts, Rochester.

Henry B. Lord Scholars: Walter Eilers, Arts, Corning; Irving Gertzog, Chemistry, Rochester.

McGraw Scholars: Royal C. Gilkey (son of Royal Gilkey '08) Arts, Ithaca; Harold N. Greenberg, Arts, Long Island City.

Sage Scholars: Johannes P. Kulka, Arts, New York City; Dale J. Kuntz, Arts, Walton.

Sibley Scholars: Saul Mirel, Arts, Brooklyn; Harry B. Partridge, Arts, Ithaca.

President White Scholars: Edmund B. King, Engineering, Rochester; Daniel N. Kohn, Chemistry, Brooklyn.

Stewart L. Woodford Scholars: Vernon Shapiro, Arts, Staten Island; Margery Townsend (daughter of Theodore H. Townsend '17), Agriculture, Waterville.

CLEVELAND CLUB STARTS

Cornell Club of Cleveland started its season October 21 with sixty-five attending the first of the regular weekly luncheons, at the Mid-Day Club. It was in honor of the Club's honorary president, Richmond L. Rathbone '98.

William H. Forbes '06, the Club's official representative, described the inauguration of President Day. He also gave an eye-witness account of the Princeton football game. John C. Barker '12 described the Syracuse game; Elbert H. Baker, Jr. '12, the Colgate game.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT REORGANIZED

By Raymond F. Howes, '24

Recent appointment of William C. DeVane, head of the Department of English, to be Goldwin Smith Professor of English Literature, a chair vacant since the death of Martin W. Sampson in 1931, gives University approval to a reorganization of the Department that has been proceeding steadily and effectively since Professor DeVane came to Cornell from Yale three years ago. William M. Sale, Jr., who came in 1936 as an assistant professor, will serve as assistant to Professor DeVane. New members have joined the Faculty; the program of graduate and undergraduate work is being revised; and changes in undergraduate courses are marked by the abolition of the traditional English 1 and 3 and substitution of a more completely integrated full-year course for Freshmen.

Professor Sampson's death in 1931 was the first of several severe blows to the Department. Joseph Q. Adams, the distinguished Shakespearean scholar, left in 1931 to become librarian of the Folger Shakespeare Library in Washington, D. C.; and Professor John W. Hebel, PhD '20, an authority on seventeenth century literature, died in 1934. This year Professor William Strunk, Jr., PhD '96, who had taught Shakespeare and advanced composition to eleven generations of Cornellians, retired after a year's leave of absence in Hollywood.

The Present Faculty

The addition of two new professors, Robert Cecil Bald, who has joined the Faculty this fall, and Herbert J. Davis, who will come to Ithaca in 1938, follows other major steps toward an English Department which will again rank with the best. Professor Bald, a graduate of Cambridge University, former head of the department of English in Stellenbosch University, South Africa, and last year senior fellow at the Folger Library, is a distinguished scholar in the literature of the late Renaissance. He will teach seventeenth century literature, Shakespeare, and the Romantic movement. Professor Davis, a graduate of Oxford, will come to Cornell from the University of Toronto, where during the last sixteen years he was won renown as one of the leading authorities on the literature of the early eighteenth century. Professor DeVane is himself an authority on nineteenth century literature.

As now reorganized, the Department has many men who will be remembered by graduates of the comparatively recent past, and some who are new. Professor Benton S. Monroe '96 continues to direct the study of Old English, and Professors Clark S. Northup '93, Walter H. French '19, and Dr. Charles W. Jones, PhD '32, with the cooperation of Professor Lane Cooper, head of the Department of Comparative Study of Literature, offer courses in Middle English language and literature. The literature of the Renaissance lies within the province of Professors Bald, Edwin Nungezer, PhD '27, and John C. Adams '26. Professor Nungezer came to Cornell in 1931, an authority on Elizabethan literature; Adams is now on leave of absence at the Folger Library, where he is preparing a book on the Elizabethan stage. Professor Bald will direct study in the literature of the seventeenth century, and Professor DeVane will offer the course in Milton. The literature of the eighteenth century will be covered in courses offered by Professors Frederick C. Prescott, Leslie N. Broughton, PhD '11, Monroe, Davis, and Sale; and that of the nineteenth century by Professors DeVane, Prescott, Northup, and Broughton. Professor Henry A. Myers, PhD '33, offers a course in the study of dramatic form; and Professor Sale in the study of the form of the novel. Professors French and Sale offer courses in modern poetry and modern criticism. The work in American literature is in the hands of Professors Prescott and Myers, the latter now preparing a study of Walt Whitman. Professor Frederick M. Smith will continue his courses in biography and in short story writing.

Professor Edward A. Tenney, PhD '32, a former instructor at Oberlin College, has charge of the new course for Freshmen. New instructors appointed last June are Dr. E. C. Wilson, a graduate of Harvard and former fellow in the Folger Library; Dr. Craig Thompson, a graduate of Princeton; and Harold S. L. Wiener '30, a candidate for the Doctorate at Yale.

Fit Work to Students

The new course, English 2, has been substituted for English 1 and English 3. It seeks to correlate instruction in English composition with the study of English literature. Freshmen are tested for competence at the beginning of the course and placed in sections according to their ability, rather than being grouped according to College registrations. Work in the different sections will vary, abler students moving ahead more rapidly and covering more ground. Tests will be given at intervals, so that students may be shifted from one group to another as their competence is proved. "This course," says Professor DeVane, "is the result of long observation and study of students' needs. We hope that the new arrangement will make the study of English more satisfactory and valuable to each individual."

Advanced courses are also being changed. Courses for small groups of qualified upperclassmen will be increased in number and given in alternate years. The student will be offered a richer program, and his work in the small sections will be carefully supervised by recognized experts.

For graduate students, the Department has been strengthened by filling serious gaps in the Faculty. It has also adopted a general program designed to give each graduate student a comprehensive view of the entire range of English language and literature. The whole Department will take part in the examinations given for advanced degrees. There will also be a more systematic and sustained effort to find teaching positions for degree holders.

MICHIGAN MEETS WEEKLY

Dean Dexter S. Kimball spoke at luncheon October 8 to forty-one members of the Cornell Club of Michigan. At the Club's fall picnic a baseball team captained by Morris D. Sample '94 won, 46-20, and President Clinton R. Tobey '18 won the horseshoe pitching championship.

The regular Thursday luncheon October 14 was addressed by Parker Holden, president of Holden, McKinney & Clark, advertising agency, on Detroit's community fund; and October 21 "Doc" Holland, football broadcaster, was the speaker. Annual meeting of the Michigan Club is a dinner October 28, at the Intercollegiate Alumni Club in Detroit.

