Technology and Design:
New Tools for the Apparel Industry

with Susan Ashdown
Professor,
Fiber Science and Apparel Design

Developing technologies are providing the apparel industry with new ways of designing and producing clothing. This is the first real change in an industry that has essentially operated the same way since the 1920’s. Come and hear how Cornell research is changing the way you might buy clothing in the near future!