What would you do with some
3,3,5-trimethylcyclohexanol-1?

EVEN we know only a little of what you might do with it... yet. Trimethylcyclohexanol (you pronounce it try'-meth'-il-sy'-klo-hex'-an-ohl) is a new industrial chemical by CARBIDE AND CARBON CHEMICALS CORPORATION...made with atoms obtained from common substances, rearranged into molecules that are not known to exist in nature.

What's this new synthetic organic chemical good for? No one yet knows all of the useful things it might be made to do. If you are technically minded you'll find some of the facts so far discovered in the italicized paragraph at the right. Whatever your interest, you will be glad to know that this new chemical has potential uses in the making of such things as medicines, plastics, lubricating oils, and adhesives.

In their service to industry as incubators for raw materials, the laboratories of this Unit of UCC are continually developing such new chemicals. An almost predictable percentage of them prove to be extremely valuable. Out of hundreds already developed have come scores from which scientists in industry have developed useful products of many kinds.

Some of the chemicals are used to make superior anti-freezes. Others are raw materials for quantity production of vitamins and life-saving drugs. Still others make possible improved cosmetics, plastics, textiles, photofilm, insect repellents, anesthetics...and hundreds of things of benefit to you in your daily life.

Through continuing research which is developing new materials out of common substances, CARBIDE AND CARBON CHEMICALS CORPORATION is helping to make many things more plentiful or more useful. And the research of this one Unit...in that field which often must appear to the layman as "unknown chemicals"...gives you an idea of what the combined research of all UCC Units in many basic fields means to you.

As Trimethylcyclohexanol is one of the newest additions to this family of synthetic organic chemicals, its story is still incomplete.

It is an alcohol with a high boiling point (388° Fahrenheit). At room temperature, it is a white solid with an odor like menthol. It dissolves in other alcohols, gasoline, benzene, ethers, and vegetable oils like linseed oil, but does not dissolve in water. It can be supplied in carload quantities if and when the need arises.

Technically minded men and women can obtain information on the properties and uses of more than 160 other products of Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corporation by writing for Booklet P-5, "Synthetic Organic Chemicals."

Salesmanship

Good salesmanship, in the last analysis, depends on the product. You can sell a brand of beans once, but if it gives the eater a stomach-ache, you'll never sell him another can, no matter how glib your tongue.

That's why it's easy to sell The Grosvenor. The truth about it makes good copy. Guests like the

Post-War Education Symposium Continues

By Robert M. Ogden '00
Dean of Arts and Sciences

THE most arresting feature of the Army and Navy programs of study in the College of Arts and Sciences is the attempt to coordinate all courses and bring them definitely to bear upon various phases of the war effort. We are being constantly reminded by the military authorities that we are training soldiers and sailors for war and not for peace-time occupations and leisure. Although it is yet too early to assess the results of this enterprise, the need has long been felt of a better coordination between a student's course in college and his subsequent course in life.

Studies Need Coordination

The failure of an elective system of study in which a student takes such subjects as he thinks he would like has been the student's inability to coordinate what he learns so as to make one thing bear upon another. When a student is free to choose items from twenty or thirty departments of study, the result is likely to be intellectual indigestion. We did not need a war to make us realize this fact.

All recent modifications of the College curriculum and requirements for graduation have been attempts to overcome this cafeteria style of educational service in which the desserts are sometimes more appealing than the main courses. In recent years, the most common means of attempting coordination have been the so-called survey-courses in which a field of study rather than a definite subject is offered in a single course. Yet in presenting the high lights and "big ideas" of physical science, biological science, social science, and the humanities, each in one large dose, intellectual indigestion has also been prevalent. The major fields of study have remained as remote from one another as have the several more precise and detailed courses of instruction which they supplanted.

The new idea of a set of coordinated courses for war may lead to a similar coordination of courses for peace. In both cases, the coordinating principles are the student's objective and the means whereby this objective is attained. If these principles are observed, we teachers must ask ourselves what our students are preparing to do in life, and what they need in order to do it. Thus the new post-war education may be expected to frame its program along broad vocational lines, while appropriate methods of instruction are devised to further the ends of good living. We who advocate the liberal arts will perhaps no longer be obsessed with the notion that training for a vocation in life is something beneath the dignity of a scholar. We shall come to realize, I think, that the motive of a life's work is the most impelling and promising of all the interests which a student may be expected to have. Methods calculated to promote both efficiency and enjoyment are the ones to be chosen in order to provide a well-knit program of study.

Must Stress "Ideas"

This does not mean that in the new curriculum stenography and typewriting, office practice, salesmanship, accounting, family life, and scientific technologies will replace language and literature, mathematics, history, experimental science, and philosophy. Just as the departmental subjects of the past have been over-specialized and remote from one another, so the practical techniques which have been coming into the curriculum have often been narrow and unrewarding as means of acquiring a general education.

The means which will promote the ends of efficiency and enjoyment are not merely those of technical proficiency. The acquisition and use of "ideas" are still our major educational assets. Without "ideas," the individual remains a mere technician. Efficiency in the use of a typewriter or an adding machine does not bring wisdom with it as a by-product. Before one can become an educated man or woman, one must learn the usage of language, numbers, and manipulations with a content which both informs and quickens the understanding.

By Professor E. J. Simmons
Head of Department of Slavic

ALTHOUGH war is a terrible destroyer of human culture, it must be admitted that the present conflict is stimulating more constructive and far-reaching thought on education than any single event in the previous history of this country. Despite the victory of the last war, the failure of the peace had an adverse effect on progressive educational thinking and induced a cynicism and an intellectual isolationism of which our political isolationism over the last twenty years has been simply an unfortunate by-product.