FARM BOOKKEEPING

(R.B. in "State and Toga," Ithaca Journal)

The curse of general farming is unquestionably bookkeeping. A sneering, snotty accountant can take more joy out of agriculture than a pestilence of grasshoppers. Just when you point to bursting barns coupled with a favorable credit position he inquires, "What about capital charges? Depreciation? Your own labor costs?" And then with a few deft strokes of a soft pencil on your wife's best tablecloth he demonstrates that your operations for the year have resulted in a loss, or at best you've been working your head off for a recompense of two cents an hour.

Stuff and nonsense! You can't beat a certified public accountant at his own game and he's perfectly incapable of understanding what constitute the elements that go to make up farm income. If he could understand things like that he wouldn't be doomed to spend his life bothering about bookkeeping.

It's quite enough, we think, to keep farm books with one's eyes and a few columns of figures in an old composition book. If the indebtedness is slightly reduced as against last year, if the fields and fences are in better condition, if there's a new roof on the barn and every crevice is filled with things to eat for stock and folks, then, we think, the operation has been successful. That's enough, and all accountants anxious to prove us self-deceived will kindly pass on and leave us that way.

Besides, no system of bookkeeping yet devised has provided a place to credit the satisfaction one derives from observing his possessions—the preserve closet wherein nothing has been purchased except the glass jars and the sugar; the root cellar bursting with the fruits of garden, orchard, and field; and the well-stocked woodshed. Where can you enter the credit items of a Sunday walk through one's own woods when the leaves are flaming, or the smile with which one contemplates the early spearheads of the south-bound geese safe in the knowledge that there'll be plenty left for everybody when those same geese start north again?

WORLD AFFAIRS IN ST. LOUIS

A. Bancroft Wells, special writer for the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, was the speaker at the luncheon of the Cornell Club of St. Louis October 15. He stated his conviction that Russia will not take active part in the present Sino-Japanese conflict, and prophesied that Communism in Russia and Fascism in Germany would soon disappear.

William P. Gruner '07, chairman of the trustees of the scholarship fund for St. Louis District, reported good progress.

MEDICAL COLLEGE OPENS

With the opening of the Medical College in New York September 27, a four-year course in military science was reinstated, after a lapse of several years, with Lieutenant-Colonel William G. Munly, MC, USA, as professor in charge. Besides the appointment of Dr. Wilson G. Smillie as professor of public health as announced in the ALUMNI NEWS last February 4, two members of the Faculty were promoted to professorships, three from assistant to associate professors, and five were made assistant professors.

The new professors are Drs. Alexander R. Stevens, Clinical Surgery, and Jose F. Nonidez, Anatomy; associate professors, Drs. George Papanicolaou, Anatomy; R. Gordon Douglas, Obstetrics and Gynecology; and Louis F. Hausman '16, Clinical Neurology. Appointed to assistant professorships are Drs. Nelson W. Cornell '18, Clinical Surgery; Ade T. Milhorat '28, Medicine; Chester L. Yntema, Anatomy; Arthur F. Anderson, Clinical Pediatrics; and Carlyle F. Jacobsen, Psychology.

Dr. Eugene L. Opie, Pathology, welcomed the students at the opening exercises. Among the scholarships and prizes there announced were two to students who took their first degrees at the University: the John Metcalfe Polk Scholarship to Thomas P. Almy '35, and a Thorne Shaw Scholarship to Ralph R. Tompsett '34, both now Juniors in the Medical College.

HONOR SOCIETIES ELECT Twenty-six Seniors

Senior societies honored twenty-six members of the Class of '38 at their annual fall elections October 20. Sphinx Head has twenty-one new members; Quill and Dagger, five. Their names appeared in the Sun last Thursday simultaneously with those of twenty-three new members of Aleph Samach and twenty of Red Key, Junior honors societies.

Sphinx Head

Joseph C. Antrim, Worthington, Ohio; Engineering; swimming, manager 150-pound football; Phi Delta Theta.

Warren L. Bohner, Maplewood, N. J.; Engineering; cross country; Phi Gamma Delta.

John K. Clement, Rossford, Ohio; Engineering; wrestling; Theta Delta Chi.

George C. Wilder, Kenosha, Wisc.; Arts; Psi Upsilon.

Ira W. Wilson, Brooklyn (son of Charles B. Wilson '12); captain boxing; Pi Lambda Phi.

C. Frederick Wise, Philadelphia, Pa.; Architecture; president Independent Association; Student Council.

Quill and Dagger

Richard R. Anderson, Pelham Manor (son of Ross P. Anderson '08 and Katherine D. Miller '10); Arts; crew; Chi Phi.

Robert H. Bodholdt, Evanston, Ill.; Arts; Glee Club, president Radio Guild; Sigma Phi.

Henry V. Beuttell, Pelham Manor; Engineering; crew; Chi Phi.

Robert D. Cloyes, Cleveland Heights, Ohio (son of Raymond T. Cloyes '10); Arts; captain swimming; Phi Kappa Sigma.

Robert E. Treman Smith, Lake George; Agriculture; president Kermis; Kappa Sigma.

Quill and Dagger plans a breakfast meeting for all alumni members in town for the Columbia game and active members in the Willard Straight Terrace Room Sunday morning, October 31, at 9:30.

COUNCIL COMMITTEE HERE

Robert P. Butler '05, president of the Cornellian Council, Vice Presidents J. DuPratt White '90 and Walter C. Teagle

BRILLIANT LEAF COLORS NOW MAKE THE GORGES BEAUTIFUL.

'00, and seven other members of the executive committee are expected to attend the fall meeting of the Council's executive committee Saturday morning, October 30. Among those at the breakfast in Willard Straight Hall will be James K. Fraser '97, Neal Dow Becker '05, Tell Berna '12, Blinn S. Page '13, Jacob Gould Schurman, Jr. '17, Allan H. Treman '21, Emmet J. Murphy '22, and Archie M. Palmer '18, executive secretary.

CHICAGO WOMEN MEET

First meeting of the Cornell Women's Club of Chicago for the current year was a luncheon October 16 at the College Club. The business consisted of reports of meetings attended and discussion of plans for the year. Mrs. A. W. Hodgkiss (Marian Irish) '20 presided. Mrs. C. H. Richmond (Helen McFadden) '27, is secretary-treasurer.

NEW HAVEN SMOKER

Nearly a hundred attended the smoker given by the Cornell Club of New Haven at the Winchester Club Friday evening before the Yale game. Thomas I. S. Boak '14, who is a member of the intercollegiate athletics advisory committee, presided. John T. McGovern '00 spoke felicitously of the athletic relations between Yale and Cornell; and Malcolm Farmer and James Lynah '05, the respective directors of athletics, also spoke briefly. S. Hibbard Ayer, Jr. '14, the composer of "Cornell Victorious," led the singing at the piano and gave reminiscences of his own undergraduate days and since.

