The screenshot shows the LibraryThing website interface. At the top, the 'LibraryThing' logo is displayed with navigation links for Home, Zeitgeist, Talk, Groups, and Local. Below the logo, a secondary navigation bar includes Profile, Recommendations, Reviews, Statistics/Memes, Clouds, and Author Gallery. The main content area is titled 'Member: cornell_lgbtrc' and lists various statistics: Collections (1,146), Reviews (None), Tags (None), Clouds (author cloud, tag mirror), Groups (None), Favorite authors (Not set), Account type (public, lifetime), URLs (profile and library links), and Member since (Nov 29, 2011). A 'Most recent activity' section shows a list of books added by the user, such as 'Different: An Anthology of Homosexual Short Stories by Stephen Wright' and 'Lesbian Neurotica. by Meredith. ROSE'. On the right side, there is a search bar for the user's name, an 'Organization' section, a 'Random books from' section with a quote, and a 'Members with corr weighted | raw | rec' section listing other library members.

The screenshot shows the Canadiana Discovery Portal search interface. On the left is the Canadiana logo, featuring a stylized red swan and the text "CANADIANA Digitization. Preservation. Access.". The main search area is titled "CANADIANA DISCOVERY PORTAL" and contains a search box with the placeholder "Search the collection" and a red "Search" button. Below the search box are filters for "Search" (set to "Everything") and "Date Range" (set to "Between YYYY and YYYY"). At the bottom of the search area are two buttons: "Search Tips" and "Random Document".

Search the digital collections of libraries, archives and museums from across Canada.

Enter keywords for the person, place, event or topic of interest in the search box above, or choose one of the sample topics below.

Out of the Trenches : A Linked Open Data Project

Submitted by William Wueppelmann on Wed, 07/11/2012 - 11:36

Partners of the Pan-Canadian Documentary Heritage Network \(PCDHN\) have developed a "proof-of-concept" to showcase a sampling of the network's wealth of digital resources using "linked open data" and principles of the semantic web. The underlying premise is to expose the metadata for these resources using RDF/XML and existing/published ontologies (element sets) and vocabularies, maximizing discovery by a broad user community.

The partners selected the First World War as the topic for the digital resources to be contributed to the proof-of-concept. The metadata for these digital resources was provided by five partner institutions.

The screenshot shows a YouTube video player with a dark background. The video title is "Out of the Trenches: A Linked Open Data Project". Below the title, there is a subtitle "Out of the Trenches" and a smaller subtitle "Linked open data of the First World War". The main content of the video is a network graph visualization. The graph consists of numerous circular nodes connected by lines. Each node contains a different image or document related to the First World War, such as a soldier's portrait, a trench, a cross, a map, and various historical documents. The nodes are arranged in a roughly circular pattern, with lines connecting them to form a complex network. The video player interface at the bottom shows a progress bar at 0:00 / 6:50, a play button, a volume icon, and the YouTube logo.

PRESS RELEASE /

EUROPEANA'S HUGE CULTURAL DATASET OPENS FOR RE-USE

The Hague, 12 September 2012 - Opportunities for apps developers, designers and other digital innovators will be boosted today as the digital portal Europeana opens up its dataset of over 20 million cultural objects for free re-use.

The massive dataset is the descriptive information about Europe's digitised treasures. For the first time, the metadata is released under the Creative Commons CC0 Public Domain Dedication, meaning that anyone can use the data for any purpose - creative, educational, commercial - with no restrictions. This release, which is by far the largest one-time dedication of cultural data to the public domain using CC0 offers a new boost to the digital economy, providing electronic entrepreneurs with opportunities to create innovative apps and games for tablets and smartphones and to create new web services and portals.