Military victory will be ours once again, and now, with a nation keenly aware of the tragic failure of the past, we are determined this time to win the peace also. And winning the peace means that our country, if it is going to help prevent future wars, will be committed to an unparalleled and far-flung international cooperation, politically, economically, and educationally. We cannot talk intelligently about the century of the common man without knowing how the common man lives in countries other than America.

Requires World Citizenship

The whole future of the peace is closely connected with the ability of our people to become citizens of the world, as well as citizens of America. And that can come about only by a type of education that will provide us with a sympathetic understanding of the political and social problems and the national aspirations of the nations with which we must live. The educational solution of this problem rests largely with the colleges of arts and sciences and the graduate schools of our universities.

Somehow, the conviction has been firmly established that a liberal education must be rooted in the study of the best of the religions, art, and history of the past. I believe that study of human values in intellectual discipline, which has commonly been centered in civilization's accomplishments in the past, may be applied with equal validity to civilization's accomplishments in the present. Languages must be learned so that they may be used as sharp tools in the practical business of understanding foreign peoples and their way of life. And in such fields of study, emphasis must be placed on a comprehensive knowledge of the contemporary civilization of foreign countries and not merely upon their literary tasks.

Now what is Cornell doing to meet these new demands? Let us take first the matter of foreign language teaching.

Russian Courses Successful

More than two years ago, under the sponsorship of the American Council of Learned Societies, Cornell set up as an experiment extensive courses in the study of the Russian language. To supplement this language study, Cornell introduced last summer, with the financial support of the Rockefeller Foundation, an experimental comprehensive and integrated study of the contemporary civilization of Russia. The results of this experiment were strikingly successful and they provided a conclusive test, both from the point of view of educational methodology and academic organization, of the validity of an integrated and comprehensive education in the contemporary civilization of an area or country. Further, the highly important work being done in the area and language courses of the Army Specialized Training Program at Cornell supports in many respects the educational conclusions drawn from these experiments.

Clearly, such a type of international education will help to revitalize the liberal arts and will infuse into them that increment of utility which has been lacking in a system that has failed to adjust itself fully to the educational needs of our modern civilization. More than this, such education is an emphatic step in the direction of international understanding and cooperation, for the intolerance often manifested toward foreign peoples is born of our ignorance of their way of life.

Cornell Can Lead

Nations desperately need to know the whole truth about each other, for the truth will set them free from the deeply rooted prejudices and national antagonisms that lead to war. And such truths can come only through education conceived on an international basis and dedicated to the high purpose of promoting peace among the nations of the world.

If such courses can be further developed and eventually introduced into the regular framework of the University—steps that will require the wisdom of the administration and Trustees, the full cooperation of the Faculty, the loyal support of the alumni—then Cornell will simply be living up to its noble tradition as one of the great pioneer forces in American education.

Adams in Schenectady

CORNELL Women's Club of Schenectady had as guest speaker April 18 Professor Bristow Adams, Agriculture Publications, who told them about Cornell, "past, present, and future." Thirty-five members attended the supper meeting at the home of Mrs. Anthony Hoadley (Elizabeth Little) '26, on the Union College campus. Mrs. Walter Muir (Dorothy Saunders) '30, president of the Club, introduced the speaker. A contribution was raised for the Federation Scholarship Fund. Chairmen of the committee for the supper were Mrs. Winton I. Patnode (Evelyn Bassage) '29 and Mrs. Dallas Hurd (Mary L. Thompson), MS '41.

Trustees Appoint

APPOINTMENTS to the Faculty of four new professors were approved by the University Board of Trustees, meeting at the Medical College in New York, April 15.

Dr. Curtis P. Nettels will be professor of American History in the College of Arts and Sciences. He comes from the University of Wisconsin, where he became instructor in 1923 and professor in 1933. A native of Kansas, he received the AB at University of Kansas in 1921 and the AM in 1922 and PhD in 1926 at Wisconsin. Recipient of a Guggenheim Fellowship in 1928, he has contributed extensively to historical journals; is now engaged in a study of George Washington and his times.

Robert H. Dalton comes to the College of Home Economics as professor of Family Life. Since last fall instructor of psychology at the Women's College of the University of North Carolina, he is a candidate for the PhD at Harvard and has studied also at Columbia. He received the AB at Duke University in 1934 and the MA at Trinity College in 1938. He has been counsellor at a settlement house in Hartford, Conn., and at St. Christopher's School in Dobbs Ferry; was chaplain at the Federal Penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa.; and from 1940-42 was educational assistant to the clinical director of the New Jersey State Hospital at Greystone Park, N. in the College of Agriculture. Except for five years of teaching at the University of Illinois and Nebraska and as research fellow at Yale, he has been in China since he received the PhD at University of Pennsylvania in 1915. He took the AB at Pennsylvania in 1912. For ten years he taught at Cheeloo University, and from 1929 to the outbreak of the war he was professor of biochemistry at Yenching University in China. He has conducted research on the metabolism of Oriental diets and has published many papers in chemical and physiological journals.

New assistant professor of Plant Breeding in the College of Agriculture is Dr. Sanford S. Atwood, who has been since 1937 working on improvement of grass and legume crops at the Federal pasture research laboratory at State College, Pa. He received the BS in 1934, the MA in 1935, and the PhD in 1937 at University of Wisconsin.

The Trustees appointed Professor M. Lovell Hulse, PhD '34, Education, to be assistant director of the 1944 Summer Session, which will run from July 3 to August 11. Professor Hulse will assist Director Loren C. Petry, who since last fall has been supervising the basic course for members of the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps.

Post-War Education

The contents of understanding are the achievements of man's reasoned inquiry into all the special fields of knowledge which constitute the present curricula of the colleges. While no one can hope to know all there is to know of the wealth of information and theory which is on tap in the varied departments of a college, one can, with the aid of an appropriate selection of content, learn to read, write, speak, and figure out for himself whatever he needs to know as he goes along in the College, and whatever he will need to know thereafter.