RELIGIOUS PREFERENCES

Religious preferences of entering students, ascertained annually by CURW, are announced this year as in substantially the same order, numerically, as last year. Again the Presbyterian Church leads in preferences expressed; followed in order by Roman Catholic, Methodist, Episcopal, Jewish, no preference, Congregational-Christian, Baptist, Lutheran, Reformed, Christian Science, Unitarian, Friends, Universalist, Disciples.

Other churches and faiths count fifty-two adherents among the new students this year, as compared with twenty-three last. The number who registered "no preference" this year was 145, as compared with 162 last fall.

THE GEOLOGY FACULTY has awarded the first Chester Buchanan Memorial Scholarship to Clifford A. Kaye '38 of New York City. A fund of $1500 was established in November, 1936, in memory of Chester F. M. Buchanan '33 by his mother, the scholarship to go to "a male Senior majoring in Geology." Buchanan held a Sage Scholarship as a Freshman; was a member of the Musical Clubs and Dramatic Club. He was killed in an airplane accident November 8, 1934, as a cadet flyer at Kelly Field, Tex.

LETTERS

Subject to the usual restrictions of space and good taste, we shall print letters from subscribers on any side of any subject of interest to Cornellians. The ALUMNI NEWS often may not agree with the sentiments expressed, and disclaims any responsibility beyond that of fostering interest in the University.

PREFERS US SMALL

TO THE EDITOR:

You mentioned in a recent issue that the size of the NEWS might be increased to include additional departments.

I am allowing my subscription to the magazine——to run out because it has expanded, and grown, and stretched out, and added advertising until it has gotten too bulky to read. I used to read it through, but now I scarcely look at it.

I enjoy the ALUMNI NEWS in its present form and read it from cover to cover. Please don't make it any harder to maintain this, my only contact with Cornell.

Let Quality, not Quantity, remain your watchword.

MILTON E. YOUNG '30

NEW BARBER at Willard Straight, succeeding the late Jerome Fiddler, is Clyde Hallock, who for the last eight years has been at Sheldon Court.

About ATHLETICS

YALE 9, CORNELL 0

The football team looked far better in defeat against Yale than it did against Syracuse. It came out of the Yale Bowl at New Haven last Saturday with credit for a fine defensive game against what now appears to be one of the leading teams of the East. The score was 9-0.

Yale won on Colwell's field goal in the first period and Captain Frank's spectacular sixty-eight-yard run in the final quarter. Yale's attempt to convert the extra point failed when Roth, left guard, blocked Colwell's placekick.

But expert defense, except for the one lapse on Frank's run, seldom wins football games. The team's offensive was checked repeatedly by Yale's hard-charging line and the speed with which the secondary defenders reached the line of scrimmage to stop Cornell's runners.

Yale amassed 230 yards rushing in the mid-section of the field, but met stiffened Cornell resistance in the scoring zone, resistance brilliantly marked by particularly adept defense against the forward pass. Three times Yale tried to score on passes in the end zone; three times Cornell broke up the attack, batting down seven passes.

Yale's net gain by rushing was 160 yards; for Cornell, with Holland, left end, expertly demonstrating the method, threw Yale ball carriers for losses aggregating seventy yards. On two consecutive plays in the third period, Holland personally cost Yale twenty yards by throwing Rafferty and Wilson behind the line of scrimmage.

Brilliant as was Holland on defense, he shared top honors for the team with Hooper, the right guard. Hooper's punting, more than anything else, kept Cornell from the constant chance of additional Yale scores. He bested Colwell in a brilliant punting duel with a wet and heavy ball, averaging forty-five yards from the line of scrimmage.

Yale's Frank the Difference

The 40,000 spectators were easily convinced that Yale was the better team. Many were equally convinced that Coach Snavely's pre-season statement that Cornell has a "hard luck" backfield has come true.

Peck, the fleet, shifty runner who is always a threat in an open field, returned to action after missing the Syracuse game. The chipped vertebra in his spine healed sufficiently to permit him to play for approximately five minutes. But he was not the Peck of the early season games. He may be in better condition for the last three games of the schedule: Columbia at Ithaca Saturday, Dartmouth, and Pennsylvania.

In other words, Cornell had no back to match, or even approximate, Frank of Yale. Therein lay the difference between the teams, for Frank was the big ground gainer for the Elis.

Cornell's defense against forward passes was offset by the ineffectiveness of its aerial attack. Five forwards were attempted (Cornell was seldom in position to take to the air), and one was completed—for a four-yard gain. Three were intercepted. All passes were thrown short in the flat.

Story of the Game

The story of the game can be told in two statistics: Twelve first downs for Yale to three for Cornell and 160 yards rushing to fifty for Cornell (net). Yale registered two of its first downs by passes, with Frank completing two of fourteen attempts.

The game was less than three minutes old when Yale scored the field goal. Wilson, despite the muddy, slippery field, split Cornell's line twice for gains of six and ten yards and first down on Cornell's 40. Three more plays, one an offside penalty on Cornell, put the ball on the 20, where Cornell checked the Elis. Colwell, standing 29 yards out and to the left of the goal posts, kicked true for the three points. Those points were enough for victory.

Cornell gained steadily on Hooper's magnificent punting, Holland finally downing one kick on Yale's 12. Colwell, going back to kick, fumbled a low pass from center, picked up the ball, and started to run. He was smothered on the two-yard line. But the break Cornell adherents hoped for never came. Colwell punted out to midfield, Baker returning to Yale's 40 as the first period ended.

Team Battles Gamely

Taking advantage of the chance to open up the Cornell attack, Baker passed into the arms of Gallagher of Yale on the Yale 36. Another punting exchange favored Yale, the home team moving to midfield, then to Cornell's 37 on Wilson's fourteen-yard run. There Frank passed, but Boochever, not a Yale man, caught the ball and returned five yards to Cornell's 23. The half ended with Van Ranst downing one of Hooper's punts on Yale's 5.

Yale struck hard at the start of the third period, Wilson gaining twenty-two yards in two runs to the Eli 42, where Cornell held, forcing another kicking exchange. This time Frank took to the air, passing nineteen yards to Ewart and twenty-five yards to John Miller.

With the ball on the Cornell 9, Frank lost ground in two plays and had two passes batted down to earn Cornell possession on the 20, the final pass grounding in the end zone.

Hooper, Holland Star

Hooper kicked out of bounds on Yale's 33. There Holland staged his one-man show, throwing Rafferty and Wilson for losses aggregating twenty yards. Colwell's return punt was short, Baker getting to midfield. Again Baker tried the air, only to have Ewart intercept his first attempt and race nineteen yards to Cornell's 27. There Cornell frustrated three passes and a line buck to regain the ball as the third period ended.

