

Bongoh Kye

Web Bio

Information

Biography

Professional

Research

Current Research Activities

My areas of expertise include demography, social stratification, and quantitative methods. My research focuses on how educational differentials in demographic behaviors contribute to the reproduction of social inequality. In my dissertation research, I examined fertility decline and educational mobility in South Korea. My work in progress builds on this topic by further developing new demographic methods and expanding the scope of inquiry into health and beyond South Korea.

Extension

Education

Education

Ph.D., Sociology, University of California - Los Angeles, 2010
M.S., Sociology, University of Wisconsin - Madison, 2005
B.A., Sociology, Seoul National University, 1997

Courses

Websites

Administration

Publications

Selected Publications

Kye, Bongoh and Robert Mare. (conditionally accepted). "Intergenerational Effects of Shifts in Women's Educational Distribution in South Korea: Transmission, Differential Fertility, and Assortative Mating". Social Science Research.
Kye, Bongoh. 2011. "Intergenerational Transmission of Women's Educational Attainments in South Korea – An Application of Multi-group Projection Model to Social Mobility”. Demographic Research 23: 79-112

Kye, Bongoh. 2008. “Internal Labor Markets and the Effects of Structural Change: Job Mobility in Korean Labor Market between 1998 and 2000”. Research in Social Stratification and Mobility 26(1): 15 – 27.