Some persons need to know more than others, and some have more talent and interest in knowing than others do. Yet everyone who is entitled to a higher education can be brought to his own level of attainment, provided we see to it that the elementary exercise of the primary skills of reading, writing, speaking, and figuring are not neglected. For these, rather than a mass of undigested information, are the means, and their attainment is the primary end, of formal education. Even if the College must resort to "refresher" and "remedial" courses in the "three r's" in order to achieve this end, the time will not be wasted nor the effort beneath our dignity. We must, however, realize the defects of our present practices and results before we can plan a better coordination of these essential skills with the informational content of a curriculum calculated to produce more useful, more intelligent, and more appreciative citizens.

Alumni Fund Representatives Open Spring Campaign

STARTING the 1944 spring campaign for the Alumni Fund, fifty-eight Class representatives of the Fund, officers, and guests gathered for dinner at the Cornell Club of New York, April 14. Harold L. Bache '16, vice-president of the Alumni Fund Council and chairman of the dinner committee, presided as toastmaster.

President Edmund E. Day told of the war's effects on enrollment and the finances of the University, and predicted that next year would be critical because of curtailment of Army and Navy college training programs and expected further decrease in civilian men students.

Edward E. Goodwillie '10, president of the Fund Council, recounted the history of the Alumni Fund and pointed out that although last year's total gifts of more than $185,000 constituted a new record, the 8,405 contributors were but a small percentage of the University's total of 64,000 alumni.

Larry E. Gubb '16, president of the Cornell Alumni Association, spoke of the Association's program and cooperation with the Alumni Fund Council. Mrs. George H. Hill (Dorothy Lampe) '26 spoke as member of the Council executive committee. The toastmaster also introduced two Trustee guests, members of the committee on University planning: Maxwell M. Upson '99, chairman of the subcommittee on public relations, and Albert R. Mann '04, chairman of the subcommittee on alumni relations.

Walter C. Heasley, Jr. '30, executive secretary of the Alumni Fund, reported that this year's Fund since July 1 amounts to $76,507.32 from 3,494 contributors, as compared with $89,635.59 at the same time last year from 3,489 contributors. He said that in every month of the present fiscal year, except December and January, the Fund has exceeded the same months of the previous year. In December, 1942, and January, 1943, the Fund received five gifts which totalled $27,000, and these put it ahead of this year.

For the success of this year's Alumni Fund which closes next June 30, Heasley stressed the importance of Class representatives and their committees increasing the number of contributors from their Classes, getting "repeat" gifts by inducing more alumni to become regular annual contributors, and increasing the average amount of gifts as the ability of Classmates to make gifts grows. A letter from President Day has been mailed to all Cornellians to open the 1944 spring campaign, Heasley reported, followed by a letter from Goodwillie as president of the Alumni Fund Council. He pointed out that the Alumni Fund office is prepared to give detailed assistance to Class representatives and committees in soliciting gifts from their Classmates for the unrestricted use of the University.

Besides the persons named, the following Cornellians attended the dinner:

George T. Long '90, George T. Hogg '92, Ellis L. Phillips '95, Emmett B. Carter '99,

Club Talks Alumni

SEVENTY-TWO members of the Cornell Club of Maryland attended the annual dinner March 10 at The Longfellow in Baltimore. Topic for discussion was "University-Alumni Relations" and principal speakers were Dr. Albert R. Mann '04, chairman of the University Trustees' subcommittee on alumni relations; Creed W. Fulton '09, toastmaster and recently president of the Cornell Alumni Association; and Ralph Bolgiano '09, president of the Club.

Dr. Mann touched upon the importance of alumni financial support and mentioned also the contributions of alumni as staff members and in their own achievements. The greatness of a university, he said, is largely determined by its two products: its contribution to knowledge, and the quality, capacity for achievement, and performance of its alumni. Fulton spoke of the recent development of closer alumni relations at Cornell, to make the University and its alumni "partners in a common enterprise." Bolgiano suggested that Cornellians be better informed of the scientific work being carried on at the University. Several members contributed to the discussion, including Trustee Ezra B. Whitman '01, Gustave J. Requardt '09, and J. Douglas Colman '32.

The Club re-elected its officers: Bolgiano, president; John deB. Shepard '29, vice-president; George W. Snibbe, Jr. '22, secretary; Roy H. Ritter '30, treasurer.

Party in Africa

CORNELL Reunion in North Africa March 14 was organized by Sarah R. Steinman '39, staff assistant in the American Red Cross, and Lieutenant Neal R. Stamp '40, Army Special Service officer. They advertised the party in the Army newspaper, Stars and Stripes, requisitioned the Red Cross mess hall, and got together two cases of local beer and a lot of cheese sandwiches.

"We had seen letters in the ALUMNI NEWS from others overseas," writes Miss Steinman. "We all seem to agree on the delight of getting news of Cornell and in running into fellow Cornellians. We knew of about five men in this area and decided to try a Cornell party and see what would happen."

Twenty-two alumni attended, and according to Miss Steinman, "we had a dandy time, in true Cornell style. Some ensign played the piano and we sang every Cornell song ever written. Also, the beer was so typically Cornell that it put everyone back in the old college spirit and was a great success." Robert O. Klausmeyer '38, Robert L. Wiggans '40, and David L. Kemp '46, unable to attend the party, came into Miss Steinman's office afterwards to find out about it and read the roster of those present.