Hooper boomed a punt to Yale's 30, Ewart returning to the 40. Frank, on a delayed buck, brought it through for twenty-six yards and, with Hessberg, added another first down on Cornell's 20. Cornell lost five more on a penalty, then stopped two line plays and two passes to take the ball from Yale for the third time.

Holland, taking a turn in the backfield, Baker, and Moulton just failed to make first down in three plays, so Hooper punted to Yale's 32. Baker was hurt, but continued in the game. It was at that moment, on the first play after the time out, that Frank broke loose.

The Yale captain cut in at tackle, swerved out around Cornell's right end, and headed for the sideline. At midfield, only a step from the boundary, he pivoted to elude what seemed a sure tackle. Almost miraculously he broke away, switched back to the center of the field to avoid three more defenders, and, picking up the blockers, raced for the touchdown. Hessberg threw the final, vital block, taking out Baker, in the safety position, on the five-yard line.

That virtually ended the game. Yale, with Gallagher intercepting another pass and returning ten yards to Cornell's 35, played the rest of the way in Cornell's territory. One Yale punt went out on Cornell's 12 and there Peck contributed a twelve-yard run and completed a four-yard pass from Hooper, throwing from punt formation. The pass, however, came on fourth down after three Cornell reverses were stopped without gain, Yale winning the ball on Cornell's 33. Cornell's line surged through to throw Hessburg for a ten-yard loss as the game ended.

The lineups:

Most surprising of Saturday's football results was the victory of Brown over Columbia, 7-6. Dartmouth defeated Harvard, in the day's other "Ivy League" game, 20-2, and will meet Yale at New Haven this Saturday. Pennsylvania lost a victory over Georgetown when a substitute, running on the field as Fielden of Pennsylvania kicked a field goal, nullified the score, the game ending in a scoreless tie.

Two of Cornell's first four opponents also lost, Colgate bowing to Duke, 13-0, and Syracuse losing to Maryland by the same score. Princeton won from Rutgers, 6-0, and Penn State did not play.

Yale now leads the "Ivy League" with its victories over Pennsylvania and Cornell.

* * *

The 40,000 spectators in the Bowl braved the worst football day of the fall. Rain, starting Friday and continuing through the first half, left the field a mass of mud. Yet, surprisingly, there were only two fumbles, both by Yale, both recovered by the home forces.

* * *

Cornell played the first half in red jerseys, the second half in white.

* * *

The ROTC band, marching and playing smartly, impressed the gathering.

SOCCER TEAM WINS

The soccer team scored its first Middle Atlantic League victory on Alumni Field Saturday by blanking Lehigh, 1-0, on a goal by Shih Jui Raymond Wang '38 of Tientsin, China. Wang plays inside left.

Basketball Co-captain Thomas A. Rich '38 of Hobart played well at goal, making many saves; with Captain L. Bruce Darling '38 of Rochester contributing a fast attack at outside right.

The victory gave Cornell one victory and one defeat in League competition, Princeton having won the week before. The team has also broken even in two non-League games, defeating Hamilton and losing to Colgate.

LIGHTWEIGHTS WIN FIRST

The 150-pound eleven defeated Haverling High School of Bath, 20-7, on Schoellkopf Field Saturday. Aubrey S. Bowen '38 of Binghamton, acting captain, scored the three touchdowns. It was the lightweight team's first victory.

FRESHMEN LOSE TO SYRACUSE

The Freshmen football team also went out of town Saturday, losing to Syracuse at Syracuse, 7-0. Wilson scored for the Orange on a thirty-six-yard run from a fake spinner and Studor converted the point. That game, too, was played in a sea of mud.

The Freshmen emulated the Varsity in offensive play, passing Syracuse's 40 only once. And, like the Varsity, the first-year team showed defensive strength with a goal line stand in the fourth period.

The lineups:

CORNELL		SYRACUSE
FRESHMEN (0)	Pos.	FRESHMEN (7)
Hershey	LE	Bielski
Drayhos	LT	Eschenfelder
Cohn	LG	Webster
Pastuc	C	Paskevich
Saville	RG	P. Johnson
West	RT	Congdon
Dunbar	RE	Piro
Scholl	QB	Bruett
Bohrman	LHB	Wilson
Sando	RHB	Bangor
Matuszczak	FB	S. Johnson

Syracuse.....7 0 0 0-7

Syracuse scoring: Touchdown, Wilson; point after touchdown, Studor.

Syracuse substitutes: McConnell, Studor, Elmer.

Cornell substitutes: Kelly, McCullough, Van Horn, Hooker, Schmuck, Murphy, Ruddy, Blasco, Hyman, Stoner, Hippolit.

Referee, W. E. Pritchard, Penn State; umpire, Bud Newell, Colgate; linesman, Carl Hansen, Illinois.

Two other Freshmen teams broke even, the soccer eleven defeating Cortland Normal, 4-1, and the cross country runners losing to Penn State, 22-23.

LATER SPORTS START

The basketball squad has started informal practice under a new assistant coach, Edward Sonderman, Grad, former Syracuse University center. Sonderman will handle the squad until early November when Coach John H. Rowland will start dividing his time between football and the court game.

Sonderman played scholastic basketball with Walter H. Foertsch '39 of Rochester, last year's leading scorer in the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League. With Foertsch, forward, this year will be Co-captains Thomas A. Rich '38 of Hobart, a forward, and Carlton P. Wilson '38 of Milwaukee, Wis., center, and Robert J. MacDonald '38 of Waterbury, Conn., four of last year's starting team. The fifth player last year was Rudolph A. Doering '37.

Meanwhile, other squads are preparing for seasons yet to come. Tennis players have been staging upperclass and Freshman tournaments under Coach Richard Lewis, and a large group of Varsity and Freshman oarsmen have been training under Coaches Harrison Sanford and Norman Sonju.

Freshman sweepswingers are being initiated on a 16-oared barge, built from plans furnished by George Pocock, Seattle, Wash., boatbuilder. The coaches hope to keep their men outdoors on Cayuga Inlet until mid-November.

Coach George S. Little has instituted calisthenics and body-building exercises for the swimmers, to preface actual practice in the Old Armory pool. Coach Alfred Wolff, although he is now busy with the 150-pound football squad, has started workouts for the boxers. Informal wrestling drills are being directed by Coach Walter C. O'Connell '12.

Polo squad members elected Arthur B. Christian '38 of Elmira, captain, as their coach, Major Charles E. Boyle, opened informal fall practice.

ODDS AND ENDS

Note from the typewriter of Eddie Brietz, Associated Press sports writer in New York: "Add all wet reports: The one at Ithaca that Carl Snavelly is feuding with some of his academic friends at Cornell (over football players' credits) and may go out . . . Snavelly has a three-year contract, running through 1938. . . . All you gents who think he is going to tear it up will please rise . . . Huh, looks like a sit down strike, doesn't it? . . ."

Trainer Frank Kavanaugh addressed the Ithaca Knights of Columbus recently on training problems and expressed the hope Cornell would soon have one of the best training rooms in the East. . . . Freshman Football Coach Mose Quinn discussed Freshman prospects before the Ithaca Kiwanis Club last week. . . . John J. Ferraro '34 is still playing football in Montreal, Canada.

Ends Holland and Spang and Halfback Baker were listed among many possibilities for all-American distinction in a recent Associated Press survey. . . . As expected, Columbia and Cornell will play football again in 1938. The game will be in New York City October 29, Columbia has announced. . . . Also announced earlier is the renewal of football relations with Harvard. The game, first since 1916, will be played at Cambridge October 8.

A GLANCE BACKWARDS

Ten years ago: Cornell and Columbia played to a scoreless tie on Schoellkopf Field. "There were no long runs, . . . no spectacular passes," said the News.

Twenty years ago: Cornell, having lost to Colgate, displayed "considerable improvement" in defeating Bucknell, 20-0.

Thirty years ago: From the NEWS: "Two Cornell men are among the officials appointed for the Yale-Princeton game. A. E. Whiting '98 will be referee and E. P. Young '94 will be linesman."

WHO WON?

ENGINEERS AT BOSTON

Cornell Club of New England had a special luncheon October 6 in honor of Professor S. C. Hollister, Acting Dean of the College of Engineering, and Colonel William G. Atwood '92, chairman of the waterways division of the American Society of Civil Engineers. The guests were in Boston attending a joint convention of the ASCE and the Engineering Institute of Canada. William G. Starkweather '92 was toastmaster.

George P. Brockway '12, president of the National Association of Purchasing Agents, was the speaker at the Club's luncheon October 18.

The annual banquet of the Club is to be held November 17 at the University Club. President Edmund E. Day will be the guest of honor. It will be a formal dinner, and for both men and women.

GRADUATE SCHOOL RANKING

Cornell's Graduate School is ranked eighth among those of sixteen American universities by Laurence Foster in his book, The Functions of a Graduate School in a Democratic Society. In Chapter II, "What Institutions are Best Fitted for Graduate Work?" the author rates fifty-three graduate schools according to twenty-eight different criteria. In a composite ranking based upon twenty-six of these factors, he places Cornell in eighth place, below Harvard, Columbia, Chicago, Yale, Johns Hopkins, California, and Princeton.

By another ranking, using the same factors unweighted, Walter C. Eells of the School of Education at Stanford University, writing in School and Society, places Cornell in seventh place and changes those above as follows: Harvard, Chicago, Columbia, Yale, California, Johns Hopkins.

CORNELLIANS AT VIRGINIA

From Ralph M. Brown '01, librarian at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, we learn of the appointment of four Cornellians to the faculty at Blacksburg this year. James B. Jones, MME '29, has been appointed professor of mechanical engineering; Thomas W. Hatcher, PhD '31, professor of mathematics; Leland B. Tate, PhD '34, associate professor of rural sociology; and Mrs. Tate (Mildred Thuro), PhD '33, associate professor of home economics.

Other Cornellians who are members of the VPI staff at Blacksburg include William E. Garnett '12, rural sociologist in the Agricultural Experiment Station, and Professors A. Laurence Dean '13, poultry; Thomas B. Hutcheson, MSA '13, agronomy and supervisor of county experiment stations; Harold N. Young '17, agricultural economics; Reece L. Bryant, PhD '28, poultry; James N. Krueger '30, Captain, USA, military science and tactics; Floyd L. Underwood, PhD '32, agricultural economics; A. Varr Morris, AM '31, mathematics;

Jacob L. Maxton, PhD '35, agricultural economics; and Charles R. Baldock, AM '33, instructor in physics.

In the Extension Service of the State are Henry S. Lippincott '04, farm demonstration agent for Warwick, York, and Elizabeth City Counties; William O. Strong '11, agent for Accomac County; Earl N. Landis, MS '32, assistant agent for Page, Madison, Warren, and Clark Counties; Nora Miller, AM '31, home demonstration agent, Accomac County; and Emery M. Matthews, MS '32, superintendent of Pittsylvania county agricultural experiment station.

SHOW SEASON OPENS

A Laboratory Theatre cast of graduate students and Seniors gave competent performances of Luigi Pirandello's phantasy, "Six Characters in Search of An Author," in the Willard Straight Theatre October 15 and 16. The production was directed by Professor Alex M. Drummond, assisted by J. Colby Lewis '33 and Joel Trapido '34. Noteworthy in the cast were Lewis as the show manager, Trapido as the half-witted boy, William G. McCollom '33 as the father, Georgiana J. von Tornow, Grad, as the mother, and Jeanne S. Paquette '37 as the stepdaughter.

To a scanty audience October 19 the University Theatre presented Miriam Winslow and her seven young women dancers. The program of eleven interpretations ranged from dances to the music of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries through several pleasing costume pieces and a modern "Sport Intermezzo." It demonstrated unusual versatility of theme and beauty of movement.

REPORT FROM STONEPOSTS

(R. B. in "State and Tioga," Ithaca Journal)

Unlike amateur dabblers in the stock market whose habit it is to mention only their successes and to draw the veil of silence over the regrettable incidents, farmers have a tendency to stress their misfortunes and to touch lightly on the occasions when bountiful crops go hand in hand with good prices. That is why, perhaps, Congress is always so volubly sympathetic with stricken agriculture and why nobody has ever introduced a bill for the relief of business men and professors who have just lost their shirts in the market.

Following then, what seems to be the sound farm tradition we hasten to report that oats were only fair and it's a question whether we even cleared expenses on the buckwheat.

It's none of your business (or that of sobbing Congress either) that the hay crop and the corn were opulent, the apples exceptional, and that the few hills we've dug indicate a good return in high quality potatoes. What's that compared with the licking we took in buckwheat? Congress shall hear of that and plenty more besides!

LETTERS

Subject to the usual restrictions of space and good taste, we shall print letters from subscribers on any side of any subject of interest to Cornellians. The ALUMNI NEWS often may not agree with the sentiments expressed, and disclaims any responsibility beyond that of fostering interest in the University.

MY DEAR MR. BERRY:

May I take this means of telling you how deeply grateful I am to you for your "Now In My Time" on page 34 of the October 7 issue. To my way of thinking the sentiment expressed and the way you did it were grand.