This register of twenty-two signatures, headed "Cornell-North Africa, March 14, '44," contains the names of Frederic W. Hodge '27, T. Rodney Crowley '34, Harry A. Rinder '34, Garrett V. Ryerson '34, Daniel S. Stevenson '34, James H. Cooke '36, Robert N. Denniston '36, Edward H. Weeks '36, Charles M. Scholz '39, Sarah R. Steinman '39, Neal R. Stamp '40, Joseph J. Alumni To Vote on Revising Association By-Laws

By PHILLIPS WYMAN '17, CHAIRMAN, BY-LAW REVISION COMMITTEE

FOR every Cornell man and woman, there is a new charter of rights and privileges in the proposed changes in the Alumni Association By-laws to be voted on at the annual meeting in Ithaca, June 24.

A great step forward was taken by Cornell alumni when the good work of Creed W. Fulton '09 and Elbert P. Tuttle '18 resulted in the reorganization of the former Cornell Alumni Corporation into the present Cornell Alumni Association to serve as the coordinating body of the various alumni groups. Now, after five years of observing the Association in action, alumni will have opportunity to take another great step, in giving their Association better opportunity to function and of making it more truly representative of all alumni.

To accomplish this is the purpose of the presently proposed revisions of the By-laws; they provide the legal machinery for a growing and truly effective alumni organization. By-laws are not usually thrillers, but every Cornellian who studies these revisions will find in them a forecast of the future which should be thrilling indeed.

To Federate Men's Clubs

How can the Cornell alumni organization be made stronger? At what points can it be improved? Close study and analysis have shown that improvements must meet the following questions:

1. How can local Cornell Clubs be increased in number and strength?

The Alumni Association, as now constituted, has been trying to do the job of a federation of men's clubs, along with its own job of coordinating all alumni groups. The result has been that local clubs have been hampered by the machinery and procedures required for an over-all body such as the Alumni Association. Furthermore, the fact that the Alumni Association has had a divided responsibility has hampered it in the concentrated work of developing and cooperating with local Cornell Clubs. There are about 40,000 male alumni of the University; but only about 2 or 3 per cent of them belong to any local Cornell group. And many areas are not adequately served by Cornell Clubs. The importance of local Clubs cannot be over-estimated; on their effectiveness depends to a vital extent the calibre of the student body and the long term support of the Alumni Fund. The logical solution to these problems is to organize a strong Federation of Men's Cornell Clubs within the Alumni Association. This is not only specifically provided for in the proposed By-laws, but a resolution adopted by the directors of the Alumni Association provides:

"That the Committee of District Directors with the chairman of the Men's Secondary School Committee shall have responsibility and complete authority to form a Federation of Men's Cornell Clubs, to promote co-ordination and a spirit of amity and cooperation between the respective men's Clubs, to the end that such Clubs may be encouraged and assisted in their collective aims of furthering the best interests of the University and of all alumni; and that as and when such Federation of Men's Cornell Clubs is organized and recognized by the Board of Directors, the president of such Federation shall become a member of the Board of Directors of the Association, as provided in Article III, Section 5."

Another resolution of the Board of Directors provides:

"That the men's Secondary School Committee of the Alumni Association be continued as at present until such time as it is incorporated into the Federation of Men's Cornell Clubs."

For Wider Participation

2. How can the work of all alumni groups of the University be more closely coordinated so that each will be able to be most effective for the benefit of Cornell?

The old By-laws do not provide for the heads of these various groups to get together to discuss the broad plans and policies that are needed. In addition, the delegates now provided, if they function at all, are handicapped in representing their organizations on general policies by not being the functional heads. The solution to this problem obviously lies in making the Alumni Association Board of Directors, and especially its Executive Committee, not only a representative body but also a functioning one. This will be accomplished by having the Board composed of the presidents or chairmen of all the different alumni groups.

3. How can the Alumni Association and all its activities be given the broadest possible base of interest and support among alumni generally?

At present, because a large proportion of alumni are not reached at all, the tremendous value to Cornell of a widespread sense of participation is not realized. For example, district directors of the Alumni Association are now elected at the biennial conventions, which are usually attended by only about 100 to 150 alumni. The natural solution of this situation is to elect the seven district directors by a mail ballot of all alumni. The proposed revisions provide for a nominating committee in each district which would seek out and encourage the best-qualified candidates to represent that district. To stimulate nominations, any ten alumni in the district could also nominate a director.

These sensible solutions to organization problems are the basis for the proposed revisions of the By-laws. Specific changes in wording are designed to implement these broad policies in smoothly functioning machinery. For example, the proposed make-up of the Board of Directors and Executive Committee is covered in Article III, Section 5, and in Article V, Section 17 as printed below; and a number of strong working committees are also provided for in the latter section. The new election procedure for district directors is described in Article III, Section 9.

These By-laws are not merely legal phrases; they express a living thing. There is no other relationship which is quite the same as that between a university and its alumni. Cornell has helped to make its alumni what they are; and they have it in their power to help make Cornell what it can be in the future. That is why the new By-laws make possible not only new rights and privileges for all Cornellians, but also give alumni the challenge of new opportunities.

New Football Schedule

THE football team will play nine games this fall, one less than last year, but the first contest, with Syracuse at Syracuse October 23, is tentative. Syracuse has called spring football practice, but there is still some question whether it will resume the sport.

If Syracuse plays, the game with Cornell will be at night. If Syracuse does not play, Cornell will seek another opponent for that date, Robert J. Kane '34, acting director of Physical Education and Athletics, said in announcing the schedule.