With great appreciation, I am sincerely yours,
WILLIAM E. REED '89

This was the column in which Romeyn Berry speculated on the reaction of the Class of '41 to drinking at football games, and outlined Dartmouth's procedure in the premises. The letter was passed on to us with this characteristic comment: "For the encouragement of the editor in those low moments when he gets to thinking nobody ever reads his paper. R. B."—ED.

SCHENECTADY STARTS

At its annual meeting October 12, at the Hotel Van Curler, Cornell Club of Schenectady elected Carl Schabtach '32 its new president; Clyde H. Harrison '28, vice-president; and Albert W. Brunot '34, secretary-treasurer. Theodore C. Ohart

'29, recently joined after four years as a member of the Cornell Club of Cleveland, is chairman of the publicity committee; Harrison, of program and membership; Glen W. Bennett, secondary school relations; Elmer D. Spicer '10, budget; Alexander C. Wall '36, Boy Scout relations; and Clarence Johnson '20, 4-H Club relations.

Peter Paul Miller '18, who won the football "C" as a Sophomore guard and played three years, and won the track "C" in 1920, was optimistic about this year's football prospects. Alexander C. Stevens '07, the Club's delegate, reported on the inauguration of President Day.

PHILADELPHIA WOMEN

The Cornell Women's Club of Philadelphia entertained the entering Freshmen girls from that district at a tea at the home of Mrs. F. Arthur Tucker (Marion Milligan) '31 on September 16. Mrs. Tucker is president of the Club. The other officers are Mrs. William H. Emery (Violet Harrison) '12, vice-president; Mrs. Herbert Wiezel (Barbara Kimball) '34, treasurer; Gertrude M. Goodwin '31, secretary; Mrs. C. L. Shollenberger (Gladys Swartley) '16 and Mildred Hiller '25, directors.

The Club met for tea October 2 at the home of Dr. Elsie Curtis '23 in Ardmore. Edith Loux '10 told informally of her trip to Europe this summer.

THEY'LL BE ON THE FIELD AGAIN TEN-SQUARE OCTOBER 30

New dark overcoats this year give an element of surprise, besides their utility value, to the ROTC band. If the weather is fine they come out between the halves in all the glory of their scarlet jumpers. Few alumni who enjoy their music on Schoellkopf Field know that the bandsmen rehearse every day between games, usually in the Drill Hall, where Captain George M. Williamson, Jr., the drillmaster, has them "yard-line conscious" with a full size football field marked out on the huge drill floor. While they march, they are also drilled in playing by Musicmaster George L. Coleman '95. Drum major is James J. Wilder '39 of New Rochelle. Photo by Fenner

NOW, IN MY TIME!

By Romeyn Berry

There were a great many Ithacans and former Ithacans in New York last week going to, or coming from, the Yale game. The only one we met who didn't mention football was Dr. Livingston Farrand whom we ran across on West Forty-third Street as he was about to dart into the Columbia Club.

Dr. Farrand has a room at the Columbia Club and eats around, he says. Mrs. Farrand is still in Europe and the new house at Brewster won't be ready to move into for another month anyway. We got the impression that the Doctor was enjoying New York after all these years, and that it would be perfectly all right with him if the new house at Brewster wasn't ready until well on into the spring—July or August, mebbe.

Dr. Farrand hasn't put on any noticeable weight during the brief period of his retirement, but we detected in his movements the quick sprightliness of a cock sparrow and there was a mirthful flicker in his eye that comes only to the man who has just had a large, heavy, painful university lifted off his foot.

The presidency of a big college is a needlessly killing job nowadays. Organization, finance, professorial gripes, parent trouble, football problems, and the Sophomore Class keep a man fully occupied; and on top of that he can never tell when the alumni will break out and get to crawling around in his clothes.

Dr. Farrand is well out of it, we think, and we hope old grads will go easier on this new man and not insist he show up at so many dinners when he ought to be home in bed.

WANTED:

Candid camera addicts, to loan or donate interesting pictures of alumni, taken alone or at Ithaca and other Cornell gatherings, for reproduction in the Alumni News. Please send glossy prints, with subjects identified if possible, and your name and address if pictures are to be returned. Mail them promptly to Cornell Alumni News, Box 575, Ithaca, N. Y.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS for the women, elected October 19, are Margaret A. Buckland of Perry, vice-president; Muriel E. Cook of Ridgewood, N. J., secretary; and Geraldine M. Spencer of Savona, treasurer. Marjorie L. Shenk of Buffalo is women's Class president.

ON THE CAMPUS AND DOWN THE HILL

HILL STREETS and fraternity houses were noticeably less populous over last week end, and even downtown it was apparent that many had left for the Yale game. The Athletic Office sold 3,268 tickets in Ithaca (the equivalent of more than half the University's enrolment) and the Cornell Club of New York disposed of 4200 more. They began leaving town Friday afternoon in cars of all vintages and descriptions; the Lehigh ran a nine-car advance section of the Black Diamond to carry the team, ROTC band, and about 100 other undergraduates, and had a special car on the night train chartered by the Ithaca Lodge of Elks.

SIX VISITING COLLEGES, invited by the Women's Athletic Association, had representatives on a field hockey team which played a touring demonstration team from Philadelphia on upper Alumni Field Saturday afternoon in the rain. The Philadelphia team won, 7-1. Friday night visitors and local enthusiasts saw motion pictures in Baker Laboratory; Saturday morning members of the touring team coached games in the baseball cage; and Saturday night their banquet in Willard Straight was addressed by President Day. Elizabeth K. Smith '39 of Herkimer was chairman of the WAA committee.

PRESIDENT DAY will make his first public appearance before the student body generally November 3 at an evening convocation in Bailey Hall. William C. Kruse '38 of St. Davids, Pa. will be master of ceremonies; Edward E. Hughes II '38 of Pittsburgh, Pa., president of the Student Council, and Edmund F. Pfeifer '38 of Hackensack, N. J., president of the Willard Straight Hall board of managers, will also speak; and the Glee Club will sing. The City of Ithaca will welcome the new President at a public dinner downtown, November 9, being arranged by the Chamber of Commerce with Harry G. Stutz '07 chairman of the committee.

SIGMA ALPHA MU has purchased the residence property at 312 Highland Road, between Kappa Delta Rho and Phi Epsilon Pi, and after alterations expects to move in about January 1, from its present home at 614 Stewart Avenue.

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT on Saturday morning gave the first of a series of talks on vocations arranged by the Student Council of the College of Home Economics for all women students in the University. She was accompanied by Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr. and they spent the day in Ithaca. Next speaker will be Alice Blinn '17 of the editorial staff of Ladies Home Journal, October 30.