Of last year's opponents, Penn State, Princeton, and Holy Cross do not appear on the 1944 schedule. Yale comes back to the schedule, in addition to Syracuse. The complete schedule:

September 23	Syracuse at Syracuse (tentative)
30	Bucknell at Ithaca
October 7	Yale at New Haven
14	Colgate at Ithaca
21	Sampson Naval Training Station at Ithaca
November 4	Columbia at New York
11	US Naval Academy at Baltimore
18	Dartmouth at Ithaca
25	Pennsylvania at Philadelphia

In previous engagements, Cornell has fared as follows with these opponents: Syracuse, 14 victories in 20 games; Bucknell, 18 victories in 19 games; Yale, 3 victories in 7 games; Colgate, 22 victories in 30 games, with 2 ties; Sampson, 1 victory in 1 game; Columbia, 17 victories in 31 games, with 3 ties; Naval Academy, no victories in 2 games; Dartmouth, 12 victories in 27 games, with 1 tie; and Pennsylvania, 12 victories in 50 games, with 3 ties.

Coach Carl G. Snavelly, beginning his ninth season at Cornell, has a record of 41 victories, 22 defeats, and 3 ties in eight years. He is now working with a squad of nearly eighty men. Bad weather has retarded their development somewhat, and the emphasis is still on fundamentals. When weather prevents outdoor practice, Snavelly shows motion pictures of past games and points out good plays and bad mistakes to the current squad.

Some of the civilians on the squad may be affected by new Selective Service regulations which call for speedy induction of men eighteen through twenty-five. Asked about new prospects in the squad, which has only a few veterans of last year's team,

Snavelly said, "It's too early to tell now, and remember, all we've been doing is working on fundamentals."

Spring practice will close with an intra-squad game, May 6.

Notes and Comment

THE baseball team played its first practice game on Hoy Field April 20, defeating an Army Specialized Training Program team, 7-5, in five innings.

Norman Dawson, Jr. '46 has returned to the squad and is expected to regain the first base assignment now held by John R. Godsell, USNR. Dawson played first base last season.

SEVERAL changes in spring schedules have been announced. Massachusetts Institute of Technology will compete in rowing with Cornell, Columbia, and the US Naval Academy at Annapolis May 13 and at Ithaca May 20. Cornell and Penn State have exchanged lacrosse dates. Penn State will play in Ithaca May 20, Spring Day, and Cornell will play at State College June 10. Cornell's tennis match with Colgate at Ithaca has been shifted from June 17 to May 24.

COACH Richard Lewis has cut the tennis squad from fifty-three to sixteen men. The six leading performers, on the basis of indoor workouts and not too much practice on the Cascadilla Courts, are Hugh Ogburn, USNR, formerly of Princeton; Richard Greenawalt, USNR, formerly of Penn State; John Gnaedinger '47; John Smith '46; Hugh Sloan '46; and David Archbald, USNR, from Nichols Preparatory School, Buffalo.

BOARD track has been taken down at Schoellkopf, and the track and field men are back to terra firma under the watchful eye of Coach John F. Moakley and Assistant Coach Edward G. Ratkoski '35. There are only a few holdovers from the winter and summer teams. Among them are James M. Hartshorne, USNR, a jumper, and Ferdinand Wascoe, USNR, javelin thrower, both from Princeton; Richard Kuhn, USNR, distance runner, from Erie Academy; Milton T. Smith, USNR, sprinter, from George Washington High School; and George A. Chalfant, USNR, middle distance runner, from Hofstra College. Wascoe was undefeated in javelin competition last summer, and Hartshorne placed second in the broad jump at the Indoor Intercollegiates.

SPRING sports rosters just issued by the Athletic Office show that three men on the baseball squad are from the Fleet. They are Malcolm J. Baxter and John R. Godsell, infielders, and Jack A. Shillinger, outfielder. All are in the V-12 program.

The rosters also show that many athletes have had experience at other universities and colleges. Represented are Pittsburgh, Worcester Polytechnic, New Hampshire, Newark College of Engineering, Iowa State, Clarkson, St. Lawrence, Norwich, Harvard, Princeton, Penn State, MIT, Alfred, Columbia, Fordham, Hofstra, Maryland, Union, and Northwestern.

Sports for All Men

PHYSICAL training for Army, Navy, and civilian students has moved outdoors again to thirty-eight fields laid out on Upper and Lower Alumni Fields, the tennis courts, and the adjacent obstacle course and practice track.

Physical training classes start at 8 a.m. and go through to 6 p.m., with the last 1½ hours of every day devoted to voluntary participation in the sports that comprise the intramural program. Approximately 500 men take part every hour, a weekly total of 18,500.

Directing this huge program is George K. James, who is also head coach of baseball. He is assisted by Coaches Carl Snavelly, Max Read, J. Russell Murphy, Emerald B. Wilson, Ray Van Orman '08, R. Leo Cullen, Richard Lewis, Walter C. O'Connell '12, G. Scott Little, John F. Moakley, Edward G. Ratkoski '35, Nicholas Bawlf, George Hall, R. Harrison Sanford, and Norman Sonju; Trainers Frank Kavanagh and Ray Morey; Professor Frederick G. Marcham, PhD '26, History; and George Rice, Grad.

Army trainees are handled during three periods each day, from 8 to 10 a.m., from 10 a.m. to noon, and from 2:40 to 4:40 p.m. The first forty-five minutes of each period is devoted to formal exercises in charge of Trainer Kavanagh. The men devote the rest of the periods to games.

The Navy program is run in hourly periods through the day to 4:30, and the civilian program in hourly periods to 5:30 p.m.

In all three programs, all men take the obstacle course.

The Navy program is in two parts. Entering trainees have a formal program of tumbling, apparatus, running, combatives, boxing, wrestling, and relay races. After one term, if their scores are above average in the Navy strength test, the men are allowed to move into the game program.

Civilians have only a game program, and each man has an opportunity to select his sport. The games provided are touch football, softball, speedball, soccer, volley ball, pushball, and outdoor basketball. The program is rotated so that a man does not go through the same routine two days in succession.

Army and civilian programs are supervised entirely by members of the Physical Education and Athletics Department staff. In the Navy program, the coaches are assisted by six chief petty officer specialists.

These compulsory programs lead up to the voluntary intramural sports which operate from 4:30 to 6 p.m. daily under the over-all supervision of Coach Bawlf. Bawlf is also directly in charge of civilian intramurals. Army intramurals are directed by Second Lieutenant C. E. Peterson and Navy intramurals by Lieutenant Harry G. Skuden. The officers appoint men in each barracks to organize intramural teams.

Intramural leagues will be organized this spring in touch football, soccer, softball, tennis, volley ball, track, and golf. They will wind up in June with championship series among the Army, Navy, and civilian teams in all sports except track. Track championships will be decided in one big week-end meet in June.

Second-term Navy men and civilians who are on Varsity sports squads are excused from compulsory physical training. Army trainees are not eligible for Varsity teams.

Costume Piece

CORNELL Dramatic Club presented the Granville-Barker adaptation of Arthur Schnitzler's romantic tableau, "Anatol," April 15, 21, and 22 in the Willard Straight Theater.

First published by the Viennese Noel Coward in 1893, "Anatol" is an old-fashioned, leisurely play in seven long episodes. The hero, a bachelor of means and methods, is shown at various stages of his private merry-go-round, accompanied by a succession of females and sometimes by his Fidus Achates, Max. The costumes, sets, and musical interludes were pleasing, as were the females, but the pace was unnecessarily slow.

Morrell M. Shoemaker, Jr. '46 of Martins Ferry, Ohio, played the roué, and was well supported by Richard P. Korf '46 of Danbury, Conn., as Max. Ina Hundinger '45 of Bronxville, and Edith B. Laurie '46 of Highland Park, N.J., brought two of the episodes admirably to life, and the rest of the company gave creditable performances.

The costume-piece was well received by all three audiences, most of whom relaxed gratefully in the atmosphere of old-world Vienna.

More Students To Go

SELECTIVE Service ruling of April 11 which abolished occupational deferment of most college students under twenty-six has not thus far had noticeable effect at the University, according to Professor A. Wright Gibson '17, chairman of the committee on student war service.

The new ruling makes subject to call by their local draft boards all students registered for Selective Service who are under twenty-six years, except those specializing in a few technical fields who will graduate before July 1, 1944, and students who have been accepted for entrance to veterinary or medical colleges before July 1. At Cornell, approximately fifty Seniors in Engineering, Agriculture, Bacteriology, Chemistry, Geology, Mathematics, Meteorology, and Physics will be graduated June 26 and eight or ten others will enter the Veterinary College June 30, and thus continue to be eligible for occupational deferment.

The Medical College in New York has advanced the date of matriculation for its next entering class from September 28, 1944, to June 30, in concert with other medical schools. This affects about a dozen pre-medical students now in the University who have been accepted for admission to the Cornell and other medical colleges.

Other physically fit Seniors and a previous quota of 146 additional students who are within two years of graduation in Engineering, Chemistry, Physics, and Geology, are no longer required to be deferred.

The Selective Service order has not resulted in an exodus of students for military service, Professor Gibson says. He thinks that many of those affected may be able to complete this term, even though they may be called by their draft boards for pre-induction physical examinations. He predicts, however, that not many physically fit civilian men will be in the University after the present term ends in June.

Petri To Play

CORNELL Women's Club of New York will sponsor a recital by Dr. Egon Petri, University Pianist-in-Residence, May 8 in Town Hall, New York City, to benefit the Federation Scholarship Fund. For several years past, the Club has arranged a spring musical event in New York City and they have contributed materially to the Fund which supports scholarships at the University for outstanding young women.

Alumni Trustee Mary H. Donlon '20 is honorary chairman of the committee for this year's concert. General chairman is Marjory A. Rice '29, president of the Cornell Women's Club of New York, and Eleanor C. Raynor '37 is vice-chairman of the committee. Reservations are in charge of Mrs. Carleton M. Cornell (Isabel Stewart) '35, 235 East Twenty-second Street, New York City 10.

Campus Red Cross campaign, extended to four weeks, exceeded its quota of $7,500 by $5.85. Included in the total is $1,526.36 raised by the variety show in Bailey Hall last February. Patricia A. Orling '45 of Upper Darby, Pa., and Adrien A. Duncan '44 of New York City were chairmen of the drive.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR ERIC DUDLEY, SEVENTY-ONE APRIL 17

Members of the First Presbyterian Church honor their director of forty-one years. Seated in front row are the Rev. and Mrs. Walter A. Dodds, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley, Mr. and Mrs. Evan J. Morris, Eugenia Van Cleef, and Professor Walter B. Carver, Mathematics. Morris was chairman of the party arrangements, which included a pantomime, games, singing by the Savage Club Quartet (with Thomas B. Tracy '31 replacing William B. Corcoran '23), a birthday cake, and presentation of a pipe and accessories to the guest of honor.

Durham A Delegate

CORNELL University delegate at the inauguration of the Rev. Edwin M. Poteat as president of Colgate-Rochester Divinity School in Rochester April 13 was Professor Charles L. Durham, '99, Latin, Emeritus. He was Cornell's official delegate when the now President Emeritus Albert W. Beaven was inaugurated as president of the newly-amalgamated Colgate-Rochester Divinity School in 1928.

Dean G. Watts Cunningham, PhD '08, of the Graduate School was the delegate of Furman University at the inauguration, but was prevented by illness from attending. Professor Durham therefore represented both Cornell and Furman, he and Professor Cunningham having been awarded honorary degrees at Furman.

President Poteat was the Sage Chapel Preacher here April 16.