SAGE CHAPEL PREACHER the Sunday after the Columbia game will be the Right Rev. G. Ashton Oldham '01, Bishop of Albany. We cannot refrain from quoting our predecessor on this page a year ago, following the Dartmouth game week end: "This department has been going through the files and checking up on Bishop Oldham. The record shows that this good man is always moved to preach the Word in Ithaca on those week ends when there is an outstanding football game on Schoellkopf Field. It may be mere coincidence, but the fact remains that he hasn't missed in years and years."

DAILY BROADCASTS of Campus news gathered by the Sun started Monday over Station WESG. This week aspiring undergraduate commentators try out (not over the air) for inclusion among the best fifteen. From records made of broadcasts by these, a jury of experts will select two to function the rest of the year, with pay. The programs are at 5:55 every day but Saturdays and Sundays.

LECTURES for the week include besides the Messenger lectures a motion picture lecture "Exploring the Universe" by its producer-director, Ruroy Sibley, October 28, sponsored by the Explorers' Club for the benefit of the Louis Agassiz Fuertes Memorial. Frederick W. Cuffe '19, of the General Electric Co., lectured on "Engineering-Sales Problems" before the class in industrial marketing October 22.

FIRST FRENZIED RUSHING out of the way, upperclass members of the Freshman Advisory Committee last week and this are visiting all first-year men in their rooms to help out with their difficulties and give a friendly helping hand. George S. Smith '38 of Chadwick is chairman of this year's Committee, whose members were started off on their official duties with an informal talk by President Day.

WINTER COURSES of the College of Agriculture, in six general divisions, begin November 3 and continue to February 11.

SUNDAY EVENINGS at Willard Straight, at which the board of managers serves coffee and members of the Faculty and others speak informally, were started for the year last week with readings by Professor William C. DeVane, English. Sunday afternoon concerts were inaugurated with a piano recital by Kathleen Long. These will be continued in November, after the conclusion of the Messenger lectures on the Romantic opera, being given by Dr. Edward J. Dent.

D. BOARDMAN LEE '26, reporting to Rotary recently the result of a survey of Ithaca's cultivation of international good will, cited the International Association and Cosmopolitan Club and that 85 of the 165 members of the University Faculty listed in Who's Who in America have studied or traveled abroad, are members of international societies, or have published in international journals.

BUT THIS IS HOW THEY REALLY DO IT (SEE OPPOSITE PAGE)

Sixteen Freshmen at a time learn to row in the new barge, built last summer by James Wray. Coach Norman Sonju (standing) gives individual instruction from the narrow runway amidships, and they use old oars with the blades cut down to about four inches wide. He says that the Freshmen are much further advanced this year than last. The passengers at bow and stern are coxswains "learning the business." Fenner

CLARKE HEADS COMMISSION

Professor Gilmore D. Clarke '13, Regional Planning, has been elected chairman of the National Commission on Fine Arts. Established by act of Congress in 1910, the Commission has supervision over all activities of the Federal Government in the District of Columbia relating to the fine arts, and advises generally upon questions of art when required to do so by the President or Congress. It passes upon all plans for public buildings to be erected by the Government in the District; upon purchase and improvement of lands in the District for parks and public buildings; advises on location of statues, fountains, and monuments, selection of models and artists; and approves designs of medals, insignia, and coins issued by the Government. Professor Clarke has been a member of the Commission since 1932, having been reappointed for a four-year term in 1936.

Since February, 1935, Professor Clarke has given the courses in public planning arranged by the Colleges of Architecture and Engineering and open to all students. He was superintendent of construction for the Bronx River Parkway and landscape architect for the Westchester County Park Commission, has been consulting landscape architect for the National Park Service on many of its recent developments, and is a member of the University's architectural advisory board. He is a member of the firm of Vitale & Geffert, Gilmore D. Clarke, landscape architects, 101 Park Avenue, New York City.

ARDENT ROOTERS at the Pennsylvania football game again this year will be four carrier boys of the Ithaca Journal who win the newspaper's annual subscription contest. Besides Thanksgiving Day in Philadelphia they will be entertained for two days in New York City.

Concerning THE FACULTY

PROFESSOR R. CLIFTON GIBBS '06, Physics, was elected president of the Optical Society of America October 15. He has been a member of the board of directors of the Society for four years, vice-president for two. Kasson S. Gibson '12, of the National Bureau of Standards, was elected vice-president.

THE LATE PROFESSORS CYRUS R. CROSBY '03, Entomology, and Peter W. Claassen, PhD '18, Biology, were honored at a memorial meeting in Comstock Hall October 18. The speakers included Professor Earl A. Flansburgh '15, Extension, Professor Charles Chupp, PhD '17, Plant Pathology Extension, Professor James G. Needham, PhD '98, Entomology, Emeritus, and Professor Liberty Hyde Bailey, Agriculture, Emeritus.

PROFESSOR FLORA ROSE, Grad '08, director of the College of Home Economics, was elected third state vice-president of the League of Women Voters October 15.

JOSEPH CONRAD WHETZEL, father of Professor Herbert H. Whetzel, Grad '04, Plant Pathology, died October 15 at his home in Forest Home.

WILLIAM M. SMITH, JR., Rural Social Organization, describes in a new Cornell bulletin, E-369 more than a hundred games suited to small groups. A good game, he points out, must be enjoyable to all the players, does not make anyone "the goat," gives everyone a chance to lead, and promotes sociability.

TRUSTEES MEET CHANGES

Temporary reorganization of the administration of the College of Engineering, made necessary by the death of Dean Herman Diederichs '97, was completed by the Board of Trustees at a meeting of its committee on general administration October 9. With Professor S. C. Hollister now acting Dean of the College, Professor Paul M. Lincoln acting Director of Electrical Engineering, and Professor William N. Barnard '97 acting Director of Mechanical Engineering, the Board has appointed Professor Paul H. Underwood '07 acting Director of Civil Engineering.

Professor Underwood has been a member of the Civil Engineering staff since he received the CE degree in 1907, first as instructor, then assistant professor, and since 1922 as professor in charge of the surveying courses. During 1932-34 he was chairman of the administrative committee of the School.

At the same meeting the Board was notified of the resignation of Professor

John G. Jenkins '23, Psychology, effective at the end of this term. He will become head of the department of psychology at the University of Maryland, College Park, Md. Professor Jenkins entered the Arts College in 1919 with State cash and tuition scholarships, was a member of the Freshman cross country team and the Dramatic Club. He received the AB degree in '23; then taught at Iowa State College, where he received the MS in '27, and at University of Illinois, and returned to Cornell as an assistant in Psychology in 1928 and received the PhD that year. The next year he was appointed acting assistant professor, and two years later became assistant professor of psychology. Besides teaching courses in elementary psychology and problems, he organized courses in psychotechnology, dealing with the vocations, which have been required of students in Administrative Engineering and taken by many others. It is this field which he will develop at Maryland in a new department, dealing with the applied phases. He is the author of a textbook, Psychology in Business and Industry, published in 1935.