February Degrees

DEGREES conferred by the University February 29, 1944, total 459. Of these, 349 were first degrees, many of which went to members of the Class of '44 who had accelerated their studies and were graduated early. Result of the University's war-accelerated program has been that the 338 degrees granted last October 23 and the 459 awarded in February total only 13 fewer than the number given at the last "normal" Commencement, May 24, 1943.

The AB went to 89 students in February. The BS was awarded to 100, of which 15 were in Agriculture, 89 in Home Economics, two in Hotel Administration. The BS in Nursing was conferred January 16, 1944, upon six graduates of the Cornell University-New York Hospital School of Nursing. Four Bachelors of Architecture were graduated, and one Bachelor of Laws degree was conferred February 19. Engineering degrees were awarded to 143 students: 5 CE, 19 ME, 14 EE, 29 ChemE, 6 BS in CE, 33 BS in ME, 16 BS in AE (including one as of October 23, 1943), 11 BS in EE, and 10 BS in ChemE.

Advanced degrees totalled 110. They included 4 Masters of Arts, 4 Masters of Science, 2 Masters of Science in Agriculture, 3 Masters of Science in Engineering, one Master of Civil Engineering, one Master of Mechanical Engineering, 20 Doctors of Philosophy, and 75 Doctors of Medicine (conferred December 23, 1943, in New York City). Included among those awarded the PhD are John L. Eaton '31, and Paul B. Marsh '37.

Now in My Time!

By Conroy Berry

THE Dutch Kitchen is just a restaurant. It's a very attractive one, we might add. It has colored, softened, and mellowed nicely with the years, as have its more ancient waiters.

But it's just a restaurant. Its former undergraduate, convivial and musical functions were taken over some years ago by the Tap Room, which adjoins it to the rear and extends back to the old coachyard where a century ago Luther Gere's old Concords set out almost hourly for Hoboken, Catskill, Auburn, Geneva, and Bath.

The Tap Room, while differing from the Dutch, has acquired an atmosphere and tradition of its own. There the unwanted can be pushed out into the secluded coachyard from time to time, instead of being thrown into State Street where they might collide with a passing dean. This is a big improvement. The place became immensely popular, particularly after it went on a straight co-educational basis.

Last week all singing stopped in the Tap Room. Mrs. Causer didn't do it; the sign says the order was issued by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. It is being rigidly enforced and obeyed.

Nobody seems able or disposed to give your reporter the reasons for these things. We suspect the phenomenon is not unrelated to the new 30 per cent tax on night clubs, which tax is not imposed on bar-rooms. The presence or absence of congregational singing might well be regarded in official quarters as marking the fine line of distinction between a night club and a mere bistro. That's our guess, anyway. Down at the Lehigh Valley House it's dancing, not singing, that adds 30 per cent to the check.

No word of protest has been heard; 30 per cent is worth a little sacrifice. And the bartenders seem to like the change. When we expressed mild astonishment at their supine acceptance of a radical innovation, they explained: "You see, Rym, it isn't like it was when you were in collegé; not like it was when Cubby Dowd and Eddie Burns did it, and after them Bill Forbes and Doc Umstad. All the singing around here for ten years has been nothing but moaning up to eleven o'clock, and after that nothing but screeching. It's been pretty hard on the bartenders, and we're not kicking about this change, Not the least bit."

If the bartenders don't mind, perhaps the older and more sentimental of the musical alumni had better calm down and restrain their natural inclinations in the premises. There isn't any substantial number of male undergraduates around, anyway. It's the Marines who have landed; the Fleet that is in; the Artillery that is rolling along. The Armed Forces get down town but once a week, and when they come they seem content to take their pleasures pretty grimly and without a musical accompaniment. There is no "Goodbye Dolly Gray" of the Spanish War; nothing of "Hinky Dinky Parlez-vous" as in that other one. This war is unlike its predecessors in that the chances of somebody getting hurt are generally regarded as much better in this one. That underlying realization has had its effect on the music, we'd say.

We don't know just what form undergraduate amusements will take when this thing is over. We suspect they'll be what the undergraduates regard as amusing; not necessarily what their elders would like to see them become, or remain. But we'd be willing to bet that there is no more chance of reviving "Honey" or "Down Mobile," rendered in harmony, than there is of reestablishing Luther Gere's stage lines to Hoboken, Catskill, and the unexplored sunset beyond the crest of West Hill.

WHAT PARENTS SAY ABOUT CAMP OTTER

"I wish you to know how much Ernest has enjoyed Camp Otter for past two summers. He now feels at home in the woods. This is especially gratifying to me because as a boy two of my best summers were spent at Camp Otter."

"He thoroughly enjoyed the summer and I feel that it did him a lot of good."—Cornell '26

"He has had a grand summer. I can tell from his letters that he enjoyed it tremendously and you certainly are to be congratulated in your handling of the boys."—Cornell '22

"We have enthusiastic letters from Porter. You'll be glad to know his reactions that its the 'nuts' up here and the food is swell and he likes his counselor 'Don' too."

"All the Fall I have intended to write and tell you how much Ford R. enjoyed his summer at camp, also how much we think it did for him."

"We certainly appreciate your interest in Barty and feel that the summer did him a lot of good."—Cornell '20

"Ted has been singing the praises of Camp Otter and relating the wonderful experiences he had ever since his return home."

"Just a line to assure you that Bruce's summer at Otter is repaying us a hundred per cent. He arrived home with more real boy cockiness and self assurance than we would think possible to instill in one boy in a short summer."

"I believe it has done him a world of good and certainly hope conditions are such that he will be able to go back next year."—Cornell '18

"I want you to know how pleased we are with the results of Thomas' eight weeks at Camp Otter, and how he has toughened up in such good shape."—Cornell '26

"I feel very much that Jimmy got considerable good out of camp and I think he thoroughly enjoyed himself."—Cornell '25

"I do not know how many years my boys have been attending your Camp Otter but I realize that it is a very long time. The camp has served a very useful purpose of carrying my boys through a period in their lives when I felt that camp life was important and facilities are just what boys need at that age."

"The boys had a grand summer and are in fine shape now."

"The kids arrived in good shape and are still full of camp. There is no doubt about their having had a good time."—Cornell '18

"I certainly have no criticism of Otter, since David was so well and happy there all summer, and I will certainly send him again next summer."

"I would like to take this opportunity of both reminiscing about Camp Otter and complimenting you on the present day management."—Cornell '24

"His letters have shown such a marked improvement that I'm sure his summer has done him a lot of good."

"We get happy letters from our boys. Bob writes 'There is awfully good food up here and plenty of it too.'"—Cornell '11

"As you know I went there for nine years and feel that it was a very important part of my education. I think both boys expect to beat the old man's record and their mother and I think it would be a very good thing for them if they do so."

At home with the family of Richard R. Mann, Equitable policyholder of Columbus, Ohio

The Future Is Bright for Dick Mann's Family

SOME time after the war is won, Dick and Bernadine Mann plan to build the house they've dreamed about ever since they were married.

Bernadine is eager for a modern kitchen. Dick wants a furnace he doesn't have to stoke. Seven-year-old Anita's desire is a big yard so she can have a dog, and five-year-old Shirley asks for "a swing that hangs from a tree." Richard Jr., age one, is too young to express an opinion, but he'll want plenty of room to romp in.

Right now, the Manns rent a house, in Columbus, Ohio. Dick is a war worker at the Capitol Manufacturing and Supply Co. The Equitable insurance he owns is playing an important part in his plan for living and preparation for the future.

Dick himself was one of eleven children, and as he says, "We had plenty of hard times. When I started working, I made up my mind that, as far as possible, I'd see there were no rainy days for my family. Every family is entitled to security, and life insurance is the best way I know to get it."

The Manns look forward, some day, to "taking it easy." His wife says, "Dick and I were surprised to find how much retirement income for our older years, as well as protection now, we were able to arrange when we worked out a program with our Equitable agent combining our Social Security benefits, Dick's group insurance and his individual Equitable policies."

At the moment, little Anita says she is going to be a trained nurse when she grows up. One thing the Manns know is that whatever careers the children choose, there will be money for their training.

"I never went to college, and neither did Bernadine, but you can bet our children are going to have the chance we missed," Dick says. "That's one important part of my Equitable program—a guaranteed education fund for each of the youngsters. To us that's the American way—knowing that your children will have a better opportunity than you had."

In the evening, when the baby has been put to bed, the Manns like to talk about their plans for the future. That new home they will build, "just a nice bus ride from Columbus"—the advantages they plan to give their children—their own hopes for leisure some day.

Like so many other American families, these are the things the Manns are building toward, saving for, planning on.

Dividends to Equitable Policyholders Increased

THE continuing progress made by The Equitable Society has made it possible to extend additional advantages and services to our policyholders.

Among these is the increase in the dividends to be paid to policyholders in 1944, applying to most types of individual policies.

This action reflects the favorable trend of mortality experience in recent years and the continued financial progress of the Society. During the past several years, the Society has been substantially strengthening surplus and reserves. This has now progressed to the point where it is felt that an increased distribution of dividends for 1944 can prudently be made.

The total amount set aside for dividends on December 31, 1943 is $41,400,000, compared with $36,802,000 on December 31, 1942.

Every day of 1943, an average of $587,000 in benefits was paid to Equitable families—a total of $214,388,000. This included payments of $1,552,000 to the families of 547 members of our Armed Forces who died in service while protected by individual Equitable policies.

As a service to the nation, The Equitable has developed, through its group insurance facilities, a program of world-wide life insurance protection for civilian employees of the United States Government serving overseas. This gives the American serving his country as a civilian, protection comparable to that provided for members of the Armed Forces under National Service Life Insurance.

Using a part of their current earnings to set up permanent protection for the future, thousands of far-sighted families created $294,544,000 of new Equitable protection last year under individual policies. Equitable group life insurance increased $352,548,000. In all, 3,050,000 persons own $8,445,578,000 of Equitable life insurance—a record high.

During 1943, the Society's assets crossed the three billion dollar mark. The Society purchased $458,850,000 of U. S. Government securities last year, and at the end of 1943 owned a total of $981,351,000.

Today Equitable funds are helping to speed victory through investments in the securities of the Government and American industries. When the war is won, Equitable funds, directed into sound and diversified business enterprises, will help industry provide jobs for our returning soldiers and for workers now making war equipment.

The girl who is pledged to Humanity

I know that on every battlefield some woman—such as I shall try to be—is helping to save the lives of American soldiers, perhaps the life of my own brother, perhaps your sweetheart.

Nurses are needed everywhere, and so I am going to be a nurse . . . training here at home . . . with later a free choice of how I shall serve. I am going to help people get well, and someday I am going to be a better wife and mother, too, because of this training in the proud profession of nursing.

Yes, nurses are needed—here at home in civilian hospitals and clinics as well as military. To train them, your government, through the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, offers to intelligent young women a professional education free . . .

with smart street uniforms . . . a monthly allowance while learning . . . preparation for a wide choice of interesting work such as nursing executive, public health nurse, child health specialist, or anesthetist. And in any essential nursing job, you will be serving your country as well as yourself. If you are a high-school graduate, between 17 and 35, with a good scholastic record, and in good health, get further information now at the nearest hospital, or write: U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps (U.S. Public Health Service), Box 88, New York, N. Y.