Professor Jenkins is also well known to alumni, having spoken often at Cornell Clubs and other gatherings as a member of the Faculty committee on relations with secondary schools. Last April, for example, he spoke at meetings arranged by Cornell Clubs in Detroit, Toledo, St. Paul and Minneapolis, Milwaukee, and New York City. He is a member of Sigma Pi. Mrs. Jenkins was Valerie E. Frosch '19.

GRADUATE FELLOWSHIPS

Announcement of two current opportunities for graduate fellowships come to us. The Commission for Relief in Belgium announces a limited number of advanced fellowships for study in Belgium, open only to qualified candidates who are members of the faculty of an American college, university, or research institute, or to those preparing for teaching or research. Basic stipend is $140 monthly for living expenses, with traveling expense added. Applications are due before November 15 for the following year. Forms and information may be obtained from The Secretary, CBR Educational Foundation, Inc., 420 Lexington Avenue, New York City.

Yale University announces the Alexander Brown Coxe Memorial Fellowships, established to aid "investigators of promise in the comprehensive field of the biological sciences, including medicine." Preference is given to persons who have already received the PhD or MD degree. Stipends vary, some amounting to $2,500, and with possibility of additional grants for specific research. Applications should be addressed to The Dean of the School of Medicine, Yale University, 333 Cedar Street, New Haven, Conn.

Concerning THE ALUMNI

'80 BS, '81 MS—Hosea Webster writes, "Please change my address for the much enjoyed and appreciated ALUMNI NEWS to 1011 Lisbon Street, Coral Gables, Fla. I expect to be there until May 1, 1938, for protection from the rigors of winter in this latitude."

'83 PhB—Charles R. Browning and Mrs. Browning celebrated their golden wedding anniversary October 6 at their Llewellyn Park, West Orange, N. J., home, with a reception for several hundred guests and a dinner for fifty. They have three daughters, eight grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

'84 BCE—Daniel W. Mead, past president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, addressed that society October 7, condemning as economically unsound many of the Government's public works projects, including TVA, the Grand Coulee Dam, the Fort Peck Dam, and Passamaquoddy. He attacked the element of haste which had characterized all of these major projects and called for full publicity on all future engineering reports on such public undertaking. However, he praised the design and construction methods of the projects.

'84 BS, '87 MS—Dr. Henry P. deForest was awarded the Grand Lodge Fifty Year Medal October 5, at a meeting of the Hiram Lodge, No. 144, Fulton. He spoke on "Masonic Experiences of a Half Century at Home and Abroad." He writes, "My second and third degrees were conferred while I was a graduate student at Cornell, by Fidelity Lodge, No. 51, in Ithaca."

'90 BL—Clarence J. Shearn, former Justice of the Appellate Division and former president of the Bar Association of the City of New York, is chairman of the lawyers' committee of the Thomas E. Dewey Citizens' Committee. Shearn was a prime mover in the naming of Dewey as special rackets prosecutor. Of him, Shearn says, "Four years of Mr. Dewey and his staff in the District Attorney's office will stamp out crime in this community for a generation. His defeat would be an invitation to organized crime to return for business at the old stand."

'92 LLB; '99 MD—Mrs. Charles V. Paterno recently gave stained glass windows to the Portville Methodist Church, Portville, in memory of her brother, Ray E. Middaugh '92. Mrs. Paterno is the wife of Dr. Charles F. Paterno '99.

advisory council of the Herald Tribune Home Institute.

'97 PhB, '03 AM, '05 PhD—Resignation of Dr. Willard E. Hotchkiss as president of Armour Institute of Technology was announced October 12. He had been president since 1933, and taught previously at University of Pennsylvania, Northwestern, was dean of the school of commerce at Minnesota, and of the graduate school of business administration at Stanford. He has also served on many government and state commissions. President Hotchkiss submitted his resignation to the trustees of Armour Institute in his annual report for the year ending August 31, 1937. The report points out that the work of reorganization which he was asked to undertake in 1932 "has been completed." Results are summarized as "(1) to cut annual operating deficits . . . (2) to bring the educational program of the Institute better into line with approved standards of engineering education, and (3) to promote new educational services." "For the greater part of my life," the report continues, "my interests have centered decidedly in the field of education, but those of you who know me best are aware that for many years I have taken an active part in industry and in public service and have had an intense interest in those fields. At the time your committee invited me to come to Armour, it was my purpose to devote the rest of my life to those interests. . . . the times seem to call for public and industrial service in lines in which my past experience lies, and I should be insincere if I did not confess to looking forward to such service with genuine enthusiasm."

'00 Grad—Charles A. Beard, American historian, is on the board of directors and the advisory board of the newly-formed Institute for Propaganda Analysis, initially financed by the Good Will Fund. Its letters, entitled "Propaganda Analysis," are intended for the perusal of educators, students, publishers, journalists, business men, trade unionists, ministers, and welfare workers.

From Twenty States

and Puerto Rico alumni had by last week sent for the new book,

CORNELL IN PICTURES

And still the orders are rolling in, from near and far, with Europe and the Far East undoubtedly yet to be counted.

It's no wonder that so many Cornellians hurry to buy this remarkable picture book of Cornell. A work of art in itself, its fine large photographs, beautifully printed on coated paper, bring you again the remembered Campus scenes and much that is new. Buildings, gorges, views over the hills and the Lake—all are here for you to enjoy again and again.

Cornell fathers send it to their sons away at school; lots of orders are for two books; others are sending it to Cornell friends. Remember, Christmas is not far off, and you, too

WHEN YOU FLY

... you ride the Western Electric voiceways

When you travel on these sixteen major airlines, Western Electric's flying telephone is your staunch friend. It advises your pilot of changing weather—enables him to talk with airports—helps him to bring you through on schedule.

This radio telephone equipment—an outgrowth of Bell Telephone making—is a worthy member of a large family of sound-transmission products.

Seasoned over Hickory Logs In the Old Southern Manner

Years ago, the gentlemen of the South learned that tobacco takes on a most delicious flavor and aroma when allowed to hang over slow-burning hickory logs in the open hearth.

Since then, nothing has ever been found to equal this unique and natural method. And it is this old Southern style of seasoning tobacco that gives Blue Boar its distinguished character. For it imparts to Blue Boar's choice tobaccos a fragrant, mellow taste that is carefully retained by skilful hand-blending and re-blending.

If you want a cool, slow-burning smoke of incomparable flavor, try Blue Boar. The first whiff will tell you why this distinctive tobacco has been the choice of connoisseurs, decade after decade.